

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Railroad Telegraphers' Time-Saver

By using the speedy Oliver, you gain 50 per cent in time.

And you do this without the expenditure of extra physical or mental effort.

The Oliver meets the exacting demands of the railroad operator's work.

Never gets "nervous prostration," no matter how swift the pace.

The Oliver "works in a whisper"—in taking messages you catch every click of the sounder.

It "writes in sight"—you SEE just what you are doing.

It is a wonderfully versatile machine—instantly available for Wire Work Train Orders. Manifolding Way-Bills, etc., etc.

The OLIVER Typewriter

has many less parts than the old-style "mill" and is more compact and durable.

It runs smoothly, prints legibly, aligns accurately.

Special Terms to O. R. T. Men

You can OWN an Oliver Typewriter and pay for it by the month, the same as if you were renting it.

Let us tell you how easy it is to buy the Oliver on very small monthly payments. Ask for the Oliver Book.

MAKE PAY-DAY

"SAVE-DAY"

ALMOST every one finds it hard to save money, yet admits that it is one of the most important things in life.
Like many other things, saving is largely a matter of habit.

Get Into the Habit of Saving!

Make a resolution today to lay aside a portion of your pay each week or month on pay-day, before it gets away from you, before "it burns a hole in your pocket," and deposit it in some reliable bank. There will then be no immediate temptation to spend it and you will also be receiving interest on your money.

One of the most reliable banks in the country, one that has withstood fire, financial panic and the test of time is

The Hibernian Bank

THE OLDEST SAVINGS BANK IN CHICAGO

It has a capital of One Million and a Half Dollars and a surplus of over One Million Dollars. It is now completing its forty-first successful year, having been established in 1867.

No matter where you live, you can open an account with THE HIBERNIAN BANK through its perfected system of "Banking By Mail." Send for circular. One Dollar opens a savings account. Interest is paid on all savings accounts.

THE HIBERNIAN BANK also has a large Commercial Department and has the best of facilities for handling open check accounts.

Its age and reliability make this institution an ideal depository for trust or society funds. If you are the trustee of any such moneys or know of any one who is, it would be glad to have you investigate its fitness for handling such. Your recommendation of this Bank to any of your friends will be highly appreciated.

TYPEWRITING SPEED PAYS

Increase Your Speed and your salary will increase itself.

Tulloss Touch Writers

Are not only the fastest in the world, but because they are the fastest they are the Best paid.

Our 12-page free book tells how they got their speed.

It tells how we have increased the speed of hundreds of operators 50, 80, 100 per cent; how we have doubled salaries in six months; how we have made successful touch writers of those who said touch writing was impossible.

It contains more typewriting FACTS than any instruction book you ever bought or saw. It will tell you how you can learn to write without ever looking at the keys—how you can write just as well in the dark as in broad daylight—all at a speed far greater than the best you can attain now.

If you are a typewriter user, this book will cost you only the trouble of asking for it. Please tell us what machine you use. THE TULLOSS SCHOOL OF TOUCH TYPEWRITING, 210 College Hill, Springfield, O.

THE TELEGRAPH.

THE telegraph is now a little over sixty years old and it can be truly said that it is the most important link in the affairs of nations and the business world.

The first message ever sent by telegraph was the now famous one, "What hath God wrought?" which was sent over an experimental line built for the purpose of testing the telegraph between Washington, D. C., and Baltimore, Md., which was built in May, 1844, under the direction of Professor S. F. B. Morse and Alfred Vail. The first message was sent by Miss Ellsworth, daughter of the then United States Commissioner of Patents.

At that time the national Democratic convention was in session in Baltimore, and when James K. Polk was nominated for President by that convention this fact was telegraphed to Washington, and the fact that a means had been discovered whereby instant communication could be had at a considerable distance, created a great sensation, and did much to make friends to the theory that it could be made a useful means of communication.

When it is taken into consideration that the bill appropriating $30,000 to build this experimental line was passed by Congress by a bare majority of eight, it can be surmised that the national legislators were not strongly imbued with the idea of its practicability and the difficulties under which Professor Morse was laboring can be better appreciated.

The line built by the government appropriation was placed under the direction of the Postmaster General, and was operated by him for four years. The patents held by Morse and Vail were offered to the national government for $100,000, but the idea of paying such a sum of money for what Congress characterized as a "toy," did not meet favor with that body and, consequently, the patents remained the property of Morse and Vail.

Later, they were acquired by private corporations, and between 1868 and 1876 Congress thought better of the idea and voted an annual subsidy of $40,000 for ten years to one private telegraph concern in the West, or a total of $400,000, or four times as much as the patents could have been purchased for in the beginning.

In the early days of the telegraph all receiving was done on a "register," and it is claimed that it was then the rule to fine telegraphers who were found reading messages by "sound," as that method was very much feared.

The evolution of the telegraph during its sixty years of use has been phenomenal. The little experimental line between Washington and Baltimore, a distance of about forty miles, has been superseded by a network of telegraph lines and cables that circle the globe; the destiny of nations are controlled by its use; in war times the telegraph is a most important factor in moving armies and battleships; in the business world the telegraph is indispensable; it is the intermediary by which great financial transactions are made; by it, also, the citizens of the nations of the earth are enabled to readily communicate with each other; relatives in a far-distant land can be apprised of the sickness or death of a relative; it furnishes a means for instant communication between governments, whereby knotty problems of state are often settled, and has thereby been the means of averting many a bloody conflict.

By it the movement of trains throughout the land are directed, and the safety of the millions of people who annually use the railroads as a means of transportation is made possible.

By means of the telegraph the great daily newspapers are able to furnish their readers with the latest news from all parts of the globe.

The old "register" has given way to the more improved method of receiving by "sound." Heavy copper wires have been substituted for the old iron ones. Instead of "relaying" messages every 200 or 300 miles, the "repeater" has been installed, which makes it possible to work direct with an office 2,000 or 3,000 miles distant. The old clumsy key has given place to the more improved one especially adapted for attaining greater speed in sending; the old crow-foot batteries have been superseded in large offices by the more improved and efficient dynamos.

The single wire service between important points has been replaced by the duplex and quad service, whereby many times the amount of business can be handled on a wire.

While this great evolution has been taking place in the telegraph from a mechanical standpoint, there have also been many changes in the manner of handling the business. The telegrapher of today has attained a greater degree of proficiency in his profession, and is capable of handling much more business than was formerly handled; on newspaper and other heavy circuits the code or system of abbreviation is in general use, which makes it possible to handle a much greater volume of business. The typewriter has been put into general use in all large offices, and the pen has been consigned to oblivion.

When the real importance of the telegraph to the business of the world is appreciated, the responsibility and importance of the telegrapher can be better understood.

The millions of dollars invested by the various telegraph companies in poles, wires, the latest improved equipments, etc., would be of no use were it not for the telegrapher who operates and injects life into these great systems.

Although the telegrapher of today has attained a much greater degree of efficiency in his profession than that possessed by telegraphers of thirty or forty years ago, the evolution in his case has been toward poorer pay, and more onerous working conditions.

The railroad telegrapher, on whom devolves the responsibility of protecting the lives of the traveling public, and many other duties too numerous to mention, have been required to work longer hours, a greater number of days per month for less pay than those engaged in the profession before the evolution in the telegraph took place.

The commercial telegrapher, that hard-working public servant, although an employee of a corporation, nevertheless a public servant indispensable to the business world, has also been a victim of the evolution of the telegraph instead of a benefactor of it as he should have been.

But, as the old saying goes, time works wonderful changes. The railroad telegrapher of today through the efforts of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers is enjoying greatly improved conditions, as compared with those of five years ago; through persistent and aggressive representation, the remuneration of the railroad telegraphers in every section of the United States and Canada have been materially increased, and their hours of service reduced. Opposition has occasionally been encountered in this movement for better conditions, but all obstacles have been overcome, and the silver lining behind the dark cloud that overshadowed the profession a few years ago is now plainly discernible, and the $75.00 minimum and an eight-hour work-day for railroad telegraphers is near at hand.

The commercial telegraphers, through their organization, the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, has made its first step towards a general betterment of the conditions of the commercial telegraphers, which movement gives every promise of being successful, and the $75.00 minimum and eight-hour work-day in the commercial telegraph service will, no doubt, also soon be a reality.

The organized telegraphers of the country have it within their power to secure every reasonable concession they may ask for.

THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION.

THE Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America has made rapid strides toward thorough organization in the ranks of the commercial telegraphers during the last few months, and it has during that period practically completed organization in all the large offices of both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies, and recently the first step looking towards the improvement of the conditions of those engaged in that calling was made when schedules were prepared and presented to the officers of those two great concerns. The management of the Western Union refused to treat with its organized employees as such, and finally, as a last resort, in an effort to adjust the matter amicably, President Small addressed a communication to the Board of Directors of the Western Union, in which he set forth the conditions now prevailing in the telegraph service of that company at considerable length, and concluded by enumerating the concessions that had been asked for from the management of the company.

The communication was as follows:

"New York, June 3, 1907.

Board of Directors Western Union Telegraph Company, Thomas T. Eckert, Chairman:

GENTLEMEN.—For many years the telegraphers witnessed the continued regression of their craft. They saw their expenses increase and the purchasing power of their wages decrease, while the wages and conditions of workmen in other spheres of employment were improving. Telegraphers' rate of pay was continually gravitating toward a lower level. Wages of our associates outside of the main departments also suffered a reduction, and at the same time their hours of employment lengthened.

In many places the operating rooms were overcrowded and badly ventilated and the necessary relief conveniences delayed.

Juniors, lacking sufficient education and wire experience, were assigned to first-class circuits at a compensation lower than that paid to men who carried the burden of family responsibilities. The senior telegrapher always suffered from the competition of the junior, whose labor was for the most part unskilled.

Nine to twelve hours of service was required from a telegrapher anxious to work during the hours of daylight, and it appeared to be the policy of the company to profit through the desire of the men to work the day tricks.

The tyranny of the under officials had to be endured. Complaint to the official in charge of a district brought no redress, and petitions for improvements were especially frowned upon. The telegrapher or telegraphers whose names appeared at the head of a memorial too often suffered dismissal. Indeed, the trend of the time seemed not for betterment but to the detriment of our craftsmen. The harsh conditions then prevailing—conditions practically prevailing at this time—evoked a spirit of unrest. In the telegraph offices of the country operators had virtually lost their individuality and independence. Realizing by experience that individual effort was powerless to improve the existing order of things, and that the future offered nothing in the way of advancement to encourage them, conferences of telegraphers were arranged and held in different cities. The general situation was reviewed, and as a result of their deliberations the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America was organized to advance, protect and maintain the interests of all engaged in the occupation of telegraphy.

As foreseen at the time of the inception of the organization, many would suffer because of the views entertained by the officials of your company antagonistic to unionism. Telegraphers sympathizing with the purposes of the movement, and others actually members of this organization, from time to time lost their positions. The officials of your company apparently adopted the view that our organization, which seeks to improve the conditions and morale of the fraternity by encouraging them in diligence, skill and proficiency, was moving along lines which they interpreted as hostile to the interests of your company and, therefore, indefensible. Dismissal of our brethren by your officials, the continuation of the "split trick" and the "sliding scale"—methods which work automatically for the lengthening of hours and reduction of wages—brought recruits to our organization in great numbers, and now, after five years of active organization work, the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, in personnel and numerical strength, in comparison with the number employed, is equal to any organization extant.

We are organized to maintain freedom, liberty and independence, and the telegrapher is benefiting as the result of this association with his fellow workmen.

We believe that the history of progress is written in the true development of the people, and that the development of an industry depends on the opportunities for advancement the occupation affords. Limit opportunity by curtailing incentive to ambition and the inevitable result is a decline in the growth and power of that industry.

Capable intellects and efficient workmen vying with each other for the prosperity of the interest affected, through harmony and accord, will assure the success of all concerned. Therefore, we have decided to submit for your due and kind consideration a number of statements and grievances from our brethren which, when properly considered, we believe will be immediately remedied.

The following is a copy of the complaint filed with Mr. T. A. McCammon, chief operator of the Western Union Telegraph Company, 195 Broadway, New York, May 23, 1907:

"SIR.—We, the undersigned, respectfully call your attention to the following and request an immediate adjustment.

During the past few weeks there has been much complaint by employees of the operating department because of the general disposition displayed by a number of men in authority, particularly Messrs. Brennan and McAllister to harass and intimidate operators. This practice has become so general and flagrant and its effects so disconcerting as to seriously interfere with the peace of mind that should prevail among employees in order to enable them to render the most efficient service. These conditions contribute in a large measure to the defeat of the end aimed at by the recent letter of President Clowry, relating to the malicious delay in the transmission of business.

We would cite the following specific cases in substantiation of this complaint:

Mr. John T. Fitzgerald was for seventeen years a faithful and efficient employe. On April 17th he omitted the name and address on a special, an error which naturally would have been discovered by the receiving operator and slip returned to Mr. Fitzgerald, who would have immediately corrected the omission, thereby causing but little delay and no loss to the company. He was discharged.

Mr. R. E. Follette was suspended on the charge of leaving his wire without permission. Mr. John Hurd, division traffic chief, duly authorized to grant short reliefs, gave standing instructions to Mr. Follette "to go on short relief whenever he got clear before 10 a. m." In view of these instructions and the fact that he was clear prior to that time, we deem the charge insufficient to warrant Mr. Follette's dismissal.

Miss Sadie Krochmal, who had complained of the poor light by which she was working and the possibility of error and consequent damage to the company's business, was, upon striking two wrong letters, as a result of this poor light, called to the desk, informed that: "We are going to keep after you people hereafter," and summarily dismissed.

Miss Sophie Annaker, on the evening of April 9th, reported to Mr. C. H. Lawrence, duly authorized to act, that she was sick and was by him excused from duty. On reporting for work April 11th she was sent to Mr. Brennan's desk and while there overheard Mr. E. T. Burrell say to Mr. Brennan: "She is one of the girls on the union list." She was dismissed from the service.

Miss Mollie Pearl was arbitrarily taken from her regularly assigned position on Boston bonus, where the messages were short and where she was able to earn on an average $28 per week, a remuneration commensurate with her ability, and placed on St. Louis, where the messages are almost exclusively long and where she is idle much of the time, this in effect reducing her salary approximately $12 per week or to $16.50 per week.

Some time ago Miss Pearl was requested by Mr. McAllister to report at 8:30 instead of 9 a. m. She declined on the ground that she lived so far away that this would work a hardship on her. Her reason being good, she was continued on her 9 o'clock assignment.

On April 12th Mr. McAllister peremptorily and without cause ordered Miss Pearl to report at 8:15 a. m. This is a particularly flagrant case of discrimination.

The circumstances in Miss Ruth Worthington's case, in so far as her transfer is concerned, are almost identical with those of Miss Pearl.

The persecution of employes has not been confined to discriminations but has taken the form of attempts to coerce certain employes into committing dishonorable acts, a case in point being an effort on the part of Mr. Brennan to induce a certain employe to attend the monster mass meeting of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, which was held April 14th, at Tammany Hall, and report to him the names of all Western Union chiefs attending said meeting.

Another evidence of unjust treatment is the fact that a man occupying a position of authority under your jurisdiction was overheard to remark during the course of a conversation on the street a few days since, that it had been necessary for him to send back to the main office certain men who had been assigned to outside duty because of the fact that they were wearing the insignia of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

In the light of the above facts, it would appear that these discriminations are founded upon petty and trivial offenses, which are, in fact, of little or no import, but are brought forward as a subterfuge behind which the real purpose is concealed.

This unjust and unwarranted action is a dangerous practice, jeopardizing as it does our means of support by making our tenure of employment unstable and subject to the whims of sub-chiefs.

We are instructed by our fellow-workers, whom we represent, to request that you reinstate to their former positions the several persons named in the foregoing and grant them full compensation for time lost; and, further, that Messrs. Brennan and McAllister be allowed to read this communication, and that they be cautioned against further offensive conduct.

We await your early reply.

LEO HELLER,
MISS M. E. PEARL,
S. J. CULLINAN,
GEORGE BRUHNS,
MISS M. C. SMITH,
Committee.

The following was presented personally to Col. Clowry by the Chairman of the Committee, May 3, 1907:

Robert C. Clowry, President and General Manager, Western Union Telegraph Company, New York:

Dear Sir—We regret the necessity of bringing to your attention the enclosed communication, the original of which was delivered to Mr. T. A. McCammon, Chief Operator in the Main office, New York City.

Mr. McCammon's reply was ambiguous and unsatisfactory, and held out no hope of relief from the evils complained of.

We feel that we are justified in appealing our complaints to the higher authorities of the company, and that you should be acquainted with the unjust conditions under which we are working.

In addition to the grievances embodied in the enclosed petition, we would respectfully call your attention to further irregularities—matters which we think should be brought directly to your notice.

On March 1, 1907, you announced an increase of 10 per cent in salaries to the company's telegraphers. In this announcement you called attention to the increased cost of all material necessary to the company's maintenance. We took the mention of these facts to be also a recognition on your part of the increased cost of the necessities of the telegraphers' existence, and that the salary increase was for the purpose of meeting this increased cost of living. We find that your instructions are being evaded.

It is the general belief of the telegraphers in your employ, as well as of the public at large, that the increased cost of operation was more than offset by an increase in tolls to the public for the transmission of telegraphic despatches.

You can, of course, readily understand that while we are suffering from the increased cost of living, coupled with the decreased salaries on the one hand, the company is profiting enormously by the permanently increased revenue on the other.

In proof of our contention we submit the following instances:

Miss May O'Brien was employed on April 12, 1907, at $7.00 per week, the scale of salary apportioned to this class of telegrapher prior to March 1st. Under the revised scale her rating should be $7.70.

Miss Frances Schumacher was employed on April 22d, at $7.00 per week. The new scale should rate her at $7.70 per week.

We would also call your attention to the following particular case of reduction of salary brought about by the disregard of your instructions:

Mr. W. C. Rieb received a 10 per cent increase, advancing his salary from $70.00 to $77.00 per month in the Boston office. Upon transferring to the New York office he was rated at $17.00 per week, the scale in effect prior to March 1st.

Messrs. E. F. Murphy, E. L. Cooper and W. G. Edwards have within the past week resigned from the service because of their dissatisfaction at not having received the increases.

Mr. J. J. McCoy has been in the service for nine years. He was rated at $18.00 per week prior to March 1, 1907, and has not received the ten per cent increase.

Mr. Carl Congdon benefited by the ten per cent increase, having been increased from $75.00 to $82.50 per month in your Chicago office. He was employed in your New York office on March 29th, and his salary rating fixed at $19.00 per week instead of $19.80. Other instances could be cited.

We view with alarm this decrease in our salaries to their former and lower basis, while the prices of all our living expenses are being constantly increased. If this practice is continued, it is but a question of time when we will have been reduced to our former ratings.

In view of the growing dissatisfaction due to this tendency toward a lower wage level, we deem it expedient to bring these matters to your attention, and to urge that the standard based upon the ten per cent increase be adhered to.

We request your most careful consideration and an early reply.

LEO HELLFR,
MISS M. E. PEARL,
S. J. CULLINAN,
GEORGE J. BRUHNS,
MISS M. C. SMITH,
Committee.

INTIMIDATIONS.

In addition to the specific cases of discrimination against employees, and evidence showing that the wages of telegraphers are being reduced through the operation of the "sliding scale," embodied in the above complaints, the following is submitted for your information.

The following is a copy of a letter written by a Western Union official in New York to a telegrapher applying for reinstatement:

"Replying to your letter, if you bring affidavit that you are not now a member of any telegraph labor organization, and that you will not join one in future, I will endeavor to secure your reinstatement here."

The name of the person to whom this letter was addressed is withheld for his protection, but will be furnished if requested.

Mrs. Camille Powers was told by T. Brennan, chief clerk, Western Union Telegraph Company at 195 Broadway, that she was a union agitator and dismissed.

Leo Heller was told by T. Brennan: "I had to break up the union in 1883 and I will do it again," and was dismissed.

P. J. Connors, chief operator at Rochester, N. Y., was given twenty-four hours to withdraw from the union. While considering this ultimatum, and before the expiration of the twenty-four hours, he was discharged.

At Louisville, Ky., Telegrapher R. C. Rogers was discharged in April. He sought a reason. Manager Charles Smith admitted that Mr. Rogers was blameless, but said that he could not reinstate Rogers until the papers in the case, which had been forwarded to Superintendent Terhune, at Nashville, had been returned. Two days later Manager Smith informed Mr. Rogers that he (Rogers) had ruined his chances for reinstatement by placing his case in the hands of the union. Mr. Rogers has not been reinstated.

At Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Manager H. G. Robinson summarily discharged Telegrapher Charles Francis because of his membership in this union.

BLACKLISTING.

R. E. Follette, who was discharged by the Western Union Telegraph Company, at 195 Broadway, New York, makes the following statement:

"I called up the Long Island Railroad on the telephone on May 23d regarding a position. I was informed that a night position, from 10 p. m. to 8 a. m., was vacant, and I was requested to call in person the next morning (Friday). This I did. Mr. Lewis, the Long Island chief operator, informed me that he had been notified by T. Brennan that I was an agitator. I assured Mr. Lewis that the report was untrue and I could furnish a first-class reference. He replied that I would have to get a 'clearance' from Mr. Brennan before he could give me employment."

W. W. Christen, formerly employed by the Western Union at Nashville, Tenn., and who protested and finally declined to accept temporary employment with another company (The Associated Press) at the direction of Western Union officials, resigned from the Western Union in Nashville recently. Chief Operator Brown, of that office, informed Mr. Christen that his record was clear. Prior to leaving Nashville Mr. Christen wrote a letter to Chief Operator McCammon, New York City, from Nashville, applying for a position.

On May 20th, Mr. Christen applied personally to Mr. McCammon and saw lying on his desk his own letter with one from J. R. Terhune, Superintendent of the Western Union at Nashville, saying: "Do not employ Operator W. W. Christen."

Mr. Christen asked Mr. McCammon: "What does this mean?"

Mr. McCammon evaded the question, folded up the Terhune letter, and put it away.

SLIDING SCALE.

At Nashville and Louisville the salaries of wire chiefs were reduced from $88.00 to $77.00 per month on the ground that "winter is over and there are but few wire interruptions." These men received first-class salaries as telegraphers for a number of years prior to promotion to the positions of wire chiefs. The $77.00 rating is lower than that received prior to their promotion.

One of these men, R. P. Cowardin, received a first-class salary as telegrapher for nine years, prior to being promoted to the position of wire chief. His salary was $80.00 per month prior to March 1st. The 10 per cent increase made his salary $88.00 per month. On April 29th, Chief Operator N. S. Brown notified Mr. Cowardin that he would work at the table thereafter and his salary would be $82.50. A few days later Manager A. H. Stewart, of the Nashville office, notified Mr. Cowardin that, on account of there being no $82.50 vacancies, he would have to place him and former chief E. C. Harris on the operating force at $77.00 per month, a second-class salary. This is a reduction of $11.00 per month. These men have been in the service of the Western Union at Nashville for more than ten years.

At Fort Worth, Texas, Wilbur Jackson was discharged for declining to work a wire rated at $77.00 per month for a $66.00 salary. Two telegraphers rated at $60.00 per month were increased to $70.00 per month and put to work on the Dallas wire—a wire that formerly paid $77.00 per month. This is a reduction of $7.00 per month on two positions.

The manager's salary at Mount Vernon, N. Y., was increased 10 per cent on March 1, 1907. On May 1st the manager was called to the superintendent's office, and on the plea of increased expenses and decreased revenues, was informed that his salary would be reduced $25 per month, beginning June 1st.

A comparative statement of receipts for February, March and April with the three previous months shows an increase of over $200.00.

The manager at Darlington, S. C., had for two years prior to March 1st received a salary of $60.00 per month. His voucher for the month of March, including the 10 per cent increase ($66.00), was returned to him by his superintendent with the statement that Darlington was a "commission office" and requesting a refund of $6.00. The letter also contained the notification that, commencing May 1st, the salary would be $50.00 per month, until otherwise instructed.

This is a reduction of $10.00 per month on the salary rating prior to March 1st, and $16.00 per month on that which should prevail, with the 10 per cent increase announced, in effect.

CONCESSIONS ASKED.

In view of the general unrest among the telegraphers in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company throughout the country because of the bad faith displayed in connection with the payment of the 10 per cent advance in wages announced to take effect March 1, 1907, and for the reasons stated in the preamble of this bill of grievances, I am moved to suggest that the following concessions be granted to employees of the operating department of the Western Union Telegraph Company, to-wit:

That the following-named persons be reinstated to their former positions at the salary rating in effect at the time of dismissal or transfer to positions of a lower rating:

REINSTATEMENTS.

Raymond E. Follette, New York; Camille Powers, New York; Leo Heller, New York; John T. Fitzgerald, New York; Sadie Krochmal, New York; Sophie Annaker, New York; Ellis Heller, New York; Elvin Lutz, New York; L. R. Aikens, New York; Harry M. Hansen, New York; Margaret Blanks, New York; Wilbur Jackson, Fort Worth, Texas; R. C. Rogers, Louisville, Ky.; Charles Francis, Oklahoma City, Okla.; P. J. Connors, Rochester, N. Y.

REDUCTIONS IN SALARY AND POSITION.

R. P. Cowardin, Nashville, Tenn.; E. C. Harris, Nashville, Tenn.; S. P. Stevenson, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; B. W. Spencer, Darlington, S. C.

In addition to the above-mentioned cases, we request that any other specific instances of telegraphers being dismissed or reduced in salary which may hereafter be shown were brought about because of union affiliations also be restored to their former positions and salary ratings.

UNION AFFILIATION.

That all objections on the part of the Western Union Telegraph Company against its telegraphers affiliating themselves with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America be removed, and that discriminations because of such affiliations be discontinued.

FIXED STANDARD OF WAGES.

That a fixed standard of wages, based on the 10 per cent increase announced to take effect March 1, 1907, be established.

UNIFORM WORKING HOURS.

That uniform hours for the several tricks in offices where three or more telegraphers are employed, be adopted as follows:

Eight hours to constitute a day on day tricks.

Seven and one-half hours to constitute a day on night tricks.

Seven hours to constitute a day on split and late night tricks.

Seven hours to constitute a day for telegraphers working extra.

No trick shall be divided into more than two parts.

The terms "day," "night" and "late night" tricks to be construed as meaning the periods between 8:00 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.; 5:30 p. m. and 8 a. m., and 12 midnight and 8:00 a. m., respectively, provided that early night tricks shall not begin later than 7:00 p. m.

That no telegrapher be compelled to work more than four and one-half consecutive hours without being allowed thirty minutes for lunch.

REGULATING EXTRA SERVICE.

That a reasonable time for necessary reliefs be allowed.

Where extra service is required and extra telegraphers are available for such service, that they be given preference over telegraphers regularly employed on day, night or split tricks, and that both regular and extra telegraphers employed by the Western Union Telegraph Company be given the preference over telegraphers employed by other firms or corporations.

REGULATING OUTSIDE SERVICE.

That no telegrapher employed by the Western Union Telegraph Company be compelled to accept an assignment with any person, firm or corporation other than at his regular place of employment, unless such telegrapher be paid the full amount collected by the company for such services, and the compensation therefor be not under his regular rating.

TYPEWRITERS.

In all departments of the Western Union Telegraph Company, mechanical devices such as typewriters, automatic printer punching machines, etc., are furnished by the company, and are considered a necessary part of the company's equipment, except in the operating department, where telegraphers are compelled to furnish typewriters at their own expense.

This is a financial burden to the telegraphers. It is a burden which the company should not impose on them.

For instance, on a quadruplex, working three shifts of two men each, each of the six telegraphers is required to furnish a typewriter. Were the company to furnish the machine, one typewriter would be sufficient, and involve an expense to the company of less than one-sixth of what each telegrapher is now compelled to bear.

We request therefore that the company furnish the typewriters.

ABOLITION OF "SLIDING SCALE."

The telegraphers of this country have been constant sufferers from the operation of the "sliding scale."

If the men who direct the policy of the company toward its employees are not actuated by humanitarian instincts, and a desire to deal fairly with those under their charge and protection, it will be impossible for the telegraphers to protect themselves against this pernicious practice, except through organization.

To illustrate the workings of the "sliding scale," as practiced for many years past, we give the following illustration, taking an actual case, of which we have record:

John Doe entered the Western Union Telegraph Company's service in the clerical department at Milwaukee in 1895, at $10.00 per month.

In 1897 he was assigned to duty as manager and operator of a branch office in the Hotel Pfister at a salary of $25.00 per month.

Two years later he was assigned to a $60.00 position at the grocery district branch office at $35.00 per month.

In 1899 he was relieved, and his successor's salary was made $20.00 per month.

John Doe then went to Chicago, and secured a position as telegrapher in a branch office for the Western Union at $45.00 per month, replacing a $55.00 telegrapher.

In September of the same year (1899) he secured a position with the Postal Telegraph Company, in their Chicago main office, at a salary of $60.00 per month.

He worked there three years, and received one increase of $5.00 in September, 1901. During all of the time he worked for the Postal Telegraph Company in their Chicago main office he was permanently assigned to wires rated at $75.00, $80.00, and $85.00 per month.

In order to secure a maximum salary in Chicago it was necessary for him to resign and go to another city.

Returning two years later he was paid the maximum salary in the same office.

The point I desire to illustrate is, that in order to get an increase in salary, in proportion to increased efficiency, a telegrapher is compelled to move from city to city, because the policy of the telegraph companies appears to be not to advance salaries of home men except in cases where the increase granted is considerably lower than what the position to which they are promoted formerly paid.

It is therefore requested that measures be adopted whereby telegraphers doing equal work will receive equal pay.

SAN FRANCISCO CONDITIONS.

The present conditions of employment and extraordinary and exorbitant cost of living in San Francisco is deserving of prompt attention, and calls for immediate relief.

The following is quoted from a letter written by a prominent San Francisco telegrapher:

"At present the main office of the W. U. Co. is in a huge shed in West Oakland, between two trunk lines of the Southern Pacific Railway, and in one of the most undesirable parts of the city, known as the 'Negro quarter.' No respectable restaurants are near at hand, other than the one which the W. U. established. The office is several miles from a fair residential district. At night it has been notoriously unsafe for respectable women to go out on the street alone.

"Houses and rooms in San Francisco are at an enormous premium, and such places as can be had are many miles from the office, requiring, with the miserable street car service, from one to two hours each way to and from the office. To have any sort of comfort whatever, operators for the most part have to live on the Oakland side of the bay. This means additional time spent going to and from the office.

"The prices of meals in restaurants, as given to me by Mr. Zinkand, proprietor for many years of one of the most widely known restaurants in the world, are from thirty to forty per cent higher than before the fire. The restaurateurs are compelled to charge these prices on account of the abnormally high cost of products, such as meats, vegetables, etc.

"The prices of rooms are double what they were before the fire, and a married man cannot under any circumstances get a house or flat to live in and pay the rentals asked in San Francisco and Oakland today.

"Due to the enormous amount of construction going on, for you must not forget that the entire burned district of many square miles, streets, buildings and all are being rebuilt, the result—narrow, tortuous passageways, dust, brick, mortar, and general chaos. I have seen street cars so crowded that they could not move their loads, and have taken two hours, transferred three times, and walked a mile to reach the ferry station from the unburned portion of the Mission district.

"The writer is at present working a split trick, and they have assigned several men to just such hours, which are obnoxious, and absolutely out of the bounds of all reason. I report for duty at 11 a. m. This compels me to get my breakfast at my home as early as 9 o'clock, arriving at the ferry office a few minutes before 11 o'clock. I am off duty at 2.30 p. m. to 3.30 p. m., then must hang around in the dirt and dust of the burned district, get my dinner, which averages, sixty to seventy cents for 'roast beef, potatoes, one vegetable and coffee,' then back to the office at 5 p. m., and off at nine-thirty p. m., or eight hours for a trick. I leave on the 9.40 p. m. boat for home, and arrive there about 11 o'clock, showing that in order to get one day's work I am compelled to spend twelve hours' time in doing so, and this is the case with all these men. Now the telegraph companies are giving these things absolutely no consideration, so far as the operators are concerned. They simply say, 'Well, conditions in San Francisco are normal now, and you ought to be satisfied with the ten per cent raise,' which has, as you well know, a very large string tied to it at that, and nothing whatever to prevent their working the sliding scale to bring salaries right down to where they were before, as soon as it appears convenient to them to do so.

"In both companies there are a few $99.00 jobs, but the general average is $80.00. Now, for a man of family, I will show you where he will get off at the end of a month on $80.00 provided he has, say, two children:

House rent, minimum, per month.....	$30.00
Groceries, meats, etc.....	40.00
Heat, light and fuel.....	10.00
Laundry	5.00
Car fare	3.00
Lunch or dinner	15.00
	$103.00

"The above figures allow nothing for clothing, doctor bills, incidentals, or any recreation whatsoever. He therefore must work three to four hours overtime to barely exist and keep out of debt."

The existing conditions in San Francisco would seem to justify a 25 per cent increase in salaries, pending a restoration of normal conditions, the San Francisco officials of the company and the representatives of the operating force to determine when normal conditions have been restored.

In conclusion, the telegraphers, members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, and others employed by your company, in respectfully submitting the foregoing statements for your consideration and action, desire to know if they may expect a reply indicating the willingness of your company, through its accredited representatives, to confer with a committee representing this organization empowered to act.

Sincerely yours,

S. J. SMALL,

President Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

As the foregoing communication did not result in bringing about an amicable adjustment of the differences between the Western Union and its organized telegraphers, as it was hoped it would do, a general strike seemed imminent; in fact the situation reached such a phase that the various boards of trades and other large business interests of the country appealed to President Roosevelt to intercede and use his good offices in an effort to bring about a settlement of the matters at issue between the two interested parties, which communications were eventually turned over to Commissioner of Labor Neil, who went to New York and met the officers of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union and also the officers of the Western Union Telegraph Company, in an effort to bring about an understanding between them, which finally was instrumental in bringing forth the following letter from President Clowry, of the Western Union to Commissioner Neil:

"Referring to the conferences held between yourself and me and other officers of the Western Union Telegraph Company. and having in view the possible grave inconvenience of the public following any general interruption of our business, I am glad to make clear to you the position occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Company in regard to this whole matter.

As to statements made by persons in no way connected with this company that the 10 per cent increase granted by the telegraph company on March 1, last, has not been applied to all salaried telegraphers, I desire to say that the telegraph company announced this increase in good faith and is carrying it out in good faith, and that if any case can be found in which the increase was not granted it will be corrected at once.

The statement also being made that the telegraph company is endeavoring to neutralize the 10 per cent advance by the application of a so-called sliding scale is without foundation. There is no such practice in effect, nor is there any intention of putting it into effect by the management of this company.

The standard salaries for regular positions as established by the increase of March 1 will be maintained and the company will pay to any man appointed or promoted to any position the salary attached to that position after that increase, and will pay to extra men the salaries in effect for their work as of March 1, inclusive, of the 10 per cent increase.

This company has not discriminated against nor will it discriminate against any employe of the company because of affiliation or non-affiliation with any organization; and if it can be shown to me that any subordinate has been dismissed or been discriminated against or any telegrapher dismissed because of affiliation with any organization, such telegrapher shall be restored to his position without prejudice.

As evidence of the absolute good faith of the Western Union Telegraph Company in its relations to its employes, I beg to say that if any telegrapher feels that he has any grievance under any of the foregoing conditions, and if he can not secure a satisfactory adjustment of his complaint with the officers of the company, we will submit the matter to the arbitration of three parties, one to be selected by the telegrapher, one by the telegraph company and the third to be selected by the two so chosen, and in the event that the two can not agree upon a third arbitrator within one week, we will be very glad to have such third arbitrator chosen by the chairman of the interstate commerce commission and the commissioner of labor acting jointly.

As a further evidence of our entire willingness to deal fairly and preserve amicable relations directly with our employes, any telegrapher who at any time has a grievance can take it up with his superior either in person, or, if he wishes, through any committee he may select from the other employes of the company in the same district.

I have outlined above, in brief, the position the Western Union Telegraph Company holds in regard to matters we have discussed, and you are at liberty to make any use of this letter that you see fit.

Yours very truly,

R. C. CLOWRY,
President.

It was believed that the foregoing concessions on the part of the Western Union would result in settling the whole matter, but later, it is stated, new conditions arose in San Francisco and a strike of all the employes of the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph Companies in San Francisco and Oakland was called, which is still in progress, and which is being personally conducted by President Small.

On account of the unexpected turn in events, Commissioner Neil hastened to San Francisco in an effort to bring about a settlement of that trouble and thereby prevent the strike from spreading.

A majority of the general Executive Board of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union is also in San Francisco.

At the time of going to press, no settlement of the trouble had been reached.

Without attempting to discuss the merits or demerits of any or all of the demands made on the Western Union Telegraph Company by the commercial telegraphers, it seems a regrettable fact that there should have been any necessity for the intervention of a third party in an effort to bring the two interested parties together. No good reason is apparent why the officials of the Western Union Telegraph Company should not meet a committee representing its employes and deal fairly and equitably with them. The laborer of to-day has rights and all up-to-date employers recognize this fact and meet and treat with committees, and there is no reason why the management of the Western Union should not treat with its employes in the same manner. No doubt if this had been done in the first place all matters at issue could and would have been settled long ago and a condition would have been established in the telegraph service of that company that would have been greatly beneficial to it.

It is hoped that the Western Union officials will, before it is too late, realize their errors and take the necessary steps to correct them by meeting committees of their employes and treating with them. No doubt such a conference would result in the establishing of friendly relations between employer and employe, which would be beneficial to all concerned.

In the course of events, misunderstandings arise, and the best and most satisfactory way to remove such misunderstandings is by conference and a free and full discussion of all matters at issue.

EDITORIAL NOTES

One thousand one hundred and fifty-four new members were initiated into the Order during the month of June..

Seven thousand, two hundred and thirty-eight new members were initiated into the Order during the first six months of the present year.

It is said that C. T. Pyle, whose name appears on the Katy scab list, is now employed by the Rock Island at Morganville, Kansas.

It is said that Mike H. Monehan, whose name appears on the Katy scab list, is now employed at Choppell Junction, on the Indiana Harbor Railroad.

Since the last announcement, new system divisions have been established on the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railway, and the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railway.

Up to the time of going to press, over 15,500 members have already paid dues for the new term beginning July 1st. This breaks all previous records for prompt payment of dues.

Thirty-eight new and revised schedules were secured by the Order during the first six months of the present year. This far exceeds anything ever before accomplished.

The name R. C. Jackson appears on the Katy scab list. This individual should not be confused with Roy C. Jackson, of Childress, Texas, member of I. & G. N. Ry. System Division No. 25, as it is another party entirely.

The surplus in the Mortuary Fund of the Mutual Benefit Department continues to grow and on June 30, 1907, after all the approved death claims had been paid, there was $184,985.68 cash on hand in its treasury, which is the high water mark up to the present time.

Help to complete thorough organization throughout the country by furnishing the Grand Secretary and Treasurer with a correct list of all non-members in your territory, using care to give correct initials, the correct spelling of the name, and the correct address, and also to show the road on which they are employed.

It is stated that C. A. Latham, whose name appears on the Katy scab list, is now touring Texas seeking employment and that he is endeavoring to cover up most of his Katy record, which, of course, he will not be able to do.

Thomas B. MacMahon, whom many of the old-time members of the Order will remember as a prominent figure at the sessions of the Grand Division prior to 1894, was recently elected City Attorney of West Seattle, Wash.

In the Providence Division No. 35 notes published in the May issue two employes were referred to as "sewermen" through a typographical error, as they should have been referred to as "levermen," which is their proper designation, and this correction is made in justice to them.

The accompanying is an engraving of an official O. R. T. gold ring. These rings can be had from the Grand Secretary and Treasurer for $4.50. In ordering them it is only necessary to give the size desired, which information can be secured from any jeweler.

Since the last announcement, new schedules have been secured on the following lines: Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City Railway, Georgia Railroad, Lake Erie & Western Railway, Hocking Valley Railway, Toledo & Ohio Central Railway, and revised schedules have been secured on the Maine Central Railway, Bessemer & Lake Erie Railway, and the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railway.

Wm. N. Staley, of Waterloo, Iowa, member of C., R. I. & P. Ry. System, Division No. 126, is another member of the Order who believes in the telegrapher going into business for himself. He is now manufacturing a fountain pen and a stylus. He has named the pen, the O. R. T. fountain pen, and presented the President and Grand Secretary and Treasurer with one of the pens and stylus at the late session of the Grand Division.

W. S. Arnold, member of the Grand Division, located at Fort Worth, Texas, is the composer of a song entitled "The Brownsville Raid," which according to the newspapers of that city, gives promise of becoming very popular. It is said that the words of the song are a portrayal of the famous Brownsville incident which has attracted so much attention during the past few months through the press of the country and at the hands of Congress.

The statement issued by the Bureau of Immigration for the month of May, 1907, shows that there were 184,886 aliens landed at the various ports of entry in the United States during that month; that there were 1,079 debarr'd from entrance, classified as follows: Idiots, 1; insane persons and epileptics, 23; paupers and likely to become public charges and beggars, 586; loathsome or dangerous contagious diseases, 286; convicts, 39; prostitutes and procurers, 1; contract laborers, 92; no passports, 35; under provisions of Chinese exclusion act, 8; accompanying aliens, 7. The report also shows that there were 102 aliens returned by the immigration authorities after landing. The total number of aliens landed in the United States during the month of May, 1906, were 150,927.

Under the joint supervision of the American Society of Equity and the Chicago Federation of Labor, four distributing stations have been established there, where the products of union farmers will be handled and sold to consumers at much lower prices than they now pay, yet at a more profitable figure for the farmer. The policemen of Tours, France, recently formed a union and placarded the town with printed statements of their grievances. Soldiers ejected them from their barracks.

Sixteen union men were elected to the Pennsylvania Legislature, pledged to the reforms which organized labor is a unit in demanding. This is encouraging, and the example ought to be followed by every State in the Union. When the working-men learn to present as united a front as corporations have done in the past, there is nothing in reason they can not secure at the hands of the government.

The union man should make himself indispensable to his employer by taking a personal pride in his work and a personal interest in the success of his employer's business. Make the employer feel that you have a mutual interest in his welfare, as well as your own, and you will force him to respect the union card. Show him by your work that unionism pays the employer as well as the employee.

When employers refuse to meet representatives of employes, or when they haughtily and summarily refuse workmen's requests for improved conditions, what recourse but the strike is there open to the men? Much as we deplore and seek to avoid strikes, when such an alternative is presented we have no hesitancy in declaring that the workers would be less than men did they not strike and strike persistently to win.

In walking down the street and meeting a dog that showed you his teeth and wagged his tail in an approving manner, does it not occur to you that it is a question which end you might believe, the wrong end seemed to be giving approval. Isn't it a regrettable fact there are so many people giving you the same impression as the dog, while giving you the glad right hand the left is either stabbing you in the back or looking for your pocket.

How happy the working people ought to be. They have made so many improved machines that 3,000,000 little children are now at work. Yes, convicts and little children do so much work that a million men come in on equal terms, with the motto, "equal rights to all and special privileges to none." A trust seeks to reduce its membership to the smallest possible point, with the motto, "special privileges for us and to have nothing to do, and can spend their whole time begging and stealing and go to jail and get hardened in sin and crime. How lovely it is! Society will soon be entirely relieved from the merry frolics of innocent childhood, and the stern nobility of manhood and the calm repose of old age, unless laboring men do their duty to themselves and posterity by taking the whip-handle in governing the country, instead of being whipped into line by politicians and capitalists seeking their own personal aggrandizement and not the general welfare of the people.—Labor Standard.

The Parryites keep right on chattering about the "labor trust" as though they believed that such an institution was a possibility. They are either too dishonest or too stupid to understand that the essential difference between a labor union and a trust is this: A union seeks to have all h—— with the rest." There can be no "labor trusts" when every effort is made to bring the unorganized workers into the fold. Such a body is democratic in every respect, while the trust is plutocratic, non-archic, and the fewer persons in control the more rapacious and greedy it becomes.—Labor Argus.

The trades union has to deal with vast numbers of average men, among whom we find the stupid, as well as the intelligent, the selfish as well as the altruistic, the sluggish as well as the alert, and its working policy must take all these things into account. When all this is said, we maintain that its influence for good, for developing the faculty of mutual self-help, the graces of benevolence and fraternity, for arousing the desire and will for the better things of life is scarcely equaled by any other human institution.

"Those who would be free, themselves must strike the blow," is as true now as ever in the history of man, and eternal vigilance is as much the price of material advancement now as it is, or ever was, the price of liberty. Out of all the hostile abuse of labor in its efforts to protect its rights and interests, there is not a suggestion as to any other manner of safeguarding them.

The hours of labor in Belgium are very long. The laborer commences work at 6 a. m. and ceases work at 7 p. m., with the usual breaks for meals. He is paid according to the trade in which he is employed, on the average of 7 to 9 cents per hour for 10 hours, and for additional two hours 25 per cent. increase, making his daily wage from 84 cents to $1.08 for 12 hours. Children begin their life work at the age of 12 years; and as regards hours for child labor, the law states that no child under 16 years of age shall be kept at work for more than 12 hours a day. A Belgian statistician estimates the average earnings at about $160

It looks as if the organized farmers were going to give union labor some practical assistance. A large wagon and carriage manufactory at Owensboro, Ky., put up the bars against trade unionists and took a bold stand for the "open shop." Then the American Society of Equity, whose delegates were received fraternally at the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, took a hand. Proclamations were issued by the president and secretary forbidding all members of the Farmers' Union from buying any article manufactured by the Owensboro concern.

REPRESENTATIVES TO THE LATE SESSION OF THE GRAND DIVISION FROM THE HOOSIER STATE.

MISCELLANY

AN AWFUL RIDE.

Brakeman's Story of a Runaway Train.

"WE had been running along at about 15 miles an hour, and everything seemed to be all right. With the sound of the engineer's whistle for brakes, I ran from one car to another, setting the brakes as hard as I could. The head brakeman was doing the same on the front of the train, and the conductor and rear brakeman were also doing their duty. I threw all my strength into the work of turning the brake-wheels, and as the train did not slacken its momentum in the least, I realized that the situation was becoming serious.

"Again and again I tried to put on more brakes, but my efforts only seemed to stimulate the velocity of the wheels. Around curve after curve the cars tore. Finally it seemed that the cars themselves were alive, shaking and trembling to rid themselves of their human burden. As a last resort, and with the only hope that the train would stick to the rails, I stretched myself out on a box-car, clinging to the running-board. Faster and faster went the train. It was all I could do to stick to the car. How far the train traveled in those few seconds I will never know. Seconds seemed minutes, and minutes were longer than hours. Think! Why, man, I could hardly think.

"At this time I thought of Timothy Flats, a level stretch in the road about a quarter of a mile in length. My one hope was that the engineer would get control of his train at that point. But quicker than it takes to tell it, we were on the flats and passed them without the train slackening in speed in the least. On and on we went. I was scared. I knew a wreck was inevitable. I could look ahead and see the engineer in his cab. The fireman was out of the tender. The engineer had his hand on the throttle. He had already reversed his engine, was pouring sand as fast as the pipes would allow, and time and time again he recharged his air. But it was of no use. I knew how the man felt. How could he stick to his post? I knew how the others felt, but now it seemed more like a dream than an actual happening.

"There were six men, the train's crew, all at our posts, and absolutely powerless in any way to stop the tremendous speed of those cars. Now and then I glanced sideways. We must have been going at the rate of two miles a minute. The telegraph poles alongside looked like a picket fence, so rapidly did we pass them. The trees and the mountainous hills resembled a mixed mass of dark green and brown. In taking the curves, every one of which I thought certainly would be the last, I watched that string of cars. It looked like a rapidly moving snake trying to get away from threatening danger. Thoughts passed through my mind as never before. My brain seemed afire. I couldn't help but think how helpless we half-dozen men were at the time. Never before did I feel so utterly useless. I thought of jumping, but that would be suicide, and so I stuck to my post.

"I happened to be looking ahead when the engine took the Clawson curve. It seemed to me that the tender jumped the track first. Then there was a bulge, and every car seemed to rise high in the air and crash into one another. This I realized as the end of the wild ride. In a way I was glad it was over. With the most terrifying sound I ever heard in my life, or ever imagined, there was a sudden shock.

Then confusion. As the force of those heavily laden cars pushed themselves against the locomotive the compact was awful. The box-cars were flattened out like paper boxes under the hand of a giant.

"As I went down with the top of the car, I felt the other cars piling, one after the other upon me. Something struck me in the head. My shoulder was twisted and pulled in every direction. The claw of a monster seemed to grab and scratch my face. All was darkness about me. And this is death! I thought. And then there was silence. All I could hear was the hissing of escaping steam. And again I thought of the engineer at his post. I tried to free myself and found that the debris was all about me. I couldn't see, but finally succeeded in extricating myself. I was safe at last!

"I thought of my fellow workmen, and in a half-dazed condition tried to walk toward the engine. I almost knew how the engineer had fared, but I wanted to help him if I could. I found some water and stopped to bathe my face. Then the section men appeared, and I was too weak to help in the work of rescue. They took me to Ashland, then on to Portland, and here I am. I couldn't live through another experience as I have just gone through."—Portland Oregonian.

HE MOVED THE MILE POST.

ABOUT ten years before the Eastern Railroad was leased by the Boston & Maine, that portion of the old road between Swampscott and Salem was in charge of Section Foreman Timothy Moynahan.

His strongest point was in doing just as he was told, and doing that with energy and accuracy. So when he was notified by the roadmaster that the section lengths were to be changed, and that he was to move his tool house from the westerly end of the Salem yard to half-way between mile posts 15 and 16, he started out with the determination to move the house half-way, no more, no less.

To get this half-way point he stationed one of his men at mile post 15 and another at mile post 16, and at a signal they started to walk toward each other until they met, and to a point opposite their meeting place the shanty was moved. This method of getting the correct distance did not quite suit Moynahan, especially when he remembered that one of the walkers was taller than the other, and the other tripped several times on the way down.

When the measurement was taken the house was found to be sixty feet nearer mile post 16 than 15, and Moynahan, on being told, remarked that he thought he could fix things just right.

Later in the year the engineer met Moynahan in Salem, and asked him if his tool house was now half-way between the mile posts?

"It is," he replied. "It's just half way."

"Did you have much trouble moving it?"

"No trouble at all; I just let it stay as it was and moved the mile post."—Boston Herald.

ONE CHANCE IN A HUNDRED.

FARRINGTON turned the night lamp low, drew a screen 'round the couch, and threw himself down.

He felt for the packet concealed in the lining of his coat. Yes, it was there; and how hard he had worked to get those six little white pellets! It had taken two weeks to abstract them, one by one, from the doctor's medicine case—the doctor's eyes were watchful, and he seldom left the case within reach.

As Farrington lay in the darkness, he lived over the scenes which had brought him where he was; the scene wherein the star of his hopes, his ambitions, had gone out in utter eclipse.

He saw the crowded court room, the faces of the jurors as they listened eagerly to his final plea for the defense.

He saw the judge's eyes fixed on him approvingly. He was making the effort of his life; the case was practically won—he would be known, famous, a career lay before him—and then, as his voice rose in the brilliant climax of his speech, something seemed to snap in his head.

The court room grew dark, the jurors' faces became a blur; dazed, muttering incoherently, sobbing like a child, he was led away.

Farrington wrung the truth from the doctors. "One chance in a hundred that the tiny particle of foreign matter now pressing on the brain might disappear as mysteriously as it came, but they could do nothing, at present." "And the other ninety-nine?" he had demanded piteously. "With absolute mental rest, freedom from all excitement, his reason might yet be retained." Farrington opened the packet.

"If those doddering old idiots think I'm going to wait 'till a speck of dust on my gray matter collects cobwebs enough to darken my upper story, well, I'll show 'em!" He counted out three pellets.

"I'll make it a sure thing—no overdose—three now, the rest when I begin to feel sleepy."

As he raised the pellets to his mouth he heard a faint scratching on the window pane. He listened; the scratching was repeated, followed by the muffled snapping of severed glass. Farrington lay back and waited.

"Most inopportune," he thought crossly. "Why couldn't the fellow have come a little later?"

He heard the window fastening slide back, felt the cold air rush in as the sash was cautiously raised. A flash of light illuminated the room for a second, then darkness again, followed by the soft pad of a foot on the carpet.

"I could do a better job than that, myself," called Farrington sharply. "Hurry up and close that window—I'm a sick man; don't keep me in a draught." The screen fell with a crash and Farrington looked up into the muzzle of a ".38."

"O, don't waste your ammunition on me—I'm not worth it. Put out that pocket battery and turn on the lights—second button beside the door—keep me covered, if you're afraid, I'm unarmed, and there isn't a soul within call."

His untimely guest backed to the door and switched on the lights.

"That's better; may I get up? Thanks. Take a seat and make yourself comfortable—have a drink?" Farrington drew up a small table and poured out two glasses of brandy.

His guest, perched uneasily on the edge of a chair, regarded him with amazed distrust.

"Here's to your success." Farrington raised his glass and the two drank in silence. Then for the first time the other spoke.

"You're a cool un fer a sick man. Wot's the matter wid you—Bats?"

"No; 'bats' will appear later; I am suffering from an infinitesimal particle of extraneous matter pressing on the left lobe of the brain. A disintegrated molecule, occasioned and superinduced by overtaxed mental faculties."

"Holy smoke! Can't you take somethin' fer it?"

"I can; and I'm going to take it to-night." As Farrington set down his glass six little pellets dropped from his hand.

"You've doped me!" cried his guest springing to his feet.

"Now don't get excited, I wouldn't dope you if I could—sit down."

"Wot's them pills?" suspiciously.

"Medicine, which I was about to take when you er-entered. By the way," Farrington leaned over the table and spoke in a whisper, "are you a good shot?"

"None of your damn business! An' wot's more, I'm goin' to git outer here afore I gits batty myself." Farrington slammed his guest back into his chair with a force which surprised both. "See here," he panted, "you're here on business, do it, and do it quick; 'twill be daylight in half an hour—you'll be seen going out. Over in that desk is $400 cash; my watch is there, too, and a ring. Any 'fence' will give you pretty near what they cost, an even $500.

"Now muss up this room, turn out the drawers, upset the furniture—if you're any kind of a 'second-story' man you'll know what to do. I'll stand here," Farrington stepped directly under the lights, "and you shoot. Aim for the heart, don't bungle." He threw off his coat. "Now, are you ready?" The sweat stood out on his guest's forehead.

"For God's sake man, wait a minute; I couldn't hit the side of a house—look at this!" A hairy paw was extended which shook visibly.

"You're a cur and a disgrace to your profession," remarked Farrington disgustedly. "However, there are tricks in all trades; I'll show you one now, with which you may be unfamiliar." He crossed to the table and gathered the six pellets in his hand.

"Three of these contain enough morphine to put a man to sleep," Farrington raised them to his mouth, "the other three—" but the sentence was never finished. A hairy fist—it didn't tremble this time—struck Farrington square on the jaw; he dropped like a log.

* * * *

When he opened his eyes he saw the doctor standing over him.

"Most remarkable," the doctor was saying. "Most re-markable."

"What's remarkable?" asked Farrington irritably.

"My boy, your recent little experience has worked wonders. Upon examination I find that the bit of extraneous matter which would have undoubtedly wrecked your mental apparatus was dislodged in—er—the process."

Farrington felt the lump on his jaw reflectively.

"How'd you do it, Doc., operation or a sledge hammer?" The doctor chuckled.

"Your recovery is due to a prescription; one heretofore unknown to the Materia Medica. I found it on your desk this morning."

Farrington took the extended bit of paper and read: "You called me A cur an a disgrace 2 mi perfession but i never shot a man in Cole Blood an i never hit a Sick man befoar eather but i only had 1 chanct in a 100 To git outer here afore somthin happened an i Took it i hoap i didn't hurt you much but twould served you rite if i had i didn't Touch nothing of yourn cept the Bot. of brandy I was shaking like a Lefe an needed a Bracer."—By GERTRUDE MARYLAND MOORHOUSE in Painter and Decorator.

HOLDING THEIR OWN.

A REGIMENT of regulars was making a long, dusty march across the rolling prairie land of Montana last summer. It was a hot, blistering day, and the men, longing for water and rest, were impatient to reach the next town.

A rancher rode past.

"Say, friend," called out one of the men, "how far is it to the next town?"

"Oh, a matter of two miles or so, I reckon," called back the rancher. Another long hour dragged by, and another rancher was encountered.

"How far to the next town?" the men asked him eagerly.

"Oh, a good two miles."

A weary half-hour longer of marching, and then a third rancher.

"Hey, how far's the next town?"

"Not far," was the encouraging answer. "Only about two miles."

"Well," sighed an optimistic sergeant, "thank God, we're holding our own, anyhow!"—Rocky Mountain Guide.

THE MAN THAT KICKS.

BILLY BROCKWELL, of Washington, asked us the other evening if we had ever met the union man who always has a reservation up his sleeve? Yes, you've met him, and, alas! so have I. "Now," he will say, "I am a union man—I believe in the principle; I want to remain in the union, but"—and then he will give you a string of alleged reasons why he thinks he is being wronged by the union. He believes in the organization, but he don't like its officers; he stands for its principles, but he kicks on their enforcement, and those who do the enforcing; he thinks short hours are a great blessing, but he don't like to be dictated to as to how long or in what way he shall work; he thinks a moderate amount of dues are possibly necessary, but they are always too infernally high; he reckons it is proper that someone should go forward and do the work of the union, but "Why in the world don't the members select a better class of men for that work?" He accepts the good that these "leaders" (as he sneeringly calls them) procure for him and others, but,

"Oh, it might have been so much better;" if extra expenses are to be incurred, he sees graft on every shiplaster, and outrage on every coin—he'll pay them, if he has to, but he'll sidestep if he can; he thinks the "injury of one is the concern of all"—except himself; he says he is honest—dead honest all through—but there are so many people in the ranks who are not; if a shop is won over to the union, he is glad to hear of it, but "Heaven and earth, man, it was such a long time coming—ought to have been done months ago, and would if our officers had had any sense;" he believes certain things must be done by the organization, but if they are not done exactly according to his views, he has a bad spell of the roars; he believes in helping those in distress, but "in this particular case please call on someone else." In fact, his life (as to unionism) seems to be mostly one of butts and bawls. He recalls the position of the old deacon on the prohibition question: "I favor the law, but I'm agin its enforcement." He favors the union if he can have his way about all things connected with it; if it jars him the least bit, or calls for any sacrifice, then he is against it. Thank heaven, he is not very numerous, but, oh! he is powerful pestiferous. In the language of the prayer book, "From such as these, good Lord deliver us."—Stonecutters' Journal.

A "GOOD" UNION MAN.

WELL-MEANING men sometimes have a very wrong idea of what constitutes a good union man. A good union man is not the one who always boasts of his undying hatred to all employers and that he has sacrificed many good positions through this hatred.

He is not the jealous individual who rails against the union, threatening to pull away and smash it to pieces and have no more to do with it, because so-and-so made a better suggestion in the meeting, which was adopted instead of his.

He is not the one who goes around abusing everybody and everything and saying by his every act that there is no good in anything or anybody but himself and his own doings.

He is not the selfish man who wants to keep others out of the union lest they might get his job. Good union men hold their jobs on their merits as workmen, and not by the force of the union. He who willfully mistreats his employer, expecting to be reinstated by force of the union when discharged, imposes on the usefulness of the union, and is not a good union man.

He is not one who acquaints his employer with all the private affairs of the union.

He is not one who tries to obtain another job by false or unfair means.

He is not one who absents himself from meetings of his local and criticises those who do attend for what they do.

He is not one who is always behind with his dues.

He is not one who promotes disorder at the meetings of the union, and who persists in showing disrespect to the presiding officer and others who address the meeting.

The good union man is he who while insisting on just wages and working conditions, also has respect for the rights of his employer, and does not regard him necessarily in the light of an enemy.

He who is charitably disposed towards the faults of others, and tries hard to live up to the true conception of a good union man.

He who is not so selfish but that he can give due credit to the conscientious work and utterances of others.

He who recognizes that the union is for all workers who avail themselves of its benefits.

He who has the good sense to know that the success of the union depends upon getting others to join it.

He who does not divulge the business of the union to outsiders.

He who loves peace, preferring not to fight the employer, yet who is sensitive to unjust treatment, and who is no coward.

He who is not afraid to go to his employer, and in a straightforward manner point out injustice, and insist upon having the same righted.

He who opposes strikes, and consents to them only when all others means of righting wrongs have utterly failed.

He who when he goes out on a strike stays out till the wrong is righted.

He whose card is always clear.

He who is not a knocker, but by force of logic opposes all foolish motions and insists upon the passage of all good ones.

He who is mentally broad enough to admit that there are others besides himself.

THE LATEST EXPRESS "CURIO."

IT is just a loaf of stale bread, almost as hard as a brick, and bearing scars of many a knock and dig; yet it has already traveled thousands of miles about this country, with no apparent destination. From Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic, it has been wandering about from month to month, until it reached Nantucket this week.

Who sent it out upon its erratic travels is not known, but it is now up to the express agents throughout the United States to keep the bread moving. Around the center of the loaf is a piece of heavy twine, and to this are attached countless tags of all descriptions. Already the tags weigh more than the loaf itself, which is now bound on a tour down the cape, accumulating like a snowball as it travels along from one town to another.—Nantucket, R. I., Exchange.

WAS ONE ON FATHER.

"CAMILLE CLIFFORD, who is going to marry the son of an English lord, is a Germantown girl," said a New York manager. "In Philadelphia, though she used to be much admired there, no one ever thought that in London she would achieve fame.

"Yet in London, Camille Clifford, with her gowns, has become famous for some years, and there are many Englishmen who will envy Lord Aberdare's son his bride.

"Miss Clifford, when I last saw her, talked of Lord Aberdare's opposition to the match. She did not think this opposition would last long. Apropos of it, she told me a little story.

"She said there was a certain girl whose parents objected strongly to her sweetheart. The parents found in this girl's pocketbook one night a love letter, and, wild with rage, they summoned her before them.

"What kind of a letter do you call this?" the old man demanded, glaring at his daughter over his spectacles. "Listen to it: 'Light of my life—' Light of my life! Faugh!"

"But, papa—"

"Not a word!" the old man interrupted. And he goes on, 'I could not sleep all night long, love, for thinking of you.'

"Liar," said the mother. 'Fool and liar, to write so.'

"Then the lunatic says," continued the father, 'he says, "How happy we would be if only that pig-headed, narrow-minded old fool of a dad of yours would give his consent."'

"The villain," said the mother.

"Would I trust my daughter's future," said the father, 'to any man who was base enough to speak like that?'

"But, papa, if you'll look—"

"Not a word."

"If you'll only look, papa, at the date."

"The old man turned the page and read:

"October 2, 1892.' Then a light dawned on him, and he gasped:

"Why, mother, bless my heart, it's one of my own letters to you."

"Yes, said the young girl, 'I found it in the cedar chest yesterday. I'd have told you long ago, but you wouldn't let me speak.'"—Ex.

THE STRANGER AT SAN MARCIAL.

THE traveler, though scarcely past middle age, was a withered little shrub of a man—as thin and crooked-backed as if he were seventy. His face was angular and wizened. His eyes were little, and seemed half closed; his mouth was big and amiable. His whole countenance gave the impression of sly good nature. He was dressed plainly—almost shabbily—and carried a long gray overcoat across his shoulder. His only visible article of luggage was a greasy, battered leather satchel, which he handled with great care.

In spite of his decrepit appearance, the man proved himself a tireless walker, using a long, swinging stride that carried him ahead at a surprising speed. For more than an hour he walked on steadily. All at once he heard not far behind him the squeaking of a brake and the bumping of wagon wheels upon the rocky road. A few seconds later the Antonio and Fort Stanley stage hove into sight.

"Howdy!" shouted the big, red-whiskered driver, heartily, pulling up his horses.

"The same to you, pardner!" The voice was surprisingly resonant.

"Where you bound for?"

"Next town. How far is it from here?"

"Well, sir; San Marcial's every bit of eight miles—and mighty bad walking in the dark. Better jump up here with me! Got plenty o' room!"

"Thanks, pardner, I don't care if I do!" Thereupon he swung himself up beside the driver with an ease that astonished this good-hearted individual.

"You're powerful spry for an old man!" he observed, admiringly.

The stranger smiled slyly and nodded. "To-morrow's the Fourth of July," he muttered, half to himself.

"That's right," replied the driver, regretfully. "There'll be big doin's at San Marcial to-morrow—an' it's just my blamed luck to have to miss 'em. By George! I'd give a dollar just to see the big shoot!"

His companion seemed mildly interested. "A shooting contest?"

"Sure! The big pistol shoot for the championship of the county. There's a cold hundred in it for Tim Whitsett. He'll win, hands down."

"I see," observed the stranger, quietly.

The stage was now descending a ticklish grade, and the driver's attention was wholly occupied in guiding his horses—so that the stranger was left to his own thoughts. He shook his head dubiously. San Marcial was, perhaps, the last place in which he would have expected ever to find himself. But this was before the "Royal Amusement Company" of San Francisco had been stranded. When the crash came, he found himself marooned in a little Arizona town without even sufficient money to make his way back to Phoenix. He had already written to his brother in San Francisco; but he knew it would be many days before the money could reach him. Besides, his boy was at Phoenix. And at the thought of the child—a little curly-headed rogue of ten—the father's eyes grew moist. Inured though he was to long absence from his boy, he was suddenly seized with a longing to see him—to hold him in his arms. But as yet this longing seemed cruelly far from realization. For as matters now stood the man figured that it was at least a hundred and fifty miles to Phoenix. And he had just three dimes in his pocket. At last he had decided to start out for Phoenix on foot, hoping that perhaps something might turn up. At the moment when the stage driver had picked him up he was finishing his third day's journey.

For a long time the man sat absorbed in his gloomy thoughts, dreamily watching the trees and rocks and bushes as they grew shadowy and indistinct in the thickening darkness. He was roused at length by the hearty voice of the driver.

"Well, pardner, here we are!"

As the stage drew up the stranger thanked the driver earnestly. The men shook hands, and the stranger jumped lightly to the ground.

"Good luck to you!" called the big driver. Then cracking his whip and shouting at his wiry, thin-necked sorrels, he sent them down the main street of San Marcial at a spanking trot. The stranger watched the lumbering stage as it pounded away through the darkness, and long after it was out of sight listened to the rapid clatter of the horses' hoofs. Then he looked about him. Except for a few stragglers the street was deserted. The man deliberated a moment. Then he began to walk rapidly down the street, continuing his pace until he came to a dense patch of brush just outside of the town. Plunging into this he found a small cleared space where he could not be observed from the road. He then cut a few leafy boughs and spread them on the ground. Buttoning his long, heavy overcoat closely about him he lay down, and was soon fast asleep.

San Marcial was at its best. From the sparsely-settled surrounding country, cowboys and ranchers—many with their wives and children—had been straggling in since daylight. Now at noon the street was alive with figures. Lounging in front of San Marcial's three saloons in evenly-numbered groups were about thirty ranchers and vaqueros—whites, Mexicans and Indians. Nearly as many horses were tethered to the scrub oaks at the side of the road.

The stranger in San Marcial walked thoughtfully up the street, and stopped a moment before the saloon that looked most promising. Then gripping his satchel firmly he walked in. The place was crowded with noisy, demonstrative fellows. Some were drinking at the bar; others were playing cards in the back of the room; the rest were standing around the big, barrel-shaped stove. As the stranger entered there was a momentary hush which he could not but notice.

The loungers gaped at him, sized him up critically and looked amused. The bartender indulged in a smile that was bland, politic, almost imperceptible. Those at the bar rested their glasses for a short stare. Then gradually the stranger became less and less an object of interest, until finally he was scarcely noticed.

Reading the signs aright the stranger walked up to the bar, and putting down a dime quietly ordered a whisky. He swallowed the fiery stuff with a slight grimace, and was about to leave when he heard some words at his elbow which caused him to keep his place. The talk at his elbow went on. And as he listened the lines of his good-natured mouth relaxed broadly and the bright little eyes twinkled. He whirled about, left the saloon, and walked rapidly until he came to his resting-place of the night before. Placing his satchel carefully upon the ground he opened it and took out a chamois-covered package. Untying the buckskin strings he unwound the chamois-skin wrapping until four superb pistols became visible. They were of the finest workmanship, the barrels long and slender. Taking the guns up affectionately the stranger scrutinized every part. He tested the trigger, the cylinder, and the sight. Then apparently satisfied, he reloaded each chamber carefully, and put the pistols back in their wrapping.

Holding out both hands with the palms downward, he regarded them, critically. "Steady as a rock!" he muttered to himself. And the little eyes twinkled merrily from under their half-closed lids.

At 2 o'clock an occasional straggler might have been seen entering the vacant lot behind Shield's saloon. By 3 o'clock a crowd of two hundred men had gathered there. At the far end of the lot were two old army targets, freshly painted white, upon which the great Shields himself, chalk in hand, was at that moment placing a number of concentric circles. A large, crudely-lettered placard placed midway between the two targets announced that the great pistol shot contest for the championship of San Marcial County and a prize of $100 in gold was to begin at 3:30—sharp.

The placard called it a contest. But as a matter of fact everybody in San Marcial felt pretty certain that there would be only one contestant. Pitted against a goodly number of men—all more or less noted for their prowess with the pistol—Tim Whitsett had twice given conclusive proof of his superiority. For the last two years he had carried off the prize—badly defeating the best of his competitors. As defeat seemed certain and there was only one prize, no one else now cared to enter the lists. But then San Marcial considered Whitsett's shooting alone worth the seeing.

The judge of the contest was no other than Bob Evans, sheriff of the county. Mounting the box which had been set up against the back of the saloon to serve as the judge's stand, he raised his hand for silence:

"Fellow-citizens, the following contest is for the championship of San Marcial County, and a prize of $100 in gold. It is open to all comers. The rules are as follows: Each man must empty four six-shooters, which are to be drawn from the holsters and fired. Two holsters are to be worn at the belt and one under each armpit—and each brace of pistols is to be put back in its holsters before the second brace is fired. In deciding the points, the number of shots in the target and the time taken to put them there will both be counted. I am now ready to receive entries."

A burly, red-faced rancher slouched out of the crowd, and, stepping up to the sheriff, said something to him.

"First entry—Tim Whitsett!" shouted the sheriff. The crowd cheered faintly. Whitsett was a bully, and had few friends.

There was a pause. Then there arose a general snicker which gradually swelled to a great roar of laughter. A hundred fingers were pointed at the queer, insignificant figure that was now seen approaching the judge's stand. Then they began to hoot him. It was the stranger. With his loose coat removed his thinness and dwarf-like stature, were ludicrously accentuated. Pausing a moment he drew from his pocket a large pair of glasses, wiped them carefully, and placed them upon his nose. At this move the risibilities of the crowd burst out anew—and the stranger was saluted with cries of "Grandpa!" "Humpy!" Apparently oblivious of the noisy ridicule that his appearance had provoked, he spoke a few words to the sheriff.

Then the latter, struggling vainly with his countenance, announced, with gusto: "Second entry—Henry Jason, of San Francisco!"

Whitsett was laughing immoderately. As soon as he succeeded in reducing his mirth to a very broad smile he took his place on the mark.

"Ready!" called the sheriff, watch in hand. "Fire!"

Whitsett's hands swept swiftly, almost mechanically, to the holsters. The red-sleeved arms came to an incredible quick level and stiffened. Six double reports sounded—and a sprinkling of black spots showed on the white surface of the target. Still smoking, the empty pistols were flashed into their holsters. Then both hands flew upward, touched for an instant the shoulders, and shot out again. There was a bright gleam of steel—and again came six rapid double reports. Whitsett shoved the pistols quickly into the shoulder holsters and swaggered into the background. The sheriff ran down to the target, counted the shots, and made a note of the result. Then he returned and mounted the box.

"Score of Tim Whitsett! Time: Thirteen seconds. Target score: Four in the bull's eye, nine in the first ring, six in the second, five in the third. This breaks the time record and target record made by Mr. Whitsett last year."

The crowd responded but faintly. It hated to see Whitsett win.

Jason's face was stern and immovable as he took his position. The laugh that had started among the crowd died away involuntarily. Whitsett's face alone wore an expansive smile of contempt. After all the crowd had begun to think that there was something inscrutably cool and business-like about this little misshapen tenderfoot.

Jason's eyes were fixed alertly upon the target. At the word "Fire!" the blue, damasked pistols leaped so swiftly into his skinny fingers that the spectators could not follow the movement with their eyes. They saw only a flashing double crescent of steel. Then, before any one had comprehended what was happening both pistols were whirling high in the air. San Marcial held its breath. In a moment the pistols had descended, and twelve reports rang out so rapidly that they seemed to blend into six. With a quick twist the wonderful little stranger sent the guns into their holsters. Again, almost before the thoroughly-amazed crowd knew what was taking place, a new pistol glistened in each of Jason's hands. This time only one pistol flew into the air—and as it whirled in the sunlight, the magician discharged the other twice in lightning-like succession. Then, deftly catching the descending pistol, he emptied both guns with incredible rapidity and seemingly without aim. Returning the pistols to their holsters with some quickness, he leaned coolly against the judge's box, his face as inscrutable as ever.

Then San Marcial went wild. They did not wait for the score—they knew good shooting when they saw it. They liked a man, moreover, and appreciated one—even if he did happen to be a tenderfoot. Whitsett, with a scowl of rage on his bloated face, slunk into the crowd. He knew that he was beaten—knew that San Marcial rejoiced in his defeat.

The sheriff hurried across the lot and examined the target. As he once more mounted the box the silence was profound.

"Score of Henry Jason, San Francisco. Time: Eleven and one-half seconds. Target score: Seven in the bull's eye, twelve in the first ring, five in the second. Which breaks all records!" The sheriff drew himself up to his full heart, and as soon as the shouts and cheers of the crowd had subsided, went on: "As sheriff of this county and in behalf of my fellow citizens, I want to apologize, Mr. Jason, for the shabby way we treated you. And I want to congratulate you, Mr. Jason, on the finest handling of shooting irons ever seen in Arizona!" Thereupon he handed Jason five shining twenties.

Jason pocketed them with murmured thanks, bowed low to the crowd, and repaired at once to the saloon where, surrounded by an admiring group of citizens, he cleaned and polished his pistols until the blue, damaskeened barrels fairly sparkled. This done he replaced them carefully in their wrapping.

"Good day, gents," he said, evenly, and left the saloon.

That night Henry Jason, lately of the Royal Amusement Company—but better known to a few seekers after curious information as the champion trick pistol shot of the world—lay back contently in the big, padded seat of the south-bound Antonio and Fort Stanton stage. His right hand rested lightly upon the handle of a greasy, battered little satchel. His left hand was hidden—but from the ample folds of his gray overcoat came the faint, yet unmistakable clink of double eagles. Out of the darkness he seemed to see a curly-headed little rogue coming breathlessly to meet him. And as he meditated dreamily upon the pleasant illusion, a happy wistful smile played about his lips.—By JULIAN JOSEPHSON, in San Francisco Argonaut.

ON LOGGER NO. 4.

"BANTY" BURNS was a stubby, muscular Scotch-Irish youth, who had risen from the position of engine wiper and fireman to that of hostler at Raymer, a division station on the

D. K. & S. Railroad, a line on the south shore of Lake Superior.

His striking traits were quick and a remarkable capacity for work. His good name bade fair to bring him early promotion, when a grave mishap—the collision of the engine which he was bringing from the house, with a stock train—forced him from the company's service.

He searched for work at once, for he had an only sister at school in Duluth, and she depended on him for support.

Thus he happened to be the guest of the crew in the caboose of Logger No. 4, coming down Tortoise Mountain on a brisk October morning. There were "frost whiskers" on the rails of that branch track, and a fog enveloped the low ground at Gooman on the main line.

The position and condition of the trains in the vicinity at 7 o'clock that morning were apparently normal; fifteen minutes later more than one train was in peril.

Up on Tortoise Mountain, Logger No. 4 was overpowering its big engine, as they went downward over the greasy rails at an alarming pace. Long-bodied, squatly, with ten low drivers under her, presenting unusual breadth of the tire surface to the rails, the heavy engine was holding back with all her power. But nineteen cars of green logs, on such slippery steel as lay under her that morning, could not be held. Faster and faster the long, snake-like train pushed downwards, whipping and rocking around the falling curves in a hissing, drumming turmoil of noise.

Seth Johnson, at the throttle, grew earnest, then pale. He set the air-brakes. With a clanking heave the train slackened speed; then a valve-rod under the first car snapped, and with a lurch the heavy train plunged onward.

Johnson had the air brakes set on the engine, the sand pipes spouting on the frost, and the drivers turning backwards, but the mighty machine went downward over the crystal smoothness like a toboggan.

Back in the "dinky" caboose there was a panic. Sid Turner, conductor, and his two brakemen were shouting half-heard things at one another.

"Go out ahead and set the hand brakes!" commanded Turner.

The brakeman looked down the line of swaying, jostling, plunging loads and flatly refused.

"Banty" Burns got up from his seat. He was moved by two thoughts—first and strongest, the thought that it was a shame to sit still and let things go to destruction without trying to prevent it; secondly, "Banty" reflected that if he should succeed he would probably not have to continue to look for work.

In his brown eyes burned a kind of fire. "I'm going over ahead to help Johnson!" he said. "I'll twist up the brakes as I go. If you fellows are scared, you can pull the pin and cut the caboose loose; but if I were you, Sid, I'd stay with my train!"

That was all. He jumped upon the first car, and began to clamber over the heaped-up logs, setting the brakes as he went, but the wheels slipped on the icy rails like sled runners.

"Banty" soon had to crawl along the logs on his hands and knees, clutching fast like a shaken insect.

Hearing a snarling rip of sound, he glanced around and saw the caboose snap like a whip-cracker against a stony bank and burst open. In an instant it was lost to view, and downward the train roared, scorning the brakes.

When "Banty," hatless and with bleeding fingers, at last tumbled over the tender, he found the cab empty. Johnson and the fireman had jumped.

He leaned out of the window. Should he, too, abandon the runaway? The noise of the train was like thunder, shot through with snarling hiss of sliding brakes and wheels. The rocking of the engine was terrifying.

"If she stays on the rails and has two or three miles of clear sailing on the main line, I'll get her under control," thought "Banty."

His teeth were set hard, and his face was drawn. As the engine rushed into the more open ground, "Banty" swung over to the fireman's window and looked out.

Away below him wavered the main line track, and—on it was the express, making eastward.

Could he get out onto the main line ahead of her? As he gazed, a picture of the ground near the switch flashed into view—he saw the sharp curve of the branch track as it met the main track, and the next extension of the branch track in a safety spur, for nearly a quarter of a mile parallel with the main line. Should he go on the safety spur, or take the hazard of getting on the main line ahead of the express.

Just then he saw an engine coming swiftly from the east.

His face turned deadly white.

That engine must be moving on a cross order, or running away, for it would crash into the express, seemingly, a half mile west of the switch.

He seized the whistle-grip and called for the switch to be thrown; he would meet the engine rushing from the east, himself. His was only a single life—there were many on the express.

Like a thunderbolt, the logger went down to strike the engine. All the way "Banty" clung among the levers like a spider to a wind-tossed web, sounding the whistle for the switch to open.

The switchman could not see the runaway engine, owing to a curving cut, and the express was still three-fourths of a mile away. He hesitatingly obeyed the whistled signal, and turned the switch.

With her engine screaming and her loads reeling in a cloud of dust, the logger burst over the frogs upon the main track. The wild engine was not two hundred feet away, and "Banty," seeing the deed was done, jumped into the gangway and leaped, feet foremost, into the air.

"Banty" awoke at the hospital at Raymer. When the officials heard his story, several mysterious things were made clear; one was, that he had risked his own life in order to save the express and its human freight.

Six months later "Banty" was running an engine between Raymer and Duluth.—By GRANVILLE OSBORNE, in The Little Chronicle.

JULIE ANDERSON.

CONDUCTOR SHERIDAN stepped into the caboose of the west-bound freight, a slip of yellow paper in his hand. He removed his slicker, shook the rain from his cap, filled and lit his pipe, and sat down.

"Mulligan," he said, addressing the red-haired flagman who sat on the opposite side of the caboose, "Mulligan, was you intendin' to go up to Magnolia to-morrow on 17?"

"Sure I was," replied Mulligan. "Why?"

"Oh, nothin', only you ain't goin'. Track's washed out from Mineral Hill clear up to Red Oak. This train won't leave the sidin' to-night, Johnny."

"Oh, mamma," wailed the flagman, "An' I promised me girl I'd be up for sure. Ain't that tough luck, now?"

"Oh, I don't know, Johnny. Worse things than that might happen. Railroad men have no business to be makin' promises, anyway."

The two brakemen filed in with the engineer and fireman and the entire crew was seated in the warm caboose.

"Say, these March floods is awful," began Collins, the head brakeman. "Just listen to it a-rainin', would you? I never seen so much water since I was down to the seashore three years ago. This is certainly tough."

"Tough? I've seen tougher," said Sheridan. "Did I ever tell you fellows about the time when I was telegraph operator, back home?"

"You never told me nuthin', Chris," said Mulligan. "All you ever told me was to take my flag and get out."

"Well, it's a kind of a queer story, an' I s'pose you won't believe it, but it's on the level, all right."

"I was night man at Hamilton's Sidin'. There was nothin' there but the telegraph office, an' nobody to talk to exceptin' the railroad men that came in. It was pretty lonesome at first, but I got used to that. I was glad to have the job, for I needed all the money I could get. My father had just died, my brother had been sick all winter, and I had to support my mother an' my two little sisters besides, so it kept me hustlin'. Well, about fifteen miles east of Hamilton's was Anderson's Sidin'. The operator there was a fellow by name of Davis—Billy Davis. We used to talk to each other over the wire, so we wouldn't get sleepy.

"About half-way between Hamilton's and Anderson's was a little creek called Mill Run. It wasn't much of a stream, and the bridge over it wasn't much of a bridge, either, but they ran heavy freights and passengers over it, and there had never been any trouble. But when the March floods came—let's see; it was twenty—twenty-five years ago this month—well, when the floods came, that creek carried on like a young Mississippi. The track was in pretty bad condition all along the line, an' all the trains was late.

"Well, I went to work one night, as usual, and along about nine o'clock I got to feelin' creepy. I got so nervous I didn't know what I was doin'. I kept lookin' over me shoulder like a six-year-old kid goin' through a graveyard, and I couldn't guess what was the matter with me.

"I tried to shake it off, but it was no use. So about ten o'clock I thought I would have a talk with Billy, an' I called him up.

"I didn't have nothin' in particular to say to him, so I started by sayin', 'Hello, Bill.' 'Hello, Christ,' he said. 'How are you?'

"Well, I tried to answer him, but I couldn't. I can't tell you how it was, boys, but I just couldn't. It seemed like somebody was holdin' me back. I didn't know what in thunder was the matter, but I made one final effort. I was goin' to tell Bill that I was all right, and so on, but this was what I really said: 'Mill Run bridge down. Hold 29.'

"I had no more intention of saying that than I had of declarin' myself the king of Spain, but the message was off, an' I couldn't get it back. 29 had been reported two hours an' forty minutes late, but she was three hours overdue then. You can imagine how Billy must have hustled down the track with the red bag. I tried to call him up again, an' tell him it was all a mistake, but it was too late.

"I thought I would sure be fired, for I had made two or three blunders before that, and I had been told that if I made another there would be room for a new operator at Hamilton's Sidin'.

"Well, pretty soon there was a call on the wire. Bill Davis was at the other end.

"'Christ,' he says, 'I stopped her just in time.'

"'God Almighty, man!' I says, 'you don't mean to say that Mill Run bridge really is down, do you?'

"'What's the matter with you, Chris?' he says. 'You reported it, an' now you seem surprised to hear about it. Sure it's down, an' down proper, too. If you had been one minute later with your message they'd be fishin' dead men out of Mill Run to-morrow mornin'.'

"An' he told the truth, too."

"Well," said Mulligan. "That's a good story, Chris, whether it's true or not. But how did you know the bridge was down? How can you explain that?"

"I was just comin' to that, Johnny. This is how some of the railroad boys explained it to me. I don't know whether this part is true or not, but I will tell it to you as it was told to me.

"It seems there was an engineer by name of Tommy Anderson, that used to live at Anderson's Sidin'. He had a daughter named Julia, an' she was a first-class operator.

"The regular operator was taken sick pretty sudden one night, an' this Julia, she volunteered to take his place.

"Well, there was a rear end collision, just above Anderson's, around the curve. The flagman's leg was broken, an' he was hurt inside, but he knowed the flyer was due, an' he tried his best to get back an' flag her. He got as far as the telegraph office an' told Julie Anderson about the wreck, an' then he died.

"Julie grabbed a lantern an' ran down the track, for she could see the flyer's headlight already. She stopped the train all right, but she stumbled an' fell right in front of the engine, an' when they picked her up she was dead.

"Her sweetheart was runnin' the flyer that night, too, an' they said it near drove him insane to think that his engine had killed Julie Anderson.

"An' the fellows said that her spirit is with the operators and trainmen in time of trouble, an' they said that she dictated the message that I sent to Billy Davis that night.

"Well, I didn't want to work in a place like that, so I quit.

"There's my story; believe it or knock it, just as you please, but it's my opinion that Julie Anderson saved 29 from goin' into Mill Run."

Mulligan laughed incredulously. The two brakemen looked serious. Then the engineer, Fred Campbell, took his pipe from his mouth and spoke for the first time.

"You fellows don't believe what Chris said, but it's true, every word of it.

"Chris Sheridan is not the only one that can tell of mysterious messages sent or received, messages telling of wrecks and wash-outs and other dangers, before the news could reach the office.

"Julie Anderson saved the train the night she died, and she has saved a good many since then.

"Oh, you nedn't look over your shoulder, Jim Collins. There's nothing to see."—By LYDIA M. DUNHAM in Railroad Trainmen's Journal.

A RAILROAD STORY.

NOW that the cow-puncher is gone, there is no more picturesque type of the bold and reckless man, living a full-blooded natural life, and doing real things as a matter of course, than a certain type of railroad men. Different from the puncher in that the "rail" lives his life in the midst of an alien world, in complete aloofness from the hum-drum round of every-day life. Truly the "rail" is a man, and generally a big and strong one mentally and physically, with, like most big and strong beings, a dash of the unspoiled child in his make-up.

The laughing slang of this argot bears witness of his "frolic welcome" to his unbelievably bitter hardships, but the grim spirit he draws upon to fulfill his task has nothing of a boy, but is all man, and a strong man at that.

One of the most characteristic of these interesting rovers is a certain "George the Moose," employed on one of the great wheat roads out of the Twin Cities. Six feet two inches tall, broad shouldered, with long sinewy arms, and his face lean and square jawed, his vigor and courage are the means of preventing a fatal end to his numerous dare-devil escapades, ranging from fierce combats with outlaws of the Scrawford type to "pinches" between box-cars. The following is the story of one of his trips, told in nearly his own words, and considered worth telling, by him, because he had so much fun on the trip described. In explanation, it may be said that since a certain horrible crime committed by two negroes at Little Falls, Minn., the men on the road out of the Twin Cities have sworn relentless war on negro hoboes, in contrast to their usual charitable attitude toward the down and out fraternity.

"We get out of Hadleyberg about 10 a. m. with 1,200 tons of manifest copper, silk and cedar lumber. Straight Air Jimmy was pulling us. Say, ain't he the bad guy with his air, though? But me, oh my, that eagle eye certainly knows how to wheel box cars. He has the caboose dancing a jig before we was past the mile board, and the way he wheels them over the hill and down that seventeen mile grade into Morris Junction was a delight to the homesick. I'm on the engine and keeps rubbering back, going around curves, and has several passengers spotted, so when we pulls up at the water tank I says to the smoke agent: 'There is a couple of side door tourists back there. I'll get you a coal passer and you open the gates when we head in, see,' and he says: 'Sure, Mike, all the time.' He is a good lad, that Tommy, and an artist with the scoop. I goes back and butts into a sickly-looking guy, and asks him: 'Do you want a ride? Gallop up on the back of the tender and stay there, see, and when the bake head goes shy on the diamonds you ladle it down to him, se.' And I points his snoot towards the engine.

"By this time the captain comes over with orders and as we have nothing to pick up. I knows I am lined up for supper under my own mahogany, and a shut eye in my own bed, and goes down the line, scouting for boes, care-free like. The first traveler I strikes is a boy who is on the rocks and pointing for home. So I jest tells him to keep his nut out of sight, and goes on about four cars. Here's meat; two shines on a lumber flat. 'Be on out of that, make no delay,' says I. One of them he starts telling about being a good nigger and a whole lot more. He's still talking when I heaves him out into the climate. Then I bids the other Congo sport farewell and tosses him out, too. He lights on his back and rolls considerable, but as we was only pulling out of the yard about six miles he don't get hurt none. But this time old Straight Air is out of the yard limits and whalin' it to her right, and I knows I has got to unload the gang quick if I want to get them off without breaking their necks. Pretty soon I locates a couple on the brake rods, and when the hind man comes over I swings him out of the side door, me holding him by the hands and he takes a pike at them. 'There dinges,' says he. 'All right,' says I, 'boot them into a lump.' And he starts to fill the moochers' pants full of boots. The 'boe' stands it noble for a while, but finally rolls out, and the way that skunk plowed up the cinders with the back of his neck was the worst ever. I laft until I near dropped my pal. The next collection we makes is on an empty coal flat, one with high sideboards, you know. There is a couple of white bums on board, and I was not going to put them off at all, but I says to one just to pass the word like, 'What are you traveling on, cullie?' Then one of these fresh moochers ruffles up his feathers and says: 'Me face,' ugly like. 'Yer transportation is expired,' says I, and slams him a jolt on the jaw. He goes down and out.

"We's wheeling about forty per by this time and I couldn't ditch them, so I backs the other foxy guy up in the corner, and tells him that if he don't quit conveyance at the next stop, I'll flatten him out and give him to the fire boy for a seat cushion.

"We stays on the flat until we slows up to head in for the limited, and when we is in the clear, one the siding with about ten minutes before she shows up, my pal and me goes prognosticating around. I'll be darned if the first thing we strikes ain't the two nigs we unloaded coming out of Morris Junction. They's caught the train again without us getting wise. They was on the rods again and when Straight Air pulls out on the main after the varnishes had gone, we gets ready for them.

"I waits until we are going so fast that I can just about get on again and leaps off, grabs Mr. Douglass by the foot and yanks him out, gives him a boost in the slats and rolls him down the bank. The other warrior is healed for gore, however, and comes out of his hole like a rat out of a sewer, with blood in his eye and a shiny razor in his mit. He is coming down on me and I was just bracing myself to leap in and smash him right, as the best way of getting out of the scrap all in one piece, when my pal whose running up, slams him over the head with a board. The plank breaks in about four million, one hundred and ninety-two thousand pieces, but the only effect on the gentleman with the cannon-ball head is to swerve him off from me. He never slacks up at all; on the contrary, he lets out about six notches and by the time he is off the right-of-way he has got the limited's time skun to a finish.

"Hully Gee," says my pal, "that guy don't need no ride; he'll beat us to town as it is." And I guess that's right, because we never overtakes him.

"By this time the caboose is only five cars away, and going some, so I leaps in, grabs a hand holt, and slams up against the side of the car, we're going so fast, but I gets on board all right and pikes over to the engine. I thinks we had the rattlers about dry of boes, but I hears a noise in a box car as I' going over, and swings in the end door. There is six dagoes squatting in the end. 'Tickets, please,' says I. 'Have your tickets ready,' but they only looks uneasy and says nothing. I waves my hand emphatic, and tells them to hit the grit, but never a chirp. Finally one little runt, he commences to chew up atmosphere and spitted out in a kind of whiny sing-song. Seeing the ignorant being I had to deal with I resorts to signs and goes through the motions of throwing a man out, have to vacate their state rooms as soon as possible. That's all I can do while we are fanning along so very speedy.

"Then I points ahead and as I climbs through the empty coal flat, sees the two white guys is still there. The one I wallops, his face is swelled up like a blue plum, and he is very peaceful, but his side kicker snarls like a wolf. I did not want to hurt him, but I wasn't going to have no impudence, so I makes a slap at him and tells him to cheer up or I'll knock the plaster off his slats. I makes up my mind that he'll hit the grit at the next stop, which is a blind siding, seven miles from nowhere, where we is to head in for the west-bound local. When we gets there I goes back and looks them up. 'They're inside with the dagoes now and I thinks, 'holdup,' and getting my pal scrambles into the car, but they're all quiet. I takes the well one and tells him 'unload, be on your way.' He snarls some more, but doesn't move. 'See here,' says I, 'you have been about numerous enough around here. If you don't want to get mussed up, get off, make no delay.'

"He makes a move towards his hip pocket, but I grabs him by the shoulder, trips him up, kicks him out, and leaps out after him before he has time to complete his actions. When he is on the ground I get right after him and never stops until he is rolling down a ten-foot embankment. I catches sight of the butt of the gun in his hip pocket every time he rolls over.

"My pal has the guy with the bum mug corraled and leads him out to his friend in distress. While this is going on the local has gone by. They has a light train and is tripping along a pretty good hickory, so they don't see none of this combat. Before it is time for any more developments, the fire boy has opened the switch and we was pulling out. So we ducks between the cars, before the guy in the ditch can turn loose with his artillery, but he never makes a try and we gets the switch closed and hikes out. I goes ahead then, plants myself on the front end of the fire boy's seat box, and takes it easy the rest of the way in.

"The way that old Straight Air Jimmy chases these rattlers down the line to Motley was certainly the real thing. We leaves Saxville thirteen minutes ahead of No. 4 and goes to town ahead of her. How is that for box cars? It is all the old mill wants to do, though. The fire boy wants to eat his lunch so I takes her for a while, and say, it is all I want all righty. We gets in and puts our train away about an hour ago. Have one before supper? Sorry! Well, so long."—Minneapolis Times.

LAW AND AMELIA WHINNERY.

"THE law," said Colonel Baggs, as he put his feet on the desk in the judge's private chambers, "is the perfection of human reason."

The jury had been given a ten minutes' recess while the bailiff went after a human skeleton which the medical expert in the case on trial had forgotten to bring from his office, and which he declared to be necessary in order to enable him to show to the jury just how the plaintiff was injured. Colonel Baggs had objected to the introduction of the skeleton as buncombe, meant to affect the jury by creating an atmosphere of horror by extrinsic evidence. Jim Bullock for the plaintiff, was just beginning to saw the air in irrepressible passion at this insult, when the Court cut him off by saying that the matter would be ruled on when the exhibit was offered, and gave the jury a recess.

The lawyers retired to the back room to smoke with the judge—who had wanted a cigar when he sent the jury out. Mr. Bullock offered the Colonel a perfecto, and, his passion cooled, put his feet up beside those of his antagonist.

"I've heard that somewhere before," said he in reply to the Colonel's remark; "but from your ideas on contributory negligence and assumption of risk, I didn't suppose you had. What makes you so cheerful and optimistic as to our noble profession? Court been sustaining you somewhere?"

"I just got a decision over in Nebraska," said the Colonel, "in the case of Whinnery vs. the C. & S. W. It shows that Providence is still looking out for the righteous man and his seed. Never heard of Whinnery vs. the railway company? Well, it may put you wise to a legal principle or two, Jim, and I'll tell you about it. I was ag'in' the corporations over there, as associate counsel for the plaintiff. Bob Fink, that studied in my office, was the fellow the case belonged to, and he being a little afraid of Absalom Scales, the railroad's local attorney, sent over a Macedonian wail to me, and said we'd cut up a 50 per cent contingent fee if we won. I went.

"Amelia Whinnery was the plaintiff. She was a school teacher who had got hold of the physical culture graft, and was teaching it to teachers' institutes, making $40 a minute the year around."

"How much?" asked the judge.

"I'm telling you what the record showed as I remember it," said the Colonel. "We proved that she was doing right well financially when the railroad put her out of business by failing to ring a bell or toot a whistle at the crossing coming into Tovala, and catching Bill Williams' bus asleep at the switch. Miss Whinnery was in the bus. When it was all over, she was in pretty fair shape—"

"Naturally, being a physical culturist," interpolated Jim Bullock.

"Excepting that her nerves had got some kind of a shock and she was robbed permanently of the power of speech. On the trial she sat in the court room in a close-fitting dress, wearing a picture hat, and would give a dumb sort of gurgle when Scales would pitch into her case, as if to protest at being so cruelly assaulted while defenseless. It was pathetic.

"Bob Fink shed tears, while he pictured to the jury in his opening, the agony of this beautiful girl set off from her kind for life, as the preponderance, the clear preponderance of the evidence showed she would be, by dumbness—an affliction, gentlemen of the jury, which seals her lips forever as to the real facts, and stops the reply she could otherwise make to the dastardly attack of my honorable and learned friend, the attorney for this public-service corporation, which has been clothed with the power to take away your land, gentlemen of the jury, or mine, whether we want to sell it or not, and to rob us of our produce by its extortionate freight rates, and to run its trains into and through our cities, and over our busses, and to maim and injure our ladies, and bring them before juries of their peers, who, unless I mistake, will administer a stinging rebuke to this corporation without a soul to save or a body to kick, in the only way in which it can be made to feel a rebuke—in damages, out of that surplus of tainted dollars which its evil and illegal practices have wrung from the hard hands of toil as represented by the farmers and laborers who so largely compose this highly-intelligent jury."

"Bob was good until the other side had the reporter begin to take his speech down, so as to show appeals to passion and prejudice—and then he hugged the record close. The plaintiff sobbed convulsively. Bob stopped and swallowed, knowing that the reporter couldn't get the sobs and swallows into the record. The jurors blew their noses and glared at Scales and the claim agent. I went over to the plaintiff and gave her a drink of water, and would have liked to take her in my arms and comfort her, but didn't."

"Too bad!" remarked Jim Bullock.

"Well," went on Colonel Baggs, "the jury found for us in about three hours for the full amount, $10,000. They would have agreed earlier, only they waited so the State would have to pay for their suppers. A judgment was rendered on the verdict, and the railroad appealed. All this time Bob was getting more and more tender toward the plaintiff. I didn't think much about it until cards came for their wedding. I sent Bob an assignment of my share in the verdict for a wedding present—if we ever get it. Amelia promised to love, honor and cherish by nodding her head, and walked away from the altar with her most graceful physical culture gait, while the boys outside with their shivaree instruments ready for the evening, sang in unison: 'Here comes the bride! Get on to her stride!' It was a recherché affair—but excessively quiet nuptials on the bride's side.

"That evening Absalom Scales got in the finest piece of work that was ever pulled off in any lawsuit in Nebraska. The bridal party went away over the C. & S. W. Omaha limited, and Amelia and Bob were there looking as fine as fiddles—Amelia a picture, they said, in her going-away gown. Scales had fixed up for a crowd of hoodlums to shivaree them as they went."

"Mighty mean trick, I should say," said Jim Bullock, "for any one but a corporation attorney."

"Wait, son," protested the Colonel, "until you are so far advised in the premises as to be able to judge whether the end didn't justify the means; and there may be hopes for your being a corporation attorney yourself some day. In addition to the horse fiddle and bells and horns, Absalom had arranged some private theatricals. He had plugged up a deal by which Bill Williams, the bus man—who'd sold out and was going to Oregon anyway—came bursting into the waiting room while they were waiting for the train—which was held at the water tank by Scales' procurement and covin—and presented a bill for the damages to his bus by the accident which had hurt Amelia's oratorical powers. You see, he'd never been settled with, being clearly negligent. They tried to get off in Amelia's case on the doctrine of imputed negligence, but it wouldn't stick.

"Well, Bill comes in with his claim against Amelia and Bob for two or three hundred dollars for his bus. They disdainfully gave him the ha-ha.

"Then," says Bill Williams, 'I will tell all, woman!'

"Amelia flushed, and looked inquiringly at Bob. Bob walked up to Bill and hissed: 'What do you mean, you hound, by insulting my wife in this way?'

"She knows what I mean,' yelled Bill, turning on Amelia. 'Ask your wife what she an' I was talkin' about when we was a-crossing the track that time. Ask her if she didn't say to me that I was the perfectly perportioned physical man, an' whether I didn't think that men an' women of sech proportions should mate; an' if she didn't make goo-goo eyes at me, ontill I stuck back my head to kiss her, an' whether she wasn't a-kissin' me when that freight came a pirootin' down an' run over her talkin' apparatus! Ask her if she didn't say she could die a-kissin' me, an' if she didn't come danged near doin' it!'

"Well, Bob Fink was, from all accounts, perfectly flabbergasted. There stood Bill Williams in his old dogskin coat and a cap that reeked of the stables, and there stood the fair plaintiff, turning redder and redder and panting louder and louder as the enormity of the thing grew upon her. And then she turned loose.

"She began doubling up her fists and stamping her feet, and finally she burst forth into oratory of the most impassioned character.

" 'Robert Fink!' she said, as quoted in the motion for a reopening of the case that Scales filed—'Robert Fink, will you stand by like a coward and see me insulted? That miserable tramp—a perfect——. If you don't kill him, I will. I kiss him? I ask him such a thing? Bob Fink, do you expect me to go with you and leave such an insult unavenged? No, no, no, no——'

"I guess she'd have gone on stringing negatives together as long as the depot would have held 'em, if Bob hadn't noticed Ike Witherspoon, the shorthand reporter, diligently taking down her speech and the names of those present. Then he twiggled, and, hastily knocking Bill down, he boarded the train with Amelia. He wired me from Fremont that it was all off with the judgment, as they'd tormented Mrs. Fink into making a public speech. I answered, collect, bidding him be as happy as he could in view of the new-found liberty of speech and of the press, and I'd look after the judgment and the appeal."

"Well," said Bullock, "of course you got licked in the Supreme Court. It was clear proof that she'd been shamming."

"You're about as near right on that as you are on the case at bar," retorted the Colonel. "Just about. The law is the perfection of human reason. The jury had found that Amelia Whinnery couldn't speak, and never would be able to. A jury had rendered a verdict to that effect, and judgment for $10,000 had been entered upon it. I merely pointed out to the Supreme Court that they could consider errors in the record only, and that it was the grossest sort of pettifoggery and ignorance of the law for Absalom Scales to come in and introduce such an impertinence as evidence—after the evidence was closed—that the fair plaintiff had been shamming and was, in fact, a very free-spoken lady. The bench saw the overpowering logic of this, and read my authorities, and Bob and Amelia will henceforth live in the best house in their town, built out of the C. & S. W. surplus—and Amelia talking sixteen hours a day. It's locally regarded as a good joke on the railroad. And now the rattling of the bones of that skeleton and the tapping of the bailiff on the door admonish us that I must resume the herculean struggle to prevent my client from being mulcted by your infernal machinations. Come on back to the court room."—Saturday Evening Post.

A FOOTHILL STRATEGIST.

"I RECKON," said Emerson, the milkman, seated on the edge of the post office porch, with his legs dangling—"I reckon they'll have the 'lectric road up here by Christmas."

"An' I reckon they won't," said Randolph, the stage driver, with deliberation. "I reckon they won't, because they can't get up here without a right o' way and they haven't got any right o' way yet."

"Ah, but they have, Sam," said Jorgenson, the postmaster and storekeeper, breaking into the conversation. "They've got the right o' way through the big vineyard—got it yesterday. I'm sorry for you, Sam, because you won't have anybody to haul up from the railroad after the trolley cars start runnin', but what's the use o' kickin'?" the postmaster concluded with a comprehensive wink at the entire company.

The stage driver arose, dusted the seat of his trousers with his open hand, and walked toward his waiting vehicle.

"Don't you worry about me, Bill," he said, "an' don't go to makin' any bets on the 'lectric comin' up here because they've got a right o' way through the big vineyard. If you'll scratch your head, an' get your thinkin' apparatus in order, you'll remember there's a little old ten-acre apricot grove just this side of the 'wash,' and they ain't got a right o' way through that. And who does that little old ten-acre patch belong to, hey? and how are they goin' to get their trolley road up here to Monte Vista without crossin' that patch, hey?"

"By George, that's so," confessed the postmaster, as the stage driver kicked off the brake, hit the horses with the whip and disappeared down the broad, white California road in a cloud of dust. "Sam owns that piece of land, and they simply can't get in here unless they make terms with him. Well, doggone his old hide. Couldn't you tell he come from Maine?"

"Yes, but Jorgenson," said the portly retired merchant who lived up on the mesa, whence he descended daily for his mail, "they'll condemn a right of way through his land if he undertakes to make them pay an extortionate price for it. He can't hold them up that way. Some of you fellows ought to warn him, or he'll make a serious mistake."

They did warn him, but he had evidently made up his mind that the railroad people would rather pay his price than bother with legal proceedings.

The company offered to buy the whole ten acres for twice what the land was worth; he responded by asking five times what it was worth. Finally, weary of haggling and delay, the counsel for the road instituted condemnation proceedings. Within two weeks Randolph learned that he had been awarded about one-tenth of the sum he could have had. The court had ordered him to be compensated for the right of way 75 feet wide, and no more.

"I reckon, Sam," said the milkman, when the news became known, "that you feel somethin' like the dog that old 'Æsop's Fables' tells about that dropped a good piece of rump steak in the crick for a grab at the shadder of it. Never pays to be greedy, Sam."

There was a chorus of laughter from the loungers on the post office porch, but the stage driver remained unruffled.

"You fellers needn't lose any sleep worryin' about me," he said; "ain't been no trolley cars whizzin' and boomin' past your place yit, has there, Emerson? No youngsters been squelched under the devouring juggernaut, hey? Well, don't you lay no bets on the cars gittin' here till they arrive."

"You ain't goin' to stand 'em off with a Winchester, are you, Sam?" inquired the storekeeper, with another wink at the con-course. "They'll get you into jail down at Los Angeles if you try that. You know that's what happened to the feller down Whittier way that undertook to stop 'em from layin' track. Wouldn't like to have to come down to Los Angeles and bail you out, Sam."

There was another roar of laughter, but the stage driver was unmoved. He said nothing, and he remained silent during the months succeeding, while the road was being graded up the hill from the big Santa Ynez "wash." He paid no more attention to the construction gang than he did to the wits on the post office porch, and these latter, failing to "get a rise" out of him, finally ceased to jest at his expense. They concluded that he had accepted the situation as gracefully as he might.

This impression was strengthened when Emerson, the milkman, driving one day past the Randolph apricot grove, found the owner thereof busy planting something among the trees on both sides of the right of way of the electric road.

"Ah, turned from stage drivin' to agricultural pursuits, Sammy," said the milkman. "What might you be plantin'?"

"I might be plantin' honeysuckles or bologna sausages," replied the stage driver calmly, "but I ain't. I'm just plantin' potatoes."

"But, man alive," cried Emerson, "don't you know it's too late to plant potatoes, an' what's more, the potato bugs are fairly swarmin' this year? Why, you might as well chuck them potatoes you're plantin' down in the canyon for all the good yo'll get of 'em."

"I'm inclined to think you're mistaken, Mister Emerson," returned the stage driver with elaborate courtesy, "but anyway, now I think of it, who does these potatoes belong to? Why, by hokus"—with a start of affected surprise—"I don't b'lieve you own these potatoes at all. So there's no call for you to hurt yourself worryin' over what becomes of 'em."

"You can go to the devil, Sam," returned the milkman, and he rode off convinced that the stage driver was a fool. "He's tryin' to get even on potatoes for that money he lost tryin' to gouge the railroad," he declared at the postoffice the next day.

Work on the electric road progressed. Poles were set, and wires strung; the graders cut and filled and scraped and dumped. A trestle was built across that part of the "wash" usually flooded by cloud-bursts in the mountains. The rails were laid, and the track was leveled up. At last it was announced, two or three days before Christmas, that the first car would be run over the new road into Monte Vista on that festal day.

When Sam Randolph heard the news, he went over to his potato patch which strung along either side of the track for 200 yards. The plants were flourishing finely—remember that winter is the growing season in California—but it was evident that they would not flourish much longer, since they were almost covered with potato bugs—crawling myriads of them.

This spectacle seemed to give the stage driver no uneasiness. On the contrary he surveyed the insects with an expression of something like satisfaction. He took from his pocket a small tin box, and extracted from it a pinch of fine white powder, which he deposited upon a leaf that was fairly alive with potato bugs.

The effect was instantaneous and surprising. The bugs sniffed once or twice, sat up on their hind legs, shook their heads in pained surprise, and then started in every direction. It looked as if every bug had a sudden and pressing engagement at some distance away from that particular spot.

Mr. Randolph slapped himself on the chest, and chuckled.

"The stuff's all right," he observed; "doesn't kill 'em, but inspires 'em with a desire to travel. I reckon," he went on, as the last bug scuttled off the leaf—"I reckon there's a few points your Uncle Samivel ain't overlookin' even if he ain't so young as he used to be. Your Uncle Samivel has been out in California country quite a spell, but he's 'riginally from Kennebunkport. Ho! ho! Now for the rest."

With these words he produced a spade, and began to dig a shallow and narrow trench around his potato patch, enclosing it on three sides, but leaving it open on the side that faced the railroad. He repeated the operation on the other side of the track. He went away, and returned shortly with a wheelbarrow upon which was a barrel half full of the white powder with which he had experimented on the potato bugs. He spread this thinly in the trenches he had dug, and chuckled to see that the potato bugs fled from it in the direction of the railroad. When he had satisfied himself that his entrenchments were secure, so to speak, he went home.

Christmas day dawned bright, fair and warm, at it always does in California. Monte Vista was en fete in expectation of the first trolley car. Jorgenson had the American flag draped over his store door, causing Emerson, the milkman, to make some sotto voce remarks about conductin' piracy under the shelterin' folds of the starry banner. Stephens, the opposition grocer, had a string of Japanese lanterns strung from his establishment across to the second story of the shoemaker's house. The village doctor had a big "Welcome" in evergreens over his front gate, which elicited further ironical remarks from the milkman. Up at the hotel the landlord had flags all over the establishment, and the Chinese cook went about with red, white and blue ribbons braided into his queue. Festivity was in the air.

At 10 o'clock, the hour set for the arrival of the first car, expectation was at its highest pitch. At 10:30 it had become painful. At 1 o'clock no car had arrived, and it was felt that something had gone wrong. Young Tompkins was hanging around the postoffice with a pony and cart, and he was dispatched down the line to discover what was wrong. He was gone fifteen minutes, and then returned purple with laughter.

"What's up?" demanded Jorgenson; "what's delayin' the percession, Alf?"

"Ha! ha! ha!" roared the youthful Tompkins, almost falling out of the cart in the ecstasy of his mirth. "Sam Randolph's holdin' up the 'lectric road. He's got the track greased with potato bugs, and the cars can't git up that grade by his apricot orchard!"

"Greased with potato bugs?" interrogated the storekeeper.

Then the milkman burst into laughter.

"Ho-o-o-o-o-o!" he shouted, "didn't I tell you the doggone old rascal was from Maine? I understand it. I see now why he was plantin' potatoes out-o' season, and the country full o' potato bugs. Oh, well, if that ain't the worst! Come on, let's go over and see the fun."

The whole village started, some in vehicles, some on horseback, some afoot. Past the school house, past the village library, past the Congregational church, past two or three small orange groves, and then they came upon the scene of events.

It was on a steep grade, and at the bottom of it was a trolley car decked out with flags and streamers and inscriptions. Ever and anon the motorman would turn on the power, and the car would make a rush up the grade only to stop half-way, and, with a great buzzing and slipping of the wheels, slide slowly back again. The rails were slimy and slippery, and the cause was plain to see.

Potato bugs! millions of them! billions of them! Crawling down from both sides of the track and meeting in the middle of it, they swarmed over rails in such quantities that the metal was entirely hidden.

And Mr. Samuel Randolph?—Up to one side of the track, blowing a white powder from a bellows upon the potato vines, while on the other side of the road a Mexican in his employ performed a similar office. Mr. Randolph was solemn and earnest. He paid no attention to the shouts and jests of his neighbors. He paid little more heed to the protests of an official of the electric road who had come up on the trial trip.

"You're stopping traffic," shouted the gentleman, hopping around and waving his arms in the air.

"Who—me?" demanded Mr. Randolph in surprise; "why I ain't doin' nothin' but powderin' potato bugs."

"But you're driving the bugs on the tracks, and the cars can't get up the hill."

"H'm," observed Mr. Randolph musingly, "it seems to me that's a matter you've got to discuss with the bugs. So far's I know, there's no law again a man powderin' bugs on his own place, and he can't be held responsible if the bugs want to take a trip in the trolley cars."

"Meantime," he added, "lemme call your attention to the fact that you're trespassin' on my land—my land, understand—belongin' to me, Sam Randolph. Your dog-gone miserly company might have had this land by payin' my price. It preferred to condemn a right o' way. The right o' way's yours; this land's mine. You git off it dumb quick, or I'll give you a dose o' potato bug powder!"

The functionary retreated precipitately as Mr. Randolph aimed his bellows at him—retreated to the car, and after a brief consultation, was taken back to a construction shanty where there was a telephone. Mr. Randolph continued his operations against the potato bugs. The villagers sat around and laughed and awaited developments.

It may have been an hour when a second car was seen approaching. It bore, in addition to the discomfited official, a suave, smiling old gentleman who laughed heartily as he took in the situation. He was the general manager of the line.

He walked, still laughing, up the grade, crushing potato bugs beneath his feet at every step to the spot where Mr. Randolph was still wielding the bellows.

"I've come to buy your potato crop," he said.

"It's not for sale," replied Mr. Randolph firmly, but with a suspicion of a grin lurking at the corners of his mouth. "That is, it's not for sale unless ten acres of apricot orchard go with it."

The manager laughed again.

"I forgot to say that we want the land, too," he conceded. "How much do you ask for it?"

Mr. Randolph laid down his bellows, produced a stub of a lead pencil and an old envelope. He made some figures.

"The land's worth just what I asked for it six months ago," he said; "that's $5,000. Then this here potato crop ought to be worth $500 more, and I've got a barrel of bug powder left that I ain't got no further use for. Mebbe you'd buy that, too?" he inquired, the grin still spreading.

"Yes, we'll relieve you of that, Mr. Randolph," said the general manager. "Put everything together, and make a lump price."

"Call it $6,000," suggested Mr. Randolph.

"That's $500 for the potato bug powder," said the railroad man, a little seriously.

"Well, it's wuth it, isn't it?" replied Mr. Randolph, snickering outright.

The general manager looked at the stalled cars, the bugs crawling over the tracks—looked at the stretch of potato patch and at Mr. Randolph. Then he laughed aloud.

"I guess it is," he said. "At any rate I accept your price. Come down to the car, and I'll draw you an order on the treasurer for your money."

"Now, boys," he shouted to a gang of railroad workmen who had come up on still another car, get busy here. Fill up those trenches on the inside of the potato patches, and dig others on the side next to the right of way. Sprinkle some of that powder in them, and then go to work and get those bugs started away from the tracks instead of toward 'em. Shovel the bugs off the rails, and get up that sand. Hustle, everybody! Come along, Mr. Randolph, we'll do business now."

Within half an hour, the cars were running up the hill, and the potato bugs were running down it. The line was opened, and a brass band was tooting away in front of the postoffice. The populace was gathered there, and among those present was Mr. Samuel Randolph who, as he put his hand in his pocket, and felt the order for $6,000, remarked with some pride and comfort:

"I reckon—yes. I reckon—that old Kennebunkport kin still hold her own when it comes to dealin' with amatoors."—The Pilgrim.

WAX EVIDENCE.

THE rural mail carrier, still finding in "Sage" Buford's box letters which he had deposited on Saturday morning, decided that something was amiss with the old man, as he never failed to withdraw his mail immediately after it was placed there by the Government's agent.

The rural carrier and young Stegman, a rising, will-o'-the-wisp of a lawyer, were the only ones who took much interest in the hermit of Craggie Hope. So, contrary to rules, the carrier made a detour that morning, and when he arrived at the half dug-out, half shack of the old man's abode, two lean dogs, more wolf than canine, ran out and snapped at his heels. He kicked them away and shoved open the thin plank door of the "living room."

Buford was lying on an old leather couch, and from all appearances was asleep. Close by the couch was a small stand bearing a very expensive phonograph. Thinking he had fallen asleep while listening to one of his favorite airs, the man withdrew from the room. When he did, the dogs attacked him and were so vicious that he had to beat them off with the butt of his riding whip.

On former occasions the dogs had been very friendly with him. They would come up and allow themselves to be petted by him, and a kind of affection existed between the man and the brutes. This hostile demonstration puzzled him, and their gaunt, unfed appearance prompted him that something was wrong with their master. He knew that Buford was kind to an extreme with his dumb companions, and would have shared his last crust with them.

He returned to the house and walked noisily up to the reclining figure. At first he shook him tenderly, but as that failed to arouse him, he became more vigorous, turning him first from one side to the other. Then he knelt and listened for his heart beats, but there were no indications of life in the body.

At the next house on his route the carrier telephoned his gruesome discovery to the coroner in town. A jury was impaneled, and as there seemed to be no doubt as to the hermit's dying a natural death, possibly from old age, they were not long in rendering a verdict to that effect.

As little was known of the former residence of the deceased, a search was made for any papers which might throw some light on the possible whereabouts of relatives, if he possessed any, that they be notified of the old man's death. Also, any request which he might have made in regard to the burial of his remains. They found a string tied around his neck, and suspended to this was a small brass key, the little instrument which admitted them to his box of private papers and trinkets.

On top of the pile of papers was a faded daguerreotype of a woman, beautiful for her day, and though quaint in garb, was a queen in poise and appearance. The only paper of importance to them was the will. With the customary legal phrases was a bequest of his entire estate comprising sixteen acres of land, many jewels and $20,000 in gold to Wilford Stegman, "his friend, counsellor and companion of his lonely days." Pinned to the instrument was a statement that the gold was buried and young Stegman knew in what locality to dig for it.

Stegman was out of town at the time, and when he returned in reply to a telegram, he was half-jubilant, half-depressed over the news. He immediately started the legal machinery in motion so he could come into possession of the property as soon as the remains were laid to rest in the little cemetery.

To avoid the disturbance of things by the morbid and curious, the deputy sheriff was detailed in charge of the hut to protect its contents and keep watch over the visitors until everything was settled and the novelty of the occasion wore away. The officer was a brave man, but not brave enough to stay the night through without somebody to keep him company. So he sent word to town for a friend to come out and spend the night with him.

He came, and they prepared their evening meal on the hermit's stove. After they had cleared away the dishes they sat about the fire and enjoyed their pipes.

"Jim," said the deputy, "do you know anything about them talking machines?"

"Certainly I do, after working in a music store as long as I have," returned his companion.

"Then suppose we listen to a few of the old man's favorite tunes. There is one on the thing now, and I'll bet he was listening to it when he died."

Jim moved over to the phonograph and wound it up; then threw the switch after placing the transmitter at the beginning of the record. Then they sat in silence while the cylinder grated out to them:

"I, John Buford, being sound of body and of mind, solemnly swear that the evidence contained upon this record of wax is true. Being alone and thinking that some day I would wish to leave a message of my last moments upon earth, I bought this talking machine with a recording attachment and a blank for that purpose. This will serve my aims better than writing, as it will be proof positive that I did it; for my penmanship is unknown even to the few of my acquaintances, but my voice will be remembered.

"Now I come to the bitterest of my testimony: Young Wilford Stegman, by some subtle, hypnotic influence, wormed his way into my heart and mind. He persuaded me to will him all I possess upon this earth and to disclose to him the whereabouts of my hidden treasure. He knows of my past life and the two events which forced me into exile.

"The night after he drew up my will he insisted upon drinking a toast to my health and that I should join him. As I never kept malt or vinous liquors about the house, he had come prepared and drew a flask of wine from his coat pocket. He drank first and then I followed, not fearing any drug in the wine, as both glasses were filled from the same bottle. In this I was very much mistaken, for the wine contained some subtle poison, first benumbing the body and then producing a comatose state from which I never will awaken. I have no antidote or emetic at hand, and am powerless to leave my room for medical aid. Because of my being a recluse and hating the inventions and improvements of mankind, I have no telephonic connection with the outside world.

"Stegman has a copy of my will, and it is useless for me to change the one in my keeping, as the one he has will be recorded and he will take possession here and destroy all of my papers. I wish the law to take its course in this case, and then I want all my property diverted to the Southwestern University. With my remaining strength I will change the apparatus on the phonograph that it may transmit my speech, and I trust to man's curiosity to start the machine."

The deputy sheriff and his companion remained silent for a moment. Each looked at the other in amazement, consternation depicted in every line of their faces.

"Well, what do you think of that?" said the officer.

"Sounds like a voice from the grave," was the response.

"Jim, if you will swear out the warrant I'll make the arrest; that machine will furnish the evidence."

Young Stegman, when arrested, tried to treat the matter as a joke, but finally broke down and confessed to the crime. The method of its discovery was a revelation to him.

"But how did you manage to escape after drinking the same kind of wine?" asked the deputy.

Stegman smiled. "It was very easy. Mine was poured from the top of the flask, and then the old man didn't observe me when I shook the contents before pouring his. I also used an emetic, something I knew the old fellow didn't have about the house."

"Tell me another thing," said the representative of the law, as he slipped the steel bracelets from his pocket; "what drove him into that shell out there when he had so much money?"

"First, unrequited love; second, a great invention which was stolen by his colleagues." And then Wilford Stegman put out his wrists to receive the encircling irons of the law.—By JOE CUSTER, in Express Gazette.

POETICAL

The Two Glasses.

There sat two glasses, filled to the brim,
On a rich man's table, rim to rim;
One was ruddy, and red as blood,
'And one was clear as the crystal flood.

Said the glass of wine to his paler brother,
"Let us tell tales of the past to each other.

I can tell of banquet, and revel and mirth,
Where I was king, for I ruled in might,
And the proudest and grandest souls on earth,
Fell under my touch, as though struck with blight.
From the heads of kings I have torn the crown,
From the heights of fame I have hurled men down;

I have blasted many an honored name;
I have taken virtue and given shame;
I have tempted the youth with a sip, a taste,
Which has made his future a barren waste.

Far greater than any king am I,
Or than any army beneath the sky;

I have made the arm of the driver fail,
And set the train from its iron rail;
I have made good ships go down at sea,
And the shrieks of the lost were sweet to me;
For they said, 'Behold, how great you be!

Fame, strength, wealth, genius, before you fall,
And your mighty power are over all.'
Ho! Ho! pale brother," laughed the wine,
"Can you boast of deeds as great as mine?"

Said the water glass, "I can not boast
Of a king dethroned, or a murdered host;
But I can tell of hearts that were sad,
By my crystal drops made light and glad;

Of thirst I have quenched, and brows I have laved;

Of hands I have cooled, and souls I've saved.
I have leaped through the valley,
Dashed down the mountain,
Slept in the sunshine, and dripped from the fountain;

I have burst my cloud fetters and dropped from the sky,

And everywhere gladdened the landscape and eye.

I have eased the hot forehead of fever and pain,
I have made the parched meadows grow fertile with grain;

I can tell of the powerful wheel of the mill
That ground out the flour, and turned at my will;

I can tell of manhood debased by you,
That I have uplifted and crowned anew.

I cheer, I help, I strengthen and aid,
I gladdened the heart of man and maid;

I set the chained wine-captive free,
And all are better for knowing me."

These are the tales they told to each other,
The glass of wine and its paler brother,
As they sat together, filled to the brim
On a rich man's table, rim to rim.

The Man Who Wins.

The man who wins is the man who works;
The man who toils while the next man shirks;
The man who stands in his deep distress
With his head held high in the deadly press—
Yes, he is the man who wins.

The man who wins is the man who knows
The value of pain and the worth of woes —
Who a lesson learns from the man who falls
And a moral finds in his mournful wails;
Yes, he is the man who wins.

The man who wins is the man who stays
In the unsought path and the rocky ways,
And, perhaps, who lingers now and then.
To help some failure to rise again;
And he is the man who wins!

And the man who wins is the man who hears
The curse of the envious in his ears,
But who goes his way with his head held high,
And passes the wrecks of the failures by—
For he is the man who wins.

Be Not Content.

Be not content. Contentment means inaction.
The growing soul aches on its upward quest,
Satiety is twin to satisfaction;
All great achievements spring from life's unrest.

The tiny roots, deep in the dark mold hiding,
Would never bless the earth with leaf and flower
Were not an inborn restfulness abiding
In seed and germ to stir them with its power.

Were man contented with his lot forever,
He had not sought strange seas with sails unfurled,
And the best wonders of our shores had never Dawned on the gaze of an admiring world.

Prize what is yours, but be not quite contented;
There is a healthful restfulness of soul
By which a mighty purpose is augmented
In urging men to reach a higher goal.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

The Long Ago.

There are no days like the good old days,
The days when we were youthful!

When humankind were pure of mind,
And speech and deeds were truthful;
Before a love for sordid gold
Became man's ruling passion,
Before each dame and maid became Slave to the tyrant fashion!

There are no girls like the good old girls—
Against the world I'd stake 'em!
As buxom, smart, and clean of heart
As the Lord knew how to make 'em!
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
And piety all supportin';
They could bake and brew, and had taught school,
too,
And they made such likely courtin'!

There are no boys like the good old boys—
When we were boys together!
When the grass was sweet to the brown, bare feet
That dimpled the laughing heather;
When the pewee sang to the summer dawn,
Or the bee in the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whip-poor-will Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love—
The love that mother gave us!
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
For that precious grace—God save us!
So we dream and dream of the good old times,
And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams
Of heaven away off yonder.

Eve.

Eve escaped a most tremendous lot of ills,
Or a lot of joys the lady never knew—
Ills or joys they are that our existence fills
All depending on a person's point of view.

Eve was never at a Monday bargain sale,
She was never at a Wednesday matinee,
And she never promenaded in a gale
Wearing hosiery of silken fabric gay.

Eve was never in a wrangle at her club,
She was never called her city's moral force,
She was ignorant of kettle, pan or tub,
And she never thought of getting a divorce.

Eve was never known to wear a frizz or switch,
And she never used cosmetics for her face,
And she never wished that she had married rich
So that she could then have held her rightful place.

Eve was never known to read the latest book,
She was never mentioned on a social page,
And she never told her neighbors how her cook
Went on strike because she would not raise her wage.

Eve was never for the papers photographed,
She was never busy in a bridge-whist set,
And she never worried until completely daft,
Over whether to appear in decollete.

Eve was never known to study every spring
Over what the foreign notables would wear,
And she never took a course in how to sing
Or had Marcelle waving worked into her hair.

Eve was never worried over Adam's faults, Never thought that he would smoke himself to death,
Never walked in leaps and lopes and strides and halts,
Never waltzed until she wholly lost her breath.

Eve was never at a howling football game,
Never showed her dog against "the other curs,"
And she never vowed, with eyes and cheeks aflame
That the neighbors' children should not play with hers.

But there is one trait that links her with today,
With her sisters of this moment passing fair;
Often, often Adam heard her gently say:
"I would go, but I've got not a thing to wear!"

Three Words of Strength.

There are three lessons I would write—
Three words, as with a burning pen,
In tracings of eternal light,
Upon the heart of men.

Have hope! though clouds environ round,
And gladness hides her face in scorn,
Put thou the shadow from thy brow,
No night but hath its morn.

Have faith! wher'er thy bark is driven—
The calm's disport, the tempest's mirth—
Know this: God rules the hosts of Heaven
The inhabitants of earth.

Have love! not love along for one,
But man as man thy brother call,
And scatter, like the circling sun,
Thy charities on all.

Thus grave these lessons on thy soul,
Hope, faith and love; and thou shalt find
Strength when life's surges rudest roll,
Light when thou else wert blind.

—Frederick Schiller.

FACETIOUS

Definitely Fixed.

"Expert legal testimony," says a well-known member of the New York bar, "can easily be made a two-edged weapon in court.

"A clever and capable mining engineer was obliged to take the stand as an expert in a suit in Nevada, a couple of years ago. The case involved large issues.

"The examination was conducted by a young and smart attorney, who patronized the expert with all the authority of half a dozen years of practice.

"One of his questions related to the form in which the ore was found, a form generally known as 'kidney lumps.'

"'Now, sir,' said the attorney, 'how large are these lumps? You say that they are oblong in shape. Are they as long as my head?'

"'Yes,' replied the expert, 'but not nearly so thick.'"—Harper's Weekly.

Evidence at Fault.

Into a car came a boy carrying a floral masterpiece. Full four feet from the ground it stood in the form of a cross. Roses red and white composed the body of the cross, and dainty white blossoms and green leaves formed the trimmings. In the center the word "Peace" was spelled out in red rosebuds. By and by an old gentleman with a harassed cast of countenance stood up and readjusted his glasses in order to get a better look at it.

"That's a mighty pretty posy you've got there," he said "May I ask who is dead?"

The boy giggled: "There ain't nobody dead't I know of," he said. "This ain't for a funeral. It's for a weddin."

The old gentleman sat down heavily. "Good Lord," he said, "what idiot ordered 'Peace' inscribed on a wedding gift?"—

Ex.

Large For Its Age.

Old Jacob Wyckoff, a farmer whose place was just outside of town, had made a present of his largest yellow pumpkin to the editor of the village paper, and the editor wrote an item acknowledging the gift. But unfortunately the office boy who put it in type got it mixed with an item announcing the birth of a baby in the family of another subscriber. This is the way it appeared in print:

"Our old friend, Harry Townsend, is celebrating the arrival of a fine boy at his house. The newcomer is the very image of its father. It is one of the large cornfield variety, with huge bumps all over it, and weighs fifty-six pounds. There isn't a flaw in it anywhere, except a dent made by our fool office boy, and that doesn't matter, as we are going to cut it up at once."—Youth's Companion.

Everybody Walks.

To requests for free transportation the general passenger department of the Rio Grande now responds with the following pathetic lines:

Everybody walks but father;
He rides around all day.
Big mogul on a railroad.
He don't have to pay.
Little Johnny's walking;
Also Brother Will.
So's the Whole Dam family
Since Hepburn passed his bill.

His Conception.

From Italy comes this story of a litigant who, having to go on a journey while his case was pending in court, instructed his lawyer to let him know the result by telegraph. After several days he received the following message: "Right has triumphed." He at once telegraphed back, "Appeal immediately."

Scratched Off the List.

There was once in New York an Irish tailor whose eccentricities threatened to bring trouble to him, but whose wit always saved him. One morning Mrs. Murphy, wife of a muscular bricklayer, came into his shop and found him working laboriously with a pencil and a piece of paper. She asked him what he was doing, and he replied that he was making out a list of the men on the block whom he could whip. "Is Murphy's name there?" inquired that man's wife. The tailor confessed that, like Abou Ben Adhem's, Murphy's name headed the list. When Murphy heard of this he came to the shop with belligerence in his eyes, and inquired if the report was true. "Sure and it's true. Phwat of it?" returned the tailor. "You little grasshopper," said Murphy, "I could commit suicide on yez wid me little finger. I could wipe up de flure wid yez wid me hands tied!" "Are ye sure about thot?" asked the tailor. "Sure I am about it." "Well, then," said the knight of the shears regretfully, "I'll scratch ye off the list."—Exchange.

Refused To Obey The Order.

Many years ago a Philadelphia clothing manufacturer received a contract for making uniforms for the telegraph operators along the line of one of the railroads. In order to measure the operators along the line he sent telegrams asking them to meet him on the station platforms. He sent this telegram to the operator at one of the small stations: "Meet me on the arrival of the 2:15 p. m. train. Wear nothing but shirt and trousers." At the appointed time he reached the station and inquired for the operator. He saw a young woman looking embarrassed. She said, in answer to his inquiry: "I am the telegraph operator, and am here in response to your summons; but I decline to comply with your instructions as to apparel."—Kansas City Star.

Wrongly Identified.

A New York man was talking about Opie Read, the brilliant author and journalist.

"Read, you know," he said, "founded the Arkansaw Traveler. He edited that excellent paper for ten years or more. He made a great success of it.

"They say that in the spring of 1885 a reporter of the Traveler died. He was a fine young chap. A visitor to the office the day after the funeral found the editor and his staff talking about their loss disconsolately.

"It has been a sad loss, friends,' the visitor said, 'a sad loss, indeed.' He sighed and looked about the room. 'And I am pleased to see' he went on, 'that you commemorate the melancholy event by hanging up crape.'

"Opie Read frowned.

"'Crape?' he said. 'Where do you see any crape?'

"'Over there,' said the visitor, pointing.

"'Crape be durned,' said Read. 'That isn't crape. It's the office towel.'—Pittsburg Gazette.

Equipped.

The morning after the wreck of one of the fast trains, an old farmer was standing on the bank of the river into which the train had plunged, intently watching the water.

A stranger approached, and naturally the conversation reverted to the wreck and the fortunate escape of all the passengers.

"It was the costliest train in the world," informed the stranger.

"Yes," grunted the other, still watching the stream.

"And about the best equipped," the newcomer continued.

"No doubt about it," assented the old farmer. "I've fished a dozen bottles out of the water already."—Harper's Weekly.

Our Correspondents

"CITIZENSHIP HONESTY."

"THE welfare of the workers depends upon justice. Not the justice of an eye for an eye, but the justice of the golden rule, which is the natural law of social life. This law requires that idlers shall be poor and workers rich, that 'he who will not work, neither shall he eat.' But as a fact the idle are often rich, while workers are generally poor. Some explain this by charging poverty to idleness; but it is the rich and not the workers who, as a class, are idle. Others say that the workers drink themselves into poverty, but the rich drink more than the poor and yet remain rich. The obvious fact is that in our industrial system there is less work to do than workers to do it. We thus have unemployed people underbidding each other. This disemployed class springs from the universal monopoly of useful land. The withdrawal from use, of land needed for use, reduces the demand for workers. Trade unions realize that there is less work than workers, but meet the condition by trying to restrict the competition of workers for work. They would meet it better by trying to increase the competition of work for workers. The welfare of workers is to be served by establishing equality of rights and reciprocal duties. The law of 'mine, thine and ours' is the true law. The fruits of my work are mine, the fruits of your work are yours, and the old mother earth is ours. This is the essence of industrial justice. It is the doctrine of the Golden Rule. It is the one thing needed for the welfare of the workers."—The Chicago Public, May 25th.

That fragment of simple economic philosophy is one among the many that for years have been given to humanity by a number of clear minds, each one explaining in different ways, or through distinct forms of language, the bottom principle of all healthy human development. We are so accustomed to confusions and conflicts, to complexities and hardships, that we don't believe in the simplicity of universal joy through plain obedience to a few simple universal duties respecting the fundamental rights of each other as expressed by that golden rule which we still lay aside in all our collective relations.

And we can hardly blame the working masses of humanity for that mental blindness, which is fed, in our nation alone, by 200,000 or more monopoly writers in 20,000 or more respectable publications, the ones that are voraciously read by the millions in all classes and conditions of men. It is by means of that immensity of false economic literature that we are constantly told to stand by new miserable processes with which to make wrong a little easier or less painful than thus far. That means—the prolongation of evil. We then neglect our most essential duty, that of totally suppressing legalized wrong. Wrong is bound to grow until it is thoroughly dislodged, root and branch, from the throne of law.

If there is anything fundamental in space infinite or time eternal, then civilization must either rest on some principle fundamentally criminal or on some fundamentally righteous. If the latter, through what important process do we actualize our own social righteousness, so that to escape being the victims of some social principle fundamentally wrong?

Each generation has devised 500 petty duties to make up for the neglect of the above mentioned fundamental one. Suppose that the 500 petty duties decrease by 30 per cent the burden of sorrows and sins produced by the neglect of our fundamental duty. Balance against the wisdom and goodness of men, 70 per cent of all possible avoidable sorrows and sins. Is not that a mad trick?

Consciously or not, each social unit, in relation to his importance, helps to prolong the kingdom of human follies and conceits, in so far as he neglects to honestly and scientifically work for the rapid initiation and complexion of the kingdom of the truth, of plain sound sense. That should be anyhow the essential object of every human life except when great poverty and harsh conditions force men into very low standards of development.

The Christianity of Jesus is the only natural and inevitable solution of all human problems. The prolongation, then, through decades and centuries, of social problems unsolved or poorly solved, and so bound to feed the old evils or any new deformities; that conclusively proves that the leading classes and teachers of nations and churches refuse yet, or are yet unable to teach humanity how to abide, live and grow under the simple teachings of the Christianity of Jesus. It follows then that we remain yet plunged into a distorted Christianity that we, choice fellows, have managed to manufacture and teach. That is proved by the many great wrongs that cling to the march of our painful progress.

The peace conference we had in New York City last April proved, with a vengeance, the miserably mixed up education of our top classes. That conference brought thousands of good important men together from all parts of the nation and some from abroad. Their discussions rested on three words, viz., "Peace, War, Righteousness." Some considered that peace without righteousness would be worthless. Some thought that righteousness required that we all should be constantly getting ready for war. All despots have stuck to the latter philosophy, prevailing yet with the so-called advanced nations.

It has never occurred to men to have a precise definition of the word "peace" and that of war, in order to see which of the two was likely to be more compatible with the word—righteousness. Suppose we try our hand in those two definitions.

Definition of peace: "The fully actualized brotherhood of men through a few simple laws respecting and ethically enforcing the principle of universal honesty or equity in all the social and industrial relations of the national group, in lieu of the selfish laws disturbing all healthy development and forcing distorted lives upon all men; and thus we blot out of existence the divine plan of human evolution."

Definition of war: "The open or hidden invitation of the banditti-hood spirit in the compact of nations, through mean, monopoly laws repudiating the unselfishness of all divine law. It is through that process that we yet cast off the Fatherhood of God, thus giving to some men the power to rob the rest of the equal rights belonging to all men by the fiat of all natural and divine decrees, commands."

Any similar definition of those two words would give to men the conception that what we all need, in order to enjoy the peace of righteousness, is—"Citizenship Honesty." Neither civil nor religious education teaches yet that kind of honesty. No wonder that we need armies and navies. Don't you see that civilization is yet a war to the knife against God through dishonest industrial conditions rejecting the brotherhood of men and the righteousness of the Father in Heaven? If that Father is a reality, then He can never be satisfied with any amount of goodness among men to simply cover up or justify—citizenship dishonesty in national life through injustice in our social relations through selfish barbarisms in all industrial development; all sanctioned by idiotic human enactments. JOSE GROS.

TIME TO PUSH.

Here are my views on the $75.00 question. Take them for what they are worth.

If our union as a body and at the same time demands a $75.00 minimum from all organized roads then I can see no reason why we can not get what we ask.

As long as we ask each separate system for even a small raise, it is hard to get, for the reason that they tell us they are already paying as much as competing roads are paying, and we can not say it is not true. Now if Mr. Perham will call a vote on the question and if the majority of our members are in favor of demanding a $75.00 minimum, let us then prepare to make the demand this fall and, if necessary, go out of service and stay out until we get it.

We can be drawing $75.00 per month by January 1, 1908, if we go after it and stay by it as we should. Each man can lay enough money by between now and fall so that if called upon to go out of service for even a month, we can live and not have to call on our union for help. Let us prepare for war, even though we are not looking for trouble. Let us prepare a sufficient fund for our committee to use so that they may not be hampered for lack of funds.

If our committee feel that we are behind them and are giving them our support as one undivided body, they can and will get what we want. When the companies see that we mean business and will tie their business up until we get what is right, there will be no serious trouble.

I would like to see this matter put to a vote and find out how the rest of the brothers feel about it.

CERT. 1059, DIV. 23.

EIGHT HOURS AND $75.

For some months past I have been quietly reading my TELEGRAPHER every month, and as the good old saying goes, "sawing wood and saying nothing." There are times, however, in this wood-sawing process when a man is obliged to stand up, rub his aching back and take notice, and it is at this psychological moment after reading pieces in the June TELEGRAPHER entitled "Eight hours per day and $75 minimum per month," and "Should act now" that I am preparing this article.

Now it is very probable that in all this North America, and particularly in the United States it would be hard to find a telegrapher who is not patiently waiting for the fourth day of March, 1908, to roll around. I am very sure we are all aware of the fact that there will be more or less doing at that particular time, be it beneficial or detrimental. In the article entitled, "Should Act Now," the writer says in part: "We may get it, but it is left to the Interstate Commerce Commission and I can not help but have some little doubt course through my mind about this eight-hour law." Does not that voice your sentiments in the matter to a nicety? Now, brothers, just so long as we have an Interstate Commerce Commission in the field we have something that will bear watching, and very closely at that. It is for our own interest that we do so. Have you had the idea in your mind for a fraction of a second that the various railroad companies throughout this country are going to sit idly by with their hands folded and await the time to come that they may generously grant the telegraphers of this country an eight-hour day? I should emphatically say no, and again I say no. You may rest assured, dear brothers, that the railroad companies are up and doing at this identical time, for is it not to their interests to resist this measure the same as it is ours to promote it?

In view of the fact that these railroads are to take up the fight to defeat any such measure relative to the granting of an eight-hour day to the telegraphers, and eventually to disregard the law in this matter, I say, that this is not the time to lie idle and dream about this eight-hour day. It may prove to be all one beautiful dream after March 4, 1908, if we do. What we do want is to make this dream a reality by all means and I say to all that if we have a doubt in our minds that this eight-hour law will not be granted to us, we, as a body, will have to get the proverbial wiggle on us from now on and by all means remove the doubt.

Suppose for a moment, if you can, that these companies would grant eight hours for one working day and concede to the law. Will not the tendency be towards a reduction in the wage scale as soon as three men are placed in a position that was formerly held by two? Of course, it will, and while we are working for wages from $50 to $60 per month at the present time, it is hard to say what our monthly pay check would amount to proportionately under an eight-hour day.

Therein lies the danger of this proposed eight-hour day, and the only sure way to clear away the mist is to couple the two together, viz., an eight-hour day and $75 per month for wages and work with all our might towards that common end. As one brother has proposed, let us take one side of the Mississippi River at a time and make them come up to our demands.

In conclusion, let me remark to all who have cherished the idea of an eight-hour day and $75 per month for wages to talk it, eat it and digest it, take it to bed and sleep with it and keep it by you always. Let each member contribute his views on the subject to the President through the columns of THE TELEGRAPHER, then when the time is ripe let a general vote be taken as authority for him to act upon. Let me impress upon you the necessity of beginning early in this matter. Do it now. In order that we may be in readiness for the eventful fourth day of March next year. Begin your part of the campaign at once.

I am in hopes that this article is so bad that it is good, and that it will find its way into the columns of THE TELEGRAPHER and help to get some one else busy. Truly there are other matters that confront us, but none greater nor more serious than these I have just mentioned. We have tried legislation and have succeeded to a remarkable degree, but legislation will not raise our wages, even if it does propose giving us an eight-hour day, and we can not hope for any more help through that channel.

So do not lie there on your back and kick up at the stars any longer, but get out in the field and let them know that you are there with the goods. In other words, get busy for the eight-hour day and $75 per month wages. CERT. 807, DIV. 54.

"CUT OUT THE STUDENTS."

I believe in cutting out the students; raise our pay, create a demand for men, and the O. R. T., when necessary, will furnish good men. The two words, "when necessary," are the ones to use, for when we can see the time and necessity of more men we can when the $75 or $80 minimum is reached call back lots of good men that have left the ranks.

Can the railroads expect men to be running after agencies or telegraph jobs when the wage scale is so low, responsibilities so great, not counting the numerous duties? One of the great opportunities that is before us is to cut out the students, create a demand and as it has been said the demand governs the price of labor. We want to grasp the opportunity. We don't want to let it pass and then moan because the chance to smile is gone. Our chance to smile is coming if we hold out, which I'm sure we will, for we know that unity blended with a grim determination to win has the strength of Gibraltar.

Cut out the students, raise our wage scale and when the grand $80 minimum is reached lots of the old-timers will be falling back into the ranks. It is like the comical recitation, "John Henry, It's Up to You." Now, we are the John Henry, and it's up to us and we want to land things for the benefit of ourselves and Order.

"SCOTTY," CERT. 70, DIV. 123.

GET BUSY.

After reading the different articles in the June TELEGRAPHER I feel moved to express my views on the $75 minimum subject.

We want that $75, don't we? If so, why not go after it? There is no earthly reason why we can't get it, if we go at the matter in the right way. The only way I can see is for Bro. Perham to call for a vote on it, and if the majority are in favor of it let Bro. Perham put it up to the different managements. Even the nons would sign for that, if given the chance. There has been so much talk about that $75 minimum that the railroads must imagine we are cold-footed about asking for it, or else we don't want it. Why can't we vote ourselves $75 a month, as well as for Congress to vote the increase of $2,500 per year in their own salaries? Sure, it's up to us. No railroad management is going to force this $75 on us, and if any of us are troubled with a guilty conscience about accepting such a "munificent" salary, we can easily donate the balance to sweet charity. Let's get together, and try and have this $75 minimum take effect simultaneously with the eight-hour day.

It must afford the railroad officials a good deal of amusement to read our ebullitions on the subject.

The trouble which occurred between the Western Union and its operators lately has been settled satisfactorily to the operators, and they were not so strongly organized as we are, at that. This goes to show that we can make our demands good if we are willing to stand by Bro. Perham. Does any member of the O. R. T. imagine that we would be called on to walk out? Why, if this thing be brought up on all roads, how long would it take the officials to make up their minds that there was something doing? They can't afford to stop traffic altogether, and if this movement were made national, that is what it would amount to.

Get busy.

"CULLY," Div. 100.

ITS BASIS.

An electrical editor of a New York telegraph journal, who is also a veteran telegraph operator, says: "The greater help to rapid progress is to first find out the underlying principles on which an invention is based." With particular reference to Morse telegraphy; it may not be part of the work of the ordinary operator to design or install telegraphic circuits or systems, but we operators employed on railroads have much to do with the actual workings of such circuits and systems.

It would, therefore, seem that some knowledge of its underlying principles is desirable, not only because such knowledge enhances the value of the services rendered our bosses, but puts us more closely in touch with the job.

In order to design a telegraphic circuit, measurements must be taken, that is, units of measurements are used; for instance, the man who sells sugar, uses the pound, or the man who sells cloth uses the yard for units; these units are called practical units of measurement and must necessarily be used in order to handle any commodity.

In telegraph work the practical units of measurement are the ohm, volt and ampere. By practical, it is meant to distinguish them from another system of units, called the fundamental system, and on which the practical system of units is based. The fundamental system of units will not be explained; suffice to state that, in engineering work, all units of measurement are based upon it.

The ohm is called the practical unit of resistance. Resistance is well known as that which opposes or hinders the passage of electricity through a conductor; any substance will admit of electricity passing through it; some allow of an easier passage than others, therefore, there is no non-conductor of electricity, but rather substances of high and low resistance. Many definitions of the ohm are given, but quite a clear one is that it is equal to the resistance or opposition that one mile of pure copper wire about one-quarter of an inch diameter offers to passage of a current of electricity.

In order that a current of electricity can flow through a conductor or substance, there must exist what is known as a difference of potential or electromotive force; that is, one foot may represent the difference of potential between a volume of water at sea level and another raised one foot above sea level. There will then exist a difference of potential between the two quantities of water equal to the force used to raise the water one foot in height against the action of gravity.

It took work; that is, work was done on it to cause this difference of potential to exist, and in return it is capable of doing work.

The practical unit of difference of potential is the volt, or that difference of potential or electromotive force which will cause a current of one ampere to flow against the resistance of one ohm.

The practical unit of electric current is the ampere, which means strength of current, or the amount of electricity that will be driven past any given point in a conductor when the difference of potential or electromotive force is one volt and the resistance one ohm.

Having looked into the practical units of electrical measurements and assuming an ordinary telegraphic circuit, what about the motive power or battery for working the circuit?

The common gravity or blue-stone battery is mostly used in electrical signaling or telegraphic work; the water of this kind of cell causes a violent chemical action between the metals composing it, a continual surging to and fro, and as all force is the result of motion or change of motion, this continual motion in turn gives rise to a difference of potential or electromotive force causing a current of electricity to flow.

The zinc is consumed in the contest between the two metals, or is the fuel for furnishing the motive power.

Before working out a problem in Ohm's law in connection with the telegraphic circuit assumed it will be necessary to say a few words on the relay and its use.

Wherever telegraph lines are run this important piece of telegraphic paraphernalia may be found. Its action, as well as every other electromagnetic signaling device, depends on a very important principle; that is, magnetism is produced by sending a current of electricity through wire wound around a plain piece of iron. This produces magnetism, in turn attracting an armature, working on a spring, which opens and closes a second or local circuit. A very weak current of electricity will produce this relay magnetism, which in turn works the second or local circuit containing as heavy battery as may be desired. Relays are always spoken of as 150 ohms resistance and are standardized at that. Will see how that has been done.

Did you ever remove one of the magnet covers or tubes from your relay coils? What dusty old affairs they usually are! A large number of turns or convolutions of fine wire is wound around the piece of iron in the center.

The cubical contents of the iron, also the number of turns of wire is the result of a careful calculation. For a telegraph line over thirty miles in length it was found impracticable to send a current of electricity through it strong enough to work a sounder, so the relay was substituted as previously stated, because a very weak current will work it.

The resistance of a wire varies directly as its length and inversely as its sectional area; by this is meant that, with a given piece of wire, of certain length, doubling its length will double its resistance, doubling its sectional area will halve its resistance.

From this it is evident that the number of turns of wire in the relay coils, since that varies the resistance, and, therefore, the resistance of the relay coils may be taken as a measure of the number of turns of wire they contain.

It is easy to measure the resistance of a finished relay coil, but not to find out the number of turns or length of wire used.

Having this practical convenience and not because resistance itself is a desirable quantity in a circuit, relays are known as having a certain resistance instead of a certain number of turns, therefore, always designated by its resistance. The 150 ohm standard relay contains 8,640 turns of No. 32 copper wire.

There are two component resistances to all telegraphic circuits; that is, line and instrument resistances.

A telegraph line, say 300 miles in length, having 20 stations or offices connected, using No. 6 iron wire, we have, 300×9.6 equals 2,880 ohms for line resistance, and 20×150 equals 3,000 ohms for instrument resistance, making a total of 5,880 ohms.

How much current required to work the line? Ohm's law states current equals electromotive force or difference of potential divided by resistance. In this problem assume difference of potential of 150 cells of gravity battery; hence, for current, 150 divided by 5,880 equals .026 of an ampere, or 26 mille-amperes, or one ampere divided into 1,000 parts and 26 of these parts taken to work the line. By this formula any two quantities being known, the third can always be found. P. O'BRIEN, DIV. 26.

THE PREDOMINATING ELEMENT.

I feel that the predominating element carries within itself the success or the failure of an enterprise. Every substance that is composed of elements adheres most closely in its nature to the element forming the largest component part. Is this not a statement based on uncontrovertible facts? Will you not furthermore agree with me that the ruling element in any organization is the standard bearer, that causes such an organization to accomplish any end that it may undertake or subdue any common enemy that might rise to deter its progress. You say, so far, very good. Do not your convictions lead you to make the statement with me, that a railway company is an organization composed of elements commonly known as departments? Now suppose the ruling elements in any one of the component departments be weak and unable to face the issues that naturally fall its portion to handle, what results? Not only this department suffers, but the entire organization suffers from the weakness of this department. There is a department in railroad organizations known as the telegraph department and is chiefly composed of telegraph operators, some of whom are very good and some are very sorry. The predominating grade can always be determined by the number of operators employed by such companies who belong and support an organization known as the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. Why do we make the assertion that we can distinguish the quality of the ruling element among the operators by the manner in which they support that organization known as the Order of Railroad Telegraphers? Because it is a self-evident fact is our reason. Who is it that can tell what there is to cherish and inspire the man working 15 to 18 hours out of the 24 for that magnificent salary of $50 per month? It seems to me if the operators can not devise something within themselves to cheer them with the belief that they are going to have a fair deal, the dust of oblivion would cover them into insignificance. The Order of Railroad Telegraphers is fighting for this end, and to the members I would say, hold all the power you now have, and every time possible catch more hold by supporting your Order.

I am yours as one wishing to make the predominating elements of the telegraphic service: Better salary, better service and prosperity to all. B. F. CHEEK.

REVISED PREAMBLE.

We, the people of the O. R. T., in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice by enforcing an eight-hour day and $75 per month minimum salary, in order to insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common wants, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this as an ultimatum to become effective March 4, 1908.

CERT. 177, DIV. 8.

$75 FOR EIGHT HOURS.

In looking through THE TELEGRAPHER for the month of June I see several articles about the eight-hour day and the $75 minimum. I am in favor of the plan started by Cert. 131, E. A. Long, Olean Div. 135. Let our battle cry be "Eight hours and $75 minimum." This can be had if every brother will stand back of it. I move that a circular be put out and take a vote of all members and see how many will stand for eight hours and $75 per month, commencing March 4, 1908, and if enough of them will stand by it (I think all of them should if they do justice to themselves), if necessary call a strike, but it will not be necessary to do so. All members and nons, too, notify their local chairman that on March 4, 1908, they will make the stand for the eight-hour day and the $75 minimum, and not work without it, and they will be surprised to see how quick the railroads will accept it, as the demand for telegraphers is becoming worse and worse every day. Take a look through the papers and see how many advertisements are in there for telegraphers. It will be surprising to some of the boys who are not keeping a look out for the advertisements for operators.

I am not in favor of a strike, but if it comes will stay with it to the end, and I have a family to look out for, but right is right and I think we should have the eight hours and the $75 minimum. We will never get it unless we ask for it.

The railroads are looking for the right kind of men, men that are men and can look out for the company's interest. If they will pay the right kind of wages they will get the right kind of men.

You know as well as I do that if you were getting $75 for eight hours' work you could do your business more pleasantly. This you will have if you will make up your mind to fight for it and not lay back and wait for some one else to do the fighting for you. Come on and do your part; you can do twice as much by saying "come on, boys, and follow me," than saying, "go after it, boys," and laying back yourself. Now, let every member make this his motto, "Come on, boys, and work for the $75 minimum," and not lay back and wait for some one else to do the work while you are asleep. Wake up and put your shoulder to the wheel and push, not drag.

In my opinion this is what is the matter with several of the boys. They are waiting for the other fellow to do the work. We can get the eight hours if you will all pull together, and at the same time on all roads. This will enable us to do more towards our cause, for there will be some men that will not hold with us and if we go at it one road at a time we will be sure to lose, and if we go after them right we will be sure to win. If you have space in your next edition please put this in. CERT. 1013, DIV. 126.

PER CENT.

In reading the write-ups of our worthy brothers regarding the eight-hour day and $75 minimum, I am in favor of making one grand stand on or before March 1, 1908. But let's make it a 25 or 30 per cent increase and cut the $75 minimum out, which would not benefit all telegraphers, and their support we might not get in that case.

Now all pull for a 25 or 30 per cent increase and the eight-hour day for Canada, Mexico and the grand old United States. Let's hear from others.

CERT. 344, DIV. 2.

THE NINE-HOUR LAW.

The national law for railroad telegraphers of the United States goes into effect March 4, 1908.

As the railroads are beating the eight-hour law of the States, the railroad officials claim it is impossible to secure operators, and the State officials will not prosecute them for not complying with the law, and in that case it looks almost impossible to secure our eight-hour schedule, and I think it is up to us next March when it becomes a national law to have every operator and agent in the United States lined up, and when the hours are up on that day if the companies do not comply walk out and stay out until they do.

It would be hard on some of the boys to do this, but it can't be any harder on any one than myself, and I am certainly willing to do this, and I honestly believe this is the only way we will ever get what we are after.

As long as it is only a law and the company has the money to fight it with they will never give up, but in case all operators in the United States will walk out and say "we must have eight hours," then they will have to come across. We are all aware of the fact that the plea "not able to secure operators" is a bluff game. There are plenty of operators who would go to work if we only had the eight hours and a minimum of $75 or $80 per month.

There are operators that are working for lumber companies, traveling for wholesale fruit firms and other occupations which they would gladly quit and go back to hammering brass if they could make a living at it.

Now I think I have said enough on this for the present, but would like to hear from some more of the brothers on this subject. Will try and write some more if I see this in print in our next journal. Now let us all get "25." Yours for the eight hours and the $75 minimum. CERT. 886, DIV. 32.

OUR ATTITUDE.

The progress of opinion, when that of a large body, is necessarily slow. The nation or any considerable part of the nation will not change its belief under the pressure of circumstances, as readily as the individual. This tendency is seen in all labor organizations and the O. R. T. is no exception.

From time to time I have read in our journal an article by some brother, whose ideas are well advanced, which had for its text the lack of attention paid by the members of our Order to the political side of the war between capital and labor. They do not always urge any one party upon the body of the telegraphers as the one to whom our allegiance is due, but seek instead to impress upon us the need of political action to offset the power gained by our opponents in this direction. It is my opinion that this action on our part has been too long neglected and we fail to recognize that the greater weapon we could have is legislation and courts favorable, or at least not prejudiced against us.

If after working for years to organize and perfect our Organization we do not take advantage of the opportunity to insure our success by this means we need not be surprised at the long life of successful opposition to the cause of the laborer. So long as our capitalistic "friends" control courts and legislation we may look for our efforts to be blocked by injunctions and prejudiced decisions. You may answer that the flood of reform has made this a rare occurrence and that this is no time to bring forward such an argument. It is true that the immense volume of reform literature that swept over the country but a short time ago has died down, but the evils still exist.

Look for a moment at the situation on the L. & N. In June, 1906, President Perham brought suit against the L. & N. for an injunction preventing officials interfering with our organizers. The proceedings were delayed by every means possible; the company filed a demurrer in the United States District Court for the Western District of Kentucky alleging that the law under which our Order was proceeding was unconstitutional. This view was upheld by Judge Evans. The same thing happened when proceedings were brought against the officials. It looks as though the court and the Constitution were only conveniences of the corporations. Can we claim that we have the same opportunities before the law that they have? Not if we are sane.

In the June issue of THE TELEGRAPHER writing under the name of "Zealot," one of our Canadian brothers speaks of the Lemieux act. This makes it a crime for miners or railroad employees to strike to settle their differences. And yet yearly we celebrate "Independence Day." We, the mighty laboring class, whom our masters will not treat as men, yet refuse to let us quit. Are we to continue to allow such law-making bodies to assemble and courts to sit when by a proper disposition of our ballots we may change the whole thing? Already by our political influence we have forced such legislation as the nine-hour law. But we must not stop until this stronghold of the money power has been broken down, until instead of being a country ruled by a very few whose power is dollars, we can read the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution and not feel that the work of the past has been in vain. A. H. TURNER.

THE PUMPS.

Having heard from various brothers about the pump question I am right with them in kicking against this unreasonable part of our duty. I suggest that every General Committee from now on that goes before the management to revise their schedules knock this pump down and out on the first round by relieving the agents and operators that are doing this work of it entirely and turn it over to the department to which it belongs, and if impossible to have the companies do that, make one and only one proposition to them, that is either relieve the operators of this or pay them $20 per month for doing this work and get one or the other. I would not care which, and further that this extra pay will not be considered in their monthly salary, as this is entirely extra work imposed upon us and it is high time to get rid of it or get paid for it.

STEAM PUMPER, DIV. 8.

KEEP PULLING TOGETHER.

There are many things about an agent telegrapher's position that are next to unbearable, but one great imposition that is heaped upon us is the carrying of Uncle Sam's mail. It not only takes us out of our offices when it is the most important that we be there, but every trip we make flaunts the idea in our faces that we are being "driven" by a corporation that can easily afford to accept contracts that provide that U. S. transport its own mail. We hear a great deal about block signals as a safety to the traveling public (and the man who works the block is out with a bundle of mail moving towards the post office), and the wonderful "block" is unprotected.

Delivering mail is work that has nothing whatever to do with a telegrapher's position and we should urge all our committees to present the matter to the general managers and have them change their mail contracts if necessary and relieve us of this responsibility. While we receive no compensation from the government it never lets an opportunity pass to charge us up with mail failures and quite often when their own employees are the cause of it, but as we can not gain an audience with that stern executive, the chief, we follow the admonition,

"please remit to my credit," and bid adieu to our hard-earned dollars.

These things would not be quite so bad if we were working under a $75 minimum and an eight-hour day, but these we must strive for and strive hard. Get after the nons. One self-conceited non can do us lots of harm, teaching students and "knocking," etc.: besides, he gulps down what few concessions we gain, and has the nerve to say the company raises his salary on account of "merit." Living expenses have increased 30 to 35 per cent and we received 10 per cent increase in wages and the cream on which we received 10 per cent by express now goes by baggage. It would take a financier to figure out any gain on this deal for the agent telegrapher. I believe the O. R. T. the only remedy, so let us all pull for better things and keep up to date.

CERT. 452, DIV. 76.

LABOR'S BATTLE ROYAL.

Nature starts all her children, rich and poor, physically equal. This, broadly speaking, is the opinion of many leading physicians. If the number of children born healthy and strong is not greater among the well-to-do classes than among the poorest, then it presents to us a very significant fact which completely revolutionizes many notions as to the great disadvantage of being born in the tenement.

What happens to the tenement child after its birth is quite another story. Nature is not responsible for that. She has done her best. If poverty or indifference or ignorance or sin blight her fair work, she stands uncondemned. But nature is not content in accepting a position in which she is simply exonerated. The violation of her law is followed by an unforgiving pursuit, until the full penalty has been inflicted, for with nature there is no forgiveness of sin. And nature makes no class distinctions.

This equality at birth does not long favor the child of the slum and the tenement. Vital statistics quickly prove this statement, for the burden and the penalty of poverty and its accompanying evils fall most heavily upon the child. The lack of proper nourishment, of suitable clothing, of healthy sanitary conditions, make life precarious for the babe who must suffer on account of their absence.

When such a state becomes chronic, the chances for life are exceedingly small. Death's scythe sweeps relentlessly through the ranks of little children, whose cry for food has chilled a thousand mothers' hearts. Then are hushed a thousand babies' voices, who suffered long because there was no skillful hand to nurse, and no healing draught to cure.

There is no battle more royal than the saving of the child. To bring color to the wan cheek, to bring brightness to the dulled eye, to so much as bring a smile to the face that already bears the mark of pain and suffering—this is a task worthy of the best that is in any man.

To organized labor has this work been given. No other mission can ever mean more than this. Strong should be the support given the trades unions in their endeavor to blot out the curse of child labor. And blighted should be every arm that is raised in protest against the warfare which means the salvation of little children from a bondage that is crushing out life and hope.

REV. CHARLES STELZLE.

THIRTY CENTS PER HOUR.

Referring to the eight-hour day and $75 minimum I agree with Cert. 140 in last TELEGRAPHER that we may not be so sure that we will get eight hours March 4, 1908. I only hope we will, and would like to see the $75 minimum, too. I am afraid if we make a concerted demand for $75 March 1, 1908, that the railroads will make a very strong effort to have the Interstate Commerce Commission postpone the date the nine-hour law is to take effect. I think we should instead make a concerted demand for a minimum of 30 cents per hour on March 1, 1908, then if we can get that the railroads could not have the excuse that it would cost them so much more in wages, and if wages were on an hourly basis the railroads would probably not fight the nine-hour law, as it would make no difference then to them whether men work eight hours or twelve, the pay roll would be the same. So I say let us make a stand for 30 cents an hour minimum and do all we can to enforce the law and not allow it to be postponed. Now is the time for us to act and as Bro. E. A. Long suggests, let us each and every one send our letters to our honorable President Perham; tell him to act for us and act at once. And let us decide if we will ask for a $75 minimum or a 30 cents per hour minimum and whichever we decide on let us stick to it and demand it unanimously March 1, 1908.

CERT. 409, Div. 33.

A NON'S VIEWS.

As we sit around on the piazzas on these beautiful spring days, inhaling the sweet fragrance that fills the breath of old mother earth with the sweetest perfume, I can't but think of the days spent roaming over the hills and through the meadows with "Old Rover" as my only companion.

These were the happiest days that I can recall, and I venture to say any of you who have had these experiences will agree with me. Now, when all these have come and gone, when we have no more time to devote to this kind of pleasure, we are out in this world for our mothers, feeble fathers, younger brothers or sisters, or probably some dear old grandfather or grandmother in their old days trying to make them happy as well as ourselves.

We are to be provided for in some way and as many of us have chosen telegraphy as a profession we must look to the railroads, to a great extent, for our support.

Must we, as working men, permit these railroads, which have a yearly net income of 75 per cent of their investments, control and put upon us the responsibility, which is connected with this profession, just as they choose?

No is the only answer that I can see fit to give. I do not think that any man is doing himself justice by standing back and not holding up for what should be his.

The railroads can take most any "rube" and run him over the road two or three trips and make a brakeman, but they can not take a "rube" or any other kind of a man and make an operator of him, even in six or eight months.

Then why is it that operators should not be as well paid for their responsibility, to say nothing of the confinement, as men in other professions who haven't any more responsibility than an operator has, handling thousands of lives and millions of dollars of rolling stock daily?

No, there is no reason whatever for this manner of dealing with professional men with this amount of responsibility. As I have stated above I am not a member of the Order, but if it is possible I am going to have a card and do all the good my assistance is capable of doing for the Order.

D. S. WITTY.

FRATERNAL

Boston Division, No. 89.

Providence Division—

It was one of the largest and most intelligent bunch of telegraphers that ever assembled in Rathbone Hall, Saturday evening, June 1st. We were especially favored by the presence of Bro. Tom Pierson, Second Vice-President; Bro. Manion, General Chairman; Bro. Brady, Chief, Providence Division No. 35, and Bro. Wood, also of Division No. 35. Our committee were all in attendance, which added to the interest manifested throughout the entire evening, speeches by Bros. Pierson and Manion being the chief items of interest. While our local brothers do not possess the oratorical powers of Bro. Pierson, nevertheless they can talk good common horse-sense.

It has come to pass that the local organizers will not hereafter be paid the $2.00 commission, which they have enjoyed through the generosity of Division No. 89 up to and including June 1st, 1907.

In my estimation, inasmuch as Division No. 89 is in a prosperous condition, and being so without the aid of the $2.00 in question, that amount should go towards a sick benefit fund, as advanced by Bro. Fenwick. We have a Sick Committee now on each division, and they will be hampered soon for the want of ready cash to help some deserving brother. As the 25 cents assessment seems to be a failure on some divisions, I am sure it would be here, where assessments of any kind meet with prompt displeasure. Therefore, what could be more prudent than having this $2.00 go toward a fund to help the needy?

Two new members were initiated into our fast-growing division. Four applications were read and accepted.

Commencing the first Saturday in July we will meet in Pilgrim Hall instead of Rathbone Hall, which is too small and also too noisy. Bros. Robbins and Francis took up so much room we had to bring in extra seats. Bro. Robbins had to be introduced. How quickly one is forgotten when he doesn't attend regularly.

After all is said and done, 7½ per cent looks pretty good if you figure it up by the year. Now, I trust this increase won't be detrimental to the past good service rendered by the telegraphers.

Bro. Griffin, West Roxbury nights, creates a vacancy in that charming little tower. What a splendid place to recuperate.

Bros. Finn and Johnson certainly had a pleasant time attending the convention. It is a great satisfaction to know that the candidates that represent us fully appreciate the opportunity afforded them.

COR.

Midland Division—

Everybody is satisfied, so hats off to the General Committee, '07.

Sanitary conditions as per schedule '06 have been installed in "FA" tower.

Bro. Kerivan, of Needham Jct. tower, has resigned account of ill-health. Bro. McLaughlin, of Hampton, bid in the vacancy.

The wood carrier foundations are being replaced with cement at "FB" tower, Readville.

Bro. Butler, of "V" tower, was off several days account of the death of his father, which occurred on May 27th. We all sympathize with Bro. Butler in his bereavement.

Bro. Peterson, of "FB," Readville, has resumed duty after a severe sickness.

It is understood that the switches at "BJ," Bellingham Jct., will be connected with levers, but am unable to state whether this will be tower or cabin.

Bro. Sullivan, of "RX," Woon. Jct., is substituting at Norwood Central in place of Bro. Blasuek, who is doing the same at Needham Sta., while Bro. Burke is sick. I "13" Bro. Burke will go to the hospital. Has the Sick Committee investigated?

Mr. W. F. Cashen, at "U" tower, Norwood Jct., will don the wreath and sounder at the July meeting. Mr. Cashen is working in place of Bro. Hale, who is off.

Would like to hear from the brothers south of Blackstone. Send your notes to Division Cor.

CERT. 226.

Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City Ry.

I have not seen anything from this road for some time, and I think it is time that we were up and doing. I believe this line is about 97 per cent strong.

Acting on a call from our General Chairman for a meeting at Bay Springs, Saturday night, June the 22d, a few of us met for the purpose of electing a General Secretary and Treasurer for Division 80, to fill the unexpired term of Bro. H. C. Hughes, resigned account of bad health.

Bro. J. L. Lester, of Union, Miss., was elected General Secretary and Treasurer, and we feel sure that the books and accounts are in good hands and will be kept up to the standard.

Bro. Cooper, having just returned from the convention, was brim full of good things, and he did not fail to tell us about them, and it is useless to say we enjoyed the treat.

We are going to arrange to hold meetings more frequently, and want every member who can do so to attend, as those who have never been present can not realize the benefit to be gained by getting together and exchanging views.

I am not prepared to give accurately all the changes of late. A man would have to make a station-to-station canvass to enable him to do so.

In all probability by the time you see this in print your General Committee will be in session, and I wish to implore you one and all to stand by the committee to the last. It will need your support in every way, and if the members of the division will uphold this committee as they should, you need have no fear but that you will get a big slice of what is coming to you. We have a new management and while we feel like we will get fair treatment at their hands, it is best to be prepared for any opposition that might be brought to bear, and the best way to prepare is for each member to have an up-to-date card in his possession, and then stand by it, keeping in mind that good service rendered the company is a great weapon in our hands and poor service a much greater one in the hands of the railroad company. If we expect to improve on our present schedule there must be improvement in the service. I am not knocking, but trying in my feeble way to advise you. Get busy and wake up from that long sleep, and do something for the good of the grand old Order that has done so much for you. Who can read the proceedings of the last convention at Minneapolis without throwing his hat in the air and shouting himself hoarse from joy over the encouraging reports from all over this country? If you have not read this, don't close your eyes until you have done so, and when you have read these good reports make a solemn vow that you will be one among the 40,000 who will do all in your power to help the Order and do your duty as you see it.

CERT. 2.

District Laurel to Louisville—

This division, no doubt, has never before appeared in THE TELEGRAPHER, and some of its members will no doubt be surprised, if not all of them, when a few dots from this line appear.

There has been quite a stir among all of our oldest members, which has brought good results, and pictures a brighter future to all members of the grand old O. R. T. if they only hold up their heads and preach unionism to all the nons.

We have very few nons, and hope to get them in line shortly; think we have only three nons on this district and have twenty-one positions filled. Our membership is somewhat scattering, but by working very, very hard, will soon have the entire membership in Division 80.

Our first and present schedule went in effect August the 1st, 1906, which was welcomed by all, as it provided better salaries and overtime, where we had been working both night and day for a smaller sum. We anticipate a revised schedule at an early date, which will be an improvement on our present one, and we ask each and every one of the brothers to lend us all the assistance possible that we may be greatly benefited by it.

On this division we have twenty-one positions, nineteen of which are occupied by members.

We have a hustling General Chairman in the person of Bro. Cooper. If we all stick to him success will certainly be the result. Our division is divided into three districts, and by faithful service on the part of the three local chairmen, things ought to pick up and get us nearer the long-sought-for eight-hour day, which will certainly present itself in the near future.

Well, boys, this being my first, will make brevity my aim, and try and have a word left for another time. Let us hear from the other two districts and try and have something in each issue of THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER.

Yours for something better,

Indianapolis Division, No. 27.

The members of this division were shocked to learn of the death of the wife of our beloved Secretary and Treasurer, Bro. E. C. Thompson, which occurred in Chicago on June 29th while they were just starting out on their honeymoon. Bro. Thompson was married on the evening of June 19th to Miss Bertha Worsham, a beautiful and accomplished young lady of Indianapolis, and they left that evening enroute to Valley, Wash., where they were to spend their honeymoon, stopping at Chicago enroute. Shortly after their arrival in Chicago, Mrs. Thompson was taken sick, but apparently was convalescent when arrangements were made to continue the trip, but suddenly a turn for the worse took place, and Mrs. Thompson passed to the great beyond at 12:25 a. m. on the 29th, and our good Secretary and Treasurer returned here with the remains for burial.

This is one of the saddest cases that it has ever been the duty of your correspondent to chronicle. On the evening of the 19th this young couple departed for a honeymoon in the highest of spirits and with the congratulations and good wishes of their thousands of friends ringing in their ears. Ten days later a great transformation had taken place. One of the contracting parties of what was a happy couple was still in death. The other was plunged into the deepest of gloom through the untimely death of his beloved helpmeet. Anticipations of a happy journey through life were suddenly shattered, and our bereaved Brother has but one consolation in his great and sudden affliction, and that is the knowledge that her noble and pure life has been rewarded and that her soul is resting in that heavenly abode that is free from worldly cares and afflictions. The members of Division No. 27 extend to Bro. Thompson our most sincere sympathy in this his hour of great bereavement.

While in Chicago Bro. Thompson was rendered every assistance possible by the members of the Order of that city, and was accompanied to Indianapolis by Bro. W. F. McDonald. The members in Chicago placed a beautiful wreath on the coffin after the body had been prepared for shipment.

The members of Division No. 27 placed a beautiful pillow-shaped floral design upon the coffin after its arrival in Indianapolis, and members of other railroad brotherhoods sent a beautiful floral harp.

Div. Com.

A CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my most heartfelt thanks for the treatment accorded me by the members of the different divisions and fraternities of Chicago and Indianapolis during my late great bereavement; also for the beautiful flowers sent. Although my beloved wife could not see them on earth, she was looking at them from heaven, for a purer, sweeter, more Christian-like girl never lived. My only consolation is that she died so peacefully that I knew that He who giveth also taketh away, and He has her soul and I will try and meet her when it is my time to go.

Yours fraternally,

E. C. THOMPSON.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 4, 1907.

Georgia, Southern & Florida Ry.

Here is something new to every reader of the journal, a write-up from the Ga. Sou. Ry. It is with no little degree of pleasure that we announce to the great throng of O. R. T. brothers that we have joined them to help move the numerous burdens which have so long been upon the shoulders of the telegraphers.

No one appreciates and loves the teachings of O. R. T.-ism, better than the writer, and I wish that I could get all the "cold-footed nons" to thinking as the writer has thought for ten long years; telegraphing would then be a source of pleasure instead of a drudgery.

Notwithstanding the fact that we have been handicapped by the "nons swinging to our coat-tail with one hand and the other deep down in our jeans, pulling the coin from us obtained by our committees," we have gradually gone from $25 per to $65, and even more. Now, Mr. Non, where were you while these raises were being obtained? How much have you put in the contribution box to defray the expenses of the various committees on different railways? You were at your place of business enjoying the anticipations of that "great promotion" that some petty official had promised you in future days, provided you would stay out of the O. R. T. Have you ever secured the position? No. Have you had a raise since you have been at your present position? Yes. Did you get it before the O. R. T.'s sent their committee up before the officials? No. Didn't you work from 7 a. m. until 7 the next a. m., if necessary, without any compensation for same? Yea. Do you do this now since the brothers next to you had enough backbone and manhood enough about them to come into the O. R. T. ark of safety, pull the money from his purse and say, "Send a committee up before the officials and save me from these long hours of toil and low wages." Did you pull any coin from your purse? Not a blooming cent. I know that you have long ago murdered your conscience, and you should erect a monument on the spot where you buried it, and then bury yourself on the opposite side and let the grass and weeds forever cover your last resting place from view of your fellow craftsman.

I may be just a little severe in dealing with the non, but as the old adage goes, "There is no one so blind as those who will not see," it is necessary to hit you with a big stick that you may see your evil ways and depart from them.

If there is any way to get you to dig up your buried conscience and hunt up our Secretary and Treasurer and procure a card, I am going to do it.

Another thing I wish to call attention to: If you run a "ham factory," for goodness sake experience a change of heart, and show your sincerity by getting rid of the "ham" you have in your spacious office with a three-pound stick of dynamite in his sleeve, which will sooner or later put you out of business.

I am glad to note that there is not a "ham factory" on the Ga. Sou. Ry. Please keep this remarkable record up. If every telegrapher in the United States would adopt this plan on all railroads and commercial offices, we would soon wear diamonds and be respected. But that little "if" always gets in its work in due time and despoils that which bids to be fair. Don't get it into your head that you are under such obligations to some one that you owe to him the telegraph profession as a compensation. We all have friends, but I have never yet had one so dear that I felt like furnishing him a knife with which to cut my throat. Whenever it occurs to you that it is a part of your business to teach telegraphy to some good friend, stop and ask yourself this question: what if every telegrapher would teach some "good friend" at the same time I am teaching mine, and figure the results. The country would be flooded with telegraphers, which would mean longer hours, less pay, etc.

I was working during the days when the superintendents use to give us the "horse laugh" in the days when the country was flooded with men, and the cause of this over-production was that every telegrapher on the "pike" had from two to three "hams" in his office, teaching them his "lucrative" profession. In those balmy days I was holding a position at twenty-five dollars per month. That same job now pays $72.50, with no more work or responsibility either. I would feel embarrassed to acknowledge that I held down this $25 job did I not know that there were others who did the same thing. I asked the superintendent for more money. With all the dignity of a lord he informed me that he could not increase my salary, and if I was dissatisfied he would arrange to relieve me, as he could get plenty telegraphers at the price he was paying me, which, I am sorry to admit, was the truth. Where are they today? Some have passed to the distant beyond, but the greater portion of them are with us today engaged in other vocations more profitable than telegraphing at the present scale of wages. How many of these old-timers have you heard remark that they had rather follow telegraphy than anything else for a livelihood, and if the profession ever reached the plane where it belonged, they intended to return to the key?

We have many things to do in order to reach that coveted $75 minimum, and one of the most important is to cease teaching students. Talk alone will never do it. As long as members of the craft are too indolent to attend to their duties and have students stuck up in their offices pretending to do the work, advancement will necessarily be slow. Show me the man with his office full of students, and I will show you a man too lazy to say "Sooy" if the hogs were after him.

Don't get it in your head that because we have secured a small raise in the past year or so that we have all that is coming to us. The work is not yet complete by half. We have great things to accomplish; gigantic loads to cast from our shoulders, loads that have been borne for years. These obstructions must and will be eliminated in course of time, but it is going to take strength and perseverance. Get after the man next to you and induce him to forward his application to the local chairman.

All who made excuses and failed to attend the meeting at Tifton on June 9th, beyond a doubt missed quite a treat. Bros. Baker, Hamilton and O'Quin made all arrangements, and the first meeting of the Ga. Sou. boys, as well as members from the A. C. L. and A. B. & A., who joined us, was a grand success, and those who attended wish to congratulate these brothers for the manner in which the meeting was conducted. By request one of the brothers at Tifton extended our hearty thanks to the hotel manager for courtesies shown us while his guests.

The meeting was called to order by our General Secretary and Treasurer, the General Chairman being absent.

It was moved, seconded and carried that Bro. L. D. Hamilton, of Tifton, be elected acting General Chairman for the division in addition to serving as local chairman, Lenox to St. George inclusive, to succeed Bro. T. L. Argo, suspended.

The brothers on that division should congratulate themselves in securing the services of Bro. Hamilton as chairman, as he is an enthusiastic worker.

Tifton being a central point with trains running to suit all on the division, it was selected as a permanent place of meeting.

It was decided to hold a monthly meeting at Tifton every third (3d) Sunday.

We regret that Bro. Wellons was not present at our meeting, and also that he tendered his resignation as local chairman of Palatka Division. He gave as his reason for resigning that the agency work at Sparks was not enough to cook 'taters, and he did not have ample time to devote to the duties of local chairman. His resignation was not accepted, however, and we are looking for him to attend our next meeting and bring a string of applications from that neck of the woods, should there be any nons down your way.

It was decided that the A. C. L. Division No. 132 be extended an invitation to meet with us at Tifton every third Sunday.

The General Secretary and Treasurer was ordered to pay the expenses and lost time of Bros. Watson and Wellons for services rendered while serving on the General Committee in Macon, April 13th and 14th and May 7th and 8th, while securing a schedule on G., S. & F. Ry. It was decided that the expenses of the meetings held at Tifton each third Sunday be paid out of the local treasury.

Bro. K. P. Baker has resigned and left the service to accept a more lucrative position with the First National Bank of Tifton. We regret that Bro. Baker is leaving the service, but glad to know that he has found a more pleasant and lucrative position. He informs us that he will continue to carry a card in his "jeans." He has the best wishes of the division.

Congratulations were extended Bros. Watson and Wellons for the admirable manner in which they served on the General Committee.

The meeting adjourned until the 3d Sunday in July.

Several new members were taken in and several transferred to this division.

Bro. Paul Griffin we "13" is doing the heavy at Birmingham.

Bro. Laure has left for parts unknown.

Bro. Jno. T. Ashton, from Unadilla, transferred to St. George.

Bro. R. R. Hays, from nights Unadilla to days at Ashburn.

Bro. Whitehead, from days at "UD," Cordele, to days Vienna.

Bro. O. H. Mahone, from days at Ashburn to nights at Unadilla.

Bro. K. P. Baker resigned "HO," Tifton, to accept position in Bank of Tifton, Bro. Harrold, from A. C. L. Division 132, taking Bro. Baker's place at Tifton.

I wish to call each and every member's attention to the importance of attending meetings. Don't think because you have paid up your dues and secured a card that you have done your part, and that is all there is to it. These meetings are called and held for the purpose of transacting business pertaining to our organization, and unless we all turn out and express and exchange views, some might be displeased with actions taken on important matters. We need your presence.
"Rad."

Y. & M. V. Lines.

Vicksburg Division—

Our meeting at Leland on Sunday, June 9th, was not very largely attended, but those present can best tell whether or not it was a success. The meeting was called to order at seven o'clock sharp, with Bro. R. P. Walt in the chair. The time being short all hands agreed to let Bro.

Walt have the floor. Among the things he talked about were the convention at Minneapolis, which he attended, and our new wage scale and working conditions.

Our new schedule went into effect May 1st, and is usually conceded to be the best thing in its line to be found "east of the river."

A good many handsome increases were granted the boys and the working conditions were wonderfully improved.

The "standard watch" for telegraphers is now a thing of the past; the general manager decided that he could furnish clocks cheaper than he could pay the boys rent for their watches.

The overtime rating on the Riverside District is now the same as it has been on the main line all along.

There was one clause, however, in our proposed contract that the general manager ran his blue pencil through good and hard, and that was the one asking for half-holiday on Sunday. We didn't get it. Our watchword now must be, "Not yet, but soon."

Before the meeting adjourned Bro. Walt tendered a vote of thanks to Bro. West, of Leland, for the refreshments.

Owing to the absence of Bro. D. F. Callaway, who had a bunch of important correspondence, some of the routine business had to be postponed until the next meeting.

O. T. Aycock, our popular lineman, has done the right thing, and may now be seen wearing the green and the gold. Needless to say it is wonderfully becoming.

Mrs. Crews, at Wilczinski, has signified his willingness to join, and it is expected that his application will be passed on at the next meeting.

It is also up to Mr. Sparks, at Beulah. He received a straight five-dollar raise and an increase in overtime rating.

Bro. H. S. Hennington, for some time past agent at Percy, has resigned and gone west for his health. "HS" has many friends here, who sincerely trust that the western climate will completely restore his lost health.

Mr. Goff, new man at Shaws, has promised to sign up as soon as the ghost walks. He is relieving Bro. Hooker, who is taking a sixty-day vacation.

Bro. H. Jones, from the Memphis Division, is at present working Leland nights, this made possible by Bro. West's resignation from the day position and Bro. Campbell's promotion to same.

New man at Cleveland nights. If he isn't there with the goods Bros. Harper and Walt will see to it, don't worry.

Bro. H. Harrison, agent at Avon, was off for a few weeks recently account being called home to the bedside of his father, who, we learn, died. Bro. Harrison has the sympathy of the entire division in his bereavement.

Bro. B. B. Kinard, for some years agent at Rosedale, has resigned to accept employment with the M., J. & K. C. at Laurel, Miss. He was relieved at Rosedale by Bro. S. L. Owen.

Bro. D. Staples, the popular agent at Boyle, is off for a week or two account sickness; relief agent Callaway is holding the job down for the present.

It is with the greatest of pleasure that I make known to you all the fact that the company's attempt to place ten students on the Vicksburg Division met with "glorious defeat."

They have students at the following places: Elizabeth, Rosedale, Hollandale and Longwood, the latter place being a non-telegraph office and the agent not a telegrapher! We understand the agent and his student have a local fixed up and are learning fast.

The ones at Hollandale, Elizabeth and Rosedale are of the old quota, four in number, and its a dead cinch that the ones at Hollandale and Rosedale will never become telegraphers.

The Memphis Business College sent one down who held a diploma that he could take forty-seven words a minute! He was too swift and was promptly sent back.

The student business will never thrive on this division of this road, and it wouldn't be at all surprising to see the one or two that we now have done away with.

I was very sorry indeed that I failed to get any notes in the last issue of THE TELEGRAPHER. The failure was caused principally by my putting the matter off from day to day until I had finally forgotten it. I have my mill in good shape now, however, and will endeavor to get notes in every month. When you don't see our flag hoisted in the columns of THE TELEGRAPHER it is no sign that unionism is on the wane down here, because we are doing a lot of the "good, silent work," and that is the kind that counts.

With one more parting shot, I will close:

Pay your dues promptly; attend meetings regularly and don't be afraid to let it be known when you have a grievance.

Don't be afraid that the superintendent will "get it in for you." We are prepared to handle all grievances and usually succeed in adjusting all of them. If there is anything wrong, or if you desire to get rid of that student, just drop a line to Bro. Walt at Cleveland, and he will do the rest.

Div. Cor.

C. & N. W. Ry.

Dakota Division—

Was you at the Brookings meeting? If you were not you sure missed a swell time. Had to get the opera house to hold them all. Two special trains, one from the north and one from the west. Both trains loaded full to capacity. This train service was furnished by Mr. Goodykoontz and the dinner at Hotel Leon was on Mr. Moulton. Every one had a fine time and there was no dissenting vote when resolutions were passed thanking the officials for what they had done to make a pleasant time for us all.

The next meeting will be at Pierre, date to be announced later.

Meeting was called to order by Secretary Tyner at 3 p. m., delay being caused by dinner. Roll was called, each representative saying a few words in regard to how things were running. Right here we want to say that conditions on this division are better than on any other on the system, as out of all those called not one had a kick to register. Isn't that a fine reputation for a division to have?

Mr. Goodykoontz was next on the carpet and he was ready with a talk of good proportions. Block system, Western Union business reports and more things than we can think of now. He received a hearty applause. Now, boys, do the square thing always by Mr. Goodykoontz and you will never regret it. Since he has been on the division the telegraphers and agents have received more favors than at any time past in the history of the division.

Trick Dispatchers Davenport, Kelly, Jones and Hazen were on deck, but did not have much to say. Mr. Davenport spoke of the pleasure of having the opportunity of meeting so many that he would otherwise know only on the wire. Mr. Kelly complimented the larger stations. He says that they answer calls quicker than the smaller jobs.

Mr. Jones, agent at Huron, was in attendance, but did not have anything to offer; would rather listen.

We are not going to attempt to name those who were present at the meeting, as it would be too much like reading the list of agents.

Get after that Western Union wire. Huron now is starting in to call all offices who have business which had not been taken care of and notify them so that it will not be longer delayed. Do not get sore, as the idea is to reduce the number of claims for delayed business and increase the efficiency of the service.

All try and come to the meeting at Pierre. Your presence is very much desired. An auxiliary to the O. R. T. on this division is the Agents' Association, which was organized at Brookings with Bro. H. D. Harrington as president and Bro. H. A. Stimson, of De Smet, as secretary. We will hold joint meetings, which will not require meeting so often. If you are asked to write a paper for the meeting do your best and do not pass it up for some one else.

Bro. Ford, of Lake Preston, read a very fine paper on "Over and Shorts and Bad Order," which was listened to with pleasure.

A stenographer was employed to take down the record of the meeting, but thus far he has failed to send in his transcription.

Bro. Boughner, of Garvin, will leave for the Pacific coast as soon as relieved.

Bro. E. Erickson, at Verdi, was taken very sick June 24th, and was obliged to close that station until he was able to go to work.

Bro. A. W. Tyner, of Elkton, spent Sunday, the 9th of June, in the Twin Cities.

Bro. E. A. Nohlgreen, of Estelline, went to St. Paul the 9th of June to see his wife who was sick in one of the hospitals there. He reports an improvement, for which we are very glad.

Bro. T. A. Yates, of Astoria, also was in the Twin Cities the 9th of June.

Bro. Wilson, of Esmond, relieved Bro. Bager, at Wolsey, for a couple of weeks. Wilson says that they need a helper at Wolsey.

Sioux City Division—

Banquet at Sioux City, Iowa, June 16, 1907. There may be some dead ones on this division, but to be at Sioux City at our O. R. T. banquet, which was held at the West Hotel, you would not have thought so. The Merville Line has always been noted for slow ones who in the time of need to make a good showing were very slow. There was only the ones who you can always depend upon when the O. R. T. has anything doing at all.

On the Onawa Line every man from Stanhope to Wall Lake was there with his wife or some one else's wife, except Bro. Sands, of Stratford, but he was away visiting or no doubt he also would have been present. From Wall Lake to Onawa, only the men at Battle Creek, Arthur and Turin did not attend. But on the whole, we surely had a fine time.

We were served a six-course dinner, which was enjoyed by all and highly complimented Mr. and Mrs. Donahue, proprietors of the West. After dinner toasts were in order, Local Chairman Bro. I. B. Haymond, of Ida Grove, being toastmaster. He made a few remarks about the arrangements he had made with the weather man, who had gone entirely against instructions, and asked Supt. S. H. Brown to see that he got the G. B. at once, which Mr. Brown said would be done on account of having such a warm day.

Bro. Haymond next called on Bro. G. A. Swanstrom, of Dayton, Iowa, for a toast on "Why We Are Here," and when he got through we all knew why we were there, as you may always expect something pretty good from Swanstrom.

Next man called on was Bro. T. W. McClanahan, of Mapleton, Iowa, who gave a toast on "Our Guests."

We were to have Superintendent of Telegraph of C. & N. W. Ry., G. W. Dailey, of Chicago, Ill., give a toast on "The Lessons of the Day," but owing to a meeting of the officers in Chicago, Ill., he could not attend, but sent a letter which he requested read, which request was complied with by Bro. L. E. Nokes, of Lake City.

Next man called was our worthy division superintendent, S. H. Brown, who always has about three stories to go with what he has to say and they are always good ones, too.

The next called was C. T. Boone, trainmaster of Sioux City Division, who said that every time he was called on to say anything he always had to follow Mr. Brown and when he (Mr. Brown) got through the ground was entirely covered.

Next called was Chief Train Dispatcher C. J. Smith, who spoke on "What I think," and he gave a very nice talk.

The next man to have his say was General Chairman Jas. Troy, but owing to going to sleep on duty, let No. 25 run by Jewell Junction and could not get there. He was to talk on "What We Are Doing." Every one present I think was sorry to miss his talk, as he always has something that interests everyone. There were sixty-five present at the banquet. At each plate was a red souvenir of the occasion with the program and menu printed on same.

Mr. M. G. Feltus, agent at Correctionville, is again back to work after watching his claim for the last few months. He was relieved by Bro. Hunsaker, who went to Whiting to relieve Mr. E. Westerman, who goes to work at Sioux City, "UD" office days.

Bro. F. H. Baker, agent at Merville, is trying to get a lay off, but one man went there to relieve him, but said it didn't look good to him, so Baker is still waiting. It's funny they won't let a fellow off when he wants to get tied up.

Bro. Treloar is laying off at Onawa, being relieved by Bro. Christopherson.

Night Telegrapher French, from Sloan, is spending a few days in the freight house at Onawa assisting Cashier Thomason in straightening the freight books, and also rustling freight and baggage.

Mr. Nicholson, from River Sioux, relieved French at Sloan, closing River Sioux nights.

Bro. Thorpe, of Mapleton, is still after a lay off with very poor prospects of getting it.

Our worthy Chief Train Dispatcher Mr. C. J. Smith has been relieved by Mr. C. M. St. Clair, who comes to us from the Wisconsin Division. Have not heard what Mr. Smith is going to do, but hope he will get something better.

M. J. Shortell, formerly Bro. Shortell, of Mapleton, who has been farming for the past three years in the vicinity, has accepted a position as lightning slinger for the C. M. & St. P. Mike, no doubt, will get in line again as soon as he gets settled.

Am indebted to Bros. Thorpe, Christopherson and T. M. Noe for information this month. I asked several of the other brothers to contribute their mite, but did not hear from them.

Next regular meeting at Sioux City, July 14th. Everybody come.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Chas. M. Shaw, cashier at Wall Lake, to Miss Lz Ohl on June 10th. They have the congratulations of a host of friends. C. R. T. 231.

Madison Division—

Brothers, is it not a great pleasure to see so many new faces at our meetings? Take our last meeting June 8th, for instance; there were several there, also a visiting brother, E. C. Hunley, from Gorgan, Minn.

Every month I receive items and letters from different brothers, saying they could not be present and were very much disappointed because of their inability to attend. The many brothers who turned out to this last meeting enjoyed listening to Bro. L. F. Schneider, who gave us much information about the doings at the convention.

It is planned to invite Mr. G. W. Dailey, Superintendent of Telegraph, Chicago; Mr. P. J. O'Brien, Superintendent; Mr. A. F. Reiner, Assistant Superintendent; Mr. J. W. Layden, Trainmaster; Mr. H. D. Schooff, Chief Train Dispatcher, and as many of the gentlemen in the dispatcher's office at Baraboo as can get away; also our General Chairman, Bro. Jas. Troy, to attend our next meeting, which will be held in the near future.

A few lines about membership. A good member is one who pays his assessments and dues promptly; He makes it his practice to pay early so as to be sure of being on the safe side. Now, we have four members on the Madison Division who have not paid the special assessment. They have until June 30th to square up. We also have three members who have not paid special assessment or semi-annual dues. These dues were payable January 1st. One of these members receives $20 per month, or $240 per year; his dues are $15. The others receive from $5 and upward per month; their dues also are $15, including special assessment, and as all but one has worked from between nine and twenty-five years for this company there is no need of mentioning the many other concessions the O. R. T. has secured for them. What can their excuse be for not remitting? Can Bro. White, who at all times extols the older agents, tell us why they who get $65 per month and upward, are not as able to pay their dues as the poor night men or tower telegraphers who get but $52.50 per month?

Personally, I know these persons to be good men. Now it is up to them to pay up and thereby become good members. Yet, brothers, it takes more than that to become good members. You must be faithful and regular in attending our meetings; do not be satisfied to leave the business in the hands of those who must be there, but remember it is also your business to be there to do your part in encouraging the officers and members in their work for the Order.

You should always be willing to do your full share of the work and do not be afraid of doing too much. At suitable times and occasions speak a good word for the Order. Do not be a knocker, and attribute selfish motives to everyone who differs with your ideas in doing business, but give them credit of being as unselfish in their aims and as honest in their intentions as you are. Keep everlastingly after worthy nons. Remember your obligation and try to live up to it. Give the company the best service; be polite to the public. Honor the men in the Wisconsin Legislature who did their best to give us the eight-hour law. Then and not until then, may you consider yourself a good member.

With good members our committee will be able to accomplish the work that is before them when they go in for another conference with our officials.

You may now add P. F. Eberts, Leyden; L. G. Abts, Oregon; M. M. Zeches, Mendota, to your list of members. They have become such since the last write-up.

Should any member become delinquent their names will appear in our column hereafter. We hope you may never see yours there.

This is the last week of this session of the Wisconsin Legislature. The eight-hour day bill is now in the hands of the Senate's Committee on Transportation, who will report for final passage this week.

Our former correspondent, Bro. J. E. Warner, shows that he sympathizes with your correspondent and he does it in a way we appreciate very much, viz., with a big bunch of items.

C. J. Stephens, the hard-working brother from Lake Mills, has taken the Waukesha day job on bulletin. Bro. A. G. Elsner is holding down Lake Mills days till it is bulletined.

Bro. C. C. Hinners, who was at Lake Mills a few days, is back at the owl job as handy man in dispatcher's office, Baraboo.

Bro. H. L. Reeves, agent at Waunakee, was relieved a few days by T. J. Tracy. Tracy's job at Kendalls days is now being held by Bro. J. E. Dalbier, with Bro. M. Hendrickson nights.

Mr. F. C. Willey, the genial agent at Reedsburg, is again smiling behind the ticket window after several weeks' vacation.

D. R. Roach is relieving Bro. White at Deerfield, a few days.

Bro. Pat Keffe spent a day or two at Trempealeau, his home.

Bro. M. H. Keffe is holding down the seat in "BY" office, Baraboo, while Bro. Hinners is in the general office.

Bro. D. C. Babcock has been relieving W. F. Copeland, the agent and grief juggler at Jefferson Junction for a few weeks, while Cope has been enjoying a siege of "under-the-weatheriness."

T. J. Tracy is relieving Bro. T. L. Peck, agent at Dodgeville. We understand Bro. Peck intends taking an extended vacation. This breaks up the reputation of the west end for being solid, as Mr. Tracy does not carry a card. We hope the brothers on the west end will convince him of his error and that he will be properly equipped in the near future.

We notice Bro. W. C. Swart's name among the list of changes on the Wyoming & N. W. Ry. of recent date. He was acting agent at Landers and is now agent at Walton, Wyo., and has living rooms in the depot. He writes these rooms are all oil finished and fixed in fine shape. He likes it first rate and sends his regards to the brothers on the Madison Division.

Bro. Walter Sullivan is also doing well out in that country.

Bro. Sidney J. Kelts, who has been working extra in the general office, on the quad and on the tracer jobs, turned in his papers a few days since, and has departed for the West.

Mr. M. E. Patterson, first trick south end, was off several days attending the convention of the I. O. O. F. at Superior. He reports an enjoyable time.

Bro. E. W. White, of Deerfield, and Bro. W. E. Sparling, of Trempealeau, attended the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. at Milwaukee recently.

The personnel of the dispatcher's office at Baraboo has been undergoing a few slight changes. Our genial night chief, C. M. St. Clair, has been appointed chief on the Soo City Division, with headquarters at Sioux City. We dislike to see Charles go, but are all glad to see him getting his dues in the way of a well-earned promotion. Alfred R. Pelnar, who has been acting night chief, will assume these duties regularly, and John N. Hull, Jr., will be the night chief during the vacation period. All good fellows, who deserve to get there with both hands and feet.

Dispatchers Patterson and De Sautelle were in line for promotion, but passed it up. This leaves Robt. Risley, first trick days north end; Bro. Ed Boehm, second trick, and E. P. Wright, third trick north end regularly. Bro. H. R. Koch is holding down the west end at present with plenty of work trains moving. He is doing good work.

Bro. Frank L. Crevits, the cross line dispatcher, who has been at home sick for some time, is not progressing as fast as his friends desire, but expects to be able to resume work before long.

Bro. F. Carn, agent at Magnolia, is off for a couple of weeks visiting relatives in Iowa and Dakota. D. R. Roach is relieving him.

Bro. W. H. Hansen was on the sick list for several days, Bro. M. Hendrickson doing the work at Evansville nights meanwhile.

Bro. L. M. Burt, agent at Brooklyn, was off for a short time resting up. Bro. M. Hendrickson relieved him.

Bro. C. H. Bennett, West Allis days, enjoyed a trip at Lancaster one Sunday lately.

Bro. C. P. Kellogg, Sr., agent at Calhoun, has been on the sick list for some time. Telegrapher A. E. Johnson, who we understand hails from Oregon, relieved him. Bro. Kellogg is now much improved and able to be at work again.

Bro. R. D. Wood has resumed duty as agent at Merrimac after a month's vacation. Bro. F. H. Main, who relieved him, went to Dane for a few nights and from there to Monona Yard, "FR," to relieve Bro. C. O. Butler, who is taking in the Jamestown Exposition. Telegrapher S. W. Hannum is now in charge of Dane nights. He will be with us as soon as he passes the age qualifications.

Bro. J. Roberts, agent at Lodi, is taking a vacation and contemplates taking a trip to England. Bro. R. W. Irwin is acting agent during his absence, with Bro. Chas. McIntosh as day telegrapher, who was relieved nights by Telegrapher A. J. Duprey.

We were very sorry to hear of the demise of Conductor John McIntyre, Chairman of B. of R. T., who died at his home in Baraboo June 19th. The C. & N. W. Ry. loses a faithful employee and the B. of R. T. a faithful member, as he was a good union man and fair to all. Schneider Lodge, Div. 76, O. R. T., sent a floral offering and extends sympathy to his family.

Bro. Barnhart, Caledonia nights, worked a month for the I. C. Ry. on Dubuque Division and reports them very short of operators.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Bro. J. A. Richardson's sister. She was a daughter of Mr.

James Richardson, who has been flagman at Caledonia for many years. We extend to Mr. Richardson and family our sincere sympathy.

Bro. Corcoran relieved Bro. Richardson one night at Caledonia. They closed Tower "EA" that night on account of no extra telegrapher.

Bro. A. G. Thomas, tower "EA" days, is laying off to get the kinks out of his legs. Telegrapher Duprey relieving him.

Bro. Friesleben, from Norwalk nights, acted as agent at Trempealeau for a few days while Bro. Sparling was at Milwaukee improving his knowledge in the beautiful teachings of Masonry.

A. J. Duprey enjoyed changing off with Bro. Brandt while Bro. Friesleben was away.

There was a large crowd at Ablemans June 13th on account of Woodmen picnic and three extra passenger trains were run between Baraboo and Elroy to handle the passengers. All reported a good time.

The Sauk County farmers enjoyed a trip to Madison, where they visited the State University. It took three extra passenger trains.

Another excursion coming off from the west end, that is Galena to Madison, took in the sights at Devil's Lake the 19th.

Just as we were about to send in these items we learn that Bro. H. R. Koch is holding down the third trick north end, and Bro. V. R. Harding the west end trick, with Bro. C. C. Hinners on the tracers job.

Bro. F. L. Crivits is reported to be a very sick man. This we are truly sorry to hear and we wish him a speedy recovery. Frank was getting nicely started in dispatcher's office.

Bro. C. B. Adams is enjoying a trip south. When he returns, I "13," he will resume work on this division.

Bro. J. A. Barnes, at tower "PD," was called to Milwaukee Sunday, June 23d, where his mother is critically ill. We hope for the best.

Do not forget to pay your dues.

Div. Cor.

Wisconsin Division—

Our Waukegan meeting June 22d, was fairly attended from north, south and west. There may have been a few missing who could have been there, and if such was the case they were the losers.

Bro. Paull, agent at Hebron, took a few days' vacation; relieved by Telegrapher Bruneau.

Day telegrapher at Bain Junction tower, day and night men at Cary, promise to be with us this month, and day man at Genoa Junction tower expects to join July 1st. Evidently the boys are slowly but surely learning to know a good thing when they see it.

R. D. Stone, day man at Janesville passenger station, has filled out papers, and by the time you read this will be a full fledged brother.

W. Waite, night operator at Janesville passenger station; W. Bradley, days at Clinton Junction, and G. W. Dowie, days at Sharon, have all made good and joined our ranks. We cordially welcome our new brothers. This leaves one poor little lonesome non between Janesville and Harvard, who faithfully promised Bro. Bitz that he would join us. Up to this date he has remained on the outside of the fence and shows no inclination whatever to help support the organization that secured for him $120 per year, besides his meal hour every night, which amounts to about $7 per month, making him a total of about $200 per year. It is needless to mention his name, as we all know to whom I refer.

Bro. E. H. Woodbury, nights at Shopiere, relieved the agent at Alden recently.

Bro. Bingham, days at Janesville yard, took his summer vacation, being relieved by Bro. Woodbury on his return from Alden.

Bro. Bixby, days at Shopiere, was next in line for a rest, and Bro. Woodbury wore the agent's cap for a few days upon Bro. Bingham's return.

Bro. Raymond, extra telegrapher, held Shopiere nights, while Bro. Woodbury did the relief stunt.

The work on the new yard at South Janesville is progressing finely. Two work trains between Janesville Yard and Shopiere, on single track, with two intermediate sidings and telephone connections, keep Bro. Bingham from getting lonely.

Bro. Woodbury has returned to Shopiere nights, displacing Bro. Raymond, who went to Des Plaines nights, for a short time.

Mr. C. H. Baer, of Rogers Park, is relieving Agent Murphy at Summerdale.

Our jolly brother C. F. O'Connor, of Kenilworth, has been putting in some time on a position not scheduled, namely, jury service. He lived through it all right and has returned to his station.

We are glad to see the happy face of our old timer, Bro. Anhalt, at his position at Highland Park days.

On Wednesday evening, June 5th, at the bride's home, occurred the marriage of Bro. C. A. Nelson, of Evanston, and Miss Francis Houston, of Chicago. Bro. Wightman, of Evanston, acting as best man, and Miss Mayme Adams, of Chicago, as bridesmaid gracefully assisted the happy couple to the altar to receive their life sentence. The groom is not engaged in the railway service at present, but carries an up-to-date card and is a loyal brother. The brothers of Div. 76 join in wishing Bro. Nelson and his charming bride a long and happy life.

Bro. Dove, who has held Evanston nights the last few months, has resigned and intends to go West, seeking a more congenial climate. We are sorry to lose him, but wish him success wherever he may go.

Bro. Avery is doing the owl stunt at Evanston until the position is bulletined.

We understand Bro. Mansnerus has accepted a lucrative position in the auditing department.

CULLY.

North Wisconsin Division—

Bro. Bakken, of De Pere, off a few days, being relieved by Bro. Villisse, who was relieved by Bro. Stark, of Kaukauna. Bro. Stark relieved by a Mr. Ward. Understand he is up to date.

C. T. Sund, cashier at Appleton for the past four years, has been appointed agent at Fort Atkinson,

G. W. Cook having accepted a position with the W. C. Ry. at Rockefeller, Ill. Bro. Rimmell has the position of cashier at Fort Atkinson. Mr. Sund, who is now eligible according to the change in our preamble, should send in his application papers and make "CB" strong and up to date.

We have members on the division who are delinquent in their dues, who feel that they have not been treated right and are going to drop out. Remember the old saying "no cards, no favors," when favors are asked.

Bro. Bornick received tower "CF" nights, on last bulletin.

Bro. Learned, of Juneau, goes to Princeton, he receiving that position by bulletin. Miss Conner relieved him at Juneau.

Bro. Hackbert off for a few days, Bro. Leary relieving him.

Bro. Abbs, of Eldorado, relieved at Princeton until transfer of agents was made, he being relieved by his brother.

We should all go over President Perham's circular letter very thoroughly, and especially heed the warning in regards to the student. The time was never so opportune to better our conditions; it is up to each and every one of us. All we need to accomplish the desired results is solid organization, and personal interest in the welfare of our noble Order. President Perham has explained matters so thoroughly that I will not attempt to do so. All that is asked is that each member do as instructed. Bro. Kempke's letter in regards to prompt payment of dues should also be considered as our first duty. We have a nice amount of money at our disposal in the treasury and this money will be used for the betterment of our conditions. Pay your dues promptly and keep after your neighbors, should they be delinquent, and point out the necessity of having up-to-date cards all around.

The meeting at Appleton was one of the best we have had and it goes to show that the boys are taking more interest. Bro. Wolverton, of Jefferson, was with us. We realize it is hard for the south end men to get out and we appreciate their coming, if it be but a few times; let more of them attend.

Our July meeting will be an open meeting and a few days after this number is out. Bro. Troy will be with us and our division officers and train dispatchers will be invited to address us. We also hope to have Mr. Daily with us. Let every man, whether member or non, arrange to attend. I am sure that Mr. Hammill and Mr. Lantz will be lenient and arrangements will be made so all can get back home that night.

Hats off to the assemblymen and senators who supported the eight-hour bill in this State. All members having in their territory senators who fought against this bill, should point out to the public these representatives as not favoring public safety and should cast their votes for men who stand for the right.

Every member should read the proceedings of the Grand Division. It will prove interesting and you can then realize what noble work the Order has done in the past and how bright our future will be if we do our duty as O. R. T. men.

Wish every member having notes for the journal would mail them to me at State Hospital. It is but a few minutes work to write them down and if every member would do that our items would be very entertaining to us all.

Our meetings from now on will be very interesting, as matters pertaining to the eight-hour day and outlining the work of our chairman on the General Committee. We all know our local chairman can not do everything alone and we owe him our hearty support. Brothers, let us do our best and we will be well repaid. Attend meetings, keep after the nons and pay dues promptly are three essential things that should be lived up to by each one of us.

The mention of R. J. Sund as a non-member should not be mistaken for Bro. J. O. Sund, of Juneau, as the latter has been up to date for two years. R. J. Sund is at "WF," and promises to be with us soon. Keep after the non-members and let us have a solid division by August 1st.

CERT. 100.

Galena Division—

The meeting at Dixon, June 15th, was a disappointment on account of the absence of Div. Supt. W. D. Beck and Chief Train Dispatcher A. L. Crabbs, but there was a goodly number of brothers present and we passed an enjoyable and profitable evening together.

The next regular meeting will be held at Dixon July 20th; don't forget the date. We want a large number present, as some important matters will come up.

Bro. L. D. Agnew is doing the agent's duties at Manlius.

Bro. A. J. Bunzie, lately agent at Manlius, is working at Ashton as day telegrapher on account of sore foot and unable to do agent's work.

Mr. I. L. Galbraith, of "AX" tower, is working nights at "JN" tower, Melrose Park.

Bro. W. N. Flynn now selling tickets at West Chicago.

Bro. J. T. Emmert, days at Ashton, now checked in as agent at Flagg, Mr. Smith having left the service.

Bro. W. R. Blair, first trick "XG," Kedzie Ave. tower, is assistant director Tower No. 1, Wells St.

Bro. F. L. Farmer, third trick "XG," working third trick Tower No. 1.

Bro. H. C. Dierks, second trick "XG," got first trick "XG" on bid.

Bro. W. H. Harlan, days Green St., got second trick at "XG."

Bro. R. C. Blackwell, from Peoria line, got third trick "XG."

Mr. Chas. Trout is working days at Green St.

Bro. Hale, who was away on a vacation, has returned to California Ave. nights.

LOCAL DIV. COR.

Lake Shore Division—

The Lake Shore Division has been so sadly neglected in THE TELEGRAPHER since its creation as a separate division that I presume most of the boys are beginning to think that we are no longer on the map. Such is not the case, however, as these few items will prove.

We have had one or two instances recently where agents locked up depot and left for parts unknown. This on account of company being too slow in relieving them. While it is bad to be held at a station for a length of time after one asks for relief, yet it puts a telegrapher in a bad light not alone in the eyes of the railroad company, but also in the eyes of the public. In cases of sickness it is different and always excusable. However, in the recent cases we are pleased to note that the deserters were not brothers.

Bro. Sellnow relieving Bro. Kilsdonk at Dundas. Bro. Kilsdonk sick.

Mr. C. E. Reynolds relieving Bro. Hackett at Grims.

Bro. Hahn relieving Bro. Cook at Two Rivers.

Bro. Provitz working 18 hours a day at present on account of incompetent assistants. His night man a non.

One or two of our brothers very lax in paying dues for past period. Afraid they will lose their cards. This is wrong; we are getting stronger each year and it is no time for backsliding. With one or two exceptions each office on the division got an increase of $5 per month last fall and surely we can afford to contribute $10 of the $60 each year to the Order that was instrumental in getting us this increase.

Bro. Zernicke, of Bonduel, is taking a short vacation with the purpose in view of getting married.

Mr. Stelling is relieving Bro. Zernicke at Bonduel. Stelling promises to become a brother as soon as he gets located. By the way, there are several of the boys who have promised to get in line soon, and all of them are men of their word, so we can look for several new members in a short time.

We hope to have a meeting by the time this is in print and select some division officers and establish a division treasury to meet local expenses.

Bro. Ramsdell, from the Ashland Division, is relieving Bro. Weeman, at Shawano, Bro. Weeman taking a well-earned vacation.

Bro. Jacoby, "MS" tower nights, has resigned and is waiting to be relieved. We don't want to see Bro. Jacoby go unless he is bettering himself, in which case we withdraw our objections.

Bro. Serier, Lyndhurst, enjoying life under adverse circumstances. No house to be had and Ike is living with the section foreman.

Send any items of interest you may know to local chairman until we can arrange for a division correspondent.

Don't forget your dues are payable and you should have a new card. CERT. 1536.

Ashland Division, South End—

Business has been slacking up a little and the boys at the heavy jobs are glad of it after a hard grind all winter. Summer is here at last and we will have a little respite from throwing coal into that Volcano No. 20.

There is great rejoicing over the passage of the Wisconsin eight-hour law for telegraphers and train dispatchers. This law went through the lower house without a dissenting vote, but met with considerable opposition in the Senate and was almost killed in committee. It was finally passed however, by the surprising vote of 18 to 5. It was strongly opposed in the Senate by Senator Wilcox, of Appleton, Wis., and would ask the brothers in this district to remember this when he comes up for re-election. We are greatly indebted to Carl D. Thompson for the fathering of this law, and his untiring efforts in its behalf. A tablet ought to be erected to his memory and we hope the good he has done for the telegraphers will last forever. Mr. Thompson is a Social Democrat and was elected from some Milwaukee district.

Now, that this eight-hour law is a fact we must marshal our forces for the purpose of resisting any retaliatory policy on the part of the railways. Without a doubt an attempt will be made to reduce our wages and it is up to us to take a determined stand against any more of this kind. Our wages are not too high by any means and it is an impossibility for us to live on anything less.

To those brothers who took the time to write their representatives and Senators we should also be very thankful. They must now realize the good that was accomplished as a result and January 1st can commence to reap the benefits of their labors.

Brothers, the eight-hour law is the best thing that ever happened to us. You will be troubled no more with brain fag after twelve long hours on duty and will now have ample time to spend at home with your families and carry on other pursuits that will be beneficial to yourselves.

The meeting at Antigo May 26th was a great success in bringing about a better feeling of the men towards their officials and vice versa. We had an opportunity of meeting them all. The men also had the chance of meeting each other and getting better acquainted with their working partners. In point of attendance the meeting was a record breaker, fully 150 being present, and it was through the kindness of our worthy officials that we had such a large crowd. They went to considerable trouble to provide the extra train service which enabled so many of the brothers to be on hand. We hope that we may have more of such meetings, as we are of the opinion that they are productive of much good. Our north end correspondent has also made some reference to this meeting.

We are in receipt of regrets from our secretary and treasurer, Bro. P. W. Raettig on account of him not being able to attend the Antigo meeting, May 23d. He states that his wife is laid up in a hospital for the purpose of undergoing an operation. We hope she will come safely through it and extend the sympathy of all the brothers on the division.

Bro. C. E. Ramsdell has given up the agency at New London Junction and is at present relieving Bro. Weeman, agent at Shawano, while he is on his vacation.

Bro. H. E. James goes to open Turtle Lake as agent for the summer season. Whitcomb, his former position, is closed nights meantime.

Bro. H. M. Kilsdonk at present holding down Antigo Yard office nights; understand he gets Kimberly days, a new position just created.

Bro. Flansburg, at Appleton days, went on a fishing trip last month and understand he had good luck.

Mr. Wilde is at present working at New London nights. He is from the W. C. Ry. and has promised to get in line soon.

Bro. Augus has been transferred to Ore Dock Yard on account of him having been there the year before and being acquainted with the system of weighing iron ore.

Bro. Bunge has returned from the West and is at present holding down Wausau Junction nights. Bro. Laughlin off on a few weeks' vacation, being relieved by Bro. Ted Laughlin, his brother. Understand he gets State Line on bulletin.

We had a good meeting at Antigo June 23d and transacted some very important business. We had a nice crowd out, although not as large as that at the open meeting the month before.

Bro. Hollister, agent at Larson, spent a couple of weeks of vacation at his home in Iowa.

Bro. Drumm was the successful applicant for Kaukauna nights.

Bro. I. E. Hackett, of the L. S. Division, who is making a trip over the line in the interest of the Order, getting acquainted, etc., called on Local Chairman Nelson, of the Ashland Division, and remained over night at Kaukauna.

CERT. 23.

Ashland Division, North End—

No news from this end for the past two or three months on account of nothing much doing. With the help of a few of the boys who were kind enough to send in some news items, will try to write up the news for this period, some of which will seem rather old.

At the open meeting at Antigo, Wis., Sunday, May 26th, was the first opportunity the writer had of meeting the brother telegraphers on this division.

The meeting was opened in an introductory speech by Bro. L. F. Nelson, local chairman, who introduced the various speakers and made a few remarks relative to our duty to the officials and ourselves. Bro. D. R. Hickok and Bro. J. D. Laughlin also made a few remarks, all of which were well received by the visiting brothers.

Superintendent Quigley, Superintendent of Telegraph G. D. Dailey, Assistant Superintendents Bennett and Sampson and Chief Dispatchers Coughlin and Fitzgerald also made short speeches relative to block system, handling W. U. business, handling foreign cars, etc., which were very instructive and productive of much good. We did not get time to meet all the brothers and nons of the south end, but met all the north end brothers and nons, the latter, of which I am glad to say, there were only a few and a little missionary work of the right sort should land them all with the exception of one or two.

Few changes taken place since last write-up, which are as follows:

Ore Dock Yard opened up with the advent of the ore season with Bro. Angus and Mr. Huncovsky on duty.

Brand new depot at Saxon now in use with Bros. Meredith and Schaefer doing the logging act.

Bro. W. F. Faber called to Menominee on account of the death of one of his parents. Unable to learn who is holding down Odanah nights during his absence.

Bro. H. Heinrichs got tired of the woods at Mercer and left for parts unknown. J. L. Bugar got Mercer on bulletin. Nights office opened up at this station held down by Bro. John Schilleman. He is a new member but the right kind just the same.

F. W. Atchison now holds up-to-date card and captured Tomahawk Lake station on bulletin.

New man at Rhinelander nights name Penney. Understand he holds up-to-date card.

Wonder why those nons that promised to join us "next pay day" three months ago haven't sent in their application blanks. They must have decided to wait until we get another raise for them and then perhaps they will join.

On account of heavy wire work during night, we now have a night telegrapher at Ashland dispatcher's office and it's a lady, but hardly any hopes of her being a sister; unable to learn name.

Temporary offices opened up at Wellington and Turtle to facilitate movement of work trains. Extensive improvements being made on the Ironwood-Watersmeet line in way of graveling etc.

Wish the boys would send in any news which they may get hold of so as to reach me before the 18th of each month and we may then be able to have a little write-up in our journal.

Understand it is Bro. M. J. Johnson recently from south end, who is handling the gravel trains at Wellington pit.

C. H. Eva, day telegrapher in dispatcher's office, off for about a week. Understand he had to undergo an operation, but see the gentleman is back at work again. Bro. J. B. Duval, from south end, relieved him.

Bro. M. E. Fry, agent at Woodruff is to have help in the way of a day telegrapher, which he certainly needs. Position is on bulletin now.

CERT. 409.

Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway. Western Division—

Seeing a few lines from Mackinaw Division and nothing from the Western Division, concluded I would try (with the help of a few of the brothers) to have the Western Division represented in THE TELEGRAPHER. Only one or two of the brothers were thoughtful enough to send in any notes, so this will not be very lengthy.

Bro. Stuesser, formerly day telegrapher at Lake Nebogamor, has taken agency at Bruer's Crossing, vice Bro. L. V. Green transferred to another division.

Bro. L. R. Brown relieved Bro. Stuesser at Lake Nebogamor.

Bro. W. E. Johnson has been enjoying a few weeks' vacation, making a trip to Chicago, Duluth, and also one to Marquette. Bro. H. A. Lawrence, from P. M. R. R., fills the chair at Lake Gogebic during his absence.

There is a new man at Matchwood, Mr. Chas. A. Nelson by name, and by the time the June TELEGRAPHER reaches you we hope to be calling him brother, as he has the necessary blanks before him.

Mr. E. A. Campbell, night man at Ewen, has resigned to engage in farming. We are glad to see a loyal brother in Campbell's place, H. C. Omstard by name, from the Mackinaw Division.

Bro. Crossey was elected to fill the vacancy in office of local chairman, Western Division, vice Bro. F. W. Knipple transferred to Haughton Division, and he has appointed Bros. E. L. Crull, agent Kenton, and H. A. Lawrence, agent Lake Gogebic, as his assistants, and we hope to see them line up the few nons remaining on this division before many new moons.

Bro. E. L. Crull, of Kenton, made a short trip to Sidnow Saturday evening on S. K. L. Co's Special.

Over five (5) nons on this division at present. Can you point them out, boys?

No stations on this division bulletined at present.

It has been a long time since anything appeared from this division, and in fact the whole pike. Let's hear from the Haughton Division boys next time, also Mackinaw Division, and let the brothers all send in what news they have—notes, changes, or anything of interest for the good of the Order will be accepted. CERT. 56.

Pennsylvania Lines West of Pittsburg. Louisville Division—

This is the first attempt at a write-up for the Louisville Division, and hope some one will carry the work along, as I think a great deal of interest can be aroused in this way. If the members show no interest its certain the nons will not, and no one can blame them. No road has been organized without work and lots of it. We have a good start here, and if every one will do his share we will soon come near the 100 per cent mark. If you can not see the boys personally, write them and keep on writing until you either get their papers filled out or a flat refusal to join the Order. It doesn't make any difference whether the one you are after is located near you or not. If he is at the other end of the division stay with him, and by each one doing this way they will have to express some kind of an opinion.

When the interurban line is completed to Louisville no division could have better facilities for meeting than we by making the meeting points at Columbus or Seymour.

Don't think I'm butting in in making this spiel, as I'm sure everyone is welcome and has the same chance as I have to take advantage of THE TELEGRAPHER to say what he thinks.

Everyone should work for the best interest of the Order and cut out the ham factories.

The company has awakened at last and has remodeled the office at Greenwood. This office has been in a bad condition for some time, and no doubt the boys appreciate the new office. Bro. Farr did his stunt in the waiting-room while the repairs were being made.

Bro. Judd, Seymour days, was off for short time on account of death of his grandfather; was relieved by Bro. Casey, Christie nights.

Bro. Wells, Harland days, granted ten days' leave of absence, but was recalled on eighth day on account of shortage of men. Bro. Judd, nights, did the day trick during his absence, he being relieved by Mr. Roy White, an extra man.

Amity nights has been closed on account of sickness of telegrapher Wheeler.

We would be glad to see a write-up in THE TELEGRAPHER from the other divisions of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg.

Bro. Sellers, Chestnut Ridge days, should find plenty of amusement at his place if he enjoys frog hunting and fighting mosquitoes, as the season for those sports is now on. Telegraphers Pfister and Coons, Cornbrook, have a good location to enjoy the same pastime.

All brothers who have not paid dues and received the new card should do so at once. This is important.

Bro. Stout, Edinburg days, is the proud possessor of a card. Glad to have him with us.

Wish we had a solid division like Bro. Hanlin. He's certainly an honest worker and firm believer in O. R. T.

Operators still very scarce. Bro. Judd had hard time getting relieved to attend funeral of his grandfather.

"JK," our first trick dispatcher, is out on the road examining telegraphers on book of rules and instructions. Better study, boys.

Bro. Casey working days at Austin while Big Ike doing owl work at North tower.

Understand the day men at North tower has a student.

From all appearances the night school at Garfield is making good progress. Ought to be no trouble for the boys to get a vacation when the operators (?) there get their diplomas.

Understand there is one or two brothers who still keep their students. This should be stopped immediately, as they are not only setting a very bad example to the nons, but also doing harm to themselves and fellow-workers. There is quite a number of telegraphers in this part of the country who will be glad to return to the profession when wages and working conditions justify them in returning, without teaching others. If the supply of telegraphers had been equal to the demand we would never have received the two increases in our salary last year.

And now a word to the nons and am through. We need you and need you badly. Of course, it goes a little hard with the man with a family, but nearly all our members are married and seem to be getting along all right, and as for the fellow who has no one depending on him for support, there is no excuse whatever for his remaining a non.

Now is the time to fill out those papers, not next pay-day. If you wait to save the money to come in we don't expect to get you. Don't crack that old chestnut any more about "going to leave the service soon, but you think favorably of unionism," because that isn't giving us the helping hand. Don't wait on some of the rest of the boys going in because whether they do or not does not affect you in any way, but your actions do affect us. No advantage is gained by waiting on the other fellow. Get busy.

ABE MARTIN.

Pan Handle Divisions—

I don't think there has ever been anything in THE TELEGRAPHER from this division, and I believe this will be a welcome sight to some of the boys, who have, like myself, looked in vain for something from the Pan.

This division has been making rapid strides toward organization in the last few months, and even the old P. H. stand-bys have begun to sit up and take notice, and quite a few of them have already invested in an up-to-date. There are only a few nons left, and they are making lots of promises.

The division operator will tell you all kinds of things about the O. R. T., but that is what he is paid for and if he wasn't pretty good at that kind of spiel he would not be able to hold his job. I notice most of the boys are wearing the button, that is a pretty good sign that they are not very badly scared.

We have all received notice of dues for the coming half, and I hope every one will come across with the cash promptly. It's bad practice to put it off "till next pay-day" just because you can. An engineer who happens to get his money somewhere on the road will take the first opportunity to get an express order and send in his dues; that's why he draws from $135 to $200 per.

If you put it off, don't delay any longer. Be up-to-date on time.

CRRT. 238.

Burlington Railway.

After several weeks' work on our schedule, we finally came to an agreement on May 11th, just in time to allow those who were delegates to the Grand Convention to depart for Minneapolis in time to reach there for the opening on Monday morning, May 13th.

The deliberations at Minneapolis lasted nine days; were very strenuous indeed, and this convention will go down as the most profitable in the history of the organization.

Many good things were done; many hours were spent in debate on matters of great importance; many good laws passed and perhaps some rejected that many of us would like to have seen passed. We can not all see alike, but everything passed off nicely and we all returned to our homes after the busy hum of the convention had passed away, there to resume our labors again for another two years, with the fond hope that we might all meet again in that grand old Southern city—Atlanta.

On return to my fields of duty I find many weeks of hard work before me. Our new schedule was to reach us June 1st, but did not show up until ten days later. It was, of course, not thought that a schedule could be made that would be highly satisfactory to all. The wage scale was, in fact, the first ever made on the Burlington System, and the committee used everything at its command to make it equitable, but it is certain that where errors are found they were not intentionally made; where they do occur it is the duty of every one who finds himself unfairly treated to write me fully regarding his case and I will certainly endeavor to give the cases personal attention at the earliest possible time and take each case up on its merits, and see if they can be adjusted before the committee is convened again.

It was certainly the sincere desire of the whole committee to give all a square deal, wherever it might seem to appear that this fact has not been carried out. It must be borne in mind the committee did the very best it could with the information in their hands. You should remember that unless we get the information asked for in advance of these conferences, we are going to be badly handicapped.

I hope you can all see the situation and not condemn the work of the committee. All of us are human and are liable to err. No committee ever made a schedule the first time that was satisfactory to all. Where apparent oversights occur or you think poor judgment has been used, do not condemn the committee, but rather take the matter up in the proper manner as suggested above, and assist me in my endeavor to right these matters. It would not be just to condemn us, drop out and say nothing; in other words, do not cross the bridge before you get to it.

It is through your assistance that we hope to adjust your case. If you drop out you weaken your case and throw away that which is every year more profitable to you.

It is not only to be hoped that you will support your organization, but that you will at the same time discharge your duty faithfully to your employer as well. By thus doing you will do something that will make the task that much easier. You can not expect to win fame and fortune by sitting in your office doing nothing, when you have plenty to do.

The smallest office on this system will afford a man work enough to keep him busy every day; that is, always providing that the man has the ambition to thrive. I usually find where the man has the least work the dirtiest office. There is no apparent excuse for this; it is only thrift, push and ambition that wins, so it is to be hoped this will meet the gaze of some before the division superintendent happens to call you down.

I was recently over a division that I was actually ashamed to go into the offices. If you wish to know why I will tell you. The offices and waiting rooms were so filthy and dirty that I was not certain whether I was in an office or barn yard. A word more on this will perhaps be sufficient. I would like to act as master of ceremonies for awhile on this particular district. This is meant for members of this organization as well as non-members, but a careful canvass revealed the fact that on this particular division only four Order men have neglected their duty and one is over-worked.

There is no excuse for men who are not over-worked to have their office so filthy. Brothers, I have been around a great deal, but the cases I bring to your mind are certainly the limit, and instead of taking offense at this reference, I trust those effected will "saw wood." Perhaps I may be a little out of my sphere, but I must say I am sincere in this matter and can not refrain from speaking about it.

With an advance in wages there must, to a certain extent, go with it an improvement in our work. I could not sincerely howl my head off for a $75 minimum and at the same time say cut out 50 per cent of the work, if we ever get it, and I believe we will if we go at it right. We must, moreover, show a better disposition to earn it.

We have men to-day who do not earn half they are getting, but many more who do not get paid for half they earn, still we all have our troubles, and some day hope to be paid what is justly due us. We are looking forward to the future to bring to us all that which is rightfully ours; we hope, we trust, the time is not far off.

Railroad officials quite often criticize our organization and tell us we uphold drunkenness and unreliable men in so far as to take such characters into the Order. Men who are hard drinkers and dishonest have been a curse to all organizations as well as corporations, for many decades, and as long as liquor is sold to sap the manhood of men, we must expect they will trouble us to some extent, regardless of our efforts to cut it out and make conditions better. Railroads must share their proportion of the responsibility of having the drunkard in this Order. We get them in through error; they hire them and keep them in the service. It is a case then of "Bill stealing melons and John helping eat them." There seems but little, if any difference, only six of one and half a dozen of the other.

I am sure the organization is doing all it can at the present time to better conditions. I am sure I am doing my part here on the Burlington and a like policy is carried out on other systems. It is a mistake for railroad officials to think we uphold the drunken element found floating over the country. We do not want them in the organization and if the railroads will look into the matter more closely and use discretion and keep them out of the service I am quite sure it will not require a very great length of time to get this down to a minimum.

Every agent has had his patience tried with this worthless element. I would, therefore, suggest that agent keep me posted regarding the bum element as soon as one is located on the line. Kindly write me full particulars and I will look after him. It is an uphill business for one man to undertake this matter and expect to accomplish much unless he has assistance. No one has a greater desire to see good honorable men in the railroad service than myself; moreover, no one can be more inclined to put them in the service than myself; but we all make errors and we are bound to make a mistake and permit one to pass us, but when one does get by and we find it out, we certainly use every effort to rid ourselves of him.

Now, let us all use a little more effort to make our service more desirable, thus lightening the burden on the shoulders of the committee, and at the same time making this system one that can boast of having the best telegraphers and agents in the railroad service.

No man is more honorable than he that earns his bread by the sweat of his brow. It is no disgrace to be a railroad telegrapher, but to be sure, we know there is a class of people who look on the railroad man as a sort of a tool, a man who has little or no education, but I want to say that no other kind of employment has a more intelligent class of men than there is in the telegraph service.

Therefore, let us all unite as one to still better our conditions and surroundings, so that when we get old and have to retire, we can look back upon the rough road of the past and say: "We have done our duty and hope the future generations to profit by our mistakes as well as by our good deeds."

In conclusion, I must say we are certainly doing splendidly and we hope by the assistance of all of the telegraphers to make the future something to which we can look with admiration.

M. J. JOHNSON,
General Chairman.

Chicago and Aurora Divisions—

The most satisfactory change on the Chicago & Aurora Divisions the past month has been from nons to members. Most of the nons seem to be making every effort to get in line at once. Some of the old-timers (agent) who have been out in the cold for years are anxious to be called brothers.

Bro. Johnson, General Chairman, made Leland a visit and appointed Bro. Todd as local chairman of the Chicago & Aurora Division.

Bro. Ranger, of Sandwich, is back to work after being off about five weeks on account of sickness. He got busy, however, and landed eight nons. Glad to hear he is getting along all right, and hope he will be able to throw away those crutches.

Sandwich will be solid by the next write-up. Mr. Pratt, agent, and Mr. F. E. Brower, night telegrapher, will be with us the first of July.

Plano also will be in line, with Agent McNamara, Nuckley and Kuffman, most of them having their applications in now.

Ed Noack, who has been doing the owl trick at "SA," has gone to Buda nights. Don't know whether it is steady or not. Next month we can call him Bro. Noack, for I have his application to be sent in with the next weekly report.

Leland is solid O. R. T. Bro. Sexton, Bro. Todd and Bro. Dillon all have up-to-date cards.

Mr. F. E. Stroud, formerly day telegrapher at Leland, has been promoted to agent at La Moille.

Bro. Martin, who runs a store at La Moille, is carrying an up-to-date. I guess he's all right.

"FD."

Sterling Division—

Our line of news for this month is small, as most of the boys are too busy to send in items. The new schedule is now in effect. Some of our boys deserved more than they got and again some of us can find something for which to be thankful. Let us not be ungrateful. We may do better next time and the only way is for us all to show we are worthy of more pay and then keep trying to do our best. Always bear in mind that all these advances in wages are due to the effects of organized labor. Brothers, continue to look after all competitive business and increase receipts of your stations, showing that Order men are well worthy of every favor shown us.

J. T. MADDOX.

Quincy Branch, Galesburg Division—

The first meeting of the Quincy Branch, Galesburg Division, was held at Macomb June 2d, and proved a decided success. The following members being present: Bros. A. A. Graves, T. P. Ogle, A. J. Peterson, F. S. Omer, G. W. Gray, J. E. Flack, L. Flake, C. R. Martin, M. S. Chapman, G. W. Malone, D. L. Wisheart, R. Miner, C. G. Gibbs, E. W. Fuhr, A. M. Roberts, J. Foster and Local Chairman E. Herzog.

Bro. Herzog was elected permanent chairman of this branch and Bro. Foster secretary. On a motion by Bro. Flack it was unanimously decided to appoint a committee of three to make arrangements for monthly meetings of this branch and that arrangements be made for a meeting of the entire Galesburg Division to be held at the most convenient point, within sixty days, Galesburg to be the probable meeting point. L. C. Herzog appointed Bros. Roberts, Flack and Foster on this committee and all members on the Galesburg Division are earnestly requested to put forth every effort to make arrangements so that we may have a large attendance at our next meeting, which will be announced later, and to make it a success.

There are to be three assistant chairmen appointed, one on the "Stormy Route," one on the Peoria Branch and one on the Quincy Branch, to assist the local chairman in getting in touch with the members, and to get a line on things in general, so that the three branches may work in conjunction and assist each other in the general work of the Order.

After the business session a vote of thanks was extended to the Elks for their courtesy and excellent service rendered the brothers in tendering the use of their hall and its adjuncts.

A visit was paid to the State Normal School, and the party was shown through that institution by Mr. S. B. Hursh, assistant president. It is the finest school in the State, being the most modern and up-to-date building of its kind in the United States. Too much can not be said in praise of the institution, and the truly able manner in which Prof. Hursh conducted the party around. A vote of thanks tendered Prof. Hursh, and a hearty invitation was extended by him to the members of the Order to call again.

It was through the untiring efforts of Bro. Roberts that this meeting was arranged, and also through his efforts that the members were so royally entertained.

Mr. Roberts, who acted as chaperon throughout the day, was also tendered a vote of thanks by the brothers, and we hope to entertain him in as able a manner in the near future.

Owing to the short time we had it was impossible to get notice to our brothers on the "Stormy Route" and Peoria Branches, but we sincerely hope to see all at the Galesburg meeting.

Although many questions were discussed, the main object of the meeting was to get acquainted and to arouse an interest that will lead to the strengthening of our Order on this and other branches.

Some of the brothers along here could have attended, but did not, and so missed an enjoyable day. The brothers who would have attended, but could not, we hope to see at one of our future meetings and if our future meetings are as successful as the first one we are sure of a 90 per cent, if not solid, division.

We understand that the committee has obtained on an average an 8 per cent increase, switch lights to be taken care of by the section men, to take effect June 1st.

This increase is distributed among the stations according to the class, the heavier offices getting the most, but generally effecting all stations.

We understand that the schedule provides for a return to the old basis when the nine-hour day goes into effect, March 1, 1908, and we regret that this condition was acceded to, although from all reports the committee did as well as possible under the circumstances, as many of the brothers did not fill out the blanks furnished them for the purpose of informing the committee of how matters stood at their stations, so that they could make demands to cover the work and conditions at the different offices.

The telegraphers on the S. P. have been allowed a $7\frac{1}{4}$ per cent increase with one-half day off Sundays, or 26 days a year on full pay.

Get in line, boys, and let us make the Galesburg Division solid. It's the only way to get the good things, and the Lord knows we are entitled to a few of them.

No card, no favors.

Bro. Roberts, Macomb days, has gone on a ten days' vacation. He will visit Chicago and, if possible, Denver.

Mr. Ed Smith, former agent at Abingdon, has taken Bardolph agency. Mr. Smith is a good man and we hope to be able to get him into the fold.

Mr. E. Kelly, Saluda days, has his papers made out and will be up-to-date in a very short while.

Operators are supposed to handle the switches at the depots where there are intended sidings. There ought to be something in it if we have to act as switch tenders. Brakemen or conductors do not build fires or sweep the offices for us. How about it?

Personally we are in favor of the suggestion that we be paid by the hour for every hour worked. Thirty cents an hour on that basis would look good to yours truly.

Bro. Foster has been appointed assistant local chairman for this branch, but have not yet heard who are to serve on the other branches.

Better times are coming and they do not seem so far distant as they have been, and we may well rejoice in the knowledge that we will soon have a pretty solid division. CERT. 589.

Beardstown Division—

It will perhaps be surprising to a great many on the Beardstown Division to know there is one brother at least who has come to life. This division has been on the neglected list for many months, but as a new and revised schedule has come into our midst, it behooves us to express our gratefulness to all those who participated in its making. It seems to me that this schedule is an incentive for every brother to get busy and help the good work along. There are a great many good nons on the line, Herrin to Concord and St. Louis to Rio, and with the assistance of every brother we can soon have the line 95 per cent. You must not depend on the local chairman to do it all; he is one and can do his part and if you all will aid him the division will soon be one of the very best. Our new schedule shows 92 positions on this division. The division has been sadly neglected heretofore, but it now bids fair to be one of the progressive ones.

Many of you can well remember when on the line from Herrin to Concord telegraphers and agents were receiving from $25 up and in most cases $40 was a big thing. There was no such thing as overtime and sleep was a rarity as well as a novelty. At present there is but one job less than $53 per month on the division. We have a very good overtime clause, good hours, good meal hour, a good switch lamp rule and, in fact, nearly all the good things given to employees on any system.

Is there any reason then why we should not all get in line and help it along. Do not be eager to accept the good things unless you are willing to do your part. This means if you are not up to date and with us, why not? If you accept freely all that the organization gets for the telegraphers, I see no reason why you should not support the cause by signing up the set of application blanks which have been sent you, enclosing it with the proper fee to your local chairman, Bro. J. T. Cole. Bear in mind "He that reaps must sow first the seed, then reap." To sow the seed means to enroll with us and help us out; to reap means to accept what our committee has procured for us. How do you feel about this, and how long before we may be able to see your name on the rolls?

Who has ever before seen a schedule on the Burlington signed by the general managers and our General Chairman and General Secretary and Treasurer? I have never seen any except the one effective June 1, 1907. As a member of Division 130 I must say that too few of us appreciate the great amount of hard work done by our committee. I have been on the Burlington a number of years and I am yet to hear our committee, especially the General Chairman, say that they ever received a letter of commendation from any of the brothers. I often wonder if we really know where we are, and if we do honestly appreciate what has been done.

Bro. Cole tells me the applications are coming in fine. Let us all get busy.

Not many changes on the division and men are scarce.

We were very much pleased to see our General Chairman, Bro. M. J. Johnson, going over the line this month. Understand he is getting a lineup of the division and expects in a short time to make us all a call. How many of us can boast of having a card when he comes? He informs us he goes to the Aurora and Hannibal Divisions from here. Let us line up with our Western brothers.

I have just learned that he company has given all agents and other employes a raise in salary. This, of course, was brought on by our committee; who ever heard of raises in salary when there was no pressure to bear behind it? Do not allow yourselves to be deceived about these matters. Remember, brothers, that freight agents, telephone operators, ticket agents, etc., are now eligible to join our Order, if employed in railroad stations.

Brothers, let us bear in mind we are now among the progressive system divisions that have a General Chairman who will devote most of his time to our Order and we will see him frequently. He says all grievances should be referred to your local chairman promptly, and as our General Chairman is on the road they will no doubt get quick attention.

Dues commencing July 31, 1907, are $5 semi-annually. Let us all respond promptly. Will try and call again. "STAND PATTER."

St. Joseph Division—

Following new members initiated this month: I. W. Davis, Shambaugh, Ia.; J. P. Smith, Worth, Mo., and C. C. Lee, of Amazonia, now nights at Craig. Transferred to this division, W. W. Wornstaff, nights at Henton's, from C. & N. W. System Div. 76.

We have the faithful promise of about a dozen July pay day. Something like four hundred new members on C. B. & Q. System Div. 130 since January 1st. More than we took in all the year of 1906.

Keep it going, boys. It's necessary that we have a strong membership by the close of the present year.

About fourteen of the boys north of St. Joseph met at Forest City Saturday night, June 15th, and organized a local lodge to meet once each month, the next date July 13th, when we expect to have a full house. We desire the presence of all members at these meetings and bring all the nons you can. We expect to be prepared to make them over into the right kind of material.

We must get together and discuss matters concerning our affairs. We want to hear what you think so we will know how you stand on our conditions, etc. At day and night offices there is no reason why one of you can't be at each meeting. They will all be held on Saturday nights.

Following are a few happenings along the line this month:

Bro. C. C. Lee relieved Bro. G. R. Morgan at Forbes a few nights.

Mr. Chilcoote relieved Mr. Armstrong a few days at Nodaway, on account of the death of Mr. Armstrong's aunt.

The boys at Amazonia are now rejoicing over the fact that they no longer have to attend to about nineteen switch and semaphore lamps. Mr. Brown, the night man, says he can't remain out any longer since this has happened and will hand in his application July 12th to 15th. We would then have a solid line-up from Amazonia to Craig if we could get Brown at Nodaway nights, to do business. The day man, Mr. Armstrong, will be with us by the time this is in print.

Let every one get busy and see what a record breaker we can make for the next month.

All of you who have not paid up to December 31, 1907, please do so at once. We do not want to lose a single member this time. It's the man who lines up and stays that counts.

If you know of any foreign members on our line notify your local chairman so he can transfer them. This counts just as much as a new member to us.

Bro. Bartholemew, days at Phelps, has been attending court a few days; relieved by Bro. Lips. Understand Bro. Lips now nights at Parkville.

Bro. Warnstaff, nights at Hinton, made trip to Hamburg for one night.

Understand Bro. Fred Arnold, days at Hamburg, will lay off soon to go West for thirty days.

Bro. Tom Hood, McPaul, made trip to Omaha the first of the month.

We were very sorry to not see Bro. Conoway with us to meeting Saturday night. Hope he will arrange to be at next one.

We have quite a number of applications promised us July 1st. Hope every member will try and scare up one.

Brothers, send your TELEGRAPHERS to some of the nons. This is a great help to us. They will see what is being done.

Bro. Scott, days at Watson, was unable to attend our meetings on account of No. 26 does not stop there.

Bro. Stewart, nights at Hamburg, is getting some very fine practice expensing bills.

There seems to be very few changes on our line at present. Boys all satisfied with their present positions. Cor.

Lincoln Division—

F. R. Upjohn, former postmaster at Fort Crook, an old-time telegrapher and ex-brother, has accepted a position with a firm in Indian Territory.

Bro. Albert Havel relieving cashier at Hastings freight office.

Our genial secretary and treasurer has been quite busy since his return from the battle at Chicago, but as he only has 27 trains per day we know he is taking life easy out on Lake Ericson.

Sister Anna Hicks was an Alliance visitor this month.

The boys in Lincoln relay office work eight hours now. That sounds good, but when we all know that they have not the privilege of becoming members of the Order it does not sound so good. Eh?

Bro. Nye relieved Bro. Lyon, at Comstock, a few days.

Bro. Hoagland, of Ord, goes to the main line.

Bro. Karaker, Hastings, "GS," relieving agent at Dakota City for a few weeks.

Bro. J. R. McGowan has been relieving Bro. Holt, at Rosalie, for the past twenty days, has resigned, we understand, and will go to the coast.

Bro. C. A. Smith, cashier at Aurora, transferred to agent at Cairo, and Mr. J. P. Irwin, of Lincoln, "NI," to Aurora as cashier.

Bro. Lyon, at Comstock, back after his trip to Seattle.

Ticnor relieving Agent Danielson, at Palmer, for a couple of weeks.

Bro. Kopisch, former agent at Marquette, now stationed at Tucumcari, N. M.

One brother writes: "What's the matter with our locals, no notes in the journal?" Is it possible that they were missed? Really, boys, it's time some were waking up to the fact that the notes which have been appearing month after month were furnished by just two or three members.

It's really a shame that we have to rawhide the members of Lincoln Division to get locals. Each man should send us a line each month, even if they have nothing of importance to write. In this way we will know you are all taking a lively interest in the matter.

It is reported that Agent J. E. McCarthy, of David City, and his telegrapher, W. E. Call, are now members in good standing. Also a new member in Bro. Rogers, of Dorchester. This looks good; it seems that the new schedule did some good. Remember, boys, we all got a slight increase, and we are rid of the pesky switch lamps forever, so let us all be thankful for small favors. It's true the increase is very small in some places, but I think it was divided as well as possible under the very unfavorable conditions. None of us wish to be knockers, and if any of us wish to knock, why knock to your local chairman. We want to know just how all the boys feel about the increase, and you can bet a letter from any of you will be appreciated by me. Right now is the time to begin to let the local chairmen know just what you think you should have in the next conference with the officials. Our committee while in Chicago were handicapped in a good many cases just because they did not know just what to ask for. This because they could not get the information required.

In the future please send your locals to Sister Hicks, at Denton, Neb., who will wield the pen for the write-ups for Lincoln Division. Now, don't all send her a batch and snow her under the first month.

In the meantime don't forget your local chairman and leave him out in the cold. Any news you can scare up regarding nons and new men and transfers will be appreciated.

F. R. HUBBELL,
Local Chairman.

Ashland Division—

Bro. Holts, Rosalie, off to Illinois on vacation for ten days the first part of June; relieved by Bro. McGowan, from Oakland.

Mr. J. T. Karn, Hampton, to Oakland, as day telegrapher. He has asked for the papers and will be a brother soon.

Bro. Paulson, Winnebago, traded places with Bro. Coleman, of Fort Crook.

Bro. Karraker, from "GS," Hastings, relieved Mr. Abrams, at Dakota City.

Bro. N. A. S. McLean is back at Stopechurst after a vacation; also served as cashier at Columbus.

Bro. Ayres, Bellwood, reports he has landed J. E. McCarthy and W. E. Call, of David City. Good work, brother.

Wish to recall statement made a few months ago in regard to Bro. W. E. Wheeldon being a non. This is a serious mistake, as he is a brother in capital letters, and has been for a good many years.

CERT. 454.

Wymore Division—

Brothers, have you figured out that the Wymore Division stands second to none in the late increase in salaries? While a number of the brothers have been set upon by the section men and have had the switch lamps rudely snatched from their protecting care, I believe we all will soon become reconciled over their loss.

I believe that every member of the O. R. T. will, by giving first-class service, endeavor to show the officials that it pays to employ union labor and also to pay living wages. In working under our schedule, I think we should all be liberal in everything. For instance, if you ask to stop for lunch, especially at night, and are eating in the office, do not hesitate to give the dispatcher an "OS" if some train should go by, especially if the dispatcher is making it a point to allow you to attend church, etc. An "OS" is a mighty handy thing for a dispatcher to have at all times and I believe all of our dispatchers would reciprocate at any time it is in their power to do so. Let us show them there is nothing small about a man who carries a card.

Bro. Weatherhogg, recently transferred from agent Thompson to agent Hickman, relieving Mr. Ayers, who returns to Beatrice as day telegrapher. Bro. Grimes returned to Pawnee nights.

Bro. Lindsay, agent at Wayne, landed Bladen station and has transferred to that point.

Bro. J. K. Kerr, transferred from agent Bladen to agent Thompson. Bro. Kerr's health made it necessary for him to seek a position where the work was not so heavy.

Bro. B. H. Wilson, agent at DeWeese, has been sojourning on the Pacific Coast for the past thirty days; relieved by Bro. A. E. Miller.

Bro. Guy Miller has again left us; "13" he is now with the Missouri Pacific in Missouri.

Now that all the nons received a nice little increase in salary they surely can not longer put up the old thread-worn excuse that we have never done anything for them. Let us get after them and send all applications, secured with money order, made payable to W. A. Henry, Ericson, Neb., to your local chairman. We should be able to make a good showing in the next sixty days.

It is reported we have a non on this division who buys all brooms, paper, pens, etc., used about the office and when his student helper breaks a lamp chimney makes him put up the cold cash for a new one. A man (?) as small as this should certainly be expected to rank among the nons, accepting all benefits without lending a helping hand or paying a cent.

Bro. L. J. Young, who formerly worked nights at Fortescue, is now working at West Grossdale, Ill., for the Q.

Mr. J. B. Lewis, agent at Brownsville, recently visiting in Chicago; relieved by Bro. U. S. Jessup, from the Alliance Division. John is still promising the boys to make good some time.

J. E. Henderson, nights at Firth, has filed his application and will be carrying an up-to-date card by the time this appears.

Bro. Mitchell, agent at Elk Creek, has been on leave of absence; relieved by Bro. J. H. Hartzell.

Mr. Lowrey, agent at Pawnee, has been enjoying a thirty days' visit at his old home in Indiana. Bro. Hartzell doing the necessary during his absence.

Bro. R. F. Tuebner, who has been the owl at Pawnee, was recently transferred to Hickman nights.

Bro. Bothwell has returned to Syracuse as day telegrapher, relieving Bro. H. G. Pennington, who goes to Fortescue nights.

Bro. Lovejoy, agent at Swanton, is reported to have made the fatal plunge in the matrimonial sea. Bro. A. F. Heskett, who lately returned from Colorado, is acting agent at Swanton.

Bro. F. M. Holtz, agent at Chester, has been enjoying a three weeks' vacation; relieved by Bro. Anderson, day telegrapher, Bro. Logan doing the day stunt and a Mr. Ford on nights.

Bro. Will Hitchcock was recently married at DeWitt, Neb., to Miss Berdie Barger, and has been taking in the sights at the Jamestown Exposition for the past thirty days.

Bro. Beck, agent at Liberty, was recently on the sick list; relieved by Bro. L. O. Nash, nights at Sterling, who in turn was relieved by Bro. S. P. Hamm.

"13" that some of the boys have not come across with the special assessment. This is not right; all should bear their portion of expenses.

Have you remitted for your new card? If not send $5 to W. A. Henry, Eriscon, Neb., and be right up with your dues.

No card, no favors.

Div. Cor.

Alliance Division—

The new schedule received the 10th and has no doubt been read by all. This schedule should please you all. Our committee did a most excellent work and we all should commend them for it. We are in duty bound to perform our work better in order that our employer will realize the fact that we appreciate our new schedule.

Handling switch lights is a thing of the past. This is worth more to us than many seem to think not because we are afraid to work, but because so much other necessary work had to be neglected to take care of them. Many thanks to the committee for their great success.

There are a number of new things in the schedule. Do not forget to familiarize yourself with them and see that you live up to them.

Our division seems to be purging itself of a great many of floaters and bum telegraphers. Hope the weeding out process continues until we can boast of the best division on the system. Let us all lend a helping hand to make it the best.

A number of stations are bulletined and a great many changes are contemplated.

We notice Bro. Earl Gordon back to his old stand in Seneca again. Understand he had quit, but seems that the raise that Bro. Johnson secured for Seneca station looked good to Earl.

We notice Bro. A. M. Bagley, local chairman, moved from Lakeside to Berwyn as agent; think this is much better than Lakeside.

Bro. Ernst to Lakeside as agent, and his wife as night telegrapher. Bro. Ernst should see that she fills out the necessary blanks and sends them to Bro. Henry.

A Mr. Riggs, wearing the "C. T. U. A.," has been doing the heavy work nights at Broken Bow, but has been relieved by Bro. Jordan, from the Sterling Division. Mr. Riggs has gone to Omaha for medical treatment.

Bro. H. P. Fagan, from the North Western, is relieving our General Chairman, Mr. J. Johnson, Anselmo, Neb., while he is on the road.

B. L. Livingston, at Litchfield nights. Bro. R. G. Kirkpatrick relieving Bro. M. J. Trego, who is on a vacation in New York and Pennsylvania. Livingston will make good soon; held back on account of age.

Mr. R. H. Pearman to Litchfield nights, and B. L. Livingston to Alliance helping agent.

Mr. J. E. Gibbs, nights Merna, relieving Mr. Flusher, who has left the service.

Mr. Hermann, nights at Hecla, relieving Bro. H. L. Brown. Have not heard where Bro. Brown is.

General Chairman M. J. Johnson just returned from lines east of the Missouri River, and he reports business very good and boys lining up fast.

Hope brothers west of Alliance will keep Bro. Bagley at Berwyn, posted west so he can give us a good write-up each month, as it shows life and progress.

I hope all brothers will pay dues promptly for the coming term and thus assist the General Secretary so he can devote more time to the Order. Also remit your insurance to cover same term. This will save us a great amount of trouble.

"YOUR UNCLE."

La Crosse Division—

As my little write-up of last month was honored it has encouraged me to make regular stabs hereafter. With the assistance of Bro. Rogers will try and make this one a little longer and a little more interesting.

How does that new schedule look? Looks fine to all I've spoken to about it. One thing looks exceptionally good and that is the last item in the book, approved by the company and by the committee. Now, you hardshell unbelievers can't say that the O. R. T. didn't get this increase and better working conditions. How it is that a man can stay out of the Order when he is receiving benefits which amount to many times the amount he puts in is more than I can understand. Some fellows wouldn't buy a dollar for fifty cents if they had the opportunity.

It's up to all of us now to get out and hustle after new members. Go in for it strong; most all the nons want to join now. Yours truly sent one application in to-day and prospects of more. "13," "SY," Lundin, on the Galesburg Division, is going to join. Now you can all take a lesson from that, for George wouldn't join if there wasn't something good derived by doing so. He is an old-time Order man and will make a good new man.

Everybody boost.

Bro. Wells, just from the Union Pacific, was a visitor in Dubuque not long since. He is now working at Dayton's Bluff, working the shady trick. He seems to be able to hold the trick without any difficulty. Bro. Wells at one time worked in the relay office in Lincoln on the Burlington. We are always glad to see a good up-to-date man take a situation on this division.

Bro. Reise, of Cassville days, was a caller in Dubuque lately.

Mr. Cummings situated in the new block office Dayton's Bluff.

South Junction, both nons with good chance of getting them in; don't know the names, as they are both new men.

At Grand Crossing, Bro. Betzel working days, and Bro. Olson, night man, laying off and away on vacation. New man by the name of Miller relieving him. Bro. Wolf at the station, is now wearing a smile that fails to fade; says the 80 per looks good.

It is about time Mr. V. W. Miller, agent at Stoddard, was lining up. He has seen what the boys have done for him. Bro. Fitzsimmons doing the owl act, and is a good worker for both the company and the Order.

Bro. J. H. Rogers, Jr., the genial agent at Victory, says he is glad to get back from Chicago, but feels lonely without his night man, as night office at this point has been closed. Bro. M. A. Griffin gone to Lytle to take day stunt.

Bro. M. A. Duffy has been acting as agent at De Soto for the past month while Bro. Clark has been off on a vacation. Bro. Gibbons still hanging out the dope nights.

At Hanover we have Bro. Engle of Division 93, holding the agent's utensils. "13" he has sent in his resignation, but think after he sees the $10 increase he will reconsider and stay with us.

It may be of interest to some to know that Bro. Norton, of "KB" office, Dubuque, on the I. C., has departed for Omaha to accept a position in the I. C. general office. Bro. Lacey relieving Bro. Norton. Good bunch of O. R. T. dispatchers and operators in this office. Stronger than horse radish.

Bro. Reemsten, formerly of "BU" office, Dubuque, who has been working various jobs on the I. C., is now situated at Dubuque Junction on the I. C.

Mr. R. E. McGowen (formerly brother), who held the day job at "X" office, Rock Island, for some years, has left the O. and is now working in the Rock Island dispatcher's office in Rock Island.

Now, brothers and others, boost.

HIGHPOCKETS.

McCook Division—

Bro. Stever now taking his meals Alma days.

Bro. R. C. Miller, Cedar Bluffs to Riverton, relieving Bro. Hart. Bro. Hart, as previously announced, leaves the service.

One Mr. C. E. Hoover takes Cedar Bluffs.

Bro. F. L. Enlow, late from the Sterling Division, relieved Bro. Pfrimer, Axtell. Understand Bro. Pfrimer off for a brief breathing spell.

Bro. Chris Lawritson now agent at Hartwell, formerly agent at Loomis, Sterling Division.

Bro. Dunn, Culbertson to Red Cloud nights; relieved by Geo. Spahn. Mr. Spahn has not yet reached the age limit to join.

Bro. F. L. Enlow, recently Axtell to Red Cloud days. Axtell now open and bulletined. Any brother wishing to test his gait here is a good opportunity.

Messmore, Red Cloud days, to Wymore relay office.

Our local chairman was recently called on by Bro. Johnson and reports renewed activity on all divisions of the Burlington. Bro. Johnson wished to be joined in his efforts to make this the banner year for new members.

The new schedule is tendered the glad hand, and recognized as the best ever up to date. But are not so sure as to its being the best we can expect, providing we demonstrate to our employers by means of our services that it is merited. This affords each and every one of us an excellent opportunity for effectively applying our shoulders to the wheel, and utilizing our efficiency in more forms than one.

Object "A" of our organization is to strengthen the profession, advance our working conditions and protect its upbuilders against injustice from different sources.

It appears reasonable to presume the O. R. T. can accomplish this by gaining the entire confidence of our employers. Their confidence can be effectively solicited by assuming the office of reconciler between the railroads and the general public. The two being equally dependent upon each other, and our duties bringing us in direct contact with the portion of the public from whom the company realizes its patronage, I believe the O. R. T. only when occasion offers, of course, can render their employers an appreciable service, the credit for which, when placed home shortens the distance between our present position and our somewhat distant goal.

Do not construe the last paragraph to mean that it is recommended to be pocketed as a specialty, but suffice it to say the right thing at the right time, and in the right place is usually crowned with the desired results.

Div. Con.

Sheridan Division—

Having secured our new schedule I wonder how many of the nons are going to decide to join. They certainly ought to regard the Order in a different light hereafter. No doubt they were building air castles before our committee reached Chicago as to what they were going to do with the increase. Now, brothers, get after those men and convince them where they are benefited by carrying an up-to-date card and where they are taking advantage of our efforts in the behalf of the profession on this division.

Our new schedule was quite satisfactory to almost all and should be to all. While the increase was not great in some cases, I see where in getting a station schedule it is quite a benefit. It shows we are progressing rapidly and can expect more in the future.

Bro. McColloch, Felix nights, off for a month's vacation, is visiting at home in Missouri. Do not look for him back after he gets acquainted with Missouri's new eight-hour law.

F. J. Gore relieved Bro. McColloch at Felix, who was later relieved by Telegrapher Conley. Conley's application goes in a few days.

Bro. J. D. Sipe, who has been out of the service for a year, is back at Coburn again.

Sister Zada Norton, of Garland, has been spending a few weeks with her sister, "FN," at Thornton.

Bro. Lempka, days at Gillette, took a pleasure trip to Upton a few days ago.

Bro. Elder, at Osage, is trying bachelor's life while his wife is away on a visit.

Bro. Foster, agent at "MC," is away on a vacation.

Dispatcher J. S. Tuper, from Alliance, will take Hardin (Ft. Custer) station, where he has a homestead. We can spare Mr. Tuper some blanks.

Mr. Peck, telegrapher at Lodge Grass, is building a house on his homestead near Hardin.

We have O. N. Norton, agent at Garland, back among us and glad to call him brother.

I made an error in calling Mr. O. A. Roode, of Verona, a brother. He is one who can not be convinced.

Bro. Logan relieved Bro. Vanlandingham nights at Dewey. Van has gone back to Missouri.

Sister Thomas, Clifton, off for a few days on a visit. Her son, Cliff, relieved her and drew his first check.

Bro. Patterson, as we can call him now, is catching destinations at Dewey.

Bro. Carpenter, of "CA," relieved Mr. Conley at Gillette.

We are glad to have a call from our officials occasionally, and as we hear no complaints feel that our services are satisfactory. Good services are what the officials want and we should give them the best answer, your calls promptly and make this division not only one of the best, but the best.

Telegrapher Mallory relieved at Arvada by Bro. Edsall, agent at Torst.

I am in receipt of a circular letter from Bro. Perham, our worthy President, and think it is one every member should read; also every one should answer his questions. We are arriving at a crisis now where it all depends upon the profession as to whether they help themselves or not. Especially to the members of this division the appeal should be adhered to. I do not think there is a single student on this division and that is the way we want to keep it. I am very well pleased with the line-up of this division. I think between Gillette and Edgemont we have three nons, two of which I am sending application blanks.

Now, brothers and sisters of Sheridan Division, I want your assistance in having a write-up for the journal each month. It will only cost you a postal card to drop a note to me. I like to see a write-up each month and I am sure you do. I have been appointed correspondent and I am going to do the best I can and will appreciate your help. A card will reach me by addressing to W. L. Kesinger, Rozet, Wyo. Please get notes in not later than the 20th of each month, and we will always have some kind of a write-up.

Telegrapher Redman, Alger, is filling out the necessary for July 1st. Still they come.

The O. R. C. gave a dance at Sheridan June 14th. Many of the trainmen laid off to attend and a fine time reported.

Boys, why not write Bro. Meehan about holding a meeting at least once a month on this division? I think we could get away and meet at least once a month. I do not believe we've had a meeting in the past six or eight months.

I think every one has a word of praise for our worthy General Chairman and Secretary and Treasurer. Their efforts in securing our new schedule were great and we all appreciate it. Their's is a hard task and while the new schedule may not be satisfactory to each and every one, we should stop and think of the territory covered by Div. 130.

Perhaps two-thirds of the members filled out the information blanks, the remainder were thrown in the waste basket and our General Chairman had to get the required information as best he could. All with whom I have talked think the raise fine, so I think all praise is due Mr. Johnson, Mr. Henry and our committee. Let us all thank them and hope for a little more next time.

Bro. Ross, from Crow Agency to Basin, as agent, with Sister Zada Norton as cashier. Basin has a warehouse man now.

Mr. H. W. Rakin, formerly clerk in Denver Yard office, relieves Bro. Ross. Mr. Rakin has been in the "Q" service about twenty years. seems like he has been in long enough to see the benefits the Order has obtained and give us his moral and financial support.

Fort Custer closed and depot moved to the new town of Hardin, two miles west. Mr. Tupper will open an agency there soon.

H. McLeese, from chief dispatcher's office, on nights at Hardin.

J. I. Breeding, from Wyola to Cody days; relieved by Bro. Byerly.

Toluca changes about every other day. Lewis, who worked there nights a short time, got his knee thrown out of place in some manner and is now in Sheridan having it repaired.

Dispatcher V. J. Smith was riding a freight over the west end a few days ago.

Wire No. 106 now cut through to Helena and the men in "BC" office are taking a rest.

Div. Coa.

Burlington Division—

G. A. Oliver, our worthy local chairman, is taking ten days off; guess he wanted to see how it would go to celebrate the glorious Fourth once more. He says he has worked four straight Fourths.

The local chairman exchanged a few ideas with Bro. J. V. Datin, at Bussey, for a couple or three hours one Sunday this month.

Bro. Fred Leveling is enjoying thirty days' vacation. A Mr. Cunningham is answering the calls at "FG."

Bro. W. W. Wade, nights at "JC," Des Moines freight office, has resigned.

Bro. J. C. Keck has been transferred to the freight office at Fairfield on the Ottumwa Division.

New man working at telegrapher's job at Winfield, by name of Thietton. We understand he is not O. R. T., but the local chairman is after him.

You can see a pleasant smile on the face of Bro. S. M. Iwman, our worthy agent at Tracey. He got a $12.50 raise on the new schedule.

G. A. OLIVER, L. C.

Ft. Madison Branch—

Mr. A. Henderson is on a few days' leave of absence on account of his wife being sick. Bro. E. S. Hubbard relieving him.

Bro. Hubbard will go to Wabash Junction, Ill., as extra night man for a week or ten days.

Bro. M. C. Mott went to Martinsburg, Iowa, for a few days' visit.

Bro. M. E. Stout and wife were off on vacation of a few days visiting in Martinsburg and Brighton, Iowa.

Bro. L. F. Giabel is hammering brass at the old stand after a month or so off on account of sickness.

We still have two or three nons on this line.

Things are as lively as could be down on this pike with one freight every other day. Cor.

Hannibal Division—

Not since I have been a member of the Order have I noticed items from this division. What is the matter? Why not wake up and appoint a division correspondent and have him, with our assistance, send in items each month, as I know all would enjoy reading them. Moreover we can get closer together when we know what is transpiring on our division.

Our committee secured a good schedule, which is a great help, although it might not suit all of us, but we can not always have things just like we want them, so I think we ought to be satisfied for the present. It won't be long before we will be working the eight-hour trick, which means more rest and enjoyment. It will also bring several changes.

We recently heard that Mr. Mears, agent at Foley, is going to leave us.

The owl trick is vacant at Elsberry. I suppose Mr. Best has a better job.

Mr. Jess Ferree, agent at Ashburn, has been promoted and the agency at Ashburn is waiting for some one to drop in. A good place for a good man who is not afraid of work.

Mr. G. A. Wilson was working a few nights at Old Monroe last week, while the regular man was laying off.

Mr. Geo. Moguir, night telegrapher at Seeburger, made a flying trip home Sunday.

Mr. G. H. Ferree, agent at Clarksville, who has been laying off for a couple of weeks, has resumed duty. Mr. Bryan Boyer relieved Mr. Ferree during his absence, and Mr. Maynard, the night man, relieved Mr. Boyer.

Mr. E. J. Heather and E. B. Anderson are holding down the day and night jobs at Peruque. Mr. Anderson was thinking about going to Elsberry, but he later concluded that he would rather stay where he is.

Bro. J. L. Crank, who has been holding down a stiff job at Olathe, Kan., is holding down Hannibal yard night job now. We welcome him into our midst.

Let us hear from some one c.se. CERT. 1249.

Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic Ry.

I note, with much interest, that there are a good many of the boys on the A., B. & A. who are thoroughbred O. R. T. members, and who are getting busy trying to do something for the great cause of labor, and indeed it is time. I hope the readers of this will pardon me for referring to myself personally, but it is necessary in order to explain what I would like to put before you.

It has been brought to my attention that there has been an agreement entered into with the Georgia Telegraph School, Senoia, Ga., to take the products of their "factory" and install them in the offices along the line, and allow them to complete their course in telegraphy, or, in other words, let the telegrapher do what the school is unable to do. It would not be right to allow these boys in the offices, even if we were paid something to complete them, and for the company to try to force them upon us at our own expense and danger is simply outrageous, and we must do something in our own behalf. It is unfair, and the officials know it, but still they continue to bother us with these little "pests."

Now, don't you suppose there would be a terrible "mix-up" if one of these "students" were to sit down in your absence and "bull" a train order? About the first thing that would look the poor telegrapher in the face would be a great big letter covering about two pages of ordinary paper, beginning something like this, "Please Advise Why," and then go on relating to him what he should have done, what he is supposed to do, and what he must do in future, and finally close something on this order: "If anything of this kind should occur again, we shall hold you personally responsible, and no excuses will be accepted whatever."

Now, who's fault was it that the order was "bullied?" Was it the fault of the "student?" No, from the fact that he was sent here to learn telegraphy, and how on earth is he going to learn unless he gets practice? Well, is it the fault of the telegrapher? No, for he was instructed to allow this "young man" to remain in the office with him to complete his course, and there is no way on earth for him to complete without the practice. Well, then, it must be the fault of the official who sent him, but still the poor telegrapher has to bear the burden, as is always the case when such things happen.

Now, I have been unfortunate enough to be bothered with some of these boys, but I made it a practice with the first one to always throw my feet upon the table directly in front of the key, and tried to make them as large as possible in order to hide the key from his view, but this was a little bit too troublesome, and the next one who presented me with his little note of introduction was told that I did not object to his remaining in town, but as to allowing him to remain in the office with me with a view of becoming a telegrapher it was out of the question, and he would have to look to some other source for help, and I think he got a little mad and reported the matter to the official who sent him, and I am glad to say that I have not been bothered with any more of them.

Now, boys, this is just a starter, and it is now time that we were making the fight of our lives for our rights. If we don't do something for ourselves, how can we expect the railroad company to do anything for us?

Let's each and every member work after our next-door neighbor until we get him in line, and then branch out a little further, and continue to branch out until we have a solid line-up of good, strong, faithful workers over the entire system.

Would like to hear from some good brother on this subject in the next issue of THE TELEGRAPHER.

"UNCLE JOSE."

Illinois Central Railway.

A very enthusiastic and instructive O. R. T. meeting was held in the K. P. Hall, Fulton, Ky., June 22nd.

The visiting brothers began to arrive on the evening trains and by 8 p. m. a crowd numbering about 70 telegraphers were anxiously waiting for admittance to the hall.

General Chairman, Bro. Mulhall, being introduced by Local Chairman, Bro. Mervin, the meeting was formally opened.

After installing the following officers the meeting was conducted by General Chairman, Bro. Mulhall: Chief Telegrapher, Bro. W. M. Merwine; Past Chief, Bro. O. D. Allen; First Vice Chief, Bro. T. P. Baird; Second Vice-Chief, C. R. Collins; Marshal, Bro. E. L. Mathis; Sentinel, Bro. L. C. Merwin; Secretary and Treasurer, Bro. E. Cosgrave.

The application of E. Goulder was presented by Bro. W. H. Waggoner, of Obion, Tenn.; same having been balloted on was accepted.

Three new members, viz., Bros. B. G. Boyd, E. H. Long and R. M. Ethridge, were initiated into the Order, the degree work being conducted by Bro. Mulhall, assisted by Bros. Mathis, Roming, Drewry and Norman. After those three new members were shown the inside workings of the Order several grievances were taken up, discussed and turned over to the General Chairman to be investigated.

Those who came from a distance were Bros. Shannon and Chance, from St. Louis Division; Bros. Stone and Walker, from Louisville Division; Bro. G. W. Fawcett, from Jackson District; Sister S. A. Isaac and Bros. Crockett and Goody, from Memphis, Tenn.; Bro. Reaves, from Covington, Tenn.; Bro. Rogers, from Fowles, Tenn.; Bros. Taylor, Cummings and Maloan, from Ripley, Tenn.; Bro. McGee, from Gibbs, Tenn.; Bros. Burns and Grueth, from Mayfield, Ky.; Bros. Hall and Aithen, from Martin, Tenn.; Bro. Dunn, from Weingo, Ky.; Bros. Goskin, Richardson and Fletcher, from Crutchfield, Ky., and Bros. Scott and Lynch, from Wickliffe, Ky. Also Bros. Robertson, from Mayfield, Godfrey and Murphy, Fulton.

After a short talk by Bro. Phillips, Division Agent I. C. Ry., and a lengthy exhortation from General Chairman, Bro. Mulhall, touching on the student question, we were treated to a long and well-worded speech from Bro. Shannon, who took up the work of the Order in Division No. 93 from its first inception to the present, showing very clearly in facts and figures the great benefits received by the telegraphers on the Illinois Central Ry. during the last four years, and calling on all members to live up to their obligations, give proper service to the railway company, etc. The meeting was duly closed at 12:30 a. m., to meet again at call of Local Chairman.

I do not deem it out of place to make a few remarks regarding the meeting, inasmuch as the writer has been affiliated with the Order of Railroad Telegraphers since 1893, and during all our experience, both in Grand Conventions and local divisions, he has never yet seen a better behaved, more decorous and attentive lot of members, and as these meetings are to be a regular occurrence on the Tennessee Division, we hope to be able to meet all the brothers and sisters again in the near future.

LOCAL SECRETARY.

Mississippi Division, Water Valley District—

The boys are sitting up and taking notice since our regular monthly meetings have commenced, and the result, we hope, will be beneficial to all. Our May meeting had to be postponed on account of Bro. Coggin, Local Chairman, being called to Chicago for a meeting of the General Committee, for what purpose has not been disclosed.

On Sunday, June 16th, a meeting was held at Grenada, there being thirteen members present (hope this presages no bad luck, boys), which, I understand, was an enjoyable one. Everybody seems pleased over the nine-hour law except the agents, and it's their time next. Of course, we can't get laws to benefit all at once, but the time is coming when we will all be on the road to health, happiness and hilarity, so don't kick but work for those nuns you have working with you over the 'phone or wire.

Bro. G. L. Jarnagin, who attended the convention at Minneapolis as a representative from this division, reports a good time.

In electing the old Grand Officers for new terms and upholding the Board of Directors in the Marr case, the Grand Division seems to have pleased all in this territory and doubtless the rest of United States and Canada concur in this feeling.

Bro. Ash, who has been working nights at Durant for several months, has been compelled to give up his position and seek the Western climate in search of health, and it is the earnest wish of all that he will regain his health and secure a good position in the climate best suited to his constitution. Sister Lucile Clayton has charge of Durant nights, relieving Bro. Ash. Bro. Coats relieved Bro. Jarnagin at Durant for couple of weeks in May.

Bro. J. R. Huff, from Vaughan nights, was successful bidder for Pickens days, relieving Bro. Briscoe, who was temporary relief of Bro. G. E. Weeks, who has resigned. May Bro. Weeks live long and prosper in his new field of activity, wherever it may be.

Second trick dispatcher, L. K. Butler, at Water Valley, is taking a vacation, being relieved by L. S. Houston, dispatcher on Grenada District, who was relieved by Bro. Colson, operator "NE," resulting in "NE" being filled by Bro. H. R. Weston, from "CF" yard office.

Bro. H. P. Osborn, days at Eskridge, has resigned and left for parts unknown. We are sorry to lose our oldest block man and floral artist. Bro. J. H. Henderson days temporary at Eskridge.

When the whippoorwills raise their voices in the summer twilight, the telegraph fraternity seems to have a vision of the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, and the result is—well, just ask your chief dispatcher.

Our next meeting will be held in Durant, and we will hear the usual excuses from those who are willing to let the other fellow hold up his end. "Can't get off today, reports to make out;" "Am feeling bad, had a chill last night;" "Got an engagement with my girl;" "Didn't think of it until too late to ask off." Now, let's cut out this excuse business and go to the meetings. There are some on this division who never attended an O. R. T. meeting in their lives, and do nothing but wear their card out in their pocket or let the rats eat it up in their trunk.

CERT. 240.

Omaha Division—

Well, brothers, get busy and do something. If you do nothing more than gather a few items for the journal each month, that will show that you appreciate the benefits you have reaped by the hard work of the Order. The Omaha Division is not up to the standard, and whose fault is it? If you were to give a truthful answer you would acknowledge that your own action to a certain extent are to blame for not having a better wage scale and working conditions. Brothers, stop and think what you should do between now and March 1st, when the National Nine-hour Law goes into effect. Are you going to keep still and let the railroads cut your wages, or are you going to stand pat and demand the $75.00 minimum? If you will give your assistance much can be accomplished. There are a few who would like to sit down and see a few members do everything. There is where you make the mistake of your life, for unless you all push and push hard you will never accomplish a thing and you will still be working for that lovely little sum of $55.00. My, but there is satisfaction in knowing that you make the magnificent sum of $55.00 per month working 365 days in each year, isn't there? How many of you are going to continue in that same old rut till you die? So long as you are satisfied conditions and salaries will be the same.

Now for a few changes: Mr. T. H. O'Donnell has been relieving the agent at Dunlap for some time, agent there away on a vacation. New office opened up at Coon River with Mr. Davis in charge. This is his first position so we want to line him up right away; don't let a non see a moment's peace until you land him; if you have no blanks let me know and I will send you some.

Bro. Freeman, formerly owl at Parkersburg, has resigned and gone to Seattle, Wash.

Student-teaching looks kind of bad for some of the brothers, and if it is not cut out there is going to be charges preferred. We don't need student teachers in our Order.

Night man at Ackley has resigned. Can't say who relieved him.

Bro. Nation, at "WB," contributed a few items this month.

Bro. Siep is now working side-table in dispatcher's office "CD,"

Bro. Mullis holding down "GD" days at present.

Bro. Codner was promoted to second trick dispatcher, but "13" he is going back to side-table, but not on account of him not being able to handle the trick, for he has made good, and we are all more than glad to see him doing so well, as a man earns all the promotion he gets on a railroad.

Mr. F. E. Sinkey is going back to first trick; this will put Mr. Townsend back to second. Mr. Adamson is coming to take Mr. Sinkey's place as chief and hope Mr. Adamson will do as well by us as Mr. Sinkey has, and all brothers should give our new chief the very best service.

Well, I will plug out for this time. So if you have any suggestions to make or any items, send them to me at 324 Central Avenue, Ft. Dodge, Ia. MISSOURI BILL.

Freeport Division—

Among the recent bulletins we have Munger nights; Freeport yard office days; Coleman nights; Freeport "DR" office days; Minonk nights for thirty days; Minonk days, for thirty days.

Bro. R. O. Kelly relieved Freeport yard office on bulletin, but upon trial he concluded that Coleman looked better to him than Freeport.

Bro. D. B. Krueger is at present working at Freeport yard office days while on bulletin.

Bro. Geo. Cox worked a few nights at Freeport yard.

Mr. I. F. Elliot (non) worked a few nights at Seward.

Mr. C. D. Bear worked a few nights at Irene, from there he went to Hudson to work.

Mr. Peterson worked at Perryville during Bro. Frank's absence.

Bro. A. B. Fretze is at present doing the extra stunt at East Jct. nights.

Sister Mead, of Mendota, has been enjoying a three-weeks' vacations. Can't say who relieved her.

We can now call H. J. Wernsman, of Kerrick, brother.

Bro. Wilson, of Wapella, is laying off for a few weeks; can not say who relieved him.

Mr. A. D. Miller relieved Mr. Halloway at South Addison days; can not say whether Mr. Miller is a brother or not, but we hope he is.

Bro. H. E. Kiester received East Jct. days on bulletin. This makes Joe nearer home, and more convenient for him.

Mr. Schultz relieved Bro. Kelly at Minonk while he is working in the interest of the Order. Bro. Funk relieved him while he was with the committee.

Bro. S. R. Crawford, at Genoa, is now kept busy handling the business for the new piano factory spur, which extends from Hart station up to the business portion of Genoa.

I am sure that all of the Gruber brothers are regretting the loss of dispatcher H. B. Evans, who has accepted a position with the Iron Mountain. H. B. E. was certainly a fine fellow; everybody had a good word for him. In Freeport he was known as a great baseball enthusiast, as he very seldom missed a game, knowing all the good points of the Freeport delegation. This puts C. S. Pack on as regular dispatcher and Bro. Lane as extra dispatcher. We wish them both success.

Bro. G. E. Cox is at present working extra in "DR" office, Freeport.

Bro. R. C. Eiser worked a week at Freeport yard office nights; Mr. I. F. Elliot relieved Bro. Eiser at Hart days.

Bro. J. G. Bennett enjoyed a few weeks' vacation, being relieved by Bro. Dresser. Upon Bro. Bennett's return Bro. Dresser relieved Bro. Eiser at Freeport yard office.

There was a meeting at Freeport June 24th. As I was working nights at the time I did not get to attend, hence failed to get any notes from the same, but I "13" there was a fair turn-out and a general good time manifested.

Bro. H. Steele's son took the examination at Freeport some time ago, but can not say as to whether he is working at present or not.

A severe hail and wind storm visited the vicinity of Hart the evening of the 21st, breaking several windows and scaring Mr. Elliot. The boys enjoyed quite a few showers of rain before the windows were replaced by new ones.

Well, I must get busy; will try and do better next month. "SHORTY."

Chicago Division—

A fine meeting was held at Kankakee Friday night, June 21st, thirty-two members being present, the B. P. & T. District and Gilman Line being well represented.

Bro. Morrison, Local Chairman, presided, and after calling the meeting to order and checking up and making out the O. S. & D's, it was found that Bro. T. Ryerson, from Pontiac, and Bro. Caley, from Thawville, were short. However, after the meeting adjourned the shortage was accounted for by finding these brethren at the dispatcher's office, where they had been waiting, not being able to locate the meeting place. This is bad, but we will try to watch a little closer the next time.

The following officers were elected: Chief Telegrapher, Bro. W. H. Morrison, Peotone; First Vice-Chief Telegrapher, Bro. C. R. Walters, Kankakee; Second Vice-Chief Telegrapher, Bro. V. E. Harper, Dewitt; Past Chief Telegrapher, Bro. W. Bash, Tolono; Secretary and Treasurer, Bro. G. Templin, Matteson; Marshall, Bro. C. W. McKnight, Melvin; Inside Sentinel, Bro. W. E. Pendergast, Merna; Outside Sentinel, Bro. C. O. Stone, Paxton.

Mr. C. I. Knittle, of Bradley, being in waiting, he was duly called forth and soaked, and is now a full-fledged O. R. T., and is entitled to wear the "button" and carry the "card." He should be addressed as Bro. Knittle.

The Special Committee, consisting of Bros. Bash, Harper and Walters, submitted their report on organization and local dues, and after discussion it was decided that no assessments be levied, but the expenses be paid by System Division 93, as heretofore.

After same discussion it was decided to hold regular monthly meetings, the next meeting to be held at Gilman the third Saturday night in July (20th), and at Champaign third Saturday night in August (17th), and again at Kankakee third Friday night in September (21st). This arrangement was made in order to allow the B. P. & T. boys to get into Kankakee on Friday night and back home, as there is no train running out on that pike Saturday nights.

Now, remember, regular meetings third Saturday nights at Gilman and Champaign, and third Friday nights at Kankakee.

Having regular meeting nights will enable each member to arrange his work and business so that he will be able to attend, and we believe that the attendance will be much better under this arrangement.

There has been several changes since last issue, among them the following:

Bro. E. C. Slingman, dispatcher on Gilman Line, taking his ten days' vacation; relieved by Bro. Porter, and Bro. Joe Adams, from Kankakee nights, working the "CK" night trick. Bro. Porter is now taking his ten days off, Bro. Slingman having returned to work.

Bro. Sharp returned to Kankakee "KB" tower nights, relieving Bro. Schniederjoh, who is now relieving Bro. Adams nights at Kankakee "HN."

Bro. Phelps now working nights at Gilman "CK," relieving Bro. Gerbel, who bid in the day job at Champaign dispatcher's office "HA," on temporary bulletin.

Bro. Kent, at Buckingham, was off for few days on account of the death of his mother, being relieved by Bro. B. C. Madison. We all join in extending our sympathy to Bro. Kent in his loss.

Bro. Madison now relieving Bro. E. O. Woolly at Pesotum, who is off on vacation.

Bro. Odell, at Roberts, relieving Bro. Barr, also on vacation.

There has been more changes, but am unable to give them now, as it keeps me going some most of the time chasing box-cars.

I understand that Bro. C. H. Holmes is to return to Kankakee in August and take a trick on Gilman Line, which will cause some changes in the line-up in "CD" and "HN." Will give them later. Am sure we will all be glad to have Bro. Holmes with us again, and to learn that his health has improved so much. "13" he weighs 170 pounds, and developed into a first-class cowboy while in the West.

I forgot to say that Bro. O'Connell is relieving Bro. Hatch at Kempton at the present writing, being relieved at Harpster by Bro. Madison.

Mr. E. J. Coss was to show up last meeting night for initiation, but failed to materialize, but I understand he will be on hand at Gilman next month, also expect one or two new members.

Let us have a good crowd next meeting night. Make special arrangements to be present, as it is expected that the meetings will be more interesting, now that we have re-elected officers and are getting in shape to do business.

We should have at least fifty of our own members present, and I understand the T. P. & W. boys are to be invited in a body to meet with us at Gilman, so let us have the biggest crowd we have had yet, and break the good record already made.

Div. Cor.

Gilman Line—

Being a little new at this business, and not thoroughly posted as to the correct time the write-up should reach our Division Correspondent, we were late with our former notes and they were not published. We remember one thing that was said in this write-up, that will be in order every time. Every brother on the district please send me any news they may gather during the month, and have it reach me by the 20th, so these write-ups will be made as interesting as possible, as it is not an easy job to sit down and undertake to give a line-up when you are not pretty well informed on the doings of the district. Please let me hear from each of you every month if possible.

While I think there are brothers along the line better able to fill this position than I, we don't expect to lay down, as we think every one ought to get at the wheel and keep it moving; if it had not been for some of our ambitious brothers see where we might have been today. I don't expect to take a back seat when asked to do something to help the good work along. If all would put forth an effort each month to do something, great good would be accomplished. However, we belong to a division we should be proud of, as statistics show we have more members on the division than there are positions on the railroad.

In behalf of the brothers of this division I wish to thank the committee for the most excellent work done in securing the new schedule. I think all are well satisfied. V. E. H.

Memphis Terminal—

One would judge from our continued silence and absence in these columns that we had all cashed in and closed our industrial doors to the world and retired into seclusion, presumably to remain for an indefinite period; but we beg to advise that this is erroneous.

The Memphis Terminal has never known such an (O. R. T.) awakening in its history, every member in the service is pushing the throttle to its last notch and taking a personal interest in all matters that concern the advancement of existing conditions.

We reluctantly acknowledge the presence of a couple of undesirable citizens, "nons," but if there is anything in signs and efforts their "non" state will soon be a thing of the past. When this is accomplished "woe unto the intruder who asks naught without the right and proper credential, for he shall be promptly denied and spat upon as in olden days of ancient custom." We calculate our per cent at 98, at this writing.

It seems peculiarly strange and unnatural that any sensible and fair-minded man who is in the railroad telegraph service at this time could not realize the absolute necessity of affiliation with this organization in consideration of its general progressiveness and the present status of prevailing conditions, which credit is due to the various chairmen of the respective divisions.

Yet there are numberless freaks who haven't enough common intelligence and conception of duty toward their fellowmen and those who are trying to bring about better conditions to show the least interest in this great work that has been slowly but steadily growing in favor in every part of the United States. These veritable degenerates are the detrimental issues that face us in our work and labors.

These are the so-called men who invade the pay-cars with a rush with all disregard to propriety and courtesy that characterizes a "gentleman," in order to be first to receive the money that is virtually stolen and wrung from the very labors of union efforts.

It would seem the proper thing upon these occasions for this class to doff their hats and humbly bow their heads in reverence and shame to those who honestly struggle for a deserved recognition and patiently wait until every one else had been paid and then back up to the pay-wicket, bowing and in addition say, "Thank you, boss!"—

It is rather unfortunate that "God" in his wisdom would permit this society of trespassers to live and breathe the same atmosphere that we do.

Viewing all these facts it is quite a consolation to know that the day is almost within our grasp when the doors of position and recognition will be closed against earth scums like these and nothing but the tried and the true will be admitted and permitted to associate with respectable men and honest toilers.

The boys at "GO" and every man on the Terminal is more than satisfied with his portion since the new schedule became effective, all of which credit is due to our General Chairman, Bro. W. P. Moore, who has endeared himself to us by his stand in the battle waged in our interest.

Bro. Moore, in sacrificing the possibility of his election as Railroad Commissioner to serve us as chairman, exhibited his true manliness and stalwart character, but we believe the appreciation that has been shown him in various ways by the boys has repaid him for his action, notwithstanding the greatness of the consideration. The entire Y. & M. V. system is to be congratulated upon its having such an able leader.

Bro. W. W. Wheatley, who was recently appointed Assistant Local Chairman of the Memphis Terminal by Bro. Moore, is doing effective work in this capacity that was hardly expected of an inexperienced officer. He is doing his best and simply asks the assistance of the brethren to carry out his policy of forcing the issue in every instance, which is being done without regard to personal consideration or position.

Bro. Albaugh, "Q," was called home suddenly few days ago account serious illness of his mother.

who is now greatly improved and he is with us again.

Bro. East, "WE," has influenza and has been under tender treatment for a few days. He will be out again shortly with his usual noise like a man working.

Bro. McKenzie has flown the coop and is in the north for a month's vacation. Bro. Lee is holding down North yard days during his absence.

Bro. Johnson, "J," at "MS," is still on deck, but says he is figuring on a big trip to Hushpuckana soon. Bro. Deberowski will follow suit as soon as "J" returns.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN, Memphis Terminal.

Tennessee Division—

I have just finished reading the June TELEGRAPHER. Seems as though everybody everywhere means business from the way the journal reads. I am very proud to say that the Tennessee Division of Division 93 certainly means business. We held a call meeting on the 22d, to transact business. Bro. Mulhall in the chair and quite a large attendance, between 65 and 70 present. Initiated three new members; other business of an important nature handled. The meeting was quite a success. Why can we not have a regular meeting every month? It would certainly be beneficial to all the boys on this division.

Not much news as none of the boys contributed anything.

Bro. W. H. Blackwell, South Fork days, who was off sick recently, has resumed duty.

Bro. W. E. Barbour, South Fork nights, off a few nights account sickness in family.

Bro. Cox (don't know his initials, but know that he is up-to-date), from the Louisville Division on the extra board. Bro. Cox is a good man and we would like to keep him with us.

Bro. Radford Fowlkes, nights, off a few nights account sickness; relieved by Bro. Wheat, from the extra list.

In conclusion, allow me to express myself freely on several subjects. The day is approaching rapidly when the telegraphers' nine-hour law becomes effective, March 4th, 1908. We are to begin to reap the reward of our past strenuous efforts; the nine-hour law has absorbed all our thoughts; we have no doubt worked very hard for this law, and when it becomes operative we must not think our work done. We must each and every one firmly resolve in our minds that we will positively teach no students, and that a non can not remain in our midst. We do not want our salaries cut when the hours are shortened, do we? It is the duty of all, not one or a few, to work for our Order with renewed energy, striving to strengthen it. What is desired is to raise salaries to where retired telegraphers will return to work. There are thousands of telegraphers who would return to the key if the eight-hour day and an $75.00 or $80.00 minimum were operative. If you retard the progress of the O. R. T. you retard your own progress. I urge you to think logically of the problem now confronting us, and you will find the work interesting in consequence.

If a non should read this let him consider that we, the O. R. T., have about reached that stage where, though he is a stumbling-block in our pathway, he is a small one and easily passed over. There must certainly be a lack of intelligence where constant persistence without a logical excuse is prevalent. If you are a sound man mentally you will not hesitate any longer, but enlist with us where your support will hasten the day that will crown our strenuous efforts with success, and last, but not least, fill our pocket-books a little above the average for the last twenty years or more.

Div. Cor.

B. & O. Ry.

New Castle Division—

Meeting of New Castle Division was held in Central Labor Hall, Akron, Tuesday night June 18th, with a good crowd present considering the train service on this division; the brothers from the east end did not arrive until ten o'clock, owing to No. 15 being about an hour later on the new schedule, but the east was well represented, several who have not attended meetings before being present, a total attendance of sixteen.

We are pleased to note that the organization is in better shape numerically than ever before. There seems to be an awakening all along the line, but there is plenty of room for improvement on this division. The station agents should now line up and help us and thereby help themselves. Several of them are now telegraphers and agents, but have so far failed to contribute toward expense of securing the benefits they have enjoyed for past five years. The main line is nearly solid, there being but one regular man east of Akron who is not a member, viz., night man at "TF" tower, who can see no good in the Order. We notice he took the $4.85 extra for blocking trains in May. The O. R. T. cheerfully hands him the money; he needs it, so do all of us, but we are willing to help get it.

Brothers, when a new man comes to work at your office search him for a card. It is not enough that he says "I am an Order man," or that he wears a button. Show him your card and make him produce the goods or treat him as a non. No card no favors is our motto, and now is the time we should observe it.

The recent night man at Akron Jct. resigned pay-day via the booze route. On investigation we find he was not an Order man, although he wore a button, for the certificate number he claimed to carry does not exist on the road where he claims membership. Watch these people and make them prove themselves worthy of fraternal courtesies before extending them.

It was decided at the meeting that we would not try to establish a regular meeting time owing to poor train service, but would hold a meeting about once in three months and then make a special effort to attend even at the expense of a night's sleep. Watch for the notices and be present.

A large majority of the dispatchers on B. & O. have joined the O. R. T. and shown themselves as worthy of being classed as men. Brothers on these divisions should extend them the glad hand and best of fraternal assistance. We have some good men in dispatcher's office at New Castle, and wonder why they can not see the benefits to be derived from thorough organization.

When you hear an official say that it will be impossible to fill the positions on an eight-hour basis between now and next March, and that they will have to get the time extended, remind him that there are enough telegraphers on this division working as agents and clerks to put every position on eight hours, and the majority of these men would be glad to work in the telegraph department if they could get a living salary and reasonable hours, and as soon as the company is willing to pay a little more money for skilled telegraphers than they pay for ignorant track men, just so soon the supply will equal the demand.

Have you noticed the rush of men seeking employment here this month? Soon as it was known that the B. & O. was putting on eight-hour jobs telegraphers began to come like flies to a honey pot. Don't swallow all the hot air you hear about a scarcity of telegraphers, especially when it is used as an argument to induce some one to take a student. There is a scarcity of money, not telegraphers.

Second trick was advertised first of June at "UN" tower, New Castle Jct., Ohio Jct. and Akron Jct., but have not heard of the men being placed, although the time expired several days ago. We hope to see Lodi draw an eight-hour day; it is surely needed at this place.

Block wire is working between Akron Jct. and New Castle Jct., with Bro. McFall as relief man while the position is being advertised. We wonder why this position was not advertised in May so the man who was entitled to the position could have done the relief work in June instead of an extra man.

Many new men who are not up-to-date are hitting the pike since there is a possibility of eight hours. Get after them, brothers, and get them in the fold once more.

Bro. McCannon, Boughtonville nights, was off few nights; relieved by Mr. Martin, a new man at the work. Bro. Gleason, agent same place, is still looking for that day telegrapher.

Bro. Marshall, agent at Sullivan, is taking a trip towards the Jamestown Exposition. Hope he has a pleasant time. Bro. Marshall is always on the right side of the fence with an up-to-date card in the right side of his coat.

Bro. Sarff has bid in Newtons days.

Bro. Snyder has been assigned to "B" tower days and settled down to enjoy his old age.

We hear V. P. McLaughlin has resigned the agency at South Akron to return to the telegraph service. We surmise Mac has his eye on second trick at Akron Jct. Hope to see him establish his membership in the near future.

Bro. Jones, at Newton Falls, who enjoyed two days at hands of relief telegrapher. Bert says he hardly knew how to eat a warm dinner.

Bro. Davis, at Ohio Jct., is one of the lucky eight-hour men. He recently attended his first meeting and says he will come again.

Bro. Maloney, at Lowellville days, had the misfortune to slip on a banana peel and fall, dislocating his hip. Bro. Johnston is doing the day act during Bro. Maloney's forced vacation.

Bro. Robinson, of New Castle Jct., was absent from the meeting. We hope it will not occur after the third man goes on.

Bro. Faust, at Hazelton, recently enjoyed a two weeks' vacation; relieved by Bro. McFall.

Day and night office at Girard was closed middle of June. Mr. Mohn remains as clerk, Bro. Quigley going to P. Y. & A. nights.

Hammon and Hammond still at West Farmington, and seemingly as far in the cold as ever. We wish some one could convert these two.

J. P. Hennesy, at East Claridon, has asked for application papers, but has not had the necessary experience. He was a member of the B. of L. F. until he lost both limbs, when it became necessary for him to change his occupation. Mr. Hennesy sees the need of organization among the telegraphers.

Bro. Gray, Chardon nights, was off one night; relieved by Bro. Browning, agent at Middle Field. Bro. Maynard off for a few days; relieved by Bro. Holstead, who is now at Akron Jct. nights.

Day and night office was opened at Summit Siding June 4th, and block removed from Middle Field, relieving Bro. Browning of the "OS" work.

Day and night office also opened at Concord on the Hill.

Bro. Milburns days and Mr. Kehres nights at Painesville, rushing the summer work. Understand the Lake Branch is doing more business this year than ever before. This should be good argument for more money for the telegraphers.

It is now time to pay dues and we hope every member will be prompt and see that his neighbors do not forget the duty they owe their Order. Help the Order while the Order helps you.

UNCLE TOM.

Wheeling Division—

There is rejoicing at St. Clairsville Jct., Ohio, Narrows, W. Va., and Cameron, W. Va. The third man was put on at these places in June and these boys say they feel like fish out of water after their eight hours has been worked. At St. Clairsville Jct. Bro. Williams, first trick, Bro. James E. Holloway, second trick, and Mr. C. G. Pratt has third trick until it is advertised. Mr. Pratt has asked for papers so he will soon have an O. R. T. card. At Narrows, Bro. C. L. Hall, first trick, Bro. W. M. Queen, second trick, and Bro. E. A. Wilson, third trick until advertised. At Cameron, Bro. H. Zimmerman, first trick, L. Shirlen, second trick, and Bro. Ice, third trick until advertised. The Division Operator will have no trouble filling these third tricks. Bro. W. M. Queen kindly gave me the news from the east end.

Have you noticed those big O. R. T. buttons our dispatchers are wearing lately? It's a sight for sore eyes to go into "Q" now and meet the boys. Mr. C. H. Bonnisson is the only one that did not join.

Mr. T. F. Corcoran has been appointed Division Operator for Wheeling and O. R. Divisions, which position we feel sure he will fill with credit to himself and honor to the B. & O. Ry. Mr. Corcoran was for years a dispatcher in the Wheeling office, and well deserves the promotion. Mr. F. C. Moran, our past Division Operator, is now relieved of many of his former duties, which makes his position much more desirable.

Bro. G. C. Marshall has been promoted to the dispatcher's desk, and keeps trains moving like an old hand. Being a new man in that responsible position the boys should help him whenever possible.

Bro. P. S. Rushford, of Mannington, has been promoted to a trick dispatching in Wheeling, and is making good.

Bro. J. M. Stiles now has day trick at Mannington.

Bro. R. F. Fetty, of Glover Gap, is taking a few days' vacation, being relieved by Bro. Geo. Webner, who comes from the Colo. Southern.

Our old Local Chairman, Bro. A. G. Youst, is back at his old position at Glover Gap, after spending a year in the far West. The trip surely improved his health, as he looks more like a Dutch saloon-keeper than a telegrapher.

Bros. H. E. Johnson and C. H. Swayne have left the service to accept positions with the Pope Natl. Gas Co. at Round Bottom. They say they will come back soon as we get an eight-hour day.

Bro. N. C. Little is again at his desk at Roseby Rock, after taking his vacation.

Bro. Harry Arrick is working at New Martinsville on the O. R. Division at present, account shortage of telegraphers on that division.

Bro. Strum relieved Bro. Wilson at Mannington while the latter took a vacation.

Bro. E. E. Holloway is back at his post at "FI" tower, after taking a trip through the East, and reports seeing all the sights at the Jamestown Exposition.

Bro. R. T. Salisbury has been assigned to "DK" tower nights.

Bro. C. H. Mitchell has been assigned to Bridgeport nights.

Bro. B. W. Mullett, at Schicks, was off a few days account of sickness, but has resumed work.

Bro. T. L. Ellis relieved Bro. Holloway at "FI" tower, being relieved in turn by F. H. Worthington, from Tunnel Siding, who was relieved by McFarland, from Maynard, a new man.

Mr. Van Fossen is at present holding "K" office Holloway days. Van has asked for papers and will be with us soon.

We are extremely sorry to hear that Bro. C. E. Miller has resigned his office as Local Chairman. It will be difficult to get another man to fill the position as well as Bro. Miller did, and his presence will be missed by all. The office of Local Chairman is a difficult one to handle, and, as Bro. Miller says, you can't please them all. It should be remembered that the Local Chairman of one division is not the whole cheese, and unless given good support by the rank and file his position is not a very desirable one. We extend our heartiest thanks to Bro. Miller for the manner in which he successfully handled our interests while Local Chairman, and deeply regret that he can not be induced to continue holding that office.

Bro. C. A. Lovejoy relieved dispatcher Bro. H. G. Woodward while the latter took his vacation; Bro. Shields holding Lovejoy's chair as copier. Bro. W. F. Burke, copier, left June 19th for his vacation.

Bro. M. B. Rickey has returned from his Western trip and is at present copying on East End at night. Glad to see him back.

Two new side wire men in the dispatcher's office, Fred Reynolds, of Fairmont, and Will Camer. Am unable to say whether or not they have up-to-date cards, but if not they will not work long in "Q" without one since all the dispatchers belong.

Our laws were amended slightly at the convention in Minneapolis. Station agents are now eligible, also telephone operators, which was a good move. Now let us get after the agents on our division and pull them in.

I see by the Fraternal Department of THE TELEGRAPHER that telegraphers are very scarce on every road in the country. This is encouraging and brings nearer the day when telegraphers will receive living wages.

Have you all send for your new cards? They are now ready and each member should send for his at once.

CERT. 729.

Philadelphia Division—

As there has been no meetings on this division since last January, and none on the Baltimore Division for over a year, we certainly are at a loss for news of any character. No meetings reported in TELEGRAPHER from Maryland or West Virginia for May. Can't some of the boys in West Virginia enlighten us some little regarding the conditions existing there? Each telegrapher should delegate himself a Committee of One to help remedy the most serious things complained of by Cert. 729, of Wheeling Division in June number.

Wake up, boys, and when things are not going right, don't hesitate to say so. Be sure you are doing that which is for the benefit of the fraternity, and don't turn backward. Do not let those old foggy sayings of "disorganizing the Order and sorehead" keep us from doing our duty. Where would the Order have been today if our Grand Officers had have listened to such sayings as these?

President Perham was in Baltimore June 19th and attended a meeting of Division 17. His speech certainly was instructive.

The boys of Division 33 in Maryland have been trying since last April to get members on the Legislative Committee to co-operate with those appointed by Baltimore Division 17, but with no success. On June 19, at the meeting of Baltimore Division 17, Bro. Pierce, Local Chairman of Baltimore Division 33, asked for more time, this being the request of the General Chairman Van Atta. So it was decided to give him a little more time for consideration. CERT. 421.

Cleveland Division—

I was in hopes that I would get a boost from some of the brothers who attended the meeting at Massillon the 21st, in order to make a reasonably newsworthy write-up for our division this time, not being able to attend myself, but as yet have heard nothing regarding the doings there. Would like to have been on hand, as I suppose our chairman, Bro. McCoy, had plenty of news from the convention.

Each brother should make it a business to furnish our chairman with the news of our division. In this way we could make up a good item for the journal, which would prove of more interest than hatching the same old thing over and over each time.

Received a card from Bro. W. D. Rose the other day. Bro. Rose is located in Maxwell, Colo., on the U. P. Ry. Have requested him to let us know what is doing out there so we could give it to the brothers through the journal.

Glad to announce that Mr. J. E. Hanes, Everett, and Ford Hoover, Botzum, have affixed "brother" to their names. Henceforth you may call them brothers. Very glad to see Everett and Botzum solid once more. We should devote our attention to Mr. Schilling, Canton freight house, as well as the men at Peninsula, Boston Mills, Brecksville, South Park and Brooklyn, not forgetting East Akron. Each brother make it a point to talk to these men and secure their names for membership. If we could only do this it would make the Valley solid. This part of the Cleveland Division seems to be much slower than the C. L. & W.; still there are a few old hangers over there. But Bro. McCoy has them on the run most of the time.

Understand telegrapher Schott, East Akron, informed the Division Operator that there was no room at that point for any more prospective telegraphers, so the prospective one had to go to South Park.

The East Akron force surely must be very busy with their regular routine of work and the side line of hams. They are to be pitied. Surely ought to have some more help there so one man could devote his undivided attention to the prospective young sprouts at that point.

Schott has plenty of chance to practice up on the work himself, as he is "instructor" in the Miller-Simpson Telegraph School at Akron, we understand. Wish we could get these boys to the front, where every true telegrapher should be, and to appreciate what the O. R. T. means to them and what a handicap it is to the O. R. T. to knock against it in this manner.

Schott has been in the business long enough to become a member. And he has said that as soon as he had been in the business long enough he surely would join the O. R. T. He should now be as good as his word.

Bro. Darland, Canton scale, has taken the night trick at Cleveland "CS" office. Sorry to see Bro. Darland leave us, but we will still have him on the division. We find him to be an active worker for the O. R. T. "CS" means a promotion for him. Do not know who is going to take his place at Canton scale.

Bro. Harris, Sandyville, very much regretted that he could not attend the meeting at Massillon, but thinks that he will be able to do so next time.

That's a new face at Brecksville. Do not know his standing. N. DeWitt, ex-agent at that point and an old promise (so old that it is stale), gone to South Brooklyn.

Be ever on the alert to forward the cause which benefits you the most—the O. R. T. Keep at the nons—convince them that they are in the wrong. Each member should be an organizer and in this way better our conditions. The railroads are looking out for themselves, not for you. And do not think for a minute that when you positively will not join the O. R. T. that you are bettering yourself, or gaining prestige with the railroad company. In acting this way you show them what kind of a sucker you are, just the kind the O. R. T. have you booked.

Step in line. Carry an up-to-date card and get the O. R. T. journal in the bargain, free of all further cost to you, and through this journal find what a wide world this is after all, instead of the narrow space in which you have been hopping.

Send your journal to some non as soon as you are through with it. Bro. Sr.

C. and N. Division—

To start the ball rolling I will send in a short write-up for the C. & N. Division, and if it appears in our journal it will be the second one I have seen in the past three years. Just think of it! Is there no remedy for this? Why not appoint a correspondent, then not only one or two, but all of us help him gather news? Is it any wonder those out of the Order don't come in? Look in your journals and note that most write-ups are headed "Our meeting of a certain month, etc." We never see anything about our meetings. Why? Because we never hold meetings, I am sorry to say.

Remit for a new card, if you have not already done so, then let's all get busy and make things lively on this division of the B. & O.

I "13" there will be about three new members for the new term. This will run us up well on the 100 per cent.

Bro. Ganes, at "BK," Black Lick, has his hands full since he added to his position the task of a switchman.

Mr. Tyhurst, a telegrapher for forty years, is still pounding brass at "KO" tower, Pataskala, though he uses a field glass to see the B. & O's. big engines, "he is right there with the goods."

Bro. Dildine, at "BR" toewr, Union, is holding the day trick while Bro. Marsh does the owl act.

Bro. Danford, Outville days, has returned to his post of duty after copying a few days extra at "GD," dispatcher's office Col. C. D.

Phillips did the day stunt at Outville during this period.

Will have to ring off for this time, as I am not familiar with changes. Let some better-informed brother try his hand at it next month. Let's also try and have a meeting in the near future. CERT. 806.

Monongahela Division—

I have not seen anything from the Monongahela Division for some time.

We have several new men on this end of the division in the past month; I can hardly keep track of them.

Bro. C. A. Stealey is doing his regular turn again at night at "WD" tower.

Bro. M. E. Price is holding the extra turn at Fairmont passenger station until some one is assigned to it regular. It has been advertised some time and we expect Bro. Willey, from Gaston Jct., will get it regular.

I am unable to give the names of the new men who have come in the last few weeks, but from what I can learn I think they are all up-to-date.

Bro. W. C. Willey has left the service. Very sorry to see him leave us, for he was a good man and up-to-date. Well, I will ring off for this time. CERT. 1198.

B. R. & P. Ry.

A meeting of Division 92 was held at DuBois, Pa., Wednesday evening, May 29th. Owing to the absence of Bro. Childs, General Chairman, the meeting was called to order at 9:45 p. m. by Bro. McGraw, Local Chairman Middle Division. Bro. Simmons, delegate to the convention, gave a very interesting talk on what had been done at Minneapolis.

Other business was then taken up and disposed of, after which meeting closed at 12:30 a. m. The attendance was fairly good, but should have been better. Several of the Middle Division members were conspicuous by their absence.

The Erie has closed a contract with this line, by which Erie trains use B. R. & P. tracks from Clarion Jct. to Eriton, and are now running their trains over the B. R. & P. between these points. A new connection has been made at end of double track, north of Brockwayville, and all the coal, which formerly was hauled over the P. & E., is now brought to this point, and then over B. R. & P. to Clarion Jct. A new telegraph office has been opened there.

The following are changes this month:

Bro. Britton, DuBois nights, to Falls Creek days.

Bro. Burke, Howard days to Bradford days.

Bro. Lennon, Dent days to Howard days.

Bro. Fitzgibbons, Riverside Jct., nights to Dent days.

Bro. McGraw, Idlewild days to "WA" tower days.

Extra telegrapher Cailor going to Idlewild days.

Bro. Morrissey holding Riverside Jct. nights temporarily.

Bro. Shoemaker, Bradford nights, has bid in the position as relief agent with headquarters at DuBois.

Bro. Warner, East Salamanca days, off few days; relieved by Bro. Flynn, regular night man. Office closed nights account short of men.

Bro. Croker, Newton nights, off few days; relieved by extra telegrapher Cailor.

Bro. McGraw, Idlewild days, off few days account sickness; relieved by extra telegrapher Cailor.

New men at "WA" tower, Rasselas and Bingham nights.

Two new members in during the month. Come ahead, boys, there is room for more. CERT. 111.

St. Louis Division, No. 2.

The month of June finds the telegraphers of Missouri confronted with a question that is at once unique and unprecedented. On the 14th of the month the bill known as "the railroad telegraphers' eight-hour bill," as enacted by the last session of the Missouri legislature, went into effect. The situation was a puzzle to the telegraphers on account of the contention on the part of the railroads that the bill did not go into effect until some time later and with the further declaration by a few of the companies that they did not propose to obey the law at all. This was obviously a ruse to disconcert the telegraphers, which was quieted by a circular quoting the Secretary of State on the subject, who ruled that the bill became effective on June 14th, which was mailed to each member of the O. R. T. in Missouri.

However, the fact still remained that the railroads, with one or two exceptions, had made no preparation to observe the requirements by furnishing the third man at two men stations. A number of communications were addressed to our secretary, Bro. J. W. La Fever, soliciting advice on the subject in the event that they were not furnished relief at the expiration of eight hours' work on June 14th. Bro. La Fever uniformly replied that they should continue at work under protest to proper official.

A number of men on the C. & A., Burlington and Frisco Railroads took the enforcement of the law in their own hands and quit their keys at the expiration of eight hours. This situation continued for several days, but at last accounts all are working twelve hours pending further developments or a final settlement of the question. Notwithstanding the fact that the enforcement of the law devolves on the State and county officials, the Missouri membership seem disposed to refer the matter to the organization for adjustment, and to this end chairmen of the Missouri divisions have taken steps to canvass their constituents with the view of taking concerted action to force a compliance with the law. Their decision is yet unannounced.

Information against ten officials of the Missouri Pacific and M., K. & T. Railway have been issued by county prosecutors, which will place the matter before the grand juries of the several counties at their next sitting.

In the event that indictments are found the constitutionality of the law will be determined in due course. The framers of the act are confident that the bill will stand all tests, the measure being a copy of the Maryland law, which has escaped annihilation at the hands of the Supreme Court of that State.

Further developments will be communicated to the membership as they come to hand.

Bro. P. P. Molloy made a flying trip to Springfield, Ill., Sunday, June 30th. Bro. F. J. Bick to Hannibal, Mo., Sunday, June 16th. Bro. H. V. Evans passed through St. Louis, Mo., July 1st en route for Carrollton, Texas, for Cotton Belt Railway.

Bro. E. L. Stump, General Chairman of the Union Pacific System Division, and Bro. M. J. Johnson, General Chairman of the Burlington, recently visited the general offices.

Elsewhere in this number will be found the photograph of Bro. O. L. Neal and Miss Edith Huffman, both of Arthur, Ill., who were married at Clayton, Mo., on June 18th, by the Rev. Uhdan. The pair were accompanied by Bro. T. A. Lane, of Div. No. 2, who had previously made all arrangements for license and ceremony. The best wishes of Div. No. 2 are extended.

THOMAS AQUINAS, Div. Cor.

C., C. & St. L. Ry.

Cairo Division, South End—

Since our last letter to THE TELEGRAPHER we have had one month more of advancement and experience, in which time we should be able to write something new in regard to the O. R. T., and our progress. Of course, we understand that our lives are just what we make them, and we should endeavor to climb to the highest stage of advancement. We know that it takes time to do these things, but we must not give up so quickly, but be faithful to our Order and labor diligently, for the time is near at hand when the telegraphers will have only eight hours to labor, eight hours for pleasure and eight hours for sleep. It seems as if God intended that we should have something of that kind, and we should be very thankful for the law which will be effective March 4, 1908. Let us endeavor to get the nons in line if possible.

Bro. Simpson, who has been absent for about two weeks, has assumed his regular job as day man at Cairo. Bro. C. Penrod is owl at Cairo, at present, relieving Bro. Roy Weaver, a brother of Dispatcher Weaver. Am unable to learn what became of Bro. Roy.

I have secured the application of one telegrapher who is working for L. & N. and am after some more of them. It does not make any difference where they are or who they are, just so they are competent. We want them in our Order, as you "13" the more we get, the stronger our Order will be.

Bro. C. Morlan, who has been working days at Carmi, upon being relieved by Mr. G. Schrader, non, has again assumed his regular job as night man.

Mr. Gwin and Mr. Harrell, former nights and latter days at "GS," have their applications for membership made out and are waiting for pay day, when they will become members of our grand Order.

Mr. Land, new man from the L. & N., working days at Eldorado, is waiting for a pay day so he can join, too.

I "13" several of the towers are being put into service along the line, but we can hear a good deal of complaint, as the boys say that there is some work attached to the handling of these towers. Stay with it, boys, and maybe after a while we will get more money for our labor.

Now, let all work for our own and our brothers' interest also and our conditions are sure to improve.

CERT. 306 & 298.

Michigan Division—

Brother telegraphers, it is true that we did stand pat long enough to get a schedule, but do we intend to lay down now? As you are all aware, this division has had so many changes among the telegraphers and agents in the last two months, that it is rather hard to determine just who are and who are not members. One thing we want to do, and that is to locate the nons. Keep at them until we succeed in our efforts to get them in line. Let us get busy and do all we can. Interest is fast dying out, and if we don't do better than this, we will soon lose that which we worked so hard and diligently to secure.

Another thing I would like to call your attention to, the fact that ham factories are too numerous. Shame on the man who will turn down his fellow men for a few paltry dollars received for tuition.

We extend to Day Telegrapher Eiler, at "WC," our heartiest congratulations. Glad he is in line. There is work for all.

We have come to the conclusion that we will give the boys another chance. In our next month's journal you will see who are the weak-kneed men on the Michigan Division. We have decided to publish all nons' names in THE TELEGRAPHER. Now, who is it that wants their name under such a heading?

Well, boys, I'm getting "25." Will close.

E. M.

Peoria Division, West—

There is going to be a meeting in "DI," and let's all go. Now, boys, this is not to be an old fashioned camp meeting, nor an old settlers' meeting, a hop, nor a fish fry, but it is going to be a meeting of the telegraphers of System Division No. 138, and this includes us—we of the P. & E., and there might be something put on in the show line that we would want to see, and if we fail to attend the meeting, we would be kicking ourselves for six months to come. Now, boys, let all who can possibly get off attend and make it a success, and try ourselves for once and endeavor to find out what our neighbors are doing.

We have to get 25 on the west end of the old P. & E. and get the nons in line. We have several large gaps in our line and it is time that one and all get busy and get them on the right side. Of course, there are some one or two undesirable, one in particular; one who has shown the black flag of the pirate and has flaunted it in our faces, while we were struggling to gain recognition, by watching the wires closely, making notes of everything that passed in regard to the Order and sending it to the division superintendent, thinking to put a feather in his hat by so doing; but instead of this, he is being held in contempt, and to any superintendent, or any man of any depth of thought, an act of this kind could only create one feeling, and that is one of distrust. And again, you may go a little deeper into this question and reason it out for yourself; that if a skunk like this will stab his fellow worker, he will certainly do his employer dirt also, and is not to be trusted in any respect whatever.

Now, boys, there is only one way in which to curry favor with the officials, and that is to do your work and do it well, and by so doing we win the respect of our employers, and if there is any favors shown, we certainly will see our share.

Now, what we want to impress on the mind of the public in general is that the Order of Railroad Telegraphers is not a band of organized cut-throats planning and plotting to blow a bank safe or hold up the several railroads over the country, but that we are an organization formulated for our own self-protection and preservation, and to be successful in this we must be solid O. R. T. from the heart out, and keep our eye skinned for just such vipers as the one which I have just mentioned.

The good old summertime is here once more, after a series of delays for which there can only be one cause, which I can only attribute to the weather dispatcher being grouchy to his telegraphers and driving them out on a strike and tying the summer train up on a siding where there was a telegrapher from the Danville school. But with all the delays, summer is here and the evidence is plain, for everybody is looking forward to their vacation, some quitting, and others like myself, broke, and have to stick to business.

There have been some changes in the last few days. Bro. Johnston, of "WG," days, Danville, going to "KD," Belt Xing, Moorefield, nights. Better "mun," so says the "Immortal JN." Bro. Poyner, of the owl shift, is now working days, and Bro. Casey, of New Burnside, on the Cairo Division, is doing the night stunt.

Bro. Parker, who has been off, resting up a few days, is now back on the grind again, and he works like it did him good to get his feet under his mother's table.

Bro. Scott, nights, is laying off for some mysterious cause; don't know why, but can only make a good guess and keep our thoughts to ourselves.

Harry Rynearson, of Hillsborough, is doing the night stunt at "SY," in place of Bro. Scott. Harry is a promising young man and we think he will make a good live one as soon as he is old enough, and we hope to have him with us before very long.

Bro. Scotten is taking his vacation now, and also taking in the sights in the CX city of Hoosier.

J. J. Houlihan, non, of Ogden, is working 'extra in his place.

Bro. Livengood is looking forward to his vacation, which he is figuring on taking about the middle of July, going to the "Windy City," and a good lake breeze.

It is our understanding that Bro. Mead is going to accept a position with the traction line in the near future. Bro. Mead is a good man and a member of the Order, and we are sorry to lose him, but if he is bettering himself financially, and we know that he will better himself conditionally, we say, "GA." Moves like Bro. Mead is contemplating only proves our assertions, and they are, that as soon as a telegrapher gets his eyes open and finds there is something better in this world than the long, dreary hours he has to put in as a telegrapher, he will change his vocation to something which is better fitted to his finer nature. And it is not until the several railroads of the country come over with the inducement that these changes will stop, and further, as soon as they begin to get what is due them in the matter of compensation for the duties performed, there will not be the shortage of men which the General Managers' Association is howling about at the present time on account of the passage of the Murphy bill, for the good men, like Bro. Mead, will come back into the service.

We are pleased to say that we have added one more solid O. R. T. station to our list, "Mansfield," Bro. Vaughn; which now closes the gap there. This don't look like the old "Poor and Easy" was going to be sick very much longer, and now we think that the time has come that we may throw the bottles away and get to work; so let's get 25, for all we need now is plenty of hot air and exercise.

We think a good organizer, going over the west end of the P. & E., with a goodly supply of groceries, could do some business; but again, we don't "13" why it should be necessary for an organizer to go over the line when the nons are here with us every day and can see for themselves the good the Order is doing, and should be able to see the necessity of our being organized to a man. Now, fellows, what is the use hanging back; why not thaw out and get right?

Bro. Hamilton is back at the key after being off on account of sickness.

Bro. McBride, nights, is laying off for a few days on account of sickness in the family. Guy Alter, an extra man, relieving him, is reported to be the owner of an up-to-date card.

Now, boys, if I have missed any of you, don't feel sore about it, for we are doing the best we can and are working at a disadvantage for this reason, that the boys will not come over with the news. Now, the question of a good write-up depends largely on the support your correspondent gets from you who are out on the line. If you don't give him the goods, he is unable to make good. Now, don't be stingy with your news, but hop over with it and we will work it up into some kind of shape and make a showing.

Here we are starting in on the last half of the year of 1907, and we are in hopes that the last half will be as prosperous as the first half was. There is no reason why we can not make it so, and to do this we would suggest that every man become active by paying up his dues and hike into the nons in a good old-time rail mauling style, and we will make the same if not better progress that was made in the last six months.

While your correspondent was in Minneapolis, attending the convention, he got hold of a copy of the Iron Trail, a R. R. man's publication, and in reading it over we found an article on publicity which put us to thinking, which we are rarely ever guilty of doing, and as these thoughts were good dope, in our estimation, we have come to the conclusion that we had better register them. Now, the ideas I drew were to this effect, that the speechmaker would have the cause and blame made public for all the railroad wrecks, and was rather radical in his denouncement of the men in the train service and of the telegraphers for their carelessness in handling the lives in their charge, but thanks to the editor for the additions which he made, which leads us through the skin, and aids us who haven't hardly time to even think about eating, to realize the real point and see where the blame should really be placed. He also shows the conditions existing where the agent telegraphers of today, which explanation certainly made a hit with me, for the reason that the majority of the working telegraphers on the P. & E. are agents and would be interested in an article of this class. Our worthy champion takes the stand in this strain: That the money savers of the railroads are to be blamed for the majority of the wrecks of today, for the reason that in their efforts to uphold their reputations as general managers, they issue orders which, if lived up to by the different departments of railroad labor, they would be working from 16 to 24 hours per day, and this would be beyond human endurance.

We will try to define the position of the agent telegrapher, which, in the estimation of the general manager, covers a multitude of duties, a few of which we will enumerate, as follows: First, the station agent, who is supposed to look after the interest of his employer, which duty would be all well and good if there was a defined limit, but as there is no limit, we will not hesitate here, but will drive on to the other various duties which are assigned to him, namely, that of ticket agent, freight agent, janitor, clerk, lamp tender, mail carrier, Western Union telegrapher, railroad telegrapher, and express agent. I would ask if the express companies are a part of and operated by the railroad. Your answer can only be no, and that the transporting of business handled by the express companies is done under contract. Now, we will try again and get down to the point and show you where we have been handed a great, big, juicy lemon; buncoed, yes, swindled. You will note that the schedule that was signed up last March, was based on the gross earnings of each agency for the year 1906, which earnings included the express earnings as well as the commissions on ticket sales. Now, do you think this on the square? As the present system is worked, let us suppose that the express companies should fail and thus cut our express commissions off, as the traction lines have knocked out the ticket commissions, and take the positions which are now paying the princely salary of from $15 to $45 as a fixed salary, how many of you would stick unless your pay was increased? I venture to say there is not one who would stay with them. No, sir, you would go to the roads that would pay you for working and not ask you to use a half day of the time you are supposed to put in in working out on a farm in order to make money enough to keep a clean shirt on your back and a small piece of Arkansas turkey to grease your ribs with, which is something similar to our present condition. Now, let me tell you that there is but one remedy left for us to apply to our shortcomings, and that, to organize to a man, make one grand parade in battle array, then demand our rights. Then, and not till then, will we be able to use the words of one of our great warriors, in a message to our President, "We have met the enemy and they are ours." CERT. 349.

St. Louis Division—

The meeting of St. Louis Division members was held at Paris May 28th, and although not very largely attended, there was enough of a crowd to have a very pleasant time. The schedule was gone over thoroughly, and every point that there was any doubt about whatever was discussed by those present. The St. Louis Division east was divided into about six sections, and two good men put on each section, for the purpose of better organizing the division, and as a result of this, several nons have been gathered into the fold, and several more will be gathered in this coming pay day.

The men that have been put on the different sections are hustlers from the word go, and if there are any nons on this end of the pike two months from now, it will not be their fault. The real reason will be that the nons are a set of dead-heads that will never be able to see the light, or if they do, they are to grouchy to help bear the expenses. How any one can sit back and see us members pay the expenses, while they send the overtime in, have their salary raised, and get other minor helps, and never pay one cent, is beyond my comprehension. We have a good deal of this work on the St. Louis Division, but let us work on them and keep working on them until we drag them in.

There will be more meetings held in the future, and it is hoped that they will be more largely attended. It is an impossibility for everyone to get off, I know, but at the same time there are a number of fellows who will not inconvenience themselves in the least to attend a meeting. Let us all get together the next time and have a large crowd.

General Chairman Yeazell announces a meeting for all members of System Division 138 at English Hotel, Indianapolis, Ind., July 26th. The meeting will be called to order at two o'clock p. m. I would like to see a large crowd from this Division.

ion attend, so write for your passes in plenty of time and hop on No. 2 and get in the crowd.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

St. Louis Division, East—

No card, no favors.

Bro. C. C. Brown, of Sunnyside, is on the sick list, and at this writing he is reported in a very serious condition. He has our sympathy. He was relieved by Bro. Adams, the night office being closed on account of no telegrapher.

I "13" Bro. C. W. Fondray has resigned and left the service.

New brothers: Bro. Amos, Mt. Jackson, nights; Bro. A. O. Hurin, Danville, days. These are part of the results of the two hustlers put on that district at the meeting.

Bro. C. S. Byrd transferred from Hadley nights to M. C. days, Bro. Setty going back to Danville nights. Mr. R. N. May relieved Bro. Byrd at Hadley. He will be a brother before this goes to press.

Bro. P. W. Carpenter, at Delmar, is laying off, relieved by Bro. C. C. Inman.

Bro. Collins at Green Castle nights.

Agent W. J. Nee, at Perth, is on the sick list, Bro. Withers filling his place. Mr. L. W. Callecod is working as day telegrapher.

Bros. O. E. Roach, of Markles, and R. D. Elliott, of Paris, have left the service.

Mr. Smith, of Duane, is now a brother. He is laying off, sick; relieved by Bro. O'Connor.

Bro. M. R. Brewster, of Fontanet, has resigned. Did not learn where he went.

Mr. Lucas, of C. B., promises to send in his application pay day.

Mr. C. Crowley, of Burnett, has left the service.

"J" office, at end of double track, is being held by Mr. O. B. Sawyer days, and Mr. R. M. Hall nights. M. U. days and Lena nights closed.

Bro. C. C. Kelso, of W. R., resigned and went to C. & E. I., relieved by Bro. Wright.

Two new men at Burnett, Bro. C. B. Hammer days, and Bro. J. W. Ball nights.

O. W. Tomlinson, at J. R., days, is a hopeless case. Don't seem to want to have anything to do with the Order. Oh, well, I guess we can get along without him. However, I hear he never fails to send in his meal hour; looks like lots of gall. There is a good story going the rounds on "Old Tom," as follows: It seems that "Old Tom" was the first telegrapher on this division to send in his meal hour; sent it in some time in March, before there was anything signed up. Suppose he was afraid he was going to lose a 25-cent piece. He asked one of the officials when the meal hour was going to start, and the said official told him he would not get it when it did start, as he did not belong to the Order anyway. Bet Tom looked kind of startled when he heard that.

Wonder why Trilby won't get a card?

Drv. Cor.

Cincinnati Division—

One more month nearer the nine-hour goal, which we will have to approach with our fighting clothes on if we expect to obtain our rights. No fight was, or ever will be, won unless each individual member puts forth his utmost effort toward its success, and in our coming struggle this is what we will have to do to gain the day.

Perhaps the railroad companies will think they are granting us a great concession when we are put on virtually an eight-hour working basis, with their well-known reduction in wages combined.

Take any person with a profession, and on an average, they work from 54 to 60 hours a week, making $70 and $75 per month, and in many cases, more, with Sundays off, and in some cases, Saturday afternoon, and if it is really necessary for a telegrapher to work Sundays, would we be getting overpaid if we received $70 or $75 per month working on an eight-hour basis?

The items from the Big Four Ry. in last month's journal were very encouraging, but it was quite noticeable that most of the divisions failed to record meetings. In fact, only one meeting was reported. These meetings should be instituted and be kept up consecutively. This is one thing the Cincinnati and Sandusky Divisions are proud of, and the worthy brothers deserve credit for their regular attendance. The day meetings are not as well attended as they should be, which can be accounted for by the fact that most of the night men are either new men on the road and are not acquainted, or they are new men at the business and just recently having an opportunity to fall in line. They are slow to accept the new condition of affairs.

The idea has been suggested by several of the veteran brothers, that we create a necessary fund, either by assessment, or a raise in the dues, to put a capable brother or two on the road for a month or two, to organize and get the membership up to 90 or 95 per cent. This question has been thoroughly discussed, and without a doubt it would be to our own advantage to do so.

A meeting will be held in the Hollencamp Building, Dayton, Ohio, June 16th, at 2 p. m. But this will be too late to serve as a notice.

G. R. Office, at Middletown, has been closed for the present, on account of the gravel service being temporarily suspended.

The new double track recently put into operation between M. & C. junction and B. M., has been a great relief in the handling of trains, and promises to be as fine as any in the State when completed. The new tower at the M. & C. junction, just recently completed, with 26 levers, is a beauty, and you find it occupied by Bros. Stabler days, and Keever nights.

"13" Bro. D. E. Harmon is preparing for a trip to the Jamestown Exposition.

We are sorry to learn that Bro. Beatel, days, is off on account of sickness, but understand he is improving and will be back in harness in a few days.

While having an occasion recently to drop in on one of our brothers, whose duties compel him to put in from one to two hours overtime a day, found that he was sending in his overtime at the old rate of 15 cents an hour, saying that he thought the company would more readily allow him his overtime at 15 cents an hour than what the schedule calls for. I called his attention to Article I. in our schedule, taking effect March 1, 1907, and told him that he was doing himself an injustice by not taking advantage of what our committee had secured for him, and to whom he had given his support.

Bro. Shugert, formerly of G. R., worked a few days for Bro. Rogers at C. & C. K. Tower, Springfield, Ohio, while R. O. went home on a visit.

Ivorydale nights opened May 30th.

Understand Cold Springs was closed June 3d.

Bro. Justice has returned from the convention, and has resumed work.

Bro. Slagle, of Brooks, and Mr. Brown, of Plattsburg, have changed positions.

Mr. Brown promises to fall in line pay day.

Mr. Ferguson, of Myers, has been suspended from the service, and Mr. Harrison, of Plattsburg, now has charge of Myers nights.

Div. Cor.

Sandusky Division—

Well, as another month has passed by and it is time to look for that dear old journal once more, believe it my duty to try and contribute a few notes, which I hope may be of interest to some of the boys, if nothing more. They will help to fill up the book and thereby keep the editor from losing any sleep by worrying over what he is going to print for the next edition.

Mr. Kearns is holding down Urbana nights now as regular night telegrapher. Bro. Audritch is back to his happy home at Grants.

The gravel trains are out again after a winter's rest, and keep the boys moving some between G. M. and Carey to get them by in good shape.

The Sunday excursion season is on, which keeps us close on Sundays.

Bros. Rench and Shoemaker, Silver Creek days and nights, traded off for a week to see who had the best end of the deal, but concluded they were about equal.

Train Master Heffernan was out on a testing trip a few nights ago and kept company with Bro. Stokes at Huntsville, testing the train crews on block lights being out, etc. But the writer is informed that he failed to land a man, which speaks well for the crews as a careful set of men.

CORRESPONDENT.

Canadian Pacific Ry.

Thompson and Cascade Sections—

During the past few months I have seen very little from this quarter of British Columbia in our journal, and being asked by quite a number of the "boys" to give a few words of good advice to the "sloths," I shall note a few of the many changes that have taken place lately.

To the few who have left the road, I would say: Keep your dues paid up, although we do not hear you on the wire, we will think of you as brothers just the same, and entitled to all the privileges of the Order, and shall be glad to do all we can for you which in our power lies.

Kamloops mourns the loss of Bro. Brewster, who relieves our Chairman, Bro. Goulet. Bro.

Goulet is in Winnipeg doing business for us all, and hope we will soon hear the glad tidings. A Mr. Collins (do not know whether he is one of us) relieving Bro. Brewster.

Savonas now boasts of a night telegrapher by the name of MacMichael, from an Eastern road. Not sure that he is on our list. If not, he should be. Bro. Robinson relieves Bro. Ogle here, who takes Bro. Oliver's place at Port Hammond, he having left us for good. Do not know which way he is headed for as yet.

Bro. Harvey, at Ashcroft, having resigned and left the road, Bro. "Billy" Maxwell takes his place for the time being. No. "23" out as yet. Bro. Presley taking the owl trick vacated by Bro. Robinson, now at Savonas.

Spencer Bridge Junction, in the land of tomatoes and apples, is held by Bro. Freer, who has his hands well filled up with work trains and the new branch line to the Nicola. The owl trick is performed by a Mr. Puffer, from the Northern Pacific, I believe.

Lytton, B. C., commonly known as Grapetown, ably held by Bro. Thomas Clarke, J. P., assisted by a Mr. Donaghy, who works by the light of a lamp.

Bro. Geo. Thorn holding North Bend down till Bro. Brewster is relieved by Bro. Goulet. Bro. "Jack" Goodfellow, day telegrapher, fills the bill. Bro. Mann, from Seattle, working nights. Believe this man was "23d" but not sure.

Bro. Wellington has Suppuzz since Bro. Potter resigned, to take charge of Nicola on the "Cactus Pike."

Bro. MacPhee, at Hope, faithfully doing the night business. I believe his son has been very sick. Hope he will be all right soon.

Bro. Hunt is in his new home at Agassiz. Bro. Geo. did not care for North Bend, besides Agassiz is better situated as regards climate, and more like home.

Bro. Denechaud, at Mission, day telegrapher (a cipher). Bro. Frank Shook working nights. This is one of the busiest stations on the pike; lots of lumber from United States points for the Canadian Northwest Pass through here. Bro. Denechaud is just back from a long and well-earned vacation. Hope he enjoyed himself.

Port Hammond is now in charge of Bro. Ogle, late of Savonas. Quite a change from sage brush and rocks to the "City of Rhubarb."

Bro. Young holding down the "Combination," part C. P. R. and part McLaren Bros. saw mill. Was in quarantine some weeks ago on account of small-pox. He escaped and is evidently all right.

In conclusion, I may say Bros. Armstrong and Shaw are doing their best at the extreme west end, viz., Vancouver (I think I may cut out the other fellow), but Bro. Clark, as relieving dispatcher, holding down the copyist business till his turn comes, when George will do the right thing when he grasps the key.

Mind your half yearly dues and probable assessment. "337."

District No. 4—

My last notes missed the April journal, so to get these off sooner, will attempt nothing beyond the mention of a few recent changes among the boys on District No. 4.

Bro. Clements has been on the relief staff of late, and as a result, Bro. Mason, at Rigaud, has to break his peaceful slumbers to attend the night passenger trains.

Vankleek Hill has been assigned to a new man, by the name of Smith, brother of our "Bro." Harry C. We expect to see a button on the newcomer before long.

Bro. Larocque is actually on leave of absence for his honeymoon; relieved by Bro. Revill.

Bro. McFarlane, Plantaganet, absent for a spell lately, on account of sickness.

Navan is still minus its beloved agent, but the relief has changed. Bro. W. J. Kearns is now doing the trick.

Bro. W. J. Boyce has returned to his old love, N. Y. & O. tower nights.

Bro. Ellis, from "CD" office, Ottawa, disappeared lately for a couple of weeks. Sorry to hear it was rather serious illness.

Our genial big brother, Swan, from the same office, was fortunate enough to attend the Minneapolis convention. Relieved by Bro. J. R. Revill.

Bro. McKay soon yearned for something less strenuous than Hull days, and bid in Prescott days, vice Bro. Leary, transferred to agency N. Y. & O. Junction. Bro. McPhail replaces him as day man at Hull, Bro. Bartlett taking the night hours there. Further changes at the same point include the arrival of Bro. H. C. Smith to replace temporarily Bro. Butler, who is still suffering from a painful malady.

New man at Stittville, named Crawford, working nights.

Same at Cobden nights. This gentleman is a Mr. Henderson. All of these will be brothers soon, we expect. They can not possibly resist the good influences around them.

An office has been opened for the summer months at Petawawa Military Camp, and Bro. Dunn, from Pembroke is in charge, Bro. Mayhew, in the meantime going from night to day work at the latter station, and Bro. Smith taking Pembroke nights.

Gracefield, on the Gatineau, is being handled by a new agent, Mr. Workman, formerly assistant at Campbell's Bay, as Bro. Mitchell is taking a few months' rest.

Bro. Metcalfe is leaving Burbidge to take Shawville, vice Bro. Robertson, appointed auditor. Our congratulations to Bro. Robertson.

At last report, Waltham was in charge of Bro. T. J. Kearns. "WHEG."

C., M. & St. P. Ry.

The Meeting at Prairie du Chien—

A joint meeting of the members of the Prairie du Chien, Mineral Point and Iowa and Dakota Divisions was called by Local Chairman Thomas L. Pagel, and convened at Prairie du Chien Saturday, June 22d. There were present six members from the I. & D., two from the M. P. and about twenty from the P. D. C. Division. General Chairman Renshaw presided, and we were also favored by the presence of our Division Secretary and Treasurer, G. E. Soyster, and Local Chairman Shelby.

The meeting was called to order at 9:15 p. m. by Bro. Renshaw, who called on Local Chairman Pagel for an address. Bro. Pagel read the copy of a letter that he had written to our Chief Train Dispatcher of the P. D. C. and M. P. Divisions, advising him of the meeting to be held and asking him to excuse as many men as possible so that they might attend. He also read a very kindly letter which he received in reply in which, after stating that as many men would be excused as could be spared consistent with safety, he offered some suggestions regarding matters that might be profitably brought before the meeting in order to generally improve the service, thus showing his confidence in the usefulness of our organization. He spoke especially of the great aid that telegraphers could render in the prompt movement of trains in notifying dispatchers promptly of any delays to trains at their stations. This matter was then discussed and it is earnestly hoped that all members will do their best to assist train dispatchers in the movement of trains. Anything that we can do in the way of co-operation to improve the service will strengthen us in the effort to improve our general condition.

Bros. Pagel and Shelby were appointed a committee to take up password or see that each attendant had an up-to-date card.

Bro. J. Connell moved that at future meetings the password should be required from each member. This elicited some discussion, but having received a second, was carried in the affirmative.

Then followed a discussion regarding W. U. work and the rule that all telegraphers should report to their relay office between the hours of 9 and 10 a. m. and 5 and 6 p. m. on Sundays. Bro. Soyster thought that all should do this, but in case there was not enough business to warrant it, it should be taken up as a grievance.

Bro. Renshaw gave some good counsel regarding the relation of railroad telegraphers to their superintendent of telegraph. The gist of it was that his department should receive the same consideration from us as from any of the others, as it is a part of the duties for which we are employed. We are to keep into clear regarding all business that is entrusted to us which comes in the line of our duty as per agreement with the company.

Bro. Soyster made an address in which among other things he urged that members assist their Local Chairman by keeping him posted regarding matters of interest at their various stations. (Applauded.)

Bro. Shelby said he would like to hear from Wisconsin regarding the hours of service bill. This was responded to by Bro. Connell, who gave a clear recital of the various effects that had been put forth to secure such legislation, but up to the present time no bill has been enacted into law. One thing stands out clearly, the Social Democrat members of our legislature, and particularly Mr. Carl D. Thompson, of Milwaukee, have worked hard to secure a law which they think would safeguard the rights of the public and better the condition of the employees.

The men who work at one-man stations do not clearly understand their position regarding the various State and National laws limiting the hours of service. It seems that in some States no limit has been placed on the number of hours that a telegrapher may be kept on duty at a one-man station. Men occupying such positions can hardly see why there should be a very great difference, as human endurance is about the same in one job as another.

Then followed a discussion of the student question. Members were urged to strictly observe the laws of our Order regarding this. There are plenty of telegraphers in the country whose services can be secured by the companies when wages and conditions are made an object.

We were advised that a telegrapher has a right to teach the art to his own son or daughter, after having first secured a permit from the President.

The meeting was a jolly one. Good fellowship and good feeling exist between the members to a marked degree. Such meetings would be of great service if held oftener. There was just one circumstance that threw a cloud over our spirits and brought sadness to our hearts. We were advised that several men who were esteemed brothers a few years ago have allowed their membership to lapse. Not able to pay dues after all the benefits received, and in one case the lapsed member, so it is reported, has started a "ham factory."

Your correspondent feels like requesting the members of this division to wear mourning for a while. But we have few nons, and our live men are very much alive. God bless them!

Now, fearing that I have already exceeded my privilege and taken too much space, will cut out, after saying that our meeting was only adjourned in time to allow the men to make the east-bound train at 12:20 a. m. Div. Cor.

Well, what is the matter with old "Jim," are you busy these days?

Have you put in your application for one of those numerous vacancies?

Bro. Daniels, from Fargo, secured Evarts and is going out to wrestle with the stock business.

Bro. Geo. Bulmer resigned as agent at Edgeley and accepted a position as cashier in a bank at that place. Sorry to lose him, but here is our best wishes for his future prosperity.

Bro. Fite appointed agent at Edgeley on bulletin.

We are glad to note Bro. Hulbert, of Wolsey, who has been on the sick list, is able to be back at the old stand. Bro. Cobb, formerly of the N. P. relieved Bro. Hulbert.

Bro. Pafford received the appointment as agent at Ellendale on bulletin. This is one of the best jobs on the "Jim."

Bro. Marlett, of Tulare, received Bowdle Station on bulletin. Glad to see promotion, but sorry to lose him off the main line. Vacancy at Tulare not yet filled, Mrs. Marlett holding down station during the transfer.

We are pleased to note the promotion of Bro. Jacobs to second trick in dispatcher's office.

How about your next door neighbor? Is he a member of our Order? If not, please get busy. Your Local Chairman needs the assistance of every member in this work and has received a new supply of application blanks, which he will be glad to send, if you will notify him.

Brothers, are your dues and assessments paid up to January, 1908. If not, please look after this at once, as this is the only way you can show an up-to-date card.

Please send Local Chairman Ayars, Redfield, all items of news, who will make arrangements for write-up. CERT. 738.

Iowa and Dakota Division—

Everything on the Iowa & Dakota looking good; nearly one hundred per cent strong now.

Bro. A. T. Flikke has been appointed as agent at Mason City, Bro. J. J. Corbett relieving him at Rudd as agent.

Bro. Shelby has been attending the convention at Minneapolis, Bro. Kreicha relieving at Charles City.

Bro. F. M. Higgins is working side table at Mitchell and doing good work, relieved at Sanborn by Bro. Bert Higgins.

Bro. F. H. Hinton, of Spencer, was away for a week on account of sickness of his daughter.

Bro. Keen is again back at Mason City side table after several weeks of sickness.

There are several new men coming on the division and we should keep close watch and see that all are in line. Do not wait for the Chairman to attend to this, as it is more to our own interest than his.

Bro. Worley has been absent on account of sickness, Bro. Kelly doing the heavy act at Hartley.

Bro. Dward, of Algona, is taking a rest. Bro. Paine, the night telegrapher, on days.

Our train master, R. P. Edson, has gone to the W. R. V. Division as superintendent. He's an all around good man and will make good anywhere.

A. C. Peterson will have charge from Chamberlain to North McGregor now, which makes a long division for him.

Train dispatchers are taking their yearly vacation.

Bro. Hopkins, at Wesley, was absent for a few days, relieved by Mr. Dooley, but has resumed work. CERT. 181.

P. D. C. Division—

Having but recently been appointed correspondent, and it being so near the end of the month, I can only get in a few items that have been sent me by one or two of the brothers.

Bro. M. P. Valentine, agent at Genesee, was painfully injured by a wagon gear falling on his right foot.

Mr. Frank O'Leary, extra, is relieving Bro. E. C. Frazer, at Madison nights, who is taking a lay-off.

Mr. Frank O'Leary has promised to become a brother immediately after the June pay day.

The fine new station building at Edgerton was put into service June 24. Bros. Lampman and Symons says there's nothing like it.

Bro. T. L. Pagel, our Local Chairman, made a trip over the P. D. C. on No. 92 the first part of the month. Tom knows just how to handle the boys and certainly deserves credit.

Mineral Point and P. D. C. Divisions—

The nons on the Mineral Point Division have been reduced to two. For what reason do you suppose they are hanging out in the cold? I think they will come in before the snow flies.

Henry Brockway, of Albany, has now joined our forces and may now be called brother. We are always glad to get in members such as Bro. Brockway, as it lends a dignity to the Order, and we should always extend a helping and friendly hand to our new brothers.

Bro. B. A. Allen relieved by Bro. Pagel at Mineral Point while attending the convention and on his visit East.

Bro. J. H. Valentine, night telegrapher at Janesville, is taking an extended leave of absence on account of ill health. Night work does not agree with Jack. Bro. Burleigh Allen, the "high wire walker," is relieving him.

Bros. Pagel and Voss were the only two members from Mineral Point Division who could stand the all-night trip to Prairie du Chien to attend the meeting.

Bro. A. J. McCloskey has departed for the West. Understand he is working for the Union Pacific at Elm Grove, California.

Bro. Jas. Broderick resumed work the 23d.

Here is an extract from the Milwaukee Free Press of June 26th: "Railroad employes and railroad telegraphers and train dispatchers will hereafter be prohibited from working more than eight hours a day in Wisconsin. Two Assembly bills to that effect were concurred in by the Senate after a long discussion." How about going fishing some afternoon at the close of our eight-hour trick? But I believe most of the old-timers would be like the prisoner discharged but refusing to leave the cell because he could not believe the news.

CERT. 726.

Northern Division—

The 30th of June is here again. Have you all paid up and received your new card? If not, get busy after this pay day and don't make our Local Chairman worry the price out of you.

Understand Mr. Meyer, at Germantown, has his resignation in. Can not say as to the truth of this.

Bro. Holt, agent at Waupun, is on the sick list, relieved by Mr. Sellen.

Mr. Sellen was relieved at Rolling Prairie by Bro. Gensmer.

Bro. Hoyt, at Iron Ridge Junction, has adopted the base ball sport to pass away the weary Sundays and surplus cash.

Bro. Porter landed the Randolph agency, by bulletin, vice Bro. Lentz.

Bro. Dunlap is on the sick list, relieved by Bro. Lentz, at Beaver Dam.

Our bustling Local Chairman, T. D. Hoyt, got the Horicon agency, Bro. Lentz obtaining the Minnesota Junction agency vacated by Bro. Hoyt.

Mr. Buchholtz is relieving at Horicon until the transfer is made.

It is very hard for a night man to pick up the news, as none of the boys seem to take enough interest in this matter to help the correspondent out a little.

Mr. Nichols filled the vacancy at Waupun.

Will cut out for this time.

Div. Com.

Third District—

If some one would give me the choice of doing this write-up or something else, I would try and do the something else, as I am up against it for news. Was in hopes there would be a meeting on the return of the delegates from the convention at Minneapolis, as all the members would be glad to hear by word of mouth the things that were done there, and think the returned delegate should be willing to give this information. No doubt they are entirely willing, and when a meeting is held, it should be well attended. Several things have happened on the division in the last few months that should be discussed that we may properly protect ourselves.

Bro. Murback was relieved while gone to the convention by R. S. Merrill. Have not learned who Bro. Livezey's relief was. They report a great time at the "Twin Cities."

We are sorry to learn of the resignation of Bro. Livezey as Local Chairman on the C. & M. and C. & E. Divisions. It would be hard to pick out a more earnest O. R. T. man on any road than he. In fact he was one of the first to aid in the work in this section, when merely thinking of joining the O. R. T. was sufficient cause for dismissal from the service by some officials, and he can be proud of the fact that he helped when help was really needed. Bro. F. J. Alleman, of Libertyville, was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy. He has long been Assistant Local Chairman, and is no doubt the best man that could have been selected. Bro. Alleman is a very busy man, and all the boys must bear in mind that they will be making the burden less by answering any questions promptly, or helping cheerfully in any way that he may ask. Cheerful and prompt assistance is one of the things that should be rendered all Local Chairmen, as their job is almost a thankless one. This is not what it should be, but nevertheless it is a fact.

Another thing that should be handled more promptly by all concerned is when a paper is being passed over the road for help of any of our members during sickness or death, for the purchase of floral offerings or any expense that it is our duty to help meet, the paper should be handled with dispatch, and under no circumstances should the paper be "pigeon-holed" and in all probability forgotten. If you do not wish to contribute, that is your business, but you should not stand in the way of others, and cause the ones starting the paper an extra and unnecessary amount of trouble, and in many cases, the loss of time to get things straight.

The death of several people in the families of our members in the past few weeks plainly shows that we need a fund in our local treasury to purchase floral offerings and for cab hire, if it is needed, on short notice. The way it is now, part of them are missed because it is volunteer work to start a paper, and in all probability the cash outlay of the one starting it, he trusting to the help of the members later, and as in the case of the "pigeon-holed" or lost paper, it is months before he is reimbursed. The ones missed no doubt feel slighted, as they have no doubt helped in cases of others, and it would only be natural for them to wish to be remembered in their affliction. The semi-annual dues of $1.00, which was voted to be assessed each member on the Third District should be collected and the purchase of floral offerings authorized as well as the expense of hall rent. We seem to want to be too cheap, but in the end we suffer by our folly. Understand the Terminal boys kicked very hard against this assessment, but when it is viewed in the light of the foregoing, it would be willingly met by all.

Bro. Perry, of Pacific Junction, has the heartfelt sympathy of all. A small son of his died the other day and a daughter is near death, and the wife is very sick also at the present writing.

Bro. T. F. Bates is relieving on the second trick at Pacific Junction.

Mr. Curley has been checked in as agent at Hermosa, vice Mr. Meighen. Do not know where Mr. Meighen is going at present.

Mr. R. S. Merrill is working at Glenview nights, Forest Glen nights having been closed on account of automatic signals working between Pacific Junction and Glenview.

Bro. Moore, of Warrenton nights, is home on a visit. Understand his home is in Missouri. He is being relieved by Mr. McEntyre. Can not say if this man is a brother or not. If not, he had better be.

Just learned that Mr. Miller, of Lake nights, has dropped out of the Order. Am surprised at this as he used to be one of the first ones, and can think of no reason that justifies such an act. Surely he is not sore because of $15 to $20 increase in pay per month in the last four years? Think Mr. Miller will be doing himself no more than justice to get back in line at once. Am sure it will be more like justice to the rest of us.

Bro. J. L. Bloss is working at Galewood days. He holds membership in Division No. 8.

Mr. M. S. Carr, who was at Galewood days for a while, secured "CG" nights on bulletin. Bro. J. N. Juleson, who has been there nights for quite a while, secured the day vacancy, and Bro. Peterson secured the job as extra telegrapher. This is also a day job.

Dispatcher Thos. Cox has moved from Zenda to the city. He is located on the south side.

Bros. R. J. Simen and G. T. Carroll took a flying trip to Milwaukee the other day.

CERT. 1,129.

Southern Minnesota Division—

Having been handed the lemon by our worthy Local Chairman and told to squeeze it to the best of my ability each and every month and send the product to THE TELEGRAPHER, here goes. To tell the truth, the changes on this division of the Milwaukee System have been so swift that one can hardly keep them all on the tab. My time is very limited, or I might get a few items of interest from the Far West, but as it is, you will have to be contented with what I can dish up for the time being, and in the future any items will be gladly accepted.

On the first division, between Ramsey and La Crosse, the same old-timers have been sticking to their posts as faithfully as ever.

We regret to say that Bro. Olson, at Whalan, is again having trouble with his afflicted leg and has been compelled to lay off twice quite recently. The first time he was relieved by Bro. E. H. Laugen, from Rushford, originally but more recently relief man for S. M., east end.

Bro. Eggen, at Isinours, is now out of service, being relieved by H. M. Berg, from Albert Lea, who at one time was a brother, but at present time am unable to learn whether he carries a card or not.

Local Chairman J. W. Barber attended the convention at Minneapolis and reports a very fine time. During his absence he was relieved by Bro. J. M. Olson, from Grand Meadow, whose place was filled by Relief Agent, Bro. E. H. Laugen. The rest of the boys on the east end seem to be going along in the same old rut, but no doubt later on they will get their vacations if they can get any men to relieve them.

At Ramsey, your humble servant and his night owl are kept busy chasing up the staff and keeping a watchful eye on it in order that some conductor don't take it home with him and complicate the workings. The rest of our spare time is spent in delivering lectures to the inquisitive traveling public upon the mysteries and mechanism of the staff system. We are seriously considering the matter of asking the company to get up a neat circular or card that will explain all the intricacies and thus save us much valuable time.

At Alden, Bro. H. R. Laugen is off on a three months' vacation, being relieved by Walter E. Campbell, former clerk and cashier at Wells. I have heard it rumored that Mr. Campbell quite recently came over and joined the rest of us fellows in the matrimonial game, but would not vouch for the absolute truth of this statement. Am also unable to learn whether he is a member or not.

Peter Berg, nights at Wells, has been laying off for about a week. His place was filled by a telegrapher named Stanley, from the Iowa Central, I understand.

Bro. Flindt from Fairmont days to Vienna, S. D. station. John could not stay away from "VA" long, as there are too many attractions out in that wild and woolly town. Fairmont days assigned to Bro. Samuel Cummings, from Jackson. It's quite a large-sized lemon, and no one will get into mischief there for lack of something to do.

Bro. J. C. Creedon, who held down Welcome for many years, is off on six months' vacation. Bro. Jas. Sheehy was assigned the station for that length of time, on bulletin, and Easton station assigned to Ed Malone for same period.

Now, brothers, I have about reached the end of my rope, as the saying goes, for there have been so many changes on the west end, and the boys are so far away that it will be impossible for me to give any account of affairs out there.

Bro. E. H. Laugen assigned to day position in dispatcher's office at Madison. Don't know where Van Wie went.

Understand there are several new comers out there on the M. & B. line. Some from other divisions, but have no definite information in regard to them.

You, brothers, all like to see something in the journal every month from the division, but you must remember that the division correspondent is situated quite a distance from the extremes of the west end, and if you know of anything that will be of benefit to other members, any nons out your way who have been promising to come in for several years and still go on taking all the overtime and raise of pay, let us know so we can give them a write-up, for I believe a few on this division should be shown up in their true colors. Another thing upon which I want to compliment the members of the S. M. division is their promptness in paying their dues. In the last two lists of members of Division 23 who are behind in their dues, there is only one man on the S. M., and his name appeared on both lists. Am sorry any member receiving the increase in pay and the other benefits should see fit to drop out, and as I said before, I wish to congratulate the S. M. boys on their promptness.

You, brothers, all like to see something in the destination without being laid up for repairs, I will later on try to give the S. M. another jolt.

Some of the members of other divisions of this system have been getting sarcastic about the old S. M., and how dead we were, but hurry in your news early and we may yet be able to show them that we have only been sleeping.

One last reminder before I take off the current for good. You all received the letter in regard to students, and I hope you will all remember your pledge and not teach any one, for there are any amount of good, first-class men in other branches of business who only forsook railroad work because the hours were so long and the pay so small. Remember, the wages will rise in accordance with the supply. I think the man who is responsible for the protection and movement of all trains should have a salary somewhere proportionate with a conductor who runs only one train. There is no question but what it is unjust that these same men should get twice and sometimes three times as much as we receive.

Will now cut out.

Div. Cor.

C. & C. B., Iowa Division—

Bro. Fowler, regular nights at Templeton, has been doing the agency act at Dedham since Bro. Smith laid off and quit to accept a better job on some foreign road. Fowler relieved by Bro. Clancey. Clancey quit after three weeks, relieved by Bro. Kiley, who is a new transfer to Division No. 23.

Bro. Wright got Dedham agency, Bro. Fowler back to Templeton, Bro. Kiley went to Maxwell.

Bro. Foster of Herndon days, moved to Dunbar agency, relieved by Bro. Wood, of Haverhill.

Bro. House, nights at Aspinwall, got Capron on bulletin, but worked extra at Coon Rapids and Louisa for a few nights. Did not like Capron, so bid for Maxwell. Relieved at Aspinwall by C. Rose, who promises to get up to date as soon as he gets the price.

Bro. McDowell, nights at Coon Rapids, was called home to Rippey suddenly on account of his father being ill. Relieved at Coon Rapids by Bro. A. L. Clancey.

Bro. A. L. Clancey, extra at Coon Rapids, to Gladstone. Don't know who is at Coon Rapids now.

Bro. Brown, days at Manilla, to Panama or Portsmouth, he don't know which yet. Relieved by Hon Disburg, of Perry. He says he will have an up-to-date the first of July.

P. J. Rogers, from Portsmouth agency to Earling agency. Can't some one line him up?

Bro. Frundle has left Earling for something better; don't know what.

Bro. John Copeland is about to leave Panama for some foreign seaport.

Bro. Frymoyer, the old stand-by of Weston nights, says he had a good time on his vacation in Eastern Iowa. Relieved by young Elder, of Perry yard. He went to Collins after Bro. Frymoyer got back.

A. H. Krasch landed Huxley nights; he will have "Bro." tacked on as soon as he is old enough to join.

Bro. E. F. Cashman, of St. Louis Division, is again with us. We are pleased to note Bro. Cashman worked on this division ten years ago and is one of the old guards.

Only a few nons left, and the majority is sure to be with us in the near future. The minority are without a doubt condemned to a life membership in the "Grab Club." A list of the club will be mailed soon.

Our General Secretary and Treasurer is not receiving the support that he should in the matter of paying dues. It is noticed he has to punch up several members two and three times before they cough up their dues. Get busy, boys, and do your share. Our Secretary has enough to do without this extra work.

All members are anxiously awaiting the receipt of the June TELEGRAPHER with the report of the convention held at Minneapolis.

Bro. C. E. Olson is doing the relief agency stunt at Madrid while Bro. Green is away on his vacation.

Bro. Slife is holding down the elevator job at Dedham while his father is working nights in the bank.

"Nick."

Kansas City Division—

Everything quiet on this division; but few changes.

Liberty agency, bulletined last month, has not been filled. Bro. Bristle is running the station as acting agent and Bro. W. D. Wright the same at Chulo.

Mr. Thade, who has been away for some time, returned to work the first of the month.

Bro. De Garma, agent at Lucerne, had to give up his position on account of his health and has gone to Colorado for the summer. We hope to hear of his recovery and return to work at an early date.

Mr. Calvert, agent at Mystic, who has been out to Seattle, has returned and is at work again.

Bro. Crabb, day telegrapher at Cedar Rapids, is off for thirty days on a wedding trip. "13" they have gone to the Pacific Coast.

Bro. George Shaw, agent at Rutledge, surprised us all by announcing that Miss Bessie McClean, of Washington, Iowa, would be Mrs. Shaw after June 19. Here is best wishes and congratulations to Bros. Crabb and Shaw, and may they have a pleasant journey through life.

Bro. Bell is relieving Bro. Crabb, who in turn was relieved by Bro. Riley.

Sister Grossbeck is working nights at Williamsburg at present.

Bro. Geo. Reams is back at Amana. Glad to hear that George is able to work again.

The agency at Fairfax, which was closed last month, was reopened and duly bulletined, Bro. Reams, the former agent, securing his old position.

Telegrapher Akerman, at Sigourney, was quite seriously injured about two weeks ago by placing a truck load of baggage a trifle too close to the edge of the platform, which was struck by passenger train No. 9, causing the truck handle to strike him in the body, breaking two or more ribs and otherwise injuring him. He was taken to the hospital at Ottumwa, and at last report was doing well.

Bro. Cole, of Ardon, is having his run of hard luck, Mrs. Cole having undergone the second operation within the past year. She is reported as doing nicely, however, and it is to be hoped she will regain her former health.

Now, brothers, to all of you who have not received your card for the last half of 1907, let me urge upon you the necessity of being prompt in keeping up your dues, just as much so as any other business. If you are negligent in this matter, it goes to show that it is your disposition to drag, and if you were not afraid the auditors would complain to the superintendent, you would allow your reports and station business to drag the same way. So let us all be up and doing and do it with a will.

The scarcity of telegraphers is increasing all the time. I will leave it for you to answer why, and what our future prospects are if we continue loyal to our own welfare. Div. Cor.

La Crosse Division—

Business still continues good, and some of the old-time boys are asking questions in regard to the different matters, hours of work, pay, etc., and by all appearances, many telegraphers who have retired will re-enter the ranks when fair treatment and better pay is accorded us.

You will find thousands of competent telegraphers throughout the country who have left the service to follow other lines of business in order that they might live and support their families on a par with other classes of employees, to say nothing of Sunday rest. How many of us at present know much about a Sabbath day? Very few. We find a great number of these men would readily return to the telegraph service if the conditions were made ordinarily pleasant and profitable. It stands to reason that a telegrapher ought to command better wages than ignorant immigrants.

The convention at Minneapolis May 13 proved to be one of the best and largest attended conventions in the history of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, and when President Perham called the convention to order that day, more representatives answered the roll call than ever answered a similar roll call in the history of the Order. We found at this convention brothers from all parts of the United States and Canada. CERT. 249.

Williamsport Division, No. 24.

The following resolutions were adopted at the last meeting of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers Div. No. 24, at Williamsport, Pa., June 6, 1907:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst an honored brother and member of our Division No. 24, by death;

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to the act of the Divine Ruler of the universe, but, while so doing, can not help expressing our sorrow over the death of our Bro. Lloyd Nicely;

Resolved, That our sympathy be extended to the bereaved family of the deceased brother, and that our charter be draped for a period of thirty days;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, a copy handed to the bereaved family and a copy forwarded to THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER for publication.

M. J. SHURE,

H. W. JOHNSON,

Committee.

Baltimore Division, No. 17.

Mr. W. R. Robinson, first trick man at Perryman, has bid in day trick at north bound yard, Edgemoor.

Mr. T. F. McClelland has been transferred from second to third trick at North Point. The second trick vacancy is advertised.

On July 1st the P. B. & W. will begin the use of a series of caution cards, taking the place of the Form 19 proceed orders, which they claim will greatly facilitate the movement of trains and less work for the train dispatcher.

On account of the continued cool weather the perishable run of freight from the South has been lighter this season than for many years.

COR.

New Haven Division, No. 29.

The June meeting of Div. No. 29 recorded a large attendance. All officers were present and a quantity of business was transacted. This meeting promised much in the way of local and general information. It should not be inferred, much less expressed, that the cause of the large attendance was the expectation to learn much that was individually gratifying, for I believe that the habit of attending meetings is so strongly formed by our members and the desire so thoroughly natural that well attended meetings would be the general rule, and not the exception, were the expectations less inducing. But seeing that the General Committee had a few days before meeting night concluded their negotiations and this fact had become widely circulated and that the representatives had returned from the Minneapolis convention; these two factors injected a little more than ordinary enthusiasm into the meeting-attending aggregation, which radiating from their joyous countenances illuminated the way to the division room so that the ones less frequent in attendance seeing the way and catching something of the diffused incentives, appeared to fill the chairs and participate in the wholesome and healthy good fellowship.

This is the way to have it. Make the meetings all that the name implies. Have a meeting of minds as well as a meeting of persons and have the gathering so large that from the very size of the assemblage inspiration will come and courage and confidence will gain a firmer root as the acquaintances ripen and the understanding broadens through the very potent agency of association.

The attendants were well paid for their visit, as they had the best evidence obtainable of their schedule's existence, for they got it straight from their General Chairman, Bro. E. J. Manion, who in his own interesting way told of the fruits that had ripened to the harvesting point in the few months of the committee's labors and when this was backed up by the physical proportions and vocal volume of Bro. O. S. Culver ("Stub") (who while a "sub," is no slob), none dared to doubt but that the successful termination was a certainty and that the promised fruits would when plucked be as certain.

To many, no doubt, the length of time expended in schedule negotiations by the General Committee seemed unnecessarily long and it has been intimated by some that it was drawn out purposely by the parties of the first part. Now looking at the situation from the standpoint of one on the outside, I do not concur in this intimation. The facts seem to bear out the assertion that it could no be so even if there had been a desire on the part of the opposition to delay the conclusion or to divorce themselves from the inevitable by pursuing questionable or suspicion arousing tactics.

The whole question in the concrete was and is one of gigantic proportions, inimical somewhat to the treaty making negotiations of friendly countries. Viewed in its less complex sense it resolves itself into one of innumerable significances; computed in the simpler sense its compilation was as intricate and tedious as the positions and individuals are peculiar and numerous. It is as if a separate schedule had been compiled, drafted, presented, modified, remodeled, rejected and accepted for each position and individual with the attending allegations, evidence, arguments, propositions and counter-propositions from both parties in interest, and then the merging of all of these into one schedule, concise and cogent, guaranteeing industrial rights and protecting craft privileges.

The many adjournments that seemed to us on the outside as indicative of a disposition to discourage and dishearten the negotiators were caused by the very exacting demands of up-to-date twentieth century railway management. The managing officials had to keep the wheels of commerce turning; and just at this time with all of the changes in railway rates and rules, with the meeting of joint committees of all of the railroads in the East and West; the Car Efficiency Committee, which met at frequent periods; the Grievance and General Committee appointments with sister organizations; all of these combined to try the patience and generate adverse feelings and arouse anxiety in the minds and breasts of the rank and file who were waiting for the announcement of the terms of final settlement.

So they turned out to the meeting which it was their duty to do and gather the information in store for them.

The report of the returned representatives was received with visible and audible satisfaction. The ship of organized telegraph industry is manned and provisioned for a two years' trip with all of her sails set and the colors of unionism flying at her peak, is a picture inspiring to the imagination and radiant to the vision. Now, bend to the oars, brothers, and Yale-like, the race is ours.

Notes from the C. N. E.—

M. J. Kane is the new man at Twin Lakes for the summer.

Agent Martin was in Danbury Thursday for the day.

Understand there are still a few who are not with us. Why don't some brother look these few up and get solid?

A number of the east end agents took in the circus at Hartford.

New telegrapher at Lakeville days; don't see any button.

Bro. Small has resigned to go into business at Norfolk. The new man in his place does not wear an O. R. T. badge.

We got one of the men at Millerton. Now go after the other and we will be solid.

Shore Line, West—

Bro. T. W. Campbell landed his old job, second trick at Guilford. Tom worked this job for years until the tower was put back on a twelve-hour basis. We do not expect he will ever be obliged to leave it again for the same reason.

Bro. J. Carmody, of Shannock nights, has bid in the west end relief. Everybody seems to be taking a crack at this job.

The railroad telegraphers' eight-hour State bill is still pending. The bill has been recommended once, which was an unexpected boost. The telegraphers throughout the State are anxiously awaiting developments and will probably know the outcome ere this comes to your notice.

Bros. Peck and Bump, of South Lyme, are spending the summer in Bro. Bump's newly-erected cottage at Sound View. We are awaiting an invitation to a "shore dinner."

Bro. Lyons, first trick at Fort Yard, New London, left June 18th for a week's vacation. Bros. Waller and Bump doubled until his return.

Bro. Fleming Wall, of Guilford, recently made a flying trip to North Adams, Mass.

Bro. A. T. Stannard, of Leets Island, is again able to live at his home at Clinton for the summer, owing to the additional trains under the new time table.

Telegrapher Burns, first trick at Saybrook Junction, away on sick leave. Bros. Smith and White doubled. Bro. Smitt justly demanded a leverman and got one.

Telegrapher Brown, at Lyme nights, secured his regular relief for June. Job covered by Bro. Cross.

Bros. Stevens and McCoy, of East Lyme, are kept rather busy at present with Longregans work train around there.

We hear Bro. Paul Hardaway, formerly of Guilford, has accepted a position with the B. & M. R. R. We are all very sorry to lose him, but wish him every success.

Bro. E. S. Brimmer, owl at Leete's Island, has resumed work after a short vacation spent at his old home in York State.

The new bridge over the Connecticut River at Lyme is fast nearing completion. This will be a big relief to Bro. F. M. Wilcox, day man at that place, who has certainly been worked the limit during its construction.

Bro. A. T. Stannard, days at Leete's Island, who was indisposed for a week, has, we are pleased to say, again resumed work. Job covered by Mr. Hawley during his absence.

The last meeting was a hummer, and those who failed to attend certainly missed a treat. Why can't we have a better showing at meetings from the S. L.?

Again the General Committee has very creditably completed negotiations for a revision of our schedule with the company. This time the telegraphers of the system will be benefited annually to the extent of 80,000 dollars. Pretty good, don't you think? How much did you invest in the project? Take your pencil and figure the dividend on your investment. Do you know of any other source under the sun whereby you could have placed your money to better advantage? We are sorry to say the Shore Line still has a few nons. These men will, of course, be benefited to the same extent as we who have taken an interest and paid the coin to bring about these improved conditions. How long are these men going to accept this increase without offering a small portion of it for an up-to-date card that represents so much, and places them among men who have and are still advancing their personal interests? We trust none will stand back in the face of such proof of what is to be gained by giving the General Committee a solid backing.

You have read much about the $75 minimum and eight hours. Can't you see how close we are coming to this? Then why not see to it that you personally are giving your aid to get it on the next revision? A solid membership with a little something more than gristle in your back will do it.

Div. Con.

Providence Division, No. 35.

The June meeting of Providence Div. 35 will pass into history as one of the milestones in the heretofore thorny pathway of the O. R. T. on the New Haven road, and will be remembered by each and every member present as the most enthusiastic meeting ever held in the East.

The return of the General Committee laden with the spoils of war after a prolonged session with the officials at New Haven, the return of the delegates from the Grand Division, and a general desire to hear the good news, furnished the incentive for a large gathering, and to say that everybody left the hall satisfied with the results of the year's work would be a mild statement indeed.

The regular business of the meeting was dispatched as quickly as possible and Bro. Manion, our General Chairman, given the floor. He told what had been accomplished by the committee, giving an outline of plans for the future, followed by a few words of advice to the members as to not only keeping intact a well-oiled and working organization, but how to perfect it and keep it in shape to continue the work.

Bro. Manion was followed by Bro. Culver, the acting secretary and treasurer of the General Committee, in the oratorical effort of the evening. Bro. Culver claims he was not aware of the fact that he was an orator before, but the conditions were so favorable and the circumstances under which he was called upon to speak had such a wonderful effect upon him that his address was one of the best ever given before Div. 35.

Bro. Culver closed with a suggestion that every member take for his motto for the coming year, "Dig in," and subsided in a roar of applause.

Bro. Lippincott, local chairman of the Shore Line Division, responded to a request for a few remarks in his characteristic manner, and Bro. Brady, local chairman of the Worcester Division, added to the general hilarity by a few well-chosen remarks.

The greetings of the members to Bro. Joslin on his return to Providence and their congratulations on his unanimous election to the Board of Directors, were both sincere and substantial, and that they were appreciated by the recipient the lovers of good union-made cigars can testify.

The members of Div. 35 have reason to be proud, not only of their whole staff of officers, their local chairmen, but their representative on the Board of Directors. All who have met Bro.

Joslin at sessions of the Grand Division, or have been associated with him in the work here for the past ten or fifteen years are assured of his ability to fill any position with credit and to act with courtesy and fairness to all.

The prospects for a complete organization of the New Haven road were never brighter than at the present time. Material evidence of this was furnished by the large batch of applications read at the meeting. Non-members are scarce, but systematic effort will be made to round up the few desirable ones that remain outside the fold, and in a manner that will bring results. We have delivered the goods and the last argument of the poor old non has been swept away. Laying sentiment aside, he is due to recognize the O. R. T. as a good business proposition. Div. Cor.

Worcester Division Notes—

Bros. Wood and Griffin, of "VY" tower, have returned from a fishing trip down in Maine. The present agitation regarding nature stories make it inadvisable to give details as to number and size of the catch. Bros. Haley and Rose did the honors at "VY" during their absence. Cor.

A testimonial and banquet was tendered the local chairman of the Taunton Division of the New Haven road, Bro. L. J. Ross, at the Wilbur House in Fall River, Mass., on Wednesday evening, June 19th.

The affair was planned and given under the direction of Bro. Fred I. Walker, of Fall River, representing a large delegation of prominent railroad telegraphers from the Taunton Division. At the appointed time the boys marched into the dining room to the strains of "they may get over it, but they'll never look the same" by the house orchestra, with gum shoe accompaniment. The chef at the Wilbur was onto his job and knew what he would be up against with a crowd of hungry telegraphers to feed and it goes without saying that he delivered the goods.

The tables were bountifully piled with good things in the culinary line, and after the boys had squared away for action it looked as if a cyclone had swept through the place. Everything on the bill of fare bore the union label, with the exception of the hen's eggs, which were hand-made and later stamped solid O. R. T. by that bulwark of unionism, Bro. John Trainor, one of the early members of Providence Div. 35.

Bro. Trainor acted as toastmaster and filled this trying role to the entire satisfaction of all. His toast, although given without preparation, dwelt upon the success and the healthy condition of the Order in general, and to the noble efforts of the General Committee workers, especially complimenting Bro. Ross for his efforts in behalf of the Taunton Division telegraphers while in the trenches at New Haven.

Bro. Ross responded in his usual entertaining manner with the thanks of the General Committee and the local board.

The following was the bill of fare:

Soup Le Buillion (a la Railroada).
Fried Scup, 10 per cent sauce.
Sirloin Steak, O. R. T. trimmings.
Irish Cherries.	Lettuce. Green Pickles.
French Fried Irish Potatoes.	Friscasseed Non.
Cucumbers.	Tomatoes.
Strawberry Shortcake.
Ice Cream.	Mellen's Food.
Eight-hour Pudding.
Springwater Punch.	Carnival Bootjack.
Blue Label Cigars.

Among the men behind were J. E. Crowell, a worthy brother from North Dighton, who had to leave in time to put the mail on the last train. Bro. Crowell told some very interesting old-time railroad yarns. Russell Thuriott, the ham killer from dispatcher's office, Taunton. Bros. White and Walker, from Dighton, where the strawberries are produced, were on hand in their glad rags.

Bro. Hathaway came down from Somerset Junction and was a conspicuous figure in the festivities.

Bro. Beaton, of the Central St. tower, put away his golf clubs early in the afternoon and was one of the first to show up at the Wilbur House.

Last, but not least, was Bro. John Trainor, "the man who dares," wearing the smile that won't come off and with glad hand for everybody.

CERT. 121, Div. 35.

Pittsburg Division, No. 52.

First meeting in June found twenty-six members present. Four petitions for membership were acted on, one from the Allegheny Division P. R. R., two from the P. & L. E. and one from a member not employed on any railroad. Bills amounting to $20.50 and a sick claim for $4.00 were ordered paid.

Second meeting in June found a large number of members present. President Perham presiding. All officers present. Sick claim amounting to $25 ordered paid. Fourteen petitions for membership were acted on, seven from the Pittsburg Division, four from the Allegheny Division and three from the Monongahela Division of the P. R. R.

President Perham made an address, but on account of preparations having been made for a euchre and a lunch he cut short his remarks, giving a brief talk on general conditions, past and future. He also stated that he would pay us another visit at a not far distant date, when we did not have an entertainment on hand.

Meeting closed at 9 o'clock p. m.; number present about fifty. The remainder of the evening until 11:30 was taken up with the euchre. If you were not present it is your own fault and you will never know what you missed. I will not make you feel badly by telling you all about it. Everyone had an enjoyable time, plenty of refreshments for all and some left over. Remember, this is only the first one of the series. More to follow. I believe every one who was present will concede the fact that Sister Duncan and Bro. Koop can beat them playing euchre, at least they were awarded the lady's and gentleman's prices.

I take this opportunity to thank the ladies who contributed cakes and their time and labor toward making the affair a success.

Sister Collins deserves to be complimented on the manner in which she conducted everything while preparing and serving the refreshments. She was the right one in the right place.

Bro. Steinmeyer played ice man and insinuated that he did not like the job, because he had to carry 100 pounds of ice for a half dozen blocks, then up two flights of stairs.

Bros. Dalrymple, Campbell and Thompson, on the P. & L. E., have not written up the notes of their respective divisions during the past few months for publication in THE TELEGRAPHER. They should get busy.

At the rate the petitions are pouring in, it will only be a matter of a short time until all divisions of railroad in the jurisdiction of Div. 52 are solid. Individual effort is the key note of success along those lines. KLING.

Boston Division, No. 41.

To the Members of Southern Division B. & M. R. R.—

At the last meeting of Boston Div. No. 41, June 8th, after some very touching remarks by Bro. Morgan, Bro. Cole, in behalf of the members on the Southern Division, presented me with a purse of gold, contributed by Southern Division boys.

The kindly act was so unexpected that my feelings simply got the better of me and I found it hard work to say a simple "Thank you."

The gift in itself was very valuable, but far dearer to me was the kindly words spoken by Bro. Morgan and the many letters handed me with a paper expressing the good wishes of the writers and approval of my efforts to serve you as local chairman.

The duties of local chairman have always been a pleasure to me, as the division officials and brothers have all shown a spirit to be absolutely just and fair.

I sincerely hope that when my term of service expires I shall be able to carry with me the same feeling as now shown.

Thanking you once more for your kindly expressions and gift.

Fraternally yours,

W. R. MEIKLE,
Local Chairman.

New York Division, No. 44.

Regular meeting, June 8th, was called to order by our worthy chief. All officers present with the exception of Bro. Surme, who is still on the sick list, but improving rapidly. Meeting was well attended. Regular order of business dispensed with. Our delegates rendered a report of the convention, after which Second Vice-President Bro. T. M. Pearson, gave us a very interesting talk. The members are always glad to see Tom.

The new tower at Valley Stream has been placed on an hour basis. Bro. Groves is happy.

The summer table took effect June 20th. It keeps the boys on the jump.

The new interlocking switch plant at Far Rockaway was put in service June 19th. Lots of physical culture at this place.

A communication from Bro. Willister, down on the Isthmus, says he never felt better. Lots of work to keep him out of mischief, and the gold rolls in by the bag full. He sends best wishes to all the members of No. 44.

Bro. Conklin, of Deer Park, who left the service some time ago, has accepted the position of relief agent and strange to say is again working his old job, the station being closed for about a week, as no one seemed to want it. As relief agent Bro. Conklin may have to travel some, but the chances are he will be left in his home town for some time to come.

Owing to the very severe illness of the agent, Miss Sadie Randall, of Shoreham, formerly Wardencliffe, the station has been closed for two weeks or more. This seems to be another job that no one wants. Guess the wages are a little too high. Anyway Edwards says the town is a God-forsaken place to live in. He did not say there long.

Understand our worthy chief, Bro. Van Nostrand, goes to Manhattan Beach for the summer. By the way Bro. Van, who had the misfortune to break his knee cap some time ago, is getting along very nicely. He has discarded the crutches and can get around fairly well with a cane.

All members are urged to attend the next regular meeting. Matters of importance will come up at this meeting and it's up to those interested to be present and take care of their own business or forever hold their peace if things do not go just as they would like to have them. Cor.

Campbellton Division, No. 61.

O. R. T. meeting was held in the Adams' House, Chatham, and we are surprised that the attendance was not greater, especially when we want to keep up the fight for the $75 minimum. There are twenty or twenty-five members on our division who are regular attendants, but we have a certain number, especially those who have been the most benefited by the organization, those who have more than doubled their pay within the past seven or eight years, not entirely by their personal merits, but by the rules of our O. R. T. schedule, who never attend O. R. T. meetings. In conversation with them in private they have all to say abusing certain members of the Order. These same men who were drawing the big salary of 99 cents per night, walking a mile or two morning and evening to look after semaphores and switches, having to hang around the offices all Sundays for nothing, are now making from $50 to $120 per month. Do you see them at O. R. T. meetings? Very few of them attend.

I will ask these individuals where they would be without the assistance of the O. R. T. on the I. C. R.? Besides not attending meetings some of these high-salaried men are behind in their dues.

Bro. D. Campbell is expected with the General Committee last week of June to work on our new schedule. It is up to the members to show a good front by paying up to date and securing the few nons we have and try and attend the July meeting. Our new schedule will be before the management by that time and there should be something interesting in stock for all telegraphers.

Some of the telegraphers should be around when our fellow workers, the B. of R. T., meets and watch how well they attend meetings. Why telegraphers do not attend like the trainmen?

RESTIGOUCHE.

Chicago Division, No. 91.

Our meeting of May 28th, the first in our new hall, was very poorly attended. The Commercial telegraphers were having a gala day and night at the Chutes and the majority of our own members could not resist the temptation to go and enjoy themselves. In fact, the secretary himself went out after adjournment just in time to have the gate shut in his face and told his pass was no good any more. It is estimated there were five thousand union operators and their friends attended the Chutes on that night, so you can see unionism is not quite dead in Chicago.

Now I wish that our brothers not only in Chicago, but out in the country, would try and run up to our meetings, which are now held the fourth Tuesday of every month in Liberty Hall, Fraternity Building, 70 East Adams street, near State street.

I am glad to be able to report that at this early date (June 15th) the members of Div. 91 are paying dues very rapidly for the term ending December 31, 1907. You will all find that it is easier to pay before or when it is due, than to allow yourself to get in arrears.

It is with great regret that I have to announce the death of Alfred E. LaTourneaux, a member of the C. T. U. A., in Chicago, who was drowned June 12th while fishing. While he did not hold an O. R. T. card, he was a strong worker for both organizations, and considered that the only salvation of the telegrapher lay in uniting. He was one of the first wire chiefs in Chicago to wear the button while on duty.

I am informed by one of our Western Union members that Mr. P. E. Honesley, who worked on the Katy during our troubles with them, is now working for the Western Union on the Board of Trade in Chicago. I think our Commercial friends can take care of him.

Bro. Downie had the misfortune to lose his card case, containing all his O. R. T. and C. T. U. A. cards. If any of our members get trace of same, kindly advise the secretary.

It is interesting to note, in going over the membership of 91, how many of our members have bettered themselves by leaving the telegraph service; also how many are working in the commercial service, with no benefit accruing from the O. R. T., yet they are the first ones to pay up their dues and always want to hold an up-to-date card.

Now, brothers on the railroad, don't you think we should emulate them? It is only needless work on the overworked secretary to cause him to write you when you get in arrears.

Bro. Perham sent all our members a circular letter recently in regard to teaching students. It would be well if all our members were to give this their undivided attention. Not only do not teach them yourself, but insist on your neighbors doing likewise. While I am willing to admit that I was a student at one time myself, I am also sorry to say that I think I could have bettered myself if I had been taught some other trade not requiring as much brains as telegraphy. It seems the more brains you use in this business the less you are paid. There is no sense in cutting down our own salary in order to give some other man or boy a chance to get into an already overcrowded profession. In fact, if the matter were fully explained to the prospective student I do not think you could induce him to enter the ranks of telegraphers.

Now, brothers, this is very dry reading, but as it is impossible to get any assistance from our brothers located elsewhere, it is the best I can do.

I have received several letters from our Monon members "rapping" me for a circular letter sent them. Brothers, if a letter is sent you in common with other members and it does not fit your case, pay no attention to it. However, I am sorry to say that the circular applied to nearly every member on the Monon. There are about five members on the Monon who seem willing to get out and hustle for applications of nons; the others are content to see them go by without detaining them. Now if the train service is all right on the Monon, why can't we fix up some Sunday to have an outing at Cedar Lake, in order to give our members a chance to do a little fishing and get acquainted with one another. I should like to have those who could arrange to attend such an outing drop the secretary a line (without a hook, however) and he will arrange to call a special meeting to be held at Cedar Lake some nice, warm Sunday. We can count on about fifteen or twenty from Chicago if enough from the line will guarantee to appear.

Don't forget the dues or the fishing trip.

Geo. H. O'Brien, Secretary.

Albany Division, No. 78.

R. & S. Division—

There were seventeen members initiated at the meeting June 15th, which speaks well for Bro. Nelligan, organizer. These new brothers will find they have taken a step in the right direction and that there are many benefits to be derived from holding membership in the O. R. T.

We extend to all a hearty welcome and trust they will endeavor to get other non-members into the Order, thereby placing this road nearer the 100 per cent mark and making things better for us all.

By the time this appears in print the committee will probably be before the management negotiating for a revision of the schedule and should secure a general increase, as the cost of living has increased materially with no corresponding increase in salaries. Let us hope we will secure a good schedule and a substantial increase for all.

I wish to thank Div. 78 for the trip to Minneapolis and assure the members that the honor was appreciated. I did all possible for the good of Div. 78 and the Order in general. I trust I represented our division to the satisfaction of all. Copies of the minutes of the convention doubtless have been received ere this, which each member should go over thoroughly, as it is an important and interesting report.

Let us get busy and land all the nons on the road. Fill your information blanks out properly and return them to the local chairman of your division.

A Mr. O. H. Ramsdell is working in "RS," Glens Falls freight office, during the absence of Mr. Parker. By the way, did anyone see this job up for bid after Mr. Waldron, who accepted a station on the A. D. K. R. R., left.

Night position at Fort Edward, "Z," again up for bid; notice dated June 6th. Mr. G. H. Ramsdell holding it down at present. "13" Mr. Ramsdell will be with us soon.

Bro. Hughes, of "U," Liv Ave., Albany, spent Sunday, June 9th, at his home in Fair Haven.

Bro. Carry, of "J," Corinth, visited West Rutland last week.

Understand Bro. "JM" Sullivan, at "CK," Comstock, is going to have a helper on account of increased work, due to barge canal being constructed through this territory.

Expect our organizer, Bro. Nelligan, will reap a harvest on the Champ Division, as the boys are anxious to again enter the fold.

What is the matter we can not have an open meeting at Whitehall this month? Let's talk it over and send Bro. Nichols your names, saying you will attend one and give the Champ Division brothers a show.

"13" they are going to start a division at Whitehall. Bro. Stevens, of "Z," also Bros. Wood, Longergan, Falvey and up that way are anxious to hold one there. This will give the brothers on the R. & W. and Champ Divisions a meeting.

COR.

Portland Division, No. 95.

Well, boys, you who were not present at the meeting June 20th, missed a good sight for sore eyes. We had 23 applications and on account of slight errors and omissions from three, we elected twenty members and initiated two. At one previous meeting we elected nine, but this last was a banner night. Most of the new members were from the P. & R. F.

The General Committee were all present and took part in the meeting. All the officers were present, and that has been a rare occurrence in the past. Some of the boys made quite an effort to attend, and if more would only do the same (only one night a month) we would be surprised to see how the Order would take new life on the M. C. & B. & M.

I tell you, boys, the meetings are the life of the organization and we must show our appreciation of what we are getting by putting more life into the Order. It is through the Order that we get these increases and overtime and what we get out will be in exact proportion to what we put in, so let us put more in.

Sorry Bro. T. J. Pearson, Second Vice-President, could not be present that night, but was called to New Jersey and couldn't be with us.

J. E. Crepeau has resigned position as telegrapher at Whitefield and left us. A. N. Gaudreau is at Sebago Lake. Bro. J. E. Winslow is at Glenn, N. H.

Hope to land Smith, night man at Cumberland Mills Junction, soon. He has promised his papers.

C. L. Perkins, from Monmouth, is doing a trick in Union Station, Portland.

Get busy, boys, and get that non to stop running a ham factory and join the O. R. T.

CERT. 103.

Elmira Division, No. 100.

Elmira Div. No. 100, held its first regular meeting at Red Men's Hall, Elmira, N. Y., Friday, June 21st, with sixteen members present.

Bro. Elliott presented the division with an elegant frame for our new charter, refusing reimbursement from the treasury. He was given a vote of thanks.

Bro. Quick handed around the smokes, having lately joined the ranks of the benedicts. He and his bride have the best wishes of Div. 100.

Five new applications were read, and several more are in sight.

Bro. Maynard, late of Stanley nights, has resigned, and Bro. Davies is now filling that position.

Understand Mr. Harris, of Canandaigua tower nights, is now entitled to the grand sign. The boys are glad to welcome him.

Bro. Dunning was in attendance and furnished some startling information regarding the school at Cogan Valley.

Understand there is also a factory at a tower on the north end, and unless the class there is disbanded names will be mentioned. If this student teaching is persisted in steps will be taken that may prove unpleasant to the guilty ones.

Bro. Weeks, of "BX," Newark, favored us with his company, making train 9 by a margin of 20 seconds. Had he slipped Newark block would have had to be extended.

Mr. Kinney, agent at Millport, continues obstinate about sending his papers and will have to be interviewed by our organizer.

Mr. E. J. Bales, nights at Pine Valley, will be with us just as soon as his service will permit.

Mr. C. B. Johnson, nights at Benton Siding, will also make good as soon as he can. All these new men have the right idea and will be given every opportunity to do the right thing.

Bro. Harry Gibbs, late relief agent, has resigned and taken to the country. Couldn't resist the "Call of the Wild."

Brp. Dan Utz, of "QC" Elmira, is away on a vacation, doing Jamestown Exposition, we understand. Mr. Judd works third trick in "QC" during Bro. Utz' absence.

Won't Bro. Elliott please convince Mr. Judd that he needs the O. R. T. in his business? We can use Mr. Judd's application at our next meeting.

Test trains are being run over the pike, and juggling from the language indulged in by the crews, they are testing the vocabulary of the trainmen to the limit.

The $75 minimum looks good, and the members of Div. 100 may be depended upon to do all in their power to secure it.

Being my first attempt at a write-up this is very crude. If the brothers will send me anything of interest to the Order I will try to get in something more interesting next month. Thanks in advance.

The station at Bellona is without a student for the first time in many moons. This is encouraging, and we should try to induce Mr. Bristol, agent, to join us. Several of the boys have been after him, but he says he will not be in the service long enough to make it an object.

Mr. Baker now at Hall nights. Here is a chance to do some missionary work. Get his application, if you have to get it with a club.

Two nons at Ennerdale, but understand one of them is coming to us in a month or so.

We shall all be much pleased to call Miss Kinney, at Millport, sister if she can be brought to see the light. She being the only lady telegrapher on the division will make her doubly welcome.

Div. Cor.

Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway.

Winnipeg Division—

Our committee at last succeeded in arranging a date with the management and were in session about three weeks, and came back with our flag flying higher. This is due to three things: the fact that our management is willing to reward us for our good service, that we had a very able committee, and last, but not least, to the fact that we are all pulling together for the upbuilding of the profession.

As we have not yet received a copy of the revised schedule we can not comment on it, but we understand no comment is necessary. All we need do is compliment ourselves, thank the committee by a letter and thank the management by giving them the best possible service.

While in session our committee took up the question of raising the dues from eight to ten dollars per year, and put it to a vote, the result was as follows: In favor of raising the dues, 103; against raising the dues, 18, making a total of 121 votes cast; therefore, the dues on the Soo Line Division No. 119 have been raised to $5 per term, commencing July 1st, 1907. If any of you have not yet sent in your dues for the new term be sure and do so at once, sending $5, and if you have sent in the old amount be sure and remit the additional dollar at once. No one should feel hurt regarding this raise, for there are a very few divisions with a less amount, and as it is all in the local treasury it will better our cause and give us something to work on should occasion make it necessary. This raise was not necessary account the expenses of the committee, but rather to safeguard our interests. Our committee actually had less expense than any other we know of, which goes to show that they were working for our interests in every way.

A great many changes have taken place since last write-up, and the boys are not keeping the Secretary posted as to change of address. Please do not forget this when you move around, for it is very necessary your address should be on file with the Secretary, and you are yourself to blame if you do not get notice of business from him unless you give him your address. You should also advise Bro. Quick.

Bro. E. A. Underhill, day telegrapher at Overly, relieved Bro. Hutchinson at Bisbee for a few days, then went to Mahanomen and relieved Bro. Boyse. We understand Bro. Underhill has since left the service. We will miss Bro. Underhill, as he was both a good brother and a good telegrapher.

Bro. Wilson is back at Mahanomen after having been on relief duty for some time.

Bro. York, of Ardoch, has been off for a few days, but has failed to say anything regarding his trip or who relieved him, hence he is receiving one debit mark in this office.

Bro. Lewis, our excellent General Chairman, is visiting in the South for a short time before resuming his duties at Orleans.

After a little reminder Bro. Rice, at Forest River, drops a note to say that it happened May 26th in the Methodist Church at Forest River, and the lady's name was Miss Florence Ferguson. Congratulations, old man, and we trust some of the others will follow your good example.

Bro. Taggart, of Plummer, returned from West Point, Miss., where he went for his health. We are glad to have him back in his old-time form, but regret to hear that he has made up his mind to leave the Soo.

Bro. Field, of Newfolden, and Bro. Heimecke, of Richville, changed positions, Bro. Crandell holding Richville while the transfer was being made. Bro. Crandell then went to Bisbee.

We also debit Bro. Haulette, of Standquist, who got married and did not inform us.

Bro. Danielson, of Oslo, is away on a vacation, being relieved by Bro. Abbott.

Bro. Leach found it necessary to make a trip to the Twin Cities, but there was no relief so permission was given him to lock up on Saturday night and make the trip, returning Monday.

Agent Bills, of Radium, has left the service and one of Chaffee's graduates is now filling the position.

Bro. Johnson, of Henning, visited at the convention in Minneapolis.

Bro. Dalton and Bro. Paine helped with the news this month, for which please accept thanks.

Will some one on the first please jar loose and send a few notes.

We expect to have a meeting in the near future, and want you all to make arrangements to be in attendance.

Keep the General Secretary advised of any change in your address.

P. S.—Eighteen new members since last issue. That's going some; have you done your share?

Div. Cor.

W. & P. Division, West of Rhinelander—

I presume by the time you read these items you will all have a new schedule in your "inside pocket." It is not to be supposed that every one will be satisfied, but it's quite a bit ahead of the old one, and we can't get all we desire at once. So let us all unite in thanking our worthy committee for what they have done for us.

Understand Chairman Lewis is to take a trip over the line shortly, and when he shows up give him the glad hand. Don't look at him as though he was a "scab" looking for a hand-out, and if any of you hold cards in other divisions hand them to him so he can transfer you. Every little bit helps and we need them all.

Have you had instructions as to handling your time slips? When you work overtime now you should call the dispatcher's attention to how much and he O. K's the slips with his initials. This saves a lot of unnecessary correspondence, and I think it a good plan. Now, let's see what the line looks like.

At Rhinelander we have a change; Flannigan gone and Rose taking his place. "The new man is doing it right." Unable to say whether he's got an "up-to-date" or not.

Bro. Kendretch, at Kennan, has adapted himself to his own cooking. Mrs. K. on a short visit to Ashland.

Understand Bro. Kelly, at Weyerhauser, has resigned and is going west July 1st. Wish him a pleasant journey and success in his new field.

Bro. Kabliska took a vacation for few weeks, Mr. White relieving him. Understand White has left the road.

Bro. Edwards, at Barron, went to Dresser Jct. for a day or two to relieve Bro. Deul, who was taken suddenly sick. At this writing he is much better.

Understand Bro. Shelver, at Almena, has been having quite a siege of sickness in his family, but at this writing they seem to be on the mend. He has the sympathy of us all.

Bro. Stevens, at Dresser Jct., relieving Bro. Deul.

Telegrapher Glendenning, at Osceola nights, relieving Stewart.

Telegrapher Bennett, at Marine nights, relieving Williams.

At Cardigan Jct. we have a new night man, Mathews, an old-timer. Understand he has an up-to-date card but not in Division 119.

Bulwer Jct., a new night man, Isaacson, from L., S. & M. S., I "13." Can't say if he's up-to-date or not.

Operator Lyons, the old-timer at Shoreham, is working for the G. N. or N. P. at St. Paul.

Now, brothers, if I've missed any one or called some brothers that are not, call my attention to it and will remedy it. CERT. 1080.

CARD OF THANKS.

MERRICOURT, N. D., June 13, 1907.

Brothers of Soo Line, Division No. 119:

Please accept, through the columns of THE TELEGRAPHER, my sincere thanks for the help I am receiving from you while I am in distress. "A friend in need is a friend indeed."

Yours fraternally,

O. F. FREID,

Cert. 12, Div. 119.

Grand Trunk Railway.

Without any intention of occupying the space of more eloquent writers for our journal, but feeling it my duty to make an attempt to offer a few words to enlighten our brothers as to what we are doing in Division No. 1, I send in these items.

We have been having success for the past few weeks. There has been several new members added to our list and a goodly number have promised to come in with us this coming pay-day.

We must remember our new schedule is coming into effect, and it is for our benefit to do all in our power to get every non possible into line with an up-to-date card, so that we may ameliorize our present wage conditions and secure seniority rights. If we will get busy and do our part in converting the non-unionists there will evidently be less trouble in effecting a settlement with the officials.

Bro. J. W. Gubbins is taking a week's vacation, and is being relieved by Bro. F. P. Scully.

Bro. Joe Dumont is one a two weeks' vacation, and is being relieved by Bro. Brown.

I can not say much about our new schedule as yet, as I have not heard anything definite. It is up to us to back our committee, for we can well understand that the committee can not go before the management and demand this schedule unless we make a special effort to support them. We have the best chairman (Mr. V. J. Lanphear) that could possibly be secured to act for any Order, and we should show him that we appreciate what he is doing for our benefit, and not only us but our loved ones, who are depending upon us for support. CERT. 538...

Oregon Short Line.

I wonder if a few notes from the "O. S. L." would be out of order? Judging from our silence in the past one would be led to believe that we were "dead ones," but I am pleased to say such is not the case, as this system is fairly well lined up, although we are a minus, a division being attached to 53 S. P.

I can not understand why the members on this line do not get busy and send an energetic man over the entire system, making a door-to-door canvas; in this manner we can deal a death-blow to the non and at the same time wake up our members.

Bro. Foster, one of our hustling members, was unjustly discharged from "CA," Pocatello relay office, last February for being active in trying to schedule the system. Later he was appointed organizer and made a trip over our line meeting with fair success. I understand he resigned the position and went to work for the S. P. Since his departure there has been "nothing doing."

Now, brothers, let us get together and arrange for a schedule similar to one now in effect on S. P. We are entitled to the same rate of pay and working conditions, and it is up to us to demand it. We should either send one of our members over the line or request President Perham to send an organizer. Now is the time for action, as there is a wave of prosperity sweeping over the country and a scarcity of competent telegraphers on all lines. We have a fine set of officials here, and there is no question but that a committee from our ranks would receive fair treatment.

Being a new-comer, am unable to give the line-up at this writing, but shall endeavor to have it for the next issue of our journal. Now, brothers, to arms and let our slogan be "A schedule or bust."

With best 73's to all. PROF. McCASH.

Idaho Division, Third District—

Suppose that I should take a snooze,
And account of that my job should lose;
You think that I would sit and pout
Because the "Short Line" let me out?
Not on your life; I'd go and stay
Where eight short hours compose a day.

—W. L. Bivin.

Mr. L. E. Halbert, "Ex." agent at "S," is now extra dispatcher at "H" office. He has been trying his hand at first trick; he seems to be making good as trains move lively under his jurisdiction.

Bro. C. A. Brown, former agent at Alexander, is visiting home folks at Shoshone. We hope he has a good time while free from the cares that are attached to agent's job.

As sheep-shipping season is on, the boys that are doing the "owl" act have to keep out of the hay nights.

General manager's special passed over the line short time ago.

By the time this goes to press Bro. W. L. Bivin, the Bliss "owl," will be in parts unknown at present. Sorry to lose him, but he says "it's high time he was traveling."

Mr. Vannetta will "sport" that new card soon; his application papers are in Bro. Quick's office at present date. Thanks to the brother that showed Mr. Vannetta the straight and narrow way.

Bro. W. L. Moffett, days Bliss, expects E. F. LeDoux, from Arkansas, soon to work nights for him. Guess he will like it better to have a brother from his native State to share his labors at "IS" with.

What is the company going to do when the new law goes into effect? They can't get men enough now to supply their wants, and when the eight-hour law becomes effective it will require six new operators on this district between "CA" and "GF." If the company would only pay living wages good men would not be so scarce.

The scribe met a nice young gentleman the other day out on a ranch who hasn't railroaded for ten years, but he still holds an "up-to-date" card. This young man stated he would readily go back to railroad work if he could make as much as a farmer, but at the present scale of wages he can't do it so he prefers the farm.

Let's all get together and see what we can do toward getting that better scale of wages. I think we ought to rush things before the eight-hour law goes in effect. "A. Boomer."

First District—

Things are going on in the same old way on the O. S. L. What is the matter with us? Did you notice how the miners at Cumberland, Frontier and Diamondville organized and got a schedule, all in a few days' time? The men at Cumberland and Diamondville getting their schedule without any trouble, and how the Kemmerer Coal Co., at Frontier, refused to have anything to do with the U. M. W. of A. at first, and how within twelve hours they, the Kemmerer Coal Co., came to Kemmerer looking for the U. M. W. of A. organizer to sign his schedule? Did you hear of this? And yet we sit back and let the officials of the O. S. L. bluff us out. When the miners started hardly one of them belonged to the union, and here are we, the railroad telegraphers, nearly every one of us with an up-to-date card, and yet we are afraid to ask for our rights. Are we going to let the miners get ahead of us so easily? Haven't we any more life in us than this? How long do you suppose it would take us to get a schedule if we would get together and appoint a committee to go before the officials? Couldn't we do as well as the miners? If we couldn't we better quit. What we want is some of the old heads, that is, men who have been on the road some length of time, and who the officials would pay some attention to for committeemen. Why won't you do this? Are you all married to your jobs? The officials on this road have been running a great bluff on us, and as long as they can they will continue to do so. As soon as anyone tries to organize the road they are fired bodily. Do you think for a minute that this could be done if we would all get together and claim our rights? Of course not. The trouble has been that when a telegrapher has been discharged for trying to organize the road, instead of the rest of the boys taking it up and compelling their reinstatement they have shut up like clams and there is not another word said about organization until some brother gets life enough in him to start organizing again. If we would all hang together as we should things would not end in the way they have been doing heretofore. We are the only ones on the O. S. L. that haven't a schedule, and I should think that we should be ashamed of ourselves to let everyone else get ahead of us in this way. We are not all dead, are we? If not, get busy and let us hear what some of the rest of you have to say.

FLOYD.

C., St. P., M. & O. Ry.

Wisconsin Division, Northern District—

Nearly every month the correspondent has urged you to send items to your local or assistant chairmen, and still there are some who are in doubt as to whom the items should be sent. Get in touch, gentlemen.

A number of our most important night offices have been temporarily closed owing to illness of our telegraphers and inability of our officials to fill the vacancies for lack of men who are willing to work at the present scale of wages.

E. W. Quinn, Rockmont, on sick list the first of the month. Office closed during his absence.

Bro. Nicols Clear Lake nights, left for Rochester, Minn., to undergo an operation. Office closed, no one available.

Lampson opened days and Lakeside closed; Bro. J. E. Nordholm, from Lampson to Lakeside.

The Eau Claire dispatching force have had their salaries raised recently; regular men now receive $135.00 and extra men $125.00.

Dispatchers Livesey and Appelman returned from their vacations early in June. Bro. Swanson and G. N. Tower did the relief work during absence of regular men.

Len Prentice, who has, for a number of years, been cashier at Stillwater, is now agent at Rice Lake.

Bro. Tom Bergh, Duluth freight, is off at the present writing; some one who signs "JO" relieving.

Bro. M. E. Carey, South Range, has gone to Wascott nights.

O. E. Bradley and A. B. Clock are working the combination at South Range. Their names do not appear on the roll of honor.

Telegraphers who are moving from one place to another seem to be rather lax as to having their mail forwarded to them. Several inquiries have been received lately as to the whereabouts of certain men whose mail is being returned to the head offices.

Have you all received a copy of the little book containing the names of all telegraphers on the Wisconsin Division? One has been mailed to each member at his last known address, and if you have not received yours, drop a line to the telegrapher who holds your old position and ask him to forward your mail to you. If you do not receive the book write your Local Chairman for a copy.

To the non list add the names G. Tower, F. A. Brown, H. W. Pace and R. F. North; add L. McFarlane to the roll of honor, last on seniority list; the latter has made application; now working nights at Ashland Jct; also add R. E. Heinz, seniority No. 57.

Business pretty fair, considering the time of year, strawberries going north every day.

C. G. Dopkins, new night man at Cable.

J. W. Luckey, St. Paul, to relieve the stringency is filling in as day telegrapher at New Richmond; Bro. Apelquist, who is off on sick leave, has been assigned this position.

J. S. Johnson has been billed for the job at Saronia.

The bulletin has become somewhat of a farce lately owing to the extreme scarcity of available men required to make the moves. The St. Paul Dispatch says that more than 5,000 telegraphers are needed in the West and Southwest at the present time; that by January 1st 10,000 would be required and the new Federal law will necessitate double that number. There is nothing puzzling about the situation at all; it is all a question of salaries; give us a $75.00 minimum and double time for Sunday work and any number of telegraphers, now in other positions, can be had.

The meeting held at Eau Claire on May 27th was not as well attended as we had hoped, but each absentee misses some valuable information which he should possess. Many more might have been on hand had they been a little more aggressive. Bro. E. J. Stanton, Rusk, is now the local custodian of funds; Bro. C. C. VanMeter, Hudson, was elected Division Correspondent for the Eastern District.

This is the month (June) in which we should remit our five-dollar dues to Bro. I. R. Kempkes, Nevada, Ia., and insurance assessments to Bro. L. W. Quick, St. Louis, Mo. If there are any who have failed to remit the $2.00 special assessment to Bro. Kempkes, do not delay longer.

It is rumored that the Wisconsin Eight-Hour Bill has passed the Senate. If the report is true, another great victory has been won by and through efforts of the O. R. T. Assemblyman C. D. Thompson first introduced the bill at Madison, and was untiring in his efforts to secure its passage in the Assembly, which occurred some weeks ago by a unanimous vote. The bill has had a hard fight in the Senate, but Mr. Thompson has followed it closely and the telegraphers throughout the State have kept close tab on it. It will be well to keep in mind the names of the Senators who have fought against this bill with so much vigor and enmity.

Bro. J. C. Apelquist, Comstock, is undergoing treatment in Duluth, but expects to be able to resume work about the 15th of July.

There is little glory to your officers in upholding strict seniority of members who, through petty jealousy and spite, seek to displace competent men in positions where the former are unable or unwilling to make good by faithful and accurate work. The young telegraphers of our day do not realize the amount of work and sacrifice which was necessary by older members to place the craft in its present position, and should go a little slow in their haughty demands. The Order is for all telegraphers and equal justice to all should be the aim.

Write the nons of your acquaintance and endeavor to bring them into the fold. The Order which has secured more money and better conditions is for them as well as ourselves.

If the Order should become completely disrupted on the Omaha and every other large road in the country, it is safe to say that nine-tenths of the present force of nons would be new organizers; difference in pay and conditions which would result would more forcibly bring to them a realization of what use the O. R. T. really is.

New man at Solon Springs, Joe Posternock; has the papers and will make use of them.

Agent Carter is reported seriously ill at Chipewewa Falls.

J. B. McElroy off on a vacation latter part of June and Bro. Mills was called from Comstock to fill in at Bayfield.

G. L. Cnoy, from M. & I. Division at Comstock, says he is supplied with necessary credentials held by all up-to-date telegraphers.

Understand Bro. Hanan, recently relieved at Turtle Lake by J. W. Quinn, is now at work on some line in Canada.

Bro. Marquette, Shell Lake, has been appointed Assistant Local Chairman to fill vacancy occasioned by absence of Bro. Apelquist.

It is possible that an election will soon be called to select a Local Chairman in place of Bro. Quinlan, who can not be relieved as readily to act on committee as when in the telegraph service.

Div. Cor.

Eastern District, Wisconsin Division—

Were it not for a few of the old heads your write-up would not take up much space this month.

The time is again on hand when our semi-annual dues for the term June 30th, 1907, to December 31, 1907, are payable, and every member should give this matter prompt attention. There are a few who have not paid the special assessment of $2.00, and this should be attended to at once.

The little booklet showing the names of all members, non-members and their place on the seniority list, is now out and one should be in the hands of every member. Should any member not receive one, same can be had by writing to your Local Chairman.

You will please note the names of the nons, get after them and bring them in. As soon as a non joins, his name will be published in the journal and every member should strike his name off of the list in the book and enter in the space provided for the same.

Now, one and all, get after the nons, write them and don't stop writing and talking until they sign up.

You have, without doubt, received President Perham's letter of June 10th, and it is to be hoped you all have given it careful consideration. Cut out the student business wherever possible.

Bro. Liddane, after being off for several days after the close of the convention, straightening out some matters along the line and adjusting grievances, returned to work June 5th. Bro. Hoffman relieved him and is now relieving Bro. Essick at Spooner, while the latter is enjoying a fishing trip.

Bro. R. C. Jones, of Division 23, is relieving Bro. Hoffman at "J" nights. Bro. Jones to be transferred to Division 76 immediately.

Bro. Hawkins, formerly at Harvester Works, is now with the N. P. in Washington. Sorry to see any brother leave us, but hope he has bettered his conditions.

Bro. A. H. Fisher relieved Bro. Leiser a few days while Fritz was sick, caused by eating too much smoke. An oil-stove exploded and set the summer kitchen on fire and before Fritz was awake he had breathed a lot of smoke. He was off for six days. Bro. Fisher went to Elroy yards.

J. G. Bokeela, Jr., now at Hersey relieving Bro. Bailey, who is off account of his health. Understand Bro. J. G. Bokeela, Sr., is attending his chicken farm at Wilson.

Bro. P. R. Anderson now has Knapp days regular. Night man, Ritmeyer, has joined the Order and we can, with pleasure, write brother in front of his name.

Bro. J. F. Volek, formerly "NR" days, is now at Stillwater freight days.

Bro. W. H. Beal has left the service and is with the G. N. at Bemidji, Minn.

C. I. D. Elliott has gone to his old home in Canada for a two weeks' visit. Dispatcher H. E. Lamb left last Sunday for an Eastern trip, expecting to be gone about a month. Joe Prentice is handling the first trick during his absence.

The dispatchers have had their salaries raised to $135.00 for regular and $125.00 for extra dispatchers.

Bro. Joe Kneer, at Truax nights, on sick list for few nights.

Bro. E. H. Showalter, from Gordon, now working at Altoona nights, and is putting it all down on a mill in good shape.

Bro. Ray just returned from a two weeks' vacation to his home.

Bro. Goodwin leaves on his vacation shortly.

Do not seem to be able to get any news from the East End.

Business is pretty good for this time of year. Purchased three new Pacific type passenger engines, besides the six Atlantic type. The double track between "Q" and "MS" is nearing completion; the depot and coal shed at Altoona being moved back to allow for the second track.

Wedges Creek and Roxxy (cable) pits have been opened for the summer.

Add names of Bro. R. C. Jones and R. E. Heinz, seniority No. 57, to the list of members in your book. Scratch Heinz off list of nons.

In conclusion, I humbly beg of the members on this Eastern District to send in any items of interest.

CERT. 1405.

Minnesota and Iowa Divisions—

Bro. Hanby, night telegrapher at Jordan, has resigned and is now located on a farm near Alma Center, Wis. We understand he was married a short time ago and thinks perhaps a nice farm with a wife is a better life than slaving nights on a railroad. Bro. M. C. Anderson, of Minneapolis, relieves him.

Bro. H. G. Stumm was absent from duty several days this month account of death in the family. He was relieved by Mr. J. E. Regan, the night man, who in turn was relieved by Mr. R. L. Kilburg, of Brewster.

Bro. J. L. Farmer is now regularly installed as agent at Dundee.

Bro. G. W. Orr has gone to Rhinelander, Wis., for a visit with relatives. He is relieved at Avoca by Bro. P. J. Ritchel.

Agent Heleniack, of Pipestone, is enjoying a vacation; relieved by Bro. H. C. Reed. Bro. A. G. Lane is the temporary day telegrapher there.

Bro. A. R. Tabbert is now located at Lake Wilson pending assignment by bulletin. We understand Bro. Hosmer resigned and is now employed on the Sou. Pac.

Bro. W. H. Beyers, extra telegrapher on the division, has resigned and is now engaged in boosting the great American game—baseball.

Bro. Geo. Cottingham is enjoying a visit at his old home back in Ohio. Bro. J. H. Gove enjoyed the sensation of being agent in a really good town, and we are pleased to learn he made good at it, too. He was relieved by Bro. J. F. Evans. Mr. C. F. Leatherman relieved Bro. Beyers nights.

Bro. A. C. Turnbull is now doing his stunts on top the "Dark Brown Reds," having enlisted in the freight service. Says he couldn't stand the confinement of office work.

Bro. Pingel, of Bigelow, enjoyed a visit with his parents at Wilton, Wis., the past two weeks; relieved by Bro. Lane.

Bro. G. A. Raines, of Sheldon, visited with his parents at Lake City, Minn., the first of the month.

Bro. O. E. Becker went to Fulton the first of the month to act as agent while Bro. F. L. Colfax takes a much-needed rest.

Bro. E. C. Himley has returned from his sojourn in Wisconsin and is again at the old stand at Grogan.

Mr. R. A. Slaker is enjoying a vacation of a month in Northern Wisconsin; relieved by W. J. Ross, at St. James.

Bro. B. J. Funk, night man at Mankato, is enjoying a vacation; relieved by Bro. Zimmerman, of Kasota.

Dispatcher John Maloy spent two weeks the first of the month with parents and friends in Northern Minnesota.

Dispatcher P. J. Dempsey is again at work, having spent two solid weeks at his old home at Savage, where he says he fished and proved the sterling qualities of "silver pine."

Dispatcher T. Gillott and wife left the 22d for a trip to Portland, Ore., and other Western points.

L. F. Stuart, of St. Peters nights, visited with his parents this month; relieved by C. F. Chellen.

Walter Jones, who has just been promoted to position of telegrapher, is learning how to keep awake nights at Blakely.

Bro. D. Fiock has at last secured his relief and is visiting his old home in Southern Illinois. Bro. Fiock has waited patiently for nearly a year for this trip, and is duly elated over it. Bro. J. F. Evans relieves him as day man at Mitchell.

The latest and neatest thing we have seen this year comes to us in the shape of a vest pocket edition from the Wisconsin Division telegraphers, containing a list of all members and non-members. Each name is preceded by a number commencing with No. 1; these numbers indicate the standing of the men, as shown on the telegraphers' seniority list. The non-members are shown in the back of the book, and wherever there is a non-member his name is omitted in the list of members, and a line left vacant. When he becomes a member his name can be inserted in the list of members. It is nicely gotten up, and is handy to carry in the pocket; easy to refer to.

Mr. F. E. Anderson has taken up his assigned position nights at Blue Earth. Mr. Anderson promises to make good this month.

Bro. C. F. Chellew, who has been doing the night stunt at Blue Earth, is at present relieving Mr. L. F. Stuart, nights at St. Peter. The latter is in Wisconsin spending his vacation, and the increases secured by the O. R. T.

Mr. E. E. Douglass, agent at Blue Earth, is on a four weeks' sojourn to his old home in Illinois. Mr. A. B. Griffith, ticket clerk, is acting as agent during Mr. Douglass' absence.

Mr. Douglass has promised to join before the next General Committee goes in, and we know his word is good.

Bro. and Mrs. W. M. Hale, of Windom, visited at Dodge Center the 17th and 18th inst., Bro. Levering wearing the official cap while Bro. Hale was away.

Bro. R. Burdick, of Madelia, was relieved the 12th inst. by Bro. J. F. Jansen, who in turn was relieved by Bro. F. W. Larson, of the Great Northern. Bro. Larson, it will be remembered, was formerly an Omaha boy, having worked in several different positions on this road prior to going to the Great Northern road. His parents live at Madelia; he was on his vacation at time he was pressed into service. His position on the G. N. is at Towner, N. Dak.

Bro. A. L. Cook and family Sundayed with Local Chairman Tenney, at Lake Crystal, the 16th inst. Bro. Cook is very much pleased with the beautiful city and its pleasant lakes.

Let us bear in mind that our dues are now payable, and that the new up-to-dates are most beautiful. We should also bear in mind that the local assessment of fifty cents to our custodian, Bro. J. H. Atkinson, Truman, Minn., was due the 15th of June.

Mrs. D. Brennan, mother of Bro. Tenney, is visiting at Lake Crystal.

Our old friend, N. S. Costello, chief freight clerk at Lake Crystal, was married to Miss McCarval, of Brewster, at the home of the bride's parents the 4th inst. Their wedding tour consisted of a trip to the head of the Lakes and the Twin Cities, and will be at home at Lake Crystal after June 15th. The best wishes of the telegraphers follow them.

Bro. Klingelhofer, of Merriam, was absent from duty a few days the forepart of the month, account sickness in family; was relieved by Bro. Ritschel, of Pipestone.

Bro. Sisterman, of Belle Plaine, was slightly under the weather for few days, and was relieved by Bro. F. E. Stolte.

Bro. W. M. Hale transacted business in the Twin Cities the forepart of the month.

Bro. Spencer, General Chairman of the Pere Marquette Lines, also a delegate to the Minneapolis Convention, in company with his wife visited his sister at Lake Crystal for few days after the convention adjourned, returning to their home the 5th. They were very much pleased with our Minnesota climate and our Omaha road, and it is quite probable that Bro. Spencer will shortly return to this road as one of us.

Bro. J. J. Long relieved Bro. Tenney at Lake Crystal while Bro. Tenney attended the convention; later relieved at Sioux Falls account of Mr. Roberts being ill. Mr. Roberts should try the O. R. T. remedies; we believe it would help him. Bro. Long also relieved a short time at Luverne while Bro. Pickett was visiting at Fairmount. See announcement in the "Personal Mention" column.

Bro. F. E. Stolte relieves at Seney, thus enabling Mr. W. C. Warner to take charge of his assignment at Henderson.

Mr. W. H. Leak, of Elmore, is away on a month's vacation; relieved by his clerk, Mr. Stolte.

Bro. W. C. Feyder took up his assignment duties at Winnebago the 6th inst., and Bro. J. L. Farmer takes his assignment at Dundee same date.

Bro. C. B. Casperson is dishing up the right kind of stuff in his new position at Stone.

Mr. Jamison is the new man nights at Bingham Lake.

Bro. J. J. Long goes to Kasota nights; relieving Bro. Lehman; have not heard where Bro. Lehman goes to.

Bro. Hartley relieved Bro. Farmer at Belle Plaine.

The applications of Hartley and Clements are the latest additions to our membership roll.

Are you aware that the Omaha road stands better organized today than any road in the Northwest? Do you know that we have a larger percentage of the telegraphers and agents as members that any road in the Northwest? Do you take pride in these facts? And are you doing all that you can to further perfect a thorough organization on your division? If not, why not? A little more individual effort upon your part and we will have a 100 per cent membership. If you have a man in your territory drop him a nice letter; it will cost you but a small effort, also advise the Local Chairman and he will write him, and by working this cross-fire you will show him why he should join.

The following names have not been added to the membership roll as yet: G. W. Owens, S. B. Swiningson, E. E. Gresham, E. E. Douglass, H. D. Chenoweth, A. Burdick, E. W. Seger, W. H. Leak, J. H. Meyers, G. S. Bell, Geo. Cassady, Robt. Jamison, L. F. Stuart, H. M. Helenack, Ray Slaker, F. E. Anderson, W. J. McGarry, W. C. Warner, and M. J. Roberts. Those who have now an up-to-date card of the latest issue are J. E. Smith, G. J. Clements, C. W. Hartley and W. D. Martin. There are several more that we can almost list as members, as we understand their papers are now being made out.

There are a very few of the first mentioned list that are "hard shells," which have been on our non-list since the first list was published, and which will forever be there, as they can not afford to join the Order, its too expensive and is not beneficial enough to them; has never increased their salaries more than five dollars at any one time, and that only once or twice. Of course, it would be unjust for us to even urge those to join. But those who are now enjoying the five dollar increases we desire to extend an invitation to come with us.

We announced some time ago that we should not do any more writing for the journal, but it seems that it is up to either Bro. Tenney and myself to see that this division gets it allotted write-up each month, so we will continue, with Bro. Tenney's assistance, to gather together what items of interest we can and forward them each month to the journal.

CORRESPONDENT.

Nebraska Division—

Bro. T. W. Moran, agent Wayne, made a friendly visit at Craig recently with relatives over Sunday.

New man, Mr. Crawford, at Coburn nights; says he will be with us soon as he gets the age tacked onto him.

Ex-Bro. D. G. Crinklaw has accepted agency at Hubbard. He has a new set of papers and says he will soon be with us again.

Bro. C. P. Wilson, recently of Wakefield, is now working as telegrapher at Bancroft.

Bro. E. B. Wallahan, nights at Oakland, relieved Bro. Crouch, days at Tekamah, while the latter was attending the convention at Minneapolis. Bro. Wallahan is now located at Lyons as day telegrapher, being relieved at "AD" nights by Mr. Hallisey, another new man.

Changes under special bulletin, Bro. L. S. Wise, agent tel., New Castle; Mr. H. I. Smith, day tel., Stock Yards; Mr. P. A. Pinion, agent tel., Thurston.

Changes under bulletin May 10th, Mr. A. C. Gibson, D. T. Crofton; Bro. C. C. Hinman, night tel., Emerson; Bro. A. H. Owens, agent tel., Magnet.

Bro. Hedges, agent at Blair, took a couple weeks off recently and visited with relatives in the South. He reports a very fine time, but guess this country is pretty good for him yet.

Through kindness of Bro. Frost at Craig, we received notice of the marriage at that place, June 19th, of Mr. D. G. Crinklaw, agent at Hubbard, to Miss Mabel Gregaïre, of Craig. The happy couple left same night for Chicago and Savannah, Ill., for a short trip, after which they will make their home at Hubbard. We wish to extend our hearty congratulations, and we hope that one of the first things Don does after he gets back is to fill out those papers and send them in.

News is as scarce as the proverbial "hen's teeth" this month, so will have to cut short. Brothers, be prompt in paying up your dues for the coming term, we will need to stand solidly together and present a strong front in order to protect ourselves in the future. The proposition of the nine-hour day is nearing, and we must not let ourselves go to sleep over it if we do not want to be working for less money than we now are. We will be up against that same thing, and its up to us to see that no cut is made in our salaries on this account. We ought to have the eight-hour day and $75.00 minimum March 1st, and we could get it if all would go after it at the same time and stand for it and nothing else. That's the only way we ever will get it, and the sooner we get busy the sooner we will have time to get acquainted with our families, and live like other employes of railroads do; have a little time to devote to ourselves and our homes, and not be giving half our lives for a fifty-dollar job. Think over these things, boys, read the journal and then get ready to act. Div. Cor.

CARD OF THANKS.

Through the medium of THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER I wish to express my thanks to the members located on the C., St. P., M. & O. Ry. for the beautiful flowers and expressions of sympathy in my late bereavement in the loss of my beloved husband.

MRS. LOTTA PRICE.

Renovo Division, No. 110.

The regular June meeting of Div. 110 was held in Odd Fellows' Hall, Emporium, Wednesday evening, June 19th, and was well attended. Among those present were Chief Bro. Shea, Bros. Price, James, Ganey, Getchell, Carrier, McMacklin, Johnson Hoffman, Perry, O'Leary and S. & T. Bro. Goodwin. Bros. Perry and Hoffman submitted their reports from the Grand Convention and were warm in their praises of the fine reception they received from the Twin City Telegraphers' Club and in fact, from all with whom they came in contact.

Am sorry to say there were none of the sisters present, but we have promises from all that they will make special efforts to attend the next meeting, as the weather is more favorable.

We are more than pleased to announce that hereafter we can address Mr. E. T. Wells, of "JN" tower, Emporium, as brother, and assure him of a hearty welcome to our ranks.

Mr. Geo. N. Williams, of Tamaqua, Pa., also became a member of Div. 110 at this meeting and we understand that Mr. Hulings, of Ridgway; Mr. O'Brien, of Cools Run, and Miss Baird, of Sinnemahoning, have their applications ready for next meeting. Indeed this is encouraging, for all of the above-named people are in every way desirable to our Order and will be a credit to it.

Our worthy chairman, Bro. J. N. Edwards, ably assisted by Bro. Price, of the Western Division, and Bros. Getchell and O'Leary are working upon an arrangement with view to our betterment regarding increases of salary.

We are informed by our secretary and treasurer that after the expenses are paid we will still have a comfortable balance in the treasury. What a change in a year with 71 members in good standing and the 100 mark in sight. Is not this encouraging?

Brothers and sisters, how would a nice ball do some time this summer. We could have it at Emporium or some of the other larger towns and I know the tickets would go like hot cakes. One great advantage would be that we have our own music in the division, Bro. McCartan, of Renovo, being a splendid violinist and the cornet part could be furnished by Bro. Getchell, of "HY," while Bros. Krape and Page, of Cameron would submit their bass viol and piano. Think it over and let us hear from you.

Bro. L. E. Hoffman, of "DT," Benzingers, is building a handsome residence at that place, which will be a great benefit in enabling him to live near his work.

Our worthy secretary and treasurer contemplates taking a four weeks well-merited vacation.

Everything going smoothly in the lock and block system under the management of Electrician Chas. Johnson, of Cameron, who is in charge while Inspector Spangler is away on his wedding tour.

Telegrapher Chatham is suffering from an attack of rheumatism; relieved by Mr. Cupp.

Bro. Tiffany has been assigned to the Western District relief job. Hav not learned who takes his place on the Middle District.

New block rules effective July 1st, affecting the entire system. They will be of great benefit to the towermen in handling trains.

Bro. Herman, from the main line, is doing extra work on the division at present. We hope to see him located permanently soon.

Bro. "Shorty" Lee, of "Jn," Emporium, was not at the last meeting. Wonder what took him to Buffalo at that time? It must have been urgent business or "Shorty" would not have missed a meeting.

The brothers and sisters east of Emporium don't know what they are missing by not attending the meetings, and it looks bad for these members to remain at home when there are such good representation from the west end.

We are very sorry to announce the death of the mother of Sister Elizabeth V. Neylon, Mrs. Mary Neylon, who died at the family resident in Renovo Thursday evening, June 13th, after an illness of several months. Mrs. Neylon was a noble Christian woman, charitable in both thought and deeds and beloved and respected by all who knew her. The members of Div. 10, as well as the entire community, extend deepest sympathy to Sister Neylon and the members of her family in their great bereavement.

Death also called the wife of Bro. Daniel McMullen, of Div. 46, B. L. E. Mrs. McMullen had been a patient sufferer for over two years, but succumbed June 13th. The members of Div. 110 wish to express their sympathy to Bro. McMullen in his hour of trouble.

Great sorrow has visited the family and many friends of Conductor John J. Gallagher who died in Lock Haven Hospital Saturday, June 15th. Bro. Gallagher underwent an operation which was successful, but his system was so weakened by suffering that he did not rally. Bro. Gallagher was a member of Div. 333, O. R. C., and Lodge 334, B. P. O. Elks. He was a resident of Renovo for the past thirty-one years and had been in the employ of the P. R. R. for the past thirty years. Bro. Gallagher was highly respected by all who knew him and his loss will be deeply felt. The members of Div. 110 extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

Be it said with pleasure that none of the members of our division are behind in their dues, all responding promptly within the limit of time to meet their obligations. Our secretary and treasurer wishes all to get full credit for this excellent practice.

We are thankful for the contributions from the brothers for this write-up and will look for more for next month.

Well, as I have run out of material will cut out this time, extending best "73" to all.

Div. Coa.

Ayer Division, No. 104.

Regular meeting for June held in Clinton, June 16th, with a fair attendance. Bro. Mullen gave us an interesting report of the Minneapolis convention. The brothers who did not attend missed one of the most important and without exception the most interesting meeting of the year.

Bro. Thos. Longbottom, South Lancaster, on a vacation during June. Bro. C. H. McLenna relieving him.

Telegraph block signals discontinued between South Lancaster and Barber June 12th, and electric block signals installed. This closed several extra positions, but telegraphers filling them can easily be used at other points on the division.

Bro. I. T. Felch transferred from Clinton to "AY," Ayer days temporarily.

Bro. J. K. Quachenbuss, "G," Ayer nights, and Bro. H. W. Fee, Pepperell nights, have transferred into Div. 104. Also Bros. Hester and Seeley, at Worcester. Hope to see them at the meetings.

Bro. Dugdale, formerly at "AY," Ayer nights, is now located at Los Angeles, Cal.

Bro. C. W. Rise has resigned his position with the W. U. in Boston to manipulate levers in a B. & A. tower at South Framingham.

Bro. Sinclair is at Clinton again and was at the last meeting.

Bro. Sawyer, of Leominster, has resigned to enter the wireless service. It's now Bro. Wheeler, of 89, at Berlin.

Somebody asked: "Where does the O. R. S. A. fit?" An organizer was heard to say: "A merger will take place soon or something will bust and it won't be the O. R. T."

The secretary reports having visited Bros. Watkins and Pierce, of Southboro and Fayville, finding both enthusiastic for the cause.

Our delegate says come to the July meeting and hear his supplementary report.

We hear some talk of a new division at Mansfield. Your correspondent seconds the motion.

Bro. Conway, of Medfield Junction, spent a few days at Westminster recently.

The boys report a fine time at June meeting of No. 35.

Our chief is expected to visit Nos. 41 and 89 soon and report.

Don't forget the new pasteboard July 1st. They cost four plunks. CERT. 4.

Southern Ry.

Chattanooga Division—

Again our General Committee has returned from Washington, and while we did not obtain all we desire we made very good progress, and at least made known the fact that the O. R. T. is not dead on the Southern Railway. With more thorough organization on our line and the complete extinction of the student, we shall soon be in a position to demand the wages and hours which our positions justify.

The trouble with the telegraphers in the past has been short-sightedness, willingness to work for wages hardly worthy of an errand boy, and as a rule, the telegrapher did not perceive that the profession was full and overflowing, but you could see the faces of one or more students gaping out of most every telegraph shanty you might happen to pass, while the proprietor of the ranch would take pride in the number of hams he had turned out to compete with him for magnificent salary of $40 or $45 per month.

Occasionally a telegrapher scorns organization as beneath his dignity. To get on the right side of the boss and hold his own in the matter of producing hams is the height of his ambition.

There is no comparison between the raise enjoyed by the engineers and conductors and the smaller one obtained by the telegraphers, but when you study the question closely the reason is as plain as daylight.

In the first place the trainmen have enough stamina to stick by their organization through thick and thin, and not drop out every time they fancy they have a grievance.

The trainmen are not trying to do two men's work in order to get a "drag" with the train dispatcher by keeping the telephones hot and incidentally reducing the number of positions by telephone substitution. What would the train men do if called upon to do such service? There would be nothing doing.

As a reward for minding his own business you find the trainmen getting the highest increase, shortest hours and commanding the respect of the officials.

Draw your conclusions, my friends, and follow the example of those organizations which have achieved success and abandon the idea that we can advance by individual effort at the expense of fellow craftsman.

Appreciating what has been gained in the past two years can we not lean stronger towards activity and aggressiveness than heretofore, and still keep within the bounds of prudence, of justice and right.

Is it not more true than otherwise that some members, well meaning and worthy in every respect expect too much in a given time with the membership we have, rather than that too little has been accomplished.

The aggressiveness of the General Committee has been and must continue to be gauged by the show of intelligence, self-interest and aggressiveness of the membership. Success must be comparative, not final. Many of those who protested against what appeared to them slowness on the part of the General Committee, forget that they worked under far more unfavorable conditions and less salary but a few short months ago and that rapid strides have been made in bettering their condition.

How true is it that our advancement has been made easier because of active work and aggressiveness on the part of our fellow craftsman on other roads, setting the pace raising the standard which our employers must meet in order to secure and keep competent and worthy men.

We still have some non-members open to conviction, fewer still who are lacking in the most primitive instincts of appreciation, gratitude or decency, who are willing to adhere to the organization leech-like and draw sustenance therefrom without contributing so much as one cent to its support. If there were any doubting among us they admit now that the organization here is a fixture and that it can and will show itself to be as time rolls on a potent factor for good.

We beseech you to keep together faithfully and manfully, continuing to argue and contend for such terms and conditions of employment as is your due.

Use your influence to weld together the bands of fraternity.

The love of association the union spirit if given a fair chance will grow stronger within you and spread to others and keep you more true and faithful to the spirit, which brought you within the breastworks of the organization.

There are a number of non-members on this division who would be terribly offended if their names should appear in THE TELEGRAPHER and it should become known to the membership and their many friends that they were lacking in backbone and were trying to cover up their infirmities with a hard luck story of financial embarrassment, yet this is what is being done on this division. Just how long the members of the Order will allow such conditions to exist is a question, but there are many members who are entirely too lenient.

The non now days is figuring. In the first place he did not get quite as large increase as he should, and in the next place he did not get his share of other things, etc. Ask one of these men about $9 a year for the O. R. T. and he will drag out that same old story, either his family is ill or he is preparing for the poor house. It is ridiculous to suppose that there are a dozen men on this division in such circumstances.

As it appears now the railroads will have to inaugurate the eight-hour system next year, but we can't build too much on what we think about this. We may not get as much out of it as we think, especially if they find that we are weak in the organization, therefore it behooves every member to be up and doing, and endeavor to get the nons into the Order.

The general secretary and treasurer is working hard now handling both the general chairmanship and the office of general secretary and treasurer, and we must assist him in building up Div. 59.

Now, let each member here make a resolve to get at least one member between this and July. In fact, let's get in every desirable non we can at any time. The Order is what the members make it, and unless we support it it can not fulfill its mission.

I wish to say that there are a number of members on this division who seem to think that paying dues and having a card is all there is to it. Now, brothers, there are other things to be done. Can't you get after that non next to you and thereby help to bring about thorough organization and by this you will not only be helping the others, but will help yourself.

How long will you sit careless of your own interests. Can't you see that the Order on this division will become weaker unless you lend your assistance to keep it up. Are you looking ahead to 1908 when the new national nine-hour law goes into effect? Are you sure that you will get nine hours? Do you think it unnecessary to work any more and that all is done that can be done?

If the members on the Southern System don't wake up and get thoroughly organized by 1908 they will regret it. How do you know that the railroad where the organization is weak is not going to try to reduce salaries when the nine-hour law takes effect? I say we must be well organized in order to fight such attempts and unless we are strong we will lose out.

Well organized roads will have no trouble. The company will not attempt any reduction in salaries.

Get after the nons and help in every way to bring this system up to the standard of other roads. We can do it by concerted action. Individual effort will accomplish this result and I hope that you won't neglect this important step. Think of your own welfare, the welfare of your dear wife and children who are looking to you for support. Don't sit still and depend on a few members to fight the battle alone.

Why don't you come to the meetings and help along? How can you afford to stay away? It seems to me that at this time each member should be more interested than ever. Wake up, and let every individual member put his shoulder to the wheel and victory is ours.

I sincerely hope that each man will resolve to do something to help bring about thorough organization on the Southern System.

Our first meeting of Chattanooga Division was held in the Chamber of Commerce Hall, Chattanooga, Tenn., Sunday night, June 9th with quite a large number present.

The meeting was called to order by Bro. Griffith, Chief Telegrapher. The first thing on the docket was to initiate the following new members who were taken into our ranks Sunday night: Bro. E. M. Southerland, Bro. J. C. Green, Bro. J. C. Ferguson.

There were present at this meeting members from the Memphis Division, Knoxville Division, some from Central of Georgia and Atlanta Division, who witnessed the initiation of the above members. This was the first meeting held in Chattanooga and it is our intention to have regular monthly meetings of the Chattanooga Division and it is hoped that the boys will turn out and get acquainted and lend a helping hand to further the good cause, etc.

The Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Hall offers us the hall regularly each month gratis, for which we should be very thankful and pay the city in return for this favor by a large attendance.

Bro. J. H. Wilson, local chairman from Memphis Division, was with us and from his talk he is making very fair headway on his new division. It is hoped that the membership will assist him and get meetings started at some convenient point.

All of you brothers on the Georgia side assist Bro. Parker all you can. Help get the nons in line and do anything you can to build up the organization. We are coming slow, but sure. Every little bit helps and it is the little things that count.

Bro. Vaughan was on the spot. Bro. Stanberry, from Lenoir City, was on hand and expressed himself as well pleased with the meeting.

Bro. Williams, who has seen many summers, was present and promises to come again. At the next meeting we want a good turn out, so we can get things started in good shape. Don't be afraid to ask permission to attend meetings and always state that you wish the transportation to attend O. R. T. meetings and you will get it.

Quite a number promised to attend the meeting, but when the train whistled for the station it was the same old song. You are injuring yourselves when you stay away from these meetings.

Our General Chairman could not get away, but promises to be on hand next time if possible.

Vacancies are being bulletined now. How does it look to you, brothers. Think it looks good to some nons.

Understand three brothers got passes to attend meeting in Chattanooga, but for some reason didn't attend. What's the matter?

Sherman Heights vacant, but no bulletin as yet.

If you have never attended a meeting come out and I will assure you that you will not regret it. Get started, that's all you have to do.

If the agreement is not being lived up to you know the remedy—take up with the local chairman. It's up to you.

Bro. Mills, Tasso, off on vacation.

Bro. Vaughan off a few days; says he is going to Jamestown.

Bro. Stanberry still chasing around extra. He will not have this to do much longer. Vacancies will be bulletined and everybody have a show. How much better are the conditions over here now than a year ago and how much more pleasure is it to work under these conditions, realizing that every man will get a fair deal according to his seniority, ability, etc. Strange the nons won't wake up and come in line.

Bro. Dunlap, formerly at Boyd, resigned.

Bro. Babb, formerly at Lenoir City, transferred to Powder Springs agency. Hope he will like it and not forget the boys on the east end.

Don't forget the regular monthly meeting every fourth Saturday night, Knoxville, Tenn.

Those nons who refuse to join us after we work for them should not be given very much assistance. They take the benefits, yet they refuse to lend a helping hand. Isn't it right that we should give them the marble heart when they come to us for favors, especially after they refuse repeatedly to join us like some have done on the Chattanooga Division.

Are you getting your meal hour or overtime? If not, why not?

Do you know of any vacancies that are not being bulletined? If so take up with your local chairman. That is what the local chairman is for to handle grievances, and it's your own fault if you don't take them up.

Bro. Fitzgerald formerly nights at Charleston, Tenn., has been assigned regular to Lenoir City days. He secured this position which is one of the most desirable places on the division, on bulletin.

Bro. Stanberry, extra man working temporarily at Charleston, seems that he will wonder back to the old home town.

Brothers, can't you see the organization becoming stronger since last agreement? Surely it is climbing up. Vacancies being bulletined and brothers are taking up grievances and getting all the agreement allows them. Don't it do you good to watch the rapid strides the Order is making on the Southern. Keep driving and we will soon be up to the standard, and the road that has been down so long, so far as the telegraphers are concerned, will rank head and shoulders above others.

There is a big change in the past two weeks even. The men seem to be waking up all around and we hope they won't grow disinterested in the struggle for what is just and right.

Pay up your dues, keep the card around in your pocket and help the local chairman to get the nons in line, and in every way possible build up your organization.

Effective June 20th Mr. S. H. Goodwin, former chief, transferred to first trick dispatcher.

Mr. D. O. Hahn, formerly night chief, promoted to chief, while first trick dispatcher, Formwalt, gets night chief's place. Div. Con.

Charlotte Division—

Every one seems to be taking more interest in the Order. Each month a few new members are reported. We are almost solid but there are so many new men coming and old ones going, that we are kept busy lining them up. Let us all feel that it is our duty to keep at work, watch the nons and show them that it is for their good that we request them to come in and give their support.

Our motto, which is "no card, no favors," is a good one, but your correspondent has had better results by approaching them in a way that will show them we are in actual need of their support and assure them a hearty welcome in the Order. When we have done what we can in this way, and the non sits year after year and enjoys the increases and schedules that we secure, then I say live up to our motto.

What we have accomplished in the past two years is as much and as good as there is on record. I have one agency in mind that paid $48 two years ago, now the regular salary is $57.50. Last month the agent-telegrapher drew $61, including what he got through the dinner hour clause, but he has a hard job and deserves every cent of it. Our increases as a whole are not any more than the general increases in living expenses.

The meeting at Gainesville June 2 was soul-inspiring. As usual a good number were present.

Bro. McDaniel, our general secretary and treasurer, was with us and in his quiet, easy way made a short talk that thrilled all those present with an earnest desire to make every action count for the Order.

Bro. Cheek's address was forceful and when he called attention to the wonderful contrast between the organization of several years ago and the one we have to-day every one felt like cheering, but he launched too quickly into eloquence and wound up by assuring our visitors of our appreciation of their presence.

Bros. Weaver and Savage, from Charlotte, were in attendance. Two better union brothers never lived. Bro. Weaver is local chairman on the north end and was instrumental in organizing the Charlotte lodge several weeks ago.

Bro. W. S. Mask, our chief telegrapher, was married last week. Did not learn the lady's name. May their future pathway be strewn with flowers and crowned with happiness and prosperity.

Sister E. B. Smith has just returned from two weeks' vacation, which she spent in Atlanta attending the big Gomper's meeting during his recent visit to the city.

Bro. Andrews, who has been working nights at Flowery Branch, has been appointed agent at New Holland. He is a good union man and in splendid standing with the officials, and without a doubt has a bright future before him.

Bro. B. L. Walker has the agency at Ayersville.

Bro. J. W. Ayers has been in the mountains at his father's country home for the past few weeks.

Bros. Collins and McDaniel were full of the convention and we are proud of the record they made.

We are glad the next convention will be held in Atlanta. The South deserves more of the conventions, for better union men and women never lived than live on Dixie's soil.

Bro. Collins is relieving Bro. Utsey, at "FX," for a few days.

Bro. J. N. Sims has been on the sick list, but reported better to-day. Hope he will soon be back at his post.

Bro. W. R. Johnson is back at work after wearing out a case of measles.

Bro. Black is out for a few days, relieved by Mr. Chappelcar.

At the time your correspondent should have gotten his article to the May journal he was called to the bedside of his mother, who was critically ill and who passed sweetly into the Great Beyond May 6th.

The dots which should have been published in April did not show up. It was mailed promptly, but must have been lost. C. E. B.

Knoxville Division, Between Knoxville and Bristol—

Several changes have taken place since the last write-up.

The services of Telegrapher Dyer, Rader nights, have been dispensed with on account of his not being 18 years of age. Mr. Rayall relieved him.

Mr. Baugh, from Carnegie days, has resigned and gone to Florida; relieved by Bro. Parsons.

Miss Byington transferred from Rader to Delrio. Mr. Remine from Russellville, and Mr. Reams, from Talbott, off a few days attending the Jamestown Exposition. Mr. Reams relieved by Bro. Tranthem, from Russellville. Mr. McFarland in Bro. Trentham's place at Russellville.

"13" Mr. Gillespie, agent at Afton, has resigned and will go to the S. & W. as soon as relieved.

Bro. Kennerly, from New Market, off sick for a few days.

Bro. Porter, from Mascot, off for a few days attending Jamestown Exposition.

Mr. Atkins, from Jefferson City, laying off.

Bro. Davis, from west end double track, left the service. We are sorry to lose him. Mr. Mason relieved him.

Bro. Craig, who has been on N. & W. for the past several months, is now night man at new line. We are glad to see him back with us.

Bro. Leeson, from "DO" block office, off for a few days; relieved by Mr. Ramsey.

Mr. Gandy, from "KY" days, has been made block inspector temporarily in Bro. Cassady's place. Bro. Cassady is in dispatcher's office.

Mr. Wardell working at "KY" days, in Mr. Gandy's place.

Bro. Clapp working nights at "KY."

Bro. Mathews, from "K" message office, transferred to Nashville. Bro. McMichael coming to "K" in Bro. Mathews' place.

We regret to advise we have a few students on this end. We also have several nons.

Understand Miss Byington has sent in her application. Also understand Mr. Anderson, from Mohawk, is going to get right, too.

Carnegie days, Rader nights, Alexander nights, Delrio nights, and Afton days, are now bulletined. Telegraphers are scarce on this division and the thing for us to do is to keep them scarce.

Cor.

Washington Division—

By scanning the pages of the June number, the Washington Division is found invisible, but nevertheless she is up and doing business, jogging along and contending for her rights.

We had a very interesting meeting the night of the 15th. More brothers from the north end were in attendance than usual, which we all were glad to see, and hope they saw where attending these meetings are of great interest to us all, and that the number may continue to increase and the enthusiasm also. As our profession is nearing a crisis we need to be in an enthusiastic and working mood, and stick close together in one solid body. "United we stand, divided we fall."

Boys, turn a deaf ear to this student business that the company is endeavoring to enforce upon us. We do not need the $25 to mould "hams" by the first of the year, as they would be nothing else but "hams" and "wage slashers" and incompetent to handle a skilled profession in a satisfactory and safe manner. A student may loaf around a telegraph office six months and at the end of six months he will still be loafing around the same learned profession. Boys, don't take a stick to break your own neck, as it is against our feelings, rules, regulations, obligations, etc. We are not traitors nor backsliders, but are a working and honest body working together for the uplifting of our cause, and the protection of our wives and children, widows and orphans in our free country. We are all aware of the fact that if the country is flooded with a lot of recently-taught students it will work against us when the eight-hour law takes effect. There are plenty of thoroughly competent men in the country who will return to the profession when desirable conditions exist.

It seems as though the idea has sprung forth from some source that our meal hour can be given us between 11:30 a. m. and 3:00 p. m., instead of 11:30 a. m. and 2:00 p. m., as our agreement calls for. The lengthening of time has been imposed upon us without notice, therefore, we are investigating and not accepting.

Who wants to eat breakfast at 6:00 a. m. and dinner at 3:00 p. m.? Why we would feel weak about half way.

Don't believe there have been many changes of interest of late. Several night offices have been cut out, of which we are all aware. And there appears to be enough extra men at the present to relieve those desiring to vacate a few days.

As the weather is quite warm I'll cease this pecking, hoping we all may find our way to the meeting hall.

"Mc."

Atlanta Division—

I am pleased to note that numbers of the brothers are taking special interest in the welfare of our Order. This is just what we want to see. Let every member realize that it is his privilege as well as duty to pull together for the upbuilding of our good and great organization. The boys are aware of the fact that it is not reasonable to expect their local chairman to do it all, and are lending their valuable assistance along many lines. This I appreciate very much. Let's continue to work together for good. We would like thorough organization, and the prospects look favorable. Continue to preach and practice better service; it will be wise for us to build the service up to the highest possible standard as we move onward and upward. If any of us are careless with our work, unkind to those who appeal to us for information, or if we allow our offices to wear an untidy appearance, there is certainly room for improvement, and we can not expect to be recognized as worthy brothers unless we seek to remedy such faults. I believe practically every brother and each and every sister will agree with me in this matter.

I recently appointed for my assistants, Bro. J. R. Winters, of Tallapoosa, Ga., and Bro. B. H. Harkins, of Atlanta, Ga. These gentlemen are fairly acquainted with the division, and are in a position to give me valuable assistance.

Bro. S. E. Smith, of Powder Springs, aware of the fact that I was attempting to keep business going without the aid of a typewriter, recently made up an attractive paper, merely placing the matter before the membership and its friends, leaving the matter of contributing entirely with the boys. Numbers of brothers, sisters and friends have already signed the list and forwarded their contribution. The fact that this is being done without the asking causes me to appreciate it all the more. I desire to thank each and every one who has felt disposed to aid in this purchase.

E. C. Moss, Local Chairman.

Knoxville Division—

Am glad of the opportunity to insert another line in the grand old journal. Having been over the line since our last write-up, am pleased to say I found more interest manifested than ever before. There are not many nons on this end and we have their promises to be with us soon.

I wish I could report as good a per cent all over the line as that up to B. D., but am glad to see the brothers taking interest, and if we all will get down to business and do all we can it will not be long until we can say solid over the Knoxville Division, with the exception of 1900 men, who are exceedingly few.

Would be glad to see the brothers take more interest in our meetings you who have not been attending do not realize how much you are missing. Come and help us confer the degrees on new members. You will learn more about the Order in one night at the meeting than you will at your home in two months.

As new jobs are created and vacancies occur they will be bulletined and the brothers will be able to secure desired locations when entitled to them.

Night job Leadvale, on bulletin at the present time.

We are glad to see Bro. C. C. Craig with us once more. He is working the night trick at New Line. He has been with the N. & W. for several months.

Our meeting held in Knoxville the 25th was a success and after business was transacted in due form conferred the degree on our new brother from the west end. Am sorry to say I have forgotten his name, but that will be furnished by our regular correspondent.

As the result of my trip Mr. J. P. Bradshaw, Mr. M. L. McCormick, Mr. Rumbley and Mr. Winnie S. Walker will be known as brothers. We are glad to welcome them into the fold.

Now, let us try and see if we can't give the company better service than ever before. If we are union 'we must unite as one and work together for the good of all. T. J. S., Local Chairman.

NOTICE.

To All Members Knoxville Division—

Regular meetings will be held in Knoxville, Tenn., fourth Saturday night each month. Hall over the Japanese Theater, Gay street, 8:30 p. m. All are requested to attend every meeting.

We want to extend our invitation to all visiting brothers. Come, you will find a hearty welcome.

✦ Fraternally.

T. J. STAFFORD,
Local Chairman.

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, Almighty God has deemed it wise to remove from our midst our beloved Bro. John Miron Grossman. In memory to our brother who has been taken from us and in sympathy to the bereaved family, be it

Resolved, By the members of Southern Railway Div. 59, that we extend to the members of the family of the deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy and we commend them to him who doeth all things well, and who will comfort them in this dark hour of sorrow; be it further

Resolved, That in the death of Bro. J. M. Grossman that Southern Railway Div. 59 loses a true and faithful member and the wife a loving husband; and be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our deceased brother; also placed on the record of the division and a copy sent to THE TELEGRAPHER for publication.

Olean Division, No. 135.

The regular meeting for the month of May was held at Olean as usual with fairly good attendance, but there is still room for more. Turn out, boys, and learn what is being done. The meeting for June will be held at the same place on the 18th.

The following good jobs have been up for bid the past month: East Aurora, days and nights; Terminal, days; "OW," days, and "AD," nights. Here is hoping some worthy brother lands one of these, as they are all good.

Bro. Cain, our relief man, is making his schedule this trip without any breaks. Let the good work go on, as most of us are badly in need of a hair cut once a month. Our first vice-chief, Bro. Mathewson, can cut his own hair and cut it close, too, but as a general thing we have not mastered the art as yet.

I have credited Bro. J. T. McCarthy with a long mark this month. He will "13" why.

The new semaphores and levers are installed on the south end and are ready for use. Expect the block system on that end will be going into effect shortly.

A few Sundays ago our division operator was heard making inquiries along the Rochester Branch to ascertain from the professors of the numerous ham factories, whether or not all the students were working. It appears that there are five ham factories on this branch with a total of at least eleven students. Now, boys, it is not necessary to climb a tree to see that this is the place for us to do our little missionary work.

I understand that Bro. Long, from "SN," has bid in Terminal days.

Let us all make a special effort to attend the meetings. Div. Cor.

North Adams Division, No. 139.

Meeting called to order at 7:30 p. m., June 8th.

I suppose the members think the correspondent has gone on a vacation and is prolonging the safe unnecessarily. This is not the case and through carelessness on my part, have of late sent in the write-up a little too late for print, so you see that accounts for it.

Understand that there is a little talk going around the room relative to the scarcity of write-ups from this division. Brothers, you must remember that it only comes once a month, about the 15th to 18th, and sometimes it slips my mind as well as other things that happen so infrequently. The writer has an article in the magazine a few times more than some of the members appear at the meeting. People who live in the ice box should keep cool and figure out the faults at their own end as well as at the other.

Wonder why Bro. Beard never shows up at the meetings? He should not be backward, but come up on the second Saturday night of the month and get acquainted.

Bro. Girvan should come up and play at his post or he is liable to be called upon for an explanation as to his negligence.

Mr. Akin, who worked Johnsonville nights, has been appointed to hold down the gravel pit day job.

Bro. Moak, at Schaghticoke nights, is to be married in the latter part of September, per report.

Bro. Cook, of Shel Falls, will take a vacation in the latter part of August, and expects to go to Niagara Falls for a few weeks.

Bro. Meehan, who worked days at North Adams some years ago, and is at present dispatcher on the C. P. Ry., is visiting old B. & M. friends.

There will be a rumpus at Eagle Bridge some night if Bro. Speanburgh and Bro. Colton do not attend meetings oftener.

Bro. Shaughnessy, of Hoosick Falls, claims he will come up to the meetings if the brothers will not make him ride the goat. Will try to get a petition up against any such proceedings if he will promise to appear. Con

C., R. I. & P. Ry.

Minnesota and Cedar Rapids Divisions—

Were you out to the meeting at Cedar Rapids June 21st, if not, why? You surely missed something good if you were not there, as it was one of the best we have held. Between twenty-five and thirty members were present, and our worthy General Chairman, W. T. Brown, was also with us, and gave a very interesting talk. Many subjects were brought up for discussion, and the boys were all very much pleased and well repaid for being there. Was glad to note some of the brothers who are quite a distance from Cedar Rapids showing up so strong; I only wish we could get more interested on this question. Every one do your part and see if we can not have a much larger crowd at the next meeting, which will be held July 19th. Remember, its the third Friday of every month.

Bro. Burle, of Cedar Rapids relay office, is spending his vacation in the East. Mr. Rice and Giff working twelve-hour shifts account "O" being off.

Jim Halpin is the new man at Cedar Rapids relay office filling the vacancy made by Mr. Hagaman taking a trick in "DS" office.

Our chief dispatcher, T. H. Luneman, is off for two weeks; Mr. Heath relieving and Mr. Hawk doing the night chief act. Mr. McElrath, our south end chief, is also taking a much-needed rest. Mr. Scott, Branch Line dispatcher, is doing the stunt for J. J. M.

Mr. Hadish, ticket clerk at Waterloo, off on vacation visiting friends in the East; Bro. McCarty doing the double act at "WA" while Hadish is away.

Bro. Richards is holding down the lonely stunt at Palo nights, relieving Mr. Lavatte, "the noisy man."

A. B. Vaughn, of Curtis, came across with the papers; glad to see him make this step in the right direction.

Mr. Featherstone is the new man at Inver Grove, Bro. Trichter having left the service of this company.

Bro. Birch, of Fairbault, relieved at Inver Grove a few nights account no extra man to take charge.

Bro. See, of Oelwein, is spending his vacation in the West; can not say who is relieving him.

Bro. Thorndike, of Elgin, resting up these days in Minnesota; G. A. Gruver is handling the biz. at Elgin.

Bro. Pease, of Center Point, has returned from a visit in Western States much refreshed and ready to do business at the old stand.

Mr. Randal, of Decorah, has resigned and "13" he quits the railroad business on account of poor health. Decorah is now bulletined and up for bids?

Steel gang is laying steel between Oelwein and Maynard, a much-needed improvement.

Agent Monroe, of Palo, has filled out the papers and will soon be carrying a new card.

Good bunch from the south end showed up to the meeting at Cedar Rapids the 21st, but no one brought any items along, so will have to pass them up this time.

New time card June 9th, changing all our train numbers, and also the time; kept us all guessing for a few days.

See that your clearance cards are made out correctly. Nuff said.

Brother, who is your neighbor on each side of you? Has he a card, is he paid up to date, or is he a non? Every one get busy and help to make the R. I. solid. The committee goes in to meet the general manager in July and they want good backing. See if you can not help to bring some poor non to see his errors, and get him lined up. There are not many left, but what we have should be looked after.

Don't forget the dates of our meetings, third Friday of every month. MORRIS.

Iowa Division—

You fellows who stayed at home should have been at the meetings at Rock Island, June 15th, and Des Moines, June 17th. A big crowd was present, a jolly good time was had by all, as well as important business transacted. If you don't have to work to let the other fellow go, please don't stay at home just because you will lose a few hours' sleep. Your presence will help to rush the thing along.

Bro. O. E. Weaver got the day position at Wilton on bulletin. Bro. Davis still nights at that point.

Harry Stonehocker is now working for the C. S. & C. C. D. Ry. at Bull Hill, Colorado.

Bro. M. C. Brennan is now with the Great Northern at Mondak, Mont.; "13" Charley will be down to see us soon and possibly stay here.

Bro. J. B. Smith, at Marengo, has been off a few days on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Smith, but at this writing she is reported much better.

Bro. R. T. Ray is located at Oxford days, Bro. E. J. Yakish taking his place nights at Mitchellville.

There are one or two "undesirables" on the East Iowa, and with this exception we are solid. Still a few nons on the West Iowa, but they won't be there long.

Notify your Local Chairman at once whenever a new man comes on the line, and let him know whether up-to-date or a non. If up-to-date get his certificate and division number so the Local Chairman can arrange to have him transferred at once. This is important.

In going over the division some time ago the Local Chairman found a man or two who didn't even know who they were working with at the next station each side of them. Please try and keep yourselves better posted than this so you can give the Local Chairman some information if he drops in on you again. Of course we realize you are all very busy.

If you have any news items you would like to have appear in THE TELEGRAPHER, you should advise your Local Chairman. Don't overlook any weddings, births or deaths. CERT. 290.

Bro. C. D. Overturf is doing the extra dispatching on the Des Moines Valley Division, being relieved in "MS" office, Des Moines, by Mr. Thomas Cosgrove, a new-comer.

Bro. Harry H. Whitehead is doing the extra work as dispatcher on the Iowa Division. We are all glad to see Harry get this work, and he seems to be getting along fine.

Mr. J. W. Stoker, day telegrapher at Co. Bluffs, was called to Pleasant Hill, Ill., Monday account of illness of Mrs. Stoker, who is visiting her parents at Pleasant Hill. J. W. expects to remain a week or ten days, and if Mrs. Stoker's health has improved sufficiently she will return with him.

We understand that Mr. A. Hafford, second trick wire chief at "MS," Des Moines, expects to lay off the latter part of June and visit home folks at Columbus, Ohio.

Bro. W. B. Fryberger has been laying off at Tiffin for about three weeks. He visited in Des Moines, Metz and Wilton, and then took a little run down in Texas and Indian Territory. He does not think much of the Great Southwest, and says that Iowa is good enough for him. Cor.

Missouri Division, Seventh and Eighth Districts—

If any of you have received a copy of that pamphlet issued from Philadelphia, don't read the stuff you find in that little two-by-four journal and take it as the truth until you have ascertained from some of the members who were at Minneapolis whether it is true. Write to your General Chairman and ask him about this Marr and Dolphin deal, as he was on the Committee of Grievances and Appeals, and you can rest assured that he would not have stood for anything only right. Then you can look at the committee handling this case and you will find that it was not a picked lot of men but that it was composed of men from the leading railroads of the country and from both the East and the West. Why, the members of the committee themselves look to be honorable and no one could for a minute question their ability to handle this matter in a fair and just manner.

I assure you there was no split at Minneapolis. It was only a few that came there to try and split it, failed and are now trying to make you believe that they were successful. Take my advice and stay with the organization that pulled you from nothing and placed you among the other organizations of the country.

We have a few items this month from the Seventh District, thanks to Bros. Jackson and Stewart, and I request all the brothers on the Seventh as well as the Eighth Districts to send me the news and I will endeavor to get the articles in print.

Your correspondent is trying to get relief to go out in Colorado for a few days, and if he gets away will have our worthy Bro. Jackson look after the write-up next month.

Mr. A. H. Masters relieved your Local Chairman, Bro. Stewart, while he spent a few days at Minneapolis during the convention. Bro. Stewart now advises that Mr. Masters has accepted the night job at Harvard and that we can soon call him brother.

We can now call both H. O. Sawyers and A. L. Haines, of Seymour, brothers, as they have both filled out papers and same are in the hands of the G. S. & T. Bro. Stewart, with the help of the members on the Seventh District, is stirring things up, and the boys on the Eighth District will have to get busy or the Seventh will be solid before we are. Now, let every member jump on to some non this month and make him promise to send in his papers.

Bro. Duke, agent Mill Grove, has returned from an extended visit West and expects to resume work in a short time. He was relieved during his absence by Mr. G. E. Vanmater, from the Burlington. Bro. Stewart advises that Mr. Vanmater has promised to send in his application this month. Glad to hear it.

Mr. F. L. O'Neill, who was working nights at Harvard, accepted the agency at Paris, but is at present working days at Gallatin.

Night office at Spickard was closed May 15th, Bro. A. E. Hughson taking a vacation of fifteen days and going to Gay days on his return.

Expect to open Spickard again as night office soon as the block system goes into effect, and presume Bro. Hughson will then return to Spickard.

Mr. J. C. Morrow, who was temporarily at Paris, went to Camden Point for a couple of weeks, relieving Bro. Girdner. While Bro. Girdner was away he visited St. Paul and we received a very pretty and appropriate post-card from him.

In our last write-up we failed to designate Bro. Coulter, Hickory Creek, as brother. It was a mistake on our part and no harm meant. We are certainly glad to know that he is with us.

There are a number of nons on this division, and I trust they will secure application blanks and get out of that class. They will have to admit that it is not the nons who have secured better working conditions and better rates of pay.

Why, then, are they holding aloof? Do they want the other boys to pay for these things while they (the nons) receive the benefit without a hand's turn? It would be as reasonable for them to ask a man to buy them a shirt or a sack of flour, for it amounts to the same thing, and they will readily recognize this fact if they will stop to think that they are enjoying increases that the members have worked and paid good hard money for. Now, I know they don't regard it in that light, but it's a fact and it is up to them to buy these shirts and this flour for themselves. I don't like to buy stuff for other people when I actually need the money myself, but would great deal rather buy it for them than to exchange places and have them buying for me. So get out of that old rut and let's all be on an equal basis, each one buying for himself.

The block stations at Blake and Highland are completed, and I understand the men will be in them in a few days. Also hear that at present there will be no block office at Mabel, but that Platte River is to have one and that Stockbridge is to be opened soon.

From all appearances at present our eight-hour law, so far as the Rock Island is concerned, fanned out at the bat. But there is a bright day coming, brothers, so don't be discouraged, but keep paying up your dues and see that the other man does the same, and possibly we will some time before long have an eight-hour day that will stick and the penalty for not living up to it will amount to more than a small fine.

Now, don't forget to try and secure a new member this month. Even if you just give him one little push toward the right direction it will be a great help, and while it will not be much effort on your part it will be of great assistance to others.

Until I return again I will leave you with the following words: "Keep after them."

CORRESPONDENT.

St. Louis Division—

Not so many changes past month.

Bro. J. E. Son has bid in agency at Nay.

W. L. Bonnett, Nay, now at Henley.

Bro. E. D. Gidinghagen relieved at Gascondy a few days last week.

Bro. R. D. Elliott leaving line to accept position with U. P. at Denver, Colo.

C. Hutchison, nights Union, laying off few weeks; relieved by R. H. Carson, who says will carry a card soon.

Bro. J. J. Flint, agent Etterville, laying off a few weeks; relieved by Bro. Emmett Smith, late from the Norfolk & Western Ry., member of Division No. 14.

"13" Bro. C. H. Koetting, of Gerald, is expecting relief to take a vacation shortly.

O. W. Holloway, agent Bowen, has resigned to accept service elsewhere. Sorry to see him go.

Bro. McDonald, nights Forsyth Jct., is leaving the line. CERT. 480.

Nebraska Division—

Another month has rolled around with the usual good results in the way of new members, which is always a pleasing thing to see and know of. At the rate we are going now it will be but a short time until the Nebraska Division will be solid from one end to the other. B. O. Pasley, days, Phillipsburg, F. H. Caudy, Harbine, and C. H. Fuller are the last ones to get new cards.

Keep the good work going and get after every non on the line, and see if you can not show him why he should become a member. It is not a hard proposition to tell him in what way he will be benefited, and I wish every member on the division would appoint himself a committee of one to do all that is in his power to secure new members.

We held our regular meeting at Belleville on June 15th, with about fifteen of the boys present, and the only thing that we were sorry of was that more were not there, but since the new time card went into effect it is almost impossible for the boys east of Belleville to go back home. For this reason it was decided that meetings would be held at Fairbury subject to the call of the Local Chairman, and we want every one who can possibly get off to be sure and attend these meetings, for there are matters of importance that you should know about, and about the only way we can tell you and make it plain is to have you at these meetings where we can talk to you. So make every effort to attend.

At a meeting of the representatives held at Kansas City before starting for Minneapolis it was decided to put our General Secretary and Treasurer, M. E. Schooler, on a salary, so that he could devote all his time to the work. You will all be notified of this in due time.

There have not been very many changes on the division the past month, and I guess the only reason for it is that there was no relief man to be had. Several of the boys desire to get off but very few of them are able to do so.

Mr. Edd Wolford relieving Bro. Turner at Powhattan for thirty days.

Bro. Green back to work at Jansen since returning from the convention. Mr. Rairden, who was relieving him, has left the service.

"Owls" at Albright are changing so fast that it is impossible to keep tab on them; latest one is H. A. Lorsch, unable to say whether he has a card as he is a new man on the division.

Night telegrapher M. H. Goodlander, Lincoln, was married June 5th to Miss Donnels, of Auburn, Neb. All hands join in extending congratulations.

Bro. Barnes is back to work at Richfield after his vacation.

"13" that Bro. Geo. Lee starts in at Otego again today.

Day telegrapher Yoacum back at Smith Center and Bro. Cowan is taking about ten days off to visit his folks at Portia.

F. J. Sadelek, at Plymouth, has taken out a new card and is entitled to fraternal courtesies.

Boys, keep your ear on the "F" wire. We have a good bunch of fellows up there and we want to help them all that we can by answering up promptly. J. A. M.

IN MEMORIAL.

WHEREAS, The Almighty God has deemed it wise to remove from the family of our Bro. Geo. D. Lee little Robert, in manifestation of our respect and friendship for our brother and his wife; be it

Resolved, By the members of the C., R. I. & P., Division No. 126, Order of The Railway Telegraphers, that we extend to the bereaved parents our heartfelt sympathy, in this, their hour of affliction; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the bereaved family, a copy spread upon the records of the division, and a copy furnished THE TELEGRAPHER for publication.

E. C. GREEN,
C. E. BAUVELT,
J. A. MERRILL,
Committee.

Rock Island Branch, Galesburg Division—

Owing to the failure of the boys to come up with the necessary items last month, we had no write-up, and are in just about the same predicament this month. However, your Uncle Ezra has succeeded, with the assistance of a faithful few, in scraping up a few items. Boys, it looks exceedingly bad not to see just a small write-up from us each month. It would take so little of your time to help us out by sending in an item or two. It is a duty we owe ourselves and our Order, to see that we are represented each month. Don't hang back and wait on your neighbor to assist us; just buy an envelope, put a 2-cent stamp on it and address it to H. W. Kost, 534 27th Street, Rock Island, Ill., and send them along. Every little bit helps.

Mr. Roscoe McGowen has resigned his position as day telegrapher at Rock Island 20th street depot and accepted position as night message telegrapher in dispatcher's office at C., R. I. & P. depot. McGowen relieved by Mr. McGrath, of Galesburg, a one-time member of our Order. He has expressed his desire to make good and no doubt we will be enabled to attach the brother in next write-up.

Mr. Earl Victor, formerly agent at Ophiem, working nights at 20th street station, Bro. Fling having been transferred to Alpha nights.

Bro. Ed. Eckenbaum, formerly nights at Barstow, transferred to agency Ophiem, his home town. Am not advised who relieved at Barstow nights.

Mr. A. J. Carter, formerly agent Barstow, transferred to agency Bushnell; relieved at Barstow by Mr. Aringdale, formerly "DO."

Bro. Bush Kirkman, of Erie, relieving Aringdale as day telegrapher.

Mr. Stevenson, nights at Warner, has his application papers in, and soon will be termed brother.

Bro. Frank Seward, days 17th street block, laying off account sickness; relieved by Bro. W.

T. McMillan, night man. Mr. Conrad Westling working extra nights at 17th.

Plenty to do at Terminal Jct. these days; and trains galore.

The D., R. I. & N. W. Ry. are filling in the approach to Crescent Bridge, also Bridge 151 just east of Terminal. This work is being done under contract by C., B. & Q. work trains.

Bro. L. T. Burford, nights Terminal.

Now, boys, don't forget those items and we will be much obliged. H. W. K.

Union Pacific Ry.

Wyoming Division—

Bro. F. L. Murphy, days at Birdwood night office, closed, and office may be closed altogether until health conditions are remedied. Basement full of water makes it bad for malaria. Bro. G. C. Willis left there nights few days ago. Bro. Willis hails from "way down in Georgia," and having secured a position with the Frisco at Birmingham, Ala., straightway packed his little grip and started for the Sunny South. Good luck to him, as he is true blue and has the genuine hospitality of the typical Southerner.

Hershey held down by Bro. W. F. Howard days and Bro. Ernest Bane, from the Wabash nights. Bro. Howard, who is a tireless worker for the cause, returned home a short time ago from a three weeks' trip east to visit his parents. He called on the Order headquarters at St. Louis on his rounds and reports being treated royally by them. He was relieved by Bro. Bane.

Bro. W. A. Hostetter was fortunate enough to land the agency at Sutherland while Bro. G. L. Stout does the owl stunt and rustles the cans of cream. Both always up-to-date and good workers.

Bro. J. B. Reynolds relieving agent at Paxton while Bro. R. Deffenbaugh plays the part of the owl.

Roscoe night office closed account shortage of telegraphers; new-comer works days. Have not learned his name or where he is from.

Bro. R. D. Chamberlain, nights at Ogallala, is on sick list at present, but expects to be out again in a few days. Temporarily relieved by Bro. W. Z. Hamm, a new man from the Illinois Central. Bro. Spencer operator days.

Bro. W. H. Seibert, days and Bro. J. Holst nights, keeps things going at Brule.

Julesburg manned by Bros. C. W. Simons, R. C. Young and Mr. Keinbing. Bro. M. V. Burris being on sick list at present. Hope he will soon be out again.

Bro. C. F. Wheeler, days at Chappel, relieving Mr. A. P. Ridge.

Mr. P. D. Gray, working nights, claims he is an Order man "at heart," makes all kinds of promises and excuses, but that is all ever comes of it, and as several "pay-days" have passed since he first made his promise and he still stays out in the cold, we have concluded he likes to stay out, as it is cheaper to let the "other fellow" pay for it. Excuses are cheaper than dues.

This is the writer's first attempt, so will be overlooked if not perfect; but a poor write-up beats none at all, and it seems that everybody has been waiting for some one else to make the start.

We have a good schedule, but it can be improved and all members should strive to that end. The Order is no longer a speculation or uncertainty, and the telegrapher who can not see what wonderful things it has done for us certainly must be very narrow-minded. I can not think any one is that narrow-minded, but rather that they are too selfish to be willing to help pay for the advantages gained. They will not join the Order as it will cost them something, but in their hearts they are very glad that others do. If they could only have a trial at working under the difficulties experienced a few years ago, and even at the present time on some roads, such as tending switch lamps, working fourteen to sixteen hours a day at one-man stations, etc., they would change their tunes before morning. I have been all along these lines myself and speak from experience, and can certainly appreciate what the Order has done and the prospects it has for the future.

CERT. 616.

Wyoming Division, Western District—

We regret very much to lose our chief dispatcher, Mr. Foley, at Cheyenne. Our loss will be someone's gain, and we wish him success, as the treatment accorded us during his short stay made him very popular.

Bro. Yantiss, of Hanna, spent one day in Laramie and one day in Cheyenne, narrowly escaping serious injury while taking in the sights of the cities.

Bro. Grimshaw relieved Bro. Yantiss at Cheyenne and is now an ambitious angler near Hermosa, catching trout.

Bro. Thomas now doing the heavy at Rock River while Bro. Teghi is absent.

Bro. O. C. Shields got Medicine Bow agency on bulletin, relieving Bro. S. E. Tolliver, who took the Paxton agency.

Bro. L. E. Klein on a vacation, goes back to dear old Broadway, New York

Bro. E. C. Wright, of Rawlins, leaves the service and accepts T. F. A. job for the C. & N. W., with headquarters somewhere in Idaho, we understand.

Mrs. Welty, nights at Howell, on the sick list for a few days last month, but has resumed duty. Says she is going to join the O. R. T. Glad to hear such news.

Bro. Ablard still in Washington, place being filled by a stranger.

The district practically clear of west-bound loads at present.

We understand it is the intention to put the west-bound main line between Thayer Jct. and Point of Rocks in operation as soon as possible.

Bro. Trapp transferred Thayer Jct. to Green River in dispatcher's office.

Bro. Foster transferred Tipton nights to Thayer Jct. days.

Mr. Long, from the L., S. & M. S. in Indiana, new man at Tipton nights.

Baxter closed; operating double track now between Thayer Jct. and Rock Springs.

Bro. Crandall transferred Baxter days to Riner days.

Bro. Leahy gone to Minneapolis on vacation.

Harry McKee, night man Baxter, gone to S. P., we "13."

That new schedule on S. P. is drawing a great many of the boys that way. A good schedule is more advantageous to the railroads than to the telegraphers.

We are glad to have Bro. Ablard numbered among us again; notice he is back at his old stand at Bitter Creek after having spent an extended vacation in the Northwest.

Bro. Connors, we understand, has left the service of the Union Pac. and gone to Portland. Success to him wherever he lands.

CERT. 410.

Eastern District, Kansas Division—

Bro. B. W. Doyle, who has been reporting the ball games and handling the "CX" in "Z" office, Kansas City, has resigned, being relieved by Mr. Amos.

Bro. L. C. Stout, Bonner Springs, promises to have Mr. Morrell, his night telegrapher, lined up with us next month, making Bonner solid.

Bro. S. H. Paul, "FY" office, Kansas City, has accepted the position of agent at Abilene, Kans.

Bro. A. H. Engle, Linwood, off several nights account sickness, being relieved by Mr. Philip Pierson. In addition to relieving Bro. Engle, Mr. Pierson relieved the station of several things and is now holding forth in jail. Mr. Pierson come to Linwood with the old excuse some one had stolen his pocket-book and cards. It pays to watch such nons, especially when they have such a poor memory as to forget what division they belonged to.

Bro. G. E. Payne, Manhattan, was off several days. Bro. Leger handled the "Meco" while Goldie filled up on spring chicken and wedding cake.

Bro. Denison, Blue Rapids, bid in Detroit days.

Bro. Klasse, relief agent, relieved Bro. Cantwell at Irving for several weeks.

Sister M. I. Nixon, Manager at Manhattan, took a two weeks' vacation, being relieved by Bro. Leger.

Bro. Klasse relieving Bro. Carson at Ft. Riley.

There are several persons, and they are not all nons, who persist in doing all they can to increase the supply of telegraphers, and if the practice is not stopped charges may be preferred. There are twelve or fifteen telegraphers who have left this division in the past two years and are now engaged in other business who would no doubt return were conditions better.

If you have not yet answered Bro. Perham's circular letter do so at once. It is important.

How about the new card. It's time you had one, you know.

Bro. Fenton Weeks was quite sick for several days last month.

Bro. Brady, at Rossville nights, transfers to us from R. I. 126. "HO."

B. & O. S. W. Ry.Springfield Division—

We note the General Committee has returned. Don't know what the situation is, but we are sure everything is "OK."

B. & O. S. W. System, Division No. 74, is 95 per cent strong, and how proud we are to be in a position to say so.

Bro. White, of Norris City, has accepted the agency at Bridgeport, relieving Bro. Chassels.

Bro. Ingling, of Iola, relieved Bro. Peck last week while Bro. Peck attended to some business at Cincinnati.

Bro. C. R. Tate is taking a vacation this week, visiting in old Missouri.

Bro. Allen is working at Mill Shoals while Bro. Morgan is absent.

Bro. Porter at Norris City for the present.

Am just in receipt of a copy of the proceedings of the convention. It's worth your while to read it thoroughly. Note the resolution in regard to handling the U. S. mail; that looks good to me.

We hoped to see something from main line on Illinois Division, also Indiana Division, but nothing has yet appeared.

Why is it that every one notices the fact that telegraphers are the poorest paid class of employees on a railroad? I have had a number of persons mention this fact to me of late. Why is it? You don't have to "figger" very long to tell why. Get busy and do your part.

CORRESPONDENT.

Ohio Division—

The boys all awaiting the return of the General Committee. They seem to have all confidence in them.

Bro. Hagerty working nights at Belpre.

Bro. Witherspoon going to "DA" tower, third trick.

Bro. Brill relieving Bro. Hulbert at Guysville.

Bro. Redman relieving Bro. Campbell at "AS" tower account of sickness.

Bro. Heater, agent Mineral, sick, relieved by Bro. Flinn, formerly with N. & W.

Bro. McNamara, agent Zaleski, off to get married; relieved by day telegrapher Knowlton.

Bro. Driscoll working days and Bro. Meyer, formerly of Ohio River Division, working nights.

Bro. Ray came back to Byers Jct. nights, after a year's absence; worked for U. S. carrying mail on rural route.

Bro. Wallace, agent at Ray, relieved by Bro. Uhrig, extra dispatcher, account sickness.

Bro. Betz working days at West Jct. while regular man, Smith, working days at gravel pit.

Bro. Johnson working nights at "RK" tower during absence of Bro. Brill, who is now at Guysville.

Bro. Houser, days at Musselman, relieved by night man Whaley; Bro. Houser rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl. Bro. Fuert working nights.

Bro. Wilson, days at Leesburg, relieving Chairman Wires at Cozaddale while he appears before the officials on matters relative to new schedule.

Bro. Cook, night man, now working days at Leesburg.

Bro. Conover, regular day second trick of "DA" tower, relieving Bro. Nichols nights of Midland City.

Bro. Fuert relieving Bro. Smith nights at Blanchester; Bro. Smith sick.

Bro. Harper accepted the agency at Windsor, former agent Conover taking second trick at "DA" tower.

Three tricks put in at "DA" tower; accepted by Bro. Leever, Conover and Witherspoon.

Bro. Hiatt to "DE," Chillicothe, nights, Symina, night man, accepting the day job, Bro. Harper, an old Big Four dispatcher of Columbus, taking the night job at Loveland.

Bro. Kirkendall accepted night office at Maderia just opened.

Bro. Brown, of East Norwood days, accepted Eighth Street "CS" office days.

Howard, of "RH" tower, now working third trick at Ivorydale Jct.

Bro. Blevins resigned days at Stock Yards, "CN" office, night man, Bro. Jackson, taking days. Bro. Richards, new man, took nights for short time, but Bro. Mayfield leaving general office at Cincinnati, "SG" office, Bro. Richards took that, and night vacancy at "CN" filled by Bro. Kersheimer, just arrived from the Q. C. with an up-to-date.

Seventy-four offices on this division, employing 146 telegraphers with only five nons. How is that for thorough organization? Div. Coa.

N. Y., C. & St. L. Ry.

The General Committee has been in session at Cleveland since April 16, 1907, concluding negotiations with the management on the afternoon of May 9th. Before this reaches you, a letter will have been sent out to each member employed on the road, giving a brief account of the work accomplished.

It is to be hoped that all those who have not paid the special assessment will realize the necessity of doing so at once, in order to meet in full the expenses of this work. Promptness in these matters means a great deal. The committee wishes to extend its thanks to all those who so willingly, and with the proper spirit, interested themselves in the affairs of the division.

While there is still plenty of room left for improvement in the telegraph department, our schedule agreement will now compare favorably with those in effect on competing lines.

The amended rule, and advance in pay, adding about $7,000 to the yearly salary, is a great improvement.

The committee has only words of praise for the managing officials, who showed a disposition at all times to listen to arguments and weigh the many grievances in detail, and it is to be hoped every telegrapher and station agent will show their appreciation of this courtesy by giving the very best service in return.

Your attention is again called to the fact that your Local Chairman is not always notified when a newcomer goes to work on the line. If he is a member of some other division, you should notify the Local Chairman, in order that he may arrange for transferring him to membership on our division. If he is a non-member, the Local Chairman should also be advised.

Some idea can be gleaned of how difficult it is at times for Chairmen to keep track of all these changes, from the fact that our road hired during last year 140 extra men, and at the close of the year only 39 of this number were in the service.

It behooves us all to put our shoulders to the wheel with renewed effort, and not only hold fast what we have gained through organization, but build up such a bulwark that in a very short time we can proudly say, we are taking the lead among the skilled workers of the country.

Miss Randall has resigned her position as day telegrapher at Thornton Junction.

Bros. Corbett, Dudley and Weatherup have left the service to accept positions with the P. R. R.

Bro. O. F. Pierce, of Brocton, is off on a month's vacation. Bro. Donovan is working days and Bro. Henry Wiser is working nights.

Bro. Howard L. Hicks, formerly night telegrapher and ticket agent at Dunkirk, has accepted a position in the office of the Standard Oil Company at Bula, West Va.

Night Chief J. J. Brown has gone to Denver for a few weeks.

Drv. Cor.

Fourth District—

The warm days are here at last and also the desire for the busy man to spend what few moments of leisure he has, if any, in the shade of some "old apple tree," or somewhere. But, brothers, a little more friction over here is needed to keep a cold feeling from entering into our thoughts. Don't turn a cold shoulder to your Order and say, "this is well enough," but keep the motto well in mind: "still onward."

Bro. C. S. Elliott, of the C. I. & S., at Knox, has taken up a new vocation, as rate inspector, located at Stony Island, Ill.

Bro. C. M. Gulde has transferred his attentions, as owl at "K," to the C. I. & S. day job at Knox. We regret to lose a brother, but trust the change is for the best and will be content to know that the vacant chair is filled by a man with "the card."

Bro. J. H. Wittkamper relieves Bro. Gulde at Knox nights.

We "13" that Bro. Shoemaker, of "SD," was selling tickets for a short time, but soon returned to the key.

Bro. F. L. Savery, at one time employed on this district, but now of the Indiana Harbor Belt, at Grasselli, gave his old friends a short visit at Knox, his old home. Frank says he has a job that you read about.

Our committee was successful in a way at their last meeting, with the general managers; but, brothers, don't think we can jump from the bottom to the top round of success in one or a few bounds. Get after the nons and get them in line so that when our committee again goes before the management, they may know that they have a solid line of backers.

You brothers who are relieved from duty every night or morning by a non stop and visit with him a few minutes and convince him that we are striving for his welfare as well as our own, and induce him to take that small burden of assistance upon himself and help us gain the victory.

There are a few nons on this district, we are sorry to say, but we know where each one of them is, and we are determined to tell them of the O. R. T., whether they desire to listen or not. So, boys, get busy; get out your musty application blanks and have him put his name on them, and when your supply of blanks is exhausted, just drop Bro. Smith a line at Argos, and they will be forthcoming.

I, for one, would like to see items from this district appear in THE TELEGRAPHER every month, but in order to have a correspondent give a write-up each month, it is necessary that he be given some assistance. Send me a list of changes, or anything of importance, each month so that we can get it to the editor before the 28th, and don't forget to talk O. R. T.

"Nick."

Third District—

Millers City nights, having been closed, Bro. Didier was transferred to Colby.

Bro. Agnew passed along the line, enroute to Arcadia nights.

Telegrapher J. M. Clark, Leipsic Junction nights, met with a misfortune this week, the loss of sight of both eyes, compelling him to leave his position. Mr. Clark was a member of our Order for years, up to 1893. Since that time he has been employed as a freight clerk around Cincinnati, O., and has just recently returned to the key. His intentions were to again become one of the boys in the near future. Third District of Division 18 extends the deepest sympathy and wishes Mr. Clark a speedy recovery.

Bro. Nelson, a new man on the road, is relieving Mr. Clark at Leipsic Junction.

Bro. Redman, Fostoria nights, assisted in the capture of a "Boo-Boo" man, who frightened three young boys and robbed them of $15 in that station.

Dispatcher Hartsler, Ft. Wayne, is off duty on account of the sickness of his wife.

Boys, to make these write-ups more interesting, why not mail the correspondent a line or two each month.

Bellevue Station nights and Oakwood nights were bulletined the first of June, but up to this time have been unable to learn who have filled these places.

CORRESPONDENT.

Seaboard Air Line.

First Division—

Our regular monthly meeting was held at Norlina the night of June 15th, with Bro. Benn in the chair, and a good attendance on hand. It was a source of great pleasure and very encouraging to note the renewed interest which the men are taking in these meetings. Several of the R. P. C. boys were prevented from being present by No. 43, the Seaboard mail being wrecked and tying things up all night. However, Bro. Shepherd, of "RI," Richmond, caught 81, detoured via the A. C. L., and showed up, bright and smiling as ever. On account of some of the boys being anxious to catch 32 for the Raleigh District, a meeting was held before the arrival of this train, and after seeing them off, went back and "had it all over" again. A number of important matters were brought up, and very ably discussed.

Bro. Benn announced that Bro. Briggs, of Suffolk, would go on the road again within the next few days as a Local Organizer, etc., being empowered with authority to solicit membership, chase the fleeting non, also to collect dues, if any brother should have been so forgetful of the duty he owes to his brothers and himself as to be in arrears. It was decided at our meeting in May to put a man on the road for this purpose, and Bro. Patterson, of Dinwiddie, was chosen as the man, but he having an agency, it was impossible for him to be relieved. When Bro. Briggs gets over the division we are going to have the swellest membership in this neck of the woods. See if we don't. He is one of the kind that knows no let-up.

We have had quite a number of new men to come in within the last thirty days. Application of Mr. J. E. Banzet, night owl at Ridgeway, was handed in, and when the third Saturday night in July rolls around, he expects to be on hand as a brother. His O. R. T. ism is of the right brand.

Glad to hear our friend Hunt, at Bowers Hill, has come in. Knew he'd come 'round all right.

Well, the fight over the eight-hour law for the Old North State is on, and is being waged with fury by the railroads and the people. About a thousand telegrams were received by the Corporation Commission at Raleigh yesterday, from all parts of the State, and from men in all kinds of business, urging the Commissioners to enforce the law as passed by the legislature. This shows very plainly where the people stand. And is it any wonder? One of the telegrams read: "Enough lives have been sacrificed on the altar of greed." The matter is to be continued before the Commission on Monday, and it will probably be several days before we will know the outcome of the affair whether the will of the people is to be heeded, or whether "Mammon" will rule. But these old tar-heels have a way of hanging on (tar is awfully sticky, you know), and it will not be surprising to many if we don't hold our own. It was really pitiful the way Mr. Justice put it up to some of the "High and Mighties." One well-known official of the Southern actually admitted that he thought there was one office on his division that ought to have eight-hour tricks. Another funny break they made was when a lawyer for the Seaboard stated that at Norlina there were as many as 25 train orders handled per day, when, in fact, the two men there, working twelve hours each, handle anywhere from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred and twenty-five train orders per day. Rather a bit behind in his information, wasn't he?

It was decided at our last meeting to have a banquet on the third Saturday night in July, inviting our worthy superintendent, train master and chief dispatcher to be present. So, slick up, and be on hand to give them a royal welcome.

By the way, had any of you noticed the conspicuous absence of "record suspensions" for the past few months? There's a reason.

Now, boys, where is the news you promised? Not a line have I received.

Mr. M. B. Garriss has been appointed agent at Margarettsville, vice D. G. Stutz, who has gone to Tidewater. Understand Mr. Garriss is willing and anxious to meet our organizer half way.

Bro. F. O. Cumming was one of the Committee on Subordinate Divisions at the convention. We feel honored by this compliment to one of our home members.

It seems that our half brothers, or cousins, or whatever relation they are to us, have at last decided to wake up and demand their rights. I refer to the C. T. U. boys. Understand they went on strike yesterday in Frisco and Oakland, and that they are to go out in Chicago today. If they will only have the backbone to stand pat, there is no question as to what the result will be.

Now, let us all pull together for the solid organization of our craft; come out and attend the meetings and make your wants and wishes known to others. This will help your General Committee when they go up to interview the officials in September.

Div. Cor.

Birmingham Division—

We are anxiously waiting for meeting day. Hope every one will be on hand and we will endeavor to have an interesting meeting. We want to get in line so we will be able to do something when our Committee goes to Portsmouth.

The following changes have taken place:

Bro. Holder from Piedmont to Aragon as agent.

Bro. Heaton, Rockmart, left the service. Relieved by Mr. Kipp, who promises to be a brother soon.

Mr. Penwell, new night man at Piedmont, says he will come in soon.

Bro. Love, our Local Chairman, Jacksonville, we understand is figuring on a change.

Bro. Sproul, Stilesboro, passed through the other day from a trip to Columbus.

Bro. Brown at Wellington days.

Mr. Cantrell, agent at Rockmart, has resigned to take a better position with the claim department. Relieved by cashier, Mr. Dowling.

Bro. Ausborn, Rockmart, is busy decorating his office and looking out for nons.

Understand Bro. Levins, "BH" office, Birmingham, has resigned. Sorry to lose him.

Mr. Sullivan, third trick dispatcher, Birmingham, has left us.

Our superintendent, Mr. Waite, happened to a little accident at Rockmart, while getting on the train, and was bruised up, but glad to see him out again.

Am looking for all of you at Piedmont on the 23d.

"FATTY."

Sixth Division—

Never before has this division had any more interesting news to tell our fellow members than this time. Last Sunday, May 26th, all the boys who could get off went to Wildwood and had a meeting, at which our Local Chairman, Bro. J. E. Bradford, was present. We had a good time and a good meeting and enjoyed absence from the office for a few hours. Members south of Wildwood went on No. 66 and returned on No. 43. Those on the Orlando branch went on No. 266 and returned on No. 243 that evening. We had one member from north of Wildwood. This boy has what should be called "get up, pluck and vim" when it comes to attending an O. R. T. meeting. This was Bro. Ricketson, from Summerfield. He, with the assistance of two other men, pulled a lever car from Summerfield to Wildwood and returned that night the same way.

If all the boys on this line were as anxious to attend meetings as he, we would always have a good crowd. After arriving at Wildwood, we got dinner, and then returned to the office, where Bros. Padgett and Bradford had arranged seats, and everything for our comfort.

The doors were closed and we started business. Not a member there had ever been in a meeting before. We made a good start, though. Bro. Padgett was nominated first, and elected to act as Secretary of the meeting. The roll call was as follows:

Bros. E. J. Dozier, Orlando; S. B. Vining, Plant City; J. L. Williams, Tavares; R. A. McMahan, Dade City; L. A. Hogan, Abbott, W. T. Berry, Apopka, L. F. Stewart, Zellwood, J. F. Ricketson, Summerfield; J. E. Bradford and B. K. Padgett, of Wildwood.

The meeting was then opened and every one had a chance to say what they thought.

One of the most important things discussed was that of our present schedule. The boys on the branch seem to have a hard time to get all the overtime that is coming to them, the superintendent claiming that they are not held for telegraph duties, and can not allow the overtime when they are held just to perform agent's duties in meeting a train after their day's work is over.

It was the wish of all present that we have a nine-hour day and a $50 minimum, and each telegrapher to be furnished an annual pass over the division on which they work.

After requesting Bros. Dozier and McMahan to give a write-up in THE TELEGRAPHER, the meeting was closed, with the understanding that we hold another meeting some time before Bro. Bradford goes to Portsmouth to make our new schedule. He will set the date and let each member know. He will also hold a meeting at Waldo some time soon, to be with the boys on the north end and Cedar Key branch. All who can should attend these meetings. They are interesting and beneficial.

Since Bro. Bradford's election as Local Chairman, he has received seven new applications for membership. Bro. Hays, at Bushnell, has re-enlisted, he having let his dues get behind and fallen from grace.

Bro. Brandon, who was formerly at Tampa days, is now working days at new yard office, Jacksonville. We also miss Bro. Harvard from the baggage car and have located him working nights at new yard office, Jacksonville. We miss him on the run, but wish him well in the office.

By our next meeting we want every telegrapher between Jacksonville and Tampa, including all the branches, to hold membership; then we can get anything in reason when our Local Chairman goes before the management for our new schedule. Fall in line, boys, and be with us. Most of you have promised to join, now, don't go back on your word, and it is my opinion that you will never regret it. The Mutual Benefit Department can not be beat for cost and value. It's as good as gold, and cheap, too. Some of the members are married and should carry insurance for the protection of their families. Others should carry it because they are likely to be benedicts some day, and if not, they have a mother or sister that should have it.

Members attending the next meeting should request their passes at least ten days in advance, as sometimes the superintendent is not at his office, and no passes left countersigned by him. This was the case this time, and some of the boys had to pay fare.

Erie Ry.Susquehanna Division—

We want your dues,
We want your dues,
We want your dues, we do;
We want your dues, we want your dues, because Your dues are due.

The meeting at Elmira, N. Y., Wednesday evening, June 8th, was well attended, it being the first time that the Local Board has been fully represented at a meeting in some time. In order that the members might receive the report of our representative to the national convention, some important business was laid on the table and will be taken up at the next meeting.

Besides several members of Division 42, there were present Bro. C. R. Elliott, of Division 130, and Bro. Victor Hadley, of Division 8. The meetings of late have been quite well attended, no doubt due to the individual interest that is being taken—an important feature in the life and effectiveness of our Order.

While we are congratulating ourselves nationally, we should take a look at our subdivision here at home. I think it safe to say that more buttons are being worn, and more good men are working for the advancement of their fellow-workers on this division, than ever before in the several lives the O. R. T. has seen on the Erie.

While there are a few who find it easier to be carried on our shoulders than to walk with the bunch, we do not always expect this of them, but hope some day they may be able to at least support themselves.

The latest to receive initiation in the O. R. T. are T. W. Harrington, H. S. Owen, W. P. Morgan and G. W. Chichester.

According to reports, some of these would-be's are with us heart and soul, and from the hot talk they hand our organizers, they evidently turn their lungs over to the O. R. T. at times, but as near as we can find out, they not only take all they can grab at the present, but are looking for a further graft in the future. If one is of the opinion that it is impossible to be a member of the O. R. T. and work at a dispatcher's office, they should look around some and get that foolish notion from within their noodle. No doubt the members of this division consider themselves equally as confident of handling and conducting themselves as men, as those who are without the ranks. I haven't the least doubt of this.

For the benefit of the members of the O. R. T. Division 42, a new roster has been issued by our chief dispatcher, J. A. Healey, which, as far as I can learn, is correct, except the record of three men entering the service in 1899 appearing 1890. This, no doubt, will be generally understood, and corrections made accordingly. The Tioga Division roster also bears one error, which has been corrected.

It is hoped a good attendance may be had at Elmira July 18th, as some very important business will need the attention of the full membership, and it is expected that we will have a member of the General Committee from the East and West with us.

Several changes have taken place during the last two months and it is reported that a small shake-up is in sight.

M. Sheedy, of "K," Great Bend, Pa., days, has resigned. Bro. Geo. O'Neill worked the day trick until advertised.

W. P. Morgan, of the extra list, has been assigned "GZ," Hickory Grove, and removed his family there from Corning.

The boys of this division will be pleased to learn that Bro. T. F. Pickley has secured a day position on the S. P. at Conton, Cal.

F. S. Coleman has taken "BS," Smithboro nights, and J. P. Conroy assigned "XY," Waverly nights.

King gave up the trick in "V," Hornell and took "AP," Adrian days.

Bro. Sherman, of "AQ," was absent on account of measles in his family. We are glad to see Bro. S. back at work. Walbridge relieved Sherman, and Bro. Barkalow worked the day trick at "RX" with Bro. Spencer nights.

Reeder, at "BF," Big Flats, was off one day, relieved by Ryan, of "FG."

Bro. Kelliherk, after working twenty-four hours, was relieved by Condon.

Bro. Knickerbocker, of "DI," Addison, took a vacation of ten days, relieved by Bro. Monahan, of "IX," Erwins.

Bro. Victor Hadley has returned to service on the Erie and is working extra at Adrian; also Bro. R. W. Morley, working extra for Canisteo. We expect these brothers to transfer to Division 42.

L. N. Rockefeller has been transferred from Hornell to Rochester, where he takes position of chief dispatcher of latter division. It goes without saying that he will make good.

The annual ten day vacation for dispatchers commenced June 4. Those who receive vacations this year are Varien, DeLancey, Smith, Fahey, Walker and Williams. Peter Donnelly is doing the extra dispatching and delivers the goods.

It is reported that C. W. Beebe, of "QZ," Addison, has only three or four students now, one for each bell, and one for the levers is all that is seemingly necessary. E. W. Francis, of "GY," Kirkwood, who is also reported teaching, has promised to turn over as soon as the student gets tired of remitting him five dollars a month. The student is E. Z. Mark.

Bro. Harry Owen expects to spend the summer at "YA" and Coney.

Bro. Frank McEntee, of "BG," Blossburg, was off some time in June on account of relatives being ill. He was relieved by Bro. Seth Palmer.

Bro. Stevens was absent four days and attended the meeting at Elmira. Bro. Stevens is the ticket agent at Tioga Junction.

Among the new ones who have taken positions with us are M. J. Derrig, formerly manager W. U. at Warsaw, N. Y.; J. D. Collins, of Owego, and J. J. White, son of Bro. White, at "B," Binghamton.

We hear that our former associates, M. J. Carmody and T. F. Hanrahan, are located in the West, Bro. Carmody at Wasatch, Utah, and Hanrahan at Clark City, Utah. We wish them the best financial success.

M. Dewitt, of "XU," Sing Sing, has an automobile. It is no wonder he has no time for the O. R. T.

Jno. N. Cossatte has resigned his position of telegrapher at "UJ," West Cameron nights, and will seek service elsewhere.

Let us work for better conditions by giving good service, watching our brother's card and seeing that it is ever up-to-date. A little individual effort on your part and it will soon be "no card, no favors."

A. E. M.

Mahoning Division--

At Kent, Ohio, on Saturday night, June 15, a grand meeting was held in K. of P. hall. The Local Chairmen from Cincinnati Division, Meadville Division and Mahoning Division being present, with quite a number of brothers from their respective divisions. During the time of the meeting, quite a number of B. & O. telegraphers, members of Division 33, came in, and not only helped to increase the number present, but took part in suggesting ways and means for the good of the profession. Our General Chairman, Bro. Frank N. Hall, was there, and as Bro. Hall had recently put his whiskers on paper, some of the boys had to look the second time to be sure it was he. While Bro. Hall had changed in facial expression, he had not changed one iota at heart, which he very readily demonstrated when given the floor, briefly reviewing convention doings and offering suggestions for our future conduct. All the brothers expressed their pleasure on account of being present. The absent members missed the thrilling enthusiasm which the gathering created.

The news items which your correspondent has been able to gather are as follows:

B. H. Funk, of Litterary street yard office days, is off for two weeks, relieved by night man, W. C. McGhee, and extra man, J. Finnegan, on nights.

Garrettsville nights was bid in by C. H. Fitch.

Ray Cassidy, from Pulaski nights, to "SN" tower days, Leavittsburg.

W. D. Watson, at Pulaaki nights.

J. J. Ryan from Niles nights to Oak street, at Youngstown, days.

W. C. Morrell gets Niles nights.

J. L. Johnson, of "BR" tower, days, has left the service and his brother, F. E. Johnson, of "BR" tower nights, has bid in Hubbard tower nights. "BR" advertised, day and night.

C. G. Perry, of Hubbard, days, has gone west to try some of the roads west of the Mississippi.

F. E. Brooks at Hubbard at present time.

L. W. Hoffmaster, of Hubbard nights, also left the service, going west to try his fortunes.

J. W. Terry, from Warren days, to Youngstown nights.

R. G. Burdett, of "G" tower, Salem, is off, sick.

E. B. Van Werst, who was working at Phalanx nights, had his left hand badly lacerated while going home to Youngstown on a freight train one morning. It is not thought that he will lose the hand.

M. G. Donaldson, of Mahoning, has gone to the Jamestown Exposition. Relieved by J. A. Aston, day man at "MA" tower, Mahoning. Aston relieved by his night man, and H. B. Cutlip on at "MA" tower nights.

H. H. Hatch, former night man at Garrettsville, has gone to the Jamestown Exposition. M. C. Billig, of Sharon freight house, has accepted a position as clerk there, and "ON" office is advertised.

Clair Bush, of De Forest tower, was off, sick, four or five days, relieved by F. E. Brooks.

Now, don't forget to come to the regular monthly meeting at Warren, which is held the last Saturday night of each month in K. of G. E. hall, over the Union National Bank, corner Market street and Park avenue.

Div. Co.

Buffalo Division—

In sending in items always make them as brief as possible, as oftentimes our space is limited and a part will not be printed, to your disappointment. So bear this in mind and always have them ready to send in early, as they must be in the editor's hands not later than the 28th of the month.

Cert. 201, Local Correspondent.

Bro. Lawton, of Goodyear Junction, bid in, and has taken the agency at Blasdel, N. Y.

Bro. Slater, of Hamburg nights, has been confined to his home for the past few weeks with the mumps.

Helper Frank Whipple, of South Dayton, made his debut recently, being sent to North Collins nights, and more recently to Hamburg, in place of Bro. Slaton. He is doing fairly well and we expect to see him wearing a button as soon as he is eligible.

Bro. Aldrich, of Cherry Creek, recently sent to "DM" for a few nights, in place of Bro. Taft. Helper Cornwell doing the night stunt at Cherry Creek in the absence of Bro. Aldrich.

North Collins nights has been closed for several weeks on account of no men on the extra board. Recently this office and Cherry Creek were closed nights.

Goodyear Junction has been abandoned, which takes Bro. Warner elsewhere.

A new tower has been placed at the target at Blasdel, but is not yet in operation. C. B. Sturdivent, now at Blasdel nights, bid in the day trick. Bro. Reed was the successful bidder for the night trick. With this shift in view, it will make the agency at that point a more desirable position, owing to the fact that it will relieve the agent of the block work.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Bro. Lenahan's mother, which occurred recently. We one and all extend our sincere sympathy to this bereaved brother in his time of loss and sorrow.

We "13" that the closing of Goodyear Junction office and the opening of the new position at Blasdel will take effect July 1st, leaving Bro. Warner on the extra list once more.

Bro. Aldrich is off at the present writing on account of sickness in his family. Hope conditions will warrant his return soon.

Bro. Taft also reported off on account of sickness. Understand the case is not serious and that he will be back in a few days.

Brothers, do not throw the letter away which you received from President Perham under date of June 10th, but get busy and give him the desired information.

Perhaps there are no telegraphers in your town that have given up the occupation of telegrapher for some far more luxurious position, but no doubt you know of some in your circle of acquaintances that have done so. How many times have you had some one come up to the window and say, "I did that same thing once for a living, but couldn't live, so I chose something else." There is any number of them throughout the country, but, brothers, that class of men never laid a straw in the path of the grand old O. R. T. The students that we hear each day on the line is what is hurting our profession. We should rid ourselves of them as soon as possible, keep down the surplus, and in due time we will gain that long sought for point, viz., $75. Suppose that one of these students should cause some accident on the line; who would the company or the Interstate Commerce Commission hold responsible? Not the student, but the telegrapher who was teaching the art of telegraphy.

The O. R. T. was instituted for the protection of the telegrapher actually employed, and we should endeavor by every means possible to keep it up to the present standard, and better it at every possible chance. And, brothers, those chances are many, if we would only take advantage of them when they present themselves.

Lima and Chicago Divisions—

News items are rather scarce at this writing, but the O. R. T. is becoming more popular than ever on this end of the Erie.

Bro. Bridge reports 148 new members added to Division 42 since January 1, 1907, and C. & E. has furnished 20 of these.

Bro. Shipley gets the blues if he can't send in at least two applications per month.. If the brothers will all get busy, as they have the opportunity, we will be practically solid by March, 1908, when the new nine-hour law becomes effective. The telegraphers will need a new schedule at that time to conform with the shorter hours without getting the short end of it financially.

If the brothers will send their TELEGRAPHER to some non when through with it, it will surely have a good effect, for a review of the work of the Order in securing favorable legislation in many States will teach them that the O. R. T. is their friend at all times. Eight-hour laws in West Virginia, Texas and Arkansas are noted in the June issue of the journal; also six new or revised schedules.

Among those who have recently joined us are Bros. E. F. McDowell, C. A. Burris, C. K. Sennett, Z. M. McDowell, C. O. Hamilton, George L. Overmeyer and G. W. Mehrling, and several more are coming in the 14th of July.

Bro. John Thatcher is on the sick list. Relieved by Bro. Dempster at Lima Depot.

Bro. J. S. Witt is again answering the extra calls on the Erie, after quite a long absence. Glad to see him back.

Bro. Newhard, formerly agent at Preble, has resigned to accept service with the Buckeye Pipe Line Co. at the same place.

There have been some five or six increases in wages granted on this division, which have been pending since March. Even the D. T. & I. have come up with their share at "SJ."

"Constant dripping will wear away stone," 'tis said.

L. C. Coomler is back at his old place, "SJ" tower, and will have the proper credentials in the near future.

Night vacancy at Simpson advertised June 20, and if the new man is not up-to-date, he soon will be. Bro. Hill will convert him in short order.

Well, brothers, if you know of from one to a dozen items which would fit into this column, please send them to your Division Correspondent, or the Local Chairman, and he will bunch them up and mail them about the 20th of each month, and it will make this column interesting to all C. & E. brothers, many of whom can't attend our meetings.

CERT. 9.

Allegheny Division—

Here are a few questions I desire to ask each one of you. Questions you can answer to yourself. Are you behind with your dues? If so, why? Are you working with a non-member of the organization, or is there one working at another station near you? Have you ever explained to him the object of our organization; what it has accomplished on this system during the past five years, and its future hopes? Have you furnished him with application papers and invited him to become a member? If not, Why? You all pay your board, your rent, and your grocery bill, your butcher and your laundry bills, is it because you are compelled to do so, or is it because it is right and just that they be paid? If it be right and just that these bills be settled, is it any less right or just that the amount due your organization should be met promptly, or is it neglected because there is no legal compulsion behind this indebtedness? Is your landlord, your grocery man or your butcher doing anything toward building up your working conditions and rates of pay? Have any of the above named persons during the past five years we have been organized on this system ever given you anything or in any way helped to advance your rates of pay or helped toward a betterment of the conditions surrounding your employment? Has Division No. 42, Order of Railroad Telegraphers during the past five years done anything for you in this line? Answer these questions honestly and conscientiously and act accordingly. Division 42 is willing to abide by these results. If you honestly and candidly do not believe in union principles, and that our organization has not benefited you during the five years we have been organized on this system, and are not therefore justly entitled to your support, both morally and financially, then write the Grand Secretary and Treasurer requesting a withdrawal card, stating your reasons for withdrawing from the organization. If, on the other hand, you believe in union principles, realize what has and what will be accomplished on this system, then settle up and quit playing the boy. The size of it is, we must get out of knee pants and be men. To you who have never held membership; to you who have allowed yourselves to become a delinquent, why is it necessary for another who has no more interest than yourself, to come to you and try to show you that the only way to bring about the object we are trying for is by you nons coming in and you delinquents coming back? Why cannot one man as well as another see that until we, one and all, can say we are brothers fraternally, we can never attain the goal that we are striving for. Now, boys, wake up, and figure on what we are to do to protect ourselves and put ourselves in a position to make our bread and butter more sure. I hope each member will put forth every effort to make this division solid O. R. T. CERT. 262.

The Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville Ry.

As I failed to forward items in time for the journal last month, will come again.

Have been drilling away on the few and scattered nons on this end, and hope to have them all with us in a short time.

Everybody should keep wide awake and see that his neighbor carries an up-to-date card, and not depend on one or two to look after them all.

It is very gratifying to see the interest the boys are displaying towards solid organization on this line since the good cause was started.

Am sorry to say we have not enough night men on the road to hold a meeting, as I think there is more accomplished at one meeting than in two months' correspondence.

Bro. Johnson, General Chairman, has just returned from Minneapolis, where he has been attending the convention.

Bro. Brice has been transferred to "CO" agency, Bro. Rice going to Peru as cashier.

New man at Malden. Understand he carries an up-to-date card.

Have forwarded the necessary papers to Louisville Junction and hope to have day man, Mr. Harley with us in a few days.

Bro. Harter, G. S. & A., has accepted the ticket agency at Cincinnati.

Now is the time, boys, to get your dues in, so don't let any one become delinquent, as we have the road in good shape now and want to keep it so from this on.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

Northern Pacific Ry.

St. Paul Division—

There has been quite a bit of moving on the St. Paul Division in the last month.

Mr. Daggart went to the new dispatcher's office at Fargo, N. D.

Mr. Mack, from Royaltown nights, to Little Falls nights.

Telegrapher Holgren from Lincoln nights to Royaltown nights.

Mr. Rumerich to Lincoln nights, and from there to Gregory nights.

Telegrapher Gantz from Gregory nights to Lincoln nights, and Mr. Staples from Lincoln to Glenwood nights, where they have opened a night office.

There are quite a few students on the line. At Philbrook is one, at Royaltown another, and Randall is a regular "ham factory." Mr. M. E. Ehr, the agent there, is not content to have the company send him out students, but has to call in the farmer boys to teach them. He must need their money pretty badly.

There is a new night man at Brainerd.

Our old train master, J. E. Craver, has been promoted to superintendent of the new division, and our old chief dispatcher was promoted to train master here. The night chief is now chief dispatcher. They all have our best wishes in their new positions.

If you have not yet sent in your dues, do so at once.

Our committee will be in conference with the management by the time this is in print.

CERT. 467.

Yellowstone Division—

Bro. Halfwassen now working days at Custer. Bro. Hatfield resumes his position as day man at Richardton after a vacation with the folks in Iowa.

Bro. Stillwell from Gladstone days to Waco, Mont., days.

Telegrapher Larsen, nights at Gladstone, promises to be with us when the ghost walks again.

Bro. Pope got tired of the seemingly remote prairie life at Hodges, and is now day man at "Little Russia," or as it is customarily called, Glenullen.

Bro. Paukette, of Forsythe, has resigned, we hear. Wherever he goes, may luck go with him.

Taylor has been made a night office, with Bro. Griffin on the night trick.

Any farmer nowadays will be seen wearing one of the prettiest smiles ever as a result of the very flattering weather conditions, which insures a bumper crop.

Blind sidings, Marmot and Knowlton, on the First District, have been changed to Lyons and Boyle respectively.

Bro. Murray has just returned from a trip to the Sunny South.

Our committee is in conference at Hotel Foley, St. Paul, at this writing. Each brother should endeavor to remit his dues without a moment's delay, thereby avoiding the necessity of our Chairman asking the members for a special assessment in order to meet the required expenses of the committee while before the management.

"FRITZ."

Canadian Northern Railway.

Another month has rolled around and summer is again with us, with the usual amount of business, and as usual every one wanting a vacation at the same time.

June 30th is near at hand and I would remind all the members of this division that we have a substantial committee working for us, and we have the promise of a much improved working schedule, and every member can be a great help to our committee if they will only remember that the dues for next term are due and to remit promptly. Do not wait to be asked for same; remit at once, and this will help our men to show just how strong we are on this pike. An up-to-date card can work more wonders than a week's hot talk.

The majority of the boys on this end appear to be asleep as far as anything pertaining to O. R. T. work was concerned, but I am very much pleased to see that there is an awakening, and as a result, quite a number of new members have been added to our division, and others coming in that heretofore have hardly known that there was such a thing as organization in this part of the globe.

Any member having news of interest to the division should send same to me without delay, so that it can be forwarded to the journal in time for each month.

Now, boys, don't forget June 30th. Get your dues into the hands of the Secretary-Treasurer and get that new card. It is a dandy, and worth a month's pay to have handy in case some one might want to have a look at it some time when you are in a strange land. I have had the experience and know how it feels to be welcomed as a brother, and knew I was welcome all because of that little bit of card. It's a wonder worker.

Div. Cor.

Missouri Pacific Ry.

Sedalia District—

I have been criticized quite severely by some of the brothers on the Missouri Pacific, being called too conservative, scared, etc., and I understand that one official of the company made the statement, or remark, that Wilmarth was getting scared. I wish, through the columns of THE TELEGRAPHER, to explain my position to the boys, and show them just where I stand.

The reason for this adverse criticism was this: Our eight-hour law, which was to have taken effect June 14, being ignored by the company, caused a few of the boys to become so angry that they took things into their own hands, not waiting until the matter could be taken up intelligently, and concerted action taken. I came to work one morning and found that a few of the night men on one division had refused to work after three a. m., or after they had worked eight hours, while those on the other divisions had continued to work the regular hours, and I was advised that the day men on the same division were going to quit work at three o'clock p. m.

I immediately sent a telegram to all telegraphers on that division asking them to continue to work their regular hours until the matter could be adjusted in the proper manner.

The first mail to arrive at my station after sending this telegram certainly woke me up, and I have been receiving so many letters since that I believe additional mail clerks had to be placed on some trains.

I do not blame the boys for being exceedingly angry, as they have been waiting and planning for several months, thinking their lot would not be quite so hard after June 14th, but I do blame them just a trifle, for being too impulsive.

The position I take is this: If the majority of the telegraphers in Missouri are willing and ready to enforce the eight-hour law (and it does not appear to me that any one else is making any effort to do so) I would suggest that the proper officials of the Order get together immediately, set a date for the eight-hour law to take effect, and notify the different officials of railroads traversing the State. If this is done, I will spend my time and money and make every effort possible to make it a success.

I do not think there would be any doubt about our winning the day, and I will show some of the brothers, as well as the official referred to above, that I am no quitter, and not so easily scared as they seem to imagine.

I was opposed to five or six men quitting at a time, as it was detrimental to the interests of the Order, and would do more harm than good.

Anything worth doing is worth doing well, and I, for one, say if we strike, let us strike hard. Any time will suit me—today, tomorrow or next week. The sooner the better as far as I am concerned. I suppose now the brothers who have not already criticized me will take the other side and call me an agitator, but I would much prefer being called an agitator than a scare.

I hope that after reading this the boys will see just where I stand, and I also hope that steps will be taken to put the eight-hour law into effect immediately, by peaceable means if possible, but if not, otherwise.

Faternally,

W. L. WILMARTH.

Sedalia District—

Bro. McClure, formerly agent at Sherman, secured the agency at Nelson, and was relieved at Sherman by Bro. Haub, of Boles, who was in turn relieved by Bro. Cole, of Bonnotts Mill.

Bro. Cole was relieved at Bonnotts Mill by a man named Doody, whom we all know.

Bro. Brewington gets the agency at Labadie, succeeding Bro. Dornan.

Bro. Shain, formerly of Bunceton, has accepted the exclusive agency at Independence, Mo.

Bro. Shade, formerly agent at Nelson, gets the exclusive agency at Pleasant Hill.

Bro. Dickerson, day man at Pacific, is eating strawberries in South Missouri, being relieved by night telegrapher, Bro. Cromer, who is being relieved by Bro. Hoover, of Division No. 2.

Agent G. D. Barnes, at Washington, is taking a ninety days' leave of absence, and is being relieved by Bro. Wood. Bro. Wood is being relieved as day telegrapher by Bro. Walkley. Bro. Burlingame is doing the night trick in Bro. Walkley's place.

Bro. Heinke, telegrapher at Hermann for the last thirty years, is now the proud possessor of an O. R. T. button. And we are proud to see Bro. Heinke wearing it, too.

Bro. Canfield, agent at Gasconade, has returned to work after a thirty days' leave of absence. Hard to tell who relieved him during his absence, as there were five different men there while he was off.

Bro. Cassidy, agent Chamois, has returned to work after thirty days' leave of absence. He was relieved by night telegrapher, Bro. Duncan, who was relieved by E. F. Maus.

Bro. Glynn, night man at Kirkwood, has returned after a thirty days' leave of absence. He was relieved by Bro. Haney, who has now left the service.

Bro. L. M. Nance, our General Chairman, has accepted a position in "GR" office, St. Louis. We are very glad to hear this, as we will make him assist us in looking after the boys in the terminals. We will use him as an Assistant Local Chairman.

Bro. Nance relieved telegrapher Welsh, who goes to the Frisco. Hope the Frisco boys will have better luck with him than I did.

Agent Martens, agent Gray's Summit, has returned to duty after a three weeks' vacation. He was relieved by J. C. Farrell, who takes the agency at Lupus temporarily.

Farris, agent at Lamonte, is off few days account the death of his mother. He is being relieved by Laws, night man at Knobnoster.

Bro. Dore has resigned the agency at Knobnoster, and is succeeded by Bro. L. O. Kennedy, of Lupus.

Bro. Smythe, at Warrensburg, has all arrangements made for a trip to the old country. He expects to start early in July and visit England and Ireland. Bro. Smythe lived in Ireland the first fifteen years of his existence.

During my absence, in the month of May, I was relieved by Bro. McClain, regular night man, and he in turn was relieved by Telegrapher Clifford. Clifford's application will be in soon.

Bro. Weitzel was off a few days, and was relieved by Bro. Hoban, who was relieved by M. H. Cook.

Bro. Popplewell is now doing the night stunt at Little Blue.

J. E. Farrell, night man at Boonville, and R. E. Williams, night man at Lupus, have sent in their applications and will be wearing a button soon.

Bro. F. L. True, "DA," Sedalia, has resigned, and the vacancy bulletined, but none of the boys seem in a hurry to take the job. If they are looking for work, they will find it in "DA."

Were it not for the assistance of Bro. Crockett, at Boonville, and Bro. Wood, at Washington, I would be unable to write up the district, as the boys all seem to be too busy to notify me of the changes at their respective stations.

I work twelve hours every day, and write from three to six letters almost every night, and it does seem as if they might take time after working hours to write three lines once or twice a month, and keep me posted in regard to the news at their stations.

If I get an eight-hour trick here, I expect to write from 4 p. m. until 10 p. m. every night, and I will promise the nons that they will be kept plentifully supplied with reading matter.

One more say, and I am done. One of my boys came near getting into serious trouble last month by trying to fight his grievance out with the officials instead of telling me his troubles. If you have any troubles, send them to me and I will try and straighten them out for you. I have troubles of my own, but it is my duty to bear your burdens also, and I will handle them to the best of my ability.

W. L. W.

How To Win the Nons—

I wish I knew the exact number of nons that we have on the "Windy" branch of the Missouri Pacific; but as I am a new member, I do not know. I believe that a great many of the boys who are not in, or who do not remain in all the time, could be induced to do so by the Chairman, if his trips over the line could be made a little oftener. I had a conversation with one of the oldest and best employes in the service not long ago, and he informed me that he is a strong believer in the Order, and his intention is to be a member at all times, but said that he was as often a non as otherwise for the reason that he forgets to pay his dues at the proper time, which, while I admit that it is not a plausible excuse for not being up-to-date, shows that it is, indeed, a profitable thing, both for the Order and the members, for the Chairman to come over the line as often as his other duties will permit. This member referred to, says that he always pays up when reminded of it.

If every non will read the journal he will find many things to encourage him to come into the Order, and if he is a fair-minded man, he will find many truths that will, or should, make him ashamed to remain a non. It would be a good idea, therefore, to mail the journal to them (the members can do this after they have read them).

The editorial in the May number "makes a noise like encouragement." Read it. If the membership has reached the "highest mark ever attained," and its "financial condition better than ever before in its history," it occurs to me that "enthusiasm" has increased and the Order is the very thing every man who earns his living as a telegrapher should belong to.

Read that letter from Allegheny Division, Cert. No. 262, in the May journal, and I think you will be convinced that it is a good investment. Lay aside that much for your dues, and, by all means, lay aside that unreasonable prejudice and come over on the right side.

CERT. 1,098

L. & S. Division—

Bro. F. D. Slaughter is relieving Bro. Roche nights at Rich Hill.

Bro. C. M. Wood has resigned the agency at Sheldon, to take effect not later than July 1, for the purpose of entering the employment of the Colorado Southern as agent at Fort Russell, Wyo.

Bro. G. W. Miller, agent at Hannon, is on a vacation, being relieved by Mr. Gwinn. Gwinn has promised to come across with the necessary.

Bro. G. A. Winters, late of Archer, has accepted the agency at Mound City, Bro. E. C. Giles going from Mound City to Liberal.

Bro. Tom Shanks has taken the night trick at Lamar, Mr. Slater having bid in the day job.

Position of day telegrapher at Pittsburg has been bulletined, but to date no one has bid it in.

The position the railroad companies have taken in regard to the eight-hour law is causing nearly as much anxiety among the telegraphers as their attitude toward the 2-cent fare law is among the people in general. We can't see any end to it except that in the end the railroads will be compelled to accept the conditions of the law.

Any old time the State of Missouri can not enforce her eight-hour law with the help she can get, then we feel like we want to move on. It is not like a liquor law—there are too many in the State who are willing to help joint keepers violate the law just to get a drink of "booze," and that makes it hard to enforce the prohibition law.

Say, boys, what do you do with your TELEGRAPHER when you have finished reading it? File it away for a keep-sake? Let me ask you if it wouldn't do more good to send it to some non than to let it lay and cover with dust. As much as I value our beloved journal, I have not a single copy in my office. Try the plan of mailing it to some non. You will not miss the three cents in a hundred years from now.

C. V. R.

White River Division—

Bro. A. G. DeGross, nights at Batesville, will go to Magness Gravel Pit in a few days as telegrapher and timekeeper. A new office will be opened there while the steam shovel is in operation.

Bro. W. H. Scott, formerly of the Frisco, has accepted the agency at O'Neal, vice Bro. Briggs, who has left for parts unknown. Bro. Scott is now numbered among the 31ers.

Bro. W. E. Scott, at Sylamore, one of Bro. Holman's new converts, has given up the agency and will return to Galena for the present.

Bro. H. F. Klotz, brother of our Local Chairman, is now working the day trick at Crane, vice Bro. F. C. Mansfield, who is doing the stunts at Cotter days.

Bro. A. C. Nye, formerly from De Soto, Mo., is working a trick at Cotter.

Bro. Hastings, of Ruth, has resigned and will seek new fields. He is relieved by Mr. H. E. Weatherall.

Bro. J. R. Dudley has been assigned to the cashiership at Aurora.

Bro. S. Reed has returned to Stotts City after a vacation of several weeks.

The White River Division now has three non-members located on it. Guess who they are. We will give their names next time if they do not change their ways; but from the promises made, the number should be reduced, if not entirely wiped out.

In the May number of the journal, Bro. C. M. Rice, of Bucyrus, Kansas, was reported as a non member. This is a mistake. Bro. Rice is one of the old members of the Division, holding Cert. No. 348, and has been in good standing continuously, and is an enthusiastic worker for the Order.

CORRESPONDENT.

Memphis Division—

Local Chairman, Bro. Sechler, was over the Division, seeing the boys, a few days ago. He reports prospects good at St. Louis and matters under way for a revision. He picked up several nans en route.

Sister Cordelia L. Worthen agent at Gavin, loses an hour's overtime daily on account of the change in her hours to 6 o'clock.

Mr. O. Parker, at Vincent, will be with us in a pay day or so. He has been assigned to the agency at Haynes and will go there soon.

At Crawfordsville, Mr. J. L. Taylor continues to make promises, but it is expected he will surrender shortly.

Bro. E. T. Jeffries has been transferred from Parkin to Memphis nights. He is relieved by Bro. J. A. Eickelberry, a new convert to the ranks of O. R. T. ism.

CORRESPONDENT.

Pine Bluff District—

Bro. L. M. Williams has resigned nights at Winchester, and gone to Pine Bluff. I "13" he is in the furniture business. Bro. Williams was relieved by Bro. W. T. Roush, of C. B. & Q. Division 130. He was relieved by Telegrapher R. Finlay.

Mr. Finlay promises to make good next pay day.

Telegrapher H. W. Stewart has resigned nights at Varner. Understand he is going to Texas to engage in farming.

Bro. A. J. Graham had to double several nights on account of H. W. Stuart resigning.

Bro. F. E. Samuel relieved Bro. M. P. Robarts as agent and telegrapher at Winchester. Bro. Robarts has gone to Texas with the I. & G. N. as night telegrapher at Encinal.

We are all waiting for the eight-hour trick, but so far nothing doing in that line.

CERT. 1,231.

Well, brothers, how many of you are enjoying the benefit of the eight-hour law, recently passed in our State? It can be very easily answered in the negative by all of us, with possibly the exception of a few down on the Valley Division, where, I understand, several of the offices are working under the eight-hour shift, simply because they refused to work any more than eight hours, and the company could not get any one to relieve them, as they did other telegraphers who had more desirable jobs and refused to work over eight hours, under the impression that they were subject to a fine for violating the law; but after learning that they were not, all returned to work their usual hours.

The railroads are endeavoring to justify their actions in violating the eight-hour law by claiming that there are not "sufficient available" telegraphers to supply the demand under the eight-hour law. Now, whose fault is this? We don't want to ask each other. We all know it is on account of small salaries and long hours. Almost any kind of work will pay you $50 or $55, daylight work and Sundays off. Who cares to learn a profession that takes several years of the most valuable part of your life, to fall into a $50-dollar 12-hour night job? Isn't that an elegant inducement?

Hoxie District—

There have been several changes in officials on this Division lately. Superintendent A. J. Alexander has transferred to Kansas, being succeeded by Mr. J. Cannon, formerly of the Missouri Division.

Division Operator, Mr. J. O. Kelly resigned, his successor being Mr. G. H. Cooper, who worked a trick at De Soto during the past winter. Mr. Kelly has the best wishes of the telegraphers on this Division. He was always just and fair in his dealings, and we regret to lose him.

Telegrapher Ab. Beville, who has been in the mercantile business at Higginson, has returned to his old haunts and relieved Bro. J. A. Bowman, agent at Minturn.

Bro. J. M. Ashley, formerly nights at Bradford, relieved night telegrapher, Bro. M. E. Doyle, at Newport.

Bro. D. M. Burtsch relieved Telegrapher W. A. Owens at Olyphant. Day telegrapher, Miss Flossie Davis, spent several days in the hospital, being relieved by Bro. Burtisch, who in turn was relieved by Telegrapher C. R. Beville.

Ex-Telegrapher Whitlow, who has been out of the service for several years, has resumed work and relieved Bro. Ashley nights at Bradford.

Bro. F. L. Davis, nights at Bald Knob, was absent a few days on account of sickness. Relieving telegrapher, Bro. L. J. Moore, was Sister Weldon's right hand bower during the former's absence.

Bro. J. P. Quinn relieved Telegrapher C. S. Morrison nights at Garner. The latter, I understand, was a graduate from Bollingers, but found the task a little more difficult doing the real stunt than under the direction of the Professor.

W. A. Johnson relieved Bro. G. B. Newbill, agent at Beebe. Bro. L. J. Moore relieved Day Telegrapher Farley for several days on account of illness in the latter's home.

Bro. C. D. Tucker, formerly of Garner, relieved Night Telegrapher Herr at McAlmont.

"CF," Little Rock—

Bro. W. S. Avery and Telegrapher Overlin will take thirty days' vacation, effective July 1st.

Bro. J. W. Skoda is taking thirty days' rest, being relieved by Bro. Puller, of Dallas W. U. office.

Bro. J. F. Smade has accepted a position in "CF," relieving Bro. Paulu, who has accepted a position in "GM," St. Louis.

If the railroads would pay living wages there would be no shortage of telegraphers. Bro. H. F. LeGrande, chief operator has no trouble in securing the required number of telegraphers for his office. He has a goodly number of applications on file.

Telegrapher Tom Rice is still out in the cold.

Bro. H. F. LeGrande spent Sunday on his farm near Jacksonville. Bro. J. W. Quiggins acting chief.

Bro. Laing was laying off Saturday and Sunday, viewing Wonderland.

A. Bollinger, general manager of the "ham factory," Second and Main streets, has accepted a position as train dispatcher with the I. M. at Little Rock, working the second trick on Texarkana District.

"CF" office is up-to-date with the exception of Tom Rice, A. Overlin and Professor Baldwin. However, Rice and Overlin make good promises pay day, but the promises of Baldwin are very different from the others. If it were in his power, this person claims he would turn out a thousand or more students a day with his patent process for teaching students; but the good Lord didn't give "BN" this supernatural power, so I guess he will have to be satisfied with the few suckers he can get to bite. He should be treated accordingly by the telegraphers who come in contact with him on the wire.

I hope by the time the July journal comes out we will have a new schedule and scale of working hours. Our Committee is in session at the present writing in St. Louis. We wish them the best of success and we are with them to a man.

LaForge.

Central of Georgia Ry.

Savannah Division—

I note with regret no write-up appeared in June number of the journal.

Good many changes in the past month, but don't think will be able to show all correctly, as had to pick up the news as best I could. Unable to get notes from any of the "good hustling brothers," who promised to give me their assistance.

Bro. P. T. Jones goes from M. & A. Jct. to Meldrim, nights.

Bro. G. W. Clanton, from Meldrim days to Tybee depot, Savannah, agent. Bro. Clanton relieved by Bro. D. C. Newton, who was working nights.

Bro. J. H. Hamilton, who has been agent at Tybee depot for some time, left to accept a good position with the Panama Ry. Wish him much success.

Bro. Cregar, from Wadley days to "GO" Savannah nights, relieved by Mr. Pyron, agent "WA," account shortage of men, until new man assigned; understand Mr. Warren goes to "WA" days and Mr. Warren nights, Mr. Warren relieving Bro. Winburn, who goes to Tybee Island as agent. Haven't learned how the two new ones at "WA" stand; "13" they came from the S. A. L., and presume they are O. K.

Mr. A. L. Horton bid in Norristown agency, relieving Bro. L. J. Bankston, who goes to the S. A. L. Understand he has good position with that line.

Bro. J. H. Wright back to Egypt, relieving Bro. Bass, who is off taking a vacation.

Bro. Rogers, of Register, relieved by his brother while he attended the convention. He reports a pleasant trip and much learned by going.

Bro. Armstrong now working nights Dover; Bro. Myers gone to another road.

A man by the name of Mr. J. P. Byess, of Toombsboro, Ga., says he doesn't need the O. R. T. in his as he came from a road that is dead against the Order. This road was the "L. & N." Says he has no confidence whatever in the Order. If this is true, seems he would have stayed up there on the L. & N. There are only three roads a man who doesn't believe in the O. R. T. is needed on, viz., L. & N., Katy and Santa Fe. I would think he would enjoy being among men who are of the same opinion as himself. If he has no confidence in the Order, strange he should come down and accept all the advantages we have over the L. & N. I understand also he finishes up students for the telegraph school.

One more man needs mentioning. Mr. Youmans, who has been a member at two different times, now holds one of the good jobs that was raised. There is something very peculiar about him. I understand that he advises boys who finish up at telegraph schools to write for application blanks to join the O. R. T. Our Local Chairman got a letter from a young man located at his station, "Davisboro," asking for blanks, etc., said Mr. Youmans advised him to do it. Must be that Mr. Youmans is also finishing up the telegraph plugs. We do not want students in the Order; but men who can do good work, and will be some good. We are not drumming for students or professors, and any member will be particular and careful not to vouch for Mr. Youmans in the future. A man who will not live up to his obligation at one time will not do so at another.

Time has now arrived for the payment of dues for current term, so if you haven't got your new card you should remit your dues, which is $4.00, and also your special assessment (if you are one among the number that got a raise on our last schedule), as all who fail to pay this assessment will be unable to get a card.

Some "good" brothers did not pay this last year, and have not done so up to the present, notwithstanding the fact they were raised last year and this; but this year's assessment was handled differently, and the amount is charged to each member. So if you are made of the right kind of stuff, and show your colors, you will be among the first to show it with your card. I hope that none of the brothers will have to be put suspended for non-payment of this assessment.

This completes the bill for this time. Will give better write-up if some of you will help furnish the news.

CERT. 3.

S. W. Division—

Boys, remember that June thirtieth is most here, and of course know that day calls for a four. Pay-day will soon be here, so let's all get the new card and be along with the goods on our first meeting in July. Wonder what color it will be? Let's spend four dollars to see.

Mr. Maxwell, agent at Montezuma, has just returned from a big fishing trip.

Bro. English, nights on block at Powersville, worked for Sister Callen while she made a flying trip to Eaufala a few Sundays ago to see relatives.

The first thing we S. W. Division boys do after receiving the journal is to look for a write-up from the S. W. Division, and we are quite often disappointed. Each one seems to be waiting for the other to send in items. Now, boys, we must get busy on this line and see if we can't do better. Let our Division Correspondent, whoever he may be, have all the happenings so we can be represented in THE TELEGRAPHER every issue.

We, like all other division, have a few nons, but think they will soon repent. How can it be otherwise, after we have done so much to improve their conditions?

Bro. W. J. Jordan, night on block at Rutland, has resigned to go into other business; was relieved by Bro. Holland, nights from Ft. Valley. Wish Bro. Jordan much success in his new field.

Bro. Gay, nights at Oglethorpe, has resigned to accept a position with the A. B. & A. at Fitzgerald; was relieved by Bro. Keen.

Bro. Holland was relieved at Ft. Valley nights by Bro. Bowen, from the block days at Echaconnee.

COR.

Chattanooga Division—

The boys on the north end of the Chattanooga Division of the C. of Ga. Ry. met at I. O. O. F. Hall at Trion, Sunday, June 16th. Meeting presided over by General Chairman, G. C. Stephenson. Various matters were brought up and discussed with interest.

Brothers present: D. E. Brantley, J. C. Allen and J. D. Cochran, Chattanooga, Tenn.; G. C. Stephenson, Rossville, Ga.; W. O. Bolton and H. M. Baily, Chickamauga, Ga.; W. D. Stewart, LaFayette, Ga.; C. S. Hobbs, Trion, Ga.; L. P. Woods, Summerville, Ga.; Jeb, Martin, Raccoon, Ga.; A. C. Powell and M. H. Holmes, Lyerly, Ga.; E. J. Allee, Rome, Ga.

An unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the I. O. O. F. for their kindness for allowing us the use of their hall.

CERT. 75.

Kansas City Southern Ry.

North End—

The news on this part of the road is not very plentiful, but as we have to have a few lines each month, will try to mention what is going on around and about our good brothers.

We are about ready to make a stand for a new schedule and hope by next month we will be able to give definite information as to results. We are badly in need of improvements along this line, and we are determined to have them. Most all the brothers have come across with the assessment levied, and we are in strong hopes of our committee meeting with success while in Kansas City.

There are still a few nons who seem to be wearing smoked glasses. Better take them off and see, where you are wrong, and it will not be long until you will tell us to send you application papers for membership.

Am informed by a faithful brother that Bro. A. E. Pearson, Joplin nights, transferred back to Gravette nights. Relieved by G. W. Blaggett, whom we understand is in possession of the little card.

Lanagan has a new night man, Mr. Atchison, from the Mo. Pac., who we "13" also is all right.

Bro. Brown, day man at Neosho, we are advised, has quit us and is roaming Oklahoma Territory.

Bro. Wentz, at Sulphur Springs, is now up-to-date. "You can't keep a good fellow down."

Best of all, the eight-hour law is in effect and those in old Missouri are proud that they can be relieved from the key at the expiration of their trick and rest their weary nerves. A few more long steps like this all over the country and the telegraphers would be more able to perform their duties with ease and safety. Let the good work move onward.

While a great many of us at the one-man stations are not benefited quite so much, we can not expect it all at once, and rest assured that we will get betterments sooner or later.

We all no doubt have noticed recently where a great number of the roads are advertising for telegraphers. I wonder why? Still there are a few that can't see why it pays to get in line?

Don't be a non all your life. Get up and look around and see where you are.

Now, some of you fellows who have some time to spare, drop us a few lines of news for THE TELEGRAPHER next month, and let's make it better than it is this time. You all no doubt know a little news and it will help out a great deal if you will all drop a line. I have not heard but from just one brother this month, thus making the news rather slim. All help a little. CERT. 92.

Southern Pacific Ry. Lines in Oregon.

It is with much regret that I feel the necessity of calling the attention of the brothers of the lines in Oregon to the fact that they are not doing their part toward boosting things along as they should. We have not had a write-up for months, and although I should be the last one to attempt anything of this kind, I have come to the conclusion that someone should make a move to start the ball rolling and then perhaps some brother who is capable will take hold and give us a write-up that will be worthy of our division. Division 53 stands at the top of the ladder and the lines in Oregon are certainly well enough represented to warrant a good line-up in the official publication once a month, but we are seldom there. One would think that we were a set of nons who did not even know of the existence of the great O. R. T. so far as they could tell by reading the journal, while some road which probably has not over a third as many members as we have will be well represented every month.

I think we should be a little more sociable; get together once in a while and have a meeting. Other roads do so, why can't we? It is customary upon some roads to have regular monthly meetings, which are always well attended, and the boys become acquainted and get into the habit of all pulling together, and as they all have the same end in view it is needless to say what the result is when they make any kind of a move toward a betterment of their conditions. These meetings are also sanctioned by the superintendent, who is often present, and he always furnishes transportation to any of the boys who care to attend and can do so without interfering with their work. I would like to suggest that someone get busy and see if we can not call a meeting sometime in the near future, as I am satisfied we would have a good turn-out. Somebody take it up and see what can be done.

I am not very well posted upon the late changes, but will list a few:

Bro. Watson, of Woodburn, has left the telegraph department and accepted a position in the city ticket office at Portland with this company. Bro. Watson has ever been a hard worker for our cause, and it is with much regret we see him go, but as he has been given a chance to better himself we only too gladly congratulate him upon his future success, which we feel confident is already assured him. Bro. Spencer is holding down the day job at Woodburn until an assignment is made, the night job being filled by Bro. Stephenson, lately from the Can. Pac.

Bro. Michael, second trick man at Junction City, is preparing for a lay off.

Bro. Howard, first trick man at Junction City, was on the sick list the first part of the month.

Bro. McLardy is doing stunts on his old trick, third, at Albany.

Bro. Landers is holding down Oakland agency.

Bro. Wilcox has been assigned to agency at Drain.

Bro. Vickers agency at Hillsboro.

Bro. Jennings, formerly of this division, has been heard from on the Wabash in Indiana. He says, however, that he is soon going to make tracks for the land of the setting sun. Bob is an enthusiastic O. R. T. man, and we will be pleased to have him with us once more.

Agency Corvallas, Oakland, Medford and Dallas are among those open for bids on the last bulletin.

Bro. Friend, third trick man at Junction City, was called to Spokane with his family the early part of the month to attend the funeral of his wife's father, who was accidentally killed by an electric car at that place. "FD" returned to work about the 26th. Bros. Howard and Michael were compelled to double his trick during his absence account of no available man to relieve him.

Harry Morse is holding down Leland nights. Harry promises to make good soon.

Well, next month let some other brother give us a good write-up, and let us know what you think about having a meeting once in a while.

CERT. 1771.

B. & L. E. Ry.

I am still holding down the job of correspondent on this pike and am waiting patiently on some one to relieve me. In view of this fact I wish to announce there will probably be a vacancy in the position of correspondent for this division. Those who wish a chance at the job should file their applications with the Local Chairman at once, for when the position is officially bulletined there will be a big rush of applicants, but as there is no one who seems anxious for the job I will continue to hold it down until I am discharged. While my salary is not very large I am in need of money.

Things are moving along on the south end as usual, with a few more trains to handle, which are being handled to a better advantage on account of new double track that has been put into service at different points. Double track between Pittsburg Jct. and Hartnett; Odell is discontinued. Bro. McDowell transferred from Odell to new office at Hartnett.

Bro. Fitzmartin transferred from Odell nights to Pittsburg Jct. nights.

Lyndora closed and Bro. Whitford from there to second trick at Butler Tfr.

Bro. Campbell was off a few days on account of his wife being sick.

Bro. Knapp is off for a few days attending to business in Pittsburg and other places.

Bro. McClung and wife, of McBride, were in Butler doing shopping this week.

Bro. E. G. Resinger says he expects to move in the new office next week, which will be over new station at Center Ave.

Bro. A. C. Kiser was in to see Bro. "R" at Center Ave. on his way to East Pittsburg, over the south end.

From the report received from our General Committee and the view of most of the boys along the line, I think our committee did very well. Now, I see there are quite a few along the line who are enjoying the hard earnings of our committee and are not up-to-date.

I think if every brother would get after the nons and go and see them personally and talk with them, or if they can not do that, write them, there would be quite a number join our ranks.

I understand there is to be a new office opened at Houseville for the benefit of the pusher engines that cut out there.

Bro. L. V. Thayer, from the Erie, at Meharg nights, and Bro. Smith, off the C. T. W. A., moved from Meharg to Hartnett nights.

Mr. Pfabe, a new man at the business, is working at Frazier nights. Mr. Pfabe will join as soon as eligible.

Bro. DeShong has returned to his old stand at Blaks Run. Third trick at "XB," North Bessemer, was put on June 4th; new man by the name of Cochran working it.

Bro. Bowman, of Russellton, is off on a leave of absence; Mr. Brewer, of Dicksonburg, relieving him.

Office at Milltown closed and was moved to north end of Plun Creek Viaduct, with Bros. Brooks and Clendeing holding it down.

At "SE," south end of North Bessemer yard, we have Bro. S. A. Wildeman, from the B. & O., and he has transferred from Division 33 to 51.

Bro. J. C. Simmons and wife are visiting Mrs. Simmons' mother at Carter. Carter has been made a regular stop for trains No. 15 and 16.

Bro. P. J. Barrett, a new man, relieved Bro. R. R. Snyder while he spent a few days in Pittsburg.

Mr. J. H. Ray is speedily recovering from injuries received while attempting to alight from train No. 15 at Carter. Mr. Ray miscalculated the speed and was thrown to the ground. He was badly bruised and cut about the chest. It was feared at first that he was dangerously injured and the train was stopped and brought back and took him to Butler Hospital, where it was found that aside from several bruises and cuts he was not so seriously hurt. I understand Mr. Ray has quit the telegraph business and has gone home to assist his father with the farm work. Mr. I. S. Hall was transferred from "HX" tower to Lynces Jct., being relieved at "HX" tower by Mr. Kingdenan, old head in the telegraph service without a card.

Our last meeting at Greenville was not so well attended as usual. Even if it is getting a little warm and we have to work harder we should not stay away. There is the only place for us to go and tell our troubles and not be kicking about what our committee did after not attending a meeting in the whole year.

If some of the boys on the north end would take a little more interest in our meetings, I think it would be a great help. We get the most of our turn-out from the south end, where a man has almost got to walk to get any place. Although we have some good members on the north end who attend regularly, I trust that some of the boys on the north end will send me a few notes and not let the south end do it all. We would then be able to know what is going on along the whole road.

I will have to thank some of the brothers on the south end for notes received, and trust they will all come again; also others who can scare up news.

In response to a call from the General Chairman for a meeting in Dallas, about twenty-one members assembled in the Dallas Commercial Club Rooms, where a very interesting, and, we feel, a profitable meeting was held.

Bro. J. I. Donohue was taken through the initiatory ceremony and made a full-fledged member, which, by the way, is the first time Division 57 has ever conferred the degree, and Bro. Donahue has the honor to be the first candidate to be actually initiated by this division.

Quite a number of the commercial boys who carry O. R. T. cards were present, and took an active interest in the proceedings. We are glad to welcome any of them at all our meetings.

The question of arranging for regular stated meetings in Dallas was handled and it is quite likely that Division 57 will arrange for a hall, and within a short time regular meetings will be held. We believe this will be worth a great deal to the division for many reasons. Interest in the work will be kept up, we will be able to increase our membership, give visiting brothers a place where they can meet with the boys, reach out after the unorganized telegraphers of the city, and serve the good work in a hundred ways, which we can not do without meetings, and only very partially with called meetings.

The commercial brothers present seem anxious to bring about something of this kind, and promise us every assistance in making it a success. With their help we feel sure the move will prove highly successful, and build up a good local in Dallas.

Bro. Beene, of Ft. Worth, was doing some hustling to find a means of conveyance back to Ft. Worth. In explanation he said he missed the last train on his last visit and had his record charged with twenty "brownies" (by his wife). He does not care to have any more charged, as it is getting desperately near the limit.

Bros. Craig, of Calvert, and Ficklin, of Bremond, were in attendance, which displays considerable enthusiasm, considering the distance they had to come. A tribute is also due to the night man who is doubling in the places of those attending meetings. They have the hard time with none of the joys to compensate them for their hardships.

We hope the brother on the Ft. Worth branch will come through again with another of his interesting and newsy articles. The boys would appreciate another treat of that kind.

Bro. McKey, our G. S. & T., is spending a vacation, together with his wife in Mississippi. He expects to return in time to get to work under the eight-hour law.

Bro. VanWie, the genial Local Chairman of the north end, is in the Indian Territory with a party of friends fishing. Nothing but branch water and crude oil in that district.

Bro. Connor, of the dispatcher's office at Ennis, with his wife are spending a vacation visiting friends in Missouri. Jim says he hopes he has worked his last twelve-hour day.

Quite a number of the boys are figuring on a summer vacation, but extra men are scarce and the probabilities are that they will have to content themselves with more work and less play, although it may "make Jack a dull boy." It's an ill wind that blows no good, and if we fail to get a vacation we won't cry over the cause.

Faternally, W. J. BURKE.

Los Angeles Division—

We were too busy last month to send in a write-up, but our worthy Bro. Keyes came to the rescue, and to him the credit belongs for such a good showing.

Bro. Bert Curl, after an absence of several months, has returned to his regular position at River Station nights.

Bro. Badgley reports a fine trip and a good time at the Grand Convention, only disagreeable feature being the cold weather.

Bro. Chas. Plunkitt has left us, going to work in "BD," San Francisco office.

C. F. McReynolds, of Dolgeville, has requested application blanks be sent him, so he may become one of us once more.

Bro. Keyes, late of Cabazon, but now at Las Vegas, says that the eight-hour law helps some.

Several requests from the nons on the branches for application blanks lately. Bro. Roberts, of Santa Anna, doing the good work.

Bro. Shepard, of Salton, had the misfortune to be bitten by a "side-winder" recently, but at this writing is progressing nicely and expects to leave the hospital in a few days.

The members on this division were pained to hear of the sad death of Bro. J. R. Abbey, late of Puente, which occurred on the 17th ult., being directly due to blood poisoning caused by a scratch from his pet cat. His funeral was held from the undertaking parlors of John R. Paul and was attended by Bro. and Mrs. Steere, Mrs. Fitzpatrick, of Los Angeles, Bro. Frost, of Pasadena, Bro. and Mrs. C. H. Owens, of Puente, Bro. Martin, of Colton, and many friends from Puente. There were many beautiful floral offerings, among which was an O. R. T. pillow made by Mrs. Steere. His remains were laid at rest in Evergreen Cemetery. He was a staunch supporter of our Order and will be greatly missed.

Declez and Basset closed as night offices account no one to fill the positions.

Bro. Luckfield, late Local Chairman, has resigned and went to the Las Vegas & Tonopah Ry. Trust he will better his lot in making the change.

Bro. Purcell filling the agent's position at Indio at present, occasioned by Bro. Luckfield's resignation.

Bro. Valla, regular ticket agent at Redlands, but late Assistant Commercial Agent Riverside District, has been appointed city ticket agent at San Bernardino.

Bro. Steffa, of Pomona, indisposed at present account having a felon on his finger. Pretty tough to have to work in a place like Pomona and be thus handicapped.

Bro. Eaton, of Brawley, has been granted an assistant during the melon season, Bro. Gilmore, a recent arrival, doing the stunt.

Bro. Jim Keane, now absent on a trip to his mines in the north; Bro. Hawkins filling Jim's regular position at Downey at present. Some evil-disposed person sneaked into the office not long ago, while Fred was at lunch, and got away with fifty dollars.

All who have not sent in their necessary for dues for ensuing term will please get busy.

MULDOON.

Division 53 seems to be asleep or dead; we very seldom have a line from her. We were pleased to see Bro. Green's drawing as frontispiece in the June TELEGRAPHER. It was good work and he should come again.

Guess 53 is pretty well lined up; don't know of but one or two nons on the division, and hope to see them in by next month. Come on, boys, line up.

We haven't heard anything from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at San Francisco about our new schedule, but hope we will in the near future.

There have been a number of changes made among the boys, but you will all know what they were soon as the next bulletin appears.

Bro. Moffet, at Marcel, is the proud possessor of a young lynx, that he captured near the depot.

Don't forget to remit your dues this month.

CERT. 1318.

San Joaquin Division (Coast Line)—

A few changes seem to have taken place up to the time of this writing, namely, Bro. M. M. Cecil, day telegrapher "Q," Santa Barbara, is taking a vacation, his place filled by Bro. Glensort.

Bro. G. W. Northamer has returned to the coast again after a few weeks' stay on the hill, and is now working the day trick at "SB," Santa Barbara, relieving Bro. E. E. Clover.

Bro. Mithan, nights at Oxnard, has just been transferred to "SB" nights.

Bro. Baker has left the service for parts unknown. No further information can be given at this write-up. "73" to all.

CERT. 1868.

Wabash Ry.Peru Division—

We should all get busy and try to exceed the glorious past two years, which were hummers in our line of business.

Boiling it down to the Peru Division particularly, we have room for improvement in the matter of percentage in membership. Let every brother get busy with that non working either at his own office or the one adjoining him, and let's boost our membership nearer the 100 per cent mark. The committee will be going to St. Louis again for a new schedule before a great while and now is the time to prepare. Don't wait until you think the time is about up before going after them, but do it now.

To our friends, the nons, who we know watch developments as closely as we do, and who we know benefit by the organization the same as we, let me ask if you do not feel it is about time you were showing your appreciation by coming along? I say "appreciation" because we do not hear you kicking any just now, and compare this to a few years ago when there was lots of kicking and criticism, too, on the way the O. R. T., and especially the committee, was doing business. When the next revised schedule comes out, you will look through it as anxiously to see how you have fared as will the boys who are fighting your battles along with their own. Will you whine because it don't "dish out" a few extra for you, or will you ask yourself what you did towards helping secure anything? On the other hand, if it brings you an increase in pay along with other benefits, will you accept them and consider it was due you, like one (only one) that I was talking to shortly after our present schedule was completed? I had asked if he wouldn't feel, should he hear that his office had realized an increase in pay through the recent negotiations, that he should at least show his appreciation by taking out a card. He replied: "I'd have to see it first before I believe it." "All right," says I, "here it is, and here's the necessary blanks." "Well," he replied, "I'll not fill them out. The O. R. T. owes this to me anyway, because I had a card once for six months about fifteen years ago."

Now, I do not think you are like that. I do think some of you are a little negligent, however, for you are realizing benefits right now. Every one of us working to-day are, some more than others, but we all have realized by the organization. There will probably be greater changes than before in our next schedule. Several have been suggested. They will effect you, Mr. Non, and you ought to be in a position to have your "say" as well as to aid the rest of us in shaping these matters.

Exclusive agents who work at a railroad station whether ticket agent, freight agent or both, and regardless of whether they are telegraph operators, are now eligible to membership in the Order. This will give the brothers at stations where there are such agents a chance to line them up. They have now a chance to come along and be protected, something they have never heretofore had. This class of the service has been clamoring for admittance for some time on the old organized roads, as they have seen the necessity of getting into some organization and know that the old O. R. T. being well established can take care of them at once. This is what the O. R. T. will be doing for the exclusive agents right away on these older organized roads, as they are all ready to come in, and were only waiting for an amendment to the eligibility clause. Get after the exclusive agents on the Wabash as soon as enough of them are ready to be included in negotiations; we will fix them up, too.

It comes to our notice that certain nons, one on the Second District, two on the First and two on the Fifth Districts, are keeping students. All nons as well as members, understand the effect a flooded market will have on the price of a commodity. We all know there is no feeling of animosity toward the student. Under a competitive system we must protect ourselves and not flood the market with our particular line of goods. We do not like to mention names, and won't this time, but some one will be liable for a "bawlin' out," and we will come as close to mentioning names as Barney did when he called Pat down for cheating in a poker game between themselves and another Irishman. Barney knew that Pat (who only had one eye) had cheated and won the "jack pot" two or three times. He protested each time, saying he didn't want to mention any names, but that he knew who it was "chatin'." Pat cheated again and won the "jack pot," and Barney says: "I won't mention any name, but, be gorry, if he does it agin I'll knock out his other eye." Now, we should hate to come so near as that to mentioning names, so do not give us cause. We are trying to play a fair game with a "square deal" to all around the board, and it's no fair chatin'.

The latest returns from the Middle Division shows a landslide to the O. R. T. They have set us a strenuous pace over there, and in closing let me again urge that we all get busy and let Peru Division second the motion.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

June 18th, at New Haven, occurred the marriage of our good Bro. G. C. Delamarter to Miss Grace Miller, of New Haven. Bro. Delamarter, having secured a month's leave of absence, with his bride is visiting relatives in Michigan. They have the heartiest congratulations and best wishes of Peru Division.

Bro. Metz does the day trick at New Haven during the absence of "CF," with Bro. Barto nights.

Bro. Yuill off on account of sickness; relieved at Colburn by Bro. E. W. Patrick, of West Point nights. We hope Bro. Yuill will be back at work by the time this is before you.

Bro. Hinkle is now agent at Burrows, Bro. Doren having passed it up and is now filling the vacancy at Danville Junction nights, caused by the resignation of F. T. Miller, telegrapher. Etnire at Danville nights, E. E. Hagerty having also left the Banner.

Sister Baker, of Blakesley nights, off for a month; relieved by R. M. Kile, who, we understand, is just starting in the business.

Bro. Elvidge bid in Newell days, with G. F. Pickering nights. The vacancy at St. Joe nights, filled by Bro. Benjamin, formerly the agent at Danes.

On account of no one on the division wanting the job the West Lebanon agency is filled by Mr. Sweet, brother of H. S. Sweet, the right hand man in the chief's office. Unable to learn whether Mr. Cavanaugh will stay with the Wabash or not.

Bro. Sieple back at work at Jewell. Bro. De-mouth at West Peru nights at present.

Bro. Metsker is getting busy on the Fifth District and expects to have it solid in a short time.

Bro. Brey enjoyed a few days' vacation this month; relieved by the night man, Bro. Hetrick, with Mr. Dunwoody on nights. Div. Coa.

St. Louis Division—

June 14th, the dates set for the telegraphers' eight-hour law to go into effect, has passed and we are still working twelve hours. As far as we can learn there is no evidence that the company is making any effort to comply with the law, neither has anything been done by them in that line that would indicate that they were even interested and we are wondering how long this violation of the law will be permitted to continue. Our State legislatures, as a rule, are not hasty in adopting bills and passing laws in an experimental manner, and especially when introduced by and calculated to benefit laboring people, in which case it has often been a very difficult problem and required the strongest arguments, backed up by public agitation to secure the passage of a law. We have often heard it said that the law is no respecter of persons, which we take to mean that every one must obey it alike, and here is where we base our hopes that there will be no exception to it in this case.

Twelve hours a day every day in the year, Sundays and holidays included, is entirely too much. Men who handle trains and have the responsibility of many lives in their hands should have clear heads, and how can they have such with the continual drag and strain with no time for recreation. The public are now aware of this and they were equally as active in demanding the passage of this law as were the telegraphers themselves.

When the hour arrived on June 14th when the eight-hour law was to go into effect many of the men threatened to quit and in some instances, we understand, they did refuse to work beyond their eight hours. They had no intention of going on a strike or causing any trouble. Their idea was to obey the law. We believe the men were justified in their desire to obey the law. If the company saw fit to disregard it, that was no reason why we should. At the same time we advised all the men who talked of quitting after their eight hours were up that we thought it best to remain at work when we consider the injury that would be done to the commerce of the State, the traveling public and the U. S. mails by a walk out of the telegraphers. It is well understood that we are working the twelve hours under protest, with the penalty of being discharged if we vacate our positions without being relieved and we do not believe any court in the land would convict a man under such conditions. In our opinion it has now dwindled down to a question between the State and the railroads.

How does the $50 minimum look now to you boys since the 2-cent rate went into effect? Keep tab on your ticket sales for the next three months and see how much you are ahead. I imagine a majority of the jobs along here would be paying $35 and $40 were it not for the protection afforded by the schedule.

The Pacific Express Company is "getting awful good in their old days." Many of the boys are reporting that they are now being allowed some compensation for handling the received prepaid business. As you have been previously informed your committee took this matter up with the express company, and although they would not meet a committee they stated they would consider any complaints from the employees individually. Your committee then advised you to complain of this matter at once. Now, while the express company may be priding themselves in their ability to dodge a committee, that same committee is priding themselves in their ability to obtain results. In fact, it is results we are after, nothing else. Advise your local chairman as to what success you have in making your request for commission on this received prepaid business. It is necessary for him to know so he will be posted and in a position to talk intelligently should the matter come up again.

Ferguson is no longer an "open shop." Bro. Atterberry reports securing the applications of Messrs. Thomas and Beard, day and night men there. We are glad of this, as this office was one that was increased $5 per month, night and day, by the late revision. The presence of a non anywhere is repulsive enough, but when we see them planted in positions that have been elevated by the Order, it is a bitter pill.

Bro. T. Mahoney, a new arrival from Div. 31, and lately employed at Olyphant, Ark., is with us and working nights at O'Fallon, and Bro. W. H. Heimbach, of Div. 33, B. O. S. W., another new arrival, is located nights at Benton City. Hope they will stay with us.

The agency at Warrenton taken by Bro. W. Murphy, and Bro. Truby, of Rennick, secured the High Hill agency. There are still some two or three agencies to be filled. These have been bulletined.

In a letter received from Bro. A. Davis, dated at Alma, Kan., on C. R. I. & P., he states he is comfortably located there, enjoying an increase in pay and a good schedule. Bro. Davis, it will be remembered, resigned at Sturgeon some few months ago. We wish him continued success.

We had the honor of being appointed a delegate to the National Convention of the Grand Division recently held at Minneapolis, Minn. Wish it were possible to describe the magnitude of this affair and the enormous amount of business transacted. During the nine days the convention lasted there was not one idle moment and it looked as though night sessions would have to be taken in order to get through. Minneapolis has quite a reputation as a convention city and hotel men and merchants with whom we had opportunities to talk, stated that the telegraphers' convention was one of the largest, if not the largest, gatherings of the kind they ever had there.

While we were absent last month we requested one of the brothers to act as correspondent for us, as we believe representation in the journal has good effect and, like advertising, brings results. We believe we picked the right man, as he showed up with "good stuff," and lots of it. "Spitfire" should keep his pencil sharpened. He is liable to be called on again.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

NOTICE.

Decatur Division--

Bro. W. H. Harte, Jr., Bement, Ill., has been appointed to act as division correspondent during my absence. I trust you will assist him in this work by furnishing any news of interest pertaining to the Order, and, thanking you, I am,

Fraternally,

E. HENDRICKS,
Div. Cor.

Decatur Division--

Lest you should forget this will remind you that dues for six months from July 1st to December 31st, are now due and payable and the amount of $4.00 should be remitted to Bro. La Fever, Secretary and Treasurer, 3732 North Eleventh street, St. Louis, Mo.

Many join the Order and ever afterwards sit still trusting others will do all the work. But one of the most important phases of our work as an organization is the securing of good new members. No organizer can do as well or as much as the members who have formed an acquaintance or know almost every man in their respective localities. In this grand work all members can be of great assistance. And, not only can be but should be, as it is their duty, it is their business, in which they have an interest involved to the extent of an organization. It is a protection to man and common sense calls for a little effort aside from the paying of dues and assessments.

Self-preservation is the first law of nature, and a man that will not protect himself is almost criminal. Each member should and can secure new members, if only a little effort is used. Every member can take time and interest enough to speak of the advantages, value and worth of such fraternalism and protection as our Order offers.

Many have never given such matters a thought and a word is enough to arouse interest, which perhaps will lead to a good member.

Not that I wish to censure you, brothers, but it is well in peace to prepare for war, in health to get ready for certain death, in youth to lay up for old age and in the calm to prepare for the storm.

Members, arouse yourselves and get new additions, as thereby strength is gained and our cause duly respected and recognized.

A dissatisfied member can do more harm in the way of stifling enthusiasm than can a dozen satisfied members in building it up, but as fraternity is the outgrowth of Christian civilization the brotherhood of man is made possible by working in unionism to the satisfaction of every member.

Bro. Murray is holding a chair in St. Louis, "QM" office. He holds an up-to-date in the So. Pac. Division, but we prefer he transfer to No. 2.

The nons seem to have gone into their annual comatose state for the summer.

As this appears in print you will have the pleasure of extending the hand of fellowship to Mr. Joly, of East Decatur, as he is now a good brother with the proper credentials.

In Bro. Hefner we have one who is worthy of his position and his work as our local chairman is to be commended.

From all indications the Decatur Division will soon be solid with the exception of a very few.

Since returning from the convention Bro. Hefner has secured the following applications while going over the division: J. C. Smith, Taylorville; H. J. Schwarz, Staunton; L. D. Darner, extra list; Fred Humphreys, Worden; Clyde Allen, Poag; W. C. Rittenhouse, Edwardsville Junction; C. W. Cratz, "JO," Decatur; J. H. Custer, Raymond; A. Moore, Raymond; Miss Ada Morgan, Mt. Olive; R. F. Willison, Sangamon; H. O. Folrath, Cerre Gordo; A. B. Wingate, Cerre Gordo; F. E. Keller, Sadorus; F. Kurtz, Sidney; E. C. Woodruff, Sidney; J. E. Miles, Fairmount; E. S. Puckett, Morrisonville; C. Whitmer, Morrisonville.

Bro. Hefner also secured the promise of the following exclusive agents, including Messrs. Custer, of Raymond, and Schwarz, of Staunton, who have filed applications: E. E. Logan, Mement; Robert Leslie, Iolono; W. D. Powers, Homer; a Mr. Moore, of Sidney, and H. Folrath, of Monticello.

Night man at Blue Ridge signifies his willingness to affiliate with us.

We may now extend the O. R. T. greetings to Mr. Meglitch, of Boody. He is now a brother in good standing.

Let every one take notice of the above list of new members and if there is any life to him he will feel like shouting for joy, and why should he not?

We are sorry to inform that Bro. Guy McNabrey, formerly of Gibson, resigned.

By the resignation of Bro. McNabrey the Wabash loses a good telegrapher and the division a good, staunch brother. We trust our brother meets with success in his new field and that he will still retain his membership.

Mrs. Greuell resumed her position at Granite City. Telegrapher Darner, now brother, transferred to Edwardsville Junction nights, relieving Bro. Rittenhouse, of the night shift, who in turn was relieving Bro. Laws days.

Bro. A. Murray, of Sp. No. 53, who has been extra in "GM," St. Louis office, relieved on account of regular man resuming duty, has taken his departure for the East.

A disastrous explosion occurred at Reddick. Three were killed and the tower demolished and Bro. (?) Johnston was thrown a distance of several hundred feet, but escaped serious injury.

East Decatur days and night positions and Sullivan agency up on bulletin.

John Poff, of East Decatur days, bid in Gibson nights.

Bro. Lichtenberger, days at Forrest, enjoyed a well-earned vacation. Unable to say who acted as relief.

Bros. Hefflin and Aultz, Essex and Horse Creek, were also Chicago visitors last week.

Bro. Hallihan, Wing nights, taking a trip on No. 50 the other day, must have been out for a time.

Can't say as to Mr. Browning, nights at Brisbane, being up to date.

Bros. Adams and Singleton, Symerton, were Manhattan visitors one day last week.

There must have been a high old time May 18th. I noticed several of our brothers on No. 50 headed for Chicago. Bros. Nelson, Henry and Nolchel, Manhattan, were sightseeing in Chicago one day last week.

Bro. Lynch, from the Rock Island, doing stunt at Manhattan nights.

Bro. Logedon transferred from Manhattan to Campus; relieved by Bro. Lynch.

Bro. M. C. Johnson, Brooklyn nights, advises Mr. Debele, regular day man at Brooklyn, who is in Decatur Hospital, underwent three surgical operations and is recovering slowly.

Again I ask of you to watch your wires more closely and avoid wire trouble.

Mr. Johnson, formerly agent at Brisbane, has accepted a position as manager of the Western Union pole yard at that point. He was relieved at Brisbane by the agent from Blue Ridge, Mr. Lea Filbey.

Mr. C. M. Vance, assistant agent at Chicago Ridge, has been offered a position as regular agent. It is uncertain at this writing whether he will accept or not.

Bro. Clyde Allen, recently of Phila. is doing the stunt at Poag nights.

Bro. Dorner appears to be acting the role of relief man, but upon being relieved at Edwardsville Junction took a short vacation, visiting home folks at Palmer.

Now for a solid division. Make an effort to land the non if he is working for the Wabash. It means get "25."

Wonder when the Wabash members will hold another division meeting.

Bro. W. E. Aultz, East Decatur nights, from Horse Creek, vice Poff.

Bro. J. E. Dickey, nights at Cerre Gordo, called to the southern part of the State by the death of his father.

B. B. Harks, from Rock Island, working nights at Hower for the present and is in good standing.

Norfolk District—

It has been a long time since the boys have seen anything in THE TELEGRAPHER from the Norfolk District of the A. C. L., but we are still here and am glad to say that we are not very far from being solid and this is something to be proud of, too, but there are still a few nons left. Get after them, boys, and let's make it so hot for them that they will have to make a move in some direction. We want to be solid.

How about the eight-hour law in North Carolina? I understand that Bro. Williams, our General Secretary and Treasurer, will go to Raleigh on the 21st of this month and will take two men with him to attend the hearing with the corporation commissioners. The Southern and S. A. L. boys will also be represented there. There will necessarily be some expense to this and let each man remit accordingly without delay when called upon by Bro. Williams.

There were only five members from the Norfolk District at the meeting on the 8th. I, for one, did not go and feel rather ashamed of it. We do not take enough interest in our meetings. At the next meeting let's try and have a better attendance from the Norfolk District. Where there are two men one of them could go, I should think, from each station. Do not put it off saying, "Well, I will go next time," but get out and go right then. And another thing, we do not take enough interest in our journal. Boys, this should not be the case. We should be represented in the journal every month. What do the rest of our brothers think about appointing a correspondent? Why not do this at once? I would be very glad to see items in the journal regularly from the Norfolk District. Let's hear from some other of the brothers on this subject.

Best wishes to all. I hope to see something written by some other brother in the next issue.

CERT. 814.

Mr. A. D. Perkins, chief at Florence, S. C., took a flying trip over to Baltimore to attend Dispatchers' Convention, returning via Jamestown. He gained about ten pounds in weight while away.

Mr. R. J. Severance, second trick, acted chief during Mr. Perkins absence. Bro. Heard is very much in love with night copist. Shipman, from Florence yard, is working in "FN" during vacation and is about to be converted.

Bro. C. R. Craig, at Elliott, will soon be transferred to Tatum, S. C., a thriving little town just north of Bennettsville. No one yet appointed to succeed him at Elliott. It lies between Bro. Thames, now at Tatum, Hyatt, agent at Lucknow, and relief agent Mooneyhan. Mr. Mooneyhan used to be an up-to-date man. Hope he is still in possession of a current card. We have not as yet been able to convert Mr. Hyatt, Mr. Woodard and Mr. Parker, on this district. We are still after them, though, and hope they will soon come over the line.

I notice some of the boys north of Darlington do not answer their calls as promptly as they should. This is something the officials bring up before our committees when they are trying to get more for us, and it behooves us to watch wires closely, giving the best possible service at all times.

Mr. R. R. Smith, formerly of Rock Hill, S. C., is now at Cheraw doing wire work. He has asked for application blanks, which have been furnished by Assistant Local Chairman Catoe. We hope he will not do like some others on the district have done, get a dozen sets and lay them aside with an excuse for delaying matters.

Bro. E. D. Sumner, clerk at Bennettsville, left a few days ago for the Exposition and other points of interest for a short vacation.

This is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party and let their money for the next six months go into the treasury. This is a matter that should not be allowed to get behind, because the Order gives us a good limit in which to pay up. We should not try to take advantage, but get it in on time, or before time, which will result in getting new cards promptly, and keep us in good shape with the Order.

Next month we want to arrange an article dealing with the nine-hour law, $75 minimum, government ownership and other matters of general interest.

CERT. 248.

Savannah District—

Bro. J. D. Simpson, of "DE" office, Savannah, is home, quite indisposed. Have not learned the nature of his illness, but hope he will soon be able to resume duty.

The sympathy of all the brothers is extended to Bro. Walter Britt, who, we understand, has just returned from attending the last illness and death of his sister Mrs. I. U. Martin of Soperlin.

Chief Dispatcher J. W. Daniels has just returned from Camden, S. C., where he attended the wedding of an intimate friend. We did not learn the names of the fortunate couple, but extend congratulations.

Mr. O. R. Hull has been doing the owl act at Savannah Junction for several days, and reports himself "de-lighted" with the cool and pleasant evenings.

Some of our dispatchers are sporting an elegant high-speed automobile of the latest design. We hope they also wear the "little button" on the lapel, and thus complete an up-to-date appearance.

We understand a Mr. Miller, who was holding down Race Pond, closed up the shop and left for parts unknown. The vacancy was recently bulletined.

Folkston continues solid and up to date, with Bro. J. D. Bennett holding down day trick, Bro. Hatchel doing the owl stunt, and Bro. Page working the agency.

Night telegrapher, Mr. League, of Bologn, Fla., has sent in the cash along with his papers for one of our latest beauties.

A Mr. Leich and a Mr. Renfrow, working Hilliards days and night, respectively.

Bro. J. A. Daughtry, of Dyal days, was called to Oglethorpe recently by the illness of his sister, but we note has returned to work at this writing and we hope the trouble that called him away did not result seriously. A Mr. Currie work Dyal nights.

Day office at Ratliff closed for the present, and a Mr. Edwards doing the owl act, Bros. Pixley and Taylor leaving for points unknown. We are sorry to lose two up-to-date men, but wish them success wherever they may land.

Bros. Strickler and Pruiett are holding down the Dinmore job.

Bro. Porter, our local chairman, seems to be playing in hard luck with Mr. J. O. Tillery and Mr. John Davis, of Blackshear. These two gentlemen should be with us, but no one seems to be able to get any action from them, although both recognize the benefits of organization and are with us in sympathy. However, we hope they will be able to unite with us in the near future, as they are both good men and we need them in the ranks.

Bro. D. R. Warren, of Ludowici, has left the service for a better position with the Central of Georgia.

We are glad to note Bro. A. L. Howard has resumed duty at his old stand, Ludowici days, after a long and serious illness. We sincerely hope his ill-luck is over for all time.

Bro. L. M. Branch is doing the night stunt at Ludowici.

Bro. B. W. Harris, of Screven, has resigned his position at that point to accept one with the A. B. & A. as manager of their day office at Douglas, Ga. We wish him good luck in his new position. This is the position that was offered Bro. A. L. Howard, whose illness prevented his accepting it.

Bro. C. C. Easterlin, who relieved Bro. Ila Smith, at Offerman, was too light for the levers at that point and was transferred to Fleming nights, being relieved by a Mr. Marshall, who we are glad to say will send in his papers next pay day.

Bro. S. L. Thompson, formerly agent at Offerman, has been transferred to the Thalman agency for the S. A. L., from Douglas. Bro. Thompson says he is fixed now and will line up the Seaboard boys for us. Good luck and much prosperity.

Bro. N. F. Frizelle, Jr., has been transferred from "DA," Dale days, to yard office, "Q," Savannah, nights.

And last, but not least, we have quite a number of new brothers to add to our rolls this month. Bros. R. B. Sassels and Lew Manning, of McIntosh; E. F. Hull, Offerman; C. G. Hunter, Bristol, Ga.; J. A. Deloach, Broadhurst and two or three others whose names I have not been able to learn in time for this writing. We extend the welcome hand and hope they may enjoy a long and prosperous O. R. T. life.

CRACKER JOX.

IN MEMORIAM.

Bro. J. C. Dove, for many years agent for the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad at Doves, S. C., Darlington District, who resigned his position last December to retire from active business and pass his remaining years in quiet and rest, died at his home at Sumter, S. C., on April 1st last.

He had moved his family to that point, it being their old home. He suffered none at all, expiring very suddenly a short time after dinner while sitting in his chair reading. Bro. Dove was a good, Christian man, handling his business in that quiet, gentlemanly and dignified way, so noticeable in contrast with that of some of the younger generation. The writer has known him for a number of years, and when studying telegraphy received many a timely hint and bit of advice from him, which was worth remembering in after years. He was a man, well liked by all who knew him and greatly respected by all. The Order of Railroad Telegraphers feel that in his death they have sustained a severe loss and that his sudden passing away is a deep blow to all.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom, to call to his last home our Bro. J. S. Dove; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Div. No. 132, of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, extend to his bereaved wife and family our sincere sympathy in their great sorrow; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on the records of this division, published in the official organ of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

General Secretary,

Indianapolis Southern Ry.

Only a few of the boys attended the meeting at Linton Sunday, June 2, account of connections such that the brothers from the south end could not be present. Though small, it was one of the most enthusiastic meetings I have ever attended, and the absent brothers had the best wishes of all present.

The meeting was presided over by Bro. Draper, who went over the schedule with those present to make everything clear. Other matters were discussed, including the matter of future meetings, attitude toward non-members, etc. Every one present showed great interest in the welfare of the Order, one of the best signs of future strength and progress.

Bro. Draper gave us the welcome information that he would attempt to arrange for another meeting soon and so arrange it that all who can possibly get away can be present. Brothers, don't fail to come. Not one of those who were present at Linton but said he had greatly enjoyed it, and if all who can will attend we will soon have things on the Indianapolis Southern booming.

Before closing the meeting, Bro. James moved for a vote of thanks to be given to our worthy Local Chairman, Bro. Draper. Unanimous response received, but even this is but little in return for the great service Bro. Draper has rendered us, and it is to be hoped that the appreciation shown him at the meeting is general over the division. Bro. Draper has shown the greatest perseverance and most faithful interest in our welfare. As he himself said, it is no snap to work up a schedule, but through his untiring efforts we have secured the best on the Illinois Central lines. Let us then each and all give him our deepest thanks for his work in our interest.

Arrangements were made for the writer to act as Division Correspondent, and if the brothers will mail their notes to me (A. H. Turney, operator, Bloomington, Ind.), I will do the best in my power.

Whatever is done don't lose interest; look after the non and endeavor to lead him into the path of rectitude.

The following notes have been received:

Present at the meeting: I. S. Draper, Local Chairman and President of meeting; E. H. James, F. B. Fox, E. L. Smith, A. L. Young, H. N. Wentz, B. M. Short, A. A. Howard, S. L. Scott, visiting Bro. J. M. Bradon, Chicago Division 91.

Bro. H. N. Wentz, formerly of Edwards, is now regular agent Morgantown.

Bro. Wentz succeeded at Edwards by Bro. A. L. Young, of Anita.

N. H. Bennett, formerly Palestine nights, is working Morgantown nights.

Bros. F. C. Wentworth and J. A. Milan, of Anita, took a business trip to Indianapolis Tuesday night. Bro. Wentworth is thinking of leaving the service for wireless work for Uncle Sam.

Div. Cor.

D. & R. G. Ry.First Division—

Since our last schedule went into effect on February 1st everybody seems to have suddenly woke up again, and all are getting into the game with a vim that is indeed good to see. Our worthy and efficient General Secretary and Treasurer, Bro. Aiken, at Parkdale, is surely a very busy man, and its keeping him hustling to make the transfers that come in and attend to the other work connected with the membership, from whom he is getting such loyal and able assistance as to make his work a pleasure as well as a profit to the membership on this system. Keep it up. By this kind of action can we only hope to gain for ourselves further advantages and privileges, for which we have been looking forward so many years.

Our present schedule is indeed a good one, and let us not lose one single thing which has been granted us in it by inactivity of the smallest nature. Remember, if we do not insist upon its being lived up to to the letter, we can not expect those who have practically no interest in seeing it so handled make any effort in that direction, and a word to the wise should be more than sufficient in this respect. Eternal vigilance and an active interest as is now being shown by our members is what brings the results we wish for.

We have a good set of men on our General Committee, who will do all in their power to better our conditions, but we must not look to them to accomplish all we expect, unless we give to them our most hearty and never-ending support in every move that they may undertake. Be a willing and a most constant worker yourself and you will be astonished at the benefits that will in this manner come to us. Don't sit back and wait for the other fellow to make a good move; get ahead and keep in the lead. When a new man shows up get a line on him before he has a chance to get his chair warmed the first day he works, and if he be a non treat him with courtesy and consideration and endeavor to get an application, but its indeed a rare thing for a non to come to us, they all seem to be made of the proper material when they arrive, and all is required from them is an application for transfer to 49.

Wonder what our committee is going to do with the express business. This is something that must be adjusted before the snow flies, and I would like to suggest that each and every member, whether he be an agent for the express company or located at a non-agency or as a night telegrapher where he handles it gratis or never handles it at all, will at once write to our G. S. & T. and outline in your communications some ideas or suggestions as to the manner your committee should proceed in order to improve the situation as regards the express business.

The Western Union commissions must also be taken up with the proper authorities. We want this also and we are going to get it if the matter is pushed in the manner it should be. Our neighboring brothers on the Union Pacific, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific are getting ten per cent on commercial business, and even on the Santa Fe this has been granted for a considerable time. What earthly reason can be given for not granting us the same concessions? It's up to us to stir things up and get what's coming to us. It will certainly never be handed us on a silver platter.

A good many changes are taking place on this division. Telegraphers can scarcely be criticised for desiring to get away from those luxurious box-car jobs on the south end, where a man gets fresh water once a week. However, this is an evil that our general officials are endeavoring to remedy, or so it was stated to our General Committee, and it's indeed time something was done to make the living and working quarters on the Third and Fourth Districts more desirable and better than they are at present. A few are fairly well provided for, but the quarters that are provided at San Carlos, Baines and places of a similar nature are not very apt to create in the minds of newly employed men a great desire to remain with us, and yet some people wonder why the men don't stay. Things look different from the windows of an office furnished with quartered oak tables and chairs and the floor covered with fine carpets than they would if one was housed in a box-car that was provided with a roof that compelled you to stoop over every time you stood up or else run the risk of fracturing your skull on the cross-pieces in the roof. However, we have been promised this would all be remedied and anticipation is half the pleasure we get out of this life anyway, so we are anticipating with much pleasure the doing away with box-cars for offices and living quarters.

Bro. Stout, at Burnham, having a hard time to keep from being sick. We hope he will pull through. "SX" says that five-dollar raise is good for a trip to Elitch's Gardens twice a month this summer.

Bro. Richards, at Ft. Logan, just back from a well-earned vacation, being relieved by Bro. C. M. Bowen, from LaVeta nights, which position he was obliged to give up on account of being unable to stand night work. Hope Bro. Bowen will improve rapidly and be able to return to his old position.

Billy Cuthbert drew his old job at Littleton days, when it was re-opened.

Bro. L. Sutton, from Sedalia, going to Toluca as agent. Sut. says that ten-dollar raise there made things look different.

Bro. J. E. Bobbitt drew Sedalia agency and will now work while the sun shines and sleep nights without drawing any pay for it.

Castle Rock depot had much-needed improvements made. The brothers at that point can now see them coming from both directions without going outside. Oh, yes, almost forgot Bro. Rosenbaum, of Castle Rock, is off for thirty days, taking his wedding trip, having been wedded to one of Castle Rock's most popular and lovable young ladies, the first week in June. We wish them continued happiness and prosperity through life.

Sister Murphy, at Larkspur, getting most too much of our continuous overtime. You should ask for a night man, sister; don't be bashful; it's a well-known fact one should be at that station. Sixteen hours a day is too much to ask of a telegrapher, especially when it's a regular thing.

Bro. Honnold, at Husted, is taking a long leave of absence and visiting in the East, being relieved by Bro. Hoffman, from Pikeview nights, he in turn being relieved by Bro. D. E. Webb, who was with us a while last year.

Bro. Gordon, at Colorado Springs days, off a few days this month resting up and getting in line for the tourist rush this summer, being relieved by Bro. McGowan.

Bro. Morris, at Keiker nights, off on account of sickness in his family; trust he will soon be able to resume duty.

We find Bro. Ewing, our Local Chairman, back at his old job in "SB," Pueblo. He seems to have been very much impressed with the beauty of the Twin Cities, and reports a very enjoyable trip to the convention.

Bro. F. H. Melcher, from Portland nights, drew Salt Creek nights and has been transferred to that position. Says it's certainly better than making expense bills and taking care of the signal lights at Portland. Something should be done to relieve the night telegrapher at Portland from the duty of taking care of eight signal lights, especially when there is a section gang at that point.

Bro. Wm. Edson and Bro. Huffmaster are getting much good information in the matter of dry farming at Larimer, where the Seva Co. are farming on a large scale.

Bro. Jones, at Cuchara, attending court at Walsens this week, being relieved by Bro. Butler, with Apache closed to enable Bro. Jenkins to do the night stunt at Cuchara. Here's a job that certainly should be a three-man job at all times.

Bro. F. R. Brown, at Barnes, is wearing a smile. He's to have the Apihapa depot in place of his palatial box-cars.

Bro. Chas. Merrow, at Goonight, off a couple days this month account of the death of one of his friends.

Bro. Laizure, at Portland as agent, has at last succeeded in getting the much-needed help for that station.

Bro. Marquis, from Florence, accompanied by Bros. Ewing and Aiken, caught most of the fish in the Cottonwood last Sunday. Our old standby, Bro. Allen, piloted them to the best places.

Bro. A. H. Copley, agent at Howard, is taking a much-needed lay-off, being relieved by Bro. J. M. Robinson.

Bro. H. E. Happy, at Cleora nights, went to Pueblo to meet his family last week. Trust he is going to be a fixture with us.

This is our first effort in many years at a write-up, but Bro. Aiken is getting us all stirred up. Keep the ball rolling and we will reap untold benefits. Always bear in mind our schedule was given us by our general officers and that they expect it to be observed, not only by us, but in return they look for better interest to be displayed by the men. See that you do your part. Our chief dispatcher, Mr. L. P. Houseman, is one in whom we all have a friend if we will but do as we should.

CERT. 106.

First Division, Third and Fourth Districts, South End—

Well, boys, here is where I get busy for a few minutes and give you a few items from the good old "49." I haven't seen anything in the journal from the south end for about two months and this all charged to me, but it was not my fault. If it were not for our Assistant Secretary, Bro. F. R. Brown, and Bro. Fridy, at Graneros, I don't think it would be possible for me to get anything out for our division. I have written to most all of the boys along the line and they positively ignore my letters.

We have no room to kick about the way things are going, as we have only one non on the south end, or perhaps two, and if nothing happens Bro. Brown will soon have them, or at least one of them; the other one is going to be rather hard to land.

Bro. C. A. Wright, of "Old Rouse," is the proud possessor of 35 O. R. T. cards. How is that for being an old-timer?

We are all glad to hear that P. D. Leonard, the "old-timer" at Chicosa Jct., has sent in his money and will soon be a full-fledged member. Let the good work go on; every little bit helps.

Bro. E. T. Sparks, now at San Carlos nights, drew that place on the recent bulletin.

Bro. J. V. Earhart, who captured the night job at Verde, is still there and is doing the "batching" act to a queen's taste.

Bro. Domka went from Salt Creek to Portland days; he was relieved by Bro. C. J. Pinkston, who worked few weeks there. He has now resigned and gone to Trinidad to accept a position with the C. & S. A. Mr. J. M. Lowery is working there now.

Larimer has had several new men lately, some of them were only there two or three nights each, and one man only stayed there about twenty minutes when our worthy chief took him away and sent him some place on the west end. On May 27th Bro. J. V. Huffmaster showed up there to work as night man. He is still there.

Bro. C. L. Helber is at Huerfano nights, which job he drew on bulletin; he also is his own house-keeper.

Bro. A. K. Wood is back to his old stamping grounds at Apache; he was away on a hunting and fishing trip for thirty days.

Bro. C. M. Bowen, of LaVeta, was in the hospital at Salida for a short time, but when the job as agent at Ft. Logan showed up he was able to go and take it for a while; hope to see him back on the south end again soon. Bro. W. V. Hendricks relieved him and has been there ever since.

Cole, who was agent at Trinidad so long, resigned to go in business for himself, I "13." He was relieved by Mr. Geo. M. Forrester. Mr. Forrester is a fine fellow, and we hope to hear of his application being filed soon.

I will now cut out and go to dinner. Hope to hear from some one else next month.

BILL.

Vandalia Ry.

St. Louis Division, East Subdivision—

We heard a fellow say the other day: "What's the use of you boys putting your money into the O. R. T.? You'll never get anything out of it—just throwing your money away." Here is what a friend of the writer, who works on a neighboring road, says: "This was a $50 job, but since our new schedule came into effect it pays $55, and we get an hour for dinner or if the dispatcher is unable to let us go between 11:30 and 1 o'clock, we send in our time for 25 cents, besides thirty minutes out to eat as soon as possible. I can bank on my 25 cents every day here, which makes my job pay $62.50, or I figure that the O. R. T. increases my salary $150 per year." Does it pay to stay with the boys? It doesn't take most of the boys long to decide whether it pays or not.

July 1st our semi-annual dues were payable and we hope that every one of the boys squared up promptly, for to carry an up-to-date card is nearly as essential as to carry a card at all; so then let each member, who has not already done so, send in dues at once. When these dues are paid, if your insurance is paid six months in advance (and we think it a good plan to pay your insurance six months at a time), there will be no more expenses until next January 1st.

We think it an excellent idea for each brother who has a friend or personal acquaintance along the line, who is a non, to write him a personal letter and do all he can to line him up. A word from you would influence him more, perhaps, than anything anyone else could say or do. If any brothers work in an office with a non, do all you can to convince him that the best thing he can ever do for himself and the rest of the boys is to get a card. Keep these things in mind, boys, and speak a good word for the O. R. T. every chance you get, for these things count more, perhaps, than you think. The old saying is indeed true, "Every little bit helps."

Bro. C. Herbert Johnson, days "RS," Reelsville, was in Indianapolis one day this month. Mr. H. S. Miller, extra telegrapher, relieved him. We are glad to hear that Mr. Miller is going to get a card soon.

Harmony tower has been moved about 400 yards east, placing it at the end of the new double track, which is being used as a freight running track until in condition for fast speed.

Bro. Smoky Wilson, "BR," Brazil nights, was on the wreck car the other day going east.

Mr. J. S. Jones, agent at "C," Clayton, was off duty a couple of weeks this month. Bro. J. W. Roach, "GB," Gibson days, run business at the station like an old head during his absence. Mr. M. L. Tobin, extra telegrapher, relieved Bro. Roach at the tower. We were unable to learn whether Mr. Tobin carried a card.

Bro. Pat Sebree, "BR," Brazil days, is sporting a new Mecograph transmitting machine, with which he is cutting a great dash lately.

Bro. C. R. Shortridge, "CO," Coatesville days, was off duty one day, being relieved by Mr. J. Stewart. We are unable to find out whether Mr. Stewart has a card.

Bro. L. M. Callecod, formerly a Vandalia man, but now regular nights at Markle, Ind., on the Big Four, was visiting some of the boys along the line the other day. He reports the O. R. T. in fine shape over there. We are glad to see Bro. Callecod getting along so well since leaving the Vandalia.

We noticed Bro. Watt's smiling face on No. 33 the other evening, headed for some point west.

Bro. A. L. Challis, "HN," Harmony days, is visiting his people in St. Louis. Mr. J. T. Colburn, night owl at that place, has condescended to take the day trick in the absence of Bro. Challis.

Bro. H. C. Barnes, "J," Limesdale days, has accepted "KR," Terre Haute nights. Bro. J. H.

Harrold has accepted the day position at "J." This change puts Bro. Harrold right at home, if what we hear is correct.

Bro. O. M. Snyder, "EY," Terre Haute days, was off duty a few days. His night man, Bro. Geo. Challis, relieved him, Bro. O. Hixon, "SV," Seelyville nights, taking the owl trick in Bro. Challis' place at "EY," and Mr. C. Kipler, extra telegrapher, relieving Bro. Hixon at "SV."

Our chief Dispatcher, Mr. E. A. Hallinin, was on No. 24 the other evening waving at the boys along the line from the rear platform.

Bro. J. L. Grogan, "J," Limesdale nights, was in Indianapolis Memorial Day getting acquainted with "Teddy."

Bro. Chas. Wilson, "WA," Watson nights, was off duty a couple of weeks moving his household goods to Brazil, where he will live. He was relieved by Bro. G. T. Beaver and Mr. H. S. Miller, extra telegraphers.

Bro. Francis, "HB," Hobbs nights, was off duty one night; Extra Telegrapher Miller relieved him.

Bro. C. C. Chesterson has accepted the night position at "SU," Summit. Bro. J. H. Harrold, who was regular night man at this tower, going to "J," Limesdale days.

Bro. H. E. Stephens, "SA," St. Elmo days, visited with friends in Harmony a couple of days.

Bro. H. C. Barnes, "J," Limesdale days, was on the sick list a few days this month. Bro. Grogan, the owl at that tower, taking the day trick and Bro. C. C. Chesterson doing the owl act in Bro. Grogan's place.

We hear that Bro. R. O. Farthing has quit the road. Have not heard where he went, but suppose he was offered something better than the Van could give him. We are sorry to lose him.

Mr. D. T. Presnal, agent "MO," Harmony, was on the sick list a couple of weeks. Extra agent, Mr. O. C. Morgan, relieved him.

Mr. J. S. Jones, agent "C," Clayton, was off duty one day, having been called to court. Mr. J. Stewart, extra man, relieved him.

Mr. M. W. Bruner, agent "AU," Staunton, was off duty a couple of days on account of the death of his brother; relieved by Extra Agent C. O. Morgan.

Mr. J. F. Hallinin, "SO," Terre Haute nights, but who has been relieving Bro. R. O. Farthing at "DS," Terre Haute days, was off duty a couple of weeks, being relieved by Bro. W. L. Shickle, regular "K," Terre Haute days.

New electrical block signals have been installed at Reelsville. These signals, which are automatically operated by electricity, have been placed at points about 1500 yards distant each way from the tower and stand at caution at all times except when a clear signal is displayed at the tower and the section of track between these signals is clear; otherwise, a clear signal at the tower would not affect the position of these signals. This has always been a dangerous piece of track and it is hoped that this additional precaution will entirely do away with future accidents at this point.

REGULAR COR.

It is "due" time you were paying your dues. The majority of the members are paying promptly and I would like to see the others get in line.

We have not had many items in THE TELEGRAPHER from our division, as circumstances would not permit. We are now on solid footing and we would like to have all the news you can send in.

We tried to get permission to hold meetings along the line at different intervals, but under the present circumstances it was not thought advisable, although we expect to do this in the near future.

Bro. Ellis has finished his good work on the Michigan Division with results very gratifying to the Order and swelling our membership roll until I used all the ink I had reporting new members. Hope all received cards promptly.

Ballots for nomination of local chairman have been sent out and as only one has been nominated (Bro. T. W. Howes, of Cutler, Ind.), the prospects of his being elected are favorable.

Bro. Ellis is now on the Peoria Division and from his first report looks like things are coming his way, and ours, too. Better report from this division next month.

"13" the boys on E. & T. H. have money in their pockets, waiting for some one to come along and explain the Order to them and take their money and applications. "13" the boys on the G. R. & I. are in the same boat. All out of gratitude for the nine-hour law.

Last, but not least, send in your items to your local secretary so he can get them together and forward them to Bro. Quick by the 25th of each month, then they will come out all under the same heading. I noticed we had items in two different places last month (May) under two different headings.
Div. Cor.

Chicago, Indiana & Southern Ry.

Well, have you paid your dues for the new term? On this date, June 15th, an astonishingly large number have already remitted, and if the rest would do likewise, the Secretary would not have to work as hard as usual, getting out circulars to delinquents. Have you returned your information blank to your Local Chairman, as requested in my circular?

We expect to do business in July and don't want to have to hang back on any account, such as not having any information as to what we want at various stations.

J. W. Driscoll, having found South Bend too large a place, has gone to Kankakee to rusticate with Bro. Wright.

Am sorry to hear McNabb has lost its night man, but we can see by that what straits the company are in for men. It is no idle word to say that every man on the C., I. & S. could quit tomorrow and better himself on some scheduled road the next day. In fact, if things keep on the way they are going, we can expect the larger roads to pay a premium to a telegrapher if he will agree to work for them. The Southern Pacific wants a man to guarantee to work for them at least three or six months before they will give him transportation. They find there are so many openings for good telegraphers it is hard to hang on to them.

What's the matter with Ladd. From the name you wouldn't think much of it, but they are men and good workers there. Don't many nons get by them.

How is South Bend coming along now; don't hear much since J. W. D. left the place.

I understand they have moved the offices from Hammond to Gibson. Suppose rent was getting too high in Hammond.

I should like to get two good correspondents on the Kankakee Division, and two on the Danville Branch, to send the Secretary notes, not later than the 15th of each month, so he can have them inserted in THE TELEGRAPHER regularly. This will keep our members advised of changes, news, etc. I will leave it to the Local Chairmen on these Divisions to appoint two men from each Division, one at each end, with instructions to cover his territory thoroughly and send any news to me. In this way we can let our members know what is going on on the System not in their immediate territory. We are allowed space in THE TELEGRAPHER, and I see no reason why we should not use it.

Mr. Hartigan, at North Judson, has promised to come over, and think, before this reaches you, he will be with us not only in spirit but in person.

There are a few still holding back, waiting for others to push the thing to the top of the hill, then they think they will get on and ride down the boulevard. Perhaps they will; but you would think they would have manhood enough to push just a little if it would lighten the burden of the rest of the men.

Now, brothers, refer to President Perham's letter, and don't let us have any students along the C., I. & S. We are going to legislate in a short while and don't want the company to have any students at the various stations to play against us. Kindly give this your attention.

Now, let us have some good, live notes from our Division Correspondents for use in the next issue.
Geo. H. O'BRIEN, Sec'y.

Frisco Ry.

Ozark Division

June 23d we held a meeting of the telegraphers of the Memphis and Ozark districts at Thayer, and I am glad to say we had a nice crowd, eleven good and true Order boys.

I received the applications of Mr. Wayland and Mr. Sullins, agent and day telegrapher at Black Rock. Mr. Sullins received his $10 raise and forked over and did the proper thing.

Our new schedule is a "peacherino." Everybody gets from $5 to $15 raise. The $75 minimum will be a reality on this pike before many moons.

There has been more or less disappointment in regard to the eight-hour law not being put into effect in Arkansas and Missouri, but the Attorney General of Arkansas has just filed suit against the St. L., I. M. & S. to compel them to obey the law, and I "13" before many days the same action will be taken in Missouri.

We are at present very short of men, but all it takes to secure first-class men, who are now employed outside of the railroad service, is a good salary and improved working conditions.

Have you received the circular from our President asking for information in regard to number of unemployed telegraphers in your locality? This is of vital importance and should be answered immediately, and make it as accurate as you possibly can. CENT. 596.

Pennsylvania Railway.

Allegheny Division—

The main subject of discussion on this division is the open meetings, which are being held at various points and which are proving very successful. On June 16th one was held at Brookville, being attended by about thirty telegraphers, including five nons, three of whom filed their applications, the other two promising to do so next pay-day. The meeting at Foxbury on June 30th was even more successful, and the committee having these affairs in charge feel very much encouraged and promise more in the near future. The next one will probably be held in Kittanning early in August.

Mrs. E. A. Mercer, of Sabula, was the only lady telegrapher in attendance at the Brookville meeting, and she is to be complimented on the display of moral courage which brought her before a crowd of men. However, she was in search of truth, and when that was revealed to her she "signed up" immediately and is now a full-fledged member.

Bro. J. A. Beal has been enjoying his annual vacation, being relieved as agent at Wood Hill by Bro. C. H. Hilliard, who in turn was relieved by P. C. Elder, a former member, who promises to rejoin after next pay-day.

Mr. O. T. Beatty is now the regular night man at Venango scales. He has called for the necessary blanks and we hope to call him brother before this reaches print.

Bro. C. M. Conley has resigned to accept a position on the pipe line. He is relieved at Parker nights by extra telegrapher Bro. Logue.

Brandon and Dotter, which have been telephone offices for the past few years, have been re-opened as telegraph offices. The telephone is claimed to be unsafe and unsatisfactory, and is being discontinued as fast as telegraphers can be secured.

Bro. A. C. McCormick was the successful bidder for the "big" job at Phillipston. He was relieved at "SK" tower by Bro. Green.

Sister Cuineen has returned to duty at "KG," Kittanning, after an absence of several weeks at her home in Elmira, N. Y.

Bro. H. W. Carrier, of Summerville, was off for a short vacation recently.

On June 15th Cupid scored another victory, the latest victim being Bro. W. P. Burns, who on that date became the proud husband of Miss Florence Sease, a highly accomplished and charming young lady of Lawrenceville. The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for Atlantic City, New York and other points of interest in the East. A large circle of friends and relatives join in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous life.

Bro. P. F. Daily has resigned as agent at Bennezette and has accepted a better position on the P. & L. E. We are sorry to have Bro. Daily leave this division and our best wishes are with him.

There are many other changes, but I dare not take up any more space this time, so will conclude by urging every member on the division to redouble his efforts in going after the nons, and encouraging such of our members as may have become lukewarm and show a tendency to neglect to pay their dues. Remember, a member saved is a member gained.

By referring to the secretary's report you will note that the "Valley" contributed twenty-four new members as against fifteen by the next nearest competitor; that means, and I say it with due regard for the members on the other divisions, that we have the best, most loyal set of hustlers that ever was seen on any one division. May your efforts be crowned with complete success.

BRIGHAM.

Pittsburg Division—

News has been somewhat scarce from the Pittsburg Division for several months past. Not because of lack of interest, but pressing business mixed with some oversights and inability to get news from over the division. If your correspondent is entitled to a reprimand, pile it on. Good medicine of the proper kind is often effective. Will try and make it more interesting in the future with help from the brothers.

Semi-annual dues are due and payable, and all members should pay up early and be in the front. Sixty days in arrears makes you non-beneficial both in local benefits and the M. B. Department. It is true that we have some members who are never beneficial, but not suspendable. No one knows when sickness will overtake them, and it is not a pleasant thing for the officers of your local to be in a position not to help you. We have laws governing this department and they must be strictly complied with. We have had some such cases during past year, and I urge members to be mindful of this fact, and protect yourselves by always being in good standing.

Fourteen applications, all from P. R. R., were favorably acted on at meeting of June 22d, some from telegraphers old in the service. This is very gratifying indeed, and the outlook for many more is good. Keep after the nons, brothers and sisters, and the time ought to soon come when nons will be as scarce as hair on some bald heads. There is no excuse after considering what has been done during past two years.

Three new tricks have been created in "OD" office in order to handle the increase in business, which is largely due to the fact that a new general superintendent with offices in Union Station, has been created. Bros. Cummings, from "GH," and Foster, from Youngwood, and Mr. Ameigh, from "SO" office, have been placed on these tricks.

Mr. Ameigh's application is pending so we can call him safe.

Up-to-date cards are numerous in "OD" office, but there are a few who ought to get in. Carry a card and you are with us; without one you are against us. Sympathy is a mean helper. Get wise and act wise.

Bro. Geo. Whitaker, "OD" office, has returned from his vacation looking very fine. He visited several cities in the East, including New York. While in New York Geo. took some interest in immigration, and desiring to see some of the selects land on the shores of freedom, endeavored to get over to Ellis Island. The officers refused him permission to go over. Finally Geo. pulled his O. R. T. card out and asked if that was good. The officer smilingly said go get on that tug and go over. Probably Geo. can advance some ideas as to immigration laws after seeing three boatloads land.

We certainly have some hustling sisters on the Pittsburg Division; always to the front and taking advantage of every opportunity to get the scalp of a non.

Bro. Wentz, at "CM," Chairman of the Social Committee, and his staff of assistants, are the right people in the right place. The euchre and eatings after our short meeting of June 22nd was a decided success.

The local committee of seven members met Superintendent Morrow and Division Operator Murphy June 17th, to take up a number of grievances. The meeting was very harmonious and we have every reason to believe that good results will be accomplished. The outcome is not definitely known at this time.

Mr. Morrow expressed a desire that all telegraphers give their best attention to the movement of trains over the division, especially passenger movement, and endeavor to reduce all delays to a minimum. We have always stood for good service, and ask the telegraphers through these columns to be mindful of the fact at all times, and that the faithful performance of your duty helps to uplift the profession and advance wages.

All telegraphers in the service three years now have their passes over the division. I believe this concession is appreciated by every one. There is nothing like having the ready paper in your pocket, especially when you want to take a trip and haven't your mind made up until the train is about due.

Bros. Stinemyer and Daymude are evidently on the water wagon. They were seen carrying two large bottles of water the night of the euchre. Bro. Stinemyer also had the position of ice man, carrying 100 pounds about four blocks. Fine business.

Bro. Kolb, "WK," is wearing an extra smile and a nice O. R. T. button, which he won as first prize at the euchre.

KIRO.

Monongahela Division—

Bro. C. A. Murphy, first trick dispatcher at West Brownsville Jct., is off duty on account of sickness. Mr. Minehart, extra dispatcher, is working third trick to fill the vacancy.

Bro. E. J. Koop, third trick telegrapher at "WB," is enjoying a well-earned vacation. He will visit his parents who reside in Elmira, N. Y. Bro. A. W. Howard is doing the heavy act during Bro. Koop's absence.

One of our brothers, who works on the Monongahela Division of the P. R. R., is anxious to know where the buckets are now going to be made since the "bucket shops" in this State have been closed.

On or shortly after July 1st the block system will be installed on the "RS" branch of the Monongahela Division, and interlocking plant will be installed in "WB" tower.

We "13" that Mr. R. A. McCarty, 1st trick telegrapher at "GX" tower, and Mr. J. T. McCleary, day telegrapher at "SA" tower, have forwarded their applications to become members of 52. There are two nons at "FI" tower, one not yet eligible on account of new beginner, the other one needs a little stirring up.

CERT. 102 AND 277.

Salt Lake Route.

The advertising symbol of the S. P. L. A. & S. L. Ry is the arrowhead and on all literature and stationery of the company appears the mystic point. In the mountains near San Bernardino, Cal., is a great expanse of soil and foliage, much lighter than the surrounding hillside, shaped like an arrowhead, and from this the symbol comes. But ancient tradition tells us that this great sign in the mountain was so placed that desert travelers might be guided to its point, thereby finding water, that element so much sought by all in these arid parts.

But it will require an arrowhead of greater proportions to bring some telegraphers to the right trail. Many have found the way safely themselves; others have been shown and have taken advantage; while others (and there are very few left), are like the mule that can be led to water, but can't be made to drink.

Those of us who keep posted on labor questions, the various eight-hour laws in different States; the nine-hour law which takes effect next spring; and the wages paid to other railroad employees, etc., as compared with those we are enjoying, stand aghast at the tenacity with which some non-members still cling to their belief that the O. R. F. has done and will do no good for any telegrapher.

We have but to look about us, only a few score of miles, to see proof after proof, that thorough organization is a better paying investment than any savings bank. There is hardly a road west of Denver that pays as low as this line, desert or no desert. It is true the eight-hour law has been a benefit to some, but reduced the earnings of others until now many telegraphers are only able to draw $70 per month, with the grocery store hundreds of miles away.

But the arrowhead pointed aright for some, and perhaps before this letter is seen in print, the effect of it will be seen. Certain ones among us advocated a system division, and sent out a petition to be signed. To the surprise of all it showed a membership on this road of fully 80 per cent, and the petition was signed by every member in good standing to whom it was presented, from Salt Lake City to San Pedro. Such a result was entirely unexpected and goes to show what we may expect in future support. Among a few non-members a majority have already sent for application blanks and rates, and seem surprised at themselves that they have been out of the O. R. T. at all, for most of the telegraphers on this road are or have been members.

Among the members who signed for the petition are some from the Can. Pac. and from the A. C. L., and just as far in other directions. The forming of this system division will centralize our efforts and without a doubt result in relief of bad conditions, no matter in what form presented. Telegraphers are very scarce indeed, in all parts of the United States, and especially so in the West. It can not be wondered at when men have to be brought from east of the Mississippi, travel three days, pass the severest of physical, mental and moral tests, and then be sent to a $70 job, where the temperature climbs to 130 degrees. We who have been here in summer know this, but others do not and so many stay but a day or a week and are gone to that land where canned milk and canned everything else is unknown. When minimum wages are climbing in the East to equal our own, men will not come to this "Sahara." Even the Eastern roads have to advertise for people who can telegraph, among which are: B. & O. Ry., minimum $55; Nor. Pac. Ry., salary $60 to $90, with commission and living rooms; Can. Northern with a probably minimum of $65 or better; the Kansas City Southern Ry. with about $55 minimum. If you compare these with some conditions to be found on this line, you will find the solution to the "scarcity of men" question. Some old telegrapher remarked: "I have waited forty years for the time when our talent would be advertised for. I'm glad I lived this long." Gentlemen, stop and think. This grand condition was brought about by nothing so much as organization, and it is your duty to yourself, your family and your brother workers to bend every effort to perfect the O. R. T. Millions are spent in a year to defeat organization of various trades. Is not this proof positive that you must protect yourself by similar combination? There is no argument or earth to dispute it.

Any non-member wishing blank applications or any member wishing to send in notes for publication may address Box 134, Las Vegas, Nev.

GOLD BUTTE.

Salt Lake Division—

Beginning at the eastern end of the road, we find many recent changes; in fact, too many to justify mentioning all.

From the general office we learn that A. W. Hayes and O. A. Tallman, of that office, are enjoying several weeks' vacation in the Yellowstone National Park. These men are very popular and the souvenir cards received from them are valued like gold nuggets.

L. G. Campbell, formerly at Las Vegas, Nev., is now located at the Salt Lake general office.

O. O. Cowan, formerly at Faust, Utah, is now at Buena Vista, Utah, a little closer to the great Western summer resort.

Bert Mooney, an old-timer in the West, is one of the popular and efficient dispatchers at Salt Lake, and has many old friends out on the line.

A new man in the profession is Fred Ross at Lund, but promises to make good in a short time. He has been caller at Milford.

Modena seems to be hard to fill, as many night men of indifferent quality, have come and gone recently. Inasmuch as this place pays $65 for twelve hours' work we simply sympathize. Agent Stice keeps busy and tries not to worry.

Just over the line in Nevada they enjoy the eight-hour law.

At Caliente, a dispatcher's office, various men have stopped and looked, only to pass it up. This important point pays $75 and works eight hours. The dispatchers are paid $145. The present chief dispatcher, Mr. J. Beck, is big in both heart and body, and is said to be close to an ideal. Mr. McClurg, the second trickier, is about to leave for other fields, much to the regret of all. Our best wishes follow. Mr. H. R. Harris, recently of Las Vegas, now adorns the train sheet with his fine Italian fist, during the third trick hours. Good luck.

Three newcomers in one family are to be found at Carp, our old friend G. B. Fedrick being the head. Mrs. Alice Fedrick will soon preside over one of the stations on this district, and we must all be on our good manners. Be a gentleman, even if you do hate the country.

J. A. Enger, agent at Moapa, is in the midst of a bumper melon and fruit crop, and will need several burros to haul away his commission when the season is over. Mr. Feldt is the night man. A new depot has been erected here recently.

Some of the swiftest men on the road are to be found at the slowest places. C. F. Moriarty, at Dry Lake, second trick, can show them all tricks on the mill and sending bulletins.

Former agent C. M. Temple, of Moapa, is now engaged in managing and operating a large mining concern, the Cedar Basin and Nevada Gold Mining Co. He is located at Gold Butte, Nev., near which the various claims are located and last reports indicated the realization of the most sanguine hopes of those interested. Most of the Salt Lake road's officials are heavily interested and stock at any price will soon be withdrawn from the market. Temple is an old pal of more than one of us on this line, and his success is our pleasure.

F. F. Gunn, formerly agent at Moapa, is now engaged in the produce and supply business of all kinds, having stores at Moapa and various points on the Muddy River. No doubt his ad. will appear in a later issue. He is also an officer of the above mining company, owning several thousand shares.

CERT. 1271.

General Outlook—

As our Salt Lake Div. brother decided to write a general situation letter, there will be little left to be said on that subject, but we will say that the general outlook is about 80 per cent solid O. R. T. as far as we have ascertained, with the nooks and corners yet to hear from. No doubt by the time this goes to print the S. P. L. A. & S. L. System Division will be a reality, at which time we may be able to make personal mention, for the entire system, without any danger of defeating our present purposes.

The Outlook Los Angeles Division—

Very few offices along this division can be found with a non-member. The relay offices, three in number, have the majority in our favor, and most of them actual members. One, the most important relay office on the system, we found to contain one member, while three others had simply failed to keep up principally on account of the lack of activity on the system, and one of these has paid up and will be up to date before this is printed, while the other two will make new applications, having voluntarily asked for blanks.

Surprising what we found when once we became active. On each and every subdivision, five of them in all, we found one to three live members, who, however, had failed to get in touch with those of the other divisions. Within three days these brothers were corresponding with each other like old friends, and every member was looking around to see where his neighbors stood. Then came the short notes: "Can you spare me a set of blanks?" "Please send 'XZ' two sets of blanks," and most of these we found were at one time active members, just dropped out. After this came the new ones. From every non quarter came the same cry for blanks, and the writer had to dig way down in his trunk and get out a large package of application blanks which were left over from the days gone by when the movement of reorganizing a division of the Southern Pacific and later organizing the E. P. & N. E. was being made.

Now the Los Angeles Division of the S. P. L. A. & S. L. will compare favorably with any old organized road.

Dispatcher Esender is off on a vacation, A. W. Hayes filling the third trick.

One of the officials of the telegraph department after coming down the road recently remarked that the telegraphers all had a peculiar look in their eyes lately, and the telegraph department is giving better service than ever before. Wonder what that means? A better class of men, which you will always find when they begin to get "alive."

Night Chief Retzer, of general office, Los Angeles, is putting in all of his spare time on "electrical engineering." We hope he has great success.

H. M. Gill, owl from Ontario, Cal., is on his way to visit the old home in Kansas City for sixty days, is being relieved by W. D. Doty, of the Coast Line Southern Pacific Ry.

We are glad to see L. L. Eden back with us, after having been in service in another department for some time, now located as day chief at Otis, Cal.

The office has been moved from El Ora to Ames, Cal., John Gibson now in charge.

On account of the eight-hour law A. O. Poole has been added to the force at Jean, Nevada; L. E. Simmons at Arden, Nev.; R. W. Keyes and O. D. Day at Las Vegas, Nev. Some one said the boys at Las Vegas didn't seem to care if it was known that Las Vegas was solid.

We have very little of Nevada in our division, most of it being on the Salt Lake Division. However, the eight-hour law on that division is strictly adhered to by the company and the telegraphers.

The warm weather down through this part of the country makes some feel that if the seniority clause was in vogue here now, we would like to fill the places of some non down where the Finkbine blooms, and the Hiller climbs the orange tree, while the Butterfield gives its spring-like leaf a tinge of the Old Irish colors.

Now, don't think because we didn't say much about the San Pedro Division that we are not posted. A couple of brothers enjoy the sea breeze there, while the two along the line are looking hopefully forward to the time when the few remaining nons will get enough salary to be able to read the papers and find out what the world of labor is doing.

Some agencies along the Los Angeles Division pay as low as $50 per month, while their brothers along the S. P. have a minimum of $75 and commissions. And yet we have in mind one or two who can't see where the O. R. T. will do any good.

Bro. Geo. A. Crabb, of Div. 23, shook hands with us a few days ago. He is on his vacation trip, from the C. M. & St. P.

Bro. Brice, from Los Angeles, dropped in long enough to make himself known yesterday. Salaries too low for him to stop out here. ANON.

N. Y., O. & W. Ry.

There was a meeting at Cadosia, N. Y. Sunday, June 16th, forty members being present, which is a sure indication that our line is fast nearing the solid stage. It was decided that Division 20 should give a grand ball some time this coming fall, and a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements. It is likely that either Sidney or Walton will be chosen as the most available point for all to reach. As this will be the first entertainment ever given by this Division, it will no doubt be looked forward to with no little interest as the time approaches.

Bro. Samuel Darby has accepted the position as day telegrapher at Ellenville made vacant by Bro. Fox taking the new relief job.

Bro. Harry Borland, relief telegrapher, who has been covering the night trick at Young's Gap for some time, is relieving Mr. Rogers at "GS," New York.

On June 7th, the double track was resumed at Sands, doing away with the two offices there.

Bro. Francisco, night signalman at Burnside Tower, has resigned to accept a position with a firm of brokers, near Scranton, Pa. Mr. Crams is temporarily in charge at "RX" nights.

Bro. Talmage, night telegrapher at "MB," Sands, has resigned and gone into the photograph business at East Branch.

Owing to the shortage of telegraphers, Liberty has been closed for several nights. Bros. Allen, of Mountindale, and Winters, of Centerville, each worked a night there.

Bro. Mulligan, who has been covering the day signalman's position at Burnside tower, has gone to Liberty for night duty for a short time.

Our General Chairman, Bro. Cochran, informs us we may now call over 90 per cent of the boys on this pike brother, and applications coming in every day.

Bro. S. Fish, agent at Little Britain, was off for a few days recently, to attend the funeral of a friend. He was relieved by Bro. Schlett, night telegrapher at Summitville. CORRESPONDENT.

L. V. & T. Ry.

Although this is a small bit of railroad it pays big minimum, and has up-to-date and experienced railroad men in its employ. Good things sometimes come in small packages. The L. V. & T. is a very important link in the railroads serving the great mining districts of Nevada, and extends from Las Vegas, Nev., to Rhyolite, 123 miles. Its northern outlet is the Bullfrog and Goldfield. Construction is still going on at a rapid rate and there is no telling where it will stop in these days of discovery of millions in mines.

The salary at most stations on the L. V. & T. is $135 per month, but this is partly because of very high living expenses. There are at present seven offices open, but this will be doubled in a short time. The dispatcher's office is at Las Vegas, where the road connects with the S. P. L. A. & S. L.

A recent newcomer at Beatty is C. A. Luckfield, formerly agent on the Los Angeles Division of the S. P. Here is one of the busiest points of the State. Mr. Luckfield is employed by the T. & G. Railway.

Gold Center office was temporarily closed a short time ago.

Business is on the increase constantly and this winter will see more progress made in mining in these districts than ever before. BULLFROG.

E. P. & S. W. Ry.

Have just finished reading the June number. Everything was good, but I was especially interested in what Cert. 140, Division 59, had to say about the telegraphers' wages compared with others. All railroad telegraphers have put more or less time and money in learning their profession, and now what do they get for it. Look at the street laborer and at the negro working with pick and shovel. Many can no more than write their names. None work more than ten hours, the majority for only eight or nine hours per day, receiving from 20 to 25 cents per hour, working six days in the week, and by putting in a few minutes extra time through the week, get off at 4 o'clock Saturday evening. The telegrapher sees them going home, but continues his work until 7 o'clock or later, and gets home in time for an 8 o'clock supper. His evening is gone. The next day is Sunday, but it is all the same to him, as he drags himself back to the office to be on duty for twelve more long hours, while the night man goes home and shuts himself in from the pretty day and his friends who are enjoying it, and tries to get a little sleep. What do they get for their work? Thousands receive the princely salary of from $50 to $60 per month, amounting to 14, 15 or 16 cents per hour. I could write pages, but this is enough. I say we have a right to kick. An eight-hour day and a $75 minimum would not be so bad. Let's get it. Let us all get in line and be ready to do business when the right time comes.

If you haven't an up-to-date card, get one. It will do no good to put it off. Get in line.

CERT. 126.

New York Central Ry.

Hudson Division—

I failed to find anything in last issue of the journal. I presume because I failed to send items on account of attending the convention. Well, we are here with a few words and we were all at the meeting last month. If you have doubts about our getting the members to attend meetings come to our next and be convinced to the contrary. It was a metropolitan meeting in a decidedly rural town, as Bro. Burns remarked: "They seemed to come out of the woods from all directions."

C. M. E. boys availed themselves of the opportunity to attend and we have their assurance of future visits on these occasions.

I presume you boys know we have a change in management of the division south of B. S. 8. Mr. Foshen's territory does not go below BS 8. The result of this change is that men south of BS 8 have no rights from BS 8 north, and vice versa with men north of Bs 8.

I must make mention of the fact of steady increase in membership. Thirty-five new members since March 1st and still coming. We want everyone to work with the end in view of securing thorough organization on this road. And I wish to say to every member through the journal that it is our duty to the company and our organization to give our employers good service. Let our card be a standard of merit, and by so doing we are bound to succeed.

J. B. WEST,
Local Chairman.

R. W. & O. Division, West End—

I suppose you fellows wonder why you never see anything from the west end of the R. W. & O.? The reason is very simple, no one writes a line. Seems some of our good brothers might spare a few minutes of their time once a month to say a few words for their own good.

Everything seems to be moving along slowly just now. All the boys seem contented, and wishing that the peaches would soon come along. They all survived last season and think they can stand another lift.

We are glad to say that we have very few nons upon this end. There are two in particular that seem to be fireproof and airtight. One of them, Mr. Brown, says that he does not care about joining the Order, but at the same time is always ready to accept anything that the Order secures for him, such as overtime, better working conditions, etc.

All the boys have returned from the convention, and express themselves as perfectly satisfied with all the proceedings at Minneapolis. Bro. Bradshaw, from the west end, just returned a few days ago.

We are glad to see Bro. Squires again on his job at Kendall. Bro. Squires has been enjoying a trip to the Pacific Coast. Seems he might get busy and give us a line-up of what he has been doing in the wild and woolly West.

How many of the brothers have their dues paid for the next six months? Get busy, boys, don't let Bro. Quick write asking you if you intend to square yourself. CMT. 609.

Wisconsin Central Ry.

Our local chairman for the Second District, Bro. W. J. Watts, has been transferred from Winnebago to Lomira, being relieved by Bro. Hildebrand, F. A., of Sheridan, who in turn was relieved by Bro. Wm. Riddehough, of Prairie View.

Mr. Phillipi, from State Hospital, relieved Bro. Hildebrand. Mr. Phillipi promised to make good, accordingly papers were sent to him and before this appears in print he will undoubtedly be in line.

Bro. Henderson now at South Oshkosh nights.

Bro. Chapman, nights to day ticket office, Oshkosh.

Bro. Ward transferred to Waupaca nights.

As the boys from the south end have not furnished the regular allowance of items we pass on to Abbotsford where we find Bro. Crockett acting as relief dispatcher so as to allow the regular men to get their annual vacations.

Too bad that the boys along the line can not have one of these vacations, but, of course, the dispatchers work eight hours a day and we only work twelve.

Bro. Wytenbach, from night to day telegrapher "BF" office, Abbotsford, and a Mr. Bryan, from Ashland, holds down the night job there. He has promised repeatedly to come in, but has failed so far to make his promise good.

Bro. Heinski, back again at Rib Lake after several months' travel.

Bro. Seeley, after leaving Rib Lake, went to North St. Paul, to act as relief agent, while Mr. Wildasin attended court in behalf of the company, and from there to Cylon, while Bro. Jno. Mais takes a little vacation.

We had the pleasure of shaking hands with our worthy secretary and treasurer, Bro. O. V. Soderstrum, and extending to him our heartiest congratulations.

Understand Bro. Brigham has recovered from his sickness and expects to resume work soon.

At Ashland Bro. Edick has been raised from nights to days, and a Mr. Carlson, from Phillips, does the owl stunt. He promised to make good soon. Don't put off for to-morrow what you can do to-day. Can't say who relieved Mr. Carlson at Phillips.

Chas. Anderson now nights at Chelsea.

Mr. Finnegan, from Thorpe, at White River in Bro. Brigham's place.

Two C. & N. W. passenger trains passed over the branch en route to Ashland on the 20th, so you see there is trouble in the best regulated families.

It was necessary for your humble scribe to make a trip to Hudson on account of a company law suit and was relieved a couple of days by Bro. W. A. Smith, who at the present time is acting agent at Colfax, while Mr. Smith, his father, is taking a trip to the Pacific Coast. Bro. Danielson relieving Bro. Smith nights at Colfax. Bro. Danielson quit the "WC" several years ago to go West, but returned home on a vacation and now thinks of staying with the "WC."

I have given you all the news that I know of, but before I leave you let me say to all those who have not sent in their dues, if there be any such, kindly do so at once. Don't always be on the tail end.

We have quite a number of applications since last issue and two calls for blanks yesterday. At this rate the nons will soon disappear on this end of the pike. Keep after them, boys, while there is a single one left. And don't forget to send items along before the 24th of the month.

Bro. H. L. Snowman has returned to work again after enjoying a month's vacation at his home in Bucksport.

Bro. Whipple was very sick a few days previous to this writing, but is now O. K. and at the same old stand.

Mr. Mosher, formerly in Brownville freight office, has gone to Bangor, "DA" office, to do message work. Bro. Crocker handling the freight office at present.

Mr. Wood, owl at "NO," enjoying a two weeks' vacation, he being relieved by Mr. Connelly. Here are two nons, boys, but we will get them. They seem favorably impressed.

Bro. Howe enjoyed a short vacation recently, he being relieved by Bro. Taylor.

Bro. Higgins has resumed duty after having a change of outdoor work for the last two months. Glad to see him back.

Bro. J. L. Robbins has bid in Grindstone. Mr. Homer, formerly assistant at Potter, has bid in the night job at the above place.

Bro. M. B. Herrick, of Mars Hill, spent Sunday in Brownville recently.

Bro. Morton, of Bridgewater, recently made a flying trip to Bangor.

The fellow who put in a few notes for the Southern Division keep it up and also let some brother on the Northern get busy.

Well, boys, it will soon be fall again. Now aren't we going to get busy on the meetings. We will have to commence soon. Going to be a lot doing this coming winter. Div. COR.

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, God in His infinite wisdom has taken from us our highly esteemed Bro. Allan L. Grieve, and while humbly submitting to the will of Him who knoweth and doth all things best; be it

Resolved, That we regret exceedingly his untimely end, and that through his death the Order of Railroad Telegraphers has lost a staunch and faithful member, one who in every way possible sought to promulgate and exemplify the teachings of the Order, and to support to the utmost the high principles which our obligation implies.

Resolved, That Bangor and Aroostook Div. 83 of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, extend to the bereaved family and all friends their fullest sympathy, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the meeting at which same are approved, a copy forwarded to the bereaved family, and a copy sent to THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER for publication.

Chicago Great Western Ry.

W. M. & P. Division—

The writer has looked long and anxiously for some news of this division in THE TELEGRAPHER, but so far has been disappointed. We believe that one of the best ways to have a thing done is to "do it yourself," and so, at the request of the Local Chairman, we have promised to get together a few items of interest each month and see that the W. M. & P. Division is no longer a silent member. In order to do this it will be necessary for each member to send in a few items. They should reach your correspondent not later than the 25th of the month. It will be only a small task for each one of you to dig up a few notes, and it will help conditions on this division very much. We want this division advertised in every issue of THE TELEGRAPHER, until every non on the division will see what a small bit of humanity he really is, and straightway get busy and get a card. When you think it over "smallness" is the predominating characteristic in any non. They desire to grab every cent in sight and not let any of them get away. While we admire the desire to save in anyone, still we have always found a world of comfort in the following: "Cast your bread on the waters and after many days it will return to you." A kind word, a helping hand to a person discouraged or in need will always be a source of joy to the giver, and a few dollars each year in dues to the Order will not only help your working conditions and increase your salary, but will help a brother or a brother's family in need, and will insure the loving care and attention of thousands of brothers in your own hour of need.

Brothers, we hope none of you will rest or feel satisfied as long as there is a non in your territory. Don't go after them "hammer and tongs," but reason it out with them on a basis of pure financial investment. You can't beat the O. R. T. Each one on this system has now realized from $20.00 to $100.00 on our schedule of November last. How many nons would accept a gift of this size from any member? But what else are they doing? It costs money to get these schedules and the O. R. T. boys pay the bill, so what else can you call it except a gift from the O. R. T.

Now let each one of us get busy and tackle the man next to us, and see whether he is a non or not. If he is, go after him. Right will always triumph, and by handling these fellows in the right way we can show them the error of their ways and persuade them to come in.

Agent Dougherty, of Rochester, who has been employed for the past fifteen years on this division, has resigned and will, we understand, go into the real estate business at Baker City, Idaho. This is another case of a capable man leaving the railroad service for a line of business more pleasant and profitable, and still we hear the cry that there are no men to be had. Let the railroads pay their telegraphers as they have to other kinds of skilled labor, and they will find thousands throughout the country now engaged in other lines of business who would gladly return to the key.

We understand that Telegrapher Brownlee, of Rochester, has resigned and has been making a strenuous effort to get away, but unable to get relieved. Most of the boys seem to fight shy of Rochester for some reason. Don't see why, though. All a person has to do is the telegraphing, billing, handle the cash, make car report and a few other little things, and for all this you get the magnificent sum of $60 per month.

It is now Bro. Evans, at Ostrander. Bro. Evans is an old-time member, who allowed his dues to lapse some time ago, but who saw the mistake he had made and got back into the fold.

There are some others along the line who have dropped out and who we would like very much to see follow Bro. Evans' example.

Mr. J. H. Cawthorn, a new man at Northfield.

Traveling Auditor Jensen has been calling on the boys along the line the past few weeks.

By this time every member should have answered Bro. Perham's letter of June 10th. Each one should see that such letters are answered promptly and carefully.

Let us each and every one remember our duty to our brothers in the C. T. U. While the commercial companies stand strongly on their virtues, each one of us no doubt has noticed how liberal (?) they really are and can size the situation up as it should be.

At a certain Western Union office on this division the telegrapher handles from twenty to fifty messages each day, besides the "CND" and weather reports and gets from the above company a great big "O" for his work each month, while the messenger boy gets $8.00 per. Looks nice, doesn't it, but it shows how the commercial companies do business.

Several sets of application blanks have been sent out recently. Hope those who got them will not neglect to have them filled out and sent in at once.

The writer called on some of the boys for items this month and each one of them failed brilliantly to send a single line, so if this write-up sounds a little flat just bump your head against the wall a few times and ask yourself who is to be blamed.

CERT. 262.

Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton Ry.

Southern Division—

Finding nothing from the C. H. & D. in the June TELEGRAPHER I guess it is up to me again.

Bro. Brant has returned from the convention and reports a fine trip and plenty of business to help out.

Bro. Cecil, nights at Middletown, has been away on leave of absence. We understand the "event" is a honeymoon trip through the East, visiting Buffalo, New York City and the Jamestown Exposition. We extend best wishes to the happy pair.

Telegrapher Steading again back with us and filling the vacancy at Middletown.

Bro. Miller, "XD," Piqua, accompanied by his wife, is enjoying a trip West to Kansas, where they will visit his sister. Bro. Hammond is taking care of the "XD" office during Bro. Miller's absence.

Secretary Bushaw reports new members still coming in in bunches. Any nons left better send for blanks before the supply runs out or the price advances.

Have you secured a prize number yet? If not, better get one and take a two weeks' vacation when you win the prize. "It's free."

Since the revised schedule went into effect everything seems to be moving along nicely, not so many men leaving the service and some who were formerly with us returning to the C. H. & D. We are certainly glad to see this and hope that all will join hands in helping to bring about most desirable conditions.

CERT. 24.

Queen & Crescent (North).

Note in May issue of THE TELEGRAPHER Div. 62 was well represented. However, not a line in June. Brothers, let's have the Q. & C. accounted for each month in our journal. Would it not be a good suggestion that some one nominate a regular correspondent and elect several assistants on line to help gather data?

Representative Collins returned from Minneapolis May 19th, and reports a very eventful trip. He will have many good things to tell at our next meeting, so don't miss it.

Bro. A. B. Collins, Hinton, taking a much-needed rest; relieved by Sister McGinnis.

Bro. Wallace, Science Hill, laying off; relieved by Bro. Willison.

Telegrapher Marshall, owl at Hinton, reported on sick list; relieved by Telegrapher McName.

We are very sorry to lose Bro. Conklin, of Lincoln Park, Cinti.

General Committee in session and report very bright prospects for the best schedule in south end ere this is in print.

We are glad to note Bros. Sullivan, "XN" tower, and Conway, "RX" office, up to date, and certainly welcome these brothers in Div. 62. There are several others who are filling out the proper papers to be announced up to date later.

Boys, there seems to be an awakening going over this line now. Let's keep the good work going and get them all in. This band wagon of ours is very strong and there will be plenty room for all nons who wisely consider their conditions and get aboard. We don't want any of you nons to think we are trying to push you or make you go into this Order, but we do want to put the subject to you in the proper light and show you your great mistake in remaining out. You are perhaps enjoying an increase in salary since last June, overtime, dinner hour and many other things in the past not known on the Q. & C., and have you contributed one iota to the support of this? No. not one.

This day and age people are generally looking for good investments. I would thank anyone to show me in these columns an investment through which you realize more? Dues $8.00 per year and we received last year from $30 to $60 raise besides other concessions heretofore not enjoyed. I am unable to see how you nons figure your stand in this matter to your advantage.

Brothers, it is indeed very sad to announce the death of our beloved and cherished Bro. J. E. Sullivan, local chairman, A. G. S. Division, Woodstock, Ala. Bro. Sullivan met death rather suddenly May 3d (at the hands of a negro) while performing his official duty. The negro shooting five times, one shot taking effect in stomach. Bro. Sullivan realizing he had been fatally wounded, immediately raised his shot gun and blew the negro's head off. Bro. Sullivan attended by the company physician, was hurried to Birmingham hospital on special train, but only lived thirty minutes after reaching there. He had one of the largest funerals ever known in the community, he being one of the most popular men on A. G. S.

The O. R. T. presented a beautiful floral wreath and sounder as a token of esteem and brotherly love, costing $25, contributed by members along the line.

"UNOME."

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, Bro. J. E. Sullivan, Local Chairman, A. G. S. R. R., has been removed from among us by death, while humbly and sorrowfully submitting to this, the will of our Creator; be it

Resolved, That we deeply regret his tragic and untimely demise, and through it the Order of Railroad Telegraphers lost a staunch and faithful member, and his wife and children lose a fond and loving husband and father; and be it further Resolved, Queen & Crescent Division No. 62 (North) extend to his bereaved family in this their darkest hour, our heartfelt sympathy, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, a copy sent to Mrs. Sullivan and a copy sent to THE TELEGRAPHER for publication.

Quite a few changes have taken place since last write-up. Two copiers taken out of "CN" office recently. One man taken out of "Q" office, N. Seneca, and the other two men have been placed on ten-hour tricks. "SP" yard office has been closed, Mr. Timmons resigning and entering service of Pullman Company as conductor. Good luck to him.

Bro. Chadwick, second trick W. Seneca tower, is at present off on a leave of absence, Bro. Jim Frawley holding "D," second trick, during Bro. Chadwick's absence.

Bro. J. Greisinger worked third trick at Lake View for two weeks during Bro. Frawley's absence.

New tower at Silver Creek was opened on June 15th with Bro. Scheyer, first telegrapher; Wilder, second, and Bro. Greisinger, third tricks, respectively.

Night office at Silver Creek Depot has been closed on account of opening of tower.

Bro. Odell, from Bay View, comes to second trick at Lake View, succeeding Bro. Scheyer, who went to Silver Creek. Unable to learn at present who filled Bro. Odell's place.

Bro. Kane, of Dunkirk, was absent four days this month and attended the wedding of his sister at his old home in Bergen, N. Y. Bros. Garnow and Fay doubled during his absence.

Bro. J. V. Kaufmann is holding Dunkirk Depot nights at present.

"13" Bro. J. L. Regan has left the service.

Bro. A. B. Croup, second trick Westfield, has resigned, succeeded by Bro. Brown, from "JI," Chutes days.

Bros. Welch and Baker still on first and third at Westfield, have been doing the twelve-hour stunt quite a bit lately.

Bro. Seipe working at Canadaway nights at present.

Bro. W. B. Everingham has left the service and is employed on the Pennsy at present.

"13" Bro. Spring leaves us July 1st to become night ticket agent at Union Station, Dunkirk. We all wish him the best of success.

Bro. C. M. Smith working days at "JI," Chutes, at present.

New man at "JI" nights. Unable to learn his name at this writing.

Telegrapher Madell relieved Bro. H. J. Leamy, at "XC" Crossing, for a few days recently.

A telegrapher was taken from Erie Depot recently and Manager Murray now has to do it all alone.

Bro. E. J. Thorne has returned from "CN" office to his old night job at Erie Depot.

Last month we stated that Bro. G. H. Clavin had left the service of the L. S. & M. S. Ry., which was an error. His absence from duty was due to illness and an operation which he found necessary to have performed on his ear.

Remittance slips have been mailed all members. Those who have not remitted their dues prior to the arrival of slips will please do so at their earliest convenience giving your certificate number which will be found written in ink on the back of your card. By giving the number of your certificate and correct address you will save a great deal of the secretary's time which he could devote to other important matters in connection with our division. Let every brother assist the officers all he can so that the best possible service can be given the members.

The circular which went to each member with the remittance slips contained some extracts on the student question from the circular issued by our grand officers. The subject is a warm one at the present time due to the fact that there seems to be a well defined plan on the part of the railroad corporations to engage in the wholesale manufacture of telegraphers by placing here and there at small stations boys as helpers with a salary of $25 per month with instructions to the agent or telegrapher to teach him telegraphy. There would be no serious objections to this method of wholesale manufacture of hams if the company would manifest a spirit of fairness by putting these helpers on at stations where the agent is overburdened with work. Putting these helpers on at small stations where assistance is not required manifests clearly how much interest they have in the welfare of their telegraphers and agents who have labored hard and long hours to safeguard the interests of the company. Every copper cent earned or paid to the company filters through the hands of the agents and telegraphers. They are practically what we might term the lock, stock and barrel of a railroad. Every telegrapher who handles tickets or aspires to an agency must possess some ability as an accountant. After spending a year learning the art your name then graces the extra list for another year. For this highly honored gentleman's position, as we are told by some officials, we are paid less than is paid pauper, uneducated emigrants from Europe.

What do you think of it, brothers? Are these not facts? Do you think it will pay us to engage in the manufacture of telegraphers to satisfy the whims of some insatiable, unfair railway corporation who are unwilling to treat their telegraphers fairly when there are thousands of competent teleraphers all over the country who have been forced to abandon telegraphy and engage in other business where the hours of work and wages are more favorable.

Now if the railway corporations require more telegraphers instead of their trying to manufacture new, untried stock at a considerable cost, let them make the wages and conditions more favorable and they will get all the experienced telegraphers they desire.

I sincerely hope every brother will refrain from teaching students unless it be a close relative. Some of our brothers have asked permission to teach students. The officers, not even the president of the Order can grant such permits. Kindly refer to our constitution, which law was made by the representatives of the different divisions and no officer, the President not excluded, can deviate from this law.

Honor your obligation, brothers, by keeping it to the letter. Don't let some crafty individual sing you a nice song that his son has a good farm, but somehow he don't like farming and would prefer to learn telegraphy. Let them go back to the farm and put forth the same degree of ambition and efforts on the farm that they do in trying to induce some sympathetic telegrapher to teach them his trade and they will make a better success at farming. If it were possible I would readily trade my knowledge and ability in telegraphy for a clear deed of a farm.

There is a rule in effect which is not generally understood and that is where members remit their dues and become delinquent in the M. B. D. In such cases the Grand Secretary and Treasurer holds back his division card until all assessments due the M. B. D. have been paid. Any members who have paid their dues and have not received their card should hasten to square themselves in the M. B. D. Don't let a paltry two or three dollars a year for a first-class insurance policy debar you from membership in an organization like the O. R. T. Pay up, brothers.

The Grand Convention has come and gone with Bros. Perham and Quick at the head again. There are practically no changes in the laws; everything ran along smoothly and the delegates and grand officers worked harmoniously together with a view to framing laws for the betterment of the men whom they represented.

We regret to announce the death of Bro. Wm. Lynch, agent at Edward. He recently became converted to the principles of unionism and had been in the employ of the Michigan Central for twenty years. He was a bachelor.

Bro. Robt. Graham, regular night man at Edward, filling the day position temporarily. Bro. Woolley has accepted the agency at Edward permanently.

Bro. Johnston, night man at Windham, transferred to Hagersville nights.

Bro. Simons, night man at Townsend, switched over to day hours on account of Mr. Smith being transferred to Lasalette days. This puts Mr. Smith days and Mr. Secker nights at Lasalette.

Bro. J. W. Ritenburg, who has been filling the day position at Suspension Bridge for the past two years, has resigned to accept a position with C. P. R. Commercial Co., in the city of Winnipeg. Good luck to him. While we miss him in a thousand different ways, nevertheless we are glad to see him better his condition.

Bro. Lorne Porter relieved the General Secretary and Treasurer, Bro. Staley, at Montrose, while he was attending the convention at Minneapolis. Mr. Francis taking Bro. Porter's position nights.

Bro. Wm. Mansell, who has held down day hours at Willand for the past five years, has left the service, Bro. James filling the vacancy.

Bro. Oliver, who has been working at Bale for the past five months, has been transferred to Niagara Falls days. Glad to welcome him down at this end of the line. This with one exception, makes the east end solid.

Bro. Dickson, who held down the night job at Bale, is back on the extra on account of closing Bale. "DOOLEY."

Among the brothers who have resigned from the service during the past month was Bro. C. L. Dine, of Decatur, who entered the service June 24, 1896, and Bro. White, of Cassopolis, who entered October 8, 1893. Both were good, loyal members of the Order as well as efficient telegraphers and it is with the kindest of feelings that they will be remembered by the boys along the line.

Mr. Boomer, of East Yards, resigned his position.

Decatur, Cassopolis and East Yards went to Bros. J. B. Ryan, of Daily; C. L. Bennett, of Marshall, and C. L. Hutchins, of Yorkville, respectively. Bro. J. O'Rourke landed Daily.

During the past month a rather strong protest against expensing bills at night developed at Dowagiac, which resulted in three men leaving the service, two of them having since returned. The other, Bro. Frazer, having gone to another road. It is said the situation at Dowagiac will be taken up in the regular way for adjustment.

The legislatures of Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina, Texas, Nevada, West Virginia and Arkansas have all enacted eight-hour laws for telegraphers. These laws being independent of the national nine-hour law. There will be no question about these laws being constitutional, as they are laws of the States, which are supreme.

Judge Cochran, of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky, has rendered a decision finding Section 10 of the Erdman arbitration law, constitutional, and fined an official of the L. & N. Ry. for a violation of this law.

Bro. T. J. Barry is now dispatching trains on the Alleghan Division.

On account of the sickness of Bro. Gifford's mother he had to get relief at Battle Creek, which was furnished in the persons of Bros. Palmer and Leavy.

Bro. McIntyre, of Eaton Rapids, has been working in the Jackson office recently.

Bro. Northrup, of Cassopolis, has been holding down Albion nights and Bro. Slowey days, in the absence of Bro. Culkina.

Main Line—

It was with deep regret that we learned of Bro. C. P. Smith's decision to sever his connection with this company, but it is a pleasure to know that the brother is in a position to enter business on his own account, and hereafter enjoy some of the comforts of life that have been denied him since he entered the telegraph service, October 19, 1885. We wish him success. Bro. S. E. Wholihan, lately of Leonidas, succeeds Bro. Smith at Augusta, and Bro. Graham, of Decatur, moved up from night work to day work at Leonidas.

Bro. W. H. Ryan, of Botsford, had to leave his work during March and April on account of the death of his father, the latter being a veteran employe of the road. We sympathize with Bro. Ryan in his loss.

J. J. Lavy, who is now on the relief force, was one of the old pioneer O. R. T. men, having joined the movement at its inception. Some years ago after leaving the service he dropped out, but advises he is anxious to get back to his old love as soon as he can.

Mr. Poulson, of Pokagon, and Mr. Drummond, of Miller, are the two champion nobs.

According to newspaper dispatches from West Virginia the railroads served notice on the telegraphers of that State that upon the advent of the eight-hour law, which went into effect May 9th a proportionate reduction would be made in salary and that the telegraphers at once served notice on the railroads that any reduction would be met with resistance.

Bro. Ed Phillips, of Glenwood, has been away on a vacation and has been relieved by Bro. Bob Phillips, of Dowagiac.

We understand that Chief Dispatcher Phillips will be out of the office a good part of the summer on other work, being relieved by Night Chief Whitcher, and Dispatcher Gardner acting as night chief.

We extend the glad hand of fellowship to the O. R. T. D. and all its members. Never before was there such harmony existing between the telegrapher and the dispatchers, each working to assist the other for the betterment of the service.

The Air Line and Valley Division seem to be about as enthusiastic in the matter of news items as the D. T. & M. and So Haven Divisions. Everybody reported as sticking to his post.

Bro. G. W. Lewis, of Middleville, is off for a much-needed rest for a few weeks. Bro. M. M. Wilson is looking after things during his absence.

Bro. G. D. Eddy, Dutton nights, has been transferred to Van Horn days, Bro. Rourke having been appointed agent and telegrapher at Daily.

Bro. Willson, agent at Richland, has moved his family back to Yorkville and is enjoying the beautiful spring time and "balmy" and invigorating air by driving to and from his work. The balance of the division is reported as peacefully slumbering.

Great Northern Ry.

While attending the Grand Division Convention at Minneapolis there was brought to my notice a state of affairs which exists in too many cases. I am sorry to say, but which can be easily corrected.

During one of the very spirited debates a chap wearing the button came in and sat himself down beside me: He had an up-to-date card and was O. K. After sitting there a minute or so he asked me what was going on and I explained it to him, but he showed no interest in the proceedings at all and was leaving when I asked him how long he had been in the Order. "Three months," he answered.

Brothers, when a new man shows up near you, and if you get his application, don't drop him as soon as he gets his card, but talk to him of the good work the Order has done for us and teach him how to be a good brother. This man of whom I spoke had joined the Order, but did not understand it, its benefits and possibilities, therefore, had no interest in its proceedings. Is this the kind of a man who will stick to us through thick and thin? No, I say, no. My brothers, it is up to you, this making of good members and strengthening the Order, for a weak link spoils a chain, and let us have no weak links in our great chain.

Get all the new members you can and bring them up in the ways of this Order—bring them up as you would bring up your own son to attend the same church as you and to hold the same religion as you. Wake up.

If any of the brothers differ with me let's hear from them. "Bluzs."

Twin City Telegraphers' Club.

At last meeting of the club, June 8th, which was attended by a few visiting brothers, we had a social smoke and should have had election of officers, but on account of the lateness of the hour, after disposing of other business it was decided to postpone election until our next meeting.

Committee in charge of arrangements for entertaining delegates and their friends while attending convention, made a final report and was discharged with thanks of the club, which they were justly deserving of for the able manner in which they handled the arrangements.

The club voted thanks to Mrs. Lester and also presented her with a silk umbrella in appreciation of her work in looking after the welfare of the lady visitors, which she did ably.

Everything came off fine and all seemed to be satisfied with their treatment.

There is, however, one thing that did not come out as we would like to have had it and the club did all it could to have it come out all O. K., and that was in the matter of the photos taken of delegates and friends. I have received a few complaints from brothers that had ordered photos and paid for them, but had not received them.

There were two parties who took pictures of the delegates, one was from Minneapolis, the other was what you would term a floater, going from place to place with wagon. The club recommended the man from Minneapolis and would stand good for any mistake of non-delivery and see that the brothers got their photos. This was done to protect the brothers, but all the complaints I have received have been from brothers who bought of the party not recommended by the club. The club has tried to locate this man, but up to present time has been unable to do so. Everything that the club knows of with this one exception, came off to the satisfaction of all.

Not much more news for this write-up. President Beamer, of the club, promised to give correspondent some items, but up to sending this in have not received anything from him, so must do the best we can. I guess he has not gotten over his experience at banquet yet, so we must allow for that.

By the time our next write-up goes in we will probably have a new correspondent. CLUB COR.

CATALOG G-22

Something Electrical for Everybody.
144 pages, 750 illustrations. Sent free.

EUREKA TELEGRAPH INSTRUMENT

A moderate priced combination set, recommended as a learner's apparatus, being low in price, durable and efficient. Copy of Philosophy and Practice of Morse Telegraphy free with each instrument. Wound, 5 ohms, $1.15; Wound, 20 ohms, $1.25.

BOX SOUNDING RELAY

Designed to work on long and difficult lines, and at same time to dispense with local sounder and battery. Regulator permits volume of sound to be increased or decreased at will. Price, 150 ohms, with key, $4.50; price, 150 ohms, without key, $3.50.

POCKET TOOL KIT

This outfit is indispensable to the practical electrician. The case is made of the best quality of russet leather, hand-stitched. It is of convenient pocket-book style, with firm metallic clasp, and measures 3x6 inches. It contains the following tools, viz: 1 Electrician's Knife, 1 Oil Can, 1 Pair Nickel-plated 6-in. Pliers, 1 File, 1 Pair Tweezers, 1 Pair Electrician's Shears and 1 Screw Driver. Price, complete, $3.25.

SNAPPER SOUNDER

Makes a loud, sharp noise, the "click" being similar to telegraph sounders.

Morse alphabet characters can be transmitted a considerable distance in or out of doors by persons familiar with the art of telegraphy. Postpaid 10 cents.

IMPROVED MAIN LINE SOUNDER

Gives three times the volume of sound given by the very best box relays. Made with full size relay magnets, 150 ohms resistance.

Very sensitive to weak currents, giving a clear working sound on circuits where, without it, a relay with local sounder and battery would be absolutely necessary. With key, price, $4.50. Without key, price, $3.75.

UNION LIGHTNING ARRESTER

A combined Cut-out, Ground Switch and Lightning Arrester. Protects the instruments and house from damage by lightning and enables operator to terminate the line at his station by grounding the circuit. Instrument may also be disconnected from main line when desired. Complete, with cut-out pin, 40c.

ELECTRIC ALARM CLOCK

Set in usual manner to ring at a certain hour and clock movement throws into circuit a vibrating bell which will ring for hours unless switched off. Clock may be placed anywhere and the bell and switch arranged near the bed. Any of our vibrating bells may be used. High-grade clock movement. Price, clock, as shown, $1.25.

ANTI-DOC MEDICAL APPARATUS

Accomplishes results as quickly as any high-priced battery. No home should be without one. Unfailing relief for rheumatism, operators' paralysis, etc. Costs less than one application by your doctor.

Price, complete with 96-page guide, only $2.00.

Illinois Watches

THE BEST MADE FOR RAILWAY SERVICE.

Bunn Special

SHANGHAI

Bunn

You can get any kind of a movement you desire in the Illinois Watch Line but, no matter which one you purchase, it will be the best watch of its class to be had any place or at any price, for railway service. Any railroad man who owns one or any jeweler who sells them to railroad men will tell you so. What you want is a watch that will never go back on you rather than one on which you can recover in case there is anything wrong with it. You can absolutely depend on Illinois Watches and they are fully guaranteed, too.

One dealer writes: "I have sold hundreds of Illinois Watches and never had one returned."

Look for the names exactly as shown here, engraved on the movements themselves, if you would purchase the best watches made—Illinois Watches.

THE ALLEN IMPROVED FOUNTAIN BRUSH

THE ALLEN FOUNTAIN BRUSH

A 3-MINUTE BATH, HOT OR COLD

The ordinary old style bath brush laden with filth, corruption and disease breeding germs, contaminated by the vile and poisonous excretions from the human body is fraught with untold dangers and to the man or woman of refinement is repulsive.

Wash rags and sponges do not open or cleanse pores, are superficial in action, unsanitary and germ breeding, do not refresh or invigorate. The Allen Fountain Brush is Sanitary and Self-Cleaning. Continuous flushing of the bristles with pure clean water that flows through the Brush while in use prevents contamination and accumulation of dirt and impurities.

The Allen is the only bath brush possessing the "Three-in-One" essential functions, Friction, Shower and Massage. The only bath brush which at one operation opens the pores, thoroughly cleanses the skin, imparting a healthy tone and glow and puts one in condition to resist colds, LaGrippe and all contagious and infectious diseases. Its use promotes clear complexion, bright eyes, cheerful spirits and sound refreshing sleep.

In the ordinary tub bath you rewash in water contaminated by previous contact with the body—water laden with dirt and impurities. With the Allen Fountain Brush clean water only is applied to any portion of the body at will. It secures all the scientific effects of the bath for the old or middle aged, for the robust and strong. The only safe bath for the delicate and weakly. A boon to womankind—just the bath for the little ones.

Portable Outfit:—For quick shower or cleansing bath in your own room, at home or while traveling. Fountain Brush, 1 gal. Sanitary Metallic Fountain or Rubber Water Bottle, Hose, Syringe, Points, Water Regulator and Safety Floor Mat. Four styles; Gem $3.75, Niagara $4.75, Superb $6.00, Improved Superb $6.50.

Bathroom Outfit:—Adds 100% to enjoyment and efficiency of bath. Fountain Brush, Hose and Faucet Attachment. (Give diameter of faucet.) Four styles, Gem $2.25, Niagara $2.75, Superb $3.50, Improved Superb $4.25. Any outfit on receipt of Price.

Remember the Allen Fountain Brush is guaranteed as to utility, efficiency and durability.

A RIBBON of three colors and a small lever that brings the color desired between the type and the paper—that's the three-color feature of which enables it to write

The New Tri-Chrome Smith Premier Typewriter

black record for documents, purple copying for letters and red for emphasis or display.

It is so simple that the wonder is it was never discovered before. The ribbon-changing lever is as accessible as the keys, making it possible to change from one kind of typewriting to another in an instant.

A stenographer equipped with a Tri-Chrome Smith Premier can produce in proper manner every kind of typewriting any business office demands.

The price is the same as that of all Smith Premier models.

BLOOD POISON

We have a Remedy unknown to the profession. We refund money if we do not cure. You can be treated at home for the same price as if you came to our office. We will give you a guaranty to cure or return money. For many years we have been curing patients in every country in the world. Our treatment is in every sense a home treatment. If you have exhausted the old methods of treatment and still have aches and pains, mucous patches in mouth, sore throat, pimples, copper-colored spots, ulcers on any parts of the body, hair or eyebrows falling out, it is this secondary blood poison we guarantee to cure. We solicit the most obstinate cases. This disease has always baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. For many years we have made a specialty of treating this disease with our Magic Cure, and we have $500,000 capital behind our unconditional guaranty.

WE CURE QUICKLY AND PERMANENTLY

Our patients cured years ago by our great Discovery, unknown to the profession, are today sound and well, and have healthy children since we cured them.

STOP-WATCHES TO STOP TRAINS.

Wilkes - Barre's Mayor Determined His Police Shall Be Right.

Special to "The Record."

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 19.—The crew of a fast train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad were arraigned before Mayor Kirkendall to-day, charged with running their train through the city limits at faster speed than the ordinance permits.

The train was drawn by two engines, and both engineers testified that they had not exceeded the speed, and their watches were proof. The special policeman who lodged the information against the crew had only a silver watch.

The Mayor said preference would have to be given the high-class watches of the railroad men and the crew was discharged. In the future the policeman will have a stop-watch, and he will note the time of trains.

PERMANENT VICTORY —FROM— TEMPORARY DEFEAT

IN the first round of litigation over patents on the mechanical transmitter, the lower court has held that the MECOGRAPH transmitters No. 3 are infringements of Martin's patent. We have appealed from that decision, and confidently expect to "land on top" when the appellate court renders its decision.

The Coffe Mecograph was the first mechanical transmitter placed on the market. (By mechanical transmitter, is meant one not requiring a battery.)

The Mecograph was received with such marked favor and worked such a revolution in telegraphy that, naturally, various other mechanical transmitters sprang into existence. Our temporary defeat brought on a violent brain storm, resulting in MECOGRAPH No. 5, one in no way affected by the litigations above referred to. It eclipses everything else in the line of transmitters, even MECOGRAPH No. 3.

It is the simplest, best made, most delightful transmitter an operator ever touched.

MAKE PAY-DAY

"SAVE-DAY"

ALMOST every one finds it hard to save money, yet admits that it is one of the most important things in life.
Like many other things, saving is largely a matter of habit.

Get Into the Habit of Saving!

Make a resolution today to lay aside a portion of your pay each week or month on pay-day, before it gets away from you, before "it burns a hole in your pocket," and deposit it in some reliable bank. There will then be no immediate temptation to spend it and you will also be receiving interest on your money.

One of the most reliable banks in the country, one that has withstood fire, financial panic and the test of time is

The Hibernian Bank

THE OLDEST SAVINGS BANK IN CHICAGO

It has a capital of One Million and a Half Dollars and a surplus of over One Million Dollars. It is now completing its forty-first successful year, having been established in 1867.

No matter where you live, you can open an account with THE HIBERNIAN BANK through its perfected system of "Banking By Mail." Send for circular. One Dollar opens a savings account. Interest is paid on all savings accounts.

THE HIBERNIAN BANK also has a large Commercial Department and has the best of facilities for handling open check accounts.

Its age and reliability make this institution an ideal depository for trust or society funds. If you are the trustee of any such moneys or know of any one who is, it would be glad to have you investigate its fitness for handling such. Your recommendation of this Bank to any of your friends will be highly appreciated.

The Commercial Telegraphers' Strike

ONE OF THE GREATEST STRUGGLES IN THE HISTORY OF ORGANIZED LABOR. A GENERAL TIE-UP OF ALL COMMERCIAL BUSINESS OCCURS

The Strikers are Standing Firm and Success Seems Certain

MEMBERS OF O. R. T. WILL ASSIST STRIKERS FINANCIALLY

ONE of the greatest struggles in the history of the country between organized labor and organized capital is now on.

The entire commercial business of the country is in a stagnant condition as a result of a general strike of the commercial telegraphers, members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Negotiations between the Commercial Telegraphers' Union and the two great commercial telegraph companies have been in progress for a number of months and an amicable settlement of the matters at issue was hoped for, especially with the Postal Telegraph Company, which has heretofore been looked upon as more friendly to organized labor, especially the telegraphers, than the Western Union Telegraph Company.

The negotiations dragged along from week to week and month to month until the present situation is the natural consequence.

In the early stages of the negotiations, the President and General Executive Board of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union held conferences with the officials of the Postal Telegraph Company, which it was believed at that time would result in a mutual understanding between employer and employe.

After the last conference between the officials of the Postal and the officers of the Union, the company agreed to take up and carefully consider the various complaints of the telegraphers as well as the schedule presented it and to make its reply in writing. The reply was not received for some time and was wholly unsatisfactory to those interested, as practically nothing was conceded.

The efforts of the officials of the Union to bring about a conference with the Chief operating official of the Western Union Telegraph Company were unavailing, as the management of that company refused to meet the committee, which refusal it was feared would precipitate a strike. About this time, Commissioner of Labor Neill interested himself in the dispute, and exercised his good offices in an effort to bring about an understanding between the two parties, a detailed statement of which was published in the last issue of THE TELEGRAPHER.

Later the San Francisco strike took place, and Commissioner Neill hurried to that city in an effort to bring about a settlement of it, in order to prevent a general strike, which it was feared would occur as a result of that trouble.

Through the efforts of Commissioner Neill, the San Francisco trouble was settled, and what was believed to be a general understanding had.

Among other conditions of settlement, were that all of the strikers should return to work within a given time; that the company in future would receive committees of employes and treat with them; that upon resumption of work, the question of increased pay would be taken up.

The officers of the union charge that the conditions of the settlement were not lived up to by the companies; that when the men applied for reinstatement, as provided for in the agreement, they were put off from time to time and that other indignities were heaped upon them in open violation of the agreement.

About this time, a woman scab who was working the Los Angeles wire in San Francisco became involved in a quarrel with the telegrapher working the San Francisco wire in Los Angeles. Those who are in a position to know, claim that the fault for the trouble rested with the scab in San Francisco, but regardless of this fact, the officials of the Western Union discharged the man in Los Angeles, which resulted in a strike in that office. A day or two afterwards when an effort was made to renew business between Chicago and Los Angeles with a scab at the latter point, a telegrapher in Chicago refused to work the wire with a scab at the other end, and he was discharged, which resulted in an immediate walkout of all the telegraphers in Chicago Western Union office, and when an effort was made to move business from the Chicago office with the few scabs which they had succeeded in securing, strikes followed in rapid succession at Kansas City, Denver, Dallas, St. Louis, Birmingham, Atlanta, New York and all the other important commercial telegraph centers of the country, which are still in progress at the time of going to press.

After the telegraphers at a number of the more important offices of the Western Union had gone out, those employed in the Postal office at Chicago, became embroiled in the trouble and went on strike, which rapidly spread to all the other important offices of that company.

Later the strike spread to the Associated Press, and still later to the leased wires.

The present strike has resulted in the most complete tie-up of business that has probably ever occurred in any particular line or calling. The business of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies is practically at a complete standstill, as they have not been able to secure scabs in numbers that have proven of any particular benefit, and the strikers have remained firm in all sections of the country. Those who are in a position to know, estimate that there are considerably less than five per cent of the original force at work, including students from telegraph schools, check boys who barely know the alphabet and all others.

Business is only accepted subject to delay and much of that filed is sent by mail. Public sympathy is generally with the strikers regardless of the inconvenience it has caused.

Many of the leading newspapers of the country have championed the cause of the strikers since the trouble began and have shown a disposition to allow the true situation to be known in marked contrast to their attitude heretofore during labor troubles.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, one of the leading newspapers of St. Louis, in a recent issue enumerates many instances of great delays to telegrams and a resort to the mails by the telegraph companies as a means of "transmitting" telegrams. Among others it published an interview with an officer of one of the leading banks of St. Louis, who said:

"St. Louis being one of the three central reserve cities is not hit so hard as other cities. Customers of St. Louis banks are the ones who suffer. Last Wednesday I sent a telegram to our correspondent in an Oklahoma town regarding a certain lighting plant. It was a matter of credit and was of enough importance to justify a telegram. I received no reply and sent another telegram Thursday. Saturday I received a letter from our correspondent answering my first telegram. He said he received the telegram by mail, though I had prepaid the telegraph tolls. This instance is one of fifty I might cite which have occurred since the strike began."

Interviews are also published with produce merchants, wholesale jewelers and others who use the telegraph extensively and they relate similar experiences.

Reports from all over the country show that large and enthusiastic meetings are being held daily in all the great telegraph centers and that the men are fully determined to remain out until victory crowns their effort.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers has issued a call to all members of the Order for voluntary contributions for the benefit of the striking Commercial Telegraphers.

About 20,000 men are affected.

President Small, of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union is credited with the following statement as the reason for the widespread dissatisfaction existing among the Commercial Telegraphers of the country, which finally culminated in the present great struggle.

"First—The long-continued and persistent efforts of the Western Union Telegraph Company notably, and the Postal Telegraph Company, incidentally, to reduce their operators to a state of servitude absolutely impossible of human endurance.

"Second—The repeated violation of agreements entered into by the Postal Company with its telegraphers and the persistent refusal of the Western Union Company to receive committees of its telegraphers for the purpose of discussing grievances.

"Third—The utter disregard of the promises made by Colonel Clowry in his letter to Commissioner of Labor Neill, dated June 20 last, followed by the direct and voluntary breaking of the written agreement attending the San Francisco strike, July 19, 1907, which agreement, with the original signatures thereto attached, is now filed with the Department of Commerce and Labor at Washington."

STRIKES AND LOCKOUTS.

THE twenty-first annual report of the Bureau of Labor, which report deals in strikes and lockouts occurring in the United States between 1881 and 1905, has just been issued and is a most complete document, containing much interesting and valuable information on these subjects. The report shows that there were fewer strikes and lockouts in 1905 than during any year since 1892. The report further shows that the year 1904 was noted for the large number of strikes occurring during that year. The report shows that the total number of strikes in the United States during the period of twenty-five years covered by the report was 36,757, and of lockouts 1,546, or a total of 38,303 labor disturbances.

The report also shows that strikes occurred in 181,407 establishments and that lockouts occurred in 18,547 establishments, making a total of 199,954 establishments in which these interruptions of work occurred, and that there were 7,444,279 employees engaged in those strikes and lockouts.

A general synopsis of the report follows:

The industries of the United States suffered less from strikes during the year 1905 than in any year since 1892, if the number of employees thrown out of work by strikes and the duration of the strikes be taken as a measure. In that year 221,686 employees were thrown out of work by 2,077 strikes undertaken by 176,337 strikers in 8,292 establishments, and lasting an average of 23.1 days in each establishment involved.

These favorable industrial conditions as regards strikes during 1905 were apparently exceptional, and can not be assumed to indicate any lasting tendency toward industrial peace, for the preceding period of six years (1899 to 1904) was a period of extraordinary industrial strife, and the number of employees thrown out of work by strikes in each of the four years (1901 to 1904) exceeded the number thrown out of work in any year on record save 1894.

The year 1894 stands out in the history of the country as the year most notable for the great number of workers thrown out of work by strikes, over 660,000 employees being thrown out of work by 1,349 strikes undertaken by 505,049 strikers in 8,196 establishments, and lasting an average of 32.4 days in each establishment involved. In both 1902 and 1903 the number of employees thrown out of work by strikes was slightly less and the average duration somewhat shorter, although the number of establishments involved in 1903 was 6,000 greater than ever before, reaching 20,248.

These facts are brought out in the Twenty-first Annual Report of the Bureau of Labor of the Department of Commerce and Labor, devoted to strikes and lockouts in the United States during the twenty-five-year period 1881 to 1905, just issued.

The total number of strikes in the United States during the twenty-five years was 36,757 and of lockouts 1,546, or 38,303 labor disturbances of both kinds. Strikes occurred in 181,407 establishments and lockouts in 18,547 establishments, making a total of 199,954 establishments in which these interruptions of work occurred.

The total number of persons who went out on strike during the twenty-five years was 6,728,048, and the number of persons locked out was 716,231, making a total of 7,444,279 employees striking and locked out.

EMPLOYEES THROWN OUT OF WORK.

Because of the dependence of one occupation upon another in the same establishment, the stopping of work by strikers and employees locked out in one or more occupations often makes it impossible for fellow-employees in other occupations to continue work. The total number of employees, including strikers, thrown out of work by strikes was 8,703,824, and the number thrown out of work by lockouts was 825,610, or a total of 9,529,434 employees thrown out of work in the establishments immediately involved in strikes and lockouts. These figures do not include any employees thrown out of work in the many establishments not immediately involved in the strikes and lockouts, but dependent in one way or another on the establishments involved, as for material, power, etc.

Over 90 per cent of all those thrown out of work by strikes were males and only 9.43 per cent females. In lockouts 84.18 per cent of the employees thrown out of work were males and 15.82 per cent females.

DURATION OF STRIKES.

The average duration of strikes per establishment was 25.4 days and of lockouts 84.6 days. The strike or lockout does not, of course, always result in the closing of the establishment involved, but 61.38 per cent of all establishments involved, or 111,343, were closed an average of 20.1 days. In lockouts 68.25 per cent of all establishments involved, or 12,658, were closed an average of 40.4 days.

INDUSTRIES MOST AFFECTED.

The greatest number of strikes in any one industry was in the building trades, which had 26.02 per cent of all strikes and 38.53 per cent of all the establishments involved in strikes. In the coal and coke industry were 9.08 per cent of all strikes and 9.39 per cent of all establishments involved in strikes. This latter industry had more strikers and more employes thrown out of work by strikes than any other industry. The building trades were second in order in both these respects, with the men's clothing and iron and steel industries next. In lockouts the building trades led all other industries, having 16.49 per cent of all lockouts, more than one half of all the establishments involved, and about 30 per cent of all the employes locked out and of persons thrown out of work.

STATES MOST AFFECTED.

Employes and employers who are concentrated in the great industrial States are more prone to engage in strikes and lockouts than those throughout the country generally. Thus the five States—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts and Ohio—had 63.46 per cent of all strikes and 69.44 per cent of all the establishments involved in strikes, 56.22 per cent of all lockouts and 77.99 per cent of all establishments involved in lockouts, although these five States had only 45 per cent of all the manufacturing establishments of the country in 1900.

STRIKES OF ORGANIZED LABOR.

The importance of the part that organized labor plays in strikes is indicated by the fact that of the total number of strikes in twenty-five years 68.99 per cent were ordered by labor organizations, and the strikes so ordered included 90.34 per cent of all establishments involved in strikes, 79.69 per cent of all strikers, and 77.45 per cent of all employes thrown out of work in establishments involved in strikes.

MORE STRIKES SUCCEED THAN FAIL.

Employes who went on strike succeeded more often than they failed. They succeeded in winning all the demands for which the strikes were undertaken in 47.94 per cent of the establishments, succeeded partly in 15.28 per cent, and in only 36.78 per cent of the establishments did they fail entirely to win any of their demands. On the other hand, the employers, when they took the initiative and locked out their employes, succeeded more often than they failed. Lockouts resulted wholly in favor of employers in 57.20 per cent of the establishments involved, succeeded partly in 10.71 per cent, and failed entirely in 32.09 per cent of the establishments.

STRIKES OF ORGANIZED LABOR MOST SUCCESSFUL.

The strikes which were ordered by labor organizations were much more generally successful than those not so ordered. Thus, strikes ordered by labor organizations were wholly successful in 49.48 per cent of the establishments involved, partly successful in 15.87 per cent, and failed entirely in only 34.65 per cent of the establishments. On the other hand, strikes not ordered by labor organizations were wholly successful in but 33.86 per cent of the establishments involved, partly successful in 9.83 per cent, and failed entirely in 56.31 per cent of the establishments.

LEADING CAUSES.

During the twenty-five-year period covered by the investigation of the Bureau of Labor 40.72 per cent of all strikes were undertaken for increase of wages, either alone or in combination with some other cause, and 32.24 per cent were for increase of wages alone. Disputes concerning the recognition of union and union rules, either alone or in combination with some other cause, produced 23.35 per cent of all strikes and were the sole cause of 18.84 per cent. A reduction of wages was the cause, wholly or in part, of 11.90 per cent of the strikes, and 9.78 per cent were to enforce demands for a reduction of hours. Only 3.74 per cent of the strikes were sympathetic.

Of the total number of establishments involved in strikes 57.91 per cent were involved in strikes undertaken wholly or in part to enforce demands for increase of wages.

The most important cause of lockouts was disputes concerning recognition of union and union rules and employers' organization, which alone and combined with other causes produced nearly one-half of all lockouts and included more than one-half of all establishments involved in lockouts.

The percentage of strikes for each of the leading causes has varied largely from year to year, but in every year save 1884 and 1904 strikes for increase of wages have outnumbered those for any other one cause. In 1884 a greater number (38.15 per cent) were undertaken wholly or in part against reduction of wages, and in 1904 38.92 per cent were for recognition of union and union rules. In recent years the percentage of strikes against reduction of wages has shown a notable decrease, as is of course natural in a period of advancing wages. On the other hand, the percentage of strikes concerning recognition of union and union rules has shown a remarkable increase, for while they constituted less than 9 per cent of all strikes between 1881 and 1885, and never reached 20 per cent in any single year prior to 1896, yet during the five-year period 1901 to 1905 they constituted more than one-third of all strikes. The sympathetic strike, which in the early eighties was comparatively rare, but between 1889 and 1894 became of considerable importance, since 1894 has not constituted as much as 3 per cent of all strikes in any year except 1904.

Strikes for increase of wages have been more successful than those for any other cause, having entirely failed in only 31.36 per cent of the establishments involved in strikes for that cause, while the next most successful, those against increase of hours, entirely failed in 37.09 per cent of the establishments involved. Strikes concerning recognition of union and union rules entirely failed in 42.88 per cent of the establishments involved, and sympathetic strikes, the most unsuccessful of all, entirely failed in 76.53 per cent of the establishments involved.

SETTLEMENT OF STRIKES.

Within recent years the effort to bring about the settlement of strikes and lockouts by joint agreement of organizations representing the parties or by arbitration by a disinterested third party has been attended with considerable success. During the five-year period 1901 to 1905, 5.75 per cent of all strikes and 12.20 per cent of all lockouts were settled by joint agreement and 1.60 per cent of the strikes and 2.03 per cent of the lockouts were settled by arbitration. These methods of settlement have been thus far largely confined to a few industries, practically one-half of the strikes and two-thirds of the lockouts settled by joint agreement being in the building trades, and about 14 per cent in the coal and coke industry. Of the strikes settled by arbitration more than one-fourth were in the building trades and 13 per cent in the coal and coke industry. These figures do not fully represent the progress of these methods of settlement of disputes between employer and employe, for both methods are being used to a large and increasing extent to settle disputes before a stoppage of work occurs.

EIGHT-HOUR LAWS.

THE enactment of the eight-hour law governing the employment of railroad telegraphers continues, New York, Connecticut and Wisconsin being the latest acquisitions to the list.

The New York law, which becomes effective October 1, 1907, is a straight eight-hour law with limitation regarding its application; the limitation being a stated minimum number of trains that shall be handled on a line before the law becomes applicable to such line.

The Connecticut law has no limitation regarding the number of trains, but exempts one-man stations from its provisions.

The Wisconsin law is a straight eight-hour law with no limitations whatever, except in case of accident.

Another feature of the Wisconsin law is the penalty provided for violation thereof, which is a fine of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars for each offense.

The new laws are as follows:

WISCONSIN LAW.

An Act to create a new section to the statutes of 1898, to be known as Section 1816m, relating to railroads.

The people of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. There is created and added to the statutes of 1898 a new section to read: Section 1816m. It shall be unlawful for any corporation or a receiver operating a line of railroad, in whole or in part, in the State of Wisconsin, or any officer, agent or representative of such corporation or receiver, to require or permit any operator to remain on duty for more than one period of eight consecutive hours, and when said operator shall have been on duty for said eight hours he shall be relieved and not required or permitted again to go on duty until he has had at least sixteen consecutive hours off duty in any twenty-four hours; provided this provision shall not apply in case of casualty upon such railroad; in which case said operator may be required or permitted to be on duty not more than one period of twelve consecutive hours in any twenty-four hours, or not to exceed three days of said twelve successive hours each at one time.

2. The term "operator" shall include train dispatchers, and shall be defined and construed to mean an employee who, by the use of the telegraph or telephone dispatches, or reports, transmits, receives or delivers orders pertaining to or affecting the movement of cars, engines, or trains, or who handles such cars, engines, or trains by or under what is known and termed the block system; the "block system" shall be defined and construed to mean reporting cars, engines or trains to another office or offices and to the train dispatcher registering same and operating one or more order or signal devices, and manipulating signal devices affecting the movement of cars, engines or trains from stations or towers in railroad yards or on main tracks.

3. Whenever the railroad commission shall learn of any violation of this section by any company or by an officer or agent of any such company, it shall be the duty of the railroad commission to investigate such violation at once and it shall have power to require such company to immediately provide such additional employees as are necessary to comply with the provisions of this act.

4. The failure to comply with any of the provisions of this section shall subject the corporation or receiver or any officer, agent or representative of such corporation or receiver to a penalty of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars for each offense, to be sued for and recovered in the name of the State, with the costs of prosecution, by the attorney general or under his direction, or by the district attorney for any county in which the violation may occur, and in the Circuit Court for such county, and such penalty, when recovered, shall be paid into the county treasury of the county in which the violation occurred, for the benefit of such county.

Section 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Section 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after January 1, 1908.

NEW YORK LAW.

Explanation.—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [] is old law to be omitted.

An Act to amend the labor law, relative to hours of labor of certain employes on railroads.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Chapter four hundred and fifteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-seven, entitled "An act in relation to labor, constituting chapter thirty-two of the general laws," is hereby amended by adding a new section after section seven thereof, to be section seven-a, to read as follows:

Section 7a. Regulation of hours of labor of block system telegraph and telephone operators and signalmen on surface, subway and elevated railroads.—The provisions of section seven of this chapter shall not be applicable to employes mentioned herein. It shall be unlawful for any corporation or receiver, operating a line of railroad, either surface, subway or elevated, in whole or in part, in the State of New York, or any officer, agent or representative of such corporation or receiver to require or permit any telegraph or telephone operator who spaces trains by the use of the telegraph or telephone under what is known and termed the "block system" (defined as follows): Reporting trains to another office or offices or to a train dispatcher operating one or more trains under signals, and telegraph or telephone levermen who manipulate interlocking machines in railroad yards or on main tracks out on the lines [connecting side tracks or switches] or train dispatchers in its service whose duties substantially, as hereinbefore set forth, pertain to the movement of cars, engines or trains on its railroad by the use of the telegraph or telephone in dispatching or reporting trains or receiving or transmitting train orders as interpreted in this section, to be on duty for more than eight hours in a day of twenty-four hours, and it is hereby declared that eight hours shall constitute a day of employment for all laborers or employes engaged in the kind of labor aforesaid; except in cases of extraordinary emergency caused by accident, fire, flood or danger to life or property and for each hour of labor so performed in any one day in excess of such eight hours, by any such employe, he shall be paid in addition at least, one-eighth of his daily compensation. Any person or persons, company or corporation, who shall violate any of the provisions of this section, shall, on conviction, be fined in the sum not less than one hundred dollars, and such fine shall be recovered by an action in the name of the State of New York, for the use of the State, which shall sue for it against such person, corporation or association violating this act, said suit to be instituted in any court in this State having appropriate jurisdiction. Such fine, when recovered as aforesaid, shall be paid without any deduction whatever, one-half thereof to the informer, and the balance thereof to be paid into the free school fund of the State of New York. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any part of a railroad where not more than eight regular passenger trains in twenty-four hours pass each way; provided, moreover, that where twenty freight trains pass each way generally in each twenty-four hours then the provisions of this act shall apply, notwithstanding that there may pass a less number of passenger trains than hereinbefore set forth, namely eight.

Section 2. This act shall take effect October first, nineteen hundred and seven.

CONNECTICUT LAW.

An Act concerning hours of labor of telegraph operators and train dispatchers.

General Assembly, January Session, A. D. 1907.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, persons, corporation or receiver operating a line of railroad wholly or partly within this State, or any officer, agent or representative of such corporation or receiver, to require or permit any telegraph or telephone operator, who spaces trains by the use of the telegraph or telephone, under what is known and termed the "block system," defined as follows: Reporting trains to another office or officers, or to a train dispatcher operating one or more trains under signals, and telegraph or telephone levermen who manipulate interlocking machines in railroad yards or on main tracks out on the lines connecting sidetracks or switches, or train dispatchers in its service whose duties substantially, as hereinbefore set forth, pertain to the movement of cars, engines, or trains on its railroad by the use of the telegraph or telephone in dispatching or reporting trains or receiving or transmitting train orders, as interpreted in this section, to be on duty for more than eight hours in a day of twenty-four hours, and it is hereby declared that eight hours shall constitute a day of employment for all laborers or employes engaged in the kind of labor aforesaid; provided, that at stations that are kept open only during the daytime, where only one telegraph or telephone operator is employed, such operator may work twelve hours in a day of twenty-four hours, and that the hours of service of telegraph or telephone operators, as interpreted in this section, shall be consecutive, including one meal hour; and provided, further, that in case of sickness, death, wrecks, or washouts, telegraph or telephone operators may be held on duty not to exceed sixteen hours in a day of twenty-four hours.

Section 2. Any person or persons, company, or corporation, who shall violate any of the provisions of the preceding section shall, on conviction, be fined not more than one thousand dollars.

Section 3. This act shall take effect January 1, 1908.

THE MISSOURI EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

THE eight-hour law for railroad telegraphers, which recently became effective in Missouri, has been ignored by the railroads on the ground that it was unconstitutional.

Complaints for violation of the law have been filed in different sections of the State, the first of which trials has just been held at Chillicothe, Mo., and resulted in the conviction of the company, and the imposition of a fine of $200.

The following special dispatch to the St. Louis Republic furnished considerable information on the subject:

"The Burlington Railroad Company was found guilty today on a charge of violating the eight-hour telegraph law and fined $200 by Justice Crall. It was alleged that the Burlington violated the law by requiring and permitting L. D. Howe, an operator, to work more than eight consecutive hours in each twenty-four. An appeal was taken.

"This is the first conviction that has been secured under the law passed at the regular session of the Legislature, which prohibits telegraph operators whose work is in any way connected with the movement of trains from working more than eight hours a day.

"The case was brought by Prosecuting Attorney E. C. Carr. The only evidence introduced was the testimony of Howe.

"The railroad's defense consisted of a motion to dismiss the case on the following grounds:

"That the defendant had been served by civil process and was not in court by arrest; that the United States Congress had legislated on the same subject, which barred the State from regulating the same thing; that the law is in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution in that it denies the defendant the equal protection of the law; that the law contravenes the constitutional provision regarding contracts, impairing the obligation of the company with its employees; that the amount prayed for in the petition or information—$1,000—is in excess of the jurisdiction of a Justice of the Peace, whose jurisdiction can not exceed amounts of over $250; that it is unconstitutional because it interferes with interstate commerce.

TRADES AND LABOR CONGRESS OF CANADA.

THE Secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has just issued the following official call for the twenty-third annual session of that body, which will convene in Winnipeg, on Monday, September 16, 1907:

To the Officers and Members of Trades and Labor Councils, National Trade Unions, Federal Labor Unions and International Local Trade Unions in the Dominion of Canada. Greeting:

FELLOW LABOR UNIONISTS AND BROTHERS:

The twenty-third annual session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will convene in the legislative council chamber, Broadway, City of Winnipeg, Province of Manitoba, beginning at 10 o'clock, Monday morning, September 16, 1907, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the convention has been completed.

Last year, notwithstanding the fact that the convention was held in the extreme west of Canada, namely, at Victoria, the convention, both in point of numbers and enthusiasm, excelled anything in the history of organized labor in Canada.

With the convention in Winnipeg, the future capital of the British Empire, and fairly accessible, both as to cost of transportation and time, all past records should be broken. The approaching convention is expected to be a climax of the great work of organization for the past twenty-five years in Canada. Your body can not afford to be unrepresented.

While the organization of the workers has gone on most successfully, the efforts of our opponents have never been greater or more pronounced, and the necessity for close touch amongst all branches of labor in every part of Canada has never been more marked. Matters affecting the everyday life of the toiler will be the subject of discussion on each day of the convention, and the importance of your organization entitles it to be heard in the consideration of all these great questions.

The laws passed during the last session of the Dominion Parliament, as well as those enacted by the various Provincial Legislatures, will afford much room for discussion, and will require the exercise of the best thought in the world of labor. See to it, therefore, that your delegates are on hand.

One of the most important questions to come before the convention will be the policy of the Congress towards immigration. The advent of thousands of immigrants, and the promise of thousands more, have brought the immigration question to the forefront, and today it ranks as one of the most difficult problems confronting organized labor, affecting, as it does, our wages, our hours of labor; in fact, every condition that surrounds us in the sale of our labor. As every Province has its own problems in this regard, every Province should be well represented at the convention.

So, too, the reports of the Provincial Executives as to the progress of the political action, determined upon at the Victoria convention, will be of great and enduring interest. The movements and utterances of the representatives of the Liberal and Conservative parties indicate very clearly that we will have a general election for the Dominion Parliament in 1908. This means that the Winnipeg convention of the annual Parliament of labor will be the only chance that the representatives of labor, through their Dominion Legislative Labor Body, will have of reviewing the work done by the Provincial Executives with respect to independent political action and taking such steps as they deem necessary to complete this work. Therefore, it is of paramount importance that at least every trades and labor council, from Halifax in the East to Victoria in the West, should be represented by the very best men.

Don't be content to say that there will be enough there without you. Have your own delegates present. This is the growing time, and organized labor must keep up with the procession. It is useless for you to inveigh against unjust laws, or the methods of the employers, unless you do your part in passing upon the ways and means to better yourself. Isolation from the general labor movement not only weakens your own organization but helps to destroy the movement itself.

Faithfully yours,

ALPHONSE VERVILLE, M. P.,

President, Montreal.

JAMES SIMPSON,

Vice-President, Toronto.

P. M. DRAPER,

Secretary-Treasurer, Ottawa.

IMMIGRATION.

THE question of immigration into the United States is one that is receiving serious attention at the hands of the various organizations. There were 1,285,349 immigrants landed into the United States during the year ending June 30, 1907. Of this number 258,943 came from Russia, 285,731 from Italy and 338,532 from Austria-Hungary.

On account of this great influx of cheap alien labor, various protective leagues and societies are being formed for the purpose of pushing legislation in the National Congress looking toward the checking of this great influx of cheap labor into the United States. That some prompt and decisive action should be taken is apparent, and as legislative measures are necessary, it would seem the best means to accomplish the desired end would be active agitation for the amendment of the immigration laws of the country; and in order to bring this about, it will be necessary to impress upon the minds of the members of the National Congress that the people demand this legislation, and it should be made an issue in the next campaign.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Forty-four new and revised schedules have been secured since January 1, 1907.

One thousand three hundred and sixty-nine new members were initiated into the Order during the month of July.

At the time of going to press 24,952 members had already paid dues for the new term ending December 31, 1907.

It is said that Grover C. Pyle, whose name appears on the Katy scab list, is now working for the Iron Mountain at Earle, Ark.

The surplus in the Mortuary Fund of the Mutual Benefit Department continues to grow and will probably pass the $200,000 mark by the end of August.

The accompanying is an engraving of an official O. R. T. gold ring. These rings can be had from the Grand Secretary and Treasurer for $4.50. In ordering them it is only necessary to give the size desired, which information can be secured from any jeweler.

The statement issued by the Bureau of Immigration for the month of June, 1907, shows that there were 154,734 aliens landed at the various ports of entry in the United States during that month; that there were 1,311 debarred from entrance, classified as follows: Idiots, 5; insane persons and epileptics, 27; paupers or likely to become public charges and beggars, 545; loathsome or dangerous contagious diseases, 271; convicts, 7; polygamists, 1; contract laborers, 418; insufficient or no passports, 14; under provision of Chinese Exclusion Act, 14; accompanying aliens, 9. The report also shows that there were 72 aliens returned by the immigration authorities after landing. The total number of aliens landed in the United States during the month of June, 1906, were 119,900.

Help to complete thorough organization throughout the country by furnishing the Grand Secretary and Treasurer with a correct list of all non-members in your territory, using care to give correct initials, the correct spelling of the name, and the correct address, and also to show the road on which they are employed.

The Cincinnati Post, in a recent issue, publishes the following special from Atlanta, Ga.:

"The fight of Hoke Smith, formerly Secretary of the Interior under President Cleveland, but now the reform Governor of Georgia, for purity in politics and legislative meetings, is having effect.

"The Georgia Legislature has passed a drastic anti-lobby bill which was inspired by the Governor. It provides that every lobbyist must register with the Clerk of the House and Senate and must present signed affidavits telling of every bill in which they are interested.

"No lobbyist shall be allowed on the floor of either the House or the Senate. They can appear before committees only. Violation of this law shall be punished by fine and imprisonment.

"The 'third house' in the Georgia Legislature has previously been notoriously open, lobbyists button-holing members on the very floor of the House. The railroad lobby was the strongest, and it was on a platform of compelling the railroads to obey the mandates of the State that Gov. Smith was elected."

It is a deplorable fact, but nevertheless true, that many members have never even read a copy of the constitution and by-laws. Each and every member should inform himself at least upon the more important points and familiarize himself with the more important laws.

* * *

The purpose for which labor is employed by a corporation is to profit from the results of labor. The problem, however, involves both the question of a fair division of profits and the exactions of employment. Labor has a right to have something to say upon this problem.

* * *

Bishop Fallows, of Chicago, in a sermon delivered in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal Church, declared himself a firm believer in trade unionism, and said it was nonsense to affirm that the trade unionist infringed on the constitutional rights of the non-unionist, and added: "Unionism is the very salvation of labor; perish every effort to destroy it. The non-unionist is reaping the benefit of the sacrifices and labor of his union fellows, and he has a right to recognize the sacredness of his obligation to them."

* * *

We all believe that God ordained that men should earn their bread by the sweat of their brow; but we are sometimes inclined to think that God Himself couldn't make some of them get their bread in that way. But, then, it might be because they don't earn it; they just "get" it.

* * *

To talk about the improvement of your job is union agitation. If you suggest to your fellow employes that the job should pay better wages you are making yourself obnoxious to the employing management. If you are working for an "open shop," or non-union management, you'll get fired. There will be no help for it. You won't even be told what you are discharged for, unless the management wishes to make an example of you before other employes.

J. R. BRANDON,
Local Chairman P. R. R., Div. 12.

When a man accepts benefits he has done nothing to earn, he is as much a thief as if he deliberately stole a million dollars. Any non-unionist who by his refusal to join the union of his craft, pays nothing to maintain it, yet takes advantages that the union inaugurates, is that thief.

A well fed, well housed, well clothed and well educated laboring man is better for society—better for the merchant, better for through deception, and you are accounted a respectable citizen. Poison a man with arsenic and you swing from the gallows;

O. R. T. GROUP—N. Y., N. H. & H. RY., RIVER POINT, R. I.

the employer, better for the nation—than an underfed, poorly clad and ignorant laboring man. Organized labor believes so and is working to that end.

Be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them; despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness, fear nothing except cowardice; be governed by your admonitions rather than by your disgusts, and covet nothing that is your neighbors except his kindness of heart and greatness of manners.

* * *

Swindle a man through forgery and you get "pinched." Swindle him through misrepresentation of your goods, make money poison him with adulterated foods, quack medicine and diseased meats, and no "sleuth" haunts your footsteps. Kill a man with a crowbar and you sit in an electric chair. Kill him by overwork and you are called a "captain of industry."

If you don't like the way your union is run, says an exchange, dig in and run it yourself, but don't be a do-nothing and complain because others are doing the work you should help do. If a clique is running it, join the clique. They are the workers without whom the local would go out of existence. Anyone can be a "knocker," it takes a good man to be a worker.

Ignorance and conceit go hand in hand.

There is all the difference in the world between the selfishness of a capitalist and the selfishness of organized labor. The one means an increase of selfish luxury for one man or a single family; the other means not luxury, but increase of decency, comfort, self-respect, more ease for the aged, more schooling for the young, not of one, but of hundreds of thousands of families.

To-day everything is a trust. If we want to purchase the necessities of life we must go to the trust for them. Many of life's pleasures are being trustified, and in New York the barber shop trust has already as many as twenty shops under their control. Trusts, trusts, everywhere, yet not one of them will trust you nor can they be trusted. Put your trust in your union and your fellow unionists and the criminal trusts will find it hard to live.

The cause of organized labor lives not for the present alone, but for the future, with its basic existence firmly fixed in the hopes crowned with success is to be seen in the accelerated stimulation of thought aroused among all people. Not even the bitterest antagonism can break down the rock of its hope, to which holds the hearts of the wage earning masses, and nothing can impede its march nor defeat its purposes but treachery in its corps of membership. Its advance will be just as rapid in proportion as the spirit of fraternity is developed, and its demonstrable strength shown in the willingness to bear one another's burdens manifested by individual members.

In 1864 printers struck on the Democrat and the Republican of St. Louis. That was in war times. General Rosecrans was in command at St. Louis. He detailed a number of soldiers who were printers to take the strikers' places. The union printers sent in a report of the condition of affairs to President Lincoln. The answer was as follows: "Order those soldiers back to duty in the ranks. The servants of the federal government shall not interfere with and aspirations of the toilers for equitable conditions of justice and right. Its high and noble purpose is to create a healthier public opinion, and that its efforts are being the legitimate demand of labor so long as I am president."

A mistake is a sin that never grew up.

Why does an employing corporation oppose the labor union? Is it because the management is unable to fix the hours of labor and the wage rate without consulting the employees? That appears to be the only objection. It is a certainty that the management exercises that prerogative where no labor union exists. In such cases the employees work absolutely as the management pleases that they shall work, and for such wages as the management pleases to pay them. How can such a condition be changed? Only through the formation of a labor union. Then we readily see why the union is opposed.

MISS CARRIE PEARL SEID.

First lady member Sunbury Division, No. 12.

In Cincinnati, stereotypers, organized, receive 44 cents per hour. In Toronto, stereotypers, organized, receive 37 1-2 cents per hour for the same class of work. The street railway employees of Cincinnati, unorganized, receive a less rate of wage per hour than that received by the organized street railway employees of Toronto. Statistics show that living expenses are 20 per cent higher in Cincinnati than in Toronto. These figures show an interesting comparison.

Does there exist an inalienable right to work as one pleases, and without restrictions? If so, why cannot anyone be employed as a lawyer before the courts? There are many who are not lawyers with whom it would be more safe to trust many cases before a court, or jury, than with many lawyers. Yet anyone employed who has not passed an examining board of lawyers would not be permitted to conduct or even plead the case. The job is a "closed shop" proposition. Yet the loudest denouncers of the unionism of labor are some corporation lawyers.

The modern trades union is the champion and protector of childhood and womanhood. It is the trades union that is agitating and fighting to rescue the child from the drudgery of factory life and place it in the school, just as the same agency is demanding an equal wage for men and women for equal work performed. It is the trades union that has abolished the sweatshop conditions existing in thousands of workshops, thereby enabling thousands of women to receive better wages and improved conditions. It is the trades union that today saves thousands of young women from selling their honor on the street. The trades union is the greatest moral influence of the 20th century, and it has done and is doing more to uplift the toiling masses than all other agencies combined.—Industrial Banner.

One of the prominent preachers of Knoxville, Tenn., on the Sunday before Labor day, used the following language in his opening prayer: "O Lord, may these disturbers of the peace who are teaching theories that society cannot adopt, soon see the error of their way and cease agitation." Some 1906 years ago there came to this gray old globe a blessed "disturber of the peace," who taught "theories that society could not adopt." He wanted the golden rule to be the law of the land; he stood for the toilers and scourged the idlers; he was indignant at those who had "kept back their laborer's hire"; he laid strong stress on the commandment: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread and not in the sweat of the face of another"; in short he believed that human rights had the precedent over "vested rights." They crucified him!—and no doubt the Knoxville pharisee would be the first to cry "Crucify him!" if he were here today.

Organized labor is necessary to man, it is necessary to peace and the prosperity of the country. Labor is merchandise that will not keep. In its individual capacity it is helpless and must take what it can get. It cannot go to another market, for when it leaves home the wife and children are

It is absolutely inconceivable how an intelligent workingman who keeps abreast with the times and studies modern industrial conditions can possibly remain outside the fold of his particular craft, if that craft be organized. If a man is so sorely lacking in intelligence as not to be able to realize his utter insignificance as an individual when brought face to face with the great forces of organized capital, he can not think for himself and must be left as a mere tool in the hands of his organized employers. But if a man understands the labor question, he knows the beneficial results of organization; and if he remains neutral, he is simply taking this stand in order to secure the benefits without contributing to the support of organized labor.

"Workingmen have the right to fix a price upon their labor and to refuse work unless that price is obtained. Singly or in combination, they have this right. They may use persuasion to induce men to join their organization or refuse to work except for an established wage. They may present their cause to the public in newspapers or circulars, in a peaceable way and with no attempt at coercion. If the effect in such case is ruin to the employer, it is damnum absque injuria, for they have only exercised their legal rights."

This is the enlightened opinion of the Supreme Court of Michigan, which was handed down some time ago in a case in which an injunction was sought by an employer to restrain his workingmen from using the boycott in their fight for conditions they considered right. We should hear little opposition to the injunction in labor disputes if the rights embodied in this decision were generally acknowledged by the judiciary.

“Fourteen.”

“Suppose you’ve a widowed mother to support, never smoked a cigarette in your life, and attend Sunday-school?”

Bobbie’s face flushed ’till the freckles stood out in bold relief and his complexion matched his hair—which was very red.

“That’s none of your business. I come here looking for a job an’ I’ve got a recommend in my pocket. If you don’t want me, say so, an’ I’ll git.”

The sporting editor swiveled round in his chair and looked at him, then he grinned. The sporting editor also had red hair and his name was McDonald.

“I guess you’ll do. Consider yourself engaged—salary three dollars per, if you’re worth it—if you’re not you’ll get fired—see? Go over there,” indicating a bench at the end of the long room, “and wait ’till you’re wanted. My call is three bells, and when you hear ’em you come, and come on the lope—understand?”

Bobbie thought he understood. He pushed a straggling lock of red hair off his forehead and walked down the long room just as he felt at ease (which he didn’t) to a bench where several other boys were seated.

They sidled along barely enough to afford him a precarious edge, then by nudging each other and their audible criticisms of the “new guy” caused Bobbie’s complexion to run up into his hair again.

“Guess tomatoes is ripe,” whispered one boy to his neighbor.

“Wonder if his mudder made them pants?”

“Say, fellers, git onter the Eyetalian sunset!”

The line giggled.

“The Spaniards an’ the Irish
They don’t amount to much,
But anything is better Than a red-headed Scotch,”

The bench creaked under suppressed merriment. Bobbie’s eyes flashed and his fist doubled.

“I’ll fix you for that, see ’fi don’t!” he hissed in his neighbor’s ear.

The line squirmed appreciatively.

Just then three sharp taps of a bell sounded and Bobbie obeyed the summons—otherwise circumstances might have caused him to relinquish his position then and there. He threw one glance over his shoulder. The glance took in the whole bench, but was directed particularly to the “captain,” he who had referred to the red-headed Scotch. The aforesaid captain was an exception, as office boys go. He wore two clean collars a week, his shoes were always polished, and ’twas understood that the crease in his trousers was preserved by placing them under his mattress every night. He was regarded with awe adulterated with hatred by his understudies, and his name was Alfred Clarence Smith.

Bobbie did very well the first week and drew his “three” without censure or comment from the man higher up. Incidentally he did have a widowed mother, and he also had two older brothers who should have helped lift the burden from his young shoulders, but they didn't. However, this has nothing to do with Bobbie and the H. T. and is a direct digression. Bobbie entered on his second week with the consciousness of duty performed and a growing dislike for Alfred Clarence.

Now, Alfred Clarence was a protege of the "O. M.," which was short for the Old Man, which was still shorter for Mr. James Montgomery Harris, the managing editor.

The sporting editor, McDonald, was known in the office as the Holy Terror—"H. T." for short—and between the O. M. and H. T. there existed an armed neutrality which threatened to become open hostilities on the slightest provocation. McDonald was the smartest man on the staff and the O. M. knew it. There had been some talk by the stockholders of removing the O. M. and placing the H. T. in his chair. This fact, coupled with some remarks passed by McDonald to the effect that "the doped Irish handed out as editorial gush was an insult to intelligent readers," had riled the O. M. considerably, and he had it in for the H. T. He had one card up his sleeve and was waiting his chance to play it.

The H. T. occasionally and periodically indulged too copiously in the cup which cheers, also inebriates; his tongue might be a trifle thick at such times, but good Lord how he could write! There were no bubbles on his typewriter ribbon, his English flowed like a tank of Standard oil on tap—smooth, clear, concise.

The O. M. had warned him that the next time his libations exceeded the limit, he would be relegated to the "Brigade"—which means newspaper men out of a job. The H. T. hadn't been found "asleep at the switch" for some three months previous to Bobbie's arrival.

The office was expecting an outbreak shortly, and the hushed undercurrent of uncertainty hadn't escaped Bobbie's notice although he was too green to fathom its depths.

"Huh," remarked Alfred Clarence, "you think you're solid with the H. T., but you just wait 'til this day's over. I'll lay you a quarter that both him and you'll be poundin' bricks tomorrer."

Bobbie had listened to previous unpleasant insinuations from Alfred Clarence, but somehow the creased trousers (Bobbie had tried the mattress process, but it was not a success) grated on his nerves with unusual harshness.

"Mind your own business," he growled, "or I'll give you what's comin' to you right here and now."

Alfred Clarence moved along on the bench and continued from a safe distance: "You sweet angel child, you ain't been in this office long enough to read the signs. The H. T. is wearing a red necktie this mornin', an' that's a best bet that there'll be somethin' doin' before night."

Bobbie looked perplexed.

"When the H. T. comes out in a necktie what matches his hair," continued Alfred Clarence, "it's a sign that he's goin' to fall off'en the water wagon, an' this time he gits fired, an' you too."

Bobbie didn't wait to hear any more. He tore off his coat and rolled up his sleeves.

"Come here you pie-faced dude, take them words back or—"

Alfred Clarence grew pale, but he didn't respond. Instead he placed his thumb on the end of his nose, which was a very unwise thing to do. Bobbie had him off the bench in a jiffy, and sailed in with a vehemence which not only disarranged the creased trousers but put the wearer to the mat, where he took the count. Bobbie stood over his vanquished antagonist and was rolling down his sleeves, when a hand grasped the remnant of his collar from behind.

"Come here, you imp! What do you mean by fighting in the office? I've rung your call till the bell's cracked—come here!" The hand on his collar hustled Bobbie along 'till the compartment at the end of the long room was reached, partitioned off by ground glass and labeled in very large letters, "Sporting Editor—Private."

Here the hand was relaxed, and Bobbie was forcibly seated on a chair.

"Now then, wot in 'ell you been doin'?"

Bobbie regarded the H. T. fearlessly with one eye (the other was closed for repairs) and wiped his nose on a very bloody handkerchief.

"If you please, sir, that mut, Alfred Clarence, he said that you an' I was goin' to get fired."

"Oh, he did, did he?" The H. T.'s jaws set. "Anything else?"

"He said, sir, 'twas on account of the necktie you're wearin'."

McDonald fingered his tie absently for a moment, then he tore it off and threw it into the wastebasket. Whether by accident or design his lapses from rectitude had been heralded by lurid cravats. He took several turns up and down the ground glass cage, then he laid a hand on Bobbie's red head.

"Say, kid, I guess we can fool the bunch a while longer. Get into what's left of your clothes an' come out an' have an ice cream soda. We'll also buy a necktie—something chaste and subdued—an' you take this tip from me, kid, neither you nor I are goin' to sever our connection with this joint just at present—understand?"—By GERTRUDE MARYLAND MOORHOUSE, in The Painter and Decorator.

THE BANK'S MEANEST MAN.

IT was four thirty in the afternoon at the Third National Bank.

"Say, you fellows," exclaimed the paying teller, glancing down toward us, "who's the newest man this year?"

The fellow next to me raised his head.

"It's Phillips," he said.

"Send him here, then," returned the other.

I was Phillips. Accordingly I went.

"Phillips," said the teller, "let's see. Were you here Christmas of last year?" He knew as well as I did that I was not, but a man of his importance must ignore details. So I told him.

"I came in last October," I replied.

"So you did," he resumed; "well, now, see here, Phillips. Christmas is only two days off, and it's always been our custom here to get up a little purse for the runners and the porters and the elevator men, and we always ask the newest man to pass around the hat. Now, here's a list showing just how much money we want for the purpose. It's up to you, Phillips, to see that the fellows shell out enough of the stuff. Understand?"

I nodded and took the list. The receiving teller looked in at the back door of the cage with a broad grin on his face.

"Tell him about the prize, Willoughby," he said.

"To be sure," returned the other. "I 'most forgot it."

He leaned over toward me with a confidential air.

"Now, Phillips," he continued, "there's one man in the bank who is particularly liberal on these occasions—and that man is Williams, over there at the end of the line—and for that reason we've taken lately to offering a prize—a prize to the fellow who can get Williams to break his record for generosity—to put up more money than he ever did before."

He stopped and winked at the other man, then he went on.

"Williams heretofore has always given up the same amount—neither more nor less—so it's up to you to go in and win the prize; no man has done it yet."

He dismissed me with a solemn nod.

I started in at once. My plan was to go to all the other fellows first and leave Williams to the last.

I did so. There still remained a considerable unsubscribed deficit, and it was my determination to get Williams to make it up if I could.

So I stepped up to his desk and broached the subject.

He looked at me uneasily as I began and started to shake his head before I was half way through.

"I—I can't do it," he said, looking everywhere but at my face. "I—I'd like to, you know, but my salary is small, and—and—but no, I'm sorry, but I can't do anything this year. Perhaps next year—"

"But, Mr. Williams," I protested, "look at the list. All the other fellows—"

"I know," he said, "but I—"

He hesitated for a moment, and then thrust his hand into his trousers pocket and drew forth a coin.

"Here," he continued, "I'll go this far—I'll give you this. I would never spend it any way, myself—It's a pocket piece. I hate to let it go, but you can take it."

He passed it over to me.

It was an old, time-worn three cent piece. He gazed at it hungrily as it lay in my palm.

"It would buy some fellow a cup of coffee and a roll," he said. "But," he continued, "it's a pocket piece—I'd never spend it, so you can have it."

I took it for what it was worth.

Next morning, before Williams arrived, I went to the paying teller and made my report. He took the money.

"What about Williams?" he inquired.

I held out to him the three cent piece.

"Williams is no good this year," I replied. "This is all I could get out of him."

"What?" exclaimed the paying teller, in evident astonishment.

Then he raised his voice.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," he cried.

The men from all parts of the bank flocked to his cage.

"Gentlemen, resumed the paying teller, with his hand upon my hand, "I am happy to announce that Mr. Phillips here has won the prize. He has done what no one before him was able to accomplish. He has succeeded in inducing Williams to increase his annual donation by the sum of just three cents. Phillips," he added, addressing me with ceremony, "I—I congratulate you, sir. You have accomplished the impossible."

A great shout of laughter and applause went up. It suddenly abated as the front door opened to admit Williams, the object of their merriment.

Williams came in and slunk off to his desk. He looked, I thought, like a whipped cur.

My duties as collector of gratuities did not cease with Christmas.

A young runner of ours was knocked down in his street and broke his leg. Wiloughby found that his people were poor, and that the lad would need some extra attendance, and that it would come hard—so we took up another collection—that is, I did for the others.

And again I approached Williams. But Williams stolidly said no. And they told me that it had ever been the same.

Williams had steadfastly and for years ignored all appeals of a kindred nature. He was a good man, they told me—did his duty to the bank and all that; but they never got a cent from him.

To him there was no such thing as good-fellowship or charity. Apparently he didn't know what they meant.

And they had ostracised him.

Whether he realized it or not was hard to tell. He simply went his way, and they went theirs.

But it was enough, goodness knows. As a part of the machinery of the bank he was recognized; but as a man, a friend, a fellow companion, he was utterly ignored.

And I despised him with the rest.

But when the "Major"—Major Biddle, the colored porter of the bank, a man the bank had had for fifteen years—when Major Biddle died, I made an extra effort to tug at Williams' heart strings. I thought to myself that at such a time the man would surely yield.

Biddle had a wife and family—a lot of clean, curly headed little darkies that came down to the bank once in a while—and they were dependent solely on his wages.

We did well by them. The Major was a faithful man—and a popular one, too—hand in glove with all of us, and with half of Wall Street for that matter—and we did the best we knew how, and it did us good to do it.

But Williams was adamant. He wouldn't give a cent.

"Phillips," he said to me confidentially on that occasion, "see here. You've always treated me well—better than the others, and I want to tell you—I want you to know—that I would do this thing if I possibly could do it. But I simply can't. It's a case of the impossible, that's all."

He placed his hand upon my arm. "I want you to believe it," he concluded.

While he was talking I noticed that one knee of his trousers had been patched where the cloth had worn. He kept his hand over it most of the time. His clothes were old and faded. These things worried me a bit and set me to thinking, and I told Wiloughby about them and about what he had said.

Willoughby laughed at me.

"Phillips," he remarked when I had finished, "that fellow has said the same thing to each of us in turn. It's nothing but a bluff. And as for the clothes and the rest—there's just one explanation of the whole thing—the man is a mean one, with a capital M.

"I want to tell you this, Phillips. I've been here as long and longer than Williams has, and I know him like a book. He's mean clear through. It's a passion with him. That's all there is to it. I've watched him, and I know.

"And if there's a meaner, more despicable man in God's world than that man Williams, I hope I never meet, or see, or hear of him. That's all I've got to say, and you can put that in your pipe and smoke it."

Well, I asked all the rest, and they all told me the same story—every one of them. He was mean—Williams. That's all there was about it.

Occasionally old Jenkins came around.

Jenkins was a superannuated old clerk that the bank had kept in its employ just as long as it was possible to do so. But banks are not charitable institutions, and Jenkins had to leave—five years before. He was absolutely of no use to the bank. And so he went.

It was understood that some relative was taking care of Jenkins—he was provided for, at any rate. So the bank never bothered its head about him—nor anybody else, for that matter.

But Jenkins would come around once or twice a year, and Willoughby—good-hearted fellow that he was—always had me take up the usual collection.

"Don't be ashamed to take it, Jenkins, old man, he would say kindly; 'we're all coming to it some day. Besides,' he added, 'the bank owes you a living, and we're only trying to pay you a part of the bank's indebtedness—that's all.'

And so the old man bowed his thanks and took it.

By this time I was about through with Williams, as you may believe, but I asked him, notwithstanding, to contribute to the Jenkins fund.

I anticipated his denial, and turned on my heel almost before the utterance of his refusal had left his mouth.

But, would you believe it—on every one of these occasions, after old Jenkins had said a word to each of us, he would go and stand at Williams' desk for half an hour, beaming all over, and chatting away as though Williams was the greatest friend and benefactor he had ever had.

And Williams seemed to let the old man think so, too.

"Confound that fellow, Williams," said the teller. "Stringing the old man like that! I'm going to tell old Jenkins all about it."

And he did, but the old fellow only shook his head and smiled.

"Why, Mr. Willoughby—" he began. And then he stopped. "But no," he resumed, "he told me not to tell it—otherwise I would. But you're all mistaken," he added, "you are indeed."

"Now, what game of talk has he been giving Jenkins?" said Willoughby, as Jenkins left the bank. "He ought to be ashamed—the hypocrite," he added.

It was two days later that the president stepped out and called me.

"Phillips," he said, "tell Williams that I'd like to see him, will you—in my office?"

I went down the line to Williams' desk. Then I came back.

"Mr. Williams is not there, sir," I reported. "He isn't here today."

"What!" exclaimed the president.

Then he stuck his head in at the cashier's room.

"Any mail from Williams?" he inquired. "He isn't here today."

But there was none, and Williams didn't show up on that day or the next.

On the third day the president spoke to me again.

"Phillips," he said, "something must have happened to Williams, otherwise he would have let us know. Here's his address. Suppose you go up there at noontime and find out what the matter is, and let me know. I can't account for it."

I found Williams in a hall bedroom—the only room he had—on the top floor of a cheap tenement way up on the East Side. He was in bed.

As I entered he sat up and rubbed his eyes. He sat there for a moment and looked at me uncertainly. Then he spoke.

"Oh, it's Phillips," he said in a sort of weak voice.

"Phillips," he explained, "I—I overslept this morning. I'm glad you came. You can explain it to them. You see, last night when I left the bank I wasn't feeling very—"

"Last night!" I exclaimed. "What are you talking about? You haven't been there for two days."

"What—what's that?" he cried. "Two days!"

He looked at me stupidly for a minute.

"I—I must have been sick, then. I must have been out of my head. Two days—two days!"

He leaned forward suddenly and caught me by the hand. "Say, Phillips," he continued eagerly, "will my salary go on the same? I've never been sick before, and I don't know. Ask 'em for me, will you, when you go back? I hope it does. I can't afford to lose two days. You ask 'em, will you? And, say, Phillips, you tell the old man that I'll be down tomorrow morning, sure. I would have come today, but I tried to dress this morning and found I couldn't finish. You tell him about it, Phillips, will you? And, say," he added as I started for the door, "find out about the salary—whether it goes on."

"Well," said the president to me three-quarters of an hour later as I stood before him, "what's up—what's the matter with him?"

"Well," I replied, "I saw him, sir. He was in bed. He said he was sick, sir; but he didn't look it."

I was determined not to spare Williams in the least degree.

"He didn't look it," I repeated. "His eyes were bright, and his cheeks were red—plenty of color in his face—and he looked better than I ever saw him look, Mr. Breslin, that's a fact, sir."

I was a mere lad, and came of healthy stock, and knew nothing of the signs of illness—the effects of fever. The president looked at me with an expression of concern.

"What," he cried, "red cheeks—Williams with red cheeks! Good Lord, man—he must be sick. Come here with me."

He took me out to Willoughby.

"Now," he said, "tell Willoughby what you have just told me. Now, Willoughby," he added when I had finished, "Williams must be in a bad way, worse, even, than we supposed. Can't you go up there after four today, and see what you can do for him? Do anything that's necessary, you know—if it's a case of doctors or medicine, or anything, why, get it and charge it up to me. Williams has been here a long time, and the bank can't afford to lose him, you know—he's too good a man."

The teller looked at me and made a grimace. He didn't like the job. But he said he'd go, and after hours he went.

I was a few minutes late next morning myself. I entered to find the whole office force gathered around Willoughby in expectant attitudes, while the teller was starting in on one of the harangues of which he was so fond.

"Fellows," he began, as he looked around upon the crowd, "I want to tell you that we're the meanest, snidest set of cads and bounders in the City of New York—that's gospel truth—and I'm the king pin of the lot."

"We think we're about the most liberal, whole-souled set of fellows in town—but let me tell you we're away off. There's just one man in this bank," he continued earnestly, "and only one—who knows what the word charity really means, who'd go without a shirt to his back, or without food to fill his stomach, for the sake of helping another man along—and that man's name is Williams—Johnny Williams—and don't you forget. And he can give us cards and spades and beat us all hands down, at our own game."

There were smiles of incredulity, murmurs of astonishment.

"I mean it," resumed Willoughby, "every word of it. Look here," he added, "you all know what Williams gets a year. Well, let me tell you what he does with it. I found out all about it. And we all thought he was laying away the stuff. Listen, and I'll tell you."

"He's got a crippled sister—I saw her, and she's in about as bad shape as any one could be, spine and hips all out of gear—and it costs Williams over half his salary to furnish that girl with medicine and doctors and massage and surgical appliances, and all that sort of thing.

"Well, that's natural, of course; that's to be expected. She's his own flesh and blood.

"Well, then, his brother died four years ago, leaving a sickly wife—I saw her, too—and five little tots, and I saw them. Their mother can't do much, of course, and they're not old enough to go to work, and so Williams takes care of them—and of her, too. No reason why he should, of course—we know that—but he does. And that isn't all either, not by a long shot."

He paused and glanced around again on all the interested faces. Then he struck his desk with his clenched fist.

"We ought to be ashamed of ourselves—the whole gang. You all know old Jenkins," he continued. "Well, you know we all thought old Jenkins had some friends or relatives who were taking care of him. Well, he hasn't—not one. And they were going to cart him off to the poor house—this was five years ago, just after he left—the old man was without a cent.

"Well, sir, Johnny Williams stepped into the breach, and for five years he's paid that old man three hundred dollars a year—and taken food out of his own mouth and clothes off his own back to do it. And that's the kind of man," he added fiercely, "that we've been bullying and browbeating and cussing all these years.

"If I had my own way," he said severely, "I'd go out there and knock the whole gang of you, and then give you leave to knock me out afterward.

"Now, wait a minute. That's not all," he interposed as one of the fellows started in to speak. "Williams is in a bad way. He's nothing but skin and bone. He's got a bad fever, and he's out of his head. The doctor says he's simply starved to death. He says that it was simply a matter of a few cents with Williams—that if Williams could have spent only five cents more a day for food—a loaf of bread or a quart of milk more—he could have stood it. But now——"

He stopped for an instant.

"And oh, I forgot to tell you," he went on again. "Williams is engaged to be married—a fine girl—I saw her, too; and they are wrapped up in each other, and there isn't a chance of their getting married—well, for years. But they're sticking it out, both of them, and she's waiting for him—and she will, till doomsday, if necessary—she's that kind. And—and," added the teller in a husky voice, "and fellows, it's—it's a damned shame. Confound cur ugly hides that's what it is, and nothing else."

We were all dumbfounded. We stood there, none of us knowing what to say.

The teller started in again.

"There's just one thing we can do," he said. "We can never pay him up for the way we've treated him, but we can do something for him. Williams hasn't got a cent—not a sou. The doctor says he's done for, unless one thing pulls him through.

"If Williams is to live and get well, he's got to go away—that's the only thing that'll save him. And it's going to cost two hundred and over—say two fifty at the outside. Now——"

The receiving teller poked his hat through the window from his cage next door.

"You've talked enough now, Willoughby. Here, Phillips," he said to me, "pass around the hat. We'll make up the amount. It's money that talks—even better than Willoughby, though he's good at it, I'll admit."

But Willoughby held up his hand.

"We won't do it that way," he said. "I've thought it all out."

He took a small coin out of his pocket.

"It's Williams' three-cent piece," he added. "I've kept it as a souvenir. We—we'll raffle it off. I've got the slips all ready. Every man will take a slip and pay so much. We'll draw tomorrow after hours. The lucky man gets the three cent piece. How'll that do?"

It was satisfactory to the crowd. By noon all the slips had been sold, and we were shy only about twenty-five dollars. But the president made that up himself.

Next day at four, Willoughby called me to his desk. He held out his hat.

"Have you got the slips?" he said.

I nodded and put them in the hat.

"I—I made out one for Williams, too," I said, producing it. (It was No. 51). "I thought he ought to have a chance."

"A good idea," he said. "Let me have it."

He took it, but I didn't see it go into the hat.

"Now call the rest of them," he added; "this must be open and above-board."

They came, and he told them about the one we had put in for Williams. They approved of the idea.

"Now gentlemen," he continued, "Phillips will shake the hat well, and then hold it up above my head, and I will draw."

I did as he directed. When everything was ready, he put his hand into the hat. As he did so, I saw that he inserted a long, lean middle finger between his coat sleeve and his cuff.

"I've got it!" he exclaimed. "Here it is."

He produced a slip. We crowded round and looked at it.

"It's No. 51," he said. "Look on the list, Phillips, and see who's the lucky man."

Everybody looked.

"Why—its Williams!" they all cried.

"Why, so it is," he said. "How very odd."

And he glanced around at me with a smile that was childlike and bland.

It was three months later to a day when we next saw Williams. He came in one afternoon, all tanned and browned—for the first time for many years with some natural color in his face.

He passed at once into the president's room, but waved his hand to us as he disappeared from view.

The cashier, who was in there at the time, was good enough to tell us later what occurred.

After the usual—or rather, unusual—greeting from the president, the president asked Williams to take a seat. Williams did so.

"Now, Williams," he said, "the board have insisted on my employing a private secretary—I'm getting old and perhaps forgetful," he added with a smile, "and I suppose I need one. I want to offer you the job. The salary is fair—five hundred more than you've been getting. The duties are somewhat onerous perhaps. I'm rather cantankerous at times, but——"

Williams looked at him with gleaming eyes.

"What is the nature of the duties, sir?" he inquired in his embarrassment, for want of something else to say, perhaps.

"I—well, said the president—and then he stopped. He caught the cashier by the sleeve.

"Say, Carruthers," he whispered, "what the devil does a private secretary do—tell me in ten words? I never had one before, and I'll be hanged if I know myself."

"Why, yes, Mr. Williams," he resumed aloud. "Yes, of course. The duties of a private secretary are, of course, well understood. He must look generally after the details, you know, and then he must—well, yes, he must look after the details. That is about the scope of his duties—to—to look after the details."

"I shall be very glad—only too glad," began Williams, but the president interrupted him.

"And, oh yes, Williams, there's another thing I want to say. I've got a little cottage with a little piece of ground around it back here across the river, in the country. It's no good to me, and I've made up my mind to get rid of it. So I thought I'd give it to—to Mrs. Williams as a sort of a—a—wedding present, don't you know. I don't know what better I could give her, or what better means I could find for getting rid of it."

Williams looked at him aghast.

"But there isn't any Mrs. Williams!" he protested.

The president glanced up, apparently in anger at the protest.

"Williams," he said severely, "that's—that's a mere matter of detail—you must arrange that—you musn't bother me about—about details. I don't employ you to do that. All I say is that I'm going to give that house and lot to Mrs. Williams—that's all there is about it. There's the deed. I haven't filled in the first name. That's a matter of detail, too. I leave it to you. You fill in the name."

Williams looked at the two men in a dazed sort of fashion. Then he blushed up to the roots of his hair. Finally he found his voice.

"It's Katherine," he said simply, looking out of the window.—The Boilermaker's Journal.

EFFECTS OF LIONS ON RAILROAD OPERATION.

THE lions of East Africa appear to be watching the progress of civilization with deep interest, and nothing has done more to arouse their curiosity and wonder than the trains on the Uganda railroad. The road, from the Indian ocean to Victoria Nyanza, is 584 miles long, and between the terminal points are 39 stations. The line is managed on the system of the Indian railroads, and most of the men in the track, train and station service are East Indians. The Indian station agent is known as a babu, and he leads a lonesome life. Simba, for example, where the lions have been making a special study of the railroad system, has only a station building, a water tank for the engines and a side-track, this being one of the places where trains pass each other on the single track road.

The trouble began at Simba about a year ago, when the traffic manager at Nairobi one morning received this astonishing telegram from the babu at Simba: "A lion has been bothering me for three nights. He comes upon the station platform and goes to sleep. Then he walks up and down, scratches on the wall and door and tries to get into the office. Please send cartridges for a Snider rifle by the first train for my protection. I have blank cartridges, but they are of no use against lions."

This profound observation has the earmarks of sober truth. Whether the lion desired to buy a ticket or whether a fellow-feeling for the lonesome babu induced him to try to cultivate his acquaintance is not known, but it is quite certain that blank cartridges were not appropriate ammunition, and that ball cartridges were in demand. It is to be supposed that they were promptly supplied, but if so, they did not make a deep impression upon the pests. for in August another hair-raising telegram reached the traffic manager, as follows:

"August 17, 2:45 a. m.

"Urgent. To Traffic Manager:

"A lion is on the platform. Please instruct guard and engineer to proceed carefully, and to make no signals in the yard. Tell the guard to advise passengers not to get out here, and to be very careful himself when he comes into the office."

This distress signal from Simba had the immediate result of starting a British sportsman in that direction, who shot three lions, but was badly hurt before he killed the third one. The poor babu was left again in the wilderness, but not exactly monarch of all he surveyed. He told the train hands every day that he could not sleep at night and his nerves were badly shaken. There was nothing doing, however, for several weeks after the great day when three lions had been laid low within a few rods of the station. Then came another nervous telegram.

"Extra urgent. Track hand was surrounded by two lions while returning from signal box. He climbed a telegraph pole near the water tank. He is up there yet. Order train to stop there and take him aboard. The traffic manager will please make necessary arrangements."

The track man succeeded in reaching the station before relief arrived. For several days the telegraph wire was burdened only with routine dispatches. Then another episode was proclaimed in the following shape:

"To guard and driver of down train: Carriage of secretary in on the siding, where he shot a lion just now, and others are roaring on Makindu side. Driver must proceed without signals and stop engine opposite station. Guard must not get out of the brake van."

Later advices have not yet come to hand, but if any station master is finding life monotonous and longs to have a dull routine peppered with incident and adventure, perhaps he may arrange to swap jobs with the babu at Simba.—Railway Times, India.

THE LABORER'S PAY CHECK.

SPIKE SPROGGINS was known by every one in the town in which he lived. He was a handy man; one of those chaps that jog along through life in a happy-go-lucky fashion. Spike was a merry-souled lad, who could file a meat-saw or sew a button on a shirt. If the town pump got out of order Spike Sproggins fixed it. Election days found Spike with a star and a club guarding the sanctity of the polling place. When the section boss on the railroad got permission to increase his force Sproggins was sure to find steady employment until the next reduction was made.

The average section foreman is none too particular in making up his time, book and the railroad pay-rolls, for such gangs of men abound in nicknames or abbreviated Christian names. The roadmaster put on a new clerk and when the time books reached the office at the end of the month, Sproggins' boss was asked by wire to furnish the correct Christian name of his worthy assistant. After dusting the cobwebs from his memory Sproggins remembered there had been a Christian name given him.

The pay checks arrived in due time in care of the station agent. Spike, with the other members of the gang, reported for his check but was informed that no check bearing his name had been received.

Several exchanges by wire and mail brought out the fact that Spike's Christian name had been substituted for his pseudonym. The check at length reached his hands. Straightway Sproggins proceeded to try and square himself at the various mercantile establishments in the town. His trials had only begun.

The butcher knew Spike Sproggins, but declared he would not be bamboozled into cashing a check bearing a name unknown to him.

The baker threatened to have Spike arrested for forgery in trying to pass off a check in the name of another Sproggins who was not known to the inhabitants of the town.

The candlestick maker did not get a chance at the check, as electric lights are used in Sproggins' home town.

The banker insisted upon identification. Clerks, bookkeepers, cashiers and customers offered with acclaim to vouch that the man with the check was known to each personally and familiarly as Spike Sproggins. "But," exclaimed the banker, "the check is drawn in favor of William Sproggins! Is this William Sproggins?" And they answered as one man, "Not William but Spike!"

At last the disgusted section hand appealed to the superintendent. That functionary found upon his desk one morning a letter containing a pay check. The letter ran:

"Deer Sir:—Me name its Spike Sproggins, so it is. The boss, McCarty's after getting some society notions into his head and makes a fool of himself be puttin' down me name as William. That's me name, all right, all right, but the devil a wan in this town knows it, and so I want you to make me check payable to Spike Sproggins or I'll know ye're the dom crank that McCarty says ye are.

"Askin' yer pardon,

SPIKE SPROGGINS.

WOMEN AND THE STRIKE.

THE men stood about in groups at the car barns, the cars were ready, the time to start had arrived—but not a man boarded his car; not a car moved. All down the long street that stretched away to the center of the city at every street corner were groups of twos and threes or more, looking anxiously toward the car barns, from which their usually unconsidered and convenient transportation was expected to come. And down other streets all over the city people stood on the street corners and waited—and waited in vain.

At an all-night session of the union, where the final decision of the managers which denied the modest demands of the men, and refused to recognize the union as having anything to do with the matter, had been read, the strike had been declared amid great enthusiasm. This had occurred too late for the early morning papers, and so the public generally knew nothing of the situation until the newsboys began to call out, "All about the street car strike! Extra! Extra!"

Then the down-town workers began their long trudge to the factories, mills and shops, patiently and cheerfully, for they were willing to do their share toward helping the car men to a few of their rights. A little later, the express wagons, trucks, carts, as well as all the cabs and available carriages, were doing a rushing business. They were filled for the most part with clerks, stenographers, business men and women, and these, too, accepted the situation with tolerable good nature. It was only when the shoppers began to come out of their dwellings, and look for a car, that any decided grumbling was heard, and they were very much irritated that they should be so annoyed and inconvenienced.

The strike was on, and the streets presented an odd appearance. The car tracks gathered dust, and everybody who owned any kind of a conveyance reaped a rich harvest. It was hard on the shop girls who stood all day, and could not afford a ride in an express wagon; and on men who toiled hard through long, weary hours, and had to drag themselves home as best they might. But the car men got out as many teams as possible, and carried the most weary ones home free. Their strike was just, and public sympathy was with them. They were almost sure to win out—there was just one doubtful element. How would the women, the wives and mothers, the housekeepers who had to depend on the wages of the men for the comfort of their families, look on the matter? Some one has written on the effect of a strike on the housewives and mothers, and seeing only the immediate moment, warned workingmen from bringing onto their devoted heads the sufferings and privations that a strike entails. Certainly women are most vitally concerned, but that is the reason they should be enlightened as to the benefits of union and solidarity, and, as the last resort, to the necessity of the strike. The uneducated woman, the conventional housewife who knows nothing of world economics or of the progress society has made during her own lifetime, is apt to hold a very narrow and personal view. She has no realization of the common interests of workers, cannot conceive that an injury to one is the concern of all, does not know that without united action the worker is a helpless waif, subject to encroaching reductions, and miserable conditions until existence is barely possible. A community of such wives and mothers will crush any strike; and it behooves the educator who has the interests of labor at heart to reach the women. They are not hard to awaken, they catch ideas very quickly, and are thoroughly in earnest when once they do learn. They should attend meetings, read books, discuss and hear discussed all the industrial questions of the day, as men discuss them. Once awakened, labor has a force behind it that renders it well nigh invincible.

It happened that in the neighborhood where most of the car men lived, a woman lecturer had visited, a woman who was well posted, and clear in her expressions, genial and bright, and who was emphatically a woman's woman. She had interested them and taught them; encouraged them to think and to talk, and now they were as much concerned in the questions always being brought up by labor's conditions and claims as the men themselves. They were ready to take an active part in the strike with their brothers, and were present in goodly numbers when the company undertook to run the cars with scab conductors and motormen. They talked to the men who were taking their husbands' places, and very often brought them triumphantly down from the cars. They took no notice of policemen and their clubs, usually walking by them wherever they wished to go as though they were not present; and as yet the policemen were not hardened enough to strike an unarmed, unsuspecting woman. The women stood on the tracks and even sat down in front of a car about to start, and remained there until bodily carried away by the officers. All sorts of obstructions were found mysteriously placed where they would be most effective, and it was astonishing how many cars were disabled and unfit for use during the course of the day.

But there was one woman who had attended no meetings, read no books, listened to no talks on the labor question, but who, according to her own statement, "stayed at home and minded her own business, kept her house comfortable and clean, and made her husband's wages go as far as possible, and in doing this solved the problem of life far better than them masculine women who was always roamin' around to all sorts of meetings."

This is a sentiment usually applauded by the capitalist class and their hangers-on, but the day is gone by when a woman is at her best knowing nothing but her narrow home and its individual interests. On the morning of the strike, Terry Farnsworth, her husband, stood about rather uneasily, rather reluctant to quit, yet not daring to take his car out in the face of his fellow workers. After a time, he slowly picked up his dinner pail and plodded away toward home. He was a big, slow, good-natured sort of a man, very fond of home and his family, and hating trouble of any kind. His wife was slender, but strong and wiry, handsome and "capable," and usually had things her way about the house. Terry presented himself before her about nine o'clock in the forenoon, awkwardly dangling his dinner pail, and looking rather shamefaced before her sharp glance.

"What are you home for?"

"There's a strike, Sarah, an' I had to quit."

She looked him over with deliberation and scorn.

"A strike! That makes no difference to you. You go back and get on your car, or there'll be another strike right here at home, and you bet it'll win."

With arms akimbo and fire in her dark eyes, she stepped a little nearer to him, and Terry dejectedly turned and went back to the barns. A number of women were present when he slouched among the strikers, looking undecided and wretched.

"I've got to go back to work, boys, my wife won't stand for a strike."

"No, you don't! You're not the man to go back on your comrades. You can go back in a day or two with the rest of us, but not before."

But he shook his head, saying sullenly "he couldn't lay around home doin' nothin'."

The women gathered around and talked to him, and shamed him, and showed him that he could not be a traitor and hold up his head among them ever again. He sulked, but would not promise not to go to work. They sent a delegation to his home to talk to his wife. Sarah Farnsworth would not let them into the house, and would not listen to what they had to say. She said they were a lot of mischief makers, and were trying to take the bread from children's mouths. They tried to tell her that the unions were looking forward to the future of the children—that at the sacrifice of a little comfort now they could secure better conditions for them in the time to come. She shut the door in their faces while they were speaking.

Terry Farnsworth did not go back on his car; but he was about the barns a good deal, and the men surmised that his wife supposed him to be working.

The other women acted very differently. They declared they could get along with much less money than the men would have allowed them. They hunted for work, they washed, sewed, scrubbed, went into the factories where it was possible, and even the children ran errands and sold papers to help along. One little woman had a brother and a father among the strikers, and she herself was as good a union man as any of them. She brought work home from the suit factory, and sewed in her mother's kitchen, and worked so fast that she managed to get much time to go among the homes of the strikers and help the women and children. No voice was more sympathetic and invigorating than that of Minnie Walters, no hand so soothing and willing, no presence so strong and helpful. She assisted the wives in their work, nursed the sick and the young children, encouraged and upheld the men, and unceasingly worked to make the strike a success. If there were more women like Minnie Walters, workers would be better united and much nearer the goal of justice and fair conditions.

One evening just at dusk, three cars were sent out, manned by men from another city, guarded by plenty of police, but empty as to passengers. The crowd about the barns hooted and hissed as they started out, but no violence was used, and the cars proceeded slowly and cautiously for a mile or two, when they got up speed and rounded a curve where a narrow bridge spanned a deep cut in the street; only vacant lots adjoined the tracks in this locality, and the ground was very uneven. There might have been a broken rail, or some obstruction on the road, for just here the first car flew the track, turned over and crashed to the bottom of the cut, and the next, striking the end of the falling car, was thrown to one side, where for a moment it toppled, then careened, and fell a broken mass atop of the other. The third car was derailed but did not go over, and the men quickly jumped to the ground unhurt.

But beneath the broken cars men were lying crushed, wounded, dying or dead. It was a terrible accident, and in a moment the inevitable city crowd had gathered. The patrol wagons, ambulances and surgeons soon arrived on the scene, and everyone went to work.

An excited boy, who thought he knew, ran away to tell Mrs. Farnsworth of what had happened. "Was your man workin'?" he asked breathlessly, as he leaned over her gate, eager to be the first to tell the news.

"Why, yes, he's working; I'm expecting him in pretty soon."

"Well, I 'spect he's killed then, fer they's three cars went over the Deering street cut, an' they're all smashed to flinders," and the boy having delivered himself of this piece of information, flew away.

Sarah Farnsworth started out to grab the boy before he could get away, but her limbs refused to do her bidding; she trembled, felt cold and numb, for she was a good woman for all her narrowness, and very fond of her easy-going husband. She had made him go to work, when all sorts of dangers threatened the cars that tried to run, and now perhaps he was dead. She did not, in her terror and remorse, even think to condemn the hands that possibly wrecked the cars; she was thinking only how she had driven him to his death. Perhaps, too, she had been a little sorry that she had taken the decided stand she had before this terrible thing had happened. The women had not left her alone; in spite of her discourtesy, they had called repeatedly, and when she would not admit them to her house, they talked to her over the gate. They told her the particulars of the noble struggle the men were making, how necessary it was that the struggle should be made if they were to be free men, of the sense of security and solidarity that would be theirs when the battle should be won. Sarah was a woman of good common sense, if she had been rendered somewhat narrow and prejudiced by her environment and education. She saw that they might be right, but though she came to be more friendly in her attitude toward them, she was too stubborn to yield the main point. And so, every day her husband left the house at the usual hour, apparently to go to work.

And now, it might be that Terry was dead, and would never come home again. Or, he might be badly hurt and needing her. Once the thought took possession of her she ran into the street without stopping for a wrap or bonnet, and out in the direction of the accident. She stumbled and fell, and scrambled to her feet again, and ran on, and at last panting and wild-eyed she reached the spot. All the dead and injured had been carried away, but the broken cars still lay there, and a crowd lingered about gazing with curiosity and awe at the wreck.

"Where is my husband? Was he killed? Was he hurt? Why don't you tell me?" she exclaimed wildly.

"Who was he?" someone asked.

"Terry Farnsworth—tell me, some one."

At first no one seemed to know the name, but presently a young fellow spoke up, "I don't see how Terry Farnsworth could a' been hurt; he wasn't a scab."

For the first time Sarah Farnsworth realized what the word meant, and that she had been the one to condemn him in the eyes of his fellow workers. Oh, where was he now? If only he were safe, alive and well, she would never oppose him again in his work or his union, and then a group of men came up, and a hearty voice exclaimed:

"Why, if there ain't my wife! And frightened half out of her wits, poor little woman." And Sarah flew to the protecting arm, overjoyed that he was alive and well, and also that he was not and never had been "a scab."—By LIZZIE M. HOLMES. in International Woodworker.

THE GENTLE GRAFTER.

"I SEE that the cause of education has received the princely gift of more than fifty millions of dollars," said I. I was gleaning the stray items from the evening papers while Jeff Peters packed his briar pipe with plug-cut.

"Which same," said Jeff, "calls for a new deck, and a recitation by the entire class in philanthromathematics."

"Is that an allusion?" I asked.

"It is," said Jeff. "I never told you about the time when me and Andy Tucker was philanthropists, did I? It was eight years ago in Arizona. Andy and me was out in the Gila mountains with a two-horse wagon prospecting for silver. We struck it, and sold out to parties in Tucson for $25,000. They paid our check at the bank in silver—a thousand dollars in a sack. We loaded it in our wagon, and drove east a hundred miles before we recovered our presence of intellect. Twenty-five thousand dollars don't sound like so much when you're reading the annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad or listening to an actor talking about his salary, but when you can raise up a wagon sheet and kick around with your boot heel and hear every one of 'em ring against another, it makes you feel like you was a night-and-day bank with the clock striking twelve.

"The third day out we drove into one of the most specious and tidy little towns that Nature or Rand-McNally ever turned out. It was in the foothills and mitigated with trees and flowers and about 2000 head of cordial and dilatory inhabitants. The town seemed to be called Floresville, and Nature had not contaminated it with many railroads, fleas, or eastern tourists.

"Me and Andy deposited our money to the credit of Peters & Tucker in the Esperanza Savings Bank, and got rooms at the Skyview Hotel. After supper we lit up, and sat out on the gallery and smoked. Then was when this philanthropy idea struck me. I suppose every grafter gets it sometime.

"When a man swindles the public out of a certain amount he begins to get scared, and wants to return part of it. And if you'll watch close you'll see that he tries to restore it to the same people he got it from.

As a hydrostatical case, take, let's say, A. A made his millions selling oil to poor students who sit up nights studying political economy and methods for regulating the trusts. So, back to the universities and colleges goes his conscience dollars.

"There's B got his from the common laboring man that works with his hands and tools. How's he to get some of the remorse fund back into their overalls?

"'Aha!' says B, 'I'll do it in the name of education. I've skinned the laboring man,' says he to himself, 'but, according to the old proverb, "Charity covers a multitude of skins."'

"So he puts up eighty million dollars' worth of libraries; and the boys with the dinner pail that builds 'em gets the benefit.

"'Where's the books?' asks the reading public.

"'I dinna ken,' says B. 'I offered ye libraries; and there they are. I suppose if I'd given ye preferred steel trust stock instead ye'd have wanted the water in it set out in cut-glass decanters. Hoot, for ye!'

"But, as I said, the owning of so much money was beginning to give me philanthropitis. It was the first time me and Andy had ever made a pile big enough to make us stop and think how we got it.

"'Andy,' says I, 'we're wealthy—not beyond the dreams of average; but in our humble way we are comparatively as rich as Greasers. I feel as if I'd like to do something.'

"'I was thinking the same thing, Jeff,' says he. 'We're been gouging the public for a long time with all kinds of little schemes, from selling self-igniting celluloid collars to flooding Georgia with Hoke Smith presidential campaign buttons. I'd like, myself, to hedge a bet or two in the graft game if I could do it without actually banging the cymbalines in the Salvation Army, or teaching a Bible class by the Bertillon system.'

"'What'll we do?' says Andy. 'Give free grub to the poor, or send a couple of thousand to George Cortelyou?'

"'Neither,' says I. 'We've got too much money to be implicated in plain charity; and we haven't got enough to make restitution. So, we'll look about for something that's about half way between the two.

"The next day in walking around Floresville, we see on a hill a big red brick building that appears to be disinhabited. The citizens speak up and tell us that it was begun for a residence several years before by a mine owner. After running up the house he finds he only had $2.80 left to furnish it with, so he invests that in whisky, and jumps off the roof on a spot where he now resquiescats in pieces.

"As soon as me and Andy saw that building, the same idea struck both of us. We would fix it up with lights and penwipers and professors, and put an iron dog and statues of Hercules and Father John on the lawn, and start one of the finest free educational institutions in the world right there.

"So we talks it over to the prominent citizens of Floresville, who falls in fine with the idea. They give a banquet in the engine house to us, and we make our bow for the first time as benefactors to the cause of progress and enlightenment. Andy makes an hour-and-a-half speech on the subject of irrigation in lower Egypt, and we have a moral tune on the phonograph, and pineapple sherbet.

"Andy and me didn't lose any time in philanthropping. We put every man in town that could tell a hammer from a step-ladder to work on the building, dividing it up into classrooms and lecture halls. We wire to Frisco for a car load of desks, footballs, arithmetics, penholders, dictionaries, chairs for the professors, slates, skeletons, sponges, twenty-seven cravenetted gowns and caps for the senior class, and an open order for all the truck that goes with a first-class university. I took it on myself to put a campus and a curriculum on the list, but the telegraph operator must have got the words wrong, being an ignorant man, for when the goods came we found a can of peas and a curry comb among 'em.

"While the weekly paper was having chalk-plate cuts of me and Andy, we wired an employment agency in Chicago to express us, f. o. b., six professors immediately—one English literature, one up-to-date dead languages, one chemistry, one political economy—Democrats preferred—one logic, and one wise to painting, Italian and music, with union card. The Esperanza Bank guaranteed salaries, which was to run between $800 and $800.50.

"Well, sir, we finally got in shape. Over the front door was carved the words, 'The World's University; Peters and Tucker, Patrons and Proprietors.' And when September the first got a cross-mark on the calendar, the come-ons begun to roll in. First the faculty got off the triweekly express from Tucson. They was mostly young, spectacled and red-headed, with sentiments divided between ambition and food. Andy and me got 'em billeted on the Floresvillains and then laid for the students.

"They came in bunches. We had advertised the university in all the State papers, and it did us good to see how quickly the country responded. Two hundred and nineteen husky lads, aging along from 18 up to chin whiskers, answered the clarion call of free education. They ripped open that town, sponged the seams, turned it lined it with new mohair, and you couldn't have told it from Harvard or Goldfields at the March term of court.

"They marched up and down the streets waving flags from the World's University colors—ultramarine and blue—and they certainly made a lively place of Floresville. Andy made 'em a speech from the balcony of the Skyview Hotel, and the whole town was out celebrating.

"In about two weeks the professors got the students disarmed and herded into classes. I don't believe there's any pleasure equal to being a philanthropist. Me and Andy bought high silk hats, and pretended to dodge the two reporters on the Floresville Gazette. The paper had a man to kodak us whenever we appeared on the street and ran our pictures every week over the column headed 'Educational Notes.' Andy lectured twice a week at the university, and afterward I would rise and tell a humorous story. Once the Gazette printed my picture with Abe Lincoln on one side, and Marshall P. Wilder on the other.

"Andy was as interested in philanthropy as I was. We used to wake up of nights and tell each other new ideas for booming the university.

"'Andy,' says I to him one day, 'there's something we overlooked. The boys ought to have dromedaries.'

"What's that?" Andy asks.

"Why, something to sleep in, of course," says I. 'All colleges have 'em.'

"Oh, you mean pajamas," says Andy.

"I do not," says I. 'I mean dromedaries.' But I could never make Andy understand, so we never ordered 'em. Of course, I meant them long bedrooms in colleges where the scholars sleep in a row.

"Well, sir, the World's University was a success. We had scholars from five States and Territories, and Floresville had a boom. A new shooting gallery and a pawn shop, and two more saloons started, and the boys got up a college yell that went this way:

Raw, raw, raw,
Done, done, done,
Peters, Tucker,
Lots of fun.

Bow-wow-wow,
Haw-hee-haw,
World's University,
Hip, hurrah!

"The scholars was a fine lot of young men, and me and Andy was as proud of 'em as if they belonged to our own family.

"But one day, about the last of October, Andy comes to me and asks if I have any idea how much money we had left in the bank. I guesses about $16,000. 'Our balance,' says Andy, 'is $821.62.'

"What!" says I, with a kind of a yell. 'Do you mean to tell me that them infernal little clod-hopping, dough-headed, pup-faced, goose-brained, gate-stealing, rabbit-eared sons of horse thieves have soaked us for that much?'

"No less," says Andy.

"Then, to Helvetia with philanthropy," says I.

"Not necessarily," says Andy. 'Philanthropy,' says he, 'when run on a good business basis is one of the best grafts going. I'll look into the matter, and see if it can't be straightened out.'

"The next week I am looking over the pay-roll of our faculty when I run across a new name—Prof. James Darnley McCorkle, chair of mathematics; salary $100 per week. I yells so loud that Andy runs in quick.

"What's this?" says I. 'A professor of mathematics at more than $5,000 a year!

How did this happen? Did he get in through the window and appoint himself?'

"I wired to Frisco for him a week ago," says Andy. 'In ordering the faculty we seem to have overlooked the chair of mathematics.'

"A good thing we did," says I. 'We can pay his salary two weeks, and then our philanthropy will look like the ninth hole on the Skibo golf links.'

"Wait awhile," says Andy, and see how things turn out. We have taken up too noble a cause to draw out now. Besides, the farther I gaze into the retail philanthropy business the better it looks to me. I never thought about investigating it before. Come to think of it now,' goes on Andy, 'all the philanthropists I ever knew had plenty of money. I ought to have looked into that matter long ago, and located which was the cause and which was the effect.'

"I had confidence in Andy's chicanery in financial affairs, so I left the whole thing in his hands. The university was flourishing fine, and me and Andy kept our silk hats shined up, and Floresville kept on heaping honors on us like we was millionaires, instead of almost busted philanthropists.

"The students kept the town lively and prosperous. Some stranger came to town and started a faro bank over the Red Front livery stable, and began to amass money in quantities. Me and Andy strolled up one night and piked a dollar or two for sociability. There were about fifty of our students there drinking rum punches, and shoving high stacks of blues and reds about the table as the dealer turned the cards up.

"Why, dang it, Andy," says I, 'these free-school-hunting, gander-headed, silk-socked little sons of sapsuckers have got more money than you and me ever had. Look at the roll they're pulling out of their pistol pockets!'

"Yes," says Andy, 'a good many of them are sons of wealthy miners and stockmen. It's very sad to see 'em wasting their opportunities this way.'

"At Christmas all the students went home to spend the holidays. We had a farewell blow-out at the university, and Andy lectured on 'Modern Music and Prehistoric Literature of the Archipelagoes.' Each one of the faculty answered to toasts, and compared me and Andy to Rockefeller and the Emperor Marcus Antiochus. I pounded on the table and yelled for Prof. McCorkle, but it seems he wasn't present on the occasion. I wanted a look at the man that Andy thought could earn $100 a week in a philanthropy that was on the point of making an assignment.

"The students all left on the night train, and the town sounded as quiet as the campus of a correspondence school at midnight. When I went to the hotel, I saw a light in Andy's room, and I opened the door and walked in.

"There sat Andy and the faro dealer at a table dividing a two-foot high stack of currency in thousand-dollar packages.

"'Correct,' says Andy. 'Thirty-one thousand apiece. Come in, Jeff,' says he. 'This is our share of the profits of the first half of the scholastic term of the World's University, incorporated and philanthropized. Are you convinced now,' says Andy, 'that philanthropy when practiced in a business way is an art that blesses him who gives as well as him who receives?'

"'Great!' says I, feeling fine. 'I'll admit you are the doctor this time.'

"'We'll be leaving on the morning train,' says Andy. 'You'd better get your collars and cuffs and press clippings together.'

"'Great!' says I. 'I'll be ready. But Andy,' says I, 'I wish I could have met that Prof. James Darnley McCorkle before we went. I had a curiosity to know that man.'

"'That'll be easy,' says Andy, turning around to the faro dealer.

"'Jim,' says Andy, 'shake hands with Mr. Peters.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ENGINEER CONNOR'S SON.

SOME lives there are that seem to run in perpetual sunshine and roses. Some are rounded to darker lines, running always beside deeper abysses of tragedy. Some there are who live their three score and drop out of existence, and the memory of them, for good or ill, ceases with the tolling of the bell that tells of their going. And there are some—short, little lives, to be sure, but so brimful of sweetness that the very sunshine of them lingers in the hearts of those who knew them long after the little lives are ended.

When Jack Connor was promoted to the position of engineer on the N. & C. road, which cuts the State of Tennessee from north to south, he moved his family into the pretty little cottage standing side by side with crippled Jerry Crane's, on the hill just above the railroad track, in the little village of Antioch. For the engineer was from home most of the time, and Jerry, being a cripple, Jack knew would insure his own wife considerable company and protection in Jerry's wife.

The houses stood side by side, and both doors opened toward the railroad. The village, indeed, was built so, straight down the railroad, for the train was about the biggest thing about Antioch.

Jack Connor's cottage stood on a hill, so near the track that he could speak to his wife from his engine when she stood in the door, as she usually did, to see No. 6 go by.

The train men were pretty well acquainted with the Antioch people in general, but there was not one among them, from conductor down, who did not know Jack Connor's son. "Little Jack," they called him, and the train never whistled for Antioch but they would look out for the little fellow hoisted on the wood-pile to see his father's engine go by.

He seldom went further than the wood-pile—that was his mother's order—though the brakeman and the train butcher would sometimes try to coax him down to the platform with apples and sticks of striped candy. But he would shake his yellow curls, and throw them a kiss as the long train pulled out.

Sometimes his mother would take him down to speak to his father, and the little fellow would go almost wild over the big engine and the glowing furnace and the shrill whistle, which more than once he had been permitted to pull, the great bell clanging a hasty good-bye.

"Just naturally takes to the engine," the fireman would often say. "Gets that from his pappy."

And Jack did seem to have a natural love for a locomotive.

Jerry Crane used to say of him: "I can allus tell when the cyars are coming—there's a slapbang of neighbor Connor's door, a click of the gate, and in a minute a little yellow head on top of a big pile of wood; and when I see it I always say to my wife, 'Mary, the cysars are coming.' And she looks out, not at the railroad track, but at the wood-pile, and says she, 'Yes, they are coming, Jerry.'"

Sometimes a neighbor would pass and speak to him.

"Any news to-day, Jack?"

"Father's aboard to-day, sir," he would answer; or else, "There's a bridge down between here and Chattanooga, sir;" or, "No. 6 will be fifteen minutes late to-day, sir."

He always had something to tell, and it was mostly of the trains or the tracks, engines or wrecks. Anything that concerned the railroads was interesting to Jack; for, aside from his admiration for the locomotive, little Jack's father went up, then down, that long steel track just once each way every day.

He had his father's head, the trainmen said; but the neighbors declared he had his mother's sunny, hopeful, helpful nature.

But one day trouble came to her door. Engineer Connor was brought home in a caboose, both legs mashed and an arm gone, while his engine lay in a ruined heap under a broken bridge just beyond the Tennessee River.

Every man had jumped but he—fireman, brakeman, all but Jack.

"Jump, Connor, for your life!" the fireman had called to him when the timbers began to crack.

And the man had laid his hand upon the throttle and said: "You forget I'm engineer."

And there he stood until the crash came. He was not quite dead when the boys found him, and all the time they were working with him he was praying. "Just for life to get home," they heard him whisper. "Just long enough to get home and die with my wife and boy."

His prayer was granted—he reached home and the two he loved best on God's earth. Just before he died he reached for his pocket-book under his pillow and handed it to his wife.

"It's all I've got, Annie," he said. "I wish it was more, wife."

Then he laid his hand on the little head with its crowns of yellow curls pressing his pillow. He seemed to forget the boy was only a baby.

"Jack," he said, "I leave your mother to you. Take care of her, my man."

Then his mind seemed to wander; he was on the engine one moment—the next with his family again.

"The company will do something for you by and by, Jack," he said; "and always remember—don't forget it, Jack—that any man in time of danger may desert, any man but the engineer. He must stick—stick—stick—to his post, Jack."

The hand on the boy's head grew heavy; the little fellow choked back his sobs and laid one hand tenderly on his father's brow. The dying engineer opened his eyes and smiled.

"Stick to the engine and stand by your mother, Jack," he whispered. The hand on the boy's head grew cold, and when they lifted it and laid it back upon the dead man's breast, Jack turned to his mother.

There was no childish outburst of grief—only an awakening, as it seemed, of the young manhood in him as he opened his arms.

"Here I am, mother," he said, and she understood.

It was then Jack's life began in earnest. The pet name of "Baby Jack" no longer trembled upon his mother's lips. She called him instead "My son," "My boy," or else 'twas "Mother's man." So is the heart wont to clothe with strength that which it leans upon.

She trusted him entirely, and his quick mind recognized it.

The prohibition no longer confined him to the wood-pile; but every morning when the whistle sounded, the cottage door would open, the gate click, and a pair of bright stockings flash for a moment in the sun light as a pair of nimble legs went hurrying down to the platform.

"Pies! Pies! Fresh pies and cakes!" He had turned peddler. Such a tiny, industrious little peddler as he was, too, and with so many rough-bearded friends among the trainmen, Jack's business was bound to flourish.

One day the red stockings went dancing down to the platform with unusual speed—so fast, indeed, that his mother, who was following, had scarcely reached the platform when No. 6 pulled up, and Engineer Robinson dropped from his engine and caught the boy in his arms and tossed him up to the fireman.

"Catch the little engineer, Sam," he shouted; "I've promised to let him run No. 6 to-day."

There was a happy little laugh, and then a vision of golden curls at the window.

"Mother, mother! Can you spare me a whole day?"

She smiled and nodded.

"I'll come back at 5:10" (the wheels began to turn), "and the wood is in, mother" (the train was moving), "and the kindling"—the rattle of the cars drowned his voice—"box full." How the steam roared! Not one word of what he was saying could reach her now, but he talked on, and when the steam ceased to roar, and the train glided smoothly out, he leaned from the window. "Good-bye, mother."

She heard, and waved her hand. And then Engineer Robinson pulled him to look at some roasted chestnuts the train hitcher had sent up for him.

It was a wonderful ride to the boy, who never ceased to wonder at the proud old engine, and its magnificent strength.

But for all the pleasure and freedom, there was a shadow all day on the boyish face, which neither the good things nor the wonderful stories which Engineer Robinson brought to his entertainment could quite dispel.

He would climb up to the engineer's velvet cushion and lean his elbow on the window-sill, and, dropping his cheek into his hand, fall to dreaming while he watched the clouds or the trees flitting by.

Once the train stopped to wait for a delayed freight, and the engineer spoke to the boy sitting silent at the window.

"Hello, Jack!" he said. "You're not asleep, are you? Engineers can't sleep, sir; remember that. Whatever other folks may do, he's got to keep his eyes open."

Jack's eyes filled as he looked at his old friend.

"Yes, sir," he said; "that's just what father used to say."

Engineer Robinson turned to look out at the other window down the track—the straight, treacherous track along which poor Jack Connor had traveled to eternity.

The boy at the other window.

Young Jack talked on softly, but distinctly.

"And father said, the night they brought him home, sir, he said, 'Every man may jump but the engineer—the engineer—the engineer must stick to the engine.' And he said, father said, away off it seemed to me, like you try to speak when the steam's a-sizzling, sir, he said: 'Stick to the engine, and stand by your mother, Jack.' And I'm a-thinking, Mr. Robinson"—the engineer leaned further out, the sleeve of his blue overalls brushed his face, while Jack talked on. "I've been a-thinking all day as maybe I ought not to have left her by herself a whole day."

The engineer answered without turning his head, "Oh, she's all right, Jack; she's safe."

"But you know what father said. 'Stand by your mother, Jack;' and here I am away off on your engine, sir."

The delayed freight rattled by twenty minutes late; the fireman threw in some coal, the steam began to puff, and No. 6 sped on its way.

The wind, could it have spoken, must have carried strange stories of what it saw and heard in its passage through the engine-box that day—strange stories of rough forms and gentle hearts, gruff voices and tender words, bearded chin and childish cheek pressed together in sympathy and love.

No. 6 drew up on time at Antioch—5:10. A door flew open as the whistle sounded four times, as if to say, "Here I am, mother!"

A little form was lowered from the engine, and went flying through the mist and fog towards the lighted doorway. As the train pulled out, Engineer Robinson leaned from his window.

"Here I am, mother!" the joyful greeting rang out, and the engineer saw Jack go straight into the arms opened to receive him.

"I am coming, mother"—that became a very familiar cry among the nearest neighbors; and more than one eye filled up and ran over as little Jack Connor's voice, thrilling and hopeful, rang out on the frosty air of a winter's morning.

One evening he was late returning from an errand upon which his mother had sent him. The clouds were heavy, as if they might hold snow.

Mrs. Connor knew that Jack would be cold and tired when he returned, so she took his basket and went out to the wood-pile.

"I'll gather the chips," she said, "and save him that much work."

But she had scarcely begun her task when Jack came panting up the hill.

"Why, mother," he called, "didn't you know I was coming?"

He expected her to lean upon him; as he grew older the feeling grew, and he was always disappointed if she failed to do so.

One morning she went out to her milking and a strange dog met her and sprang upon her.

Scarcely knowing what she did, she threw the milking pail at him and screamed for Jack.

He came with a bound, seizing a club as he passed the wood-pile.

"I'm coming, mother."

Old Peter Glass passing near heard Jack's cry, and ran down to see what was the matter. There he stood between his mother and the ferocious mad beast, flourishing his club, and bidding the dog begone.

Peter relieved the loyal little fellow by killing the dog, which, he afterwards declared to his wife, was "raving mad."

"But mad or not," he added, "it wouldn't a hindered that boy's pitching right in to fight for his mammy. It always brings the tears to my eyes somehow when I come in contact with that manful little chap of Jack Connor's."

Peter Glass was not the only one whose heart softened for Jack Connor's son. Aye, many an eye wept and many a heart bled for him when the little fellow ceased to appear on the hill above the railroad track.

Some lives there are that seem to run amid perpetual sunshine and roses. Some are rounded to darker lines, and run always beside the deeper abysses of tragedy.

It was June, glad, sunshiny June, when Jack's mother went one morning to call on a sick friend, an old neighbor at the station just above Antioch.

Jack thought he had never seen so fair a day—the sun shone, the birds sang, and the flowers were everywhere.

"You can come to meet me at 12 o'clock, Jack," his mother said, as she kissed his cheek. "I'll be sure to come on that train unless something happens."

"I'll be here, mother," said Jack, "to every train until you come."

The sun still shone when the train came in at noon. Jack thought the whistle sounded mournful, somehow. And the engine "slowed up" sooner than usual, so that the train came in slow and solemn like.

And the telegraph operator had laid his hand in a very gentle way on the boy's head as he hurried past him. And Engineer Robinson never once looked out to speak to him. The fireman, too, turned his face the other way, and was busy with his shovel. The brakeman leaned on his brake and never lifted his eyes as the cars pulled up. Jack thought it all very strange.

"Here I am, mother."

The conductor cleared his throat when the well-known welcome rang through the train. Passengers turned from the windows and put their handkerchiefs to their eyes, as if the sight of an eager little face aglow with expectation and delight were painful to them.

"Here I am, mother." He was scanning every face eagerly, longingly, when the conductor stepped out.

"Jack," he said, "she isn't aboard." A shadow flitted across the bright countenance. The conductor took the boy's hand in his and held it close.

"Jack, my boy," he said, "you must be a man. Your mother has not come, will not come, Jack. She is dead, my son."

And the sun still shone, but not for Jack.

He never knew the terrible story, how, in stepping from the train, her foot slipped and she fell beneath the wheels, which passed over her body. He never knew—for from that day he never knew anything except that she had not come back to him.

Day after day crept on, growing into years. Day after day when the whistle sounded, a little figure was seen to climb the woodpile—Jerry Crane's woodpile—to watch for his mother.

His eyes searched every window as the trains came up.

"Here I am, mother!" the shrill clear voice would ring out. And when the train had passed on some one would explain:

"It's poor Jack Connor come to meet his mother."

They grew accustomed to seeing him there as the days drifted on into years, and he still kept his promise.

"Every train until you come back," he had said; and day or night, winter or summer, the trainmen would see the cottage door open, and knew it was Jack waiting for his mother.

One day they missed him; he was ill, raving with fever.

Jerry Crane's wife bent over his pillow; the poor little life was going.

At 10 o'clock he opened his eyes.

"Is No. 6 in yet?" he asked.

"Not yet, Jack," they told him.

He smiled and closed his eyes again.

"She'll be here on that train," he said.

"I must go down to meet her when No. 6 comes in."

At 11 he started and sat up in bed.

"Is she in yet?" he asked. "Is No. 6 in?"

"Not yet, Jack dear," they told him, and he dropped back among his pillows, where he lay for an hour talking, first to the engine, then to Engineer Robinson. Then his mind wandered to his father and the night he died.

"Stick to your engine, and stand by your mother, Jack," they heard him whisper.

At midnight a whistle sounded sharp and shrill, and Jack raised himself in bed and gave a cry of joy: "She's in!" he shouted. "No. 6 is in. Here I am mother!" The train pulled up and stopped. It was only a freight stopping for water, but that was nothing to Jack. A smile flitted across his face. "She's come," he said, and, with a look of unutterable peace, held out his arms and went to meet her. The next day old Engineer Robinson swung himself clear of his engine, and went down the platform to speak to the agent. When he climbed back to his seat at the engine window, he drew his sleeve across his eyes, and told the fireman that little Jack Connor had gone to meet his mother.—By WILLIAM ALLEN DROMGOOLE in St. Louis Republic.

COLONEL JEWETT TELLS A STORY.

"A WAY back before the boom, railway officials were not, as a rule, chosen for their education so much as for their practical knowledge and experience," said E. S. Jewett, of the Missouri Pacific. "Jim Dalbey, superintendent of terminals, was one of God's noblemen and an unpolished diamond of the early days; gruff as a cow-puncher; tender-hearted as—a cow-puncher. During one of the Indian outbreaks there was a heavy movement of troops through Kansas City. Some of them were sent here from up river by boat, thence by rail to the scene of the disturbance. One day there was scheduled a movement of uncommon importance and Jim issued to his subordinates detailed instructions covering the transfer of impedimenta, placing of passenger cars and so forth.

"A close friend of Mr. Dalbey had died and the funeral was set for the morning of the day upon which this troop movement was to take place. Jim desired to participate in the last sad rites and left his office for that purpose, feeling assured of the prompt and correct execution of his orders. He was, therefore, much amazed upon his return three hours later to find that little or nothing had been accomplished. He was not long, however, in setting an example of energy and enthusiasm which quickly spread to the troops and in a short time the baggage was loaded, the cars assembled into trains and everything ready to proceed westward." "Jim Dalbey," interrupted Elmer Younkman, of Armour's car department, "certainly was a prince and an energetic man."

"A young lieutenant," Colonel Jewett went on, "who had observed the sudden display of activity, approached the superintendent and with all the dignity and self-assurance he could muster addressed him thus:

"'Sir-r-r, as officer of the day, I propose to exercise my prerogative—!'

"'G'wan,' interrupted Jim, 'er I'll take yer prerogative and run it clean through ye!'

"Colonel Smiles, of the regiment, with difficulty suppressed his merriment and settled the misunderstanding by explaining what Jim's duties were.

"Three weeks later Jim received from the old man—as General Superintendent A. W.

Dickinson was affectionately known—a request for an explanation. The file carried a voluminous array of correspondence originating with the young lieutenant, who quoted correctly the treasonable utterances and sought solace for his wounded pride.

"To his stenographer Mr. Dalbey dictated this reply:

"'Dear Sir:—I can only plead in extenuation of the incivility of which Lieutenant Whatshisname complains that my early education was sadly neglected. I thought a prerogative was, perhaps, an implement of warfare, and me unarmed.'"—The Railway Conductor.

POETICAL

Senatorial Consequences.

(A transposition from Gilbert.)

Senator Hush was as good as gold;
He always did as the railroad told.
He never asked if a thing was just
Or gave offense to the Sugar Trust.
He never sniffed at the tainted dough
Which lobbyists dropped in his hand of snow.
He never squealed when the gang kept still
Or stood in the way of a land-grab bill;

And the consequence was he advanced in station
And died at the head of a corporation.

Senator Growl was a naughty boy;
To start reforms was his chiefest joy;
He wouldn't vote as his Boss decreed;
He wouldn't pander to private greed;
He said rude things to the Wall Street man
When he came around with the Whitewash can;
And he often wrote, with a fiendish gall,
"Thou shalt not steal" on the Senate wall;

And the consequence was, when his term was over,
He faded back to the tall, tall clover.

The World Over.

'Tis strange we think our neighbor's faults
Are always full in sight,
And glaring to the public gaze
As plain as black and white;
We never fail to notice them,
So clearly are they shown—
But magnifying others' faults
Will not correct our own.

All other men's delinquencies

We freely criti-ize,
We note their failures and mistakes,
In sadness and surprise.
But while their weakness we deplore
And haste to make it known,
We are too shocked at others' faults
To rectify our own.

The light of truth on other lives

Reveals their wickedness,
It gives us pain to contemplate
Their base unrighteousness.
But while we censure and condemn
Mistakes we should condone,
We're after other people's faults
And cannot see our own.

We never stop to question self
If motives all are pure,
But find out other people's sins,
And then prescribe a cure.
The mote that's in another's eye
We'd better leave alone,
And hasten to investigate
The beam that blinds our own.

"Wireless Telegraphy."

The papers now are telling—and claim they tell not half—

About a new device they call the "Wireless Telegraph;"

Of the "waves" it makes through ether very learnedly they write,
But I know of a "wireless" one that puts theirs out of sight.

When Madeline is near me, and tender thoughts arise,

A flash of soft heat lightning lights up her bright blue eyes;

And what I say or think about, she notes with nod or laugh,

And I am the "receiver" of this charming telegraph.

Its "Hertz waves" are just heart waves, and they never fail to beat,

When we meet within the parlor or pass upon the street;

We both know how to make it plain our keen desires,

And we do it in an instant without the aid of wires.

I'm willing all the world should shout, and very happy be,

When reading of the wonders of that new telegraphy;

I do not doubt its strangeness, or its high commercial worth,

But mine has been coeval with the long age of the earth.

It will not go out of fashion, with eyes of black or blue,

The things it says are lovely, ineffable, and true;
It offers more delight than one can hope for or can guess,

And its most ecstatic message is its sweetly whispered "Yes."

Among the Stars.

Last night the sky had one bright star;
 To-night a million more
 Shine out like jewels in a crown
 From heaven's shining shore.
 And like the star in violet,
 God's love is over all,
 And like the million stars to-night,
 His mercies on us fall.

The sweetest lesson He would have
 His children strive to learn,
 Is written with these flashing gems
 That o'er us blaze and burn.
 They all remind us that His hand
 Rules earth, and sky, and sea,
 And from the very hour of birth
 He plans our destiny.

They teach us to be merciful
 To others in the strife,
 For at best, we often fail
 To do the sum of life.
 We seldom live as He would have Us live along the way,
 But if we strive, He gives us strength
 To battle through the fray.

So when the darkest hour is pierced,
 By Hope's bright shining star,
 Be brave, and know a million more
 Is blazing on, afar.
 For like the star in violet,
 His love is over all,
 While from the countless blazing hosts,
 His mercies on us fall.

A Few Rules for Married Men.

Remember that I am thy wife,
 That thou shalt cherish all thy life.

Thou shalt not stay out late at night
 When lodges, clubs or friends invite.

Thou shalt not smoke indoors or out,
 Or chew tobacco round about.

Thou shalt with praise receive my pies,
 Nor pastry made by me despise.

My mother shalt thou strive to please
 And let her live with us in case.

Remember, 'tis thy duty clear,
 To dress me well throughout the year.

Thou shalt in manner mild and meek
 Give me thy wages every week.

Thou shalt not be a drinking man,
 But live on the prohibition plan.

Thou shalt not flirt, but must allow
 Thy wife such freedom, anyhow.

Thou shalt get up when baby cries,
 And try the child to tranquilize.

These, my rules, from day to day
 Implicitly thou shalt obey.

Look Cheerful.

No matter how depressed you feel,
 Look cheerful!
 A gloomy face is ungentle;
 Look cheerful!

Nobody cares about your woes;
 Each has his sorrows, goodness knows;
 Why should you your griefs disclose?
 Look cheerful!

Though you are blue as indigo,
 Look cheerful!
 You're prettier when you smile, you know;
 Look cheerful!

The world abhors a gloomy face,
 And tales of woe are commonplace,
 So stir yourself, and take a brace—
 Look cheerful!

Valuable Freight.

One day when old Saint Peter
 Was checking up his run
 He came upon a way-bill
 Marked "short," and just for fun
 He started out a "tracer"
 To see where it had gone,
 Then marked it "short from Heaven,"
 And let the bill go on.

The way-bill read, "One Baby"
 With eyes of bonnie blue,
 And as the earth's a common point,
 Of course 'twas way-billed through.
 She came right down from heaven,
 And landed here "O. K.,"
 A stork was the deliveryman,
 At least so people say.

And when we got his tracer
 We then made this report,
 "Babe arrived on 'over bill,'
 So, therefore, close your 'short.'"
 And on our "over" book down here
 This entry does appear,
 "Short one angel—up in Heaven;
 Over one—down here."

Bagged His Trousers.

The foreign nobleman puffed his cigarette dejectedly and refused to be consoled.

"And to think," he sighed, "I proposed to her on my knees every night for two weeks."

"And did you bag the beautiful heiress at last?" asked the interviewer.

"No, all I bagged was my trousers."

Divorce Wanted.

Lawyer—Why, little one, what's wrong?

Little Girl—Are you Mr. Blank, the lawyer?

The Lawyer—Yes. What is it you want?

Little Girl—I want (sob)—I want—a divorce from my pa and ma.

She Knew.

Mistress—Jane, I saw the milkman kiss you this morning. In the future I will take the milk in.

Jane—'Twouldn't do you any good, mum. He's promised never to kiss anybody but me.

Her Idea of Remembrance.

The Jackleg Carpenter.

One day last week a tough-looking old darkey was a witness in Judge Moore's court, and as the attorneys were unable to get any information from him he was taken in hand by the judge. During the colloquy between judge and witness the latter was asked what he did for a living. "I'se a carpenter, sah," he replied. "Are you a member of the Carpenters' Union?" asked the judge in spirit of fun. "No, sah, jedge," replied the darkey, "I sees you don't know much about unions; I'se a jackleg carpenter; Mr. Dan Harper says dey don't take jacklegs in the Carpenter's Union." "Where d'd you learn your trade?" asked the judge. "With Mr. John Schneider, sah," he replied. "Now, see here, uncle," said the judge, seriously, "you could not work with John Schneider unless you belong to the Carpenters' Union, because he does not work jacklegs." "I'se tellin' you de truf, boss," replied the negro; "I carried watah for Mr. John Schneider's bridge gang, dat's whar I larned to be a jackleg carpenter." Suppressing his dignity the best he could, the judge turned the negro back to the young lawyer, and that gentleman, thinking he had a chance to rub it into the judge, who carries a painters' card, asked him the difference between a union carpenter and a jackleg, and the negro came back at him with the answer: "I reckon boss, it's about de same as the difference twixt you and a good lawyer." When court adjourned there was an executive session at Henry Petri's. —Austin Forum.

Our Correspondents

"COLLECTIVE SUCCESS THROUGH COLLECTIVE GOODNESS."

"THE Evening Mail," of New York, for July 3, contains an editorial, which we condense as follows: "Nobody can tell how well or how badly the Government would operate the railroads if it should take charge of them, as it is often proposed. We can notice that the government of States and cities, and the nation, have to pay about double of what individuals do for any public work, for the purchase of anything the Government may need. New York City has to pay for any land it may have to buy, three times its market value. Well-managed as the Postoffice Department is, there is no doubt that the enterprising promoter who offered to conduct it as a private enterprise at one-half the annual appropriation it costs, could make good on his offer. Government ownership of the railroads, or anything else, would spell decreased production and lowered national efficiency."

If that philosophy corresponds to the actual facts of our national life, then all our governmental and political or civil institutions represent the greatest social blunder of all nations and generations. It would, then, pay us to transfer our whole governmental machinery, national, state and municipal, to private committees. That would double our production, and so that prosperity of ours. That would fix everything in fine shape for the first time anywhere on each, if our friends in high places talk any common sense when they try to discuss our national problems.

Unfortunately, our conservative and respectable people in this nation, or any other, have never tried to have anything to do with any kind of sense. Don't you see that they always deal on a few of the incidents of human life? No conclusions on any subject are worth anything when we decline to go to the foundations of the given subject. The only fundamental principle we are willing to have, in human development, seems to be the conception of wealth or money values. All our statistics, every decade; all our estimates of what we call prosperity, progress, culture, civilization; all our social speculations; all our industrial ramifications, and even our domestic habits or aspirations are made to rest on the narrow ideal of money values!

We thus fling to the winds a certain primary command, the only natural and fixed foundation of human healthy, sensible growth. And why to forget that command and fixed principle of supreme order, when we attempt to discuss and try to agree on any of our governmental adjustments or processes? Why to forever chatter like wild, silly school boys below the age of ten, whenever we enter the arena of social life and relations? All social development, all our public activities are a question of how to live a sensible life through the labor by which alone we can manage to produce the elements that human life implies. That human life is then a question of quantities and qualities of goods produced through sound, bottom principles of human brotherhood for joy universal, for full manhood with all of us.

Do we ever take any such simple, yet all-embracing view of human life? How few of our important, intelligent men do that, or any approach to it, in forms logical, Christian, scientific, precise? Not even our civil or religious education has yet learned how to be precise, scientific, logical or Christian. That is proved by all our perpetual fundamental disagreements on governmental functions as suggested by the editorial we have mentioned, and by similar editorials, essays, sermons, etc., by the million, year after year, century after century, in the march of history. And all because we don't wish to have anything to do with any Christian primary command.

The great trouble with that primary command is that it conveys a grand, solemn promise; the promise of universal joy through universal wealth. We still prefer universal sorrow through wealth, here and there, with piles of poverty everywhere else. The very goodness we manage to retain in the midst of the distorted condition we create, that alone proves that our natural destinies are intended for that complete and universal goodness which is the eternal law of all life and phenomena. A logical God could not conceive or establish any other method of development in cosmical and conscious forms or forces. To be sure, the same logic of the same god requires that, in the realm of conscious life on earth, we should be given the choice, for a certain period, of individually and collectively discarding the natural and divine plan of our own development. We are, then, using our will, traditions and laws in the foolish purpose of a disorderly development.

We thus generate a vast multitude of fanciful desires. We thus discard the joys and duties close at hand, easily performed, and run after duties and joys unnecessary or difficult to perform, attain or enjoy. We thus evolve human governments in defiance of divine government. The latter is extremely simple. The former are invariably diabolically complex. Why? Simply because we lay aside the grand principle of working for universal wealth and goodness. We thus work for universal sorrow and sin. And we get it. Then we assume that to be the divine plan of life. We still lack that moral courage which would enable us to rapidly reconstruct our selfish governmental processes, through simple, plain honesty.

The idol of personal goodness and success is, perhaps, the greatest obstacle that lies across the path of a sensible, healthy progress. That personal goodness and success acts upon all of us, or most of us, as a mirage in a moral desert. We create a moral desert, we evolve a dead spirituality, we concoct and organize dead nations, dead religions, dead churches through the idol of personal goodness and success. Don't you see that we thus attach the destructive spirit of selfishness to all goodness, to all success, to all duty, to all governments, to all processes of life and growth?

"Collective success through collective goodness." That is the only ultimatum which can give to each one of us any positive personal goodness and success in the eyes of a righteous God. Private or personal goodness, success, etc., in the midst of wrong, selfish national compacts * * * that is but personal or private selfishness, because of a success and goodness which tramples upon the goodness and success of the multitudes crushed, in forms hidden, to be sure, but most fatal on that account; crushed by selfish, egotistic human laws. Such laws exist, through the march of centuries, because we, the most important men of each generation, insist upon indorsing them through vote or consensus.

Even our supposed most advanced political institutions rest on the same fundamental collective crime of all despotisms, as we all know, at the bottom of our conscience, when we try to have a conscience. All our discords and deformities, individualized or social, prove that. When shall we honestly try to have nations and churches in peace with God.

Salud respetable hno.

En el ultimo mimero del THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER, tuve el gusto de ver en nuestro propio idioma una iniciativa de ud. Sobre que seria de una trascendencia bienhechora el que ya que tenemos el honor de pertenecer a la solida cuanto benefica O. R. T. (perque debo anticiparle que yo, tambien me honro contandome entre todos los unos, como uno de sus mas humildes adeptos), procurasemos estrechar mas los vinculos que nos unen para llegar mas facilmente a realizar el ideal que debe ser el bienestar de todos los hermanos, procurandonos con reciprocidad cuanto medio este al alcance. Loable iniciativa, querido Sr! y que aseguro a Ud; me complace el secundarla, poique defernos comprender que una de las cosas que mas nos hace falta a nosotros, los telegrafistas Mexicanos, es el sentimiento mutualista, la union homogenea para perseguir un fin, porque desgraciadamente aun no llegamos al perfeccionamiento intelectual, en que queda desechada la ambicion, las miras propias y el egoismo, para dar firme cimiento a la caridad bien entendida. Unico factor para labear un porvenir seguro a nuestro querido arte y bayo el cual nos resguardariamos con mas seguridad para sobrellevar las tempestades inclementes de la vida; para sentirnos fuertes y poder dedicarnos, con tranquilidad, a su verdadero estudio; que tiene aun muchos misterios que enseñarnos. Ciertamente para hallar estos misterios, habemos por desventura una mayoria, de intelecto casi efimero; pero el conjunto de granos areniscos, llegan a formar las grandes montañas, y así en estrecho núcleo llegaremos a la cuspide de nuestros anhelados sueños, y así unidos y siempre hacia adelante; daremos un adiós al infortunio.

Me es muy grato ofrecerme a las ordenes de Ud así como a las de todos los hnos de la gran O. R. T. RODOLFO R. CELIS, SHOULD START NOW.

Having read the article written by "Missouri Bill," Division 93, in the June TELEGRAPHER, I wish to say that I agree with this Brother in regard to starting out a petition and having every telegrapher on the various roads sign it, requesting our committee to demand of the railroad officials on their respective roads the $75.00 minimum, or nothing. If we were to come together and say to the railroad officials on our respective roads that what we want is a straight $75.00 minimum, or nothing, what could they do but come over? If they refused, why, we would walk out, and stay out until they were willing to come up to our demands; but, in my opinion, as soon as they saw our determination to have it, they would give it without any trouble.

Brothers, here is something that I wish to speak of that is of the utmost importance. There are a great many of us who seem contented at paying up our dues, and then sit perfectly still doing nothing, waiting for some other Brother to start. This will not do; how need we expect to ever get anything by waiting for some one else to get it for us? No, we have got to get out and hustle, each one of us, and show the officials on our respective roads that we mean business, then what we are after will be easily obtained; and until we do this we need expect but very little.

Let's hear from some other Brother on this subject. This seems to me to be the right course for us to pursue.

"W," CERT. 814, DIV. 132.

MAKE IT A REALITY.

The $75.00 minimum and the eight-hour day are receiving much consideration nowadays among the members of our great organization, and it appears from their views, as expressed in THE TELEGRAPHER, that they are entirely and unitedly in support of these better working conditions, as indeed we all are similarly lined up, no doubt. Now, brothers, I am of the opinion that if we would simultaneously put in our demands with the general managers of every railroad west of Chicago for a $75.00 minimum in wages and an eight-hour day we would get it. Look what the trainmen did. They got a fine schedule, simply because they stood by their committees and the officials seen they were in for a general tie-up if they did not settle the difficulty. There is no reason why we should not do likewise. We have a strong organization, and if the railroads saw that we meant business and were not going to be satisfied with anything less than substantial benefits, they would grant us improved schedules. There is no doubt that we are not paid what we should be. A man can go out on the road as a student brakeman and in thirty days or less he is put to work and earns from $75.00 to $100.00 per month, while it requires from eight months to two years to become an operator, and he then earns but $55.00 or $65.00 per month. A most unequal comparison even then, but when the responsibility of the operator is considered in the way of train orders, money, tickets, etc., while the brakeman's responsibility is but nominal, the disparity is shown to be great. Every brother should read "Time to Push," in the July number.

He earnestly declares that we should all give our solid support to the committees, and further says that unless a committee knows that it has a good backing it can not do as effective work as it could if it had this assurance. Let us all push together and make that dream the $75.00 minimum a reality, even if we have to walk out and stay out till we secure it; we would soon get it anyway, but there is little danger that it would ever go that far.

CERT. 756, Div. 32.

"IT'S UP TO US,"

Very satisfying it is to see the growing interest and earnestness toward making this year an epoch-marking one in the history of railroad telegraphers. But, brothers, too great significance can not be attached to the railroad companies' attitude toward the State eight-hour laws. Any literate, ordinarily intelligent citizen realizes the extent of corporate control of the courts of our supposedly free republic, and we must be very chary in hopes for relief of any extent or importance whatever from this source.

Several good articles in the July TELEGRAPHER set forth plainly the necessity for early and continued concerted action towards a vote, conclusion and firm stand in March, 1908, if our cherished hopes are not to vanish as a desert mirage. Certificates 807, 1013 and 886 treat the issue lucidly and conclusively in last month's number.

March, 1908, must find us ready to demand eight hours and a $75.00 minimum on our own strength. With the enormous increase in membership and fast approaching solid organization, the railroad telegraphers will determine their own lot.

"It's up to us," brothers, to your division, your support to our noble advocates, the General Committeemen. Though the increase in some cases, considering eight instead of twelve-hour day and $75.00 salary instead of $50.00 is noticeable, even large, 'tis due us, 'tis just and reasonable. Any honest railway operating official, cognizant of the factors comprising the work and living conditions and price of necessities, knows this and is with us. The public is with us, and every brother should see that our side is given all publicity possible, that we may not, to the least extent lose this support in spite of subsidized press. Have your local paper set forth the operator's responsibilities, hours, work and pay, that the greater part of competent men are leaving the profession, leaving them, patrons of the railroads, in spite of the well-described "block" systems and pretty semaphores illustrated on folders to rush by night in the hands of sleepy, inexperienced boys. Boys, growing, needing rest and sleep and education, hustled in to answer for scores of human lives that millions of dollars of dividends can be paid on "water!" Many articles to suit the purpose can be found in last few numbers of THE TELEGRAPHER.

Bring up in your division meetings, and have your position defined, that we may not be found wanting when the national nine-hour law takes effect and we face the day of reckoning.

Keep then, close to you, in your heart, your mind, yea, thy soul. To speak for, pray for, prepare for, and work for. "March 4, 1908, eight hours, $75.00 or walk out."

CERT. 1994, Div. 53.

GET BUSY.

We all know that everything is controlled by the three fundamental principles of the solar system. These three forces have been called by various names, most commonly gravity or weight, inertia or momentum, and centrifugal force. The first two are those to which I want to call your attention. I want to call your attention because you are not giving them your attention now.

For example, watch the pendulum of your office clock. It is now at the extreme right. What starts it back and carries it to the center? Gravity, or its weight, as we commonly say. Now, what carries it up to the left? Inertia or momentum carries it nearly up and the spring in the clock does the rest.

What has this to do with us? Just this:

In 1892 and 1893 the pendulum of national prosperity was in the center or at the lowest point of the arc. It has now moved half the distance of the entire arc, or to the extreme highest point. There is where we are, boys, now. Now then, what are we to expect? The pendulum of prosperity is going down, down, down to the very bottom before it begins the next ascent. Times have already began to change and capitalists to get their money into snug quarters where they can protect it. Every prominent moneyed man predicts it, and it is coming just as sure as the birds nest in the spring.

Here is where we come in. What we get we must get just as soon as possible, and before May 1, 1908, or we will find very, very hard work getting anything at all. We want $75.00 and eight hours or 25 per cent increase and eight hours, or anyway you want the pay but eight hours anyway, and if we get it at all we must get it March 4, 1908, and I for one say, don't stand for it, but hustle for it. We have an example of what hustling will do in the nine-hour law. Now, I say, every O. R. T. man get busy, and get up a petition and have as many names as possible on it, asking or demanding the strict enforcement of this law in the interests of safety to public travel. Have these petitions sent to President Perham or to the Commerce Commissioners.

Now, boys, don't think your neighbor will get up enough steam for you both, but get up enough for yourself. The more we put into this the more we will get out.

CERT. 103, Div. 95.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS.

To say that because there is today three times as much social unrest as there was 25 years ago, therefore social conditions are three times as deplorable, would be absurd. No one would insist that the present uprising among the Russian peasantry indicates that conditions in that country are worse than they were when the common people were too thoroughly under subjection to protest, no matter what their condition.

The world is growing better. Crime seems blacker because there's more white to set it off. The present social unrest is one of the most hopeful signs of the times. It is made possible because of what has already been achieved. Social conditions in New York City, for instance, were worse one hundred years ago than they are today.

There were never so many agencies at work in our cities to purify them. For years the church and the labor union have been raising the standard of living among working people each in its sphere. Only the pessimist sees the eddy in the stream, which seems to indicate a backward course. The flood in the midst of the stream shows the real tendency.

REV. CHARLES STELZLE.

SEVENTY-FIVE-DOLLAR MINIMUM AND EIGHT HOURS PER DAY.

I note the articles in the June TELEGRAPHER written by Certs. No. 93,137 and 1843, as well as the good views of the other brothers. I wish that each member of our Order would study "Our Correspondents" and think carefully of the contents of their writings. So many of us only pick up our journal each month and look at it and see the titles of the stories, and then as soon as they can find time they read the stories, then lay the journal aside as they would a story paper. Brothers, the journal is not a story paper and the articles under the heading of "Our Correspondents" are not advertisements. Take an interest in the Order and study the questions of the day as you would an example in algebra. It is not long now before we will, in my opinion, be called to a vote on these questions, and unless we have studied them we can not vote intelligently.

Seventy-five-dollar minimum. Gee! that sounds good to me, but how are we going to get it? The railroads are not coming to us and say, "Boys, you are good men and we will give you $75 per." Not much. On the other hand it will be their aim to reduce our salary as soon as the eight-hour law goes into effect. We can not gain our goal by sitting at our keys discussing the matter with the public in general, or by dreaming of it at night. We must be up and doing; strike while the iron is hot. What must we do, and how shall we do it?

First, there are nons on every road. Let each member get after them. If there is a non near, don't wait for Bro. So-and-So to get him, but go after him yourself today and get his application. We must get solid.

Second, it will not be long before we will have 50,000 members. Let every organized road in the country send their committees to the management of the various roads (see "Time to Act," in June journal) at the same time and make the demand for the $75 minimum. If 50,000 operators make the demand and walk out if it is not granted, the railroads of the United States would be tied up, and, in fact, business would be at a standstill. The railroads could not stand it and they know it, and it is my belief that we would get our demands.

We must not be tender-footed, and I trust that every member will be solid and vote for whole hog or none if this is put to a vote.

In regard to the eight-hour laws enacted in the various States, "money is the root of all evil." The railroads have the money and we must keep awake and not let money influence our representatives to repeal the acts. Congress meets again before the Federal nine-hour law is effective. By all means we must not allow the railroads' petitions to overthrow our great victory.

I notice that in North Carolina the railroads have an injunction against the eight-hour law, and we await with interest the decision of the courts.

Let some of the other members that are sleeping wake up and write their views. I am not a writer, but can talk to beat the band. Laugh at my trial and fall in line with a short sketch of your views.

Brothers, if you are loyal, write your local chairman and tell him what you think about it.

CERT. 718, Div. 59.

UNITY OF ACTION.

There has been much agitation in the columns of the journal by many of the brothers on the question of some particular time for all committees to move simultaneously, and go before their respective management and try and have a minimum wage and schedule established all over the country. I think the opportune time will be here on March 1st, 1908. All committees that meet between now and January 1st should arrange their schedules to terminate on March 1st, 1908, and then let every committee revise their schedules on that date.

Cert. 189, Div. 6, in November TELEGRAPHER, has a very good article on this subject, and if we wish a simultaneous action there will never be a better time than next March.

While I have full confidence in the various committees in getting at this perplexing question, I don't recommend any particular way, but I might suggest let all the General Chairmen in the Eastern States get together and decide on some mode of procedure, and the same with the Southern States, the Central States, the Western States, the Southwestern and the Northwestern. I think we should decide on hourly pay, so the brothers at the day stations would realize out of it, who will be required to continue the long hours.

CERT. 13, Div. 8.

HOURLY PAY.

I notice in the last issue of THE TELEGRAPHER that Cert. 409, of Div. 33, wants a movement started that telegraphers be paid by the hour instead of a monthly wage.

I think this the correct solution, and the most feasible of any I have read, because measures must be adopted that will make it immaterial to the railroad companies whether it be an eight or twelve-hour day. If this is not done in some way this law will travel the same route as the one which compelled the equipment of rolling stock with air brakes and the automatic coupler, and the eight-hour trick will be in the future instead of the present. I for one would like to see the materialization of the eight-hour day; to do this we should get together and work together.

If we allow this measure to be sidestepped by the railroads now, we may find the long-looked for eight-hour day farther away than ever.

I think the importance of action should be impressed upon all members that when the time comes it will find us as well prepared as the railroads for the fight they are bound to put up against this measure.

CERT. —, GRAND DIV.

GET MORE NERVE.

In reading THE TELEGRAPHER I notice a great many articles of late in regard to the National Nine-Hour Law, which is "supposed" to go into effect on March 4th, next; also in regard to the long-looked for $75.00 minimum. I was very much impressed with an article by Cert. 886 in the July TELEGRAPHER, and I hope all the boys have read this. As the railroads are now trying to evade the State eight-hour laws they will certainly try to evade the National law under the same excuse, "Not enough telegraphers." Everyone knows the reason for the present scarcity of telegraphers, and it is useless to dwell on this point. When the railroads pay living wages they can get plenty of men, and when they are compelled to pay us wages that will compare, even slightly, with the wages paid for other skilled labor, they will find a surplus of operators.

On the Sou. Pac. in California a conductor draws from $140 to $175 per month; engineers about the same, and even a brakeman, many of whom can not even write their own name so that they can read it next day, draw from $125 to $140 per month, while the poor over-worked telegraphers take their checks for $65 to $70 and say, "Thank you." And a brakeman can be made in ten days while it takes at least two years to make a good telegrapher. It is an actual fact that one man who was working in the freight house at a certain station on this division was discharged because he could not rustle freight, went on the road as a brakeman and within one month from the time he left the station he was making $125 per month. Now, what I think we should do is to notify the railroads that on and after March 4th, 1908, we will work eight hours and no more, except in cases of emergency, and all stand together as a body, not waiting for the telegraphers on each road to make the demands.

I am not in favor of the $75.00 minimum for the entire country. It may be all right for the East, where the cost of living is not so great, but here in the West it is not enough for ordinary living expenses. We should have at least $90.00 as a minimum and the heavier positions in proportion. We can get it, too, if we refuse to work for less. The railroads, however, are not in the habit of giving us more than we ask for, neither will they pay any attention to our grumbling as long as we go ahead with the work. Now, boys, let us do something besides talk. You know it is said, "A barking dog never bites," and so long as we "bark at the great moguls" from afar off, they will not pay any attention to us. Take a few plaster of paris pills and endeavor to get a little more rigidity into those tender backbones. So many operators seem to think that they are not fit for anything but "pounding brass," and that they would starve if they were out of a job, but let me say right here, if you are worth anything as a telegrapher you need not be afraid of starving; you can do something else if you so desire.

I am in favor of putting these questions to a vote of the Order, and when this is done, let every member of the Order vote one way or the other, and I would suggest that each member explain his vote so the committee we send to meet the railroad committee will know just what is wanted. Let's not allow the eight hours and $75.00 minimum to occupy our minds to the exclusion of our office duties, but don't let the matter grow cold. Keep out the students and pray for the time when that great dignitary, the postmaster, can not call us up on the 'phone before we get through "OSing" the train with, "Why don't you hurry up here with the mail?" If this gets into print I will come again. Let's hear from everyone. "73."

CERT. 671, Div. 31.

THIRTY CENTS PER HOUR.

What looks good to me is the statement of our brother, Cert. 409, Div. 33, in July TELEGRAPHER.

The railroad can not refuse to pay a minimum of thirty cents per hour; at that price we would be the lowest paid employes in their service, considering the responsibility that is placed upon us. Most all other employes that are now drawing from thirty and thirty-seven and one-half cents per hour, and some up to forty cents, drew more wages while they were learning their trade or profession than we do since we have ours learned. The railroads can not do without operators and agents to carry on the most important part of their business, the receiving and billing and delivering of their freight, carrying mail, selling tickets, answering telephones and inquisitive people, and most important of all, "the wire work."

Most of us know it in this way. About twenty minutes before train time we hike to postoffice, which is only about eighty rods from station, to get the U. S. mail. Just as we get outside our offices the dispatcher unbeknown to us begins to call for a "31," and continues to call until you get back, and without an explanation tells us if we won't watch our wires closer he will have us relieved. Before we can answer him the telephone rings, and while we go to answer that a farmer is using several different kinds of language most common in the bible, and telling us to hurry and get his freight because his horses are afraid of the cars. When we find out who he is and where his freight is coming from we find it is a shipment of soap for his wife, order for which was sent in last Monday and not due to arrive for about three weeks. Another man stands looking at the bulletin board and asks if that board is right and if the train is on time, while another is chasing us around and repeatedly telling us he has thirteen pieces of excess baggage to go on this train, and three more waiting to have their mileage pulled when the local pulls in ten minutes ahead of No. 6, and wants to do the loading in and get in the clear for them. Yes, you do it all and then complain you can not sleep at night, although you have only been up sixteen hours. It is my belief that unless the railroads pay better salaries or make different arrangements for the benefit of the telegraphers it will not be long before it will be impossible to get telegraphers to fill positions now being filled by them. What young man will take up telegraphy at sixty dollars per month with the present opportunities in other professions?

The thirty cents per hour minimum and eight hours per day looks good, and would be easy for the company to concede. They will do it if it is put up to them. Our fellow workmen can draw as high as 37 cents per hour. Why? Because they hang together. Let us do all we can to get all nons in our ranks and then walk to the front. They can't help but give it to us if we go after it. As our brother in the July journal says, "All write and express your opinion as to what you think would be best."

CERT. 279, Div. 39.

ENOUGH SAID, NOW LET US ACT.

It is rather amusing to read the many good and wise suggestions in our worthy TELEGRAPHER as to what to demand from the railroad companies and what course to pursue to receive our just dues.

It reminds me of the story of the mice holding meetings for the purpose of making arrangements to put a bell on the old cat's neck, to insure them safety from being caught. But when it came to the question as to who was to attach the bell to the cat, they were stumped.

In our case it is far more ridiculous than it was with the mice. The mice had their work to perform at the risk of their lives, but in our case the cat is bucked, gagged and tied, and if we could make up our minds to unite and make our demand, victory would be ours.

But still we hesitate amid this present opportunity to secure our just deserts that we are sorely in need of to assist us in meeting our necessary daily living expenses.

Supposing we would all agree to act tomorrow and make a demand for a forty cents per hour minimum, receive it, or strike, what would be the result? There would be nothing left for the railroad companies to do but sign the agreement.

I am not in favor of taking advantage of my employers with any unreasonable demands, but I am in favor of demanding our just deserts, receive them, or walk out of the service.

Many of us telegraphers have been encouraged to continue following the profession under the wages we receive, on account of the dawning day when the telegrapher can receive what he earns by making a demand for it. That day is now here.

Let us all unite to act and demand what the railroad managers know we earn and deserve. Let us prove to the managers that there is too much territory lying between the Atlantic and the Pacific; between the Canadian line and the Gulf to permit us to degrade an organized skilled profession with a wage scale of 15 cents per hour any longer, while there is plenty of work with much less responsibilities in other fields of employment with better pay and chances for higher promotions.

The telegraph operator holds one of the most responsible positions a railroad can place in the hands of man. For his service they pay him about 15 cents per hour. He continues to work for $55.00 to $60.00 per month through being encouraged by thinking some day he may receive a sufficient raise. He lives in hope for a promotion which he seldom receives.

The wages which the railroads offer telegraphers are so meager that nothing but young men of very small means are enticed to learn the profession and follow it for a living. Railroad managers are aware of the fact that it is easier for a poor boy who is controlled by circumstances to be enticed to learn telegraphy for the sake of a $55.00 to $60.00 per month position than it would be for him to improve his young years preparing himself for a field of employment that would afford him comfort in later years. On account of the telegraphers springing mainly from a poorer class (financially) of people, the railroad managers take advantage of them by trying to discourage them from asking for more pay, and try to keep them under the impression that $60.00 per month ought to look big to anyone. Not until the poor boy has wasted his valuable years looking up to his big $60.00 per does he realize that he has fooled away his time for the sake of something that will never mean comfort to him.

Now, boys, why should we continue to work for 15 cents per hour while away down in the heart of the railroad manager he admits to himself that the telegraphers deserve pity; they ought to receive 30 cents per hour instead of only 15, and will readily pay it as soon as he is compelled to do so.

Unfortunately it is the nature of mankind to be selfish. The railroad manager is no exception to the rule, and as long as the telegraphers will patiently remain under the present wage scale, the manager can not be held to blame for what the telegraphers haven't the nerve to demand, and yet hold in their own hands.

I am strongly in favor of the 30-cent hour wage scale for reasons given by Cert. 409 in the July issue. The 30-cent per hour minimum I believe, would be satisfactory and would be endorsed by the majority.

Let us take this matter up with Bro. Perham and bring the question to a close by bringing it up to the different managements and leave it to a vote. Unless those measures are resorted to many of us will never live to see the day when the telegrapher can rejoice over being paid the salary which he deserves.

The matter has been thoroughly exploited; a great plenty of words used, and the matter is now arrived at that stage of the proceedings where we are awaiting our Moses. Or, in other words, for the man to come forth who will volunteer to actually "bell the cat."

U. S. MAIL.

Some time ago there was printed in this journal an article relative to carrying the U. S. mail. That was very good, but so far as I have heard, no attempt has been made to carry out this or any other suggestion. The article suggested that the men on the different roads get together, set a time after which they would not carry U. S. mail to and from the postoffice, notify the different companies to that effect, and then stick to it. Let me ask you right here, what are the companies going to do about it? If all of us refuse to make pack mules out of ourselves how can they compel us to do so?

I asked a certain General Chairman not long ago what was going to be done with this mail question, and he said, "We will remedy that by legislation."

What has been done by any General Committee on any road toward this evil? You speak to them about it and they will tell you that nothing can be done as the company is under contract and the contract must be fulfilled. They never know when the existing contract will run out and have done nothing to prevent the same kind of a contract being renewed. It's nothing to us if the companies have contracted to deliver the mail, as they can get some one else to do it without breaking their contract. They are not compelled to deliver mail any more than any other commodity, and would not make any such contract unless it paid them to do so. We have been imposed upon long enough, and we are strong enough now to throw it off. But if some of us take a little extra money and do this work, then we will be right where we started. Don't be greedy for a few dollars, but get rid of this imposition once for all.

Now, it's up to the membership to do something. Write your General Chairman and tell him what you want done. Don't let him tell you what he is going to do. If he understands that he must do something, he will find a way to do it. If fifty men on each road west of the Mississippi River will take enough interest in this matter, and write their General Chairman now that they would like some action taken before January 1st, you will see the General Chairmen get together and do something. What can stop us if we are all alive? It might be that the companies would have us take an oath to care for the mail, thinking to hold the law over us, but each man can specify in his oath that he will not make deliveries after the first of the year. Now, if you are alive, do something to prove it.

IMPORTANT ADVICE.

As it's an assured fact that the military telegraph lines in the Philippine Islands will be turned over to the insular government in the next few months, and as they will require at least seventy-five or seventy-eight first-class telegraphers to man the same, these men will necessarily have to be brought from the United States, as there are none out of employment here. A few words on the subject to those contemplating coming to the islands: In the first place, do not sign a contract, unless it calls for the benefits of civil service, as this means twenty-eight days' vacation every year, also one month's accrued leave, which is payable in cash, thus making a man's salary (if at the $1,200 per annum), equivalent to $1,400. Secondly, do not sign a contract for less than $1,200 and civil service. Then, if you still wish to take your chances with cholera, dysentery, bubonic plague, canned goods, come ahead, and keep out of the way of the snow, but from what I read in the TELEGRAPHER, with a nine-hour, or, rather, an eight-hour law, as that's what it practically is, I do not think many first-class operators will fly to these islands, as $75.00 in the States beats $150 a month here.

CERT. 278.

SPECIAL REQUEST.

The article in the June TELEGRAPHER by Bro. E. A. Long, of Olean, Div. No. 135, and the answer written by Cert. No. 1013, Div. No. 126, in our July number, expresses my sentiments exactly.

Let every brother and sister in the United States, Canada and Mexico be notified by circular letter that on the first day of March, 1908, that we, the railroad telegraphers of the United States, Canada and Mexico (also ask the nons to join us) will make a stand for an eight-hour day and $75.00 minimum.

I am sure there would be enough that would stand by us (all should) to justify us in making this demand. And in case our just demand was refused, let everyone get busy at something else, as there is plenty of work throughout the country in other lines which we would be able to obtain, and nine chances out of ten we would better ourselves financially.

We must remember that the railroad officials are not lounging in their offices or parlors awaiting the fourth of March before taking action on this important subject, but they, each and every railroad of the United States, are laboring individually or jointly on this matter, as the eight-hour law is now in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commissioners, and it is impossible for us to say what the railroad companies will be able to do with them before next March at any rate. We should be up and about to see what has been given us by our National Congress is not taken away.

Brothers, let each and everyone get busy and take this matter up individually, and if we will do this it will only be a matter of time before we will be as busy as a hive of bees, working, working together in a body as we never worked before on the greatest subject the Order of Railroad Telegraphers has had since its institution at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, June 9th, 1886.

Have each division set aside one meeting night for discussing this subject, and I am sure it will prove a great drawing card. Now, boys, if you will adopt this plan I feel sure that our efforts will prove successful. In this way every brother and sister has the opportunity to show our committees just how they stand on this question. If you will urge your support and stick to what you say, our Grand officers will do their part to bring us through the storm successfully. This matter of sending your opinions to our Grand officers in St. Louis is very little trouble, and only a few minutes extra work, which may prove beneficial to us all.

I am sorry that I can not write more fully on this important subject, but here's hoping some other brother will find all kinds of mistakes and take the matter up and do with it what I was unable to do. Wishing to find a big line-up on this question in our next issue, I remain,

CERT. 177, DIV. 52.

THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Shall we reap the reward, or are we going to be idle-doers and say nothing and allow the railroads to put up the petty excuse, "We can't get the men" to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and allow the law to be laid aside as though it had never been passed?

The national law-makers of our country, by reason of complaints from the public and from many lives lost, which have come to their own knowledge caused from wrecks due to over-worked operators account of the long and worrisome hours they are held on duty, have seen proper to pass the eight-hour law for the protection of the lives of the many travelers.

In reading over the July number of THE TELEGRAPHER, I notice an article written by Cert. 886, Division 32, which expresses my sentiments on the eight-hour law, and that is if each and every operator in the United States, Canada and Mexico would step down and out on the fourth day of March, 1908, if the railroads will not sign a contract on that date that they will grant the eight-hour work-day without further controversy. If this is done then there will be settled once for all the question of the eight-hour work-day.

Now, the next and all-important question arises, how are we to accomplish this end? Here are my ideas: That all members notify the head officials of our Order that it is our will and request that they appoint a committee consisting of the General Chairman of each division of the O. R. T.'s in the United States, Canada and Mexico, to meet with a committee of railroad officials representing each railroad line in the above-named countries on the fourth day of March, 1908, and state to this committee of railroad representatives that they (the O. R. T. committee) are sent there by their constituents to demand that the railroad officials get the men to fill the places needed and sign an agreement that telegraphers shall not be required to work more than eight hours, and if this agreement is not signed, go out and stay out until we win. How many are willing to sign a statement of this kind and hand it to our noble president and let him make the necessary arrangements and have everything ready by the fourth day of March, 1908? Let's hear from you on this subject. Mark it, that unless this step or its equivalent is taken, the eight-hour law will all be a farce, and where we have it now it will be as easy to win this as it was to have the bill passed through both houses unanimously. What do you say, boys, shall we or shall we not have it? It's all with us.

As to that old howl of the railroad company, "We can't get the men," is all bosh. There are on an average of two operators idle or doing some other kind of work to one that is employed by a telegraph company today, and they would be glad to return to pounding brass if there was a living in it and an eight-hour work-day. How many are willing to put this plan in operation? Let's hear from you.

CERT. 1224, Div. 93.

WANTS ACTION.

I have read so much about the eight-hour law and $75.00 minimum in our journal in the last year or more that I'm tired of it. I am heartily in favor of an eight-hour day and a $75.00 minimum, but think the subject has been pounded to pieces in our journal, and if there is nothing to be done but talk let us cut it out.

I have for some time had a plan in mind whereby we might realize our wishes and desires, and am now going to lay it before the telegraphers for their approval or condemnation.

Every local chairman send a blank like the following to every telegraph operator, agent and telephone operator on his respective division:

To all telegraph operators, agents and telephone operators:

What duties are you required to perform at _____ station?

How many hours in each twenty-four hours are you on duty?

What compensation do you receive for performing these duties?

What do you consider as just compensation for performing said duties?

Do you desire your General Committee to convene in _____ city on March 1st, 1908, for the purpose of demanding (state demand here) from the management of the _____ Railway Company?

In case the _____ Railway Company does not comply with your demand do you desire President H. B. Perham to declare a general strike on all organized railways, such strike to be in force until a satisfactory settlement has been made?

(Signature)

Operator.

By adopting my plan every operator as well as agent will be affected and every road in the country will be tied up, and all we will have to do will be to stay at home and that only for a short time, as the Government will not stand for this tie-up for any length of time. Have the General Committee of every organized road in the country meet, say, in Chicago on March 1st, 1908, and present our demands to the managers of all the roads collectively, and stick until the last dog is hung. Let no certain road resume doing business until all have signed the scale, as that was why the coal miners lost their strike a year ago. Let each and every local chairman send this blank out on the first day of January, 1908, and we will make the National law for telegraphers a reality. As President Perham says, at some future day we may discard the strike as a weapon, but not until the wage-earner has a firmer hold on the law-making power. We have got to have this hold on our law-making power before we can hope for laws which will be beneficial to the toiling millions of this land, and this must be accomplished with your ballot.

Labor unions are a necessity under our present system, for had not men banded themselves together for mutual protection they would be today worse off than the black slave of the South before the war. The very fact that they were compelled to band themselves together to protect their own interests proves that there can never be peace between capital and labor, as the capitalist wants to make as much out of labor as possible, and labor forms unions to compel the employer to raise its wages. It is a notorious fact that wages were never so high in this country as they are today, thanks to the labor unions, but it is another notorious fact that the things you eat, wear, and the house you rent were never so high as they are today, so, since the capitalist owns all these things, it does not matter how much or how often we force them to raise our wages they will just that often raise the price of the necessities of life, so that in the long run we are no better off.

I have carried an O. R. T. card in my pocket for several years, and have been instrumental in bringing many stray sheep into our fold, and expect to continue doing so until we are prepared to take a different course. I can find but one fault with the article in the June journal written by Cert. 140, of Division 59, and that is that he advocates a $75.00 minimum on organized roads only. Stop a minute, brother. You may lose out where you now work and be compelled to go down on that unorganized road for a job; if not you, someone else holding an O. R. T. card may. We must have them all, brother, and can get all as well as one. G. N. Hancock, in the June journal, places a non in the same class with a lobster. While this name may fit some men to a T, it is an injustice to many, as I know many very good men who do not belong to our Order and who will walk out in case of a strike as quick as the next one.

I should be glad to hear from some one else in regard to this plan of mine. While I do not claim it to be perfect, I do think it a step in the right direction.

Yours for a living wage.

H. A. SCHEELTZ,
Cert. 729, Div. 33.

MUST STAND TOGETHER.

In looking back for the past five years I find we have made considerable progress in line of wages due to the efforts of the O. R. T., and this leads me to believe that we can do much in the next few years as an Order, and it is mostly up to us as individuals, for we can pay our dues promptly and inspire our officials with confidence that we are back of them to a man in whatever they undertake for the elevation of the craft, and when they feel that way they can undertake projects with success assured that look pretty large now.

I am afraid that we are going to have trouble getting our nine-hour law in effect next March, but think our Order can fix that up for us if they feel confident of our support to a man, and think it would not be a bad idea if each one wrote to our president and assured him of our support, and told him to go ahead and see that the nine-hour law was enforced, and we would stand back of him. I know there are enough operators that the railroad can get if they will pay the price; good men with years of experience, who have left telegraphy and operators that the railroads can get if they can make more money. But the railroad companies will not pay $75 or $80 per if they can get men for less, and would not be surprised to hear that they had cut in one or two main line wires in some building and got a few professors and were advertising for students to teach free and were offering them positions when competent to hold down "OS" jobs, and will use that as a cry that operators are so scarce that they were obliged to teach themselves in order to get men.

Cert. 409, in July number, meets with my hearty approval when he says let the railroad companies pay thirty cents per hour if they want us to work over nine hours.

CERT. 71, Div. 37.

"TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION."

You will all recall the great battles and wonderful victories fought and won by our forefathers in the war of 1775, as related to us in histories and books you have read; at the same time look back with tears in your American eyes, with pity and sorrow for the soldiers and Washington at Valley Forge. Remember how they made tracks in snow with bare feet marking every step with blood.

How many of my brother O. R. T.'s are ready and willing to sacrifice home, friends and all; to leave tracks of blood on their paths for the sake of your family and the uplifting of your fellow workmen to bring them from under the yoke of slavery to that of freemen, of good repute and well recommended? You, agents, who are not in the O. R. T., you who work under the schedule without a voice of what that schedule shall be; you, who, if you had the least spark of the energy that fired our forefathers to victories, that won Roosevelt his world fame, you would fight for representation and it would come to you quick. You can be a company man and an O. R. T. at the same time; the rules of one will not conflict where justice and right predominate the acts of your superiors. Now, nons, come out like our forefathers and say, "I have been taxed but pay it not; I have been forced into a contract binding me; I have been legislated for without my say or consent, and if I dare ask for favors above and beyond my contract from the superintendent be answered by the lash." Agents with common sense, don't you know that organization is the life of all institutions and more especially ours? But for the benign outgrowth of organization life would be well nigh unendurable. You non-agent and fellow operators who received the benefits of the Order without having to pay for same, can not you see you are wrong and come and fight for a representation of your rights.

You know the O. R. T. is a combination of employees to secure higher wages and better hours, and this is unquestionably lawful; a refusal by our united body to deal with or work for those who do not accept our conditions is also lawful; concerted action by the O. R. T. to induce you to unite with us is again lawful; therefore, don't wait until you are forced in, but volunteer your service for your fellow workmen, your family and yourself, and come join with us. Next March united we stand, divided we fall. Now, men, be men, and stand by what God has given you to judge your action by your conscience.

A. M. R.,

SHOULD ENFORCE LAW.

I have read with much interest Cert. 886, Div. 32, in the last issue of THE TELEGRAPHER, in regard to the National Nine-Hour Law, which goes into effect next March. I think he is surely right about the railroads who will try to disregard our National Nine-Hour Law the same as they are now doing in some of the States which have the eight-hour law, claiming they can not get the operators, etc. If they succeed in bluffing the States, which it looks like they are going to do, we will have an awful fight next spring if we gain anything at all. The country is full of operators who would gladly go to telegraphing again if we had decent working hours and got paid what we earn. I am in favor of the eight-hour day and $75.00 minimum, and as we have a chance next spring to get our shorter working day, I think we should be prepared to enforce our demand for the nine-hour day, and if nothing but a general strike will do it, we should all go out and stay out until our rights are respected.

MORE ABOUT U. S. MAILS.

The writer has many times threatened to himself that he would add his mite in the way of a contribution to THE TELEGRAPHER, and help push along some of the remedies proposed for existing evils; but as THE TELEGRAPHER is never lacking for well-written articles upon all subjects, he concluded to let well enough alone and has kept mum to the present time.

My attention is called to the article in the July number, "Keep Pulling Together." A great majority of railway agents have to carry Uncle Sam's mail, and it is presumed that every one of them consider it an imposition. Mail handling time comes just when we are required to sell tickets, check baggage, bill out express, put tickets on milk cans and answer questions as to "how's the train?"

If the performance of these duties causes us to miss the mail sacks we are fined one dollar for each offense, and all the explanations we could make as to why we missed it would avail nothing towards the remittance of the fine.

Our town postmaster receives $1,100 per year. This is more than the railway agent receives. Why should not he carry the mail? Because the railroad company contracted with the government that their agents should do the carrying. Don't you think it is time we had a few things coming our way?

In connection with this unjust system, let me relate a case in point. Agents on our line of railway e an agreement with the general manager that twelve hours, including noon hour, shall constitute a day's work. My first train is due 6 a. m. At 6 p. m. then my work is done. The postmaster has been holding the midnight and early morning mail until later than 8 p. m. This mail is left in the depot at night so that mail trains can get it. I requested the postmaster to have this mail ready for us at 7 p. m. He reported my request to the post office superintendent, relating that it would cause inconvenience to the patrons. The post office boss proceeded at once to report my request to the railroad superintendent, with the information that I had no right to state to the postmaster when the mail should be ready for me and that he had instructed the postmaster to close up the mail sacks at 8:15 p. m.

Presuming that other agents are similarly fixed, would like to ask what you think about the post office superintendent dictating that our hours shall be two hours or more above that which is required by the railroad company. Probably we will be branded anarchists when the time comes for agitating these abuses.

Let's keep pulling together for our human rights.
CERT. 887, Div. 130.

SUGGESTS AN ASSESSMENT.

I have read and re-read our brothers' views in regard to the future of our grand old Order, what we should and should not do, what we may and may not expect. But these writings are only a mere dream, soon to vanish until comes the next issue of our TELEGRAPHER to revive our thoughts again to a blue heat, then simply die away for another month.

I do not want to take Bro. Quick's position from him. No, not for once, for in my opinion he is more capable of filling the position than myself. But I do want to impress upon your minds that dreams do not always come true. Let's quit eating sour apple dumplings only to roll and tumble and dream all night. Can we win? Yes; well why not do it? But how? We have tried in most every way and in some few instances had to yield to some extent.

Right here, my brothers, is where I want to score, then leave it to your judgment. We are not working in the right direction. Let's leave the railroads alone and saw wood. I am not satisfied to see the section foreman draw more money than I do. No, not at all. But let's don't blame the railroads. You would do just the same as they do were you in their position. What I want to impress upon your mind is the importance of a solid O. R. T.

Then is when we can make our demands that will be listened to. Well, we have been trying and done, I think, exceedingly well. Yes, my brothers, that's true, but how long in the drolsome old way is it going to take to land all the boys? Long years to come. Now, let's do business, boys. I suggest that each division be assessed $1.00 per member each month, or enough that will place a good, live, up-to-date member on each and every division and leave him there until we succeed in placing every non into the Order. Now $1.00 per month is not much and it may not take that amount. We should be able to get a good brother for say $80.00 or $100.00 per month. What is that to all of us? In my opinion that is the quickest way to success.

What there are of us we have done well, exceedingly well. But we can do, oh, so much better when we are solid, and until we get to business, boys, it will only drag along in the same slow way of having our sweet dreams to only vanish. Now, if you are a good, live member you want to see the Order succeed. Let's hear from you, boys, in regard to this move, as I know Bro. Quick is interested in us all and will publish our ideas cheerfully. Here's my dollar, take it and it is given for the good of the Order. Who's next?

CERT. 144, Div. 34.

WHY NOT AFFILIATE?

"In unity there is strength." There never was a truer statement made, or any statement made, which is as easy to prove as this. Where would the strength of the steel trust, the oil combine, and all other trusts be if it wasn't for the fact that they have united brains and capital to accomplish the one result, keeping prices up and thereby increasing their earnings.

The laboring man's capital is what he can produce through his work, and why not let the laboring man unite his efforts with that of his co-workers for the purpose of keeping the price of his labor at the highest possible standard.

Why not let the telegraphers, trainmen, engineers, firemen and conductors form a federation. The agents would not be shut out because under the amended constitution of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers they can be admitted to that body. Now if the conductors go out on a strike, the engineers say, "Put any kind of a man on the rear end and we can pull a train." The conductors say, "Give us any kind of a man on the engine and we can go just the same, when the engineers are out." In this manner they all help the companies in breaking up the strike, keeping wages down and defeating the object for which the strike was called.

If all of these organizations were united this difficulty would be overcome and there would be less likelihood of prolonged and expensive strikes.

If this escapes the blue pencil and appears in print let some abler writer take this up where I left off. "WARM POTATO."

WIND MILLS.

I am with Cert. 1515, Div. 23, in June number about telegraphers not running gasoline engines. That does not belong in our class. But what I think is far worse is running wind mills. Those of you who never had the experience will laugh, but stop to think for one minute—the wind mill must be oiled two or three times each week and they are all the way from 40 to 70 feet high, most of them 50 feet only. But is that any place for a telegrapher? There are several wind mills along the line; in fact, about every third station has one at the stock yards. I think this is imposing a great deal more on us than any work we have. What are we going to do about it? I hire a man to oil my mill, as I do not care to chance it that high in the air.

CERT. 280, DIV. 76.

"AKIN IN THE CAMP."

It is high time that the digestive apparatus of our Order was given attention and the capacity of its diaphragm taken. There are people in the Order, telegraphers so-called, who are absolutely unworthy of its honors and are unqualified for the profession, and for many there seems to be no possibility for improvement.

In addition to this many are lacking in good moral character and are indifferent and irresponsible. Yet these people claim the social plane of the good man and boast that the salary they receive is just as much as his. How long is the Order willing to absorb this menacing element to our welfare? Shall we affirm that merit is a dead system? Let's see. When an operator causes trouble is not there a satisfaction in the knowledge that he is not a union man. Of course, and we are proclaiming a high standard of excellence. Are we going to make good? It is just as important to say no as yes in the affairs of life and we must say no to these people. And when an Akin is discovered in the camp we must be able to show that he is there without the consent of our noble Order or suffer the penalty of a great sacrifice.

There is another class which may be termed "good timber." They can telegraph some and who are bright, willing workers, eligible to improvement and they will make a substantial addition to our Order. They must be taken care of. Some are lacking in education and the common principles of life. Inasmuch as the educated are to have ruling power and that intellect has proven to be the chief essential to the welfare of our Order, can not some method be improvised whereby the education of these young men may be stimulated while they work? Can we not put a book in each office to be exchanged at their own discretion? What books shall be selected?

With the introduction of books we also realize the importance and value of good periodicals, and one can not fail to observe that this subject has been neglected too long in our noble work. It is lamentable, but nevertheless true, that the limitations of our agreements are according to the brains we have at command. As with us so it is with other organizations.

"What to Read and Why" is a subject worthy of a permanent place between the covers of our journal. Let us establish a list of the most worthy books and periodicals and I am sure our journal can quote them to us with a financial saving to all concerned. I want to say that in my experience of eighteen years as an operator and having worked at many places, that the environments of the vocation are such that the so-called library is absolutely worthless as far as a railroad operator is individually concerned. Furthermore, were libraries available it is questionable whether an amateur would derive any benefit therefrom on account of the dead books they often carry. As a rule the smart boys do not come from the shadow of libraries, but

Then, and not till then, will the public wake up to the facts, and take action.

Second, have the head officials of the O. R. T. see to it that there are rigid eight-hour laws drawn up that will hold water, that can not be found "unconstitutional," and have a committee appointed, say five good, responsible, active telegraphers, present them to every state for passage, to take effect at once. Then the grand division notify the division secretaries in every state to send a printed letter to every telegrapher in the state, requesting him to write his Senator personally, and get all his friends to sign a request for him to work for the law. There is not a single telegrapher that could not send in such a petition, signed by from 25 to 100 voters. Take every telegrapher in the state sending in such a petition to his Senator, Mr. Senator would see he was up against the real thing, and if he wanted his fat office again he would have to be good.

Public sentiment will do anything if properly directed. This would take a little work, and some money, and stamps, but we are good for it.

Then what is the consequence? With a state law in every state effective as soon as the bill is passed, and a national eight-hour law, Mr. Railroad will have to come up with the goods. If he can't get men for $50.00 he will have to pay more, or go out of business.

Then it is up to us to demand fair living wages in consideration of our services. While I am, on general principles, opposed to a strike, if it can be avoided; if it can not, and you go out, be men enough to fight for your principle till you are dead. A bullet in the breast hurts no worse than one in the back, and looks a whole lot better to the mourners.

Fight like our ancestors in the war of 1812, in the civil war, at San Juan. I do not mean with arms; but face the firing line. Don't be a traitor and a coward, and sneak to the rear; stand up for what you consider right. Don't brand yourself for life with the damnable stigma of traitor and scab, and disgrace your children and friends. If you can't exist without that, borrow a gun and commit suicide in an honorable way, and make place in the world for some one that can stand up and face the world, friends or foe alike, and be able to knock any man down that calls you a scab; not have to sneak off and swallow it like a cur.

When we make the American public know we appreciate and respect ourselves, then they will appreciate and respect us, but never before.

Any one will kick a cur, but few will kick a bull dog. It is the kicker in this world (not the knocker) that gets the best of everything. If a thing is not worth kicking for yourself, don't expect your friends to kick for it for you, for they won't do it.

Wake up; saw more wood; waste less hot-air. I would like to make the last two propositions a crusade of public education on the needs and responsibility of the telegrapher, through newspapers, leaflets, magazines, journals, etc.

Also that the grand division officers have eight-hour laws drawn up to present to every state and territory in the United States; appoint committees to do it, and instruct every operator to send personal letters and petitions to his Senator to work for the passage of the bill, as a motion. Do I hear a second?

This could all be done inside of a year, if every man went at it as his personal affair. What would the result be? There would be less chance for the railways to beat the law. It might be in a few states, but not when it was a state and national law. Wake up, Bill; your pipe is out. You are sure an interested listener.

DYNAMITER.

CONCERTED ACTION.

I note with interest several letters in the July TELEGRAPHER touching on plans for concerted action by all railroad telegraphers on all railroads March 4th, 1908. This is only the conclusion of my idea on this subject, and is what I think should have been done at least a year ago, but we are in much better shape for such a move now than any past time, and I heartily agree with the other brothers that a general move for what we need should be made and that at no very distant date. I know by my own wages and working conditions that we need better pay and shorter hours, and I know that the greater part of the operators and agents, especially at one-man stations, need more rest, but here again we are hard up against a proposition.

The National Nine-Hour Law gives very little relief to men at one-man stations, and they are a class of men that need the rest as much as at two-men stations, as the majority of them have two men's work to do, yet they work us twelve hours and sometimes more for the same money they are paying men for eight hours.

For this reason and no other I would favor the "per hour" scale, with minimum of $75.00 per month, then if they work a man twelve hours, they will surely need him, otherwise he will get the needful rest.

CERT. 403, Div. 130.

THE PASS QUESTION.

It is gratifying, indeed, to read of revised schedules in the East covering the pass question, whereby our brothers are allowed annuities, etc., after three years of service. But it is of the abuse of the pass privilege that I wish to write.

On certain Western railroads telegraphers are hard to get and harder to keep, because of intense heat, desert country, poor pay in some cases, distance from water and food, etc. It has therefore been the habit, to a certain extent, for terminal officials to pass telegraphers to a chief dispatcher's office out on the road, perhaps without examination or signing of application blanks. In fact, this has been the rule rather than the exception, up to a short time ago. While the acceptance of transportation to go to a distant position really constitutes a moral obligation to go to work, nevertheless there have been quite a number of the traveling fraternity who have taken advantage of this favor, and have never shown up where sent.

This act, under the laws of interstate commerce, places the person so using a pass, liable to a fine of $1,000. But this is not exactly what is bothering the more honorable kind of telegraphers who are really looking for work, and who are willing to meet their obligations. The stealing of a pass in this manner not only harms the one who commits the crime, but harms every other operator in that section of the country, disappoints the official issuing the same, destroys the plans of the chief dispatcher he is sent to; perhaps keeps a sick man on duty longer than expected, and in the end grossly abuses the pass privileges so that others who deserve a job and a pass can not get either.

In one case two operators were afterwards forced to pay fare for the distance they used passes, before they could retain their positions with a commercial telegraph company, after they had ridden over the entire road. This took a good share of their first month's pay.

In another case an operator rode by his destination and had to pay about seven dollars fare, only to find that all the trainmen and telegraphers on that part of the road were prepared to make him walk or pay fare.

Men, this will not do. An important engagement was broken because of this latter case, which would have netted many dollars and many members to a system division of the O. R. T. If you accept a pass and do not go to work, you may expect the same treatment (walk or pay fare) almost anywhere in the West. It is too serious a question to be overlooked, and we can not blame any official for becoming very bitter against it. Put yourself in his place and see how it looks to you. If you must travel and can not get a pass otherwise than to get to a position, then go without a pass, and no harm will be done.

CERT. 66.

THE KEY-NOTE.

At last the key-note has been struck. The $75.00 minimum and the eight-hour work day are ours for the taking. An individual division can not, of course, enforce the demand, but when we, as a body, present the alternative to railway managements all over America, on the same day, at the same hour, with the full power of the O. R. T. to back the stand, is there a rational man who can devise a means to thwart us?

Concentrated action on our part can not fail to bring the desired result.

If this statement seems too positive or sanguine, will some brother who takes exception please endeavor to convince me by what means the railway managements of America, as a whole, or otherwise, can successfully combat the demand of approximately 45,000 telegraphers? I am open to conviction, but—"you gotta show me."

We are a brotherhood, unanimous in our desire to attain a particular goal; then, as a brotherhood, pull for it. We don't want it piecemeal, to get it only when we are gray and incapacitated for enjoying its results. No! We surely have had sufficient of that "by degrees" method referred to by Cert. 696, in the June TELEGRAPHER. By that means we have secured in the past ten or twelve years something like an increase of $15.00 per month, with an increase of more than 50 per cent of work and stress of conditions, kindly "thrown in" by the railway companies, to say nothing of increased cost of living, the increased demands of the public, the increased number of departments, with their attendant increase of officialism. I will leave the question for any old-timer to answer conscientiously to himself, whether or not he would prefer to railroad twelve years ago for $35 per month or now for $50?

We have in no way kept pace with the times. If we had there would be no such a clamor now for the eight-hour day and the $75 per. Just revolve the comparison in your minds, "roll it under your tongue as a sweet morsel" and if you find it palatable, what the "by degrees" system has done for us, why—hang on to it by all means, if it does not taste up to the standard, show your teeth. Coaxing and waiting are all right in their place, but, as the rhymers say:

"All things come to he who waits,

But there's a way that's slicker.

He who goes after what he wants

Gets it a blamed sight quicker."

The article "Opposes Government Ownership" by the author above referred to, also impels me to comment.

The brother surely will have this movement to combat in the near future, if he remains unwise enough to maintain his opposition to it. The man who makes a study of economics, or even reads casually, must know that government or collective ownership of railroads and many other public utilities is inevitable, pursuing the present line of progress. Whether it will prove a hardship or a boon to railway employees depends on whether a man prefers to work for an ungracious corporation or for himself. There is no question of conditions; they would regulate themselves, where now they are made to order in an inflexible mold.

We know railways are operated for private gain, pure and simple. Conditions are not made to further the service to the public, nor to improve the environments of the employe, more than is absolutely imperative, because the outlay would detract from the dividends, not that some railroad directors would not like to see both take place, but they are powerless; it is the "soulless corporation" and will have its "pound of flesh."

On the other hand we have a government operated line, run solely for use, desiring only to pay expenses, with no thought of profit. We have the rates to the traveling public lowered to a normal figure, its safety assured by every device that the coffers of the present millionaire owners would purchase, and the employes paid what they by scientific calculation earn, with conditions such as any respectable human being would be proud to work under.

Ninety per cent of the red tape would be relegated to oblivion by reason of the greater surety with which all kinds of work would be accomplished. Why? Because a "man" would have encouragement to do his work with precision and dispatch, while a "slave" will never do his best, even when lashed.

While we are compelled to work under conditions unsuitable, and for wages inadequate, we are naturally not content, and a man under unsatisfactory circumstances can not, however he may try and deceive himself and others into believing so, do the fair thing by himself or his employer. Thus we live a false life.

Yet some of us would decry a reform that would place us in a position to live conscientious, honorable lives, doing our best because we may and it is to our advantage to do so, with no lagging because of discontent with our lot, knowing that we are a part and parcel of the work we are doing.

One of us pretends to a fear of being bossed by a negro. And why? If a black man be sufficiently capable and intelligent to win his way into the ranks of statesmen, are we white-livered enough to scorn him as a director because of his natural color? I cry, shame on such a sentiment! If that would lead one to oppose government ownership or any other advantageous reform, that one deserves the worst the competitive grind has to offer.

What matter if we should carry U. S. mail? I should much prefer to carry the mail of my own government, being handsomely paid for it, than to carry that of an unconscionable private concern at less than half pay.

Again let me ask the brother how did we secure the eight-hour day enactment; was it not by an appeal to government? Would an appeal to the railways bring the same result? Never. Does not this then prove us at least an item in that government under which it would be so baneful to be employed? What grander means of employment could the most patriotic contrive than to work hand in hand, with and for one's country, aided and abetted by one's country?

Arguments here are necessarily weakened on account of curtailment enforced by limited space. It is a subject worthy a wider scope. As it is I fear the goat will "butt in." However, I will risk another paragraph, feeling sure if he eats it he can not hold it.

Do you, Brother Cert. 696, imagine that this "tooth and nail" struggle we have kept up for years, is our inherent bequest from old Father Adam, or do you find something enjoyable in it, that you voice a sentiment to go on with it, in a give and take squabble, like two cats on a back fence? For myself, it bores me; the game is not worth the candle. We grow old and poor on the reward of fools, and yet we whine—yes, whine, for what is within our reach. How much better to come to the point with decisive action and prove whether we are men with rights or just—puppets.

CERT. 1354, Div. 7.

WATCH CONGRESS.

After reading June journal and Cert. 676 will try and help matters along, as this is a good subject. Let us bear in mind that another Congress meets before the 4th of March, 1908, and we may rest assured that the railroad companies "will make hay while the sun shines" and cause this nine-hour day law to be made undesirable if it is in their power to do so. Don't let us get the idea in our heads that they are asleep. Far from it, and if we don't keep our eyes open and watch they may spring some disagreeable surprise on us yet. Let us send some one to Washington when the next Congress meets to look after and protect our rights.

Now, dear brother, let us each and every one work together, for we are all anxious for the nine-hour law and at the same time give the railroad officials to understand that we mean business and we mean to have the benefit of the nine-hour law just as it now stands. By being thoroughly organized we can demand more, and what is better still, receive it.

We may rest assured that the railroad companies will make a bitter fight against this law from ever going into effect. Now let us be ready for them. Look at the conductors and engineers. They have no trouble, why? Because they stand perfectly organized. Now let us take the same step, for neither can the railway companies run trains without the operators.

Now we have only about three hours out of twenty-four to spend with our loved ones at home. Go to work at 7 and off at 7 and by the time we reach home it is 7:30, and to get a good rest we retire at 9 or 9:30. Now, what pleasure is this to us? Seven days in the week, 365 days in the year with no Sunday off and no extra pay for Sunday duty. This Sunday work should be called to the attention of our committee. I for one would suggest all divisions call a meeting before the time their committee leaves and each of us attend and file our complaints with the chairman and committee. Then they will know how we are situated and what we need.

Now, if this escapes Bro. Quick's waste basket will try and do better next time.

CERT. 1184, Div. 59.

IS THERE A SHORTAGE OF TELEGRAPHERS?

That is the absorbing question with the railroads to-day. Is this shortage real or only apparent? Thousands have left the service, going to other vocations in about the same manner as the Russians are leaving their country for America. Is there a reason? Yes, a thousand times. To make this reply explanatory, it will be necessary to go into details. I will outline these under three heads, or from a constitutional standpoint, viz., life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Life, what does it mean, the best of health, a clear conscience and your duty to the Creator. Can you possibly have good health confined in a small office twelve hours daily the year around? Is your conscience clear? Are you doing your duty to God and man? Oh, no, the corporation tears the leaf out of the good Book which says six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work. The Sunday school is forbidden you and when 6 p. m. rolls around do you feel much like going anywhere?

Liberty—have you any? Yes, after twelve hours are served, but our instructions are not to leave town without permission. We may need you any time. Are you paid for being on duty all the time?

The last topic may be sub-divided. The pursuit of happiness. Did you ever get up on a Christmas morning and see your three little girls playing around the tree? Did you stay to be happy, no! You went to that dreary old office for your Christmas and was unhappy all day.

Another pay day has come and gone. How did your cash hold out? No doubt you gave your wife a five-dollar bill just for pin money. The engineer did; also the dispatcher, who has sixty-six days annually off duty. Tell the truth, you married brothers, did you not have a hard time to make ends meet? I gave almost the last half dollar I owned to help the woman whose man was burned at the colliery. A machinist there said to me as long as you teach every Tom, Dick and Harry who comes along you will always be down.

The writer is done on the student question. A dozen messengers would make no impression. Say, boys, did you ever think what fine workmen these kids would make who are strung over the division as messengers? I have seen the bright and dark side of life and will close by saying that my telegraphic career ends March 4, 1908, unless we get eight hours and same rate of pay as at present. CERT. 33.

WHY HE JOINED.

I have never been accused of being a writer or an orator, nevertheless I will tell you in my own way from practical experience why I have been a member of the O. R. T. In the first place I can't help it, for the reason that the O. R. T. has done wonders for the railroad telegrapher. Twenty-one years ago at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on June 9, a little group of brass pounders guided by the grand old man, the father of the O. R. T., Bro. Thurston, the noble O. R. T. was instituted. Then operators were receiving the magnificent salary of from $20 to $40 per month, worked every day in the year and any attempt to ask the boss for concessions was met with a bluff such as You are only a figurehead, and were shown the door with threat of dismissal if such an attempt on your part was again put in practice. It was common for a telegrapher to hit a back door for food in order that he might obtain enough to keep body and soul together. Many trials and tribulations were endured too numerous to mention, but by perseverance the O. R. T. has won out and has been the cause of railroad telegraphers securing living wages and good working conditions, as well as laws that are a benefit to themselves and their families.

Most of the railroads are not scheduled, and it is only a question of time when all roads will be in line with an O. R. T. schedule.

It is up to those to join the O. R. T. who are not at this time enjoying a schedule whereby better wages and working conditions are the result of organization.

One of the many good things that the O. R. T. has brought to bear and accomplished is the eight-hour law affecting all railroad telegraphers in the United States, commencing March 4, 1908. All telegraphers who are not within the O. R. T. with an up-to-date card should wake up and join the Order and help to still better their conditions both morally and financially. Individual effort does not count; a committee representing a majority of the boys always makes railroad management set up and listen, and most of all consider and submit whereby the boys are granted what rightly belongs to them—justice. MACK.

MORE ABOUT GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

I have read with much interest Bro. Duncan's letter in opposition to government ownership, which was printed in the June number of THE TELEGRAPHER, and will say that I agree with him as far as he has gone into the subject.

Our postal system is an example of government ownership. Let us examine it briefly. The employees have the eight-hour day and their compensation is somewhat better than ours. On the other hand, as I understand it, postal employees are not allowed to organize, or to petition Congress for favorable legislation or increases in salary. therefore (notwithstanding that I firmly believe that the government should own the principal means of production; distribution and exchange) I would not favor government ownership of railroads or the socialization of any large industry unless we had some assurance that it would be democratically managed; but if government ownership will bring about the democratic management of those things that are public in their nature, I would be heartily in favor of it; in other words, I would welcome social democracy, which would, I believe, be just what we want.

Let us put aside our prejudices (which narrow our field of observation) and investigate our economic and political status. Upon education, along these lines, depends whether or not we shall, in the near future, evolve into the narrow confines of state socialism, or into the broad field of social democracy.

I would like to hear from others on this subject; it will be an issue within a few years, and we, united, should be prepared to deal with it intelligently.

Investigation is not a crime.

AMOS MUNSON, CERT. 273, DIV. 42.

PREFERS PER CENT INCREASE.

In reading over the different articles in the July TELEGRAPHER in regard to eight-hours and increased wages, I agree with Cert. 344, Div. 2. I think it would be better to go after, say a 30 per cent increase, instead of a $75 minimum, for in that way all brothers would be benefited, but if we go after a $75 minimum there are some who would not be benefited at all.

Take our own division for example, a 30 per cent increase would make the minimum wage $70 and in so doing would give the few more important offices an increase according to the wages paid at present.

I am in favor of our making a united stand for eight hours and a 30 per cent increase in wages, but think we should be thoroughly organized so there can be no doubt as to our success. Would like to hear more from the brothers in regard to this.

Yours for eight hours and a 30 per cent increase to all. CERT. 41, DIV. 100.

"PUMPS."

Cert. 1515, Div. 23, in his article in the June TELEGRAPHER on gasoline engines, failed to mention steam engines, which are used at some water stations and which are much worse than the gasoline ones, and both are bad enough when forced on the telegraphers or agents.

There is another class of pumps to come under this head and that is air pumps, used to control gates at street crossings and at some places controlled by cranks and pipe line and lever. For this service the railroads allow you the exercise and at a few places $5.00 per month, which is 16 2-3 cents per day. Think of it! And this, too, at places where the telegrapher has an interlocker to handle and five or six wires with thirty scheduled trains besides switch engines, as these gates are generally situated in towns where they have yard engines in service. Where there is no telegrapher available and a regular watchman is stationed they pay him from $1.15 to $1.50 per day. Look at the difference; he does one man's work for $1.50 per day; we do two men's work and for the second man's work we receive the large sum of 16 2-3 cents per day. It gets down to such a fine point that I am afraid to put in figures what it would be per hour. Furthermore, it is keeping some poor crippled man out of a job, of which no doubt the company have an overstock. We should make this one of the strongest articles in our schedules throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Our motto should be, eliminate engines, pumps and crossing gates of all description. We ask for what we want; nothing more; no concessions go. SHINER, DIV. 138.

WANTS TO MOVE FASTER.

In just a few short months the Federal nine-hour law will become effective; that is, if the railroad companies can not find some judge to declare the law unconstitutional. Now I don't say they will try that, but they may and it is always well to be on the safe side.

Our president should open negotiations with the General Managers' Association, prepare a contract which should contain an eight-hour day provision, taking effect March 4, 1908, and a minimum of $3 per day to take effect the same date as the eight-hour day and anything that might be decided on that would be of great benefit to the organization.

If the railroad companies were confronted by these conditions they would be compelled to give us our eight-hour day, also something near what we should receive for our labor. You no doubt remember what a stir the trainmen caused when they massed their organization against half the railroads of the United States. Then think how much greater our power would be should we mass our entire membership against the railroads of this country just as the coal miners meet the coal operators. We would consider them very foolish if they conferred with each coal company separately, for when they would go to a company to get a wage increase they would be politely informed they were getting as much as other miners were receiving at other companies and they could not afford to pay more than other companies. Yet we do this very same thing. We go to each general manager separately and negotiate for an increase. The general manager holds his position by keeping down expenses and if a general manager of one railroad would grant his operators $75 while other roads were only paying $55 under the same conditions, it would not take the stockholders long to decide to try some one else to keep down expenses the same as on other roads, where if we would go to the General Managers' Association and we would get an increase all roads would be increased at the same time and would therefore be granted much more readily and we would have a power to back up our demands that the railroad companies would be loath to meet in battle array.

If you favor this legislation make out a letter asking your local chairman to take up with your general chairman, he in turn to ask President Perham to confer at once with the General Managers' Association and open negotiations for the purpose hereinbefore mentioned. This will be very little trouble to you, and without your move it will be impossible to make it a success. Remember that the greatest trouble with our organization is that it has not been progressive enough in its plans of attack; that it is using the same ideas that it did when organized or that it did before it had to contend with organized capital. Then we did not have to contend with the greatest enemy known to organized labor to-day, "The Labor Spy." You may think that our organization is free from these sneaking curs, but oh! how badly mistaken you are. It has been but a short time since a brother on this division was approached by a representative from one of these detective agencies and offered the position to become a labor spy. The method, as this representative informed him, exactly coincided with Morris Friedman in his book entitled "The Pinkerton Labor Spy."

The only way we can meet organized capital is to meet them with our united strength and fight them upon equal footing; then it makes no difference if they have a copy of our plans; it will avail them naught. Should we be compelled to strike and the entire membership walk out you can see the shape the railroads of this country would be in. It would cause the greatest stagnation of business the world has ever seen.

In strikes where there is but one company engaged, they can gather up what scabs there is in the country and manage to keep things going until the effect has been killed, the strikers become disheartened and the strike is called off; wherein if all companies were involved in the same strike it would be impossible for them to secure strike breakers enough to do us any detriment whatever and the effect would be electrical.

Did you ever stop to think that labor was the producer of all wealth and that labor is entitled to all the wealth it produces? That labor receives but a very small per cent of the wealth it produces and that the capitalist receives the largest per cent of the wealth you produce? Do you think this is right? Do you know that nine per cent of the population owns 70.5 per cent of the total wealth and that 70.1 per cent of the population owns 4.2 per cent of the wealth? That this 70.5 per cent of the population represents the wealth producers and they own 4.2 per cent of the wealth they produce? Do you think this is right? Do you know the railroads are grinding the life out of their employees that they may pay dividends on $300,000,000 of watered stock? Have you seen or heard of any trusts being put out of commission? Do you think you ever will while money controls our courts or under the present system? Don't you think if the workers were the owners of the railroads it would be better for the workers since it was the workers that built the railroads, and the workers that have been making the railroad produce wealth after they were built? They should then be the ones to own as well as to operate it.

There has been volumes written on this subject by brilliant writers, but have never been read by the laboring class on account of their prejudice, and the workers will always remain slaves until they throw off that prejudice and investigate for themselves. The best and only way to find out the evils of a system is to thoroughly study that system from a scientific point. We all know that graft and fraud abound everywhere and in every line of business under the present system. That it might be well to investigate some other system occurs to me would be an intelligent move.

Now if you favor a concentrated move bring it up at the next meeting and have it discussed and find out how the other brothers stand on the proposition. Put it in the form of a motion, push it, try and get things moving and don't let things go to sleep until the desired end is reached.

CERT. 426, Div. 33.

"DO IT NOW."

I have just finished my July TELEGRAPHER and find that we are still barking and that the bites are far between. Brothers, why can't we get together and do something? Just think of the valuable time we are losing, and remember the golden rule, "Do not put off until to-morrow that which can be done to-day," and "Do unto others as they will do unto you, only do them first." This is what the railroads are doing to us; they are doing us first by holding us down to long hours and low wages. We can't stand for this much longer, as the cost of living is increasing so rapidly that we will soon be in some county poor farm.

Of course, most of the boys get a small raise once a year, perhaps $2 or $3, but what is that in comparison to the increase of food and clothing?

What other class of men work such long hours for such small salary? And what other class of men have so many lives in their hands as we? Now let's go to work all of us to-day (not to-morrow), for that may be too late. Let's all write Bro. Perham to take a vote on this matter. Get him to take a vote of all telegraphers in the United States, Mexico and Canada and if he is favorably supported to take action at once against all roads in these three countries and ask for not less than $75 and eight hours per day, and have it to take effect at once; the delay is what hurts. If we wait until March 4, 1908, the railroads will get the law put off, just the same as they have in Arkansas and Missouri, but if we get a schedule to read that way there will be no backing out of it.

We can never get anything by going up one at a time; we will be compelled to go all at one time and now is the time. Of course, they will fight hard, but we can fight too, and if necessary just walk out and they will come on bended knees hunting us up, for they could not stand one day without us. By this way we can be working eight hours per day at $75 per month by Christmas, so don't forget and "Do It Now."

OLD KORKEYE, CERT. 894, DIV. 32.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF RAILWAYS.

The subject of government ownership, or at least control of railway and telegraph lines, is receiving considerable space in the newspapers of late, and the indications are that legislation on the subject can not be far off; yet how unprepared are the telegraphers to meet the issue.

Few have given the matter any thought, though it is of greatest moment to all of us, and we should lose no time in gaining all possible information on the subject.

While the bond question, the eight-hour law, license and other important matters are being ably handled by correspondents in the columns of THE TELEGRAPHER, little or nothing has been said on this most vital question. It is a subject about which much can be said, both for and against, and it ought to be carefully looked into from every side, and our minds made up as to our proper course to pursue, so that when the time comes for action, we may be solidly divided one way or the other; not undecided, wavering, and possibly, divided.

Probably the most serious obstacles in the way of successful government ownership are politics, graft and false civil service.

The writer was for several years intimately associated with one department of the U. S. Internal Revenue, supposed to be almost entirely under the civil service, and had ample opportunity for observing the means by which dishonest politicians defy the laws, evade or override the merit system, and use it for the very purposes that its adoption was supposed to defeat. As an instance of this, the collector of one Kentucky district, by reason of publishing a partisan political newspaper of large circulation and wide influence, holds his official position, paying a salary of several thousand dollars a year, which he makes little or no pretense of earning, devoting almost his entire time to private interests, including the management of his newspaper.

He dishes out civil service positions, not as a reward of merit or for the betterment of the service, as the law intends, but to his political henchmen, who, in their turn, openly violate their oaths, and make a farce of the laws they are sworn to uphold, while those who are worthy and well-qualified, and have given evidence of their proficiency are passed by, turned down and cast aside. By such tactics he has been able to hold his position and be reappointed, even in the face of the most serious and scandalous charges, published, reiterated and pushed by one of the factions of his own political party.

With railways and telegraph lines in such hands, backed by the U. S. army to put down strikes and silence all protests of organized labor, nothing less than a revolution could make a change, or retire a political party once in power.

Therefore, before government ownership can become a success, there must be a radical change of existing conditions, and for this reason the matter should not be entered into hastily, or indeed at all, until the subject is fully understood and plans matured to insure the safety and perpetuation of labor unions and an honest civil service.

CERT. 640.

THE NINE-HOUR LAW.

I note in THE TELEGRAPHER a whole lot of useless persiflage regarding the nine-hour law, effective March 4, 1908.

Have had quite a number of telegraphers and also others outside our profession ask me if I thought the nine-hour law would ever be obeyed by the railroads of the country.

Seems that some of the brothers in writing in THE TELEGRAPHER, as well as outsiders, think the railroads will beat this law.

Now, brothers, I would like to ask, why was it ever necessary to enact a law whereby we lightning slingers get civilized hours of work?

Why is it that some people are so thick pated that they can not see the easier and only way to better our condition?

It was not necessary for our condition to be bettered by an act of Congress, although we should surely appreciate the interest shown in us at the last session of Congress.

It is the fault of no one but the telegraphers of this country that they were not working under their own conditions years ago.

If each and every telegrapher could have it impressed upon him (and I say again I can not conceive why any one that can master the art of telegraphy should be so dull as not to see without any convincing evidence being used), that if each member did his duty, we could command and labor under our own working conditions.

If every telegrapher in this broad land would say, "I demand a $75.00 or $80.00 minimum with an eight-hour day or I don't work," what would be the result?

There could be but one issue, and that would be the granting of our demands.

The railroads of this land are making enough profit today that they would not let the demands of the telegraphers shut them down, and if, as I stated before, each telegrapher could be made to see as they should, it's a case of comply with our demands or do no business, for is there a telegrapher in the land today who is not wise enough to know that railway traffic can not be handled without the telegraph system.

Probably some may think they could use telephones, but I think this has been tried and proven a failure in more than one instance. So let us quit this worrying about whether the law is going to be obeyed or not, and get down to something besides slinging hot air and worrying, for, as I said before, we do not need the law, but strength in something that was started with this goal in sight long before a law to this effect was thought of.

Let us get after those who still walk in darkness, and try and lead them to see the light, for, as we all know, there are still those who are unable to see as the educated should see.

Now, a few words in regard to our Order, and I think they apply to all secret orders as well.

I would say, and reiterate strongly, that there is not enough care taken in selecting timber for an order; this not only applies to our order, but to all other orders as well; as being a member of other orders, I can assert these things.

I have always been a great agitator for reform in our Order, for, brothers, I have always been convinced, and have always asserted that if we as an order were to get down and live up to the letter in regard to taking in new members, there would not be the fight existing between our Order and our employers that there is today.

Does it not stand to reason that if our Order were composed only of temperate, upright, first-class men, the railroads would see where they were going to be benefited by employing only Order men, and instead of bucking us, would stand up for us?

Let us hear from others on this matter.

If not thrown out this time, will try and come again. "BRINK."

THE BOND QUESTION AGAIN.

I agree with Bro. W. H. C. in regard to the bond question in the June issue of THE TELEGRAPHER, that something must be done but I hardly think that the O. R. T. wants to embark on a commercial career at present, at least. The Order has enough to look after in these questions without actually establishing new departments to cover them. If we can agree on some plan and get it started, let us do so; but the question is the plan.

First, let me relate my own experience, to show how important this matter is. After doing some organizing on one of our scheduled roads, as there had been some civil strife on a certain district of the road. I being a new-comer there, found only 25 paid-up members out of something like 185 telegraphers. I proceeded to organize the division, and being on an organized and scheduled road, I did not take any pains to cover up my purpose, but sailed in open-handed and organized the division, having a total of 210 members, which, of course, included some telegraphers who were employed in other departments, six months after beginning.

I had at that time been bonded by a certain surety company for several months on the same road, and prior to coming to that road had been bonded by the same surety company for many years in different positions.

After organizing, I took up with the superintendent several matters in regard to the schedule, among them a matter of several positions where telegraphers had been working from three to four hours more than the time called for by the schedule, without overtime pay. This matter had to go to the general manager's office before the hours were finally reduced to those called for by the schedule. Shortly afterward a man stepped off the train and handed me a note, reading, "the general manager advises that the bond company has withdrawn from your bond; your services are no longer required." Upon going to the superintendent's office to take the matter up, I was informed that there was nothing that office could take up for me. However, I was told by an active member of the superintendent's office that he had learned that the superintendent had written to the general manager stating that I had been making a discontented feeling among the telegraphers, and that he would like to have me removed from the division, some time previous.

On going to the General Chairman of the system with my grievance, he introduced me to the general agent of the bond company, and there I made a statement. After some time, as no satisfaction was given at all, I again wrote the General Chairman, who in turn wrote a note to the general agent, and received a reply that a statement was wanted from me. The same thing occurred again and again, although each time I made a statement.

Upon writing to Bro. Perham, he suggested certain action on my part at that time, which I took with the following results:

I wrote for and received letters from bankers, lawyers, preachers, and others at each station I had been employed in during five years. Each one gave me a good send-off, and stated that I was sober, honest, industrious, etc., etc.

These letters, about forty, all told, I took to the general agent of the bond company, and asked him to get them to the president of his company. He said that he doubted if the president would give the matter any consideration, but that he would try it. To end the story, in a surprisingly short time I was notified that my bond had been restored. However, not until a year had passed from the time it was withdrawn.

Now, I would suggest that suggestions be made by our President, Vice-Presidents, Secretary and other writers in THE TELEGRAPHER, and that at the end of, say, three to six months, when the question has been thoroughly threshed out, and a large number of suggestions made, that they be written out on a form to be printed by the O. R. T. and voted upon by the membership, and the suggestion receiving the most votes be taken in hand and plans made by the officers of the O. R. T. to carry it out in detail.

Some suggestions follow; who will add others to the list, and print with his article to THE TELEGRAPHER, all these together with his own suggestion?

1. That each schedule revised, and each schedule secured from a railroad contain the provision that: Telegraphers may secure bond from any reliable bond company, and same will be accepted by the company, or may give personal bond, of any kind that may be adjudged by a committee consisting of one railroad official, one O. R. T. member, and one other party, to be chosen by the former two, and all expense be paid by the employer, provided that the company does not see fit to accept the bond without arbitration.

2. That telegraphers may be bonded by any reliable company.

3. That any bond may be accepted, provided same is guaranteed by the O. R. T. Any of the above would have to be included in schedules.

4. Organize a bond company, separate from the O. R. T., but consisting of members of the O. R. T.

5. A provision in all schedules that whenever a telegrapher's bond is withdrawn, he can not be discharged from the service, but may take his turn for non-bonded positions, the schedule to state what positions are to be bonded according to valuables handled by said telegraphers in said positions.

Here is my suggestion.

6. All schedules renewed or secured by the O. R. T. will contain a provision that no bond will be required of any telegrapher holding membership in the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, that no discrimination will be made in filling positions, and that the said Order of Railroad Telegraphers will help to punish any absconder who has been employed under those conditions, and will disbar him from further membership, and agrees to take any reasonable measures toward assisting in the capture of such absconder. Any member dropping membership, or failing without great cause to pay his dues, may be reported to the company who employs him, as disbarred from this guaranty on receipt of this information.

The objection may be made that the railroad companies would refuse to employ members. Not so. If a schedule with this provision became effective, naturally, the road would have many members, and consequently no bond would be required from these members. A new man would not be asked if he was a member until after he had been employed, or if discrimination should be practiced in employing telegraphers, any member could take the matter up with the system division, operating on said road and quickly have the matter stopped.

I believe it is possible and very probable that in some future time the O. R. T. can demand a closed shop, and no bond. The O. R. T. would then guarantee all members, and any member violating his obligation, which will contain an agreement to protect the O. R. T., may be expelled.

When we stop to think what the O. R. T. has accomplished, and what other organizations have accomplished, it looks very reasonable.

Yours for closed shop, honesty and no bond.

CERT. 1103, GRAND.

New Haven Division, No. 29.

The regular July meeting of Division No. 29 was a perspiring event. The excessive heat made the evening anything but comfortable, even out of doors, but in the lodge room the temperature was withering to the feelings, and melted the "boiled" collars into unrecognizable shapes. Coatless and vestless individuals fanned the air with anything they could improvise into a fan in an endeavor to generate breeze enough to endure the torrid heat, and stuck it out with the grim determination of a stoker in the fiery pit of a vessel's hold. In their mind's eye were visions of what they were missing at Savin Rock; the ocean-cooled breezes seemed to be mocking them, and the innumerable thirst emporiums never seemed so attractive before; they imagined them deserted of anyone able to raise a real thirst, and despised so much those that didn't appreciate the bounties provided by thirst-producing Nature on the one hand, and thirst-quenching concoctions on the other.

The members who denied themselves the pleasures abounding on the outside for the discomforts on the inside that hot night are real thorough union men. This compliment is meant only for those in attendance that night, and should not be embezzled by any who were not present. While it is true that but a few can lay claim to it by virtue of their attendance, still it is rather a selfish exhibition to not manifest a willingness to be "roasted" by the heat when many so uncomplainingly stand for a "roasting" by juggling the insurmountable amount of work, and the unget-away-from hours during their stipulated day's work. It is not within the mental capacity of any one to suppose that because it is hot there will be "nothing doing"—I hope it will never be said of an O. R. T. meeting that there was "nothing doing" there was "something doing," and of such an important nature that it was deemed advisable to defer its final discussion until a larger attendance so all could have a hand in the shaping of the arrangements, which are vital to the general and special welfare of every telegrapher on this large and prosperous system. As it was, enough ideas were disseminated to blaze the way for provisional beginnings, and if the members will turn out to the August meeting in warrantable numbers, the plans will be exploded, and, perhaps, adopted, which will put the affairs of the Order on the business-like basis that the best interests of the membership demands, and warranted by the multitudinous work that is upon the General Chairman and the General Secretary and Treasurer. They have and are encountering an incomprehensible amount of work; gratuity is a poor com-pensator, and recompense is persistently demanding a change in the present unbusiness-like methods. Appreciation is bountifully expressed from every one for the earnest and successful work of the General Committee, but appreciation has no pecuniary value; its only worth just now is to propel the thoughts, and direct the actions of the members to some arrangements whereby some permanency of salary will be forthcoming, and you are asked to consider seriously any proposition your judgment may dictate and express that at the proper place for the solving of this important and not to be dismissed without some settlement question.

The reports of the several standing and special committees were received with grateful applause, and gave every assurance of successful culminations.

The Clam Bake Committee reported arrangements completed for the Fourth Annual Clam Bake and Sheep Barbecue, at Rivercliffe, Naugatuck Junction, on Sunday, August 4th. This is an exceptionally attractive and ideal place to hold a clam bake; the large, spacious grounds, sloping gently down to the beautiful, placid Housatonic river affords ample room for sports of all kinds; the numerous improvised "alcoves," protected from the sun and the rain are especially adapted to the "congregating" around the "frenzied" board, where sports the elusive chips. Those that visited this farm last year know well that no better could be found. It is hoped that a large gathering will make glad the committee who are especially anxious that the financial success will eclipse any previous bake, and all that attend go home with a longing to come again.

The Baseball Committee (self-styled) put out a tracer to locate last year's "outfit;" it is thought that the defeated team of last year embezzled the "outfit" to have themselves another "trimming."

At this meeting it was said that there was rumored around the lobby at the Capitol in Hartford, encouraging reports concerning the Telegraphers' Eight-Hour Bill. The Railroad Committee had failed to agree on the original bill, so the majority of the committee drew up a bill affirming the provisions of the Federal Bill lately passed by Congress, however, with less certainty to the persons affected, and the hours prescribed. The minority report was an adherence to the original bill, with the provisions attached regulating the hours of one-man stations, and permitting sixteen hours in case of sickness or accidents.

The minority report passed the House of Representatives by an overwhelming majority, and the majority report of the Railroad Committee was rejected by a similar vote. The Senate passed the minority report by a vote of 31 to 2; this was on Friday, July 19th. This large vote in favor of this bill was a startling surprise to all; even the Senators were surprised, and many of them could not explain the cause. It is better explained by the remarks of one Senator: "It shows," said he, "that there has been a deal of hard work done, and some system to it."

The honor is large enough to go around, and every member should share in its distribution for the possibilities for future victories are even more astonishing than the winning of this signal one.

Bro. M. W. Handy, our capable and energetic General Secretary and Treasurer, was hurriedly called from his official duties and daily grind to his home in East Berlin, N. Y., by the illness of his father. In a few weeks, dame rumor had the report on wing that "Bill" was doing the spring planting, and later that there was some method to his "training;" this was given little or no credence by the ones who "thought" they knew "Bill" best, but they had more "thinks" coming. The "training" was certainly systematic, and the best of all it was for a purpose, and the purpose was to temper his courage, and harden his determination to propose to undertake responsibilities that he has side-stepped so long. The "Fluffy-Ruffles" prize is his; he heard the call of humanity, and his ears were not deaf. Ere this it is hoped that all blessings are his, and that comfort sits upon a throne that can neither be encumbered nor transferred.

Bro. O. S. Culver acted as General Secretary and Treasurer, and represented Bro. Handy on the General Committee while Bro. Handy was at his home in New York State. Bro. Culver says the job is too exacting for comfort; so much, in fact, that it is difficult to wear the countenance of dignity, as there are so many undignified and perplexing matters continually arising which to solve warps distinction's worthless mask, and renders it fit only for the insipid and presumptive

Bro. E. J. Manion, our able General Chairman, we understand, is looking after the best interests of the Order in general; we hope to have something definite to chronicle ere long that will be pleasing and gratifying to all who are unanimous, no doubt, in their expressions of best wishes for him

Bro. E. W. Millarkey, who has been a staunch and hard worker for Division No. 29 for the past four years, has tired of New England attractions, and left his position in "HN" office to accept something better with the N. Y. C.; we understand it is a chief clerkship. Hope it materializes allright. He accompanied the representatives to Minneapolis, and was much amused by the sign displayed over the door of a Chicago dispenser, "Mallickey Hogan." How many more were tempted by the "curiosity" of that sign as they hurried through the Windy City?

Bro. Johnny Jing Dodan, tiring of the insipid life of the college town, "jacked" the job, and hot-footed it for the "wild and wooly." We understand that the whirlwinds and cyclones of Lincoln, Neb., are scaring him, and, like the

"tenderfoot," he is skittish of every dangerous looking stranger

Space forbids any more write-ups; next time will give honorable mention to all the worthy
Div. Con.

Naugatuck Division—

Brothers, what is the reason you can't get out to meetings? It certainly is not a matter of time or passes; get busy and make the next one a record-breaker

Several offices have been closed, still the boys are all on the move, and no one can get a vacation, and I understand there is to be a couple of new Naugy jobs here soon.

All are sorry to hear that Bro. Porter is having so much trouble with his eyes, and just when we need him, too.

Bro. Walker, now happy, as it is reported that the work trains are to put up at Naugatuck, nights.

Bro. Fuller was at Hartford, Sunday, looking at the high buildings.

The double tracking on the Naugy is fast nearing completion; then for some good jobs around Waterbury. Bro. Fay says he is slated for something good at the new station.

Want all the Brothers to drop something in for this column each month.

Well, Brothers, all who can must get out for the bake. Until then, "73."

"RM."

Boston Division, No. 89.

Providence Division—

How fast the time flies; so fast that some of the Brothers overlooked the fact that it was meeting night, and failed to attend the first night in our new quarters, Pilgrim Hall.

We were decidedly lonesome at first, but when business started in earnest, a more enthusiastic bunch never congregated.

Twelve applications were read and accepted, and one good brother was initiated.

There is very little news to write up, as most of the boys are married to their jobs; those that are not married are engaged to them, so that makes news scarce.

Bro. James Robinson has gone West to take a position on the G. T. Pacific. His position was filled by Bro. Withington, which leaves the third trick up for bid.

Bro. Steffy enjoyed a week's vacation among the old folks at home.

It was with much thankfulness we learned that Bro. Smalley's wife passed safely through a painful operation at Emerson Hospital. Mrs. Smalley is resting comfortably, and expects to go home by Wednesday, July 17.

Bro. Hudson is very well satisfied with his change.

I hope the telegraphers on the Providence Division who do not belong, now that they have their raise in pay, will send their applications in for the next meeting.

Plymouth Division—

Bros. Fenwick and Cushaway, of Framington, together with Bros. Ross of Walpole, and Mullen of Fitchburg, recently spent a day at Revere Beach.

Framington received quite a shaking up in regards to positions going up for bid.

By the time you read this, it is expected that every towerman on this division will be on the right side; can not the telegraphers give us the right to say the same of them.

Mr. Gallagher has been assigned to the night trick at Middleboro station. He has promised to send in his papers.

Bro. Eugene Atkins, third trick at Swett St., has bid in second trick at Savin Hill.

Bro. Jack Smith, second trick at Atlantic lands first trick at Savin Hill.

Bro. Clifford, formerly agent at Avon, is covering third trick at Savin Hill.

Bro. Tommy Prince, night trick at Neponsit, has bid in third trick at Swett St.

Mr. Teare has secured the assistant agency at Harrison Sg. We "13" that Mr. Teare is a member of the C. T. U. A., and has promised to join our Order.

Bro. Frank Riley, third trick at South Bay, is spending a month's vacation in "NH." There seems to be something that attracts Frank each year to the Granite State.

Mr. McNally, who has been covering the split trick, is relieving Bro. Riley. We have been waiting for an application from Mr. McNally, and we hope he will do the right thing.

Bro. A. F. Smith, So. Braintree, attended a reunion of his school classmates, at Wakefield, R. I., July 4th.

Bro. Frank, of North Abington, has returned from his two weeks' trip, spent at Monson, Me.

The revised schedule that took effect July 29th, last, was a very pleasant surprise to all, and has won many new members for the Order. There is no reason why the Plymouth Division should not be solid O. R. T. Any non receiving the increase and other benefits secured should not hesitate to file application for membership in the Order immediately. The increase in wages alone for one month almost pays a year's dues. There should be no such a thing as "can't afford" to join.

We are glad to see Sister Parkinson back on her job at Falmouth, after a hard siege of sickness.

Sister Smith, of Buzzard's Bay, has taken a week off to rest at home. She is being relieved by Sister Burgess.

Bro. Dugass, of Tremont, has resigned, to go firing, and we all wish him good luck.

We are sorry to report Bro. Weaver, of Milton Junction, off on account of sickness, and hope to see him back again soon, healthy and happy as ever.

Bro. Jack Gillis is back to his old job at Bridge-water.

Bro. Bartelt, of So. Bay, has been filling in at "S" office the past four months.

Midland Division—

At the July meeting of Division No. 89, the names of about fifteen members who failed to pay assessment No. 1, for $2, were read off, and sorry to say, several on the Midland Division were among them. Let us hope these are not cases of indifference, but merely forgetfulness. Of course, all such members stand suspended as per local statute 53.

It now remains for some one of the suspended members to establish a precedent by coming forward with the required amount, and a good excuse why same was not paid sooner. This will pave the way for others of like disposition.

Bro. R. D. Matthews, of the Milford Frt. House, just returned from an extended honeymoon, spent through the Northwest.

Bro. Peterson, of "FB" tower, is sojourning with his parents in New Hampshire.

Our worthy local chairman, Bro. Riley, is spending a brief vacation with his father at Blackstone. Bro. Riley reports no grievances on the Midland Division.

We are all glad to hear Bro. Burke, of Needham station, is back to work again, after a lingering illness.

Bro. Cashen is substituting at Norwood Junction tower while Bro. Hale is off.

Div. Com.

Cresson (Pa.) Division No. 109—

At a meeting of the telegraphers, linemen and levermen of the Pittsburgh Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, from Altoona to Bolivar, and including the C. & C. Division, held on Thursday evening, July 18, 1907, in Brown's Hall, at Cresson, Pa., a new division of the Order was instituted, to be known as the Cresson Division, No. 109, for the purpose of placing in closer touch with each other members of the Order who have been obliged hitherto to go to Pittsburgh or Altoona to attend meetings, and at the same time strengthen the membership which could not have been accomplished otherwise by reason of the great distance and disadvantages many of those would be confronted with who were desirous of becoming identified with the Order. Hence a new division was imperative.

Great interest was manifested by all present, and the attendance large, there being forty-eight present, including visiting members from other divisions. Forty-two new being admitted in the new division, eleven of which were received by transfer from other divisions.

President Ferham, of St. Louis, Mo., and Organizer Theodore E. Ellis, of Cincinnati, Ohio, were present on the occasion, and presided over the meeting.

The following officers were elected to preside over the new division in question for the ensuing six months, viz.:

Chief telegrapher, H. D. Border, of Portage.

Secretary and treasurer, Louis Beiter, of Wilmore.

First vice-chief telegrapher, Charles E. Brown, of Cresson.

Second vice-chief telegrapher, Clayton V. Pick-erill, of Conemaugh.

Past chief telegrapher, John A. Fleck, of Conemaugh.

Marshal, C. V. Vaught, of Cresson.

Inside sentinel, Earl C. Hollister, of Conemaugh.

Outside sentinel, Orval Seaman, of Cresson.

It is the intention to hold the sessions of the new division alternately at Cresson and Conemaugh, for a while at least, until all the nons are gathered in the fold, which we are glad to note can be counted on the fingers of one hand of your correspondent, and the recent conversions to the Order are doubtless attributed to the great activity put forth by Organizer Theodore E. Ellis, who was among the boys for several days prior to the meeting.

A general awakening of the boys seems to have struck the Pittsburg division; especially is this true among the telegraphers who are old in the service, and any non who may be halting between two opinions should read this, and let him consider that we, the O. R. T. are fast approaching that stage in thorough organization where, though he is a stumbling block in our pathway, he is a small one, and easily passed over, and to remain out certainly shows a lack of intelligence where constant persistence without a logical excuse is prevalent, and at the same time working detrimental to his own personal interests.

In conclusion, I might add that the outlook for increasing the membership of this new division is very encouraging, as several applications have been filed to be acted on at the next regular meeting. May the good work continue, and the Cresson Division become the banner division.

CORRESPONDENT.

Sunbury Division, No. 12.

S. & L. and M. & C. Branches—

Bro. Cameron assigned to Burnham, days.

Bro. Johnson to Hays tower, nights.

Telegrapher Oplinger to Hays tower, days.

Telegrapher Dyer to Milroy, days.

At present the S. & L. and M. & C. branches have but four out of the fold, three of which have promised to be with us shortly. True one of these three has promised us for a long time, but we feel that he cannot with decency put us off much longer, especially if it be from a financial standpoint, as each month when he draws his check he must admit that if it were not for the Order it would be short by at least enough to pay the first installment for membership in the O. R. T. Come now, fellow telegraphers who are yet out in the cold, think this over, and hand in your applications. The fourth one is in the position of the man with whom the spirit has ceased to thrive. Long years ago when wages were but little more than half what they are now, this "non" quit telegraphing because it was not remunerative enough, but he has not been asleep since then—simply waiting, as it were, until the Order should get the wages to a living basis, then he crawls back to the business again, reaps the benefit of all that the Order has done, and shows his appreciation (?) by doing all in his power detrimental to the Order. He has all that he desires now, he claims, and we do not think he can hurt the Order much unless it be through his ham factory.

CERT. 32.

Branch Notes—

We note with much satisfaction the progress we are making with Division No. 12. Let every one help and make this a banner division by March 4th next year.

Our so-called messengers are not making much progress when the fact is proven that only two have been turned out since these so-called students have been installed.

With the installing of the new rules of our block system, a greater responsibility is placed on the telegraphers. Now, Brothers, it is time we have shorter hours, and no cut in wages either, as we are not overpaid now.

We are sorry to lose Fro. Dffenbach, who has been appointed manager of W. U. office at Berwick. Understand he is still carrying a card in Division No. 12.

It is desired that as many of the Brothers as can attend as many meetings as possible in the next six months, as very important business will be transacted.

CERT. No. 46.

Williamsport Division, No. 24.

Eastern and Susquehanna Divisions—

Not having seen any notes from Division No. 24 for some time, will endeavor to write a few, as no doubt the members will be interested.

At our regular meeting, held on July 13th, we had a remarkably large attendance, both from the Susquehanna and Eastern Division, and the Elmira Division as well. With Bro. J. I. Klingenger in the chair the business was conducted with dispatch. After the regular routine of business was over, our honorable president, H. B. Perham, and our genial vice-president, T. M. Pierson, were introduced, and both gave us a general talk, which was beneficial to all present, and their remarks were greeted with frequent applause. They were given a hearty welcome by all present, and we hope to soon see their return at some future meeting.

At our regular meeting, held August 1st, while we did not have a large attendance as at our previous meeting, yet it was quite interesting, and business of importance was transacted. Wetzel, of "AQ" tower, and C. C. Bastian, of "BS" tower, were initiated, and were given the glad hand by all present. We were all glad to see them affiliate with our grand and noble order. The application of T. B. Williamson, of Antea Fort, was favorably acted on, and we will all be pleased to again see Bro. Williamson with us. Bros. J. H. Zerbe and C. A. Riland came in rather late, but not too late to be at the best part of the meeting. We all missed Bro. Klingenger, and hope he will be with us at the next meeting.

Telegrapher Stanley is doing extra work in "GO" office.

A new tower has been erected at east end of Aughenbaughs, which will be an interlocking plant, and I understand that Bro. W. E. Troutman has been assigned day telegraph position. Have not yet heard who the night man will be.

A number of offices have been advertised lately. Among them are "BS," days, Mr.—BG—RD—CF, nights, and a new office at Aughenbaughs, day and night.

M. W. Coleman, of Lockhaven, who formerly telegraphed on the Lehigh Valley R. R., but recently employed on this road, has been working "SQ" nights. We hope to soon be able to call him Brother, as he expects to wear the button in the very near future.

A new system of block signal rules has been inaugurated on this road which went into effect recently. While there are some changes, they are practically the same as before. Bros. T. M. Young, Wm. Nicely, J. I. Klingenberg and J. H. Zerbe assisted in instructing the telegraphers on the new book.

Commencing August 4th, all freight trains must clear the block before a passenger train can enter the block, unless the passenger train has a special order to do so. This ruling will necessitate the telegraphers to promptly report their trains, and, if carried out as intended, will greatly minimize the accidents that have been so frequent throughout the country lately. The responsibility mostly lays with the telegrapher, and it is up to him to be on a constant look out as to when the signal is lowered.

Bro. W. J. Penny, of Milton, has been doing some extra work in "GO" office.

Brothers, let us stand nobly by the old ship, and do not allow any of the rippling waves to falter our steps in the least. We are in the field to win, and so long as right and justice are in the land we shall win. Be on the look out for breakers, and ever remember our watchword.

A night messenger has been placed in "SQ" office at night to assist in throwing levers and office work, and to "learn telegraphy." See the point?

It hardly seems credible that the telegraphers are so poorly paid and over-worked as they are, but such is the case. The only way to overcome this is to stand shoulder to shoulder with the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, and we shall yet see the day, and we trust in the not far distant future, when the shackles shall be thrown from our feet, as it were, and we shall be placed on a plane such as other men are now enjoying, and which was brought about by thorough organized labor. Some would have us tear down our noble Order and try to build up another one, but all such advice is but to retrace our steps for the worse, and which we shall never do. Do not be misled by any such theory, for the land is full of false prophets, who are seeking self glory, regardless of their fellow men. The O. R. T. is here to stay, and we shall very soon see such an awakening throughout the land such as has never been heard of before. When we once wake up and act as men, then we shall see the results of our labor.

Let us try to help our brothers, and ever be willing to give them the glad hand of welcome, and show them that there is something in organization that is worth far more than money or precious pearls—that of true friendship and loyalty to each other.

Brothers, if any of you have not yet paid your dues for last half of 1907, do so at once, as this is very important. Do not allow yourselves to get in arrears.

CERTIFICATE No. 25.

Pittsburg Division, No. 52.

Regular meeting of July 13th found about twenty of the faithful present. Twelve petitions for membership were acted upon, including five from the Pittsburg Division P. R. R., three from the Allegheny Division P. R. R., two from the Conemaugh Division P. R. R., one from the P. & L. E. R. R., and one from the Penna. lines west of Pittsburg, which is about our average per month now. The more the merrier. Keep it up.

Sick claims amounting to $42.00, one death claim, amount $50.00, and bills amounting to $71.50 were ordered paid; quite a neat little sum for one meeting.

Meeting closed in harmony at 11.30 p. m.

Not having received notes for this issue of THE TELEGRAPHER, I am once more compelled to inform the members that Brothers Dalrymple, Campbell and Thompson, Local Chairmen on the P. & L. E., have not as yet overworked their pens in writing up notes of interest from their respective divisions. Their names will continue to appear in this column each and every month until they get busy. The Local Chairmen on the P. R. R., Brothers Kiger, Roberts and Courtney, have also failed to contribute this month.

I understand that on July 13th a game of baseball was played at Altoona between the "B" office, Altoona, and "OD" office, Pittsburg, in which the "OD" boys came out victorious. Quite a few rooters accompanied the team to Altoona.

Let all members who have not yet paid their dues for the current term, be reminded by this notice that sixty days in arrears makes you non-beneficial, and deprives you of all benefits. You have until August 30th to remit; after that you are non-beneficial. Better do it now.

Do not forget that your Local Chairman will be wanting some information in the near future. It will be to your own interest to respond promptly.

KLING.

The following resolution was adopted at our last meeting:

"WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst an honored Brother and member of our Division, No. 52, by death:

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to the act of the Divine Ruler of the universe, but, while so doing, cannot help expressing our sorrow over the death of our Bro. W. N. Smith;

Resolved, That our sympathy be extended to the bereaved family of the deceased Brother, and that our charter be draped for a period of sixty days;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, a copy handed to the bereaved family, and a copy forwarded to THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER for publication."

Wilmington Division, No. 58.

Delaware Division—

We had quite an interesting meeting in June, and a good many of the boys were present. Those who failed to attend missed a good thing.

Bro. Frasher from the B. & O. gave us an interesting talk on current questions in O. R. T. circles, which was very interesting and highly appreciated.

Bro. Russell is holding down message side at Clayton "C." and Bro. Gafford from "C" is working Bro. Russell's job at "DV" until advertised.

Bro. Gafford spent his day off with his sister, who is ill.

Bro. Stevens at "FO" paid a visit to his old home, Millington, last week.

There are several new men on the road "posting;" this is one of the thorns in our pillows.

Bro. Whitlock and Bro. Gafford took in the circus at Dover.

The new "H" tower at Harrington goes into operation to-day, with Bro. Reese, day, and Mr. Lynch, night.

From all accounts the boys spent the glorious fourth quietly, no doubt on account of the mistake the signers of the Declaration of Independence made in doing their patriotic act on the 4th, when Bro. Wise in the money wagon does his paying act on the 9th; so near and yet so far.

The O. R. T. boys have furnished Bro. Jenks, our Local Chairman, with a nice typewriter.

Bro. East, from "Z," on sick list.

Washington Division, No. 60.

The regular July meeting of Washington Division, No. 60, was held at Typographical Temple, 423 G street, N. W. About half of the members were present. Am sure there were several more who could have attended.

Bro. H. B. Trotter, of our sister Division, No. 125, was with us, and told the boys of some of the good things they have secured on their road, and there is no reason why we cannot have some of them, too. We want the overtime clause taken up with our General Committee when it next meets. Write your chairman your views, and what you want. Give him all the information you can to enable him to work intelligently. Get some life into your bones, and make things hum. Do not hold back and look on while others are doing all the work. Be active in soliciting new members. Two new members is our record for July. There are several more in this vicinity who are eligible, and would make good members, and there is no better time for them to join us than now. Don't stand back and let others do all the work. Don't say I will do so and so if the rest will do so and so, but come in and get into the thick of the fight, and help push things along. I think the matter of a few dollars should not be a drawback to any one, as they are benefited by what the organization does for us all. It takes financial as well as personal support to win all battles, and ours is no exception. Send in your applications, and when you become a member, attend the meetings regularly, and learn what is going on. Preach your ideas in the division room, not on the streets. Help others to help you.

DIVISION CORRESPONDENT.

Elmira Division, No. 100.

Friday, July 19th was the day Division 100 came together, and the meeting was opened with eighteen members present.

Our worthy President, Bro. H. B. Perham, honored us with his presence, and made a short address, his remarks being cut rather short, on account of being obliged to make a train. His words were few, but to the point, and we were all sorry to lose him so early.

Bro. Dunn gave us a talk on organization, and his remarks were well received. We hope to profit by them.

Two applications were read and accepted, those of Miss Harriet A. Kinney and Mr. Kyte. We certainly extend the hand of welcome to the applicants, and will call them Sister and Brother at our next meeting.

Brothers Owens and Marsh, of the Erie R. R., were visitors, and were made to feel at home. Hope to see them, and more like them, at every meeting.

Bro. Elliott will now have a typewriter to use on his extensive correspondence, having put in a bid for one, and having his request granted.

Understand there is a ham factory at Watkins, with wires running around the town. Whether the students expect to enter the railroad service is a mystery, but a railroad telegrapher should be above teaching them the business, even if he is not obligated.

Understand Messrs. Dale and Patterson have promised to come in and be good. We are sure after the applications, and they come easy after a little persuasion. Our success so far has been most gratifying, and we hope to go on getting the nons till we present a solid front.

Mr. Kinney, at Millport, has promised his papers, and we hope to call him Brother in the very near future. Let the good work go on.

Mr. Bristol, at Bellona, will have a new student about August 1st.

This should be welcome news to the powers that be, and we should all feel very grateful to Mr. B. for providing us with telegraphers.

The scarcity of telegraphers here has resulted in the discontinuation of our regular relief day "til further notice."

Minnequa tower is "manned" by two lady telephone operators, who, we understand, are privileged to learn telegraphy during their spare moments.

Wonder who is supposed to teach them?

Coal Switch tower is likely to be made a telephone station, as it has been up for bid for some time, with no applications, so far as can be ascertained.

Bros. Pettingill, Collins, and J. Brewer, from the South End, graced the gathering with their presence. We shall be more than glad to see the South End a little more in evidence.

Bro. Utz has returned from his vacation, and is once more doing his stunt in "QC." Dan looks happy, and with good reason. Haven't yet learned the lady's name.

Mr. Getchell, third trick dispatcher, is off on vacation, Mr. Judd filling his place.

New York State is now in line with an eight-hour law.

Governor Hughes signed the bill, giving us a show for our white alley, and it is up to us now to see that it is not sidetracked before March 1, 1908.

Mr. Baker, nights at Hall, is away for a couple of weeks, and Mr. R. H. Holdridge is holding down Hall.

Bro. Cayward, of Penn Yan nights, recently returned from a week's sojourn in the country, and says he enjoyed the lay-off very much.

A notice in the Rochester Post-Express, of recent issue, informs the railroads that they can find plenty of telegraphers by communicating with Bro. Perham, and advancing salaries to a fair basis. There is no doubt but that telegraphers can be found, if working conditions are ameliorated.

Bro. Tipton missed last meeting, having been sent as relief out on the Sodus branch. We missed him very much, and hope such a thing will not occur again. Bro. Hammond was stuck, too, and couldn't make the grade.

Bro. Crosby, of Trout Run, just returned from twelve days' vacation.

He was relieved by Bros. Miller and Dunning.

Bros. Pettingill and Baker, of Troy, have the right idea. Come again.

Bro. Fox at Troy, relieving Chief Clerk Rockwell, and Mr. Jones.

Bro. Owens, of Division No. 8, is on his vacation to seashore. I "13" relieved by Bro. T. S. Blake, of "Q." Tom at home, now.

Gillette night office is a phone block station, and still they come. Two ladies at McKinney.

Bro. Hays had his short vacation this month, relieved by Bro. Collins. Mr. Pettingill also took four days to himself, relieved by Bro. Dunning.

Some missionary work is needed on both ends of the E. & C. Division, and it is up to Bro. Tipton to second the efforts of the men who are on the job. Some of the nons feel that an organizer is the only man to go after their applications, and won't hand them in to an ordinary member.

Division No. 100 is getting there with both feet, and is out on the trail of all nons in its jurisdiction. The report that 1,154 new members came into the Order in June looks good, and we may well believe there is something doing all over the country.

Div. Cor., Div. 100.

Baltimore Division, No. 17.

Division No. 17 recently had the pleasure of listening to President H. B. Perham, who not only entertained us with an elaborate account of the recent convention, but informed us how he and others are now looking after the interests of the telegraphers, in behalf of the nine-hour law, which becomes effective March 4, 1908, notwithstanding the fact that there are some 80 railroads concentrating their powers to ask for an extension of time, claiming that there are not a sufficient number of telegraphers to meet the demands of the nine-hour law, it is earnestly requested that each Brother answer the letter recently received from the president as to the number of operators who are now engaged in other avocations, etc., so that when the proper time comes the executive of the O. R. T. may have at his command figures to prove that there is an abundance of telegraph operators, and at a salary that would justify them to leave their present business, would most gladly re-enter the telegraphic profession. We all see the need of united co-operation in this direction. Let us do all we possibly can in bringing this about, treating others as we would have them treat us. Bros. O. L. Bailey and John Kerl were recently honored in their native towns by acting as marshals in the grand memorial procession, and while Bro. Oscar leads the forces of his town, we hope he will be equally successful in leading many of the stragglers along the line into the ranks of the O. R. T.

Bro. G. M. Smith has been compelled to take a vacation on account of ill health. We hope to see Bro. Smith at the key ere long.

Bro. W. B. and J. T. Brenize have recently lost their father. We extend our sincere sympathy.

Bro. H. W. Sutton has taken unto himself a better-half. We extend hearty congratulations, and trust that the days of Mr. and Mrs. Sutton may be many, etc.

The latest plank on Division 17's platform is a raffle for a fortune, the proceeds to be used for a permanent home of Division No. 17. How does it strike you?

MONTEBELLO.

Kanawha & Michigan Railway.

As I never see any items from K. & M., will give a small write-up this month. It looks bad on our part to never see anything from the K. & M., and we hope some of the boys will take more interest, and send in some news. Hope by the time this comes out all members will have paid up their dues and received new cards.

Bro. E. R. McKnight is now doing the owl trick at Pt. Pleasant, relieved at Runner by a new man.

Bro. M. P. Hines, of Palos, was elected as our local chairman. He is a good man, and in the right place. Brothers, we should all give him our loyal support in the future in helping to secure new schedule.

Bro. K. W. Thompson, at Langsville, will soon have a new depot to work in.

Bro. F. P. Flack, nights at Runner, is off on account of sickness. We hope he will soon be able to resume duty.

Bro. Frank Pickens, Runner, days, spent Thursday night with his mother at Buffalo.

Bro. E. B. Nease is spending a week at Buffalo visiting his father.

Bro. JoeMcLaughlin, of Red House, spent a few days in Cincinnati recently. He was relieved by Bro. Charles Robinson, of Sattes.

Boys, don't let this $2.50 per keep us back on going ahead and paying up dues, and giving our brother chairman our loyal support. He can not do anything alone. Help him out all we can. By all means don't forget our dues.

Would like to hear from some one else next month.

CERT. 21.

Canadian Northern Railway.

Fourth District—

You have all received notice of what our committee accomplished at their first meeting with the officials in Winnipeg, and guess the 2½ per cent increase on local express will help some. The boys are to meet the management again about July 15, regarding our new schedule, and from what we learn, it will be a good one, helping materially telegraphers as well as agents. You will, no doubt, have a copy of this schedule before this comes in print, when you can judge for yourselves the points gained.

Let every member remit current dues promptly, and so help defray expenses of this schedule. The boys are to be congratulated in what they have done for us so far, and we are all looking for that back express commission.

Have had no items of news contributed this month, so am sorry can not make this number interesting.

Our popular chief, H. J. Parkhill, of North Battleford, has taken his family to the coast for a few weeks' well-earned vacation. Bro. W. A. Falow working a trick during his absence.

Ballast trains are getting busy on this division. Expect the track will be in prime condition in a month or so, when it will not be necessary to ask how Nos. 1 and 2 are running.

Now, boys, if you don't send in a few news items you can't expect an interesting write-up. Your correspondence should reach me by the 20th of each month.

COR.

C. P. Railway.

Central Division—

One of the most enthusiastic meetings this district ever held, was held in Moose Jaw, Sunday, June 23, in the Trades and Labor Hall, thirty-five members responding to the call of the local chairman, Bro. T. C. Goulding, and I am sure that I can vouch for every one present that they were not disappointed in turning out.

I am sure Bro. Goulding must feel highly gratified to see so many present, and I hope and trust that the interest now aroused in members to attend meetings will not swerve one iota, and that each and every one who can possibly attend will do so in future. These meetings will be held the third Sunday of every month in Moose Jaw, so every one who can possibly attend do so.

I would suggest that where two or more men are employed at one station that they agree amongst themselves to let either one or more go. Some may have other engagements fall due on that particular day, but let the engagement stand for the next Sunday following, and come to the meeting, boys. Do not forget the date. The third Sunday of every month, in Moose Jaw.

Having been asked by Bro. Goulding to write up this district for THE TELEGRAPHER, I will try and do the best I can; also would ask the members of the Fifth District that any item of news on the main line, Broadview to South Current, Regina to Arcola, Pasqua to North Portal, will be thankfully received by me.

Now, one more thing, and it is very important; in fact, so important that it will not pay you to forget it, and that is your dues. Do not say: Oh, I will settle that next month. Do it now, and it is done and off your mind. I always find it easier to pay the full amount beginning of the year, and then my mind is at ease, and I am sure that each and every member could do the same.

Bro. Maynard, Mortlack, away on holidays, homesteading, I believe, for two weeks; relieved by relief agent, Bro. G. F. Guernsey.

Before closing I wish to say a few words in regards to our chief, Mr. R. F. Chapman, for allowing so many men to be present at meeting, and also to Bros. D. M. Martin and J. E. Floyd in relieving the boys, and I am sure they all will heartily appreciate the kindness.

Will now close, again asking the boys to mail me any item of news you may have. I will be glad to receive same so that I can have them in St. Louis before the 28th of the month.

B. F. O'TOOLE,
Local Correspondent.

Indianapolis Southern Railway.

Owing to being late with my last contribution it did not get into the June number, as I had intended, so the Brothers will get some very old news in the July number. Perhaps this is the reason, also, that I have received so few notes from the boys on the line. At any rate, my notes are very scarce this time. It would be a disappointment to think that the cause of the scarcity of news was due to lack of interest. Perhaps it is my own inefficiency, but I won't consider that, it's too prominent.

There has been a few changes during the last thirty days on the line, but for the most part I was unable to get the names, etc. Things look some better since our schedule, but we must still keep moving on. Soon we will be in the midst of a fight over the nine-hour law, and should prepare for it. There is a movement all over the country to put everything in readiness. It may be that heroic measures will be necessary, and this makes it all the more important that the greatest interest is manifested, and as nearly as possible we should have things solid by the new year. The Indianapolis Southern is in good condition, and it is to be hoped that it will so remain.

There has been a tendency along the line to handle grievances improperly. In all cases the best thing you can do when you have anything of this kind which you think should be adjusted, is to take it up with the local chairman. In this way better results will be had, and better relations maintained between all concerned.

A meeting was held some time ago for the Brothers on the west end. I was unable to learn how the attendance was. Let us hope it was a beneficial meeting.

Bro. I. S. Draper is to be transferred from Sullivan to Bloomington agency.

Bro. Wentworth, formerly of Edwards, is working for the C., H. & D. at Oxford, Ohio. He was relieved by J. S. Milan from Robinson.

Bro. A. H. Turney, formerly nights at Bloomington, is back, after a two weeks' vacation. At present he is working days at Bloomington.

Bro. G. P. Rutherford, days at "BN," will take a thirty-day vacation, and while away will visit Colorado and California.

G. D. Clements, cashier at Bloomington, goes to Oblong as agent. He is a non, but would make a good Order man. Div. Cor.

St. Louis Southwestern Railway of Texas.

I do not recollect of ever seeing a write-up from the Cotton Belt. Having recently come to this road, and not being thoroughly acquainted, it will be a poor effort, but probably a starter. We can have a write-up each month if every one having notes pertaining to the Order and its movements will send them in for publication. I don't see why we can not make a showing.

The nons who have respect for themselves, their families and their fellow craftsmen, should show their respect by joining the O. R. T., and becoming one of its workers.

The Cotton Belt is not in such bad shape, but there is a chance for improvement, since the third man has been put on.

Let us try and secure the applications of all the nons near our respective stations, and get a percentage on this road that will warrant sending a committee to have a conference with the officials.

Any one wishing application blanks can secure same by writing Mr. J. W. LaFever, secretary and treasurer, Division No. 2, 3732 North Eleventh street, St. Louis, Mo., or notify H. V. Evans, Carrollton, Texas, who will gladly furnish them, and take charge of any notes to be placed in the journal.

Surely you can spare $8 or $9 for a card in the organization that has done so much for us, and is in the position to secure many more benefits, if the present members will lend a helping hand, and the non-members will come into the fold to strengthen the organization.

Mr. Short, from Lufkin, is working third trick at Grape Vine. He promises to join soon. Bro. C. E. Whitener, from Y. & M. V., holds second trick at Mt. Vernon, and carries a card in Frisco Division.

Bro. Pickard, from the main line, holding third trick at Wylie.

Mr. C. C. Robertson, an ex-member, advises he is a little behind in dues, but will make good soon. Train orders were cut out at this station July 12, to save putting on the third telegrapher. All trains now flag to North Fort Worth.

Miss Ada B. Chambers, first trick at Carrollton, is enjoying a well-earned vacation among the mountains of Colorado; relieved by Bro. Evans, third trick telegrapher. Unable to say, at this writing, who is on the third at present.

Winnipeg Division—

Our brother correspondent on the Minnesota Division handed us a bouquet for the month of June. Thanks. We must say he is second to none, and we are sorry to see him miss a month now and then, but there are few, except the writers who realize the work necessary to get a write-up in shape. The boys on the east end are doing better, and we read their notes with interest.

This is the time of the year when expenses have to be lowered, and, as usual, the telegraphers have to stand the most of it, and a man is taken off here and there until the force is considerably reduced.

Bro. Danielson has returned to his old stand at Oslo, and Bro. Abbott has gone to the Missouri River Division, locating at Garrison, we understand.

Bro. Olson, nights at Adams, has gone to Conway as agent. Agent Bangle, from Conway to Tolley, relieving Agent Glasford, who, we understand, is leaving the service.

Bro. Cannon, days at Adams, now on nights, and Bro. Oliver doing his own wire work. Understand Bro. Cannon is about to take a lay-off, which seems to be the order of the times, as everyone is asking for relief.

Bro. Vergowe on vacation; relieved by Telegrapher Lennon, of Thief River Falls, nights. Can not say who has taken that job.

Reduction of the force at Mahanomen, leaving agent to do his own wire work. Bro. Boyce was relieved, but have not heard where he went.

Bro. Dalton, of Halma, is on the sick list, and has been asking for relief for some time.

Bros. Allison and Haulathe celebrated the Fourth with Bro. Dalton, of Halma, and report a good time. Understand there was some G. N. boys there, but as seems usual with the G. N. boys, they had no cards.

We now have the new schedule, and expect to see some bumping going on until the boys get settled to the new conditions.

Understand Bisbee was awarded to Bro. Crandell, who was the only applicant. Glad to see him get it, and hope he will like it better than his old position.

Bro. Moon, of Eckman, been on a three weeks' lay off; relieved by Mr. Garrison, whom, we understand, lives in the country near there. Seems queer that farmers can relieve us, doesn't it, and still the managements howl that they can not get men?

I suppose you have all noticed that there has been no strike-breakers going to the coast to take the places of the commercial boys, who found it necessary to walk out. That has been made possible by the treatment accorded the scab and by individual effort in elevating the profession. Let us hope the time will soon come when the scale of wages will keep pace with the cost of living, so we may enjoy our lives and be free from industrial slavery.

Minnesota and Cedar Rapids Division—

Our regular monthly meeting was held at Cedar Rapids, July 19, with a fair attendance. Local Chairman Hicks was in command, and General Chairman W. T. Brown was also on hand. The Brothers all reported a good time, but sorry that more could not be there.

No items received up to date, so will have to do the act myself.

Local Chairman of C. R. Division, Bro. S. S. Worley, is at last enjoying his much needed vacation; relieved by Mr. Brown, of general offices.

Bro. McCue, of Clarksville, nights, is on the sick list; relieved by Telegrapher Church.

Bro. Barton, Faribault, resigned. "13" he is located in Texas now. Mr. Featherstone doing the act at "BO" until vacancy is filled by bulletin.

Bro. Richards, of Palo, got Manly Junction on bulletin. Mr. Monroe doubling up for a few days at "A" on account of no extra man.

Bro. Furry, of Mt. Auburn, resigned, and is now located at Rocker, Mont., on N. P. We all regret to see him leave us, but understand he has landed something good out west. Mr. Einwater, of Linn, relieved at Mt. Auburn, and Mr. Bailey is holding down Linn.

Bro. J. R. McCue, of Clarks Grove, is back at his old stand, Inver Grove.

Bro. McGrath is acting agent at Holland on account of no one to send there to relieve Bro. Wilmount, who has left us to accept a position with the N. P. at Spokane, Wash.

Bro. Cross is now located at Gordonsville as agent on account of Mr. Resor resigning.

Every one seems to be on the move around here just now, and it's a hard proposition to try to get away for a little vacation.

Our general chairman, W. T. Brown, has been lining-up this division for the past two weeks, and reports it in fine shape; only a few nons left, and most of these have promised to come in soon. Let us all come to the front and help out in this good work, and try to bring in some of the desirable ones, and make our division solid. Otherwise how can we expect to reach the $75 mark and eight hours per day?

I remind you, one and all, again of our regular monthly meetings held in Federation of Labor Hall at Cedar Rapids, the third Friday of each month. Come join us there next meeting. You will be well repaid for your trouble.

MORRIS.

St. Louis Division—

Quite a number of changes the past month. Four new members initiated since our last letter, and we are working hard for that 100 per cent membership, and if the boys get busy, we should reach the goal soon.

Bro. C. H. Koetting, of Gerald, is at last off for his vacation, with Bro. Louis Middleton, late from the O. S. L., relieving.

Bro. J. E. Friend, late from Centaur, has left the line to accept a position with the Northern Pacific in the State of Washington.

P. W. Radell, member of the commercial telegraphers, is doing the owl trick at Forsyth Junction at this writing.

Mr. Smith, late from Eldon owldom, has been doing the owl act at Belle the past week.

H. R. Son, who was relieving at Union, nights, is now keeping the owls company at Belle.

Bro. C. Hutchinson is again at his old post, nights, at Union, after a tour of the Sunny South.

Bro. J. E. Son is back at his old stand chasing coal out of Bowen.

Bro. W. L. Bonnett has bid in the agency at Nay.

J. J. Flint, the Brother from Etterville, who seems to be having such hard lines to get his vacation wound up, took another trial at it the first of the present week, being relieved by Bro. Emmett Smith, who was obliged to return home on account of the illness of his wife. Glad to hear she is convalescing.

A Mr. Neff, late from the Frisco, is doing the act at Henley.

E. D. Gidinhagen is relieving Mr. H. E. Neese, agent at Bland.

Mr. Neese has our sympathy in his great bereavement; having had the misfortune of losing his wife.

It has come to my notice that there is booze-fighting being carried on by a certain party on this line. Understand he was "full as a goose" at a Fourth of July picnic. It's to be regretted that an agent will practice such degrading habits at home, but shows he has very little regard for his family in advertising himself in such a public manner when on a visit. No names need be mentioned, but a "word" to the wise is, or should be, sufficient. Several agents have been discharged for drunkenness of late, and none too soon. The company has been entirely too lenient with this class, for they are a constant menace to the public safety, and the cause of much sorrow and humiliation to trusting and dependent wives and little ones. The habit is one of the most abominable and degrading in any one, and telegraphers who are addicted to it should get out of the service; if they don't, they should be put out.

Your correspondent is expecting to take a vacation of two weeks in the near future to recuperate from the debilitating effects of the extremely warm weather the past month.

One word more: Read every word in the July TELEGRAPHER; especially pages 1149 and 1150.

Bro. W. E. Hinton writes from Puyallup, Washington, where he is in the employ of the Northern Pacific, that the shipment of fruit is on in full blast, several car-loads leaving that station under refrigeration daily. Bro. Hinton is very well pleased with the great Northwest.

CERT. 480.

Seventh and Eighth Districts, Missouri Division—

Quite a few changes have taken place during the last month, but on account of the time on the bulletins not being out at this writing, I am unable to say who will be interested in all changes.

Mr. H. M. Bowers, agent at Edgerton, has resigned. Understand that Bro. Handley, now of Udell, will take Edgerton. Mr. Bowers has accepted a position with the Burlington in Colorado.

The agencies at County Line, Udell, Perlee and Buffalo are bulletined. These are all very good jobs, and it is hoped that they will be filled by good Order men.

The agencies at Blake and Highland are new jobs, established when the block system went into effect. They are bulletined, and will pay $55 per month.

Tindall, Purcell, Maysville, Weatherby and Galatin will have night telegraphers put on, which is also caused by the block system. There will also be night telegraphers at Blake and Highland.

Bro. Paulson, who was working nights at Cameron Junction, resigned. Bro. Paulson did not know where he was going, only that he would take a month or so visiting at home.

Man by the name of W. K. Parker relieved Bro. Paulson. Mr. Parker promises his application just as soon as he can get straightened out.

Bro. Chinn, days at Beverly tower, was off a few days on account of a death in the family; Bro. Millen relieved Bro. Chinn.

Bro. Gregg, agent and telegrapher at Altamont, having partially recovered from his serious illness, went to Ohio on a visit with home folks. At this writing Bro. Gregg is back at work. Bro. Rouch worked Altamont during Bro. Gregg's sickness. Upon Bro. Gregg's return Bro. Rouch took a little vacation.

Bro. Aines, of Plattsburg, has taken a thirty days' leave of absence, being relieved by his son.

During the last month we have received some very good results from our work, and we are preparing to start in on the next month fighting still harder than ever to get the Eighth District solid.

We have received the applications of agent Pringle, at Cameron, and Miss Elizabeth Jones, of Rushville. Miss Jones is not working at present, but will go to work in the near future. I wish to thank Bro. Cook, of Rushville, for Miss Jones' application.

There are still four or five non-members, but I believe that it is safe to say that by the time that this write-up is in print, that the most of them will have come out on our side. I wish that each of you Brothers would give us some help in this work, and whenever you get a chance put in a good word, and it will not be long before we can say that the Eighth District is solid to a man.

We undertook to hold a meeting at Altamont the latter part of June, but some one got scared, and would not let the boys off.

Your assistant local chairman was given to understand that he was not to use the wires for the purpose of organizing, and that it looked as though he was taking too great an interest in this work for his own benefit. We are very thankful that Uncle Sam does not kick on our using the mails for organizing purposes, or the Order might suffer to some extent, as it is impossible to get off to do anything.

There was not one word of news received from the Seventh District this month, consequently you will find nothing from those parts, besides the write-up will be cut some shorter than usual. You must send me the news if you expect it to get in print, for I am not a very good guesser, and I have no wire running up that far.

Before this is in print I presume that you will all have forwarded your information blanks to the local chairman. These blanks are very important, and too much care can not be taken in filling them out, as they contain all the information your committee has to work on. Those of you who carelessly filled this blank out and then want something that you have not even put up to the committee, can blame no one but yourselves.

Before closing, I wish to inform you that I received the transfer of Bro. J. R. Condon, of Cameron City. Bro. Condon belonged to the Missouri Pacific Division.

Cor.

Nebraska Division—

I guess that I will have to start in with my usual method of kicking because of the lack of proper interest in our meetings. What is the matter? Have you lost interest in them, or is it that they are not interesting enough for us to attend? I would like to hear from some of the Brothers as to their reasons for not coming, for, if there is something wrong, and there is any way that we can remedy it, I am sure that we would only be too glad to do so. At the meeting July 20, there were just eight showed up. This was the smallest attendance that there has been at any time, but we had a good meeting just the same, and it was decided that the next meeting, August 17, would be open to all who wish to attend. There will be several good speakers from the different departments, and I hope that every one who can possibly get away will come.

I presume before this appears in print the members will have the information blanks, distributed by the local chairman, filled out and returned to him, and if there are any who have not returned them, I wish to ask that they do so at once, as it is not only a matter of importance to you, but to the general committee that they have these blanks at the earliest possible moment. Do not procrastinate another day, but send them in at once.

Mr. E. G. Wolford, relief at Du Bois, is going to take out a card as soon as he has been in the business long enough to entitle him to one. He relieved Mr. Vining, who has quit the service to engage in other business.

Night offices at Hallam and Sabetha cut out in order to cut down expenses.

Bro. Lee Smith, who was at Sabetha, nights, relieved Bro. Gossert at Courtland for a few days.

A. Whitley, at Rokeby, has done the right thing and taken out the papers that entitles him to a card.

We still have a few nons on the division, but with the exception of two or three, I think that they will all have cards before long.

Bro. Green, at Jansen, says it is keeping him on the move nowadays to keep his work up, as his helper is sick with the malaria fever.

The student question seems to be a heavy one on most of the roads at the present time. I understand that the C., B. & Q. is trying to get students in different offices, but most of the men say NO.

Bro. Kennedy, at Bellaire, is back to work again, after his vacation.

Bro. Sheck, at Belleville, expects to leave soon on his vacation; that is, as soon as they find some one to relieve him.

I overheard a telegrapher say a short time ago that if his wages were not raised before spring that he was going to quit and go to braking. He said when any old kind of a man could draw a hundred per, that there wasn't much inducement to keep a man working for $60. I made a few inquiries after overhearing this, and found that there are several of the same opinion, and that the company may lose several men in the telegraph department in the spring.

CARD OF THANKS.

OTEGO, Kans., June 25, 1907.

Members and Officers of Belleville Lodge, Division 126:

Mrs. Lee and myself wish to thank all members of the Nebraska Division for the letter of sympathy and the beautiful floral offering received at the time of the death of our beloved son, Robert Edward.

Yours fraternally,

GEO. D. LEE.

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, It has pleased God to call our worthy Bro. G. W. Barnes from his earthly home to his heavenly one above, removing from his wife a devoted husband, and from our midst a cherished Brother and friend; therefore, be it

Resolved, That although we deeply mourn his loss, we will strive to emulate his good example as a true union man, also extend to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in this sad affliction, commending them to God for hope and comfort; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the bereaved family, a copy be spread upon the records of the Belleville Lodge, Division 126, and a copy furnished THE TELEGRAPHER for publication.

E. C. GREEN,
C. E. BLAUVELT,
J. A. MERRILL,
Committee.

Des Moines Valley Division—

How about your dues? Are you up to date? If not, please send them in at once, and then get after the non or delinquent neighbor next door to you, and bring him into the fold.

Inasmuch as our worthy local chairman has seen fit to appoint me division correspondent, and owing to my inability to get all of the items of interest to the Des Moines Valley Division members, I wish each and every one would make an effort to send me one or more items each month, and let's have as good a write-up as other divisions.

Bro. Brady, of Farmington, has just returned from Clinton, where he represented his home lodge at the grand lodge sessions of the Masonic Order, held recently in that place.

Bro. Harry Failing, formerly Mo. St. L. agent, at Clare, Iowa, is doing the heavy stunts at Harvey.

Bulletin out advertising agency at Hartley and Harvey, also night positions at Evans and Ottumwa. The position of night telegrapher at Evans is being held by Bro. Worth Wade, lately of C., B. & Q., at Des Moines. Worth says the R. I. position he is now holding down is preferable to a combined telegraph and bill clerk position.

Division relief agent, Bro. Gibson, transacted the business at Farmington during the absence of Bro. Brady.

The High Line Brothers held a meeting at Sibley Saturday night, July 13, at the K. of P. Hall. Bro. Brokaw, our local chairman, called the meeting to order, introducing General Chairman Bro. W. T. Brown, who gave us a very interesting talk on various subjects pertaining to the good of our beloved O. R. T.

Those who missed this meeting surely missed a treat, and here's hoping there won't be any "previous engagements," "too busy," etc., excuses offered next time, but let's see all of your smiling faces at the next meeting when called.

If Bros. Benning and Brokaw, at the extreme south end of this pike, can come, we surely can not trump up any excuse but what will look very flimsy.

I understand Bro. J. S. Chinn expects to leave for the wild and woolly West in the near future.

Bro. H. H. Hansberry, a member of C. & N. W. System Division, formerly located at Brad-gate, Iowa, is doing the owl act at the Ottumwa freight office. Bro. Hansberry states he has a better position in view with the C., M. & St. P., and will work for that company as soon as relieved at Ottumwa.

I will make an extra effort next month to give you a more lengthy and newsy write-up.

CERT. 695.

Illinois Division—

The Brothers are slow getting notes to the correspondent. However, I will see what I can dig up that is of interest to us all. Have you noticed the number of new men on this division who are wearing the button? Here are their names:

W. J. Forrester, Wyoming, Ill.; C. Knight, Ulah, Ill.; O. G. Vale, Henry, Ill.; C. H. Cornish, Dunlap, Ill.; F. A. Smith, Galva, Ill.; E. G. Freytag, Reynolds, Ill.; H. H. Rhodarmer, Orion, Ill.; C. F. Hill, Sparland, Ill.; T. E. Adelman, Princeville, Ill.; J. C. Peterson, Morris, Ill.; H. T. Coughlin, Seneca, Ill. E. J. Koretz, Seneca, Ill.; Louis Hockendoner, Tiskilwa, Ill.; Robt. J. Swindell, Davenport, Ia.; O. W. Gillette, Depue, Ill.; E. E. Reinhart, Peru, Ill.; Walter Hood, Burr Oak, Ill.; H. A. Thomas, Wyand, Ill.; C. H. Brown, Marquette, Ill.; C. G. Williams, Wyand, Ill.; J. J. Euard, Putnam, Ill.; C. R. Olson, Cambridge, Ill.; Louis Bast, Bureau, Ill.; F. H. Smith, Toulon, Ill.; L. E. Wilson, Peoria, Ill. This list is the direct result of the untiring efforts of our worthy local chairman, Bro. Teeters, of Rock Island, Ill. I think, to say the least, he is entitled to a vote of thanks from the boys of the Illinois Division, and, in fact, the whole system. If he keeps on in the good work, we will soon be the banner division of the C., R. I. & P.

Not very many changes on the division at present, owing, I think, to the lack of extra men. Our second trick dispatcher, Mr. Litten, just returned from his vacation, and Mr. Cassidy, of first trick, taking a well-earned vacation. Bro. Thayer is doing the extra work while dispatchers are taking their vacations. He is filling the place and handing out 19's and 31's like an old-timer.

Bro. Lynch, Carbon Cliff, off for two weeks; relieved by Bro. Andrews.

Bro. McCleary, Bureau, sent to Ottawa to relieve Bro. Keating while he was taking his honeymoon trip; Mr. Philips relieving Bro. McCleary.

Day telegrapher has been taken off at Marquette, which puts Bro. Andrews, nights, at Mokena.

Bro. Wagner, nights at Joliet, relieved Bro. Kay, while the latter is off on wedding trip. Did not learn who relieved Bro. Wagner.

Did you ever stop and consider the amount of work there is for the telegrapher at Rock Island in the afternoon about 4 o'clock, when he has to take the 37 and 38 car reports? These reports are something fierce, and we all ought to be on hand and take our turn promptly, thereby saving a lot of calling and expediting the work wonderfully. Think it over, and let us all see if we can not be on hand and assist in the work every day.

Business was seriously delayed on this division on the morning of July 9, by an extensive wash-out on the main line, between Bureau and Tiskilwa, and one on the Bureau branch, between Bureau and Putnam. All passenger trains were delayed from one to seven hours, some of the Peoria trains being detoured via Rock Island. Several train-loads of ballast were required to repair the damage.

How many of you have accustomed yourselves to the new two-cent fares? Thus far observations in this vicinity have shown an increase in ticket sales over corresponding previous periods. Let us hope that the increased volume of business will return greater dividends to all concerned than formerly, and that the new laws will result in much good, rather than retard the company's business.

Before I cut out, I wish to say that if you desire a write-up in the journal each month, please send me any notes you may have that would be of interest to us, and I will try to do the rest.

CERT. 1314.

Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railway.

Middle Division—

The meeting at Punxsutawney, July 5, was not very well attended, but suppose all will have an excuse that it was too soon after the Fourth. Several Brothers from B. & A. V., Division 52, were present, and a very pleasant as well as profitable evening was spent.

Will say to Pittsburg Division boys that Bro. Trampton is a hard and willing worker, and the boys should make a special effort to attend meetings, and show him that his work is appreciated.

A new block system has been put in service on single track between "WI" tower and Crayland, also between Newton and J. B. junction, which gives us four additional telegraphers.

A new office has been opened, day and night, at Empire, also Forest Hill, night, and Boyer, nights.

"XN" tower has been closed; also Idlewild, nights.

Following changes since last month:

Bro. Judd, Forest Hill, days, to "WI" tower, days.

Bro. Keep, "WI" tower, nights, to Forest Hill, days.

Mr. Brown, Rasselas, nights, to "WI" tower, nights.

Bro. Sarsfield, "XN" tower, days, to Idlewild, days.

Bro. Williams, "XN" tower, nights, to Empire, nights.

Mr. Carter, Idlewild, days, to Empire, days.

Bro. Hassler, Idlewild, nights, to Boyer, nights.

Bro. King, Howard, nights, to Riverside Junction, nights.

Bro. Harkness, Bingham, nights, to Newton, nights.

Mr. Bloom, new man, at Rasselas, nights.

Mr. Ion, new man, at Bingham, nights.

Bro. Croker, Newton, nights, off on account of sprained ankle.

Bro. Shurwin, Croyland, days, away on vacation; relieved by Bro. Sweet, regular night man. He, in turn, relieved by Bro. Williams.

Mr. P. C. Lyon, who was painfully injured some time ago, while getting off a street car, has recovered, and returned to work at Forest Hill, nights. CERT. 111.

C., M. & St. P. Railway.

Milwaukee Terminals—

We are not dead; only in a trance, and will come out of it about the time the general committee goes to Chicago, for then there will be something to gain; otherwise we care nothing about the affairs of the Order in general, where there is no money in question.

If any Brother believes the above sentiment to be rather strong, a few of us would be greatly obliged and elated, could the contrary be proven; however, we will leave this an open question.

There is no place like a terminal point where the members could meet more frequently, but our fellows here will not get out, and that is the end of it. Why, we do not know.

Each month we note a little news from all the other divisions in our TELEGRAPHER, but with regret we must admit, not a line has been seen for months from the Milwaukee Terminals.

Now, Brothers, I have taken the liberty to remind you a little, and hope it will result in some good. Pinch yourselves. Wake up, in order that we may be able to come to the front with the other divisions. No doubt you are all aware of the fact that the eight-hour bill has passed both Houses, and is now up to the Governor for his signature, and before you read this, should have become a law, and then we will be able to live and enjoy a little of this life, as other men do. It has been a long time coming, but everything comes to him who waits, and it is up to us, Brothers, to make the best of it.

A number of changes have taken place in the terminals, and will try and enumerate a few:

Bro. Paul Schaefer, day telegrapher at Milwaukee shops, office, has resigned, and now wears Uncle Sam's uniform. He has been appointed a mail carrier in Milwaukee, and we wish him good luck in his undertaking. He secured his eight-hour job ahead of us.

Bro. Chas. Griswold has also quit the business, and has taken up medicine.

Bro. Chas. Shannon secured North Milwaukee day position on bulletin. He was taken sick shortly afterwards, and has not worked since. On account of the shortage of men Mr. Regan, the agent, has been doing most of his own telegraphing.

Bro. Phillips, night owl at the Air Line switch, is also on the sick list, and his office has been closed temporarily.

Bro. Kretlow has returned to the key; in fact, has been working for some time. He has retired and closed out his interests in the sewing machine business.

We still have a number of nons in the terminals.

First on the list comes our once esteemed Brother, Alfred Zepherin, who, in the past, held the high office of chief telegrapher, and also secretary and treasurer of old No. 111 before we became a system division. He has not held membership for at least a year or more, and bear this in mind: no reasons for dropping out have ever been given.

Mr. Cable and Mr. Hutchings, up to the present time, can not see their way clear to join us. Both in "GO" office. Mr. Houlehen, an old-timer, at Allis, will not come in because he can not keep a student, I "13."

Mr. Regan, Mr. Rummell and Mr. McGrath, agents at North Milwaukee, North avenue and Stowell, not in line, for reasons unknown to the writer.

Miss Geraghty, day telegrapher station master's office, also a non. No reason. This about concludes the news known to me personally.

We have no division correspondent that I know of, so have taken it upon myself to say a few words for our district, just to advertise the fact to the other divisions that we are not all dead, and again place the Milwaukee Terminals on the map among the telegraphers.

OLD TIMER.

Minneapolis, Point and P. D. C. Divisions—

Don't forget to secure your up-to-date card. We are going to have some rousing meetings soon. They are going to be held for your interest, and we desire your presence. We should familiarize ourselves with the eight-hour bill which was passed for our benefit, discuss the matter with others, and come to an opinion as to how it can apply to our respective positions.

Pay your dues promptly, and help to gather in the nons. There are a few eligible ones left, and don't forget the "ham factory," which one of our ex-members has started. See that he has an extra mail sack to carry every day.

A great many of the boys are asking to lay off, and it is to be regretted that the company does not furnish the proper relief. The excuse invariably offered is that he has to depend upon the home product, and that we are not producing any more telegraphers. He, however, admits that he can get good experienced men, but that they will not work under existing conditions, and few for the present scale of wages. Therein lies the whole secret. There are enough telegraphers in the country to supply every position twice over if the company will but pay the salaries to which men of our profession are entitled.

Two new members the past month. Let us try and do as well the next.

Night off telegraph office at M. D. was bulletined on the 26th.

We can not give much of a write-up this month, as very few items have been volunteered. Next month will try to do better, and get some of the Brothers to send in news regarding changes or other matters of interest. Nothing new on the west end that we know of.

Let us pull together now, and each and every one do all he can to advance the best interests of our collective body. Our union has already borne fruit in the good feeling that exists among our members. We should try to help each other in our daily tasks. We look forward to the time when we shall not be so much occupied with political matters, and can use more space and time in a discussion of our work and helpful ideas thereon. The writer has received many a helpful hint on station work from other agents, and feels that these should be passed around. But just now it is very important that we get into line awaiting developments that may mean our weal or woe for many years to come. This is no time for holding back; no time for letting up in our efforts for thorough organization, and let us venture to say to the lapsed member, now is the time to at once take steps to be reinstated. It is worth something to have the hearty good will of all your fellows, so do your duty, and come back where you belong. Cor.

Bro. O. E. White, from C., B. & Q., working nights at Ebner tower. "13" he has worked for "St. P." before. He will, in the near future, move his family to Thomson, and we all wish him the best of luck in his new position.

Bro. Pensicoff, formerly of Franklin Park, nights, is now working for C., G. W. Ry. at South Freeport.

B. A. Carver, agent at Troy Center the past 25 years, resigned May 11 to engage in other business, being relieved by Bro. Roy Fredericks, night man from Elkhorn, Wis. He, in turn, being relieved June 19 by Bro. E. Herzog, from the C., B. & Q. All glad to see Bro. Herzog with us.

Bro. Frederick went from Troy Center to Corliss to relieve day man in freight house for a few days.

Bro. McElhainey, agent at Fulton, down sick, and relieved by Bro. F. F. Johannsen, relief agent.

Bro. F. F. Johannsen, from the Missouri Pacific, at Little Rock, Ark.

The two-cent rate is giving Bro. S. Correll, our local chairman, lots of business, as all other points make Savanna their dumping grounds for Iowa points.

Bro. Hoy, from Elgin, was off for a few days' vacation, being relieved by Bro. F. F. Johannsen.

Mr. W. W. Sloan is back working nights at Leaf River.

Bro. Rynelds, Savanna yards, off sick a few days, being relieved by Bro. F. F. Johannsen.

Hope the boys will all join in and help me get news for next month's TELEGRAPHER. Cor.

C. & C. B., Iowa Division—

Bro. Jackson, nights at Manilla, laid off to take a trip to Excelsior Springs for a rest; relieved by Bro. Kiley.

Bro. Fullerton transferred from Weston agency to Panama.

Bro. Brown, days at Manilla, to Portsmouth agency; relieving P. J. Rogers, who went to Earl- ing. Hope to see "PJ" up to date again soon, also friend Disburg, of Manilla.

Bro. McDowell returned to his job at Coon Rapids after a visit at Aippee to see his father, who was quite ill.

Bro. Losey has been working a trick at Perry the past few months, or while Mr. Flanigan was off.

Bro. Faila grabbed the Weston agency; relieved at Manning by Bro. Cashman.

Bro. Kiley left Manilla for "RD," Council Bluffs, night office, when Bro. Jackson returned from his vacation.

Bro. Stuart, nights at "RD," Council Bluffs, resigned. Didn't hear where he went.

Bro. Kiley left "RD," Council Bluffs, to accept a job with the C., B. & Q.

Telegrapher McManus working a few nights at "RD;" relieved at "WD" by Telegrapher Tathwell, of "BU." (Also Council Bluffs.)

Saw Bro. Olson headed for "RD," Council Bluffs lately to work a few nights.

Bro. McDowell has resigned at Coon Rapids to accept a good agency at Enterprise, Iowa, on the D. M., I. F. & N. Good luck to him.

Bro. McDowell relieved at "Coon" by Telegrapher Jones.

We are pleased to note that our worthy superintendent, Mr. J. H. Foster, has been climbing toward the top. He was relieved by Mr. W. B. Foster, who, the most of us, have formerly worked under when he was trainmaster. Every one seems to have a good word for him.

The meeting held in Perry the evening of June 26, was not well attended on account of passenger train service being so inconvenient since the change of time and trains. Bro. Soyster, of Covington, and Bro. Bliss, of Council Bluffs, took the head of the class as coming the greater distance. Many matters of future importance were discussed, and last, but not least, the matter of better attendance at meetings was taken up, and it was decided to hold meetings on Sunday afternoon hereafter, which will enable Brothers from the east to reach Perry on No. 3, and those from the west can go on No. 4. This will give us plenty of time to hold a good meeting and allow the west end boys to return on No. 11. Those for the east can take a dead freight out, which will be arranged for. This should give the Brothers at two-men stations no excuse for not attending. Those who could be present with but little inconvenience, and don't, should be placed on a list not much better than the "Grab Club."

For the above arrangements we are greatly indebted to Mr. Rozum, chief train dispatcher; so do not fail to show your appreciation of this favor by giving him the best service possible.

Bro. Paul Kouba has been appointed agent at Vining. Bro. W. J. Hall landed the Maxwell night job. Bro. O. H. Huyck got Slater tower, days on bulletin. Bro. Thos. Peterman getting the side-table position, days, at Perry, dispatcher's office.

Agency at Haverhill and night offices Council Bluffs and Keystone still vacant.

Too many excuses from different nons, like "short of money," "expect to quit when it gets warmer," etc. Yes, and if some of you who are handing out these chestnuts don't get busy and line-up, it's going to get "warm" for you mighty soon.

Boys, don't spend your money for booze and amusements, when you should put your shoulders to the wheel and help to elevate the craft, and keep it there.

Bro. Gamelin, of Huxley, is about the only Brother on the Middle Division who makes an attempt to send me news, and he does his big share each month. Brothers, send him your news, and not say to yourselves: "Guess he's heard that, so I won't need to tell him."

"NICK."

Southern Minnesota—

It's a pretty hard proposition to make news out of the meager items I have been able to gather. Wish some good and loyal O. R. T. man on the Mankato Line, and some one on the western end of the S. M. would think to send a note or two of the happenings out that way occasionally, and be sure and send communications early in the month.

On the First Division every one seems to be plodding along in the same old rut, with no prospects whatever for any vacations, as there seems to be great scarcity in telegraphers and relief agents. Only one change noted on the First Division: H. M. Berg resigned station at Isinours in favor of his brother, P. E. Berg, formerly nights at Wells. It is not a very desirable location on account of the poor accommodations for the inner man. Understand the agent has to be his own cook, and is four miles from anywhere.

A few of the boys managed to get away for the Fourth of July. Don't know where they celebrated, but, personally, I know that a couple of O. R. T. men watched the nigger pitch the leather sphere and the balloon ascend at Spring Valley.

The Second Division is still doing business in the same old way, but changes are few and far between. Aside from the wreck at Baroda, and a few cars ditched in Ramsey yard, and another at Winnebago, nothing serious has happened.

Bro. Clayton is kept busy at Albert Lea keeping track of the stray cars on the alphabet. Albert Lea was bad enough before, but it is a pretty good run for the money now that the Hay Line runs in there. I "13" there has been no increase in the pay, but it will, no doubt, be remedied next time the committee faces the music in Chicago.

Bro. W. E. Campbell still holding down Alden while Bro. H. R. Laugen is enjoying a well-earned vacation. Did not learn where Hank is hiding himself.

Wells, nights, made vacant by transfer of Peter to Isinours, being held down by Bro. E. H. Leugen, relief man.

Easton station bulletined some time ago, but as yet no notice of assignment has reached this office.

Jas. Sheehy was off several days on account of the illness of his father, but is now back at work. A Mr. Stanley from off the Iowa Central, relieved Jim, and after the strenuous task of running Welcome station for several days, Mr. Stanley has been resting on his oars before tackling some other of the hard jobs.

At Sherburn Bro. T. J. Fogarty, formerly of Mapleton, Minn., and more recently returned from Draper, S. D., on the White River Valley, holds forth, whilst Bro. O. A. Langen and family are out west. Glad to have the old-timers return to the flock.

Now, Brothers, I have reached the end of my rope, for west of Jackson I am at sea, and whatever news I hand you about the west end you will have to take with lots of faith, and if, perchance I should err, and my information be not strictly up to date, don't throw down your journal and think hard things, but put your shoulder to the wheel and help out.

Bro. F. L. Van Wie, who held down Madison, days, has broken loose from Sornie, and is working at La Crosse ticket office.

Bro. Seward, from Winfred, now day telegrapher at Madison. Winfred assigned to Lucius Hurlbut.

No doubt all the agents are tacking up the changes in tariffs, and carefully putting down the time-card ordered to comply with Minnesota laws. All the freight crew conductors are making out their little rest cure slip, and handing in at the end of the run. The 16-hour law makes them go some, especially when Austin yard is blocked. Don't see how the boys will keep out of jail this fall when business opens up.

Would like to suggest the plan of a good hot O. R. T. meeting at Austin in connection with I. & M. Brothers, before things get going with a rush of grain. Nearly all the Brothers from the east end could come in on No. 91 and go back on No. 68. Those from the west could come in on No. 8 very handily, and return on No. 71 or No. 1.

Guess I will wind up my harangue for this time and get "25." Div. Com.

Lancaster Division, No. 9.

The largest, most interesting and enthusiastic meeting held at Lancaster for a number of years was called to order at eight o'clock p. m., Tuesday, June 18th, by our worthy chief, as the regular monthly meeting of this division.

This being the first meeting since the return of our representative from the convention, all present looked forward with interest for his report, which was delivered in an able manner. Considering that this was his first attempt on a mission of this kind, Bro. Kacy treated us with a well-prepared and detailed report, and in looking over the proceedings of the convention we find his votes always figured among the majority on all matters brought before the convention, a matter we all feel justly proud of, and in recognition of the interest he has taken in behalf of this division Bro. Kacy was accorded a unanimous vote of thanks.

The chief speaker of the evening was President Perham, who dropped in while in the East and took us all by surprise. Bro. Perham treated us with an able address, giving us and all the boys in the East much encouragement and good advice.

He made special mention of the great success and victory won by the boys of Division 9 in building up such a large and healthy membership. This being his first visit here since this division was organized, he was very much impressed by the good attendance and the able manner in which our meetings are conducted.

One of the chief features of this meeting was the admitting of the first "Miss" to membership in this division, and believe, we dare say, the first of the fair sex ever admitted here in the East as near as we can tell. We feel highly elated over this record and all of us predict this to be only the beginning of a successful campaign.

For your information we refer you to a resolution that was adopted unanimously at the Minneapolis Convention, which will be strictly followed and adhered to by this division, which reads as follows:

WHEREAS, It is publicly repeated that during the present session of this Grand Division certain expelled former members of the Order and others have formed, or are attempting to form, an organization of telegraphers inimical to the best interests and with the avowed purpose of antagonizing and disrupting the O. R. T.; therefore, be it

Resolved, That no member of this Order shall hold membership in the above referred to alleged organization, and in case of violation of this resolution, upon conviction such member shall be expelled.

The membership of this division, so far as we can learn, are perfectly satisfied with the action of the convention regarding the Marr and Dolphin cases and the charters of Nos. 4 and 30, believing our Grand officers acted in the best interests of our noble Order.

At this time quite a number of the boys hold the "bluc" up-to-date card, and by the time this journal reaches you 90 per cent of the membership of this division will have paid their dues to December 31st and hold an "up-to-date." We want to state that this division numbers considerably over one hundred members. This does not look as if Division 9 will close out business in a month or two, as some disorganizers has predicted of us. "Judge not lest ye be judged." Boys, pay no attention to the predictions and the fortune-telling of these disorganizers, as we are built upon the solid rock of O. R. T. principles and No. 9 is here to stay.

After doing duty the past eight years at the most important points on this (Philadelphia) division, Bro. B. T. Yearsley resigned on May 22d as third trick telegrapher at "FZ," Frazer, to accept a position with the Panama Railroad at $125 per (just doubling his salary) to start with. Together with Bro. D. J. Deasy, Jr., another member of this division, they set sail from New York for the Isthmus on June 7th. In a letter to the writer Bro. Yearsley states, "We will stick to No. 9 and the grand old Order, no matter how far from home. This is the kind of material we are made up of."

Bro. M. A. Ament, of "KI," Kinzer, days, was the highest bidder for the vacancy at "FZ," and "KI" is now open for bid.

A company of half a dozen telegraphers working on both roads entering Reading, Pa., and one out of "P," postal office, Philadelphia, will leave in a few days for St. Paul, Minn., where they have accepted positions on the Northern Pacific, which road is advertising for men at a $75.00 minimum.

Other roads are handing out the goods and the boys being in the market for the coin, we can not blame them for making the change. It seems to be misunderstood, yet it is a fact, right here in the East there are plenty of good telegraphers who have left railroad work to engage in other pursuits, claiming they are making as much money as we are, half holiday Saturdays and every Sunday off. Many are getting wise on this thing day by day, finding out it is not all of life to live.

Bro. E. S. Booth, "FN" days at Florin, is off duty at this writing with a spell of sickness. Bro. J. E. Hoover working days and Bro. F. S. Crouse filling in at night. Three good brothers of this division.

Bro. C. B. Winters has been laid up several weeks with a spell of sickness, but we are glad to report him out again.

NOTES OF THE MEETING.

Tommy, our baseball magnate, had quite a time getting home from the meeting, going as far as the trolley would take him, thence by the "beast of burden" route the remainder of the distance. Quite a sacrifice but he got there just the same.

Bro. J. B. Johnson came all the way from Norristown.

And there, too, was "Steve," from "PA," who brought with him a new recruit; also "Shopey," from "XN," "he of convention fame." Two extra good ones, one from each end of the division.

Bro. Ed. Kauffman also got there, but had to walk six miles and miss his supper to be present. "K" is one of our corner-stones and is the busiest man on the job, all for the good of the Order, too.

We must not forget the "UD" boys, who were in evidence.

If any of you should be doubting us, just come to our meeting next time and we will show you that we have large crowds, whether the president is with us or not.

Div. Cor.

Our regular monthly meeting was called to order Tuesday evening, July 16th, and was the largest attended meeting in the history of this division. Each month brings out an increased attendance, and we will let this matter rest with each one individually to think out what the cause of it all is.

The convention being over we are now getting down to business, and quite a bulk of it was on hand for this meeting, which was successfully handled.

Quite a number of new petitions for membership and the usual number of applications by transfer were voted on and admitted to membership. Bills to the amount of $10.13 were read and ordered paid, and after the regular order of business was gone over, nearly all present took their turn in addressing the division under good of the Order. Bro. Harry Kacy, of Pittsburg Division No. 52, was present and gave us an interesting address, which was quite encouraging and stated that this division is looked upon as eventually becoming the stronghold of the East. To the membership we would say it is our duty to keep it up to its highest possible standard.

Many more took the floor and furnished us with neat speeches, among them were some from the extreme east end of this division, which territory has furnished us with many faithful ones.

Bro. N. E. Stoner having just lately taken unto himself a bride, was present and brought good news from his territory. Bro. Stoner is at present working first trick at "MQ," Enola, and is a regular attendant at meetings.

Bros. J. J. Ryan and J. D. Banks, from "UD" office, Harrisburg, are at present enjoying their vacations, while Bros. A. H. Eppler and E. A. Hartwick, from "GI" and "DE" respectively, are filling in on these vacancies. Notwithstanding that this is the first attempt of these boys in the main office, we are glad to note that they are making good.

Bro. J. F. McArthur, first trick at "WA," White March Junction, has been on the sick list two weeks last month. Bros. J. B. Johnson and L. M. Rodebough were forced to double while "Mac" was off duty.

The Trenton cut-off will be operated by 'phone after August 1st, with train dispatchers stationed at "WA," when a few of our boys will be forced to step down and out, but by time this will take place most of them will be holding better jobs than before. The first to take time by the forelock was Bro. A. H. Valliere, of "XO" nights, twelve hours at $60.50, resigned, effective July 15th, and accepted quite a nice thing with the New York Central near New York, eight hours at $75.00 per month. We are sorry to lose him but would not wish him back. There are probably two or three others who will leave during next month.

Bro. E. H. Kauffman, who has worked relief schedule on cut-off the past three months, has been assigned to "KI" nights. "K" is one of our corner-stones and is always on hand at the meetings.

Bro. F. B. Handwork, extra agent on this division the past two years, has been promoted to regular relief agent, and is at present assisting the newly-appointed agent at Steelton. The many friends of Bro. "H" are glad to hear of his well-earned promotion.

Bros. W. F. Parthemer and L. K. Sandford, second and third tricks respectively at "ES," Conestoga bridge, are both moved up account illness of first trick man.

Bro. W. G. McCuen, middle trick at "GA," Mountville, has also been covering first trick for past two months account same cause.

A great demand has been made on our secretary the past month for application blanks, which looks as if our membership will be greatly boomed. These blanks will be furnished promptly upon application, and will furnish all assistance whenever needed. At this writing three-fourths of our members have already paid dues for present term and carry up-to-dates. We are proud of this record, and so far we have every reason to believe that our membership will stick together almost to a man.

Div. Cor.

New York Division, No. 44.

Meeting called to order, Saturday, July 13, 1907, at 8.45 p. m., by Chief Van Nostrand.

All of the regular officers present. Chairs filled as follows:

Chief Telegrapher, Bro. Van Nostrand.

First Vice, Bro. Surine.

Second Vice, Bro. Breen.

Secretary, Bro. Heller.

Marshal, Bro. Hudson.

Sentinel, Bro. Fuller.

Past Chief, Bro. Shields.

Two candidates initiated. Short ceremony was used. Ten applications for membership, and two transfers acted upon favorably.

Minutes of last regular meeting read and approved.

Standing Committees' reports were next received.

Bro. Surine, Chairman of the General Committee, made a satisfactory report.

Bro. Shields, Chairman of the Legislative Committee, read his report and several papers bearing on the eight-hour question.

On motion of Bro. Fuller, seconded by pretty nearly everyone, it was decided that the next meeting be an open meeting, and as this will be ladies' night, a good time is expected.

Speaking, good music, refreshments, and cigars will be a part of the program.

The attendance was good, and the east end of the island was well represented.

Among those present from that vicinity were: Bro. Hill, of Riverhead; Bro. Robinson, of Manor; and Bro. Robinson, of Bridgehampton.

The west end was well represented, many of the old-timers being in evidence.

Our honored guests, Bros. J. F. Dooley and Thos. F. Noon, of System Division, No. 8, dropped in just to see how we did business, or rather to see if we had forgotten how to run the thing properly.

Both of these Brothers were members of No. 44, years ago, and they needed no introduction to the old-timers, who were all glad to meet them, and extend the hand of good-fellowship.

Both Bro. Dooley and Noon gave us a short talk which was interesting, and thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Every one wanted to extend the glad hand to Bro. Surine, and congratulate him on his recovery.

He was quite shaky on his underpinning, and showed the effects of his recent illness very much, but all were glad to see him out once more, and to know that he is well on the road to recovery.

Bro. Van Nostrand still walks with a cane. We were all glad to note that he is on the mend, and will soon be as good as new.

Whenever Bro. Wagner, of Lynbrook, attends a meeting, he always starts something. If there is anything that he don't quite understand, he has to be shown. He positively refuses to be a wall flower.

That's just what the meetings are for, and we wish that Bro. Wagner would find it convenient to come oftener.

Bro. A. S. Wells has resigned as agent at Stoney Brook to take a position as cashier in a bank in that beautiful little town.

This division loses by reason of Bro. Wells being unable to serve as its local chairman, a position in the organization that he has long held with credit and honor.

He has the best wishes of a host of friends, who hope for his success in his new field of labor.

Sister Randall has accepted the Summer Agency at Rocky Point for the season 1907. She was agent at Shoreham for some time past, but was obliged to give that up on account of ill-health.

Lineman Geyer went to Rocky Point a few days ago, and cut in No. 3.

Our dear old friend, Mike Holleran, is at Manhattan Beach again this summer with Bro. Van Nostrand, and will remain there until the DeWolf Hopper Co. again takes to the road.

Relief Agent, Bro. Price, who has been acting agent at Westbury for some time past, has been relieved at that point by Bro. Collier, of F. B. Ave. ticket office.

Bro. Price will soon leave for the West. His health for some time past has not been the best, and he hopes the change will benefit him. He has the best wishes of a host of friends. He is a member of Division No. 26.

Bro. E. D. Kays, of the Grand Division, and formerly in the employ of the D. L. & W. R. R., has been checked into Valley Stream, as agent. He has accepted service as a regular relief agent.

At this writing it is announced that Rhoades, of Hicksville, has resigned, and the station is up for bid. There's a soft spot for some one that likes long hours, hard work, and small pay.

Bro. Armstrong of Division No. 35 is at Bay Side.

Geo. Carnes is back again at Syossett. This makes things at that station look natural.

Bro. H. H. Oliver, of Hempstead Turnpike, was promoted to Brushville, nights, recently.

As Bros. Meaney and Hayes would say, it's a matter of speculation, but by the time this gets in print we may have something to say in regard to finance. Members who attend the meetings will understand this.

On July 20, Gov. Hughes signed the telegraphers' eight-hour bill, introduced by Assemblyman Northrup, of Dutchess Co., N. Y., covering the railroad telegraphers of New York State, same to take effect October 1, 1907.

Bro. Swann, who has been holding down the third trick at Morris Park, goes to tower "A," Mr. John Reese having resigned to accept a position in the Queen's County Clerk's office.

Bro. Sprague, of Floral Park, has bid in the second trick at Rockaway Junction.

Bro. Herbert, of Bushville, nights, goes to Queen's nights.

Bro. Doxsey, of Queen's, days, goes to Bushville, days.

Bro. Davis, from Stone House Curve, is handling the wire work at Emman's Ave. days.

Mr. Hay, from Stone House Curve, has been transferred to Manhattan Terrace, days.

Bro. T. J. Connelly is now located at Seaside Junction.

Bro. D. F. Malone, of "X" office, has resigned and accepted a position with the New York Central.

Bro. Edwards, of "X" office, has resigned, and has accepted a position with the New Haven.

Bro. J. H. Streaver is back in the dispatcher's office. COR.

Oskaloosa Division, No. 71.

Haven't seen a write-up from this division for several moons. Must be something wrong. Why not have the chairman get some one as regular correspondent, and have a write-up in the journal once in a while, and let other divisions know we are here. Nothing much doing on the Ia. C. just now.

Telegraph office at Faulkner closed to "cut down expenses."

Bro. Holmes, formerly of Eleanor, now doing act at Steamboat Rock.

Telegraph office at Dillon closed.

"13" Bros. Arnote, of Gilman, and Etzel, of Pickering, have resigned. Don't know where they are going. Sorry to see them leave.

New men at Faulkner, Maxon, Marsh, Morning Sun, Elrick, Keithsburg, Little York, Cramers and Bartlett. Also "RN" Farmington days. Are they all lined up? Some of you east end boys investigate.

Bro. Rockwell at Eleanor again. Glad to see him back.

Have been holding meetings last three months to discuss the O. S. & D. business. Had officials and local conductors there to hear our complaints. Think we were all benefited by these meetings.

Just now learned we have a new night man at Grinnell in the personage of W. E. Thackeray. Don't know if up-to-date or not. Have several nons on the line. Let's get after them and line 'em up.

Now let's hear from some one else.

THE NORTH END OBSERVER.

Renovo Division, No. 110.

The regular July meeting was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Emporium, Pa., Wednesday evening, July 17th, with the following members present: Bros. Blackwell, of Erie; Shea (CT), of Waterford; James, of Garland; Price, of Irvington; Ganey, of Wilcow; Edwards, of Johnsonburg; McMackin and Johnson, of St. Mary's; Goodwin (S. & T.), Getchell, Lee, and O'Leary, of Emporium; Sullivan, of Perry; and Russell, of Keating; Kane, of Olean (135), and last but not least, our esteemed President, Bro. H. B. Perham, of St. Louis. This was certainly a banner meeting in every sense of the word, and our only regret is that there were not more members in attendance to listen to the entertaining and instructive discourse given by Bro. Perham.

He held his audience interested from the start to the close, and imparted many useful and instructive ideas, which will be helpful to us in the future. Come again, Bro. Perham, and we will have the keys ready next time.

We are sorry to hear that Sister Floyd, of "KS," Sinnemahoning, and Bro. Wells of "JN," Emporium, are on the sick list.

We are pleased to announce that Messrs. Bechtold, of "MS," Wistar, Huling, of "AD," Ridgway, and Morton, of Kane, are now full-fledged Brothers, and we extend our congratulations and fraternal courtesies to them.

Bro. Griskey, of Kane, has departed for the wilds of Potter County, to catch speckled beauties, and kill the festive mosquito. Bro. Tiffany is relieving.

Bro. Jones, of Kane, has returned to duty after an illness of about ten days.

Mrs. Geary, of Kane, is off on account of sickness, relieved by Bro. Edwards, of Johnsonburg, who in turn was relieved by Bro. Morton.

Telegrapher Jacobson, of Ludlow, is on the sick list, relieved by Miss Hanley, of Warren. By the way, we expect their applications in time for next meeting.

Telegrapher Buck (we hope it is Brother), of Clarendon, is again on duty after being off for some time on account of death in his family.

Sheffield, nights, is held at present by Telegrapher Price, from Garland. We miss Bro. Vance there, but we can hear his fist on the wire from "RA." We wish him success in his new position.

The interlocking plants at "OW" and "VX" towers, are both being remodeled, and will be solid O. R. T. offices throughout.

Bro. Hoffman, of "DT," Benzingers, is putting up a fine residence, and expects to occupy it in the near future.

A new addition to our local board of adjustment has been made in the appointment of Bro. Russell, of Keating, to assist Bros. Price and Edwards in keeping our grievances before the officials. Division No. 110 is equipped with a fine local board, and should receive the hearty support of all members.

It is gratifying to note the activity of a number of the members in securing new candidates for membership in the Order. They deserve great praise and encouragement in the good work. Our popular C. T. is especially active, and promises at least four new applications for next meeting.

We had promises from several of the Brothers for a few notes to help us on the write-up, but the only one that materialized was Bro. Tiffany, and we thank him accordingly. The chicken crop promises to be good this season, and the Div. Cor. will offer a broiler as an inducement to each one who will contribute.

Well, I am all out of material, so will cut out for this time.

Here's to our flag, the Stars and Stripes,

Here's to the land of the free,

And here's to good wages and shorter hours,

Long life to our grand O. R. T.

Div. Cor.

Philadelphia Division, No. 102.

The regular monthly meeting of Division No. 102 was held at the Windsor Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., July 27, 1907. We were very agreeably surprised by President Perham being present at this meeting.

Bro. Perham filled the Chief Telegrapher's chair. An unusually large P. & R. attendance; in fact, the largest for some time, was present.

Bro. H. O. Mennig was elected Chief Telegrapher to finish out balance of term.

After the close of a very interesting business meeting, President Perham gave some very interesting remarks, speaking of the progress of the Order in the past, and what he hopes to accomplish in the future. Every Brother who was not present missed the chance of his lifetime. The talk was well worth traveling a long distance to hear, and every Brother present was more than pleased.

Bro. McLaughlin also gave us an interesting talk on the good and welfare of the Order.

Philadelphia Division, No. 102, of late has been making excellent progress. We have been taking in a great number of new members. They all seem to be made of the right kind of stuff. The best part of it is that they are coming right up with the necessary for the term ending December 31st. The old members are doing the same, and everything points toward a prosperous year for the Division.

We can kill two birds with one stone, or better yet, satisfy two obligations at one time if we desire. By that I mean our duty to ourselves and to our employers. Let us strive to give our best service to the management, and by so doing convince them that an O. R. T. man is the best kind of a man to have. Also that an O. R. T. man will live up to his promises and do the right thing every time.

The principles of the O. R. T. demand a faithful performance of our duties, and the betterment of our social condition. Also a reasonable compensation for good services. To achieve these results we must have the co-operation of all Brothers in trying to keep up the good name of the Order.

It has come to my notice in an indirect manner that there are men who represent themselves as being O. R. T. men who even go so far as to wear the official button. I wish to warn the Brothers against these imposters, and demand to see the card every time. If a man cannot produce the card, have nothing to do with him. The card is the best, and, in fact, I think it is the only evidence that the bearer is O. K.

Understand that Brother Dechant from Conshohocken, nights, has taken unto himself a wife. Here is luck to the happy pair.

Bro. Eckert acting as relief telegrapher on the Norristown branch.

Bro. Lemuel Thurston met with a very painful accident about a month ago. We are pleased to see him around again. He was present at the last meeting.

Brother McLaughlin has been securing quite a number of new members.

We have been very busy taking in money for the company, and clearing the main track for specials during Elks' week.

The Atlantic City R. R. Brothers have their hands full with the many specials running to Atlantic City, and other famous New Jersey summer resorts. Travel is greater this year than ever before.

The Brothers would confer a great favor to the Secretary if they would send him any news that may turn up during the month to be inserted in THE TELEGRAPHER.

"CHRIS."

New York Division, No. 26.

Am pleased to see the dues coming so readily, and by the time this article is published that part of the Secretary's duties will be completed, we hope.

The summer weather having arrived at last, it is noticeable how lazy the boys are getting. A number of the boys on the "L" have been saving their money for the past few months, and are now enjoying their vacations—somewhere. I know they did an unwise thing in starting their vacations by going to Coney Island, as money does not last long there. They talk it right out of your pocket.

Our worthy Secretary, Bro. MacBain, has been home three or four days sick, caused by a too jubilant time spent at the seashore.

There have been a number of telegraphers lately to look over the style of work on the "L," but they do not remain very long, as twelve hours a day seems to take the life out of them. We now have Bro. Munden, of the C. T. U. A., and we hope to keep him with us.

We have changed our meeting place to No. 133 Edgecombe Ave., N. Y. City, one block west of Eighth Ave. and 141 St., and will meet there every second Sunday in month, at 3 p. m. Hope the Brothers will do their best to attend these meetings, and encourage your officers. Our meetings are interesting, as you will find.

Must close now.

Providence Division, No. 35.

In our June letter we mentioned the fact that systematic effort was being made to round up the few remaining nons in the territory of Providence Division, and we confidently predicted "results."

At the July meeting 23 applications were read, which justifies the confidence placed in the members of the various committees appointed for the purpose. Four of the applications read were signed by members of the fair sex. This is doubly gratifying. In 1897 or 1898, old Providence Division, No. 256, was famous for its "seven sisters," who not only held membership, but attended the meetings, and we hope to see these four on hand early and often. Their example will go far towards bringing in the rest of the ladies, and may possibly stir up some of the confirmed "stay-aways" to a better attendance at meetings.

The Taunton Division boys are entitled to great credit for getting out so persistently, considering distance, and train connections.

Bro. Ross, Local Chairman of that Division, Bro. Walker, and several others are always in evidence.

Visitors at July meeting: Bros. Dowd, McCormick, Bowler, and the ever-welcome "Stub" Culver, of New Haven, No. 29, Bro. Hanan, of No. 337, and Bros. Ross and McDermott, of Boston, No. 89.

Bro. Culver expresses himself as well pleased with Providence, and placed himself on record as intending to come again.

The heat was more than some of the fat men could stand, and wilted collars were much in evidence.

Too bad Bro. Ray had to leave early to get his train; things were coming his way nicely (not) when his time expired.

DIVISION CORRESPONDENT.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS OF DIV. No. 35.

The members of Division No. 35 will confer a favor on the undersigned as well as aiding the cause, by filling out the blank which was sent attached to the notice of dues, dated July 15th, and returning to me at once.

R. A. BROWN,
Secretary and Treasurer.

Worcester Division—

Bro. Toadvine, of Valley Falls tower, has returned from a month's vacation, spent down in Maryland mostly. Bro. Weeks officiated at "VY" meanwhile.

Bro. Wells, of Valley Falls station, who was ordered complete rest by the doctor, has gone down in Maine, Bert Gould, a new man, taking his place.

The agency at Farnums bid in by Bro. Harry Harris. Henry Smith, the former agent, held it down for twenty-five years, which is too long for a man to stay in one place.

Adamsdale Junction bid in by Bro. Gardiner, of Boston Switch. Bro. Gardiner bids that job in every summer, and bids out again as soon as he gets his crops out of the ground in the fall.

Bro. Aldrich, better known as "Olney Giggins," is now located at Woonsocket tower, nights. Olney is entitled to a long rest after a strenuous month down on the electrics at Warren.

Bro. Williams, of Dexter St., just back from a trip to Washington, D. C. Cor.

Taunton Division—

Local Chairman, L. J. Ross, of the Taunton Division, called on Bro. Walker one day last week, and held a council of war, and formulated a plan of action whereby they could "show" a few remaining nons between Fall River and Tiverton the manifold advantages of flying the union colors. They regaled themselves with war paint, and hit the trail for Bristol Ferry and Tiverton, these being the objective points of attack. When the smoke of battle had lifted, Mr. Wheeler, agent at Bristol Ferry, had surrendered, and at once filled out his application, and handed over the necessary "untainted," and was willing to call himself one of us.

Big Chief Ross, and his trusty brave, with the papers secured, then counted the ties to Tiverton, in order to show up their goods, and sign articles with the agent and assistant in the fishing town. Names pledged at this station for early membership was the best that could be obtained. Before this will greet the eyes of the old reliables, there will be three more delinquents into clear, as the result of earnest endeavor on the part of Bros. Ross and Walker.

Bro. Pat Egan, for many years first trick man at south end Somerset drawbridge, has bid in Framingham tower, days. The men on the south end wish him luck. The draw is up for bid.

Bro. Thurrett, of the Dispatcher's office, was off a day recently, taking in the sights at Vanity Fair.

Bro. E. B. Beaton, Somerset Junction tower, nights, took a wash in the surf at Revere Beach recently. Cor.

Shore Line—East End—

Over fifty Brothers in attendance at the July meeting, and only three from this end of the S. L. It is too bad that such a lack of interest should prevail.

The news that New York and Connecticut have joined the ranks of States with eight-hour laws for telegraphers, is very gratifying. We wonder if something in this line could not be done in Rhode Island.

Bro. Callahan, second trick man at East Greenwich tower, surprised his many friends during the latter part of June by disappearing for a week. On his return we all smoked in honor of his marriage to Miss Stacey, of Lafayette, R. I.

Bros. Ray and Barden doubled during the absence of the Brother. Cor.

P. W. & B. Electric Branch—

Bro. Thos. Fox, for the past two years agent at Warren, has severed his connection with the New Haven to enter the hotel business, having purchased the Goff House, in Warren. His many friends regret his leaving the service, but wish him success in his new field.

The telegraphers in Warren Cabin now get the monthly relief. Bro. Weeks, the genial relief towerman, officiates on these auspicious occasions.

Bro. Frank Chadwick, agent at West Barrington, who has been on the sick list for the past two or three months, is reported as improving. The boys will all be glad to see him in harness again. Cor.

Chicago Division, No. 91.

Well, Brothers, what is the trouble? Notwithstanding all members able to attend were notified of our last meeting, very few turned out. As a result every one present had to smoke four or five cigars, but thus far have heard of no fatalities. Try to do better. A good meeting means life to our Order; come and get acquainted.

One of the results of our last meeting was the appointment of a Sick Committee, whose duty will be to visit any member of the Order in Chicago who is sick or in distress.

We were deeply grieved to hear of the death of the wife of Bro. E. C. Thompson, Secretary of Division No. 127. While on his honeymoon his wife was taken sick in Chicago, and died after two or three days in the hospital.

Bro. John A. Chawk, of this division, also had the misfortune to lose his baby girl, who was but three weeks of age, and overcome by the hot weather.

We are in receipt of a clipping from the Erie Railroad Employes Magazine, showing that some of the officials of that company, located at Huntington, Ind., have taken it upon themselves to establish a telegraph school, ostensibly for amusement, but in reality to teach telegraphy to whoever desires to learn.

Bro. Zimmerman, of Fair Oaks, Ind., is laying off for thirty days, trying to make up for his hard work.

The Secretary had the pleasure of attending a meeting at Kankakee, also at Schneider, of the members on the C. I. & S. Both were very well attended, and a good deal of enthusiasm manifested, also a large amount of work accomplished. Although it meant a night up for all of the boys, they did not seem to mind it, although Kankakee is very dead after 10 p. m.

Now, brothers, we must all remember that nothing can be accomplished unless we do it ourselves. Every man must try and keep up the percentage of membership, as it is impossible for any one else to do it.

When a change is made at a station, get after the newcomer. If he has a card, report his name and division number to the Secretary; if he has not, try and induce him to get one.

I wish all the Brothers working on the C. I. & S., also the Indiana Harbor and Indiana Harbor Belt, who are not members of Division No. 91, would send their names and addresses, also their division and certificate number to the secretary, so he can transfer them into No. 91.

We expect to have something doing on the C. I. & S. in a very short time, and wish to get all the members in the one division in order to facilitate communication. I also wish some Brother on the Indiana Harbor Belt, west of Hammond, would send me a line-up of that district up to and including Franklin Park.

At least two members on the Monon are awake, for I have received two new applications from that road since the convention. Boys, aren't you ashamed of yourselves? Are you going to be content to rest where you are, or are you going to make another attempt to better your condition? If our members on the Monon would each get one application, we could schedule the road, for we would then be solid.

SECRETARY.

Wabash Railway.

Moberly Division—

On account of being so busy in June trying to get information about our delayed eight-hour law, we failed to get any items in the July TELEGRAPHER from this district. The Order has been criticised by some of the younger members for not taking this matter up and calling the men out to bring about the enforcement of the law. While this could have been done, it is a question as to whether this is the right thing to do until more peaceful methods have been tried and have failed to bring the desired result. As prosecuting attorneys in the different counties have filed informations against the railroads and also against several telegraphers, it is to be hoped that the railroads will decide to observe the law.

Some of the non-members, and, I am sorry to say, that some of our members seem to think that there is a scarcity of telegraphers and are trying to increase the supply by taking students. Some give the excuse that their work is so heavy that they have to have a student to keep the work up. That is the poorest excuse a man could make. If the work is too heavy for one man to keep up, the company can hire additional help to do it. If the work is so unimportant that it can be done by some inexperienced boy working for nothing, it is not worth keeping up. There has been some complaint that some of the division officials are insisting that agents take students and teach them telegraphy. As the company owns the offices they may have the right to put students in the offices, but the general superintendent has promised your committee that no telegrapher would be required to teach telegraphy. If the students insist on staying, why not keep them busy scrubbing, washing windows and other work of this kind, and they may change their minds about learning telegraphy in a few days. Don't let anyone make you believe there is a shortage of telegraphers as long as the salaries are at the present low figures. If we were receiving $100.00 per month, as we should be, we would not hear so much about the scarcity of telegraphers. There would be a shortage of engineers and conductors if their salaries were the same as ours is now, but as they receive fair salaries we never hear of them being short of men.

Bro. R. D. Bedgood began work at Moberly yard office after thirty days' vacation.

Bro. J. E. McDannald has resumed work at Huntsville. Bro. McDannald visited several of the Western States and intends to leave the Banner Route in a few months and seek his fortune in the West.

Bro. R. C. Winn, nights Clifton, celebrated the Fourth by shooting himself through the right hand with a toy pistol. Relieved by Mr. J. R. Gilmore. Mr. Gilmore promises to get an up-to-date card when he has worked the required length of time.

Bro. L. J. Burckhardt, days Salisbury, is away on his vacation and is taking a trip through Minnesota and North Dakota. Relieved by Mr. Harry Street.

Bro. M. D. Bell has been promoted from agency at Glasgow to agency at Montgomery. Glasgow filled temporarily by Bro. C. E. Bobbitt.

Keytesville agency is on bulletin, Mr. C. W. Cotter having resigned to accept position as telegrapher in Moberly dispatcher's office.

Lexington Junction is again solid O. R. T. Bro. F. D. Chadwick days and Bro. T. F. Curtis nights.

Bro. Paul Gregory, agent Excelsior Springs Junction, is taking a thirty days' vacation.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

Decatur Division—

Your old correspondent greets you again this issue, and will try and give you the gleanings of the past month.

In a recent communication from Bro. Hefner, our esteemed local chairman, he gives the following of interest to all telegraphers on the Wabash:

"I would like to make mention in THE TELEGRAPHER of my appreciation of the manner in which I was received by all the telegraphers, both members and non-members, many of whom I had never met before, but instead of getting acquainted, it really seemed like a visit with old-time friends, and the manner in which they responded when asked to affiliate with the organization, showed clearly they realized it their duty as well as their privilege to do so.

"With another trip over the road I would not consider it a great task to complete the thorough organization of the Decatur Division.

"Of course, there are a few cases which look very discouraging, and I am very sorry to say that in a few instances where they have realized a $10.00 per month increase through the Order.

"It is in cases of this nature that we note the difference of opinion and sometimes wonder how some faithful brothers remain faithful so long under adverse circumstances, while others can be so ungrateful as to fail to show their appreciation of benefits already accrued to them."

Your correspondent takes the privilege to add that it is every member's duty, with the nons included, to show to Bro. Hefner our esteem and appreciation of his work in behalf of the Order in securing these benefits and increases.

It is no easy task to represent an entire division the size of the Decatur Division, and face a stern management demanding increases and benefits for the telegraphers, many of whom are nons and who fail to appreciate such services and fail to affiliate with the Order.

In a recent conversation with a telegrapher who failed to identify himself, your correspondent was told that the Order was no good and needed "backbone."

If the party would only consider it takes support and energy to gain a cause, he would readily see where he was a back-slender, and that he lacked good judgment and the proper ability to comprehend the situation pending. He does not realize that such men as he are a drawback and never succeed in any undertaking they may desire.

Common sense tells that in "Union there is strength." We must unite in force and work together, our object being to stand as one whole body and demand our rights, as no one man can undertake to adjust things properly alone through his individual efforts without the support of others. If the party who has such a poor opinion of the Order will talk to me and give attention, I will convince him and show him that he is at fault.

Bro. Harte, of Bement, contributed for this writing. Although he fills the warmest telegrapher's position between St. Louis and Chicago, he has energy and interest enough to assist a worthy cause. He is a faithful employe and a staunch brother, and we are justly proud of him.

In last month's issue I entered a request to add new additions to the Order. I hope you all read this and will see the merits in gaining new members. This is an important undertaking and if every brother will assist our fold will be one that can not be divided between the non and member.

Brothers, I do not feel justified in requesting contributions of you in every issue. It appears as if you expect one to gather all the items of the division. This is impossible and I again ask of you to forward any items you have to me at Raymond, Ill. If you don't know my name it is E. Hendricks. Now put that in your hat-band, where it can be found.

We have met Bro. Hefner, our worthy local chairman, several times on his trips rounding up the boys. Glad to know he has met with good success; has succeeded in getting some ye olden timers that have for years been on the outside of the fold, including a number of exclusive agents, which we must say speaks well for Bro. Hefner's ability as a solicitor. We congratulate him, as well as the Order.

Night telegrapher Yount, Bement, still on the list of enjoying the schedule benefits without any visible returns having been made as yet. We believe he is about the only non on the district. We have had his promise to "do the act," but as yet, sorry to say, he still remains "without."

We believe the Decatur Division can boast of being a banner division, practically solid O. R. T.

What's the matter with arranging for another meeting of this division in the near future? Say Decatur this time. It has been several months since last meeting, which was held at Bement April 17, and a royal good time we had; only one drawback, we did not get started in a business way early enough, hence our meeting was closed long before we were through. Nevertheless socially we enjoyed the time, each having an opportunity to meet others. 'Twas a very pleasant gathering. Let's try it again.

Agent Massock, at Blue Mound, was struck by No. 71 and both legs were so badly crushed amputation was necessary, but he being aged died before amputation was completed. The remains were laid to rest at Blue Mound under the directions of the Masonic fraternity.

Mr. Massock was an old employe, and had acted as agent at Blue Mound for the past sixteen years.

W. E. Rittenhouse, formerly night telegrapher at Edsville Jct., was drowned while bathing in a stream at that place. His remains were taken to Lovington by his father for burial.

Bro. A. Logsdon filled Edsville Jct. nights for a time, but at present a Mr. R. Shugart, of Sullivan, is holding forth. We would like his application in the near future.

Bro. J. Harry Custer and family, of Raymond, took in the big show (Ringling Bros.) at Litchfield.

Bro. Giffin, of Harvel, reports the sale of 100 tickets, while Bro. Custer, of Raymond, sold 176 tickets to Litchfield account Ringling Bros. Circus. Train 51 was crowded from the baggage car to the air hose on the rear coach, besides a few who rode the head end and blinds.

Bro. Berger has departed from Harvel to Brooklyn, Ind. Bro. Giffin compelled to double on night and Mr. Moore, of Raymond, also doubled Harvel.

I wish to thank Bro. Harte, of Bement, Ill., for his kindness in acting as Division Correspondent last month. This action was greatly appreciated and in future he may expect a similar request, as we are aware he can properly fill the "bill."

Adjust your grievances through Bro. Hefner. He will handle them properly.

Bro. Logsdon, of Clarksdale, made a flying trip to Honey Bend on No. 53, returning on No. 50, and dropped off long enough to speak a few words to yours truly.

Bro. E. J. Carroll, recently from Big Four, holding down Blue Mound nights.

Bro. Baker has resigned the day telegrapher's position at Blue Mound and will soon depart for Texas.

Dispatcher Rogers is again filling the second trick on the 13th district, after holding down a chair on a foreign dist.

One man killed and two seriously injured is the result of falling gravel at Blue Mound pit during the past month. The unfortunates were caught without warning before they had an opportunity to escape.

Sidney Legg holding down day position at Blue Mound until same is accepted by bulletin bid.

We understand Bro. Messick, formerly with the Wabash, has been transferred by the Rock Island to Santa Rosa, N. Mex.

Mrs. Grenell, Granite City nights, made a trip to Chicago. Her husband, Bro. Grenell, doubled over.

Bro. Jarner holding down Carpenter nights.

Bro. B. L. Dunham, of Stonington, is acting as agent at Blue Mound, and is kept busy while on duty.

Bro. Bandy was compelled to double Morrisonville account telegrapher Puckett off account illness of a relative.

Bro. H. V. Evans, formerly of Ivesdale and a faithful contributor, has departed from the Wabash ranks and accepted a position with the S. A. & A. P. in Texas.

Bro. Hendricks and wife, of Raymond, spent a day visiting in St. Louis.

Brothers, notice the good positions that were bulletined the past month. Our Order is to be thanked for our schedule demanding vacancies to be bulletined so as to give seniority rights to the deserving.

Extend the fraternity hand to H. O. Folrath and H. S. Hecox, as they are full-fledged members of the Order now.

Bro. Montgomery filling day telegrapher's position at Stonington.

While the sturdy farmer is harvesting his crops let us be harvesting the nons, who are a hindrance to the Order, but would be an assistance if members.

Our thanks to Bro. Brakevane, of Ivesdale, for assistance rendered with last month's write-up.

Mr. A. Moore worked Morrisonville one night, returning to Raymond and resumed his regular position there days.

A Mr. Wells is acting as agent at Morrisonville until same is accepted by bid.

Brisbane tower, Poag and Blue Mound day telegraphers' positions up for bids.

Homer, Morrisonville and Blue Mound agencies open for bids. All good paying positions and we congratulate the successful.

J. A. King is holding down Winston tower nights.

President F. A. Delano, Vice-President and General Manager H. Miller, Assistant Traffic Manager W. E. Maxwell and General Superintendent Cotter made a general inspection trip over the Wabash line. They left Kansas City and traveled east via Moberly, Hannibal and Decatur.

1st No. 94 of July 23d was wrecked at Nameoki and delayed traffic several hours. Passenger and mail trains were detoured via Big Four Granite City to Mitchell.

A. J. Hallihan, night man at Wing, has become weary working nights for the Wabash; has tendered his resignation, effective July 1st. Have not heard of his future intentions.

A. C. Yates, night man at Saunemin, off few nights early part of July visiting home folks.

Ex-dispatcher Swartzwalte, at Decatur, still undecided as to location best fitted to his likes; has several offers in view, one of extra dispatcher and other of ordinary "OS"-ing.

Dispatcher Lumison, who has been off duty ten days account vacation, has returned after spending time visiting various points in Illinois and Michigan.

Agent Powers has been transferred from Horner to Sullivan, vice extra man Horner being temporarily handled by Bro. Kurtz at Sidney.

Pay your dues and be a staunch member, always working for something that will be of material benefit to you and the Order. Div. Cor.

Chicago-Detroit Division, Third District—

Mrs. J. Holliday, at "KA," Oakwood, days, has been off for ten days; relieved by Bro. R. L. Neal, a new man from C., R., I. & P. Bro. Neal resigned after working nine days, going back to his old road.

Mr. F. M. Barry, Oakwood nights, got Pine nights on last bulletin, but has not been relieved as yet.

Mr. M. A. Mahoney, a new man on Wabash, at Delray nights. He has promised to join us in the near future.

Telegraphers F. M. Barry, Oakwood nights, and A. W. Bailey, Rouge River nights, have filled out application blanks and we can soon call them brothers.

Telegrapher Bailey spent Sunday in Toledo recently.

Bro. W. J. Clark, agent Britton, and son, Bro. Geo. Clark, day telegrapher same place, off on vacation. Bro. W. H. Sellers, from Romulus, filling the agency while Bro. Roy Vannest, Britton nights, on days and Bro. Frank Beatty on nights.

Bro. W. C. Curry, Romulus nights, on days, and Mr. G. H. Shannon, a new man on Wabash, on nights. Mr. Shannon says he will have a brand new card in few days.

Bro. Jesse Edson, formerly at Hand nights, resigned and has gone to the B. & O. Mr. Kurneck, from west end, got Hand nights on last bulletin.

Bro. John Bloom, Holloway nights, spent Sunday, July 21, with his parents at Montpelier.

Miss Jennie Wiley, agent at Cone, off on vacation. Bro. C. W. Shoup, night man, relieving, while Mr. D. B. Ferguson, a new man on Wabash, is working nights.

Your correspondent spent a few weeks in July with his parents near Colorado Springs, Colo. Also spent a day at Portland, Colo., with our old friend Bro. W. F. Domka, a former Wabash boy. He is working for the D. & R. G. and Santa Fe at Portland.

Fourth District—

Bro. Carl Smith, who has been working at gravel pit, has returned to his former position as day telegrapher at Gary.

Mr. F. Stage has resumed work at Foraker nights. He was formerly at Ashley yard days.

Bro. Todd, Gary, has resigned and intends going to some other road. His position at Stony Creek days has been taken by night telegrapher J. Dwenger. Mr. Kumneck relieving Mr. Dwenger.

Bro. (?) F. Gibson at Topeka nights regular.

Sister L. Huntington entertained her sister Miss Laura, of Edgerton, O., over the Fourth.

Miss Olga George, a new telegrapher on Wabash, at Morris days; will become a sister in the near future.

Bro. C. A. Pillman, formerly at Crocker days, has left the banner route and is at present working for the U. P. at Lincoln, Neb.

Div. Cor.

Peru Division—

The following new members on our division in July, which may not be all as there are several precincts to hear from: S. L. House, A. A. Weber, Buck Creek; P. J. Bakle, Antwerp; O. L. Dunwoody, Newell; P. McCarthy, R. Weaver, Cecil; J. A. Fullen, Okolona; Theo. Litchestin, New Haven, and Geo. Pickering.

This don't look so bad; it certainly must look good to our chairman to see these older men in the service on the Peru Division giving him their support and confidence, but there are a few of the old heads to come to the front yet. Come in with us and be represented with the rest of us when our committee again meets at St. Louis.

One of our good brothers is inflicted with students, one at a time, sent there by the company to finish up in the noble profession they have chosen, but we have as yet to hear of a graduate from that particular station.

Telegrapher Ramsey, of Hugo nights, was laid up a few weeks in July account of having an accident while riding a bicycle resulting in a broken nose and several teeth knocked out. W. S. Avey relieved him. Avey now working Ft. Wayne "C" office days while Sister Schotemeyer is taking a well-earned vacation.

Bro. Hellwig now doing stunts at several different stations on the west end after having been at Butler nights for some time.

Following jobs made vacant in July: Toledo yard nights, Bro. Raddatz resigned to accept position with the W. U. at Toledo, Bro. Bandy at "JH" at present; Defiance days, Bro. Metsker resigned, Bro. A. A. Hein doing the day stunt now with Bro. Dickman nights; Bro. Metz becoming dissatisfied at New Haven nights has taken the night "pension" at Wauseon, Bro. Tabler, now at West Peru nights, Bro. Demuth having resigned to return to the farm for the summer months at least.

Mr. Kyle, of Blakesley nights, promises to become a brother this month if the mortgage on the old homestead is sufficiently reduced.

Would be pleased to have some items from the brothers along the line. Help me make a good write-up next month.

Div. Cor.

Springfield Division—

News from this division of the Banner Route does not show up in our journal as often as it should be, and so, to let the boys know that we are not dead, we will try and turn in a few items.

We have heard of Bro. Hefner's great success on the Decatur Division, going out and rounding up over forty nons in one jump. Nons on the other divisions of this "pike" should take a hint and see how anxious those boys are to get into the Order, because they know it's a good thing for them. The O. R. T. is the only thing that can better your conditions. Look back for a minute and see what benefits you have derived from it. Better pay secured, working conditions made more satisfactory and chances for advancement more favorable than before.

Now, boys, you who are not members, what have you done to help bring about these better conditions? Wake up and see where you are in these days.

A young lady, who graduated from a telegraph school in Springfield, was out a few weeks ago to see your chairman about getting a chance to finish up in his office; said she was very anxious to finish and would do all she could. She was told she could not be admitted in his office, whereupon she applied to Bro. Haste, who commanded the fort at Dawson, but he acted likewise. She tried several offices close in and around Springfield, but we learn she was not successful.

Bro. Foutch, agent Bates, contemplates going to Niagara Falls on our annual excursion next month. Hope he has an enjoyable time.

Mr. Hatfield, of "JN" office, Springfield, is taking a ten-day vacation, being relieved by Bro. Anderson, from Springfield shops.

Mr. Gilmore, our first trick dispatcher, is away on a vacation. Mr. Driscoll is holding down first trick, Mr. Sanders second and Mr. Potter third.

Conductor J. W. Redman has returned to work after a ten-days' vacation in Wisconsin.

Boys, we should help our dispatchers in every way toward getting trains over the road, as by doing this we can show the company that we are working for their welfare.

Don't know what to think about the nons. Wish each one of them could see THE TELEGRAPHER for July and see how the Decatur Division is bringing them into the fold. I heard a non the other day make the remark on the wire that he could not afford it, but would come in just as soon as he could get out of debt. Now, that is the same old excuse every month, still if it was not for the O. R. T. this same non would be working for $40.00 per month and putting in fifteen hours per day. Why can't you open your eyes and come from darkness to light and help us in our endeavors to better our conditions? Everyone who stays out is blocking our way to a certain extent. You should not accept the benefits that you are getting through the O. R. T. unless you are willing to help pay for them. Don't take something that does not belong to you. We would be glad to have each one come in so that when our committee goes to St. Louis again we will be solid.

Bro. B. N. Dunham, of the 13th District, was successful in getting a month's vacation, and together with his wife, visited relatives and friends at New Salem in June. They also spent a part of the time at Green Ridge, Mo., with Mrs. Dunham's parents. Bert has been day telegrapher at Stonington for several years, but we understand at this writing is located at Blue Mound as agent, and has a good chance of securing it permanently. Guess he can stand the increase all right.

Bro. Tomlinson is working dispatcher Hatfield's trick on 11th and 12th District wires for a short time, and Bro. Anderson, of C. T. shops, is handling messages and car reports at "JN" office. Understand night man at "CT" now working days, but have not yet learned his name. Hope he is O. K.

Mr. Walter P. Potter, the former time-keeper in superintendent's office, but now extra dispatcher, was over the west end of the 10th District not long ago. As he rode the local freights he probably wished to meet some of the boys and get acquainted. Seems like a nice man and we hope the boys will help him out.

Bro. W. N. Dean has Baylis nights regular.

Hope our schedule can be kept up to such a standard that the men will be satisfied. A strong membership is essential to enable our committee to secure a good working agreement.

Mr. Fesler, night telegrapher Griggsville, was off for a few nights a few weeks ago to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, J. W. Patterson, who was agent at Sullivan on Eighth District. Mr. Patterson will probably be remembered by some of our Tenth District men, as he was for a number of years agent at Griggsville prior to his transfer to Sullivan.

Guess that $50.00 minimum of ours punches a little somewhere. The wires have been taken out of depot at Chatton on Twelfth District and that station abolished.

There is some talk of Bro. Edwards going to Camp Point or Dawson as agent.

Mr. A. A. Curry, agent Mt. Sterling, has promised to do right thing soon; also Mr. Bean, at Clayton, is going to join.

H. M. Todd, agent Bowen, seems to be a great believer in having a student; claims he can't get along without one.

Bro. A. M. Zimmerman, the hustling young agent at Orleans, has been trying for several weeks past to get a relief so he can take his vacation, but chief tells him no relief in sight.

Mr. R. D. Omer, formerly agent for Banner Route, is now joint agent for C., B. & Q. & Wabash at Chapin.

Bro. Gamble working nights at Berlin.

Mr. Driscoll, nights Kinderhook, Mr. Doyle, nights Barry, and A. A. Coulter, nights Jacksonville, promise to do right thing soon. Now, boys, try and live up to those promises, and don't fall down when the papers are handed you to fill out.

Bro. S. Foutch doing the owls' act at Bluffs. Bro. Henderson, days Bluffs.

Our first trick dispatcher, Mr. Gilmore, took in the big doings at Naples and reported a fine time.

Quite a few we have to call "Mr.," when it would sound much better if we could call them "Bro."

Chapin is now joint office with the C., B. & Q., and under "Q" management the force there are all former Wabash men.

Operator Mills, of "NY," East Hannibal, has been taking a two weeks' vacation, spending same on his farm, being relieved by Bro. Noonan, the regular night man at that point.

Bro. H. W. Frederick, day man at Iles, was at Kansas City three days last week renewing old acquaintances.

This is about all the news we have for this time. Am indebted to several of our good brothers for items this month, but as they are very cheerful about giving them will call on them again.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

Sixteenth District—

I had the pleasure of meeting a number of the boys on this end one day last week, and among those I met not one was without a card. They seemed pleased with the progress that has been made toward bettering conditions on this branch, but there is much more yet to be accomplished, and they all realize the only way to do it is to keep in line.

Several bulletins showing openings on the main line have been received here, but none of the boys so far as I can hear have bid in any of these stations. The strenuous block does not seem to be very popular, especially where one has to be on the platform and at the key the same time. The thought of two men's work for one man's pay does not strike them favorably.

Bro. H. A. Trimble, of Howell, is taking a well-earned lay-off, and is at the Jamestown Exposition letting loose the stacks of coin that accumulated on his hands while working in the woods.

Bro. G. M. Clark, holding a new pasteboard, is relieving Trimble.

CERT. 562.

St. Louis Division—

I received a letter from a member recently who is located on the north end, in which he said he was going to drop out of the organization for the reason that he "did not feel like paying in $10.00 yearly and receive no benefit," and again, "several offices near him had students and if they were going to keep that business up there was no use in trying to accomplish anything."

As to the statement of receiving no benefits which the brother made, I believe if he will examine things closely he will find he is mistaken. I am not very well posted as to the conditions on that division, but I am pretty well acquainted with the conditions on the Fourteenth District, where I am working, and I know many agencies have been increased from $2.50 to $15.00 per month through the Order. Now, then, if all of us looked at things like this brother, blame the organization for the actions of some few, what would we have here today? In the first place we would have no organization and our salaries would be $38.00 to $45.00. You all remember well that is what you drew before the advent of the O. R. T. You would be buying two suits of tailor-made uniforms per year, each costing you $25.00; you would be paying a man $5.00 per month to take care of your switch lamps or carrying them out yourself after hours; you would be cleaning ten to eighteen cells of battery jars once a month; you would be working twelve to twenty-four hours per day for glory, no overtime; you would be eating your dinner each day in your office and no meal hour; you would be working at the same station where you started in as a student, no matter how many vacancies occurred; you would, perhaps, make application for one of them, and be told that the superintendent had already appointed a new-comer on the road to that station. What is the situation now? A man who is so unfortunate to be located at a station that has not been benefited by the Order (if such a station exists), has many chances to get out, which was not the case before, so when the assertion is made that the Order has not brought some relief we are ready to contradict it with the above facts.

Now, as to the student question. We agree with the brother that this is discouraging, to say the least, and we only wish we could impress upon these men who persist in keeping students the great injury they are working on us and themselves. However, I would not recommend that we all abandon the Order for the sake of a few students and their teachers, as this would be self-destruction to all of us. In the case of two evils I would say "choose the least." There have always been traitors to every cause, and I consider a man who will give away his profession the way things are today, instead of protecting it, is worse than a traitor and deserving the courtesy accorded a dog.

Until some other plan is invented and adopted calculated for our betterment, we should continue along the line of unionism, and not allow ourselves to be misled by the actions of some few, who work against us for selfish purposes.

Bro. Beard, of Ferguson, relieved agent at Vandeventer some three weeks.

Bro. Seymour worked day trick at Ferguson in the absence of Bro. Beard.

Bro. M. L. Thomas, of Ferguson, has resigned and accepted a position with a road in Colorado.

Bro. Dale Kimes, of Luther, also got the "Greeley" fever and hiked out for the land of opportunities, the West.

Bro. S. A. Lusby, of Page Avenue nights, took his annual outing and put it in visiting relatives at Wentzville.

Sister Lizzie Schats, of Kinloch Park, writes us from Colorado Springs, Colo., that she is having "a delightful time," and wants to be put on record as in favor of the eight-hour law. She will return August 1st.

Bro. S. S. McCoy, of Bridgeton, is relieving the agent at Wentzville for a month; Bro. F.

Krome, nights of St. Charles, is acting as agent at Bridgeton.

Bro. Pemberton, of Pendleton, is attending court at Montgomery on behalf of the company. He is relieved by Mr. F. Vance, a new beginner.

Bro. E. R. Banks, late of High Hill, is now with the Burlington at Hawk Point, Mo., working nights. He says they have a minimum salary there of $59.50. Compare your minimum to that and then take in another student and continue whining about poor wages. A man with a head on him as big as a tack can see the cause.

Bro. C. W. Gold, nights of High Hill, is taking a vacation; relieved by Bro. C. W. Brownell, from C. & N. W.

Mr. Carnahan, for years agent at Montgomery, was appointed agent at Delmar recently. Bro. M. D. Bell secured the agency at Montgomery.

Bro. G. Beck, of the St. L. & H. dispatching force at Hannibal, Mo, paid us a very interesting visit recently.

Several vacancies in agencies are now bulletined, among them are Blanchard, Ia., Glasgow, Keytesville and Excello, Mo. Some of these rank among the best paying stations on the road. There is no excuse for a man now who is dissatisfied with his present position remaining there. In times gone by it was different. One had no choice; now these places are offered to you. Do you want to return to the old method? If you do the quickest way is to drop your organization.

We are still at sea regarding the final outcome of the eight-hour law. As you are aware a canvas is being taken among all the telegraphers in order to arrive at the true sentiment of the men. One brother wrote me that a canvass was not necessary, that the officials of the Order should have gone ahead with the matter. It should be remembered we are tied up with a schedule that holds good until the first of the year. Again, the majority rules in all cases, and it is necessary that all have a chance to express themselves. I understand a similar poll is being taken on all roads in the State, and when this is concluded the matter will be turned over to the officials of the Order for further action.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

G. S. & F. Railway.

I am going to endeavor to give the Georgia Southern a brief write-up each month, and request the members to drop me a few lines each month, giving me changes and other items of interest. If you make a change, just drop me a note stating the fact and advise who your successor is, and where you will next hand your coat and hat.

You must bear in mind that we do not and must not leave a stone unturned within the next 18 months. There are going to be many calls for telegraphers with the next nine months, but there will be but few to respond at a $50 salary. Keep cool and solicit every desirable non with whom you come in contact. Deal a powerful blow to the ham factories. Show the "professors" that the "way of the transgressor is hard." Don't be at all surprised if you get a cordial invitation to take some bright lad in and teach him our profession. To this invitation say: Nay; verily, nay! No doubt but the officials on some of the roads will picture to you a mammoth graveyard where the telegraphers have been laid to rest, after serving a most profitable life in their profession, leaving no one behind to carry on the grand and glorious work. Now, there is nothing real about this. It is only imaginary, and prompted by personal motives. To clear your conscience of the possible misgivings you might have should you see fit to refuse to teach your profession, will ask the question: What were you told when on your bended knees you asked for a few additional paltry dollars that you might fulfill the promise made to provide for your loved ones? You were given a smile and "I wish I could, but at present we can't offer any more." Do you know why? There were enough of us running "ham factories" to place the supply in excess of the demand. Now learn a lesson from the past. Let students severely alone.

I will now endeavor to give you a few dots in regard to our meeting held at Tifton, July 21, 1907:

In absence of Bro. Watson Bro. C. J. N. Clark was appointed to take down the minutes of the meeting. Members present: Bros. J. L. Roberts, Lenox; W. O. Wilson, of Vienna; A. J. Roberts, Valdosta; R. C. Mellett, Grandin; W. R. Hayes, Lake City; C. E. McHon, Unadilla; A. A. Fussell, Tifton; B. D. Harrell, Tifton; E. O. O'Quin, Tifton; L. D. Hamilton, Tifton, C. J. N. Clark, Wellston.

I am glad to advise that the meeting was a success, although there were but few attended. Owing to the inability of Bro. O. H. Watson to attend on account of his serious illness, the financial standing of the division was not discussed.

Bros. Harrell and F. H. Fussell asked to be transferred from A. C. L. Division 132 to the G. S. and F. Division. We all welcome these two worthy Brothers into our division.

F. W. Rudisill relieved McWhorter, Adce; McWhorter relieved Redding at Cecil. Huff from A. B. & A., doing the act at Hahina.

McIntire, from A. B. & A., days, at Tifton "FM" office.

Bro. M. C. Fuller resigned Unadilla, and has gone to Montana. Bro. Mahon succeeds Bro. Fuller, days; S. E. Turner succeeds Bro. Mahon, nights. "13" that Bro. Turner holds a C. T. U. A. card.

Bro. E. O. O'Quin, nights, "FN," Tifton, leaves for Texas to spend a short vacation. We wish him a pleasant trip.

Bro. J. N. Horn sent his excuse up to the lodge room regretting his inability to attend the meeting.

Bro. O. H. Watson, secretary and treasurer, who was very ill in the hospital in Macon, was made known, and all members expressed regret on learning of Bro. Watson's illness, and wish him a speedy recovery. "RED."

Camden Division, No. 84.

On account of the neglect of our Brothers on Division 84, we have failed to see items in our journal for some time past. This looks very bad, and we should be represented each month.

There has been a new telegraph tower erected at Switch No. 7, Hightstown Junction. Bro. A. Robbins, Jr., nights, and Bro. J. W. Walker, days. The call is "K." This office is solid O. R. T.

The Order has secured division passes for the telegraphers and agents, which I am sure we will all appreciate, and yet there are a few nons along this pike who, if you talk O. R. T. to them, will admit that the O. R. T. is a fine thing, and organized labor is a help to the working class of men. Yet these nons will lay back and be benefited by a raise and passes and not make an effort to help the good cause along. I notice, however, they are always ready to grab all that is coming their way. Did the nons ever stop to think what were the conditions of wages for telegraphers and agents before the O. R. T. existed, and the system of promotion in vogue? I am sure we have been greatly benefited in the past several years, and I am equally sure we are not overpaid at the present time. Let's get busy and make these divisions solid, for in "unity there is strength." If there are any nons, let's try and secure their applications, show them where they are standing, and that we are getting insufficient salaries.

COR.

Shamokin Division, No. 117.

I don't suppose there is a member of Division 117 but what looks forward for his TELEGRAPHER and eagerly scans its pages to see what is doing along this division. I know that is what I have been doing every month, but as yet have seen very little.

Now, Brothers, there is no reason why Shamokin Division 117 can not be represented in every issue of THE TELEGRAPHER.

At our last meeting, held at Catawissa, June 22, I was appointed to represent Division 117, and give a write-up, but would like the Brothers to help me out by sending me a few notes, as there may be some changes along the road that I know nothing about, and also something that will interest us all.

The conditions along the line are not what they should be, as there are several "nons" that we should get after, and also a few "ham" factories. I think, Brothers, if we get after these in the right way we may be able to get them in the ranks. Let each and every Brother try and get at least one application for our next meeting night. I know they offer all kinds of excuses for not being with us, such as "next pay day," "it don't do me no good, as I expect to quit," and numerous other excuses; but do not let that deter you from keeping at them.

At our last meeting, held at Catawissa, there were about a dozen Brothers present, but on account of having a heavy storm that afternoon and evening, some of the boys were prevented from being present. Everything went off smoothly. After transacting all business Bro. Faust gave us an interesting talk on his trip through the West and Southwest.

Bro. Craine, days at Rupert, is again on duty, after being off some time with a sprained ankle.

Bro. Fisher, Rupert, nights, worked days in Bro. Craine's place, and Bro. Sheafs did the stunt at night.

Mr. Houck, an ex-member, is again doing extra work along the line. I understand he expects to be with us soon.

Bro. Stadler took in the sights at Brandonville a few days.

Bro. Jimmy Carr, formerly telegrapher at "CU," days, is now yardmaster at that point, in Chas. Moser's place.

Mr. Moser went braking on a coal train for the good of his health.

Bro. Reinbold has left the P. & R., and is now working for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

We had one to ride the bucking bronco and ballooned on four more at last meeting.

Brothers, if you have any notes to spare float them this way. Bro. Michael can tell you where to send them, or you can send them to him. I will get them all right, and in the meantime nail every "non" that comes your way.

CERT. 15.

Missouri Pacific Railway.

Sedalia District—

Considerable changing about on this division lately.

Bro. F. L. True, "DA" office, resigned, and Bro. B. B. McVey is holding down the job until regular man is selected.

Bro. H. D. Lessell, night telegrapher at Morrison, is relieving Agent Phillips at Hermann.

Bro. Hogue was off a few days; relieved by J. R. Ellinger.

Bro. C. E. Taylor, night man at Lamonte, was off duty a couple of weeks on account of the death of a sister.

Bro. Campbell, Cole Junction, was off a few days in June on account of sickness in the family.

Bro. J. D. Jones, S. W. Junction, transferred to Division 31.

Bro. G. E. Cromer, night man at Pacific, was off a few days in June.

Bro. W. T. Clifford is relieving Bro. Davis a few days at Little Blue. Davis being on the sick list.

Bro. C. A. Wetzel, Pleasant Hill, also on the sick list, being relieved by Bro. Gunn.

Miss Minnie Robinson, night telegrapher at Gasconade, resigned; relieved by Bro. W. H. Davis, who was in turn relieved at Cole Junction by Bro. Glynn.

Bro. Jas. Waters, telegrapher S. W. Junction, was off a few days in June; relieved by Telegrapher Smith.

Bro. B. W. Vaughan checked in at Lupus as agent; relieving L. O. Kennedy, who went to Knob Noster.

Bro. T. D. Walkley, day man at Washington, was visiting home folks near Garden City, a few days in June.

Bro. Pelstring worked Bro. True's job a few weeks, but has returned to Lees Summit.

Bro. Dugan, night man at Independence, was off a few nights, being relieved by Bro. Clifford.

Bro. H. W. Dore is relieving Bro. Symth at Warrensburg, while Smyth is touring Ireland.

Bro. Lampkin and wife, of Jeff City, took in Colorado Springs for a week.

Bro. Lampkin was relieved at Jeff by M. H. Cook.

Bro. J. E. Farrell, night man at Boonville, laying off a few nights.

I failed to get any news from the east end this month, and suppose Bro. Wood was too busy to look it up.

Three night offices have recently been closed on this division, viz.: Strasburg, Knob Noster and Dresden.

New office opened in Sedalia yards, and is being held down by Bro. W. D. Canfield.

W. L. W.

L. & S. and N. & M. Divisions—

Quite a number of changes going on. New man by the name of Lyle at Foster, wants application blanks, which we forward cheerfully.

Bro. J. S. McNamara being relieved at Adrian by Bro. R. E. Patterson, from Fleming, goes to Mound City.

Bro. F. M. Curry goes to Butler from Harrisonville; relieved by a Mr. Whiffle.

Bro. C. M. Wood resigned at Sheldon to go with the Colorado Southern at Fort Russell, Wyo., but the Missouri Pacific held on to him until the Colorado Southern got some one else, and Bro. Wood had to stay.

Bro. C. H. Walls, days at Carthage, took a short vacation, spending it in the mountains of Colorado. Bro. Musgrave relieved him. Musgrave is a C. T. U. man, and has an up-to-date. Says he thinks he will go back to the Postal, where they don't have to work 12 hours.

Bro. R. S. Beall takes the night job at Lamar. Says an agent has too many "griefs" to suit him.

Bro. Kuhne, days at Webb City, is off for a few weeks, being relieved by Bro. Bambridge, from the Iron Mountain. Carthage, nights, is getting to be a regular hoodoo; four men there in the past two weeks. Hard to get a man to stay there since Bro. Crutchfield left.

Bro. J. W. Livesay goes to Panama for a few nights to relieve Telegrapher Allen, who is sick.

By the time this gets into print our attorney-general, Mr. Hadley, will have returned from his Colorado vacation refreshed and rested up, and we expect to see him fly into the railroads and compel them to obey our eight and twelve-hour law. The boys are getting restless, and who can blame them. We have been waiting and looking forward to the time when we will only work eight hours, and now we have the law, let's have it enforced. Mr. Hadley has promised to do it, and we hope he will.

Doings on the N. & M. Division—

Bro. R. E. Patterson, now agent at Fleming, has bid in the agency at Adrain. Do not know who is to be the lucky man for Fleming. The boys do not go after that job very fast, as it is somewhat of a roast.

Fleming has been opened up as a night office, and a man by the name of Noble is doing that "stunt" in a proficient manner.

Can boast of but only one "non" on the division, and no students that we can learn of. How many other divisions can say this?

A Mr. Fennell is the new agent at Liberal.

If any of the boys on the M. & N. need any application blanks just call up "B" and tell him to send you a trial package, and a list of testimonials, and your needs will be looked after immediately.

C. V. R.

C., St. P., M. & O. Railway.Wisconsin Division, Northern District—

Owing to the scarcity of telegraphers on this district, it is well nigh impossible to keep any record of the movements made by telegraphers. Offices are closed and re-opened between two or three days so that items a month old are obsolete. However, here are a few of the present-day events:

Lakeside has been closed temporarily to allow Bro. Berg to go to Bayfield to relieve Bro. Mills, who is on the sick list. Now Bro. Berg is ill and has been relieved at Bayfield by Bro. A. W. Nordholm, from South Range, the latter place closed days.

C. G. Anderson, from the N. P., is at Comstock nights.

Bro. Crocker has resigned and gone to the D. & I. R. Ry.

Rice Lake nights was drawn by Bro. W. E. Craig and New Richmond nights by Bro. Crowell.

Telegrapher Jones did relief work at Duluth freight office during the absence of Bro. Bergh, who was off for a few days in June.

G. M. Funne, a new man, holding down Clear Lake nights. This office had been closed for a short time.

The well-known non, J. W. Quinn, is relieving Bro. F. D. Sinclear at Trego for a week or two.

New man at Turtle Lake nights. No reason why he should not make a good Order man if he remains in the atmosphere of that crossing.

Joe Posternock, nights at Solon Springs; Bro. Wilkins, former night man there, to Mondovi days.

Bro. Kavorik, Boardman, is off on a short vacation to his home at Montgomery, Minn.; Bro. Kleeman doing the necessary.

Bro. Kleeman worked a few days at New Richmond previous to the coming of Bro. Apelquist, who now holds down New Richmond regular.

The O. R. T. eight-hour bill, as passed by the Senate, is printed in full in the Social Democratic Herald, of Milwaukee, July 13, No. 467.

Mr. Dimock, of Koll, was off for a month recently and Bro. Kleeman handled the reins.

Bro. Ainsworth, of Chetek, spent a few weeks at Rochester, Minn., but is back to work again; during his absence A. W. Carey performed, then to Baldwin.

Bro. H. J. Pope has left Norma and is stationed at Knapp nights regular. Bro. A. H. Fisher went to Norma.

D. C. Fahey, after a few days' work at Bayfield, has gone to New Auburn to relieve the regular night man.

Bro. H. L. Tinker, of Holcombe, stole out of the woods long enough to take in a circus at Eau Claire early in July.

Bro. Marquette did not send us full particulars, but it is known that he was married on July 16th and passed the cigars. Shell Lake agency is being looked after by Mr. Barlow.

Bro. H. B. Wilson, at Hawthorne, is providing for the future by having purchased a farm near Hawthorne.

Bro. Manske, of Nettleton Ave., is enjoying a short vacation and his chair is being filled by Bro. J. D. Fouts.

South Range closed owing to the illness of O. E. Bradley.

New man at Cable nights, Mr. Kropter.

Following changes in membership list: Drop Nos. 10-121 and 159. Add to list of nons: A. C. Dimock, J. E. Gibson and R. F. Bigger. Erase W. H. Dun from list of nons and add to list of members No. 220, W. H. Dunn. Erase from non list T. Foss, G. J. Peterson, A. Hoffman.

The new seniority list is out and all telegraphers in service on July 1st are shown; nearly all the men have moved up several points and those now shown on the printed list without numbers have been given seniority in the July list.

The Milwaukee sent a few trains over the main line the latter part of July owing to wash-outs on their own line. The Soo sent two passenger trains over the line between St. Paul and Turtle Lake during July, owing to wash-outs west of Turtle Lake. Between other line trains, circus trains, log and work trains and the usual run of extras and excursion trains, there is something doing all the time on the Omaha.

Understand that G. L. Cray has resigned the agent-telegrapher position at Comstock, and has been replaced by C. G. Carlson.

E. W. Quinn, at Rockmont.

We have a couple members who have not as yet paid the special assessment. Wonder what they are waiting for? Can't be that they expect to see the next committee go in and live on air to try to secure that $75.00 minimum. Will these delinquents accept a raise? Oh, my, no!

We expect that Bro. Tom Bergh, of Duluth freight, will be manipulating in the Eau Claire office by the time this appears in print.

If you have not yet arranged to possess one of the new cards, isn't it about time you were performing that duty?

The majority of nons on the Omaha are wise men; why don't you do this? why don't you do that? they ask us. The great reason is, they, as nons, are the principal stumbling-blocks to the success which we are reaching for.

Div. Cor.

Wisconsin Division, East District -

The "dope fiends" all went under this month, and so the news items are somewhat scarce.

Mr. J. B. Elliott has returned from his visit to the old home in Canada.

Quite a number of the boys are enjoying a few days' vacation.

Bro. L. N. Judge is at Hersey relieving Bro. Bailey, who is on his farm near Hersey trying to regain his health. We all hope for a sure and speedy recovery.

Bro. H. J. Pope drew Knopp night job on June bulletin, relieving Bro. J. D. Fouts. Don't know where J. D. went to.

Bro. J. J. Gaffney drew Mellston nights.

Bro. W. E. Craig drew Rice Lake nights and Bro. A. B. Crowell drew "NR" nights on June bulletin.

R. D. Morton, telegrapher Ellsworth, has sent in his papers and is now one of the good. Glad to greet him and may he always be one of us.

J. M. Locke, agent Beldenville, has promised to come in this month, but up to the present writing his papers have not been received.

We have an apology to make to Bro. W. H. Dunn for the mistake in classing him among the heathens. Bro. Dunn is, and has been for a long time, a member in good standing, and we humbly apologize for the error.

Bro. J. F. Valek, of Stillwater, was off for a few days the first of the month attending the funeral of his mother, who died June 26th after an all-winter's illness. Bro. Valek has our heartfelt sympathy.

All members should correct their books to read: Add to list of members W. C. Neitzee, W. H. Dunn, No. 220; W. D. Morton, Sen. No. 86; L. McFulane.

Correct Seniority No. 61 to read P. R. Anderson instead of E. R. Cross; W. H. Dunn off non-member list; add to non list G. Tower, H. W. Pace, F. A. Brown, R. F. North, A. C. Dimack No. 121; J. E. Gibson, No. 10, and R. F. Biggar, No. 159. Latter three should be crossed off member list, dropped from the list account non-payment of dues.

Bro. W. C. Neitzee was transferred from Division 23 to 76 recently.

The two vacancies in "A" office were drawn by Bro. H. L. Glick, of Org, Minn., and Mr. S. T. Sutliff.

The Wisconsin eight-hour bill has passed and been signed by the Governor and becomes effective January 1, 1908.

It should be evident to you fellows that in order to get any kind of a write-up you should send in some items, and unless you do I am afraid your write-up's going to be small.

If you have any nons around your station make them join or brain them. Don't forget.

CERT. 1405.

Minnesota and Iowa Divisions—

Bro. A. E. Ayers, of Magnolia, is enjoying a leave of absence this month. Unable to learn who is relieving him.

C. E. Anderson, of Blue Earth, relieves Bro. E. J. Cosgrove at Blakely account of sickness of latter.

Bro. F. L. Lapacheck is now doing his twelve-hour night stunt at Worthington, having been moved to that position the first of the month. Bro. G. W. Welch, who was at Worthington pending the assignment on bulletin, has gone to Hartford days.

A. R. Mann, who for the past year has worked at several of our non-train order stations while waiting for Father Time to bring him within the required age limit, has at last reached his 18th milestone and is now a full-fledged and duly qualified telegrapher. He is at present working nights at Lake Crystal, where Bro. Tenney is tenderly teaching him the ways of unions and unionism, and we are pleased to say that Ray is only waiting for pay-day to join the ranks.

We understand that Bros. H. G. Stumm, of Heron Lake days, and H. L. Glick, of Org days, have been assigned to positions at the general office in St. Paul. It truly looks good to us to see two such staunch O. R. T. boys going into that office, and we are satisfied that they are qualified to do the M. & I. Division honor in the new positions. The boys on both branches will miss their old familiar fists, but we on the main line can still be in touch with them. Here's wishing them success, and may they never forget their friends down the M. & I.

Bro. Burdick, of Madelia, returns to his duties much refreshed after his vacation.

Mr. E. A. Strande, car distributor at St. James, has enjoyed a three-weeks' vacation this month, and Bro. J. B. Head again held sway over that office doing the work in his usual good-natured style.

Upon return of Bro. Jansen, at Madelia, Bro. F. W. Larson went to Lake Crystal to allow Bro. Tenney an opportunity to get out on the line and punch up a few of the nons and to cheer the brethren on. We look to see that non list reduced to a few of the old-time spongers who are noted for their disposition to allow others to pay their way. Our only hope lies in their losing out on this line before we lose patience with them.

Bro. H. L. Nicols, who relieved Bro. McGinty at Western Ave. nights, is now working days in St. Paul general office of the Omaha.

While Bro. J. B. Funk was absent, Bro. Zimmerman, of Shakopee, did the night duty at Mankato.

Bro. Wagner, of Garden City, Sundayed at Minneapolis on 14th inst.

Have you one of the new cards with the dark blue background?

C. H. Hurlburt, formerly night telegrapher at Sliff, is now employed in the train service.

Bro. R. E. Casey, of Butterfield, was in St. James the 7th inst. preparing for his third degree in Masonry.

Dispatcher J. J. Hannon enjoyed a two weeks' vacation the forepart of the month. Dispatcher J. W. Pepple is now endeavoring to forget the looks of a train sheet while he takes his two weeks off.

Bro. G. R. McGinty, of Western Ave. nights, was at St. James nights the last of June, and from there went on a long-sought for vacation, returning to Western Ave. about the 10th inst.

Bro. H. L. Glick and family, of Org, visited relatives and friends at Madelia the 14th.

Bro. Tenney has been our only salvation this month assisting in our search for items. Two or three of the boys promised us last month that they would come up to the rack this month with something, but thus far we have seen nothing of their letters. Do you ever turn to the M. & I. Division items when you receive your TELEGRAPHER? How would you like to see nothing there? Then remember that we need all the help we can get to place these items where all can see them and try and send at least one item each month. If you don't know where else to send them Bro. Tenney will care for them and see that they reach me in due season. Now please try and help us out next month, if only a little.

Div. Cor.

Nebraska Division—

Another month has rolled around and brought with it plenty of work for the telegraphers on this division. Lack of power and men to handle more trains is all that prevents business being still better. Telegraphers are scarce, and it's next to impossible to get away for even a day or two without someone doubling up.

Several new men recently came to the division, among them being L. J. Ferstle, who bid in night job at Coburn; F. E. Strauss, who bid in day job at Crofton, and several new beginners "manufactured" on the division. Understand Mr. Strauss came from the C. G. W. and we hope he has the "up-to-date" in his jeans. If not, it's an awful good thing to have, and he better get one at once. Do not know where Mr. Ferstle came from.

R. A. Coyle bid in the agency at Florence, and will settle down there as he has a brother or two working in "OM" office, and understand they and their parents will make their home in Florence or near there. It will be a very nice arrangement for the boys.

P. P. Hayes, who recently took examination and passed, is working days at Bancroft. A little experience and he will be turning out the goods all right. He has signified his intention of joining the Order as soon as old enough in the service. That's the way to do, get in early and help the wagon along; no one should be willing to enjoy the fruits of our efforts without bearing their share of the expense.

Mr. R. R. Larson, another young addition to our ranks, is relieving Bro. Candor at Carroll for a few days, and also says he will be with us soon. Mr. Larson also relieved Bro. Caywood at Concord a few days.

Mr. F. W. Germain, agent at Hartington, accompanied by his wife, left on the 19th for an extended trip through the South, going first to Oklahoma on a business trip. He will visit several places of interest, and on his return will spend some time with relatives in St. Paul, Minn. He is being relieved by Bro. F. O. Heyer, the efficient and accommodating day telegrapher at that point, and he in turn is relieved by Mr. Carl Ferber, from Ponca, who recently took examination and passed creditably—another young recruit who will, no doubt, make a good O. R. T. member in a short time.

Bro. Heyer relieved Bro. Petersen, agent at Laurel, for one day while latter went to Sioux City on business. Bro. H. also made a trip to Omaha recently to take in the Omaha-Sioux City ball game, and reported some fine work by those teams.

Bro. Caywood, agent Concord, took a short vacation visiting with friends at Lincoln.

Telegrapher Gibson, of Crofton, was recently called in on account of some disagreement between him and agent Gibson. We understand he was compelled to leave the service. He is now employed by the Milwaukee at Mapleton, Iowa. New man from Michigan did the telegrapher act at Crofton until regular man was assigned.

Bro. C. P. Wilson recently telegrapher Bancroft, has hied himself to a South Dakota location, we understand, and will take up a claim for himself.

We are glad to learn that the wife of Bro. Owens, of Magnet, who has been very sick, is recovering nicely, and will soon be entirely well again.

Bro. Frost, agent Craig, went to Hubbard on the 25th to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law Miss Rooney, who died of consumption. He was relieved by "Kip" Hamblin, who at present has the night trick at Oakland.

Bro. O. B. Bubb, recently agent at Florence, bid in day telegrapher position at Wakefield.

Bro. G. F. Hayes, day telegrapher Wayne, is enjoying a month's leave of absence. Relieved by P. N. Peterson, who is already well known on this road. Believe he also made the acquaintance of the G. N. officials at a critical time about a couple or three years ago. Nuf said.

Wish the brothers would drop me a line whenever they take a few days off, and let me know where they go and who relieves them. In that way an interesting letter might be gotten up each month; as it now stands we have nothing to go by, except what we pick up whenever we happen to hear of anything going on. Don't get slighted if your name does not appear in THE TELEGRAPHER when you lay off, if you do not take any trouble yourself to inform me. I have to work twelve hours a day same as you, and have more to do than a great many of you, so please help me out in this matter if you can. We are indebted to Bro. Heyer for a nice bunch of items this month, for which we extend thanks. Come again, old man.

Div. Cor.

N. Y. C. & St. L. Railway.Fourth District—

The days of influence are gone. Action is necessary. Noble acts are the ones that win. Stand shoulder to shoulder with your fellow men. Hide your selfishness and be able to realize that you are one of the ones struggling for better conditions. If you will sacrifice to do these things you have done a noble act. Don't call a man a "ham," but instead show him you are willing to be reasonable to any extent.

The Chicago, Indiana & Southern telegraphers, agents and towermen held a meeting at Schneider, July 19th. This line connects with us at two points, Knox and Osborn. Anything you can do to strengthen them will be greatly appreciated, as great results are expected, and hard work is necessary to get a 90 per cent. This can be done if brothers at connecting point will get after the nons.

What improvements in condition for telegraphers have been accomplished through organization on the N. Y., C. & St. L.? Take a backward look to only a few years. A glance will be sufficient to convince anyone out.

Many temporary changes in dispatchers this month, owing to vacations. There seems to be but little trouble taking a vacation where three tricks are worked. This should at least convince those who are wavering that better times for the poor over-worked telegraphers are coming if they but join the movement.

There are a great many O. R. T. members asking to double. Sorry to say this, boys. Give the matter due consideration; remember the day lost is work for an extra man and by keeping true to the principle you are building up instead of tearing down.

Bro. Brunner took a short vacation.

Bro. B. W. Davis, an ex-telegrapher of the N. Y., C. & St. L., is back again for a while, and is now working Maple Grove nights.

Secretary Bro. Smith is very busy receipting for dues, which is very encouraging news.

Glen Park has been opened for the handling of less than carload freight. More work for the brother now.

Several names of stations have been changed recently.

The June issue of TELEGRAPHER gives pretty good figures of the O. R. T. for the first six months of the present year. What will the latter half of the year be? The condition of this end is best in years, and we are daily gaining new members. A word to the wise will be sufficient. Get in the game to stay. Don't allow yourself to indulge in false ideas, for there is only two ways, right and wrong. "NICK."

Erie Railway.Susquehanna Division—

Susquehanna Division held a very interesting meeting at Elmira, N. Y., July 18th, there being a good attendance and plenty of interesting topics for discussion.

The same lack of interest was shown by non-attendance of the West, but the enthusiasm of the East more than made up the deficiency. However, the brothers of the west end will find a welcome awaiting them should they turn out.

The week of July 18th was known as O. R. T. week in this section, there being a meeting of Division 8 at Corning, N. Y., the 16th, Division 42 at Elmira the 18th, and Division 100 the 19th. Through the assistance of a good brother your correspondent was able to attend all named meetings and, while we lost some good sleeps some knowledge was gained pertaining to the question of the hour, the eight-hour day.

Division 100 was honored by the presence of President H. B. Perham, and as a new division received many congratulations for the manner in which they conducted their meetings. We were assured by Secretary Elliott that brothers of Division 42 would be welcome at any time to attend their local, and I assure you that you will meet a staunch lot of brothers.

The eight-hour law—what do you know about that? Will you confess that two years ago you had no idea of ever gaining such a concession? Why was the bill enacted?

Less than a year ago it was the general opinion that an eight-hour law in New York State was an impossibility. To pass such a bill would be out of question, yet it has been done in so short a time, and October 1st we are to know its effect.

A great deal can be written regarding the passage of this bill, and no doubt will be for your benefit in other columns of THE TELEGRAPHER. It is sufficient for me to say that it did not come without hardships to some and 'tis well that we remember those who labored for our interests.

It is with regret that we mention the sad and untimely death of Bro. Willard Preston, who formerly worked on this division and whose home was at Canisteo, N. Y. Bro. Preston left the service of the Erie last spring and took a position with the N. C., later being transferred to the Rochester Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, where he met his death while making his first trip as brakeman.

The death is particularly said, and the parents and relatives have the sincere sympathy of all. Bro. Preston was a young man of great promise. Starting as a telegrapher early in life, being but eighteen at the time of his death, he had held many positions of responsibility and seemingly a bright future was his. He was a member of the Presbyterian Sunday-school of Canisteo, also a member of Division 42, O. R. T.

Bro. Preston was an only son, an only grandson, and held the highest respect and confidence of his associates.

The funeral was held at the residence of his father, J. N. Preston, at Canisteo, July 24th, at two p. m., and was largely attended.

Many beautiful flowers were in evidence, including a floral offering from telegraphers of this division consisting of a section of telegraph line with a broken wire.

It being the wish of the parents, six O. R. T. men, Bros. C. Jackson, R. W. Moreley, V. E.

Hadley, A. W. Barkalow, V. W. Goff and F. E. Hall acted as bearers.

Preparations are being made to re-open "JD" tower at a point about two miles west of Waverly.

Bro. F. S. Johnson, of Cameron Mills, was relieved by Bro. Chichester ten days and worked nights at Corning ticket office, after which he called at his home in Arnot.

Bro. E. I. Kelly was absent a few days to sing in the Episcopal choir at Millport, his old home. Relieved by Bro. Hadly.

Waldridge took a few days' enforced vacation after working at "AQ."

J. P. Conroy has been regularly assigned to "XY" nights. We expect he will soon make good.

Two vacancies, first trick "V" Hornell nights and "K," Gt. Bend, days, advertised after being open nearly a month and but one complaint made.

Gov. Charles Evans Hughes signed the telegraphers' eight-hour bill July 19th.

A shake-up has taken place in the signal gang; Hugh Cannon, foreman, resigned, and succeeded by John Sullivan. Several other members of the force resigned and took positions with better salaries on the L. & N.

Bros. Owen and Ambrose worked a week about during June and July. Owen is now at "YA," New York.

Bro. Spencer worked days at "S," Painted Post, during the absence of Jerry Dee, who took vacation.

Malone became sick of "XU" nights and took a better paying position on the N. C. We hope the missionaries will get him.

At this writing Bro. D. E. Murphy, of "GJ," Chemung Jct., is absent account of having a rheumatic stroke the first of the month. Bro. Murphy is getting along as nicely as expected, and hope he may soon be able to return to work. He is relieved by dispatcher Degroat and Bro. Malloy, of "VO" tower.

J. D. Collins and Bro. Condon are holding "VO." Understand Ackerman has a permanent position in the signal gang.

Bro. Blizzard was called to "V" office and Tucker worked at "FD," Corning freight house.

Bro. J. S. Stevens was absent four days; relieved by Seth Palmer, at Tioga Jct.

Bro. Sheldon, of "NI," Canisteo, was absent July 24; relieved by P. J. Donnellan.

Bro. G. H. Treadwell was absent five days; relieved by Bro. V. E. Hadly.

There is one question or point not thoroughly understood by all. Your agreement and wage scale is made for you through your member of the General Committee or local chairman; therefore, when it comes to living up to this agreement, why not refer all matters to your representative. In other words, do not make an agreement with a representative of a railroad to work eight hours for thirty dollars and then ask your committeeman to get you eighty dollars with eight hours. If you are wise I do not think you will discuss these matters with others than those deeply concerned.

Div. Com.

Chicago and Lima Divisions—

We hear a new fist every few days at "MJ" tower. Did not hear where Bro. Sutton has gone, but understand he has been transferred to Cincinnati Division.

Bro. Latham, of "KN" tower, transferred to "SC," Chicago. Extra telegrapher Roe at "KN" until regular man is assigned.

Bro. J. F. McKenna, of Wren, has just resumed work after a two weeks' vacation.

Bro. C. W. Bresick, of Bolivar, has been working as extra agent at Preble for past three weeks.

Bro. Bresick just returned to his regular job at "BO" and Mr. Sparks, Jr., from Markle, will try Preble a while.

Bro. Shipley, of Rochester, has just finished his vacation, secured after a long struggle.

Brothers, don't neglect to keep in line with the up-to-date card until we get those eight-hour tricks properly established. The section men recently got a raise of eight per cent or more, so if we keep solid we may do still better.

"HY" tower advertised again days. Seems no one wants the job.

"SC," Chicago, was recently closed a week or more.

Bro. Hamilton is taking a vacation; relieved by Bro. Witt, at "JO" tower.

Bro. E. M. Adams has just resumed duty after a short vacation.

Bro. Wm. Knott, agent DeLong, is in line for sixty days' vacation. He will attend the Jamestown Exposition, visit Boston, New York and Niagara Falls. We wish him a pleasant time.

Bro. R. L. Quinn transferred from Ora nights to Akron.

Look out for a meeting at Huntington Tuesday evening, August 27th, usual place. Will have ice cream and peanuts during recess if plans work out, so don't fail to attend.

Bro. Nelson, of Disko, recently took a short vacation. Also Bro. Taylor, of "BO." This keeps the extra telegraphers busy and satisfied.

Agent Mr. P. O'Brien, of Griffith, was recently appointed milk agent Chicago Division.

CERT. 9.

Third Division—

It has been so long since items have appeared in the journal from this end of the line that many wonder what has become of all the old standbys, but this is to inform you that we are still in the land of the living, and are ready to do our share toward the upbuilding of our craft. The first duty of a workman is to join the union that represents his craft, for in union there is strength, and if we did not all stand together and fight for our rights we would all go to pieces on the rocks of corporate greed.

I had hoped for some time that the scribe's mantle would fall on some brother more able to do justice to the position than myself, but no one seems to want the place and so I will have to break into print again.

There have been a great many changes on this end since the last notes appeared, some of the positions are filled by worthy brothers and some are, I am sorry to say, filled by the parasites that are usually found in the country at large, men who are willing that you and I should go down in our pocket and dig up the money to support the committee that they may get their share, without costing them one cent; but after all we must expect such, as we find them among all trades unions, and will as long as the world exists.

Telegrapher Russel has been transferred to the ticket department at Akron, and a not over-promising man has been installed in his place.

Bro. Forwood, of Barberton days, has left the service, and took service with a manufacturing plant at Canton. Some new man bid in his place, to which he is perfectly welcome so far as the most of the brothers are concerned.

Bro. Norris has bid in Milton days and will move there some time this fall. Beats working nights all to pieces. Bro. Zimmerman, of Milton, will go to Ashland nights.

Bro. Danny Barr is back with us once again. Hope he will make up his mind to stay with us this time.

Bro. A. A. Shriner now sports an up-to-date card and is entitled to all that is due him as a brother.

Telegrapher Brady bid in Summit nights.

Bro. Bowie, of "BO" tower, Mansfield, was called home account of serious illness of his aged mother.

Conden tower is now manned by Sweet and Jonea.

Bro. Ryan, of the yard office Galion, paid us a short visit some time ago.

We are pleased to learn that telegrapher Chas. Cassidy, who worked the side wires in the Galion office, is making good as a dispatcher on the Wabash.

Bro. Murphy, of Claiborne, has a boy who is now entering the service; has been employed at Richwood as clerk for few weeks.

This is the time of the year when block men should be getting their vacations. How many have asked for it? It is hoped that all will take it, as it is too good a thing to kill by not taking it when it belongs to you.

We desire a full attendance at the next regular meeting, as it will be held so all can be there, if they only think so, so try and arrange.

CERT. 216.

Mahoning Division—

The joint meeting held at Youngstown on Saturday night, July 20th, was a grand success. Telegraphers from all systems entering Youngstown were present. The P. & L. E., L. S. & M. S., B. & O. and Erie were represented by their General Chairmen.

Talks on various subjects were given by all the General Chairmen. Meeting closed at eleven o'clock p. m., and all were well pleased on account of having been there.

W. D. Parker, of New Castle, attended staff meeting at Youngstown.

J. R. Meek, of Pulaski, was off attending funeral of an uncle at Cortland. Meek was relieved by Davidson, his night man.

De Forest nights advertised and F. E. Brooks working there at present.

Wood Lawn Hills tower days advertised and bid in by R. G. Limis, of Randall nights.

C. F. Lewis, agent Randall, off sick; relieved by his brother, R. G. Lewis, of Randall nights.

H. R. Myers on night at Randall.

J. Finnegan gets "BR" tower East End Brier Hill yard days, J. L. Johnson going from "BR" days across the river to tower on B. & O. R. R. at Ohio Jct.

Now, it might be well for you to cut this out and paste it in your hat or some other conspicuous place. A joint meeting of Mahoning and Meadville Divisions is held the last Saturday night of each and every month at Warren, O., in the K. of G. E. Hall over the Union National Bank, corner of Park Ave. and Market Street. Everybody come.
Div. Con.

Buffalo Division—

We are pleased to report a large attendance at the Buffalo meeting called on the 6th inst., although several of the brothers were unable to attend account of the inconvenience of train service and the scarcity of relief men; nevertheless we had a very enthusiastic gathering and several matters of interest were discussed.

Among the ones present were Bro. F. N. Hall, General Chairman Erie System Division No. 42; Bro. A. E. Marsh, Assistant General Chairman; Bro. R. H. Fuller, General Chairman B. R. & P., Warsaw, N. Y.; Bro. Campbell, of the L. V. Ex. Local Chairman Local Board of Adjustment, Erie System Division No. 42, Buffalo Division.

After the business of the evening Bro. F. N. Hall, General Chairman, took the floor and gave a thorough explanation of the situation as it exists at the present time, which was very interesting, and looks very encouraging, after which our attention was directed to the remarks of the other brothers above mentioned.

Brothers, you are aware of the fact that the National Nine-Hour Bill has been passed, to take effect March 4th, 1908. Now, we are pleased to inform you that the New York State eight-hour bill has been passed and signed by the Governor, Hon. Charles E. Hughes, to whom the O. R. T. should extend their hearty congratulations and appreciation.

I think now with this fact in view we should have no difficulty in landing every eligible telegrapher on the Erie Ry.

So get after them one and all, and make this half of 1907 the sweepstake winner.

While a couple of the brothers have seen fit to allow their membership to lapse the past semi-annual period, I sincerely trust that they will reconsider their move and ask to be reinstated, and stand as heroes toward the organization to whom they owe the credit of privileges which they are now enjoying.

Account of the busy season and shortage of telegraphers, shifts are made along the division to relieve dispatchers and others as follows:

Bro. M. P. Dundon, of "AF," Buffalo freight office, doing the owl racket at "BX," superintendent's office. Night man Kennedy takes the day job, in place of H. P. Welsh, Welsh doing the relief dispatching; Bro. Brookmeier holding the "AF," Buffalo freight house while Bro. Dundon is at "BX."

Bro. Eddy, of "DF," International Jct., has been on the sick list for the past three weeks. Hope to see him back on the job soon.

Bro. J. B. Moore, of "TW," North Tonawanda, is taking a short vacation at Silver Lake, bathing with old chums of Darien.

The following is a clipping from the Warsaw weekly:

Mr. Edward A. Baird left Binghamton, N. Y., last Friday, July 12th, for San Francisco. He joined a party to work in the city during the strike of the telegraphers. The party, twenty in number, traveled in private Pullman cars.

Mr. Baird was formerly manager of the Western Union office of that place, when later he accepted the position as manager at Binghamton, N. Y.

This car of scabs should have been loaded in the proper equipment, viz., a single deck stock car, and routed over some scab line.

Brothers, keep your eyes on them and give them a cold shoulder when the opportunity presents itself. Such men may stand high in shoes, but the very lowest in principle.

The ham factories along the division are not crowded at the present time, and we trust that when the present supply of material is consumed that the professor will take a tumble to himself and his surroundings, discontinue the "profession," and line up in the O. R. T. as a true and noble citizen, with an up-to-date card in his pocket.

Peoria Division—

Bro. J. F. Harris resigned the agency at Ellsworth and Mr. N. Stillwell (non), from Padua, was checked in.

Mr. A. Zerbe (student from M. C. Division) was placed at Padua.

Mr. J. Hodgson having held down position as cashier at Frankfort has been transferred to Kempton as agent. Although he is not one of the boys, we hope to take him in in the near future.

Bro. F. T. Blystone, formerly agent at Boyles-ton, has been transferred to Frankfort as cashier.

Bro. J. F. Stroup transferred from Kempton to Goldsmith.

Bro. A. E. Warner transferred from Goldsmith to Boyleston.

Bro. R. C. Bates, formerly of the L. E. & W., is back from the West, where he has been working for the past year and has again entered the service at Frankfort as day telegrapher.

Bro. F. C. Hannagan, who has been working at the intermediate block station at the gravel pit, has been transferred to the temporary block station at Indian Creek.

The company has installed telephone service at the gravel pit and reduced salary to forty dollars per month.

After a few days' vacation, Bro. A. W. Whitcomb, formerly of Lafayette, has resumed work at Bloomington.

Bro. Whitcomb was relieved at Lafayette by Mr. Boydston, night telegrapher, who in turn was relieved by Mr. W. L. Niswander, a new man on the road.

Mr. Ed. Shorr, of Summit nights, who left the service June 9th, was relieved by Bro. C. W. Fondray, from Division 138.

The company is arranging to operate the west switch at gravel pit from Summit tower.

Bro. O. E. Briscoe and family visited relatives near Danvers recently.

After being on the committee for some time, Bro. Murphy is back at "G."

Have you seen the new schedule?

THE LIGHTNING SLINGER.

At the rough shelf called a table,

He does the twelve-hour trick,

Bearing heavy burdens on meager pay,

Yet to the key he will stick.

Fifty-five per month scarce suffices

For wife and little brood;

They can seldom have more

Than raiment, shelter and food.

To those who direct at headquarters,

He makes an energetic kick;

For a minimum of seventy-five

And only eight-hour tricks.

Responsibilities piled on him,

And yet he never wineth,

But keeps throwing lightning

Till he goes where the woodbine twineth.

BRAIN STORM.

Pennsylvania Lines West of Pittsburg.

Louisville Division—

Think the Brothers were all glad to see Louisville Division represented in the last issue of THE TELEGRAPHER, and believe this should be continued. They can then keep in touch with what is taking place on the Louisville Division, and learn who are and who are not with us. Think we should go after the "nons," and stay with them until they are landed, and I think most of them can be landed, if each of us makes it his duty to write to or talk with each "non."

Bro. R. H. Judd off on a ten days' vacation; Bro. King doing his trick.

Bro. King has resumed work.

Another "ham factory" started. "Owl" at Chestnut Ridge has a student.

Bro. Carr off for 30 days. Understand he went to the coast. Telegrapher U. G. Sweet taking his place.

Bro. McClellan, who left us a few months ago, passed through with Bro. Carr en route for the coast. He has been holding position at Beaver Dam, Ky.

Bro. C. A. Guernsey is now located at Spring Valley, Wyo., with the Union Pacific.

Bro. E. T. Wade is now with the R. G. W. at Green River, Utah.

Bro. C. H. Prather is now with the C., H. & D. at Springfield, Ill.

'Telegrapher Farris is still numbered with the "nons," but have hopes of him.

Bro. Judd, Harland, nights, asked for transfer, and was placed at Waynesville, nights. A Mr. Peck relieved him.

Mr. King, Waynesville, days, on growing tired of being classed with the nons, invested in an up-to-date card, and is now a full-fledged Brother. Welcome to the ranks.

Each member help in the write-up by sending items to Bro. Wells, Harland, or Bro. Farr, Greenwood; getting the items to them by the 22d of each month.

Telegrapher White, Rowe, nights, on the sick list; relieved by Extra Telegrapher Hudson. Can't say whether Hudson carries a card or not.

Telegrapher Coons, Cornbrock, nights, on sick list; relieved by Extra Telegrapher Thompson.

Let each member, after reading his TELEGRAPHER, send it to some non. From the looks of things several of the nons are not aware there is such an organization as the O. R. T. Help them to get wise. Div. COR.

Hudson Division—

Our regular meeting was held July 16, at Poughkeepsie. It is very gratifying to see the interest the Brothers are taking in division meetings. It is the life of the organization. It is the school of instruction, where we exchange ideas and offer suggestions for the advancement of our Order. At our meeting we had a very representative gathering. Our general chairman, Bro. Wooley, Chairman, Bro. Kemp, from Division 78, and Chairman Bro. Wheeler, from Division 29, being present. After the regular routine of business, we had the pleasure of being addressed by the above Brothers. One of the important subjects discussed was the advisability of having a ball this coming fall in conjunction with Brothers on the C. N. E., Division 29. This will be decided definitely at the August meeting. If it is decided to have one, we hope to see every Brother do all possible to make this a success. We certainly are very much alive at present, and I think with a little effort, we could run a ball off that would shock our electric brothers.

A few words to those who are still on the fence, with a cloud hanging over them: Some of you I have written once; some twice, and others oftener. The replies are varied, and mostly encouraging; but, boys, promises are not very productive, especially those veiled ones. It's money that talks. I expect before this reaches you the Governor will have signed the eight-hour bill, which places you on an eight-hour basis. Can you any longer turn your back on the Order that is always working for your interest. Your eight-hour national law was secured after a hard and expensive fight by this Order. Show your appreciation of this by getting a card of honor, and get out of the ranks of the mollicoddles. Do not be one of the last to fall in line, and you must hurry, for nons are getting scarce on the Hudson Division.

I also wish to ask our entire membership for their own individual welfare, and for the welfare of our organization, to make a special effort to give our employers the best possible service. Let your card be a card of merit, and with each of us having this in view, your general committee will have an easier road to travel when they meet the management each year.

Mr. Bently, second trick at 58, has sought new fields, and his friends at New Hamburg regret his sudden departure.

Brothers a short distance from Poughkeepsie should be able to attend the meetings. We have Brothers from the extreme north end, B. S. 99 and 98, and all the way down the line who lose a night's sleep to be present.

Miss Considine, telegrapher at Yonkers depot, is reported as having a student. Miss Considine refuses to talk, which might be taken as evidence of guilt. A similar report comes from the agent at Barrytown. Do they consider this an honor; the distinction of being a ham factory professor?

Bro. Heidel, B. S. 58½, is back on the job again, after an extended trip through the western part of the Empire State, taking in Niagara Falls and points of interest in Canada.

We extend our sympathy to Bro. Cahile in the protracted sickness of his daughter, one of Poughkeepsie's most popular stenographers.

Mr. E. O'Neil, one of the efficient trio at B. S. 59, just returned to work after a ten days' vacation. He reports prospects of good crops throughout the state, having visited Staatsburgh, Wappingers Falls and Camelot.

Again I will say a few words to Brother members: You owe more to the Order than simply paying your dues. It is your duty to become active. If there is a non within reach of you, use every honorable means to get him in line, and with our entire membership working on these lines our success is assured. And I will also urge you to attend division meetings, learn what is going on, get acquainted with the Brothers out on the line. J. B. W.

Pennsylvania Division—

Understand Mr. McIntyre, of Himrods Junction, nights, has obtained employment elsewhere. Pleased to note the factory at Watkins has closed indefinitely.

Bros. Fennell, Hilderbrandt, Vandeventer, Louk and Dee have enjoyed vacations recently.

Office at "AG" tower discontinued. office opened at "HO" tower and "JU" tower. Bro. Steele filling in at "HO" tower, and Bro. Harvey at "JU" tower.

S. McAvoy, at Louisville, on vacation.

Some offices were not represented last meeting. No reason why one from each office should not attend. Brothers who do not attend can not keep in touch with what the Order is doing for them. Get the habit of attending. Come once, and you will always come.

Bro. M. T. Pettibone spent a week with his parents in Ramulus last week.

Wish some of the Brothers from the C. V. branch would try and attend our next meeting. No reason why two or three from that branch could not attend. Our last meeting was well attended, and every one had something to say. Collection was taken up to pay for flowers sent to the late Bro. Bennett's funeral, and every one contributed liberally. It is the desire of this division to start a floral fund; each one to throw in 5 or 10 cents at each meeting, and it would not take long to have $25 or $30 to our credit in the treasury for this purpose. This will save the practice of some Brother going down in his pocket for $5 or $10 to buy flowers, and then have to wait from 15 to 30 days to get his pay, also will save a lot of trouble by having the money on hand. Let every one turn out to our next meeting, and let us have your idea as to collecting the money.

Wish some Brother from the south end would send me a few notes as to changes, etc.

At the regular meeting, July 16, the following resolutions were adopted:

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst our Bro. Lee Bennett, and while we bow in submission to the Divine will, and realize that our Brother has received an inestimable promotion, each member of our organization can but feel a deep sense of personal loss; and,

WHEREAS, We desire to show our respect for, and appreciation of, the high character and principles of the departed; be it therefore

Resolved, That as an organization we tender to the bereaved relatives our sincere sympathy in this, their sorrow, which is also our own; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the minutes of this meeting and printed in the official organ of the Order, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

Beech Creek District, Pennsylvania Division—

Your correspondent sent in no items from this division last month, but, remember, he is not traveling over the road, and if you wish to read the news in the journal, it is up to you to supply him with the same.

Bro. Long, of Lock Haven, and Bro. Graham, of Clearfield, have started life anew. They have both taken themselves a wife, and have the good wishes of the fraternity. We join in wishing them many joys and happy days.

The eagle screamed at Jersey Shore on the Fourth in the good old-fashioned way. There was a good celebration, and a grand parade, with many beautiful floats. Among them was one gotten up by the telegraphers, which was admired by all. Bro. Landsberry deserves much credit and praise for the novel way he demonstrated his skill. The float had a full-equipped telegraph office, with men working at the key; the automatic signal and mechanical semaphore, all working; the electric signal bell, and other equipment made one think he was looking direct at one of the modern telegraph offices on the road. Even the busy agent was not forgotten. He was there in all his glory, and as busy as he could be, hustling the U. S. mail, looking over the numerous baby carriages, checking baggage, and trying to answer the thousand and one questions an inquisitive public asks at this time; and of this man some were wanting tickets, others wanted to send telegrams, while a few were willing to give the busy man time to get his breath.

Quite a number of the telegraphers and agents were seen at the parade and fireworks. We were glad to see them, but if they would put forth the same energy to come to our meetings, what a good time and turn-out we would have.

We are completing a solid division. Only a few more links yet, and then we have a solid chain on the Beech Creek. How strong, remains for the members to say, as no chain is stronger than its weakest link, and I hope every member will believe himself to be the strongest link.

Business is about normal on the road at this end, and not many changes. Some few are leaving; going to the Pennsylvania Railroad, where salaries are somewhat better than on the Central. Many more boys are contemplating on going to the Pennsylvania, but will wait until the committee returns before making the change.

Your correspondent attended a very interesting meeting at Corning last month, held by Bro. McInroy, local chairman of the F. B. There were some very interesting things brought to the attention of the Brothers present, and they were handled without gloves. The manner in which things were discussed shows the F. B. boys are very much alive to their interests, and under the leadership of Bro. McInroy, I predict success.

HICKORY.

Mohawk Division—

The boys along the Mohawk are greatly pleased to learn that Governor Hughes signed the bill July 22, restricting the working day of the railroad telegraphers in the State of New York to eight hours. Some desirable positions will be created as a result. It takes effect October 1. You perhaps remember of a certain document some years ago, which said that "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness shall be every man's unalienable right." Working as a railroad telegrapher from 12 to 36 hours deprives him of that right which, no doubt, will soon be restored to him.

Sister Gorman, "DW" office, DeWitt, is working the day trick at the passenger station, Saranac Lake, M. & M. Reports are that she is much improved in health. Her friends are all glad to hear this, and hope to see her back at her old position in the fall in perfect health.

Effective July 15, the West Shore wires were cut at Utica, and dispatchers placed at that point to cover the section, Utica to Syracuse. This to take care of the new electrified section. Among the telegraphers affected by this change are Bro. T. P. Hart, from "UT" to M. & M. office, as copier, and Mr. T. O'Brien, formerly general yardmaster at Utica, to night copier in the same office.

Mr. J. H. Howard, of Kingston, N. Y., has been located at Utica yard office the past two months. This position has now been bid in by Mr. R. W. Van Allen.

Bro. R. C. Bennett has bid in and been assigned night trick at "BS" 28, Frankfort.

Bro. C. E. Bracey to "BS" 32, nights, from extra work.

Bro. C. A. Hawkins, "BS" 31, has returned from a two weeks' vacation.

Bro. C. F. Loring, our genial chief telegrapher, has been appointed local chairman to represent the signalmen. The boys can count on Charlie to handle their grievances to the best of his ability, former Bro. Chairman Prevost having resigned. We are sorry to lose him, but wish him success in whatever he undertakes. He has a good offer from the Central of New Jersey.

Div. Cor.

C., B. & Q. Railway.

The happiness of every home is based to a greater or less extent upon contentment. For a man to be contented he must receive a reasonable competence for his labor. The point where employer and employe disagree is as to what a fair competence is. Generally speaking any man who makes a living, that is, makes just enough to keep soul and body together, is in the eyes of most corporations getting all he deserves. Nothing appeals more to me than thousands and thousands of poor laborers who live in the tenement houses of our cities, and are only able to eke out a miserable existence for the reason that the salaries paid them are so small that it barely pays for what they eat. They wear just what is absolutely necessary to cover nakedness, for the reason they have not sufficient money to buy with.

The poor telegrapher is not quite so badly situated as the poor you find in the tenements, but it is unquestionably a fact that none of them are able to put by but a very few dollars. The increase in living, rent, etc., for the past few years has been very large, and the raise in wages has been far below proportionate to the increase in living expenses; for all this we are told we are being paid very good salaries; it matters not much what we are getting, whether it is $25 or $100 per month, if we have to pay it all out for living expenses.

Every man, if he is going to follow any particular line of work, should select something that will pay him enough to allow him to save something for a "rainy day," as we often say. We should not be expected to work 25 or 30 years for a corporation, and at the end of that time be compelled through declining years and broken health to retire to the public almshouses.

I often think this is the way that corporations look upon the men who make their wealth. Some people say a man is a sort of a machine, when he becomes old and worn out, throw him in the scrap heap. I do not look at it in this light. Any man who works hard for a number of years for merely a living, has in one sense had a miserable time. He has been living, that is true, but what enjoyment has he had?

When an individual or a corporation takes a contract to do a certain piece of work, they expect to make a profit on the work performed; if he or they do not, they do not want the job. Is there any plausible reason why a telegrapher when he hires out to a railroad company should not expect to make a fair profit for the work he performs? In other words, if we cannot lay aside a little money for old age, there is mighty little consolation in this life.

Railroad companies that are making from 8 to 14 per cent on their money surely ought to pay better wages to their telegraphers and agents; if they cannot do it, then they ought to quit the business.

There are two sides to a story, to be sure, and railroads say we would not be contented if we were getting $500 per month. In reply to this I will say, just try us; but this is not the question. If $50 or $60 per month is so mighty good, why don't some of the heads of the departments petition to have their wages cut. I have never heard of any of them doing it.

There is another side to this, however, and that is this: As long as a man has no money he is dependent, and when he has plenty of money he is independent. When he is dependent he will take whatever comes, and when independent he will not.

Now, I do not believe in grumbling and growling all the time, neither do I believe in building castles in the air; it is much better to build a substantial building on a solid foundation. By this I mean it is not always proper to keep up an agitation for years unless that is all you ever look for. It is sometimes well to agitate a question, but agitation quite often goes too far, and nothing is accomplished from it; for this reason I believe if some of our Brothers would stop their agitation and get down to the roots of the tree, and go to digging, they would do more towards uprooting the tree.

In my mind, the proper thing to do is to start something, then get right into the harness and push it along; do not keep up the agitation alone.

I might start a good thing with a lot of hard work, but if I dropped it and commenced talking to men, and telling them how to do it, and did not push ahead myself, I am frank to say that I believe the whole thing would be a fizzle.

This $75 minimum talk makes me tired. It is the same old story we have heard so long. Why not take some other figure, and have something new; make it $100. I want a $100 minimum, but in order to get it, I am not going to keep agitating it for the next fifty years. I propose to work for it, and work mighty hard, too. If a conductor who can scarcely write his name is worth to a railroad company $165 per month, is it not certain that a telegrapher who has a good common school education is worth more than $75 per month? Then why cry "$75 minimum?"

Let us lay aside that old manner of doing things; get out of the old rut into the present day civilization, and move according to the times. A great many old men learned their trades years ago, and they have learned nothing since. They do not read, they do not try to keep pace with the advancing years, and they finally die, believing they knew all there was to be learned. Why not look about you, and see what strides others are making, and keep in the band wagon yourself?

At present there seems to be a shortage of men on the Burlington, but our records seem to indicate there are plenty of men to be had whenever they can be assured of wages that are reasonable.

There are not so many floaters in this section as there has been; think, perhaps, they have got into another current and floated away.

An unusually large number of grievances are being filed with me; more, in fact, than ever before, and I presume that any attempt by the company to put the men on an eight-hour day, with a reduction in wages, will cover me up with grievances. I understand that men on other systems will not work if a cut is made, and I do not see how he can be expected to.

I hope the Brothers on all divisions will see to it that a write-up shows up in THE TELEGRAPHER each month from their division.

Brothers, do not fail to pay your dues promptly; always keep an up-to-date card, and save yourself that far-away look that a non has.

Do your work well at all times, and your chances for promotion and better pay will be much greater.

M. J. JOHNSON, G. C.

Alliance Division—

Last month when our journal came out, no doubt several of the Brothers looked through the correspondence columns, and made a small "roar" because the Alliance Division was not represented, but how many of you, after noting the division write-up was conspicuous by its absence considered for a half second why—more than to think, well, the Local Chairman ought to have written up the changes, anyway.

If you think it's a snap to write this up each month, take an hour off some day, and undertake to write up what immediate changes you know of, then think how small what you have written will look in type. But if each Brother knowing of a change would mail a postal card to his Local Chairman, it would surprise you what a lengthy write-up we would have each month. I am sure each and every man is interested in knowing who are holding the different positions, but all seem to be too indolent to take the trouble of assisting in this work. Perhaps you are under the impression the Local Chairman draws a munificent salary for doing this work, and you believe in each man earning his money. But if you are laboring under such an illusion, "Go blind for a minute and let it alone," because he gets no more out of it than you do, except the extra work.

If each Brother would just now drop a card, stating where he is located, and who is working with him at the present time, it will make a banner write-up. Don't say I'll do that tomorrow, but do it to-day. If you can't take the time to do that much, how do you expect a man who has no means of knowing of the changes only from what he hears through others to do this for each of you? So, Brothers, let us all turn in and help the Local Chairman out with this much of his work, anyway.

How many have paid dues for the current term and received new cards?

Brother Powell, at Broken Bow, days, with Bro. Jordan holding the night job.

Bro. Fountain working as relief agent, now at Hill City, waiting for some one to be permanently assigned to that station. Bro. Donegan has been promoted to Spearfish, and Bro. Clary from Spearfish to Deadwood.

Bro. Armstrong now working the day telegraph job at Edgemont.

Bro. V. R. F. Herncall who was formerly agent at West Nehant, and went south, now back with us as agent at Ellsworth, relieving Bro. O. W. Low, who is located at York.

Bro. Whitlock, formerly nights at Thedford, working nights at Gretna, Neb.

Bro. Johnson, former night telegrapher on this division, working nights at Seward.

Bro. Hancock working nights at Seneca with Bro. Gordon as agent. They ought to make a good team, both big and husky. Bro. Gordon just returned from his vacation, which was spent with the "Japs."

Bro. Callender, who was with us a good many years, is now working for the Western Union Company in Denver.

All the Brothers should be pleased with the increase in the check they will get this pay-day. More reasons why what few nons we have should join; they will get enough increase in two months to more than pay their expenses for joining.

Bro. Darrow, of Mason, laying off, relieved by extra agent Triplett.

Bro. Trego returned from his vacation; he was relieved by his night man Brother Kirkpatrick.

Our attention has been called to the fact there are several "ham factories" being run on the Alliance Division; we will not at the present writing mention any names, but, Brothers, remember your obligation and cut it out. If it is a matter of having more work than you can do, I firmly believe that your "handy boy" will make enough mistakes and cause you more work rectifying them than the work would without his assistance.

L. C.

Wymore Division—

Been pretty hot for chasing nons, but, nevertheless, some of the boys have been doing pretty good sprinting from the way new applications are rolling in. Keep it up, boys, and the old "Q" will soon stand at the head for membership. Some of the old hard shells are getting wise at a rapid rate, and are lining up in good shape. Let us "whoop er up" for the next sixty days, or until there are no more nons. If you know of a non, write him, and also send his name and address to Bro. Quick, and to our Local Chairman.

Hickman, nights, closed. Bro. Weatherhogg is now monarch of all he surveys.

Telegrapher Shandy recently opened new office at Lancaster.

Bro. C. D. Wyatt, an old-time Wymore Division boy, is again with us, recently relieving agent at Lawrence.

Mr. M. D. Allen, agent Ohioa, is the proud possessor of a student. We presume he is still wondering why the raise was no greater. Is it hard to guess?

Harry Reneau is again with us, doing the night stunt at Tecumseh.

Bro. Golden, off the P. R. R., is one of the latest arrivals.

Is there anything more to be despised than a non who will try and make the Brothers believe he carries an up-to-date card? Boys, make them produce the goods or turn them down.

A Mr. Pratt, reported to be from the Katy, worked a few nights at Preston recently, but did not find this a healthy climate, so resigned. Was relieved by Bro. C. B. Johnson, from the U. P.

Bro. C. F. Wahl, of Division No. 126, has transferred to this division, and is holding down Salem nights.

Bro. C. C. Vaughn, nights Falls City, is enjoying a vacation.

It is rumored that Humboldt is to have a new passenger depot; they certainly need it.

Bro. L. O. Nash has left the service. Lee was a good Indian, and we dislike to lose him.

Mr. Workman, agent Strang, on vacation; relieved by Bro. A. F. Heskett.

Bro. H. G. Pennington transferred from nights Fortescue to nights Liberty. Bro. H. B. Hadsell doing the night stunt at Fortescue.

Mr. Workman, agent Strang, does not seem to be able to deliver the goods in the form of an application, which he has promised for a long time. Presume that raise looks good to him, though.

J. C. Martin, agent Wayne, has filed his application, and will be riding in the band wagon before this appears.

Bro. Sheeley, nights Endicott, has been relieving Mr. Majors, the agent, while Tom is away spending accumulated increases. Better drop a little of it on a set of application blanks.

Drv. Cox.

Sterling Division—

Don't be a knocker. You can't saw wood with a hammer.

Have you helped to secure any new members this month?

Bro. Pollard, formerly at Sterling, is now doing the act in McCook relay office.

Bro. Kramer has resumed duties as agent at Elwood.

Bro. Banister returns to his old position at Haxtun.

Bro. Winger, agent Loomis, is now a member of Division No. 130. If any one on the Sterling Division is not up-to-date, you will do us a favor by advising name and address.

To be a union man does not mean to oppose your employers' interests, but rather to uphold them, and stand for your rights, and for all that is due the company.

Bro. Morrow, formerly agent Angora, now reports from Manderson, Wyo., after a brief trial under the eight-hour law in Missouri, where he was "shown" that there were worse places than on the "Q."

Understand Bro. Ziegler, at Grover, failed to benefit by the recent raise. This is said to be owing to no information blanks being received from there. Hope this will be remedied next time.

Bro. R. E. Cozard, formerly agent Farnam, is now doing the car distributing act at Sterling, and some day we hope will do a trick dispatching.

Bro. Ravenscraft has quit the service, and so far has failed to send us a destination report. Hope he may land on some good thing as he deserves.

Now with our good-natured friend, Bro. Delahoyd at the key in Sterling, let us try and be prompt with our car reports, and help in every way we can to make his work lighter. There are several changes I am compelled to overlook this time, owing to the fact that I have not been given all particulars.

J. T. MADDOX.

Brookfield Division—

This division has been without a write-up for two or three months, but from this time on it will not occur again. The past few months have been strenuous ones for us. After a hard fight we secured a new schedule which gave us a fair increase, and it was placed on the positions where the responsibility was greatest, and where the most work was performed. Am sorry to say that a few of the smaller jobs received no increase, but as they are and have been paying the minimum, it is no more than right for the places where a man has to work for twelve hours should pay more than the smaller ones, where there is practically nothing to do but block trains, and copy an order or two.

The eight-hour law caused some little commotion. A few of the faithful stopped when their hours were up, but the company refused to put on the third man. So it was decided to take it up as a grievance, and is now in the hands of the general committee for adjustment.

The changes on this division come so fast that it takes two men and a boy to keep track of them, and if they are not all shown in this write-up, just lay it to the ignorance of the correspondent.

Telegrapher Clifford leaves Brookfield to accept Chillicothe, days, Turner having accepted the position as ticket agent at that place.

L. R. Howe, who has been working extra days at Chillicothe, has taken back the night job, while J. H. Peck returns to his regular job at Macon, nights.

Telegrapher Edsall got Laclede nights on the bulletin.

W. Q. Gresham, agent Mooresville, was off several days on account of sickness and death of his father. He has the sympathy of all the Brothers.

Phillips, days at Breckenridge, laying off; Car-nahan, the night man, working days, and R. R. Story an extra man working nights.

E. B. McCulloch is now working for Rock Island at Muscatine, Iowa. The only way, for a corporation as well as a private concern, to keep good employes is to treat them right.

A. E. Young is off for 30 days visiting home folks in Canada.

A. B. Roof taking a three weeks' vacation to visit the Jamestown Exposition. C. W. McIntosh the night man relieving him. N. J. Miller working nights. Mc. is going to take his vacation in the West as soon as Roof gets back.

The "ham factory" of world-wide reputation is just now out of biz., account "boss" being sick.

McCoy, at Callao nights, is taking his vacation, but cannot learn who is relieving him.

Thos. O'Neill is laying off, L. W. O'Neill relieving him, and T. R. Crandall working nights.

Some of the boys are holding back on their dues; for what reason I do not know, but if they ever expect to reach the eight-hour day and $75 minimum, they must stay in line. We cannot be held responsible for the companies of the State ignoring the law, and if the authorities will not see that its laws are enforced, then to be in line is the best place.

Let us be men and do our work well, as long as we work, and show that we are obeying the law as well as the schedule, even if they are not. A statement was made not long ago by an official that the O. R. T. men were not as loyal to the company's interests as were the nons, but he could not bear out the statement.

I wish to impress it upon the minds of the Order men of this system that the eyes of the officials are forever upon us, watching to get something by which they can back up this statement. Let us be very careful and do our work so it cannot be said that the nons are ahead of us. Cor.

La Crosse Division—

I notice in the last month's journal that the Quincy branch is waking up, and having meetings. Now that's business. This will without a doubt tend to liven the boys up, and do more good than can be readily imagined. This certainly would be a good idea to put in effect all over the system, like the other lines. If they can have meetings there is absolutely no reason why we can't. Now get busy and talk this matter over with your neighbor.

I have read numerous articles in THE TELEGRAPHER about the proposed $75 minimum. Get busy and lay away a little of that pay check each month, for we may find use for a little ready cash about March 4, 1908. There's nothing like being prepared.

As I am an "old" head in the business, would like to put some of the Brothers next to one thing in regard to sending in items from their divisions. It is this, be sure and show what road you are from.

When a telegrapher asks favors, be sure and take a look at his card.

Yours truly spent Saturday and Sunday in Rock Island. Saw some of the boys, but missed H. W. K., as he was visiting in Albany. Telegrapher Frank Seward, 17th Street, Rock Island, is now a good Brother, and wears the thousand mile uniform. And still they come.

Bro. Ned Brodt, of Savanna, days, was a visitor in Dubuque not long since.

Bro. Riese holding the fort at Cassville, days, once more. He has been working nights for some time on account of being short-handed.

The washout at Victory, which was three miles long, and eighteen feet deep, made the boys hum some handling the work extras and other miscellaneous tribulations.

It is hoped that some of the Brothers will come across with some notes next month.

Local Chairman H. Miller has been on a two weeks' vacation calling on all the boys on the north end, and certainly had a good time. Also showed some where they were wrong. The north end will be solid before this appears in print.

Bro. Miller was relieved by Bro. M. J. Duffy, who in turn relieves Mr. Milto, of Hager, for two weeks.

Bro. J. R. Garber has been promoted to Agency at East Winona.

Mr. T. Lally, doing the miscellaneous nights, will be with us before long.

Bro. A. Scholmeier has returned from East Winona nights to Fountain City nights. It must be great to be in the same station with our Local Chairman.

Bro. Tom Artery night mogul. Alma is off for a month's vacation. Last heard of him he was headed for Seattle, Wash.

Mr. "Bud" Paul, relay man in La Crosse dispatcher's office, is off for a month's vacation.

Bro. C. E. Dodge has been working the day job at North Yard, St. Paul.

Mr. F. Desmond, from Galena, is doing the necessary nights at Cochrane, and has promised to line up soon. This is Mr. Desmond's first job.

The general condition of the north end is good, with the exception of two agents having students. They must certainly need the money. It seems the late schedule did not bring these fellows enough.

Now every one get a "move on." I'm not writing this merely to see how it will look in print, but would like to see you get down to business and line your neighbor up. If you're not lined up, why do so at once. Your Local Chairman is without a doubt doing his full part, and there's no reason why all of us shouldn't do our very best. Don't sit back and think, oh, we have a local chairman to look after these matters, but boost.

All together boost.

HIGHPOCKETS.

Aurora & Chicago Division—

It is an exceedingly difficult task to get the boys to send notes. Have written several of the Brothers, but get no answer. Maybe they are too busy, but they ought not to be, as they haven't those switch lights to take care of any more. They can use those extra minutes in sending notes for THE TELEGRAPHER. Get busy and get after that non working at the next station. We will not expect as much from you as Bro. Ranger accomplished last month. He was out doing a little evangelistic work, and converted eight nons, who all have up-to-date cards now. See if some of the rest of the Brothers can't get a few, and try and make the Aurora and Chicago divisions solid.

Mr. G. W. Davis relieved Bro. Todd a few days last month. He is now working at Rochelle, nights.

Ex-Bro. Hull, of Mendota, days, has been transferred to Aurora relay office. Mr. Wisley took his place at Mendota.

We hear there is to be quite a change in the next few days.

Bro. Nuckley, of Plano, days, goes to Mendota, days.

Bro. Kauffman, nights, at Plano, takes the day position left vacant by Bro. Nuckley.

Bro. Noack, of Hincley, nights, gets the night job at Plano. Don't know where Mr. Wisley goes from Mendota.

Bro. Sawyer, of Earlville tower, nights, spent the fourth at Sandwich.

Bro. Bill Dillon, of Leland, nights, visited his folks at Hillsdale over Sunday.

All the agents got busy the other day they were notified that Spl. 425 would make each of them a visit.

Bro. Stroud's house at Lemoille, was struck by lightning, but not much damage done.

Bro. Pratt, agent, at Sandwich, is a very busy man; lots doing in the factories in his town. About ten cars leave his station daily loaded with hay presses and hay loads.

Bro. Stroud and Bro. Stoneburg, of Somonauk Cabin, have been cut out of overtime for their meal hour. It has been taken up, and expect to hear from it in a few days.

Bro. Swanstrom, Kewanee Cabin, off for a short time visiting his folks. Don't know who is relieving him.

Bro. Butler, night telegrapher, Wyand, attended the wedding of his brother, Archer, at Mendota, yesterday, June 19th.

Bro. Ranger, of Sandwich, days, was visiting Bro. Todd and Bro. Sexton, June 21st.

Congratulate Bro. Todd on being appointed Local Chairman of this division.

We have heard that Bro. Todd is going to take a week off the latter part of this month.

"WD."

Aurora Division No. 130—

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Almighty Father to remove from our midst our worthy Brother, John H. Elliott, an esteemed member of Aurora Division 130; and,

WHEREAS, It is proper that we should give expression to the profound sense of bereavement that we entertain; therefore, be it—

Resolved, That Aurora Division, No. 130. O. R. T., in death of Bro. Elliott, has lost a devoted and worthy member.

Resolved, That in respect to his memory the fraternity extend to his widow and mother our heartfelt sympathy; also that a copy of these resolutions be entered upon the minutes of Aurora Division 130, published in THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER, and a copy of same be sent to the widow and mother of our deceased Brother.

E. F. TODD,

Local Chairman.

Sheridan Division—

T. Sharpe, formerly dispatcher on the Alliance division, now working the first trick East End.

Bro. C. F. Redman, Alger to Lodge Grass.

Bro. C. B. Chester at Deitz nights.

Bro. Patterson, at Dewey, has resigned, and has gone to Canada.

I "13" a Mr. Forbes, nights, at Dewey.

Fifteen new members in the month of June. Never had an idea there was that many nons on this division.

We have the honor of having more sister telegraphers on the "SA" division than on any other division on "Q" system.

Everyone who belongs to any other system than the C. B. & Q. should advise their Local Chairman certificate and division number, so he can have him transferred to Division No. 130.

Bro. J. H. Vacek, cashier at Gillette, spent Sunday, July 6th, with Bro. R. P. Ross and family.

Bro. Barnes, telegrapher at Frannie, gave up his position, and left for the East, July 2d. Relieved by extra agent A. E. Engstrom.

Understand Agent Donald, of Lovell, has resigned. Will be relieved by extra agent A. E. Engstrom. Hope some good brother will be appointed to hold this position in this Mormon city.

Bro. W. A. Parsons has returned from his leave of absence, and is at his old stand at Frannie.

Bro. E. E. Law, of Basin, has resigned and gone into business there. Bro. R. P. Ross, former agent at Crow agency, relieved him, with Sister Zada Norton, of Garland, as cashier, relieving former cashier C. D. Schenk, who now is enjoying mountain scenery.

Bro. Victor Mason has been enjoying a visit from his father.

Bro. C. W. Graham has recovered from his sickness, and is back at his old post at Manderson.

Bro. Vacek, cashier Gillette, is away on a well-earned vacation, visiting in Missouri.

The glorious Fourth has passed, and most every one has recuperated from the "jollification."

Bro. Kesinger and wife, and Sister Shaughnessy, of Rozet, and Bro. Hazlett, of Moorcroft, were Fourth of July visitors at Gillette.

Bro. Lempke relieved Bro. Vacek as cashier at Gillette.

A train set fire to the depot at Dewey and burned it down. I "13" they have the office in a store near the tracks.

Telegrapher Forbes, from Newcastle, nights, to Dewey as agent.

I understand Sister Thompson, Upton days, has left us, but not aware of the reasons.

Jone, from Arvada, nights now at Upton.

I have been told that there are some Brothers along the line who are teaching students. Now this business will not go on this division, and if it is a fact, as reported, charges will be preferred at once. Don't think that this will be countenanced, unless authority is received in the regular manner as prescribed by our constitution.

I want to make another appeal to the members on the Sheridan division in regard to meetings. Will you please drop Bro. Meehan a line or two expressing your views on the matter, and suggestions you can make as to times and place most suitable for meetings. It will help all to attend who can get away. I think we ought to be able to meet at least once a month. Now get busy; it will only cost you two cents and about five minutes time.

Those extra dollars "looked good to us" when we received our June check. I am sure all appreciated it, and we will hope for more the next time.

Mr. Ralph Maris is cashier at Newcastle, with Bro. Smith, former cashier, at the key nights. Mr. Maris is not a telegrapher.

Bro. Byerly, days, at Wyola, has resigned and accepted a position in Helena, Mont., with Bro. Hunter, former manager of Sheridan Western Union office. Div. Cor.

West End Aurora Division

Just because this end of the Aurora Division has never before been represented in these columns, you must not get the idea that we are all dead ones along here. The new schedule woke them all up, and a non will soon be a scarce article in this territory. At most all stations, the increase secured will pay for a card in one or two months; therefore, excuses for not coming in are rather hard to find. We want a membership of at least 95 per cent by the first of the year, and the indications at present are very favorable.

Mr. Ericson, of Center Point, days, has left the service. Position is now held by Bro. Cleary.

Mr. Arthur Ely, who has been holding the night job at Center Point, has also left the service. Relieved by Bro. Van Alstine.

E. O. Swanstrom, of Wataga, nights, is wearing the smile that won't come off, also the official emblem, having received his card some time ago.

Bro. Hedberg transferred from Galva tower nights to Galva Station nights. Mr. C. W. Piper is the new man at the tower.

Bro. E. N. Swanstrom, of Kewanee Cabin nights, has just returned from a vacation of several weeks, part of which was spent in Colorado and the West. Bro. Chas. Saling, late of the Ottumwa Division, relieved him.

Mr. C. E. Dove, late with the C. I. & S., is the new man at Kewanee station nights.

There are still a few men (?) left on this division who have been accepting benefits secured by the O. R. T., but have steadily refused to contribute in any way towards obtaining same. As peaceful arguments and inducements have no effect on them, is it not time to put the "No card, no favors" rule into effect in such a way as will convince them of the error of their ways.

If a few meetings could be arranged so that the boys could get together once in a while and talk matters over, it would be one of the best moves we could make. Galesburg would make a good meeting point. It would be handy for those on the main line from Burlington to Mendota, and for the Quincy, Peoria, Stormy and other Galesburg division branches. Aurora would make a good point for all east of Mendota. Wish a few of us could get together and see if we could not arrange to carry out some such plan. What do you think about it?

How many students are you going to take, as per recent inquiry sent out from superintendent's office? CSRT. 73.

Ashland Division—

Understand Bro. Reasoner is able to be about. Glad to hear it.

Mr. Dunham Lyons is laying off a few days, relieved by man named Johnston.

Bro. Yocum, Uehling, has been out of town but one day in the last year.

Bro. McGowan, Oakland, left service. Understand he is now located on So. Pac. in California.

It is now Bro. J. T. Karn, at Oakland.

Bro. Hubbell, Yutan, evidently struck it rich, as he is building a fine cement block house.

How do you like it since you don't have to call "NI" until your arm aches? New wire is fine. ch? It is reported that the gang will bring a W. U. wire from Sioux City to Omaha when they come back. Don't think it will hurt anybody's feelings.

Who said "students?"

"RK."

St. Joseph Division—

Following new members on this division for month of July: W. C. Elder, Albany, Mo.; M. D. Shamblyn, Bethany, Mo.; Wm. T. Walton, Blythe-dale, Mo.; Edw. D. Boyd, Curzon, Mo.; T. J. Cadagan, King City, Mo.; and W. A. Armstrong, Nodaway, Mo.

This is a record breaker for our division, and shows what may be accomplished when we work together. There has been greater interest shown in the last two or three months than we have ever had, and we must keep it up. Every member should be able to get one application during the rest of the present year, and if we would all make an effort along this line, there should be but a few nons left at the close of 1907.

Our General Secretary and Treasurer reports the members are not paying up as promptly as they should, and I hope you will all see that your remittance goes forward without any further delay. It costs no more to pay up promptly than it does to hang back and wait until the last minute. We are gaining in membership very rapidly, and if the members will keep in line, the matter of organization will soon be completed.

I hope every member reading this who has not sent his remittance to Bro. W. A. Henry, at Eric-son, Neb., will do so at once, and don't forget to remit your insurance to Bro. L. W. Quick, at St. Louis at the same time.

As announced in our last journal, we held a meeting at Forest City, Saturday evening, July 13th, but not as many present as we would liked to have seen; while the weather was anything but comfortable, we think more could have stood it if they had only tried. We have decided not to hold the next meeting until it gets cooler, and then we hope to see a full house every meeting. Notices of the next date will be mailed you in plenty time to enable you to get transportation. As the fishing season will be over then, we might add that we will assure you our worthy Secretary and Treasurer will be on hand to perform his duties.

Following are a few items we have managed to pick up as we went along:

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. York, having tired of Island Park, decided they would try their luck on the Katy.

Mr. W. E. Brown, from Nodaway nights, bid in the day job at Island Park, and Mr. G. L. Robinson is holding the night trick.

Mr. Threlkil now doing the night work at Nodaway.

We have furnished applications to Mr. Mathis, at Nishnabotna; G. L. Robinson, at Island Park; Mr. Parker, at Bartlett; and Threlkil, at Nodaway; We hope to have them fixed out by the time this is in print.

In addition to the new members mentioned above, we also transferred to this division Bro. Thos. Dehoney, of Division No. 57, who is now working nights at East Leavenworth. If any of you know of any foreign members, don't fail to report them to us at once.

Bro. J. J. Branaham, day telegrapher at Albany, has bid in and has been transferred to Kellerton, relieving Bro. D. W. Cadagan, who has accepted service with the K. C. S. Ry., at Pittsburg, Kan. Bro. Branaham was relieved by Mr. H. E. Campbell.

Mr. McBride relieved Bro. Williams, at Curzons, a few days, account sickness.

Our write-up is not a very lengthy one, as you will note, but there would have been more of it if I had received some assistance. See if you can't help out some next time.

CORRESPONDENT.

Boston Division, No. 41.

Judging from the very slim attendance at the July meeting of Division No. 41, one would say that the members are getting very careless in regard to the monthly meetings. I would not want to say they are losing interest, but simply getting careless, and even if they come to town they forget where the division rooms are, and go to the beach instead. Of course, this is an attraction on a warm summer night, but an hour spent in the division rooms once a month seems little enough. The slim attendance cannot be laid to the train service, as the service is exceptionally good on all four divisions running out of Boston up to 11.30 p. m., so they can all easily get home at a reasonable hour.

But for the past year the attendance has not been what it should, even when officers were elected there were only about 50 present, and when something in the way of an entertainment was gotten up to try and bring the members out, only about 45 put in an appearance. Now this is all wrong, dead wrong. Within a radius of 40 miles from Boston we have approximately 150 members, and the average attendance is about 20 or 25. You see the same faces all the time, and these are about equally divided between the four divisions running out of the Hub. These few members transact all the business of the division, elect and install officers, appropriate money for running expenses, pay bills, etc.; in fact, do all the work for 250 members of the division, and the others should take interest enough to see what is being done occasionally. There is nothing to prevent these few members from appropriating all the money in the treasury for a junket for themselves to the Jamestown exposition, and the other members would not know anything about it until it was all over, and the treasury empty. Some of the regular attendants put themselves out to get to the meetings. One in particular I have in mind, has to go home over a foreign road, this being one case where train service don't fit, and the only one I know of. The day men could work a few hours and let the night man come in if they don't care to come themselves. By so doing, the attendance would be increased, and there should never be less than 75 present.

Now, brothers, think this over a little, and see if things are not about as I have stated, and get busy. I don't want to start in by scolding (I might lose my job), but if this will set some members to thinking, and serve to increase the attendance, it will have served its purpose. When you come to town, come at once to division rooms.

Bro. Chase will start and hustle things right along, and at 9.15 or 9.30 the meeting will close. You will have about two hours to buy your groceries (wet and dry), and get home to the bosom of your families, if you have any, by midnight, which is not bad for once a month.

The meeting was called to order at 8.30, Chief Chase in the chair. We were all pleased to see the worthy chief in his accustomed place, and to learn that his family had passed the crisis in the long siege of sickness, and were on the road to recovery. Bro. Quilty acted as warden, looking resplendent in a brand new Panama, all ready for his vacation. Bro. Mickle brought a box of fine smokes, but it was noticed Bro. Quilty had them, box and all, shortly afterward.

Bro. Savage, from Clinton Junction, also present, smiling as ever, and ready for any argument that might come up.

Bro. Cole, of Arlington, was not present.

The principal question of the evening was that of an outing by the division at a time to be decided upon later. A committee of ten was appointed to canvass the different sections, and report at next meeting as to probable number that could be figured upon in their respective sections. We hope that at the August meeting the reports will be favorable as to numbers, so arrangements can be made for a sail down the harbor. The division has never had anything of the kind, and it would be a grand plan to get the Brothers and Sisters acquainted, and have an enjoyable time. Nothing more can be said on this now, as all depends on the reports made by the committee next meeting. Let's hope it will be a favorable one.

Among the vacancies posted are North Chelmsford, Mass., Raymond, N. H., and Grassmere, N. H., agents, and Wayland, Mass., assistant agent, all good jobs.

E. G. Robinson of East Cambridge shop, has bid in the vacancy in "GM" office. Robbie is a good O. R. T. man, and "GM" is still practically solid O. R. T.

Franklin B. Gray was the successful bidder on the new job in "AO" office.

This is all for this time, except to remind you to pay your dues to Bro. Tuck. Now is the time, and it is as easy to pay now as in a month or two. Get them in early; save him lots of writing, and make your minds easier. JAY.

The delegates of Division No. 41 take this means of thanking the commercial telegraphers of Chicago Division No. 91, and the Twin City Club, of Minneapolis, for their royal entertainments, and the many courtesies extended to them. They were indeed hospitable hosts.

We commenced to think we were somebody when on arrival at Chicago white badged men, spotting our buttons, reached for our "good right," with one hand, and our dress suit case with the other, and told us to follow them to where there was much meat and drink.

Some of our New Hampshire and other rural delegates remonstrated at this seeming familiarity, thinking it was another case of welcoming "Uncle Hiram" to the city. Others thought they were pinched. But a word from those of Boston quieted their fears, and on they marched, now proud, now doubtful, as they dodged a street car or stubbed their toe, as with head in the air, and with open-mouthed awe they stared at Chicago's high buildings. Yet withal a credit to themselves and an honor to their division, as they beat it on to headquarters.

There nothing was wanting, for here was good-fellowship, and promise of much entertainment on the morrow. And we got it. Chicago was ours. We could see its frivolous or serious side; view its commercial or artistic life. Guides were to show us all this, and they did.

We were taken to the stock yards, where they stick a pig every 15 seconds; shown her largest stores; taken to the wheat pit; led to the lake front, and permitted to gaze upon the city's elite, as they went the pace that only those of Chicago can make, go whizzing by in their autos along her most fashionable thoroughfare; and then to the madhouse: a portion of the Western Union telegraph office, where they send so fast, and do so much that telegraphers go mad. Oh, that I am nothing but an humble "OS" man.

Yet for all this fete nothing was charged. But they went further yet. A ball was given in our honor, and to those who danced (I lamented my inability to practice the art), it was indeed sipping the sweets from this overfull, joyous occasion, floating through the dizzy maize of the dance to the strains of sweetest music.

It was upon such scenes, upon such goodfellowship, Brothers of Chicago, we turned our backs, and we were loath to leave, but the stern finger of duty pointed to that great Northwestern country, where on the morrow was to be held a convention. It was the voice of O. R. T. which said "On to Minneapolis!"

We went. Through Milwaukee into the great wheat fields, on, on to the Mississippi.

And now our thoughts were not of men and their devices, but of Nature and her works. Beneath the not yet full moon the majestic sweep of the now clear waters of this mighty river beckoned us on. Projecting rocks from out of the gloom of its stony bluffs, now close to our side, stretched out weirdly towards us. But all things end, and so with our journey. Minneapolis was reached.

And now it was a hustle. All began to leg it, for we were after a desirable room at the "West." With "Tom" Pierson in the lead, and Casey a close second, we booted it up the street. The pace was a hot one. We young fellows, of course, could stand it, but oh, the old fellows! My heart even now goes out in sympathy as I think of our New York delegates, with many a shift of his suit case, and much hard puffing, trying to keep the pace. But we got there, and your hospitality, "Twin City Club," will never be forgotten, and should you come to Boston, and we pray you may, let us receive you. Your hand may be placed upon Bunker Hill monument; we will lead you to stand reverently before the graves of Emerson and Hawthorne; permit you to walk the streets trod by the illustrious John L. Sullivan, and feel the chilliness of our Boston culture.

Maine Central Railway.

This is, I think, the second or third time that the Maine Central has been able to reach THE TELEGRAPHER, but we are going to do better in the future.

New schedule in effect July 1. A few of the agents received slight increases. The new arrangement for Sunday work is a big improvement over last year's arrangement.

Agent Tripp, of Nicolin, is doing spare work on the main line.

D. Foster, from Ellsworth Falls, is acting agent at B. K.

Potter, of Passadumkeag, is holding down part of the wharf at Mt. Desert Ferry.

Maloy is relieving Agent Hobbs, at Mattawamkeag, for two weeks. Hobbs spent his two weeks' vacation at Portland.

Orono owl job closed.

Robinson, owl, Danforth, made a trip to Vanceboro recently.

Leach, owl at Kingman, reported for two weeks at Mattawamkeag.

Bro. Percy H. Williams, night telegrapher at Pittsfield, is doing relief work this summer. He relieved Bro. H. G. Adams, agent at Cumberland Junction, for two weeks, while Bro. Adams was with the General Committee, revising our schedule. He then relieved Agent Files, at Brooks, for one week, and is at present at Bowdoinham, working for Agent E. Roundy, while he takes a vacation.

Night Telegrapher Monahan, who has been working at Burnham Junction for several months, has completed his work there, and has left the employ of the Maine Central Railroad.

Bro. C. S. Harris, agent at Etna, is entering upon his busy season in the express line. Etna is the banner station for shipping green peas to the Boston market, about ten thousand bushels having been shipped last year, and Bro. Harris expects fully as many this year.

Mr. L. E. Christie is doing the night work at Etna. Understand that Mr. Christie is now one of the boys.

F. A. Clark, who has been working at Farmington, and later relieving the night man at Brunswick, is at present acting as night telegrapher at Pittsfield.

We have received notice that Unity station is up for bid. This is a good job for some one, as the express pays quite a good commission there.

Geo. H. Wedge, formerly agent at Iceboro, is doing the night work at Burnham Junction.

Bro. Crabtree is taking an extended vacation. Last heard from at Crandon, Wis.

Bro. H. A. Prouty, agent at Wytopitlock, relieved for two weeks.

Understand McKeene, So. Brewer, has resigned; also agent at So. Orrington.

We are glad to see Crane, at Bucksport, wearing a button.

A number of the boys want to take vacations, but find it impossible on account of the scarcity of telegraphers to fill places. An advance in price of this commodity would, however, solve the problem and furnish a supply of good men.

Chicago Division—

Our General Chairman, Bro. J. V. Phillips, who was a Representative to the convention at Minneapolis from Division 34, returned home about May 29, and reports an enjoyable time. After returning home he made a trip over the road and did much good for the Order by getting several new members. He also secured the transfer of several members to our division. As the company was short of men Bro. Phillips returned to work much sooner than he intended to in the first place, and did not get around to see all the boys.

Keep after the nons, Brothers, and continue to send in items and let's see if we can't have a write-up every month.

Chicago Division—

Bro. W. Mangram, agent at Pittwood, has been transferred to Woodland.

Bro. P. A. Hubble, agent at Woodland, has been transferred to Grant Park.

Bro. Eckerty, of "WA" tower, nights, has resigned and is going to the C., I. & S. Position filled by a non, who has been working extra at Goodwine as agent.

Mr. Anderson, nights at S. Thune, has resigned, and is going on a tour over the country with an independent ball team, as pitcher.

Bro. J. H. Toler, working days at Goodwine, block office. He is from the I. C.

A meeting of Division No. 34 was held at Salem, Ill., Sunday, July 14. The attendance was small on account of so many being unable to get away from their stations, but all who were there enjoyed themselves and had a good meeting.

Div. Cor.

Illinois Division—

In the past two weeks we have had several changes on the north end of the Illinois Division.

Bro. Kelley, from Sullivan, nights, to "OW" (Salem).

Mr. W. F. Shaffer, "TY" tower, nights, to Sullivan, days.

Bro. Carpenter, lately from the M. O. P., to "TY" tower, nights, carries the necessary.

Bro. O. M. Walk, from "VE" tower, days, to Sullivan, days.

Mr. W. F. Shaffer, Sullivan days, back to "TY" tower, nights.

Bro. R. H. Downs, "VE" tower, nights, takes the day trick.

Cut that student business out and get on the inside and help pay for what benefits you are getting in overtime and the raise you got some time ago. You will not only think more of yourselves, but you can honestly say that you are not living off of the hard work and money of others. After you have become members, and there is no doubt but that you will some time, you will say that you blame yourself for not going in sooner. If you wish to travel you are treated like a friend and Brother, and if you are in trouble you have friends to help and cheer you.

Do your duty in all things and when we ask for that little raise the officials can not say that we fell down and give our committee the worst end of it. Treat the company like you wish them to treat you, and then we will know where the fault lays if they refuse to give us our just dues.

MAN WANTED.

Oh, for a man who can copy an order,
Who can stay awake nights and let the trains over,
One who knows how to handle the block,
And can do the business without a balk;
Who will do his part of the work each day,
And will wait 'till the 16th to get his pay.

Oh, for a man who is not a boomer,
Who will not get drunk the first night or sooner,
Who is not always broke and without decent clothes,

And begging a hand-out wherever he goes.
The Union's all right, but he hasn't the time
To lend us a hand and drop in his dime;
For winter is coming, he thinks it a sin,
So he picks up his bundle and starts South "agin."

Oh, for a man, not a cigarette fiend,
With fingers turned brown from the nicotine;
With barely energy to answer his call;
He hasn't the strength to hit the ball.
With weakened body and thin, pale face,
He is going fast to another place.
Oh, for a man who is not a "stoodent,"
Who says he can copy "18 words per minet;"
You give him a message, he hollers "send stow."
You work half an hour, but can't make it go,
Then with capital letters you print off a line,
He breaks, sends you back to D. C., all fine.
The dispatcher then calls this man at "NJ,"
And asks, in big letters, "Is extra nth cmlg;"
He answers "OK" and thinks he is great.
Soon you hear him "I. S. exa by as twelve eight."
If you should tell him to go light his block light
He would look down the track and reply, "Not in site."

There are various freaks this "pam" will do,
But I will cut out by naming these few.
Oh, for a man who carries a card,
If you run across him send him 'round to your pard.

An up-to-date card means the same as "big stick."
If the card's countersigned by Perham and Quick
It's proof that the owner's a first-class man.
We need him right here; send him around if you can.

So boys if you want a job that is fine,
Get one of 'em cards and drop me a line,
For the only Op. that looks good to me
Has a card in the Union, the O. R. T.

CERT. 10, Div. 34.

Chicago, Cincinnati & Louisville Railway.

Everybody seems to be wide-awake on the Straight Line, and patiently waiting for the schedule to take effect.

It is very gratifying to see the interest the boys have taken, and I only hope the good work will continue.

On account of there having been so many changes made we have to keep hustling to keep the new men in line, but I am glad to say several have landed with up-to-date cards.

Bro. Younglove, who was recently Local Chairman on the south end, advised he was unable to take care of things on that end on account of sickness, so we have put Bro. W. H. Stoltz, of Economy, in, and he is proving to be the right man in the right place.

Want to ask the boys not to get discouraged because things are not as far along as they think they should be, as we have all kinds of delays and, considering circumstances, things are in good shape.

Let every member watch out for the few and scattered nons along the line and try to get the gaps closed.

Do not expect the General and Local Chairman and your Secretary and Treasurer to do it all, as they have their hands full at present.

What few nons are left have but little company any more, and they certainly have begun to feel lonesome.

Bro. Johnson, General Chairman at "SA," is hustling for all that is in it.

"13" Bro. Kaminsky has resigned and accepted a position as telegrapher in the general office at Chicago on the Wisconsin Central.

I hope to see a write-up from the south end this month representing all the boys. It is somewhat out of my jurisdiction and I have cut out on account of not being posted on the moves down that way.

Let some worthy Brother wake up down that way and keep busy each month.

C. M. M.

Central of Georgia Railway.

Savannah Division—

Had a good, jolly crowd at our June meeting, which was held at Bartow, and all who attended did not regret their trip. While the crowd was small, it showed that a few are interested in the meetings. I ran upon one Brother, who was going to a near-by town to spend the day, and asked him what was the reason he wasn't going on to the meeting, and the answer was: "I forgot to get a pass." Very poor excuse to offer, indeed.
What is the use to send out notices of meetings if the members are so forgetful. Notices are mailed out so that you can make arrangements to get off. Recently I happened to hear a certain Brother engaging a telegrapher to relieve him the Sunday before our meeting, in order that he could go down and take a plunge in the surf at Tybee. I expect it would pay the Brother to take his bath in an old-fashioned foot-tub and show a little more interest in meetings. How do we expect to know what's doing by going off on pleasure trips instead of taking some interest in our own welfare? Perhaps they think "Well, the other man will look out after that part. I needn't worry about it." If all the Brothers were of the same opinion, what do you think would be the result?

Mr. Jerome Kennedy, who, for some time has been conducting the noted telegraph school at Milledgeville, has decided there is more money in working on a scheduled road, and has come over to our line to reap the benefits secured by the Order.

Bro. D. A. Warren, from A. C. L., to one mile-post, nights. Haven't learned destination of Bro.
Lemons.

Bro. Parr relieved Bro. Armstrong at Dover, nights, who goes to Guyton as clerk and telegrapher. Bro. Parr only at Dover until regular man is assigned.

Bro. Trapnell, Metter, off a few days this month attending court at Statesboro; relieved by Mr. Jerome Kennedy of Davisboro.

Mr. G. B. Dawson, at Statesboro, days, relieving Sister Horne, who, understand, is taking in several cities of interest, among which is New York, Philadelphia, Jamestown, etc.

Bro. H. B. Meyers, back with us to stay, at his old hang-out, Dover, nights. He has moved his family this time. He relieved Bro. Parr, who goes to Wadley, nights, relieving a Mr. Herring-ton.

Bro. J. H. Burke, of Midville, days, made a flying trip to attend court at Stillmore during this month.

Bro. C. G. Rogers assigned the Stillmore agency, relieving Bro. W. P. Dozier, who goes to the M., D. & S. at same place.

Mr. O. W. Horne, agent at Statesboro, off on vacation; relieved by Miss Lillie Olliff and Mr. Haines.

Bro. G. B. Shearhouse, Gordon, days, has done the right thing. Glad he has seen the importance of coming in at last.

Looks like Mr. Fennell, at Millen, would also be generous and come across. He has made enough out of the increase since April to pay his dues in the Order for several years.

Seems Southwestern, Chattanooga and Savannah Divisions are the only ones having news, as never hear from Cols and Macon Divisions. Looks like some of the good Brothers could let the sister divisions see if they are still on the map. Millen agency open for bids.

Bro. Myers sent to Millen nights until regular man can be secured.

CERT. 3.

Mobile & Ohio Railway.

To start the ball rolling I will send in a write-up for the St. Louis Division. This division, no doubt, has been represented in THE TELEGRAPHER lately, and some of its members will, no doubt, be surprised, if not all of them, when a few words from this line appear.

We should appoint a division correspondent and have him, with our assistance, send in items each month, as no doubt all of us would enjoy reading them.

Our first and present schedule went into effect April 1, 1907. It might not please all of us, but we can not always have things like we want them from the beginning. It won't be long before we are working shorter hours, which means more rest and enjoyment. We are very nearly solid now, having only four or five nons. I think two of these will line up soon. If every member would induce some non to join it would not be long before we would be near 100 per cent. When an eligible non comes to your station, or if you hear of any near you, do not wait for the others to find it out, but get busy and see if you can not secure him. You will be doing the Order a good turn and will also put yourself in line for one of the prizes.

You owls who work the midnight hour, don't forget your overtime slips. Some of the boys along the line have been doing some sleeping. Better cut it out, we have a good set of dispatchers and we ought to try and do them a favor by keeping awake. They work under a great disadvantage when the boys along the line lay down on them.

On account of the scarcity of telegraph operators two students have been pressed into the service lately. These men should be lined up when eligible.

Bro. W. B. McMurtrie will take thirty days' leave the 1st of August. Understand he will spend his vacation in Colorado. We all wish him a pleasant time.

This is my first attempt at a write-up, and not securing any items I believe some of the older members can do better.

H. B.

L., V. & T. Railway.

Perhaps the first letter from this important little road was sent in for publication last month. Let us see that we are represented in THE TELEGRAPHER every month, as no doubt the items are read with interest.

Recent changes on this road have made the membership almost one hundred per cent solid, but as there are so few telegraphers employed a chartered system division is far in the misty future. Our more fortunate brothers on the S. P. L. A. & S. L. have launched a healthy division, and their future is bright. Nons are so scarce they all seem to be trucking freight or building telegraph line.

Construction work is being carried on rapidly west of Beatty and it is confidently expected that the road will be finished to Goldfield by September 15th.

M. C. Kidder, formerly with the Salt Lake route as telegrapher, has been appointed as express agent Rhyolite. Congratulations.

H. G. Foster, of the telegraph department, is off on an extended vacation at the seashore.

G. F. Knight, former agent at Rhyolite, has been recently appointed general agent for the Goldfield District, with headquarters at Goldfield.

A. F. Dean, former cashier at Rhyolite, succeeds Mr. Knight.

J. F. Williams has been appointed cashier vice Mr. Dean.

E. H. Shafer, telegrapher at Amargosa, is off on an extended trip to his former home in Wyoming. Mr. and Mrs. Shafer are well known and popular young people, and we hope to see them return.

C. H. Smith, agent at Amargosa, has recently returned from a vacation in Salt Lake City.

L. M. Miller, formerly on the Salt Lake route, is relieving H. G. Foster at "RY."

The dispatcher's force at Las Vegas has recently been increased and W. N. Hickman, formerly wire chief at that point for the Salt Lake, has been appointed second trick dispatcher. W. N. H. is well known and a thorough railroad man. We extend the hand of welcome.

There is only one non-member to be found on this road.

LOCAL COA.

Vandalla Railway.Middle Division—

There was no write-up in last month's TELEGRAPHER from the Middle or West Divisions, but it seems like the east end man can find plenty of news each month. I don't think we have any regular correspondent over here, if so he is laying off during the hot months.

Bro. J. L. Brown, Jewett days, has been spending his vacation on the Michigan lakes.

Telegrapher Clark has returned to Casey.

Bro. W. A. Smith, Vevy Park days, has been off on his vacation; returned this week. Bro. Watts resumed nights. Telegrapher Stansbury returned to headquarters.

Bro. Eves McKeen, days, was at Terre Haute last week. Bro. Benson relieved him.

Bro. W. P. Hiner, Schayer days, visited Indianapolis, returning Monday.

We regret to lose Bro. H. C. Whitener, extra agent and telegrapher. He has accepted a position as agent for the Frisco at Commerce, Mo.

Our chief, Mr. Hallinin, made a few flying trips over the division this month. Seems to be in good spirits.

How about the nons? Seems like it is still "next pay day" with them. Keep after them. We stand at a good per cent and let us keep it up to a high standard.

I "13" that a Brother on this division has forgotten the obligation he took when joining our Order and is teaching students. We should look after this and either induce him to cease teaching or proceed in the matter as provided in the Constitution.

Bro. Andersen, Farrington, days, is off for awhile. Bro. Fuller, from Liggett, days, is relieving him.

"13" Bro. Wilson, Smithboro, has been appointed as Temporary Local Chairman on account of Bro. Armstrong leaving the service and resigning.

Telegrapher Clark, from Oak Leaf, has been called to Harmony to work nights for awhile.

Bro. Booker, Montrose days, is off on vacation, Telegrapher Clark working nights.

Have a talk with your agent and get him to come and help us, if he does not already hold a card.

CERT. 105.

East Sub-Division of St. Louis Division—

The nons are getting harder to find every day. New interlock towers have been built at "SF," Indianapolis: "BD," Ben Davis, and "KV," Knightsville, and we understand from good authority one is also to be built at "SV," Seelyville, some time in the near future. All will have from thirty-two to forty-five levers, taking the places of the former block towers, and are expected to be in operation 'ere the snow flies.

Boys, get busy and help get out a good write-up each month from the east end by sending in your notes with reference to changes, etc., to the division correspondent. I am satisfied all of you like to see some news each month in THE TELEGRAPHER from this end of the Van, and it is pretty hard to keep track of the changes in from twenty-five to twenty-six day and night offices between Terre Haute and Indianapolis. Even if only five or six contribute it helps to get out a write-up that is of general interest to all.

We are glad, indeed, to refer to the day man at "HN," Harmony, as Bro. J. T. Colburn.

Bro. Y. Alexander, of "WA," Watson, days, has been off for a short time; relieved by Bro. C. A. Wilson, the night man; Bro. Wilson being relieved by Extra Telegrapher Mr. F. I. Stanberry, of Casey, who promises to become one of us as soon as he has worked the required length of time.

Bro. H. L. Hearn, of "KV," Knightsville, nights, is spending thirty days with relatives in Illinois; relieved by Extra Telegrapher Mr. H. S. Miller. It is our understanding that Mr. Miller has his application in.

Bro. D. R. Ransburg, of "GA," Eagles, days, is visiting at his home in Illinois, and will visit the Jamestown Exposition before returning to work. Bro. J. T. Hill, night man, relieved Bro. Ransburg; Bro. O. O. Scanlon doing the night stunt at Eagles.

Bro. W. A. Vaughn, of "NE," Greencastle, days, laying off, being relieved by Mr. B. H. Byrd. Bro. Woodard, of "NE," nights, off, relieved by Bro. F. A. Goodwin.

Bro. C. N. Jones, of "KV," Knightsville, days, was relieved for a few days by Bro. G. T. Beaver, of St. Elmo. Bro. Jones is spending a few days at Murphysboro, Ill.

Mr. A. Leachman, agent at "KN," Knightsville, visited relatives at Greencastle the other Sunday.

Bro. Kelly, late of the Southern Pacific, has been visiting at Harmony and Knightsville.

Relief Agent Mr. C. O. Morgan, of Jewett, has been working at "AM," Amo, relieving Bro. C. C. Orrell.

Wonder what's wrong with the west end? We failed to see any write-up in the June TELEGRAPHER from there, but the middle division was represented.

Bro. G. Stevens, of "GN," Greencastle, days, was off for a couple of days; relieved by Bro. O. O. Scanlon, of Terre Haute.

Four more nons joined the ranks since last writing. Keep the good work going, boys, and we will soon be solid.

We sincerely hope that every Brother by this time has his semi-annual dues paid up and his assessments also until December 31, and the necessary pasteboard in his possession.

A great deal of construction work is being done on this end of the Van this summer. From six to eight work trains have been in service all the season double tracking, laying tracks for yards, etc.

We notice a good many sending machines being tried by the boys along the line. Second Trick Dispatcher Craver is using one altogether on account of his arm having given out.

Mr. E. E. Pasley, of "KR," Terre Haute, days, was off for a day or two; relieved by Bro. H. C.

Barnes, the night man. Bro. Barnes was relieved by Bro. F. A. Goodwin.

Bro. J. W. McCullogh bid in the night job at "HN," Harmony, relieving Bro. I. S. Hixon, who goes to "MD," Alameda, nights.

Bro. H. L. Sears is back shaking hands with old friends on the Vandalia. Bro. Sears now holds a good position with the Michigan Central.

Bro. F. A. Goodwin, who left the Van some time ago to enter the service of the Ohio Oil Company, is back with us we are pleased to state.

Bro. D. F. Wilson, of "BR," Brazil, nights, off two or three nights on account of sickness; relieved by Bro. C. A. Wilson, of "WA," Watson, nights.

Extra Telegrapher Mr. B. H. Byrd, who has been doing the extra work at "NE," Greencastle, has gone to the west end to work nights at "GV," Greenville, Ill.

Mr. O. R. Ball, extra telegrapher, who relieved Mr. H. S. Miller at "KV," Knightsville, nights, has returned to his home at Montrose. Mr. Ball has in his application. CERT. 152.

Union Pacific Railway.

Eastern District, Nebraska Division—

Bro. A. B. Cady, agent Benton, off on a trip to the West; relieved by Bro. D. D. Lawton, from Valparaiso.

Bro. C. A. Gardiner, agent Cortland, called to his home account sickness of his father.

Bro. F. A. Roach, agent Brainard, just returned from leave of absence.

Bro. J. E. McDaniel, agent Polk, Neb., has left the service to go in business at Polk. We wish Bro. McDaniel success.

Bro. W. O. Clark is relieving agent F. H. Lenz, who is in the East attending the Jamestown Exposition.

Bro. W. O. Howland, of Central City, is taking an extended trip; it is reported he is on his honeymoon; details are lacking. The boys on the division join in extending the happy couple a long, prosperous and happy life.

Bro. M. J. Walker, from C. & N. W. 76, new arrival at Duncan, is of the right material and welcomed by all the boys.

Bro. W. Hainquest, new man at Valparaiso, hails from the Erie.

Bro. J. A. Ownby relieving at Silver Creek in place of Bro. F. C. Shumaker, who is enjoying a leave of absence.

Bro. Roy Dooley landed Valley nights on bulletin.

A very important change is about to be made in the position of general agent at Columbus. Bro. E. G. Brown, from Humphrey, has been appointed to the honored position in place of W. H. Benham, who has been promoted to traveling freight agent, with headquarters at Columbus.

Bro. W. C. Henigan, of Columbus, is anxiously awaiting relief in order he may take his long planned trip to the East.

Bro. J. D. Henderson is a new arrival at Columbus.

Bro. J. L. Stuart acting as relief agent at Ames in place of Bro. F. C. Terry, who, we are sorry to report, is on the sick list.

Bro. W. W. Ladd is the successful applicant to North Bend station.

Bro. M. M. Kerr, agent Elkhorn, just returned from an extended trip in the West, and also took in the Fitzsimmons-Johnson fight, and says it lasted too quick to suit him. CERT. 155.

Wyoming Division, Western District—

Bro. T. F. Tighe has returned from his vacation.

Bro. L. E. Klien, nights at Dana, has returned from his vacation in New York; reports a good time.

Bros. Brakley and Klien, of Dana, were homeless a couple of days last week, their depot having burned at that point. They are now happily located in one of those noted outfit cars.

Bro. Chas. Hansen, we understand, has left his old berth at Walcott and gone with the new line out of that place, somewhere around Saratoga or Encampment. A new man on the road relieved him, Mr. Chism. Glad to note he has come up with the necessary, and we can prefix brother to his name ere this goes to print.

Some new men along the line do not seem to want to transfer to our division. Some of the excuses set forth are amusing and at the same time quite exasperating.

We hope to have "something doing" some time in the near future in the nature of a raised wage scale and general betterment of conditions.

Bro. Grimshaw wrote us a few days ago advising us that he has left the telegraph service and is engaged in the real estate, loan and insurance business in Walla Walla, Washington. Success to him.

Bro. Crandall Riner, days, transferred to Nebraska Division near Ogallala; unable to learn exact location.

Bro. Gilbert transferred Latham days to Roscoe days, he having been assigned that job on bulletin.

Bro. S. F. Anderson, Creston nights, from some Eastern road.

Bro. Tipton, we are pleased to note, has returned from his vacation in old Missouri and accepted Latham days on bulletin.

We have a non at Latham nights, Mr. E. H. Smith, a medical student from the Omaha Medical College; says he don't care to join our ranks because he is going back to school shortly. We note, however, that he did care to come out where we are well organized and reap the benefits of our organization instead of engaging with some Eastern road, whose schedule is not up to ours.

We wish to thank Bro. S. A. Prentice for the way he came over with his foreign division card and transferred to Six. This is the right spirit to manifest. If some of the others, new men on the road but old O. R. T. men, holding cards in foreign divisions, would follow the brother's lead it would greatly enhance our financial standing and save our local chairman a great many letters. Remember, brothers, the chairman's job does not pay a salary for his services, and anything that you can do to further our interests and lessen his work will be duly appreciated.

Bro. F. C. Ablard was the lucky applicant for the agency at Superior, transfer being made July 22d.

Retiring agent called to Green River. Unable to learn his fate at present writing.

Bro. Burch reports that Mr. Long, Tipton nights, and Mr. Snyder, Wamsutter, promise to come in this pay-day.

New man at Bitter Creek, Mr. Duffy, having relieved Bro. Ablard. Mr. Duffy is an old-time member of our fraternity, but owing to reverses is not up-to-date. We trust he will do the right thing pay-day.

Bro. E. T. Taylor transferred Blairtown nights to Riner nights.

Bro. Littlemill, from the C. & E. I., relieving Bro. Taylor at Blairtown. The interlocking plant has been put in service at this point, and it takes a good man, physically as well as a good telegrapher, to operate the plant. That's where Bro. Burkart's 200 pounds stands him in good stead.

Bro. Prentice transferred Riner nights to Green River nights.

Sister Cummings, of Black Buttes, spending her vacation in Colorado.

Bro. Crigler transferred Point of Rocks nights to Thayer Jct. nights.

When the committee calls on you for a line-up of the duties exacted of you from the railroad company, please be prompt and explicit in answering, as this information is what the committee places their demands for an increased salary and working conditions on. They represent the membership in so far as we give them the necessary data to work on, so when this information is called for let us be prompt and explicit in answering.

Bro. Leahy was called to Minneapolis account the death of his brother of pneumonia. We all tender our sympathy to the brother in his late bereavement.

Bro. Leahy was relieved by Mr. Cron, night telegrapher, who has since left the service.

Bro. Crandall relieving Mr. Cron, who was in turn relieved by Bro. Allen, who has also left the telegraph service and has gone breaking on this district.

Bro. Allen relieved by Bro. Prentice, who has since transferred to Green River; relieved by Bro. Taylor.

We were advised recently that there was a branch office of the Janesville "ham factory" on the Sixth District. Although we are short of telegraphers we can not jeopardize our own positions by manufacturing men to fill our places, and would suggest that the professor take the necessary steps with President Perham to legalize his actions.

Would request that you all make a note of any news items and send them to Bro. Burch, Foster or Yantiss at any time during the month. This will insure at least a feeble write-up in next issue.

CERT. 410.

Wyoming Division, Eastern District—

Bro. Dearborn is back at North Platte "NO" office. Bro. R. C. Young resigned and is going East. New man there by name of Johnson; am unable to say where from. Rest of force same as last month.

Birdwood was closed for a few weeks, but reopened a few days ago, with Bro. F. L. Murphy days and Bro. M. J. Harrington nights. Bro. Harrington is from B. R. & P. in Pennsylvania. Bro. Murphy says he stands "first out" for the work train telegrapher when operation commences on North Platte Valley branch again, which will be very soon, and the reports are that the officials expect to have a mixed train running as far as Lewellyn within the next thirty days.

Bro. Howard, days and Bro. Bane nights at Hershey.

Bro. Hostetter, at Sutherland days. Bro. Stout transferred to Julesburg nights and Bro. Ellis, from Chicago, who has been working extra at Ogallala nights, comes to Sutherland nights, and Bro. J. Milton, from the Rock Island, goes to Ogallala nights.

Bro. P. C. Spencer bid in agency at Paxton and was relieved at Ogallala days by Bro. J. B. Reynolds, from Big Springs nights.

Bro. Roy Deffenbaugh, nights at Paxton, has resigned. We are sorry to see him go, as he has been a faithful employe and a good worker.

Bro. E. E. Kitchen, days and Bro. F. Davis, from the Wabash, nights at Roscoe.

Bro. R. D. Chamberlain, formerly nights at Ogallala, has resigned and we understand intends to go East.

Bro. Seibert, days at Brule, and Bro. W. Z. Hall (instead of Hamm, as reported in error in July issue) nights, Bro. Holst having resigned and went back to Chicago. Bro. Pat Maloney, who worked at Roscoe days, resigned and went to Chicago.

Bro. Gilley, from N. & W. in Virginia nights, at Big Springs.

Bro. C. W. Simons, who has been days at Julesburg for some time, bid in agency at Chappel, and at the time of this writing is just going there to commence work. Bros. Stout and Burris and Mr. Kreinbing are doing the work at Julesburg by doubling.

Understand Bro. C. F. Wheeler, who has been working as agent at Chappel, will commence nights there and Mr. Gray, the persistent non, will go to Julesburg when Bro. Simons commences at Chappel days.

Bro. Carey days and Bro. Halstead nights at Logge Pole.

Bro. Black days at Colton and Bro. Best, a new-comer, nights.

Understand Bro. G. D. Adams, at Sidney, is going to Cheyenne "N" office.

Mr. Ridge, former agent Chappel, resigned to go into business for himself. Hope he will learn to run a "union shop," as he never believed that way in his railroad career.

Arrangements are being made to prepare a new schedule or revise our old one, and every member should support it with all of his power, as now is the time to gain our point if we ever do. Make the poor old Pacific Express pay us for our work. They are practically the only company that does not pay commissions on prepaid received, and the night telegraphers who handle their cans of cream and are responsible for the safety of all kinds of valuables, should have some compensation for it. What do we receive? Nothing, absolutely nothing. We are not performing any duties of the railroad company; the officials of the railroad deny that they have anything to do with the express company so far as paying for the work is concerned, so why do we do their work gratis? Because it has been the custom in the past and we are like the slave that does not realize that he could as well throw off the yoke as to serve as he does.

What would the express company do if we refused to handle their shipments? They can not possibly get an "up-town" agent to meet these late trains and run the business on a paying basis, but they can pay us something, say three to five per cent, and then if we had to pay for a breakage, as we may at any time, wouldn't you feel more like they were entitled to the damage?

Few telegraphers, I dare say, ever give this a thought and go on doing all this work for nothing, not even thanks. We might as well be getting pay for it, as they can not do without us, and the railroad company will not back them up in refusing to pay us. Another thing, we are allowed only two passes a year while every signal maintainer has an annual pass over the division, and they do not have any more use for it than you or I. We must either get something of the kind or cut out the limit to passes, as two passes a year is not enough. If you happen to live in a small town and most all these in this country are small, your wife will need to go to some larger place to do her shopping once in awhile, then you must dig up the coin and turn it loose to the company while they would be giving every stock shipper, newspaper man or anybody else all the passes they could use if only the law would allow it.

Such work as this is driving telegraphers away from this road faster than the superintendent of telegraph can hire them, and will always be that way under such conditions. To ask for a schedule providing transportation whenever asked for would be a very slight favor to ask of the management, and would be a great favor to us. CERT. 616.

Kansas Division, Eastern District—

Sister M. I. Nixon bid in "FY" office, Kansas City.

Bro. C. C. Edgar, Muncie, was compelled to take his baby boy to Lawrence in order to be near a doctor. Bro. C. M. Owens, formerly of this division but now holding down a warm job on the K. C. S., relieved Bro. Edgar.

Bro. C. A. Smith, Loring, was furnished another helper during the potato rush.

Mr. Phillip Pearson, who worked at Linwood long enough to touch the office, was given eight months on the rock pile in Kansas City. During the trial the fact was brought out that he had skipped several board bills, been arrested for burglary and had been at one time confined in a lunatic asylum. If you will dig deep enough you will usually find a reason when a man is shy a card.

Mr. McIntosh, agent Tonganoxie, resigned his position and will engage in business at Garnett, Kans.

Mr. Wm. Dunaway and Mr. Lunger, Rossville and Emmett, are the two new brothers this month, and to Bros. Alexander and Davis belong the credit. If a few more would follow their example we would soon have those four who are still hanging back.

Bro. H. W. Batchelor bid in managership at Manhattan. Bro. Leger extra nights.

Bro. B. W. Doyle, who left us last month to try the Santa Fe, is home again, relieving Bro. Hughey at Junction City.

Mr. H. M. Gemeny, day telegrapher Ft. Riley, bid in west end relief.

Bro. Cornwell, Blue Rapids days, transferred from M. P. 31 to 6.

Bro. C. R. Allen, of Burlington 130, who in company with his brother, has been spending his vacation in the Kansas wheat fields getting a thick coat of tan and two or three freckles, stopped off at Linwood to try his hand at picking "spuds."

Bro. Denison, of Detroit, one of the workers, furnishes the write-up from the west end this month.

Several of the brothers remembered the Katy in routing their spuds. Fine business, boys; always remember your friends.

Only four telegraphers and two exclusive agents left on the outside: McKee, Hooen, Folsome and Morrel. Everybody pull now; let's get solid.

"HO."

Kansas Division, Western District—

R. H. Tilton; Wilson, now holds an up-to-date card.

G. W. Husted bid in the agency at Natoma; understand Mr. Husted has been furnished the necessary blanks and will soon be one of us.

Bro. Price has returned to his regular position as night telegrapher Chapman.

Bro. S. H. Paul, from "F1" office, Kansas City, has been checked in as agent Abilene. Glad to see good O. R. T. men file in these responsible positions.

Bro. G. C. Gregory and wife are at present taking a vacation. Understand they are going to Chicago and from there East; expect to be gone several weeks.

Telegrapher Redford, of Lindsborg, has returned from a month's vacation. He has been visiting his folks back in old Missouri.

Bro. W. V. Neighbors has been assigned the position of night telegrapher and clerk at Salina. Bro. Neighbors has been off last couple months account sickness, his last regular position being agent at Natoma.

Mr. Arnold, from nights Chapman to days Plainville.

Being a new man on this district, I was unable to dig up much news. It looks bad to see this district without a write-up every month. Why should we not have it? We must have it, we will have it. It is very hard for one person to get the news from all over the district, and in order for us to have an intelligent write-up we must have assistance. Anyone on this district can furnish at least one or two items; if no more than this, why let's have them and be represented every month. Boys, let us all push the work of organization along. This is the only way in which we will ever gain anything. We are gaining ground every day, and now is the time to help ourselves.

It is only a short time until we will be reaping the benefit of our National Nine-hour Law, in which thousands of our brothers will be benefited by this decrease in the working hours. I hear some of the boys say that the company will cut our salaries when this law goes into effect. This is the wrong idea to get into your pate, brother. We will not stand for anything like that. I for one, and I feel sure there are ninety-nine per cent of the boys all over the land who would be ready to walk out just at the first hint of anything of this nature.

On the Eastern District there are four non-telegraphers and two agents. On this district there are too many. Look to your neighbor or may be it's your working partner. Is he up-to-date? Find out who they are and what's the matter. Try a little individual effort on your part. Waste a postage stamp, if necessary; it will come back to you a thousand fold. Get in the game with both feet and let's get solid.

"Q."

Santa Fe Railway.

This heading may startle some readers, but there is no cause for alarm. They can not "fire" us all at one time for writing this letter.

The situation on the Santa Fe should be of interest to all, East and West, members or nons. Here is a road that has waged an incessant battle against the O. R. T. for years, even dismissing their most valued and expert employes in the telegraph department to keep the road stocked with non-members. It is a useless battle, well known to most of us, as the majority of the telegraphers west of Kansas belong to the O. R. T.

To those in the East, who do not know what desperate methods this road used to secure men, they have but to read any big eastern newspapers and they will find an ad. for telegraphers, saying there is no labor trouble, free passes given, regular positions, etc. If they are acceptable they will be passed from almost any point in the United States to Needles, Cal., or west of there, and used to displace some O. R. T. man.

As 9 out of 10 men hired are already O. R. T. men, it is only a question of thirty days till a new-comer displaces him, too, and so the ball keeps rolling. I met a man this morning who was dismissed without reason, and refused a pass even out of the town in California, where he had been working.

Now, men, before coming West to get those good jobs advertised, stop and consider whether $80 on the desert in a batching job is any better than you can get right at home. Eastern roads pay well now, and many Western telegraphers are leaving for east of the Mississippi, where one can get something to eat besides canned goods. If you belong to the O. R. T. or have ever belonged to it, your job on the Santa Fe is not worth coming after.

66.

Baltimore & Ohio Railway.

River District—Pittsburg Division—

Our July meeting in Pittsburg was quite a disappointing affair, owing to the fact that neither our General or Local Chairman (both of whom were in the city during the day), could be present. General Chairman, Bro. Van Atta had an important engagement in Youngstown, while unexpected developments on the "Pike" made it necessary for Chairman Bro. Will Carr to return to West Alexander without delay.

Acting Chairman Bro. O. B. Handy, from Wheeling Junction, opened the meeting with apologies for the non-appearance of the regular Chairman. With the postponement of all business for August meeting, the boys proceeded to make the most of the situation, and while much disappointment was expressed because of Chairman Carr's absence, it seems that the meeting was, socially, a "howling" success after all.

Brothers present as follows:

I. F. Zimmerman, From Layton tower.

Chas. Faupel, from Layton.

W. C. Safford, from Ellrod tower.

E. M. Brown, from Versailles.

Chas. Paul, relief, from Versailles.

C. A. Capehart, from Dennison.

O. B. Handy.

G. D. O'Connor, and

S. C. Downin, from Wheeling Junction.

Eugene Murray, from Hazelwood.

W. H. Carruthers, from Rand.

J. T. Williams, from Downieville.

E. E. Evans, copier, from "GX" Pgh.

We regret very much, especially account of those who came so far, the disappointment occasioned by inevitable happenings.

Quite a number of nons on the "River" yet, though mostly new comers. Of the regular men, our percentage is good. Several additions promised for the coming month. Conditions have at last reached a stage where the non has practically no excuse.

Bro. Johnny Burrows, of Marion Junction, spending a well-deserved vacation in the far West, relieved by Bro. W. G. Fitzgibbons, of Hazelwood.

Bro. R. F. Shugert, from N. & W., at Hazelwood nights.

Bro. J. Yeager, Jr., of Wheeling Junction, working second trick, Laughlin Junction, temporarily. Relieved by Bro. G. D. O'Connor, extra, from dispatcher's office, Parkersburg.

Bro. Jas. McDonald, of Wheeling Junction, off few days, visiting relatives in Dawson, Pa., relieved by Bro. S. C. Downin, extra.

Bro. G. W. Dickenson, of Wheeling Junction, off few nights, account death of his father. Bro. Dickenson has our sympathy in this sad bereavement. Mr. Darling filling his place nights.

Bro. E. E. Evans, of Bruceton, promoted to dispatcher's copier, Pgh.

Demler, days, made vacant by Bro. Wm. Tompkins leaving the service, bid in by Bro. B. Willings, from Hickman Run. Good men, it will be noticed, keep moving right along up, in turn, to the best places.

Bro. S. S. McCullough, from C. & O., assigned to Robbins, days.

Miss Grace Reilly, of Banning, days, is one of the true blue. She should come out to the meetings.

Bro. and Mrs. Harry W. Mason have returned from their extended wedding trip, and the old familiar "MN" may again be heard from "DS," Pittsburg relay office. The Brothers all join in hearty congratulations.

Remember the meeting, third Saturday night each month, Hotel Wilson, No. 10 Smithfield Street, Pittsburg. JACK LEE.

Newark Division—

Yielding to a general clamor for the representation of the Newark division in THE TELEGRAPHER, I have essayed the role of scribe, pro tem. There is no dearth of fraternal news in this region, where the non flourisheth not, and the zeal of the proselytist is not abated, but my facilities for news-gathering are not as complete as are those of the Associated Press, or the average village sewing circle, and you will, therefore, pardon me, Brothers and Sisters, if I omit any important items concerning you or your friends.

L. E. White, agent and telegrapher at Sundale, is enjoying a vacation among friends in Minnesota.

E. F. McCullough, who has rendered several years of faithful and efficient service to the B. & O., has accepted an eight-hour position with the Pennsy.

J. W. McConnell, a former B. & O. relief telegrapher, is now located at Carnegie, in an eight-hour position.

L. A. Bowman, has re-entered the service of the B. & O. after an absence of six years. He is at present employed as relief agent and telegrapher at Sundale.

Our new division operator, Mr. Kimball, evinces unusual but commendable interest in the personal affairs of his subordinates. When a telegrapher requests relief on account of sickness, he gets relief promptly—and a visit from his chief.

C. J. Feik has returned from the Santa Fe and resumed duty at Lore City. He was absent on a furlough. He prefers the Buckeye State to the wild and woolly West.

Miss Ellen Becker, whose health required a change of vocation, obtained a furlough, and embarked in mercantile pursuits a few months ago, but she has disposed of her business interests, and resumed her duties as agent and telegrapher at Lowell.

W. F. Crawmer, our genial lineman and loyal Brother, has obtained a furlough, and entered the service of an electric light plant at Newark, Ohio. As he has removed his family and household effects from Cambridge, we presume we shall never again enjoy an opportunity to fill his tool-bag with coupling pins and ballast.

Symptoms of an early uprising among the Cambridge braves are manifest. The "big four" are solemnly deliberating over the offer of eight-hour jobs and better salaries by the Pensy, and unless the B. & O. soon becomes infected with the eight-hour microbe, our force in general will likely be reduced to hams and has-beens.

A. G. Youst, the well-known and popular "pelican" of Kickapoo Lake, has returned from California, whither he went a few months ago, on account of ill-health. He is much improved in health, and has resumed his duties at Glover Gap, W. Va. Brother Youst was formerly a member of the general committee, and he has a host of friends who will rejoice to know that he is again in business at the old stand.

George Colvin, after an absence of twelve years from the B. & O. fold, has returned to the key, and is studying the intricacies of the block system at Sundale.

Mr. J. P. Decker, regular night telegrapher at Sundale, has deserted the key, and is now wielding the punch as a train auditor on the Wheeling division.

O. M. Varner, of Coal Dale, and Earl Starret, of "BZ," Zanesville, are exulting over the four days' relief which they both received last month.

J. H. Gallagher, of "QN," Zanesville, is enjoying a well-earned vacation, while relief telegrapher C. E. Schultz is working the eight-hour trick in his place.

"Dad" Rimer is back with us once more after one of his periodical trips "down East."

Wm. Linton and wife, of Salesville, spent the Fourth at Cambridge with relatives.

S. H. Haight, dispatcher on East End, has resumed duty after spending his vacation in Penna.

R. R. Perry, night owl at Mineral Siding, is on the sick list.

Mr. Glidden, from Bailey's Mill, is working nights at Mineral Siding, during absence of Bro. Perry.

Each telegrapher is requested to become "reporter," and send news to the correspondent, so that we can have the Newark division represented in the journal every month. CERT. 248.

Cleveland Division—

Not that I feel myself well qualified for this position, but because I do not want to see the matter lapse into nothing, I send the journal another communication, with the kind assistance of Bro. Blank and Bro. Darland, who, it seems, are the only Brothers who realize that news cannot be gathered and compiled by one man for the whole Cleveland division.

Each Brother should arrange in the future to send Bro. G. H. McCoy, Local Chairman, 92 Wooster Street, Massillon, Ohio, items of interest for our write-up before the 20th of each month. No matter if it is only one little item, think how much that would amount to if each would take an interest in this matter and follow it up, or even if a dozen or so would do this each time what a help it would be.

Not many attended the meeting at Massillon, Friday night, the 19th. The weather was not very favorable for one thing, and train No. 15 on the C. L. & W. was late, account of some trouble on the line. We were looking for quite a delegation from that end of the line, which would probably have been the case had it not been for the circumstances at that time.

Watch for the next meeting, and be on hand, and we will make up for this. We were glad to see the face of Bro. Harris, Sandyville, at the meeting. Bro. Blank was unable to attend, account of being on duty until the arrival of No. 15.

We should have a large attendance at our next meeting, as there will be matters of very great importance to be discussed.

Do not fail to be on hand when you get your notice. You cannot expect to better your condition without making some effort. You ought to be willing to make a big effort when it is to benefit yourselves. Look into this matter deeper than you have been in the habit of doing. Do not think that it is only the matter of going to Massillon, and that you might get wet or be very tired before you get home. Do it for the cause—for yourselves and the O. R. T. in general. We will look for you there next time.

Telegrapher Schott, from East Akron, is working nights at "CS," Cleveland.

Telegrapher Jackson working days on through wire, Cleveland.

Henry Brown, student at East Akron, now holding down place left vacant by Schott.

Bro. Darland working C. L. & W. local wire at Cleveland office.

Bro. Blythe copying on C. L. & W., East End. Relieved at Cleveland by Bro. Darland, having held No. 51 side wire for two years. Well deserves the promotion.

Bro. Booker working second trick dispatching on the Valley side. Bro. Blythe taking his place on C. L.

We find a new man at Lorain nights. Understand that he carries a card, but unable to give his name.

Bro. Reed Lucas, clerk to night chief, promoted to night copier East End, C. L. & W. Bro. Shafer, "ND" tower, days, relieving him for a few days. Shafer says he did not like the clerk's work, and now you will find him back at "ND" tower.

Telegrapher Hill taking Mr. Bigelow's place, while Bigelow, car distributor is off on vacation. Understand he goes to Newburg as soon as Bigelow comes back.

Bro. McCoy bid in Bridge 80 days.

Solid O. R. T. is the yell from now on. No card, no favors. Therefore, if you are not an O.

R. T. man, do not go asking favors until you get a card, then "GA."

Bro. Chas. Richards, formerly first trick dispatcher, Valley side, promoted to relief dispatcher, new office just created.

Bro. Griffiths promoted from second trick to first, and Bro. Booker to ad trick. Bro. Tritsch still holding down third trick. Bro. Griffith been off the road for number of years. Understand he was proprietor of a grocery store in Akron, but could not leave the railroad alone, coming back to a better position than when he left us. At the time of his resignation prior to going into business for himself, he was third trick dispatcher here, coming back to second, and now is first, and is well able to "hold 'er down."

Telegrapher Luke took a few days' vacation.

Night Chief, "CS," Cleveland, took a few days' vacation, being relieved by Bro. Shafer.

Relief dispatcher Bro. Richards working third trick West End C. L. & W.

Telegrapher Ellett now holding down agency at Brecksville.

Bro. Boyer, Krumroy, sick, and Telegrapher Lampe, clerk from Aultman, taking his place for the present.

Bro. Lengs, North Industry, off on vacation for few weeks. Taking in the Jamestown Exposition and other Eastern places of interest. N. Baul, clerk from Mineral City, taking his place.

Bro. Davis resigned here, account of being troubled with catarrh to such an extent that his hearing was affected, making it difficult to hear the instruments. He has not decided definitely what he will take up, but we hope he will not be out of the profession very long.

This makes Bro. McCoy a better position than where he was located (Columbus), at it is nearer to his home.

Bro. Landis, from nights at Columbia, days, and Bro. Baumgardner, from Bridge 80 nights, to Columbia nights.

J. D. Lee, new man on the line, takes "KN" tower nights.

Bro. Goodrich is one of the very few fortunate to get relief. He was off 15 days doing Chicago, and visiting relatives.

We understand that Mr. Heaton, our division operator, has several extra men at the present time, and can let the boys off for summer vacation. We hope this is not a dream.

Bro. E. Rastus Ott, former clerk and telegrapher, freight and ticket office, Massillon, left the service, accepting a clerical position with the Rep. Iron and Steel Co., that city. We are sorry to see him leave us, but congratulate him on the good position he succeeded in getting.

Bro. J. W. Powell, from the A. C. L. Ry., relieves Bro. Ott.

Bro. Hilyer, Freeport, nights, taking short vacation. Being relieved by Bro. Betton. Bro. Betton goes to Beach City nights regular as soon as Bro. Hilyer resumes duty.

Bro. Marlow, Aultman, on the sick list. Unable to do duty account of straining his back.

His son, Harry, holding down the job in the meantime.

Mr. Mong is now holding down the Canton Yard office, left vacant by Bro. Darland's promotion to "CS" (Cleveland) office.

How many studied the circular issued by Bro. Perham short time ago? Hope that you did not neglect to answer the questions thereon. This is an important matter, and should be attended to.

Do not simply glance at it and put it to one side and never think of it again. Let it soak in to a proper depth.

Study up your pass words and other credentials of the Order, so that you may be able to respond to a challenge from any Brother you chance to meet. It is surprising how many are slack on this score.

Do not forget to send your journal to some non along the line as soon as you are through with it, marking the impressive points with a blue pencil.

Bro. George, Freeport, days, has just returned from a trip to Jamestown, Baltimore and Washington, and reports a fine time visiting the Exposition, the B. & O. general offices at Baltimore, and various places of interest at our capital.

Bro. Battin relieved Bro. George during his absence.

Bro. Harris, Sandyville, spent the Fourth at Tippecanoe. Bro. St.

Newcastle Division—

The eight-hour position advertised in June bulletin were canceled in July. It seems there was a slip in the machinery that runs the railroad. We surely need eight-hour positions, and that before long, or we are going to lose some of our best men. Many of them have set August 1st as their time of leaving unless there are prospects of improvement along the line of shorter hours. The Penna. Co. is paying more money for eight hours than the B. & O. for twelve, and it is not a very long jump to the Penna.

We are glad to learn that the dispatchers on the system are gradually coming into the fold. We hope to call the dispatchers at Newcastle Brothers in the near future.

Show the company that it is not necessary for the dispatchers to hold a big stick over the telegraphers, but that a little fraternal courtesy will do much more good, but do not get the impression that because the dispatchers are members of the same Order that you are that you can impose on them; they are there to do their work, and we must help them.

There was a joint meeting of Erie, L. S. & M. S., P. & L. E., and B. & O. system divisions in Finn's Hall, Youngstown, evening of July 20th, with a good attendance from all roads but the B. & O. Members living in Youngstown and vicinity failed to attend, Bros. Strohm, Davis and Shriver being the only ones there from near Youngstown. Bro. Hunter came up from West Pittsburgh, and Bro. Lanning from Pittsburg division. It being an open meeting, Mr. Atkinson, from P. Y. & A. attended.

The object of the meeting was to devise plans for obtaining the eight-hour day and increased wages, which we need so much. All General Chairmen from above roads were present, and the subject was ably discussed, but if you wish to know what was decided upon, come to meetings and find out; you cannot expect a General Committee to get these sugar plums for you unless you lend them your support, and the best place to tell what you want is at the meeting. There will likely be a joint meeting called in Akron in the near future, and we hope to see a better showing from the B. & O. Of course it was impossible for the telegraphers west of Akron to attend the Youngstown meeting. These Brothers have been very faithful in attending meetings, and this criticism does not apply to them.

Bro. Browning, of Middlefield, is asking for a few sets of application papers. Hope he has big game treed. Bro. B. appreciates not having to work Sundays since the office has been opened at Summit.

Miss Vera Hammon is now doing most of the wire work at West Farmington, days.

Understand Mr. Cassell is working days at State Road, while Bro. Clewell is taking a lay-off.

It is reported that Bro. Childs, at Warren, is to have an addition to his depot, which is badly needed.

Bro. Frank Lawrence, from dispatcher's office, Newcastle, is taking a fifteen days' vacation, visiting his mother at Burton. Also expects to visit Chicago, Cedar Point, and other places of interest before returning to duty.

Bro. Robinson, N. C. Junc., is taking a three weeks' lay-off fishing in Canada, which accounts for his absence from meeting the 20th.

Bro. Mike Ryan has left the service to work for the Standard Oil Co. Mr. Post, formerly agent at Newton Falls, now doing the billing at Warren. Bro. Smith going from Lowellville to Newton Falls.

Relief agent Mr. Young at Lowellville.

Block relief telegrapher Bro. McFall having left the service, Mr. McCarty, from "FS" tower, is doing relief work at present.

We hope to see every member up-to-date the coming pay-day. It costs no more one time than another. You should not risk the chance of being suspended in the M. B. D. for non-payment of assessments. You must be up-to-date with both dues and assessments to make your insurance good.

We will have to skip the division west of Akron, as no items have been furnished this month. Send your items to the Local Chairman, who will see that the correspondent gets them.

UNCLE TOM.

All Members O. R. T., Wheeling Division—

I wish to thank the Brothers of Wheeling Division through the columns of our journal for their loyal support and assistance in upbuilding the membership of Wheeling Division during my term of office. While I feel that I was not able to do much for you while acting as your Local Chairman, yet I appreciate the confidence placed in me, and trust you do not consider it wholly misplaced.

And as I lay aside the robe of office, and assume the garb of a lay member, I do so feeling that I have done my best to conduct a fair and impartial administration, and have served the members of Wheeling Division to the best of my ability.

We have during the past year made great strides towards the 100 per cent mark, yet there is much for us to do, and I trust that willing hands to do will not be found wanting. Let each individual member put his shoulder to the wheel, and assist our worthy Local Chairman to push Wheeling Division to the front. Get after each non-member, talk to him in a brotherly way, strive to show him the error of his way, and endeavor to persuade him to cast his lot with us in our fight for right and justice against wrong and oppression. Advise your L. C. of any new arrivals, be they friend or foe, and when possible attend the division meetings, thereby encouraging our L. C. in his efforts in our behalf.

Again thanking you for your loyal support, and wishing you great success, and trusting that you will give to my successor the same loyal support that was tendered me, I remain,

Yours fraternally,

CHAS. E. MILLER,

Ex. L. C.

All Members O. R. T., Wheeling Division—

Having been elected to the position of Local Chairman for the Wheeling Division, to fill the unexpired term of Bro. Miller, resigned, I take this method of thanking you for the confidence reposed in me by electing me to this position.

My supply of lemons were exhausted when I retired from this office over a year ago, account ill-health, and hope that the lemon tree has been killed out by the onslaught of O. R. T. bugs, during the past year, and that nothing but the choicest of fruit will be produced from our fields in the future. With your co-operation, I hope to make Wheeling Division the banner division on the system.

Don't fail to give me the tip when a non shows up, or when a Brother from another division comes along; be sure to give me his name and address, same as you would a non. By doing this we can keep posted, and work to a much better advantage.

Again thanking you, and soliciting your further co-operation, I am,

Yours fraternally,

A. G. YOUNG,

L. C.

Chicago Division—East End.

Regular meeting held in Redmen's Hall, Defiance, Ohio, Friday evening, July 19th, attendance very small, account of some of the boys not getting there in time, also account rain preventing the boys from the west driving in.

The Brothers should order their passes early, say about a week before meeting night.

Bro. Weaver (Peggy), of Cromwell, Ind., is taking a much-needed rest, being relieved by Bro. Durk.

Bro. W. D. Walters, formerly a trick man for the Nickel Plate, at Fort Wayne, is copying extra days at Garrett dispatcher's office, and Bro. C. J. Coughlin copying nights.

Dispatchers B. E. Shultz and J. Ansbro are taking their annual vacations, Mr. Shultz going to Denver, Colorado Springs, and several other Western points, Mr. Ansbro going to St. Paul.

Mr. J. L. Gandt is working nights at Chicago Junction with Bro. R. A. Mason.

Bro. C. S. Shoults is doing the day stunt at North Baltimore during the absence of Bro. Minard, who is enjoying his honeymoon.

Bro. Shuman, at Holgate, is off duty, account of being sick. Relieved by Bro. Magill, regular night man, Magill being relieved by Bro. P. M. Geer.

Telegrapher Alwine working nights at Deshler. Understand he has promised several of the boys to get in line, but nothing doing yet. He has no good reasons to offer for not joining, and we would like to see him make a move soon.

Bro. Stafford, at Galatea, off account of being sick. Relieved by Bro. Spencer. Unable to say who is working nights.

Dispatcher G. P. Chew, first trick East End, took unto himself a wife during his vacation. Congratulations.

Bro. J. J. Fleck, who has been working third trick for the C. N. Ry., at Van Wert, Ohio, for the past eight months, has again returned to the B. & O. He is working nights at Chicago "GS" office.

There have been several changes made on the division in the past month, which we are unable to give correct account of, therefore will omit them at this writing. We would like to have the boys send your humble correspondent all the notes of this character, and anything else of importance, and not rely upon him to find out everything that is going on. There have been several births and marriages, which we would be glad to make note of in the columns of the journal, if they will only be reported so we can get them. If the boys will assist in sending notes to the correspondent, there will be no reason why this division can not have a nice little write-up each month. CRR. 882.

CConnellsville Division—

Bro. "Jack" Kuhn made a flying trip to Jamestown for a few days' recreation.

Bro. and Mrs. Ellis, Garrett, days, visiting at the former's parents for two weeks. Bro. Baxter, of Division 33, relieving.

Bro. Eiholtz, Smithfield, nights, spent a month "down on the farm" with his parents, near Bedford, Pa. Mrs. Eiholtz accompanied him.

Bro. Underwood, Green Junction, nights, just returned from two weeks' visit to his relatives in Ohio.

Bro. Enold is no longer heard at Mt. Braddock. "Wabash" said it was too fast to be confined to the "Sheepskin Division," and he is now very contentedly settled at Greene Junction, days.

A knight of the dark lamp and jimmy is not credited with much business ability or judgment when he tackles a telegrapher's domicile for plunder purposes, but the one who paid Bro. Gates, of Somerset, a midnight call, didn't fare so badly—$54 in cash and a diamond ring was what he reaped.

A Brother recently remarked to the writer that he was unable to understand why the Lodge treasury should be short. When it is shown that this particular Brother has paid exactly 25 cents into the treasurer's hands in the past seven or eight months, and that this is just 25 cents more than a great number of Brothers have contributed in the past year, it is not so difficult to see why the treasury is somewhat depleted.

Bro. Charles Show, agent's office Confluence, off for couple weeks' vacation. Bro. Cunningham, Confluence tower nights, relieving.

Bro. Prince, Brook days, off account sickness. Bro. Dion, from Division No. 64, relieving him.

Bro. Nabors, formerly of Mt. Braddock, nights, is now a member of a prosperous house painting firm, with headquarters at Uniontown, Pa.

Bro. Burns, formerly with the Western Maryland, is a new face located at Mt. Braddock, days, temporarily.

An error was made in last month's write-up in calling Mr. Sherrick a Brother. This gentleman is and has been for the past four months working a side wire position in "DC," Connellsville, which was increased in salary to the extent of $7.50 by our last agreement, but as yet he has been unable to get enough of this increase together to secure a card.

We are certainly pleased to see and hear Bro. C. M. Stone back at Everson once more.

DIV. COR.

Philadelphia Division—

Another month has gone and still no meetings on the Philadelphia or Baltimore Divisions of the B. & O., and none reported in June TELEGRAPHER from Maryland or West Virginia, and according to Cert. 806, meetings on the C. & N. division are an unheard of thing.

The question now is, how long will this last. Last April it was decided by the telegraphers of Maryland that their Legislative Committee should be continued. It was this committee (then composed of but two Brothers, Sullivan and Dr. Le Bastian), that had such strenuous times in the last three years trying to get an eight-hour law passed in Maryland. They overcame opposition on all sides, from within and without, and finally succeeded. They have been the target for all sorts of attacks ever since, but they have come out of it all with clean records, and a law beneficial to the telegraphers of Maryland, and starting from this, eight-hour laws have spread all over this country, and even a National law (the nine-hour law), passed by Congress.

As time goes on, and it becomes more generally known what this first legislative committee had to contend with, and the extreme hard work they had to do, being threatened in different ways, all sorts of traps being laid for them to walk into, and accused of things calculated to injure their character by friends of the railroads, the telegraphers everywhere will hasten to honor them more and more. But it must first become known what they actually did, and the opposition overcome, and the history of it will reveal it all. The telegraphers of Maryland decided to have this committee reappointed. So by the time this appears in print, it is likely this committee will be a reality, as a meeting is called for this purpose in Balto, July 30, 1907.

In addition to this committee it will try an experiment, and that is to have an attorney to the board. Bro. Hartman has been nominated for this position, and a more able Brother could not be found in this part of the country. It is hoped that a similar committee will be formed in each State in this country, and they will look out for all bills beneficial to telegraphers in their respective States. Don't put too much dependence in National laws. They are all right, of course, but it is far easier for the railroads to knock out one law than to knock out this same law in 45 States. We must have an eight-hour law on the statute books of every State, and also laws regulating relief days. This should be started at once. It is wonderful to see the agitation among the telegraphers of the country over this eight-hour law, and it shows they have made up their minds at last that eight hours is a day's work.

There seems to be a scarcity of telegraphers almost everywhere, but that saying should now be changed to "The low wages for telegraphers is driving them to other callings."

CERT. 421.

C. & N. Division—

I must congratulate Cert. 806 on his effort in the July TELEGRAPHER, and would like for him to come again. I certainly like to see these write-ups from our own division, as it makes one feel he has a Brother at his elbow who means business. I heartily coincide with our Brother in his suggestion as to having meetings. It certainly is a shame we do not have them more frequently. In the way of a suggestion, how would it suit if it could be arranged for us to have a meeting every month at some intermediate point on each of the Ohio divisions, and our Asst. Local Chairman preside, and extend a cordial invitation to all of the members to attend.

We certainly could get personally acquainted. That in itself might be worth the while of our trying it once anyway. Then, say every three months, hold a general meeting at Newark, and every Brother from the various divisions attend. This is merely a suggestion. Let's see how the balance of the Brothers feel about this. You may say to yourself, "I can't write." Now, Brother, I cannot, either, but am willing to make the effort. Is there not another willing to do as much? There certainly must be. We have plenty of talent on this division, if you would but only exercise it. Now, what is being done towards organization of the non-members here? Are you Brothers all laying back waiting on the other fellow to do this important work? If you are, shame on you. It looks to me like this, "Many can help one, where one cannot help many." Would you be so unkind and so unbrotherly to impose all of this work on our Assistant Local Chairman? I for one say No! Most emphatically, No!

Now, how many of you are with me to make the C. & N. Division the banner division of 33? Arouse yourselves, and say it must be done, and I for one am going to do my best to assist our Brother Assistant Local Chairman to bring these results about. They say "Nothing succeeds like success." Now, Brothers, put your shoulder to the wheel, and let's make a success of it. I have no doubt this can be done if all do their duty.

Let us have a word from every Brother along this line of thought. It might be the ideas I have advanced could be carried out, if it's demonstrated that it would be practicable.

Advise your Assistant Local Chairman, and get his views on this subject, and let us have a clear understanding in this matter. I wonder if all of you have the new password and card, showing you are in good standing to January 1, 1908. If not, get in line at once. Do not allow your policy to lapse. There is too much at stake for that.

CERT. 813.

Monongahela Division—

Several changes have been made in the past few weeks.

A new division operator, Mr. M. F. Greene, has taken Mr. P. Judge's place, and Mr. Judge is the new chief train dispatcher. Mr. Greene is an old-time telegrapher, having run trains in Grafton for a good many years. We wish them success.

A good many new arrivals on this end of the division in the last month or so. Am unable to furnish names, but hear they are all up-to-date.

Mr. M. E. Price and wife are going to start to Jamestown about the 16th for a vacation. Wish them a pleasant journey.

Mr. Atkins, working days at Glen Falls. Don't know whether he is up-to-date or not, but expect to call on him and find out.

Bro. McDowell working nights, Chieftain, relieving Bro. Whitman, who resigned to accept a position with the C. & O. R. R.

Bro. R. V. Smith, working Jayenn, days, relieving Bro. Bettis.

Mr. Hammond working nights at Jayenn, relieving Bro. Farlow, who has gone home to visit his mother. He is accompanied by his Bro. Harry, who has been working at Hacker's Junction.

Mr. Arnett has resumed duty at Monongah. after a short vacation. Learn he went to Point Marion, Pa., on a fishing trip in his motor boat.

Mr. Law is working nights at Gypsy, relieving Bro. Waters, who has resigned. We don't know where Mike went, or what he is doing, but wish him success.

Bro. M. E. Price is holding down Fairmont Passenger Station at present. Bro. Price was formerly from the Balto. Division.

Bro. Fuqua, train dispatcher, Fairmont, expects to take his vacation about the 16th. He will visit his mother at Fork Union, Va., and also his Brother at Richmond, Va. He will be relieved by Bro. Willey, from Gaston Junction.

CERT. 1198.

Norfolk & Western Railway.

Radford Division—

Again we were all very much disappointed at not finding something in our July journal from at least one of the divisions of the N. & W.; presume it was due to the same old cause, "one waiting on the other," and with the usual result, nothing from any one on one of the best-organized roads in the country. What is everybody's business is nobody's business, but it is to be hoped that this will not be the conditions long. Some provision should be made so that we would have something every month. It should be some one's business to see that this is done, and show the Brothers on other roads that we are still alive and very much so. We have a fine lot of O. R. T. boys on the N. & W. This is clearly shown by the very few accidents of a serious nature occurring on our road. We are all very proud of the record the N. & W. has made for safe and rapid travel, and this is something that is getting to be very much considered by any one contemplating a trip of any kind. What route will be the safest? is always the question asked, and any Brother on foreign lines can always advise them to go via the N. & W. to avoid accidents caused by careless and indifferent telegraphers or trainmen. We feel that in a great measure this is due to an efficient and up-to-date telegraph department. If you will show me a railroad where the officials prefer experienced Order men to scabs and boys in the telegraph department, treat them fairly and pay them living wages, I will show you a road that has very few accidents and has the confidence of the traveling public. We are not boasting, but we simply want the men on other roads to know that we are proud of our agreement, and of the splendid men who are officials of our line, who at all times are willing to live up to the agreement we have, which is so different from a great many roads, where the lower officials seem to take a great delight in trying to pick some kind of a flaw, or find some way whereby they can get around some of the laws our general managers agree that we shall abide by. On account of our good agreement and the way we are treated by our superior officers we have been able to draw the good men from almost all the roads with which we connect, and while other lines have been crying "telegraphers scarce," and having a great deal of trouble inducing good men to accept positions with them, we almost always have plenty of good men for such positions as are vacant from time to time. Still we would not have our general managers think for one moment that we are satisfied with our present conditions and salaries. We are (as I have already said) very proud of our agreement and the advancement we have made, but we have just begun to advance to the position we should occupy among railroad employees.

Every man who is competent to block a train and worthy of such great responsibility, carrying in his hands the lives of all trainmen and the traveling public, should not receive less than $100 per month for the responsibility he carries, and be relieved after eight hours of such work. This would be a reasonable salary for block men and all other positions should be paid accordingly. We are a professional class and doing a kind of work where brains and efficiency are mostly required, as compared with other kinds of railroad work, then why should the salary paid for such work not be in proportion? Unless present indications are very misleading, it will not be long before our men will learn that they no longer have to work out their existence in this life for their board and clothes, which has been the case with some of us, and even with the most prosperous times our country has ever experienced very few are paid enough to enable them to save a little for the rainy day, which surely will come.

In my judgment there is only two things necessary to our advancement, supported by thorough organization on every railroad. The first and most important (if one can be of more importance than the other) is to give to our company first-class service in every respect, answer your dispatcher the first time he calls you, be on the lookout to save your company money in every way, see positively that you do nothing that will involve in any kind of law suits or invite claims of any kind, also see that the trains are not unnecessarily delayed at your stations. When a passenger train blows for your station get your passengers out and at the place for boarding trains so that they can be taken off and on quickly. This is a very important matter and I am sorry to see something that our men do not look after as they should, especially some of the night men. Nothing speaks better for a railroad than for its trains to be on time, and if the men in our department will take a little more interest I feel sure a vast improvement can be made, and that our officials will be glad to express their appreciation in a very substantial way when we call on them again.

The other question that is of so great importance to our advancement is the "ever present" student. I do not think it necessary to take up space with this question, as all of you know that the law of supply and demand governs prices of everything, and as long as you keep a surplus of "supply" wages will be offered accordingly. There is at present no scarcity of telegraphers, but there is a scarcity of good men who will telegraph at the salaries offered.

We are very sorry that the bond applications recently sent you by the Southern Express Co., were unsatisfactory to some of the Brothers. In my opinion, this arrangement for bond will be a great improvement over our former bond company, and we should only be to glad to make the change. We have in the past had some trouble in making adjustments of questions of bond for our men, and these misunderstandings are very hard to have properly and speedily arranged with the present bond company, but since the express company has arranged to bond us we have our bond company at home, and where we can get a conference in regard to such matters and undoubtedly get much more satisfactory adjustments of any matters that might come up. However, it is our hope that there will be nothing to adjust and that bond with the express company will be entirely satisfactory to the membership.

All who missed the Bluefield meeting missed a treat. We had a splendid crowd and a very enthusiastic meeting, many new faces among those present, which, of course, was very encouraging. Some of the Brothers, and especially those working eight-hour tricks, have failed to show their appreciation of what the Order has accomplished for them. Every one working first trick on an eight-hour job could have gone to the Roanoke and Bluefields meetings, and you are certainly not doing your duty when you do not attend. It is your duty to go and should be a pleasure. We find the greatest trouble in getting the men started. After they go once or twice they become interested to a greater extent, and are always present. This division made a decided improvement in attendance at Bluefield, and we hope to break the record at Crewe in September. We are very anxious to have a big crowd from Radford at Crewe and all who can possibly make the arrangement are requested to attend. We can go east on trains 14 and 18, and return on 15 and 29, which will only keep us away from our work from 16 to 18 hours. Please do not overlook this and make special effort to go.

The General Committee was called to Roanoke on July 21 to meet the management in connection with Bro. Steel's case. Have not heard the results of their conference.

Bro. S. H. Smith, of Bristol, has been spending his vacation at Price, N. C., and Martinsville, Va.

Bros. Rector, of Chilhowie, Va., and Humphreys, of Rural Retreat, have been spending their vacations at White Top. Understand they also took in the Jamestown Exposition before resuming duty. Presume they overlooked the fact that there was a meeting held at Bluefield. Apologies are in order.

The non list on our last minutes looked as if it was about ready to butcher. Now, Brothers, let's apply that wonderful "individual effort" to this list and see if we can't get rid of all who are desirable. There are a few scabs on this list that we do not want, and do not need to run our "biz." I am sure if these fellows who are on this list would just stand back and take a look at the crowd they are with they would pull out.

You can't afford to be published in this gang. Think about it and see if you don't agree with me.

We regret to learn that some of the Brothers are so slow in sending in dues; this is very important. Brothers, we need the money, that's all there is to it. It takes money to run this organization, just the same as it does to run any other kind of business, and the more ready cash we have the more successful our business will be run. Now you know this as well as anyone else, so just send your dues in.

Now, you fellows who are about to be dropped on account of non-payment of dues, I want to advise you not to let this thing happen to you.

The organization needs your help, needs your money and membership and on the other hand you need the organization. You can't afford to be without the protection it gives.

You can't plead poverty this time, that old thing has played out. If you have to give an excuse don't give that; give a new one, and surely you can not be so void of appreciation as to take the benefits without assisting in the maintenance of our organization; in fact, to be right plain, there is only one way for you to act honorably about the thing, that is to pay your money and get all you can from it. So come across without the General Chairman having to write to you for your dues.

Another set of dispatchers were put on at Roanoke, July 10, which was very badly needed to keep the traffic moving. This will give several of our worthy Brothers well-merited advancement. Some of the road men will also have an opportunity of getting into the dispatcher's office without working through all of the tricks. Have not heard who bid the jobs in.

Very few changes on the division. All the boys are working regular and holding onto their old positions.

I want to again call your attention to the importance of coming out to the meetings, and let it be known what you want next time. It will not be long before our committee will go in and unless you make known just what you want you may be overlooked. The meetings will grow in interest from now until the General Committee convenes, and if you only come once you can not be induced to stay away. CRR. 177.

Scioto Division—

I hardly know whether we are entitled to space, as we have been silent so many months.

I hoped and looked carefully each month for something from the Scioto Division, but all in vain.

We are very much pleased with the new superintendent, Mr. E. A. Blake. We know the Shenandoah boys hated to see him leave there. Let's get busy and show him we can do the work in a satisfactory manner.

We are also glad to know of Mr. Johnson's promotion.

There was a rumor that we were to lose Mr. Davis as our chief. Of course we would like to see him promoted, but are glad he is still with us, as we do not believe it would be an easy thing to get a man to fill that position just like he does.

Would like to give you a line-up of the boys, but they move about so much it would be a matter of impossibility to do such a thing, for when you go home at night you don't know who is going to ask you for "B 37" next morning.

Anyway, they are all true blue. Every man right up-to-date.

So, Brothers, when you read the "non" list and see the name of a man on there that has been telegraphing as long as one year, unless it's an error in print, that man is not the right kind of stuff and does not belong because we don't want him and won't take him.

Bro. S. E. Klien was reported on this list, an error which has been corrected.

If you tell us there are any students on the Scioto Division we will say that we are from Missouri.

But we have plenty of good telegraphers on this division engaged in other business who, as soon as the hours are made short and the rate of pay put at a living scale, will be glad to return to railroad service, as we all have a longing for the key.

I hope some good Brother will take it upon himself to keep the "ball rolling" hereafter, and forward items from this division for publication in the journal.

Let us all go to the meeting at Portsmouth, third Saturday night in August. I know all the Brothers will be glad to see our worthy and much-beloved Bro. Layman and he will be there sure. So let's make it "Standing room only." "KY."

B. & L. E. Railway.

As it is nearly time to send notes to THE TELEGRAPHER I will get busy and try and give a short write-up. Will start with the south end, as they are always foremost with notes for the journal.

Everything is progressing satisfactorily on the south end, nons are coming in. Bro. Moffitt has the promise of three for pay day. Bro. Moffitt is taking a ten-day vacation with relatives in Franklin, Pa.

Bro. Bond, who left the service about a month ago, is back again.

Bro. J. H. Brooks, of Plum Creek, who was off for a few weeks, is back at the key.

Bro. E. G. Resinger, of Center avenue, took a trip over the north end on motor car, and also took in the sights at Conneaut Lake.

Bro. Long, from the B. & O., is working second trick at "XB."

After three months' vacation, spent mostly in the West, Bro. J. C. Simmons has returned to his old stand at Frazier, days. This puts Bro. Z. E. Campbell back to night trick at Frazier.

Bro. Bowman, of Russellton, who, with his wife, was off on a two months' vacation through the West, has returned and reports a fine time.

Mr. F. Cochran, at North Bessemer, has left the road for parts unknown.

Bro. Miller, of Meharg, days, transferred to "AU" tower, days, when it was opened up. This leaves Mr. L. V. Thayer, night man, working days. Mr. Jenkins, Culmerville nights, left the service; relieved by Mr. W. B. Miller.

Houseville was opened up July 12, with Mr. Lassinger, days.

Mr. John Hogue, who worked for this road a few years ago, is back and working the night trick at "HX" tower until his school starts again.

Bro. C. E. Vandusen, of "KO" Junction, is copying second trick in dispatcher's office on the middle division.

On account of the weather being so warm and business on the road so heavy, it has been decided to discontinue our meetings until October, at which time you will get notice from our Secretary and Treasurer.

I wish to announce that I had some great promises from some of the boys on the north end that they would send me notes, so we could have some idea of what was transpiring on the north end, but up to the present time I have failed to receive a single note.

Forms for daily interlocking reports have been sent to all interlocking jobs. What will be next in the line of trouble? Div. COB.

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, It has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from our midst our brother and friend, F. D. Lyman, and while we bow in humble submission to the will of the Most High, who doeth all things well.

WHEREAS, We, as an organization, feel that we have lost a most trusted friend and an esteemed Brother, the community an exemplary citizen, and the wife a devoted husband, and while his words of counsel, his cheerful presence, and his untiring devotion to the welfare of the people will be sadly missed, we feel that our loss is his eternal gain.

To the sorrowing widow we tender our heartfelt sympathy and consolation, and pray for the Comforter of the weary to give her strength and courage to fulfill her mission well.

The absence of our Brother at our meetings shall ever tend to impress on us that we too must be numbered among the absent, and we hope for a reunited meeting on the farther shore.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of our division, and a copy be published in THE TELEGRAPHER, and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased Brother.

R. R. SNYDER,
W. B. BISBY,
C. P. PATTON,

C., C., & St. L. Railway.

St. Louis Division, East—

It is certainly amusing to see how prompt the nons are about asking to S. F. D., and how prompt they are about sending in overtime slip. They never think about sending in their applications to help us brothers out. Same old story, "Ain't got the money." They are the first to say "that is not according to the schedule." What does it matter to you whether it is or not? You did not help get it. So keep still until you can show an up-to-date card.

We are solid with the exception of four or five hard shells located between Mt. Jackson and Oakalla.

Bro. C. C. Brown, at Sunnyside, who has been sick for quite awhile, is reported much better.

Bro. Rumble, on days at Sunnyside, and telegrapher Magee on nights. It's about time Magee was getting a card.

Bro. O. A. Hurin, at Danville, off on vacation; relieved by Bro. W. O. Setty, at Danville nights.

Bro. R. N. May working days at Hadley, telegrapher Reichard on nights. Wonder why Reichard don't get a card?

Bro. F. T. McCaninch, of Division 27, is now the night man at Delmar.

Bro. R. A. Confer, who has been copier in dispatcher's office at Terre Haute, has returned to his old stand, Green Castle, nights.

We see by the newspapers that the poor old Katy still has her troubles. Recently four suits were filed against her for violations of the telegraphers' eight-hour law.

Bro. J. J. Reynolds, of "CB," has left the service; relieved by Bro. O. E. Roach. Understand he will be relief agent on the C. & E. I. for present.

Fern, days, closed; Bro. Connett transferred to "JB" days; Mr. Sawyer took the night trick.

Bro. L. C. Adams has left the service; did not learn where he went.

Telegrapher Mewhenney got Duane nights on bulletin; can not say whether he has a card or not.

Bro. R. C. Withers, of Perth, was off sick a few days; relieved by Mr. H. D. Allen, from Coal Bluff.

Perth nights now open with H. D. Allen in charge.

Bro. Inman, of "GM" days, has resigned and left the service; relieved by Bro. Wilson, of Paris nights. Bro. Wilson relieved Bro. Cowper.

CERT. 258.

Sandusky Division—

Bro. Rench, the day man at Silver Creek, is doing the owl trick this week at that office for a change. Bro. Shoemaker, the night owl, is working the day trick, also for the benefit of the change.

The night owls and the third trick dispatcher were kept pretty busy last Friday night and Saturday a. m., owing to the movement of "Ringling Bros." Four large circus trains over the division from Tiffin to Kenton; traffic was heavy but dispatcher Burch and his owls got the trains over in good shape.

Business has been rather brisk on the Sandusky Division the last few weeks, as we have been having several gravel trains each day.

Bro. E. W. Utz, day man at "GA," doubled the trick last Friday and Friday night while night man Bro. J. E. Audritch was taking in the circus at Tiffin. Bro. Utz then took in the circus at Kenton on Saturday.

Bro. Herren, agent Lilly Chapel, spent two weeks' vacation visiting his parents at Huntsville and other relatives in Cleveland. He also called on Bro. Carter, night man at Tiffin, while on this end of the pike.

Telegrapher Claude Kerans, Urbana nights, and his brother, who is driver for American Express

Co. same place, and their lady friends spent the Fourth fishing at Lewistown reservoir.

By the time this is in print you should possess one of the new cards. If anyone has forgotten about their dues use this as a reminder and start a money order without delay. The cards are daisies and a valuable piece of pasteboard to have in the pocket.

Bro. H. L. Dunson, formerly with the Big Four, but now with the B. & O. at Newark, O., was seen passing over the line Saturday enroute to his home at Huntsville for a short visit. Bro. Dunson is copier in dispatcher's office at Newark and rapidly getting to the front, yet he wears the proper button. The man with it is the one that generally gets there. CRAT. 364.

Cincinnati Division—

The meeting held at Dayton, Sunday, June 16th, at 2 o'clock p. m., was poorly attended, there being but eight members present, but considering everything, a very interesting gathering was held, local chairman Justice filling the chair. These meetings, beyond a doubt, could be attended by a larger per cent of the members, by making some individual effort, if they would only do so. Various excuses are offered for not being able to attend. Now, brothers, "come out of it." You all received notice of these meetings in due time to make ample arrangements. Why not make an effort to attend and keep the ball rolling?

There seems to be a tendency upon a part of the membership to depend too much upon the officers, and if things do not pan out satisfactorily those who never make any effort toward helping are the first to criticise. It is utterly impossible for the local chairman to handle the affairs of the division properly without your co-operation. Do not get the idea that there is nothing for you to do; the sooner you relieve yourself of this idea the sooner we will better our working condition; and that does not mean that only the officers should be active, but that every member on the division should be active, and that we should not lose time in reflecting upon what we have not done in the past, but what can be accomplished in the future, which can only be obtained with united effort.

There are many ways in which you can assist your officers in this work; for instance, see that our schedule is being lived up to, and that our rights are not being infringed upon, and when you find a non working next to you get acquainted and insist upon him joining the Order. Write your local chairman and keep him posted on all such matters, as it will do him good to know that you are taking an interest in the welfare of the Order. I happened to drop into a conversation with a brother station agent recently, and he took up the discussion of abolishing the commissions, and the station agents put on a straight salary basis. Here is a chance some of our station agent brothers to profit by attending meetings and discussing subjects which pertains to their interests. Get your nearest brother interested and bring him to the meeting. We have lost a number of our staunch brothers in the last month, Bros. McNutt, Shugert and Bryan, who have accepted positions with the B. & O., where there seems to be quite a demand for telegraphers. Wish them success.

Extra operator Bellingsha, who has been doing extra work at "WM" for the past three weeks, has gone to Franklin Jct. nights account Bro. Shugert resigning.

Bro. Beatel has again resumed work, having been absent three weeks account of sickness.

Bro. O. C. Taylor, days at "W," Carrollton, is off taking his annual vacation, being relieved by night man, Bro. Slevich, who in turn by Bro. Hayes as night man temporarily.

There were three or four vacancies about Middletown during the past month that have not yet been advertised, but which will probably be done before this appears.

We are now getting a line on the nons. They are tottering and falling to our side.

The ham factory at "VI" is closed, which is highly appreciated. The professor, I understand, went to West Carrollton, and could not make good.

The boys are all looking forward to the eight-hour tricks with interest.

Now, every brother appoint himself a committee of one to look after nons, and with a mighty effort we will win them to the cause. Forward all applications to the local chairman, and if you need any applications or stamps just say the word and he is there with the goods. We are ninety per cent on the Cincinnati and Colorado branch now; let's make it a hundred before September 1st, and with a round 95 per cent over the system we can talk business to the company next fall.

Bro. Herrin, of Lilly Chapel, was off a week on his annual vacation; Bro. Dickinson, the night owl, performed the day stunt.

Georgeville nights bulletined closed.

Mrs. Frank Brown, of West Virginia, has been the guest of Bro. Brown at Brooks for couple of weeks.

Our third trick dispatcher, Mr. Haley, has been off a couple of weeks on vacation. Extra dispatcher Crain been the relief.

On account of error in the postoffice address of the General Correspondent of items for the system, the items of this division has not been appearing in the journal.

Mr. Wm. Sautter, of Delaware, bid in the gravel pit job at Catawba.

Franklin Jct. nights and Lockland nights bulletined open July 6th.

Bro. Rodgers and Bro. Loughy were off a few days, being relieved by Bro. Shugart, a new man at South Siding; "13" he has a card.

Div. Cor.

Cairo Division, North End—

Several changes on division this month, but can only give few of them.

Bro. Kilgore goes to "OD" town, Lyons days, June 29th. Interlocker there goes in service that date.

Mr. Kerns, at Union, laying off; relieved by Mr. Bassett, day telegrapher from St. Francisville.

Bro. Ball, nights St. Francisville, taking fifteen days off; don't know who relieves him.

Bro. Wood succeeded Mr. Carter as day telegrapher at "DG," Mt. Carmel. Do not know whether Mr. Carter is member or not.

Interlocker at Union put in service this month.

Interlocker at Marshall will be put in service at Marshall soon as move in new depot, which will be in few days.

Boys, send in your $4.50 and get one of those new cards: they are daisies. I have mine, it is a blue one.

I don't know of any ham factories on this end. Glad we have none and we are pretty solid.

We have a few nons. Let's get after them; they are good fellows and will make good members; all we have to do is show them the right way.

Why can't we get busy and have a meeting on Cairo Division, so we can talk things over? St. Louis Division boys had one at Paris May 28th, which I attended; there were eleven members in all present. All members on Cairo Division were invited and only two there from this division. I think this a shame. Let's have one at Mt. Carmel or some other point. I promise to come or send night man.

I notice some of the boys asking off for dinner second time and sometimes as late as 12:55 and 1:00 and 1:10. Now, I do not know if they put in their overtime for this or not, but we are allowed 45 minutes between 11:30 and 1:30; that means 45 minutes commencing 11:30 or after and ending at or before 1:30, and we should only ask once and when he says stay why stay and put in your time for it unless he calls you and tells you you can go and you must have time for the 45 minutes to end by 1:30 p. m. This is the way I understand it and I have reasons to believe some are not getting their meal hours as they should.

Bro. Graham is new night man at "OD" tower, Lyons. Do not know where he is from.

Mr. Wycoff, from Southern, is new night man Marshall. He promises to come in first pay-day.

CERT. 204.

Michigan Division—

I think it would be a good idea for these backward nons on our division to spend some time studying the cartoon in the June number of our journal. Here, boys, we can see the picture of an overworked man, and just such a picture as we can see on the Big Four most any place one wants to look, and I think if we had a few more dead beats on this division we would be just like the cartoon, only we would have two trucks instead of one. It is really too bad that such fellows are allowed to run loose; they have been asked time and again by some brother or other to line up, but it seems impossible for them to do the right thing. Credit must be given to all members, for I can assure you they are all wide awake, but it is hard to work on a mere nothing.

We have on this division a number of telegraphers well up in years and working for only enough to keep themselves and families by very economical living. Some of these old heads are "Johnny Wise" and are doing all they can to better conditions and increase wages by casting their lot with us, but some are still pounding the key and doing nothing to increase their income so they can lay a few dollars aside for that day, which is bound to come to any man in the employ of a railroad company. I mean the day when he is no longer useful to them. I have in mind a non, a very fine fellow, too, in every other respect, who has traveled a considerable distance toward that fatal day, and yet he is making no effort whatever to lay up for the future by trying to secure from his employer what his services are actually worth. Only a few weeks ago one of the best conductors on this division, together with two or three of the oldest engineers, were advised by the management that they had reached that point when their services were no longer satisfactory in their present capacity, but were given the privilege of being assigned to yard work. So the question arises, what are they going to do with the old telegraphers when they reach this same stage? Put them to flagging street-car crossings at about $20 per, I suppose, or let him go to the poorhouse. For my part I would prefer the latter because at the poorhouse they are compelled by the State to keep you while the railroad company will keep you only if they so see fit. These engineers and conductors have been getting from $125 to $180 per and so have enough to keep them during their declining years, but we get $45 to $55 and it takes all of it to keep us without laying up a dollar for the day that must come to each of us and very shortly, too, to some of us.

Only our united action can keep up our high percentage of membership, and this must be done at any cost. Boys, get busy; try and hold the good O. R. T. men on the line. Remember, that one union man dropped off the road and his place filled by a non reduces our percentage very materially, and as it is as low now as we care to have it, let each appoint himself a committee of one to see that the brothers are kept in line.

I "13" Bro. Thomas, who resigned about two months ago and went on the C. & N. W., is back with us. He could not stand the climate out there.

Bro. W. E. Moreland is now on the M. C. Ry.

It's too bad that we fellows can't take our nice little two weeks' vacation as other laboring men do, but as a rule, we can not afford it; got too many dead ones holding us back and keeping us down at a mere living to get away.

Don't forget your dues, which are $4.50. New cards are out, and are beauties, too. Keep after the nons.

Yours for a $75 minimum and eight hours per day. E. M.

Indianapolis Division—

Nothing from the Indianapolis Division in our last number. Do we want our brothers on other divisions to think we are all dead ones? I am sure I want them to know we are up and doing over on this end of the pike. A few words from us will carry considerable weight with the few nons over here, especially when they see we are gaining ground. They being the ones we must work on, mail your journal to some of them. I know a nice stack of journals make a nice pillow, but they will do more good if sent to some non. We must be up and doing and ready for the 4th of March, 1908, if we wish to stand up for our rights. But it is up to you. This is a chance we have never had before; let us go after it with a vim then we will be sure to make good. The eight-hour day and the money will find the men. There is enough to supply the demand and a surplus. The railroads complain of a shortage of telegraphers, but all that is needed is the price and then the boys will do the rest. So let us all get in line and show them we are live ones and ready to do our duty. BLONDIE.

Southern Railway.

Chattanooga Division—

Our division is in fine shape now because everybody is living right up to the agreement. Our new chief, Mr. D. O. Hahn, is with the boys so far as the recognition of the schedule is concerned. When a can comes to this division for work our chief tells him that everything is O. R. T. and that he will have to go on the extra list and take his chances and makes them no promises, which is entirely fair and just, and as long as we have a C. D. like this we will experience no trouble or unjust treatment, and this will not be the cause of any dissatisfaction.

Vacancies are being bulletined and the boys are putting in their bids. Everything going along smoothly and men seem to be well pleased with the condition of affairs on this division. Now, let every man get down to business and show appreciation by giving good service. No matter how proficient a chief is he can not make a success unless he has the co-operation of the telegraphers on the division, and we should assist him all we can to bring the division up to the standard. He expects this of each and every man and it is but right. This is the way things move along on other well-organized roads, and this is the way it was brought about.

Bro. J. G. Williams, from the P. R. R., working few nights at Charleston, Tenn., relieving Bro. Stanberry. His wife is also a telegrapher and carries the up-to-date card.

Bro. Kirby, formerly of the Q. & C., is now working at Coile days. He, too, has a wife that carries the little pasteboard, and I "13" is an operator of much ability.

The Southern System is coming right to the front after years of being down at the bottom. The men were working for a pitiful mite, barely sufficient to keep soul and body together, no overtime, no seniority rights and no meal hour. A person never knew when some one was going to step off the train and say, "I have come to relieve you," notwithstanding one's reliability or good service in the past. These things were overlooked. It is quite different today. The organization is recognized. We have a fair schedule, overtime, meal hours for night and day men, extra compensation for extra work, and above all, are the bulletins and the seniority clause. Now a man has some hopes of making a change if he desires it. All of the above was unheard of two years ago, and we should take some interest in the organization that secured the concessions for us.

At any time the agreement is violated take it up with your local chairman and he will handle it for you. This is the way you will get what's coming and not before. Remember, don't leave everything to your local chairman. He may be full of business or some other reason, and you should punch him up once and awhile. Study the contract and always contend for what it gives you. Be a union man by contending for everything that is yours in accordance with our agreement.

Bro. Cord, our local chairman, has been working unceasingly for the boys on the Chattanooga Division. He has been kept busy handling grievances with the chief dispatcher and superintendent, besides working pretty regular, and he is now off on vacation for thirty days, I understand, camping with his family at Benton Springs for his health. Hope he will return feeling much better. You brothers must stand by him in everything that is right and just, and help him to bring the division up to where it should be. He can't do all of the work alone and it's up to you, brothers, to assist him in every way possible.

Our first trick dispatcher, Mr. Goodwin, let the boys off Sunday, July 7th. There was nothing doing and he called every office between Chattanooga and Knoxville and let the boys go from two to four hours each. This is very nice and should be appreciated. When he left you out on Sunday be careful to be back at the proper time and don't cause any delay to trains.

Understand that Bro. Wetmore has been assigned to Citico nights on bulletin. Can't say what became of Bro. Thomas.

Bro. Bradford, Sandford days, off on vacation for thirty days. Bro. Stalcup, night man, relieving him and new man working nights.

How many of the brothers have taken students? Don't forget your obligation. There may be a few nons take them, but I hardly think we have any Order man who will do so.

Understand that Bro. Daly, formerly of Reagan nights, is now working on the Coster Division; luck to him.

The thing to do is to stick together, help one another along; keep on the safe side at all times, but let the nons look out for themselves, especially those who have repeatedly turned us down. Don't lend them any assistance in any respect; a man that won't come across and help at this day and time, when the chances are so good to better his condition by a little effort on his part, should not have any sympathy from the union men.

I would caution the brothers regarding the importance of living up to the block rules, and in fact, all rules. Don't allow the trainmen to persuade you to disobey the block rules and run the risk of losing your position.

Understand that our first trick dispatcher, Goodwin, had left us. Don't know who gets first trick, but Mr. Hahn is working in that capacity at the present time.

Bro. H. A. Henderson is working agency at Hiram, Ga., relieving Bro. Rawling, who is working extra at Dalton.

Several vacancies existing between Ooltewah Jct. and Austell, but no bulletins as yet.

The owls are taking their full sixty minutes for lunch or 25 cents. That's right, boys, we don't get enough at best.

No students on this pike, although we have several non offices.

Our future salaries depend largely upon this question: Be awake and refrain from teaching students.

How many have new cards? If you have not as yet fixed yourself, get in line at once. The last card is a beauty. Get it. Div. Cor.

Charlotte Division—

The student question and wire trouble are two hard propositions on the south end of Charlotte Division at present.

I feel sure that the organization is making every effort to better conditions. It is a mistake for the officials to think we uphold the serious wire trouble we have been having, and while we are trying to locate the trouble and clear it up I think they should assist us in clearing up two or three "ham factories" on the division rather than encourage it. It is a hard fight for us to make to endeavor to clear up this trouble while two or three of the nons on the line are being paid by the company to take students and finish them up. I passed a certain block office some days ago, which is in size about 8x10 feet, where there were no less than six boys, apparently just out of some river swamp, who were sitting around on the telegraph table playing with the semaphore board and raising "Cain" in general. As long as this is allowed it appears to me that question of wire trouble is an easy problem.

Mr. C. A. McIntire, second trick dispatcher, was the honored guest at the after meeting July 7th. His talk on the above subject was clear and forceful. Every telegrapher on the division should have been present to hear the remarks.

I think our meetings can be improved. There are always a good number present, but I see no reason why every station on the division can not be represented at every meeting. It will do any of the members good to attend the meetings. There are several on the division who have not been in attendance at any meeting since we organized. If they will make one trip they will always make an extra effort to be present at every meeting.

Sorry that Sister Smith was indisposed last Sunday. She was scarcely able to be up. However, she took her usual active part in the meetings. She will soon be better.

Bro. Stuck has been off for a few days' rest; relieved by Mr. J. L. Haralson, from F. E. C. He promises to be with us soon.

Mr. English, from C. of Ga., is with us at "RA." Understand he's up to date. Hope to see him at Gainesville occasionally.

Messrs. Eubank and Wilson were in attendance last Sunday with their wives and children. If more of the brothers would bring their wives it would be a great addition to the after meeting. There has been some talk of the ladies banding themselves in a ladies' auxiliary. Hope they will not let it drop, but that more of the ladies will be at the next meeting and discuss the matter. Sister Smith kindly offers her apartments at the Arlington to the ladies.

Understand Bro. Tapp is off on his bridal tour through the East; haven't heard the lady's name. They have our heartiest congratulations.

Boys, don't forget the meeting day and do your best to be present.

MRS. E. B. SMITH,
Committee.

Macon Division—

As our Division Correspondent was sick and unable to be with us last Sunday, it is up to some of us to say a few words in behalf of our meeting, which was called to order at Flovilla, Ga., July 22, at four o'clock. Though our attendance was small we had a very enthusiastic meeting. Many subjects of importance was discussed.

It don't seem to me like the boys are taking the interest in these meetings they should. I mean the most of them, for we have a few very faithful members, and as your local chairman, I wish to thank the few who are manifesting so much interest in the meetings. I trust that the time is not far distant when we will see the result.

I learn there are some of the boys behind with their dues. Let's try to meet those little payments and stay in line, and you will see that this will have it weight with the nons. Just as long as they see members falling behind with their dues they get the less interested; so let's all pay up now. Come to the meetings and help those who are trying to help themselves. We all know that a few can't do it all, and for this reason we sincerely trust that our membership will increase as it never has before. It seems to me that if the nons would just stop and think for one minute who is paying for the little raise that we get once in awhile, and see how nice it comes in, that they would come out and help us.

Now, I don't think that Bro. Cason, our Division Correspondent, will feel offended at me taking the liberty of writing these few words, and I hope to see him out at the next meeting.

LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

Atlanta Division—

Everything looking well, membership increasing rapidly. The best of feeling seems to exist over the entire division; practically all the boys are doing all within their power to render that class of service so common among an organized body of employees "the best." Safe to say a majority of those who have not as yet associated themselves with ours, one of the greatest organizations of its kind in existence, will be found doing so within a short time. I desire to thank the boys along the line who are furnishing valuable information and assisting me otherwise in my effort to perform the duties of the office assigned me. I would like very much to have each member of Atlanta Division furnish me their names and post-office addresses.

Best wishes to all.

Faternally,

C. E. Moss, L. C.

Knoxville Division, Between Bristol and Knoxville—

The following changes have been made since the last write-up:

Bro. Sinclair, who has been working at Morristown for the past few months, has resigned and is now manager for the Western Union at that place; relieved by Bro. Daily.

Bro. Anderson, Mohawk, off on vacation for few days; relieved by Mr. Mitchell.

Bro. Shoemaker, Caswell nights.

Bro. Jones, Newmarket days, and Bro. Porter, Alpha days, attended the Jamestown Exposition this month.

Mr. Winfrey, Caswell days, off on vacation.

Bro. Porter, Nasacet days, who has been off for some time on vacation, is back at work.

Night man at Broad Street, Knoxville, working in "K" message office while Bro. Lewis is in dispatcher's office.

Telegrapher Duggan, from "GD" office at Broad Street, and telegrapher Murphy, at "CD" office, Newmarket hill.

When we get after the nons they tell us they are "coming soon." This is "OK" if they will do what they say.

The students are scarce at this end; they are almost a thing of the past. We are trying our best to make the nons scarcer, too.

Div. Cor.

Murphy Division—

Upon receipt of the journal each month I look to see what is transpiring on Division 59, and I note with pride that some of the other divisions are giving some nice write-ups, but I am sorry to say that the Murphy Division has only been represented once in the six months of its existence, and that was by your humble servant. Come, now, brothers, don't let one man do all the work; it's your Order as much as it is mine, and you should take an interest in it. If some man would offer you a dollar for a few minutes' work you would do it, and by exerting yourself a few minutes occasionally for the good of the Order you can make more than a dollar by being instrumental in securing a raise in salary, as well as securing better working conditions. Your writing will look as good in print as mine.

Brothers, think, and after you think, act. There are several nons along the line; can't you help get them in the fold? Mr. West, at Clyde, Mr. Bailey, at Canton (brother of the C. D.), Mr. Perry, at Balsam, Mr. Kincaid, at Dillsboro, Messrs. Curtis and Tabor, at Bryson, Mr. Ward, at Almond, and Mr. Fisher, at Andrews, are, I think, all out in the cold. I am almost ashamed to let the other divisions know that we are so weak over here. Come, now, let's all work together and see if we can not be the banner division.

Our local chairman wants each and every one of you to write him, expressing your views on the eight-hour day and the $75.00 minimum. Please do this; it's to your interest. CERT. 718.

General Office, Washington, D. C.—

It is "sad but true" that this end of the system has not been heard from for several months. The writer, therefore, takes the liberty of reporting proceedings, so far as they have come to hand. Let it be stated, however, that information is extremely limited, owing to the impossibility to attend meetings from this end.

The last time "GM" had a write-up I believe there were fourteen members. We now have thirteen up-to-dates, with a promise of several more "soon as they get the money." Taking everything into consideration, I believe this to be a fairly good average, out of a total of 20 to 22. In an office like this, where men come and go almost daily, it is next to impossible to keep anything like solid. But we should not let this discourage us; keep the good work up; never say stop. When a new man comes in find out how he stands, present him with application blanks, show him the good and necessity of the Order, and nine times out of ten he will join.

I have found it to be true that you have to deal with nearly every man differently. Some require coaxing, while some will not stand for it. Some, who are hard to deal with, and "can't see no good in it," require constant hammering at. Therefore, before we attempt to do business with a new man, it is necessary to become acquainted with his taste and style and proceed accordingly.

Among the number that have lately gone out of our midst is Bro. C. G. Whitworth, Jr., who, owing to the death of his father, Bro. C. G. Whitworth, of Bon Air, Va., has gone there to fill his father's place as agent. "CG" is young and efficient, as well as a staunch Order man, and consequently we look forward to great things from him.

Mr. O. G. Balthis, our late wire chief, died at his home in Strasburg, Va., a few weeks ago. His brother, Mr. W. E. Balthis, who is also an old "GM" boy, is working at Spencer, N. C.

Understand Bro. E. A. Foster, one of our first organizers, is working relief on the R. F. & P.

Bros. A. T. Mason and W. E. Shea are off on the sick list. Bro. Mason has gone West for his health; expects to return in a few weeks. Bro. Shea is now in Northern New York.

CERT. 3857.

Chicago & Northwestern Railway.

Black Hills District—

It has been many moons since our district has been represented in THE TELEGRAPHER.

Bro. Bolte, for a long time at Johnstown, has left the service. Mr. Montgomery takes the station.

Bro. Brandon, at Fairburn, enjoyed a six weeks' vacation. He was relieved by Bro. Smith.

Cody and Merriman have been blessed with night men. Changes have been so rapid we did not get a record at present. Bro. Wolfe at Cody and Mr. Bradley at Merriman.

Bro. Perrin, nights at Gordon, has been in the hospital for a couple of weeks. Bro. C. H. Northrop did the owl act.

Bro. Hawley, agent at Merriman, has been visiting with his wife's folks. Bro. Joice relieved him.

Bro. Hoffer, for many years agent at Sturgis, has resigned.

We have a few nons on this division that need looking after. Keep them moving.

CERT. 1194.

Dakota Division—

This month finds us with a very meagre amount of news, but will do the best we can with what we have.

Mr. Blodgett, of Chicago, made an inspection of the division the week of July 24. He reports things as running smooth. He says that Chas. Lane, at Aurora, keeps a fine block sheet.

We do not suppose that you all have forgotten the valuable advice given by Mr. Stewart in regard to signals. Don't forget it, as it is now coming fall and a vast amount of business to take care of.

A washout at Sparta was the cause of great delay to No. 503 on the 23d of July. It was necessary to send passengers via Elroy and St. Paul for points in this direction.

Bro. Zollar, of Balaton, went up into North Dakota investigating a bank job, and has returned with prospects of quitting the railroad business. He says that the woods are full of jobs in that country.

Bro. Watschki relieved Bro. Zollar at Balaton, and was to have opened Burchard on July 25, but was called to Huron to fill rush relief job.

Bro. Carpenter, of Redfield, days, received a telegram from Chicago announcing that his baby was dying. He went to Chicago as soon as relieved.

Bro. Wagler, of Raymond, was obliged to close his station and get to his home on account of his brother having been drowned.

Both of the above Brothers have this division's heartfelt sympathy.

Bro. J. E. Noe, of Arlington, took a lay-off of a few days on account of sickness, the night office being closed during his absence.

If each member will make a special effort to go after and get one non this month our division will be close to the 100 per cent mark very soon.

Send your old TELEGRAPHERS to nons and keep after them. One non on this division did not know the nine-hour law was passed until quite recently.

Bro. Finnerty is thinking of taking another vacation on account of sickness. It seems that the first operation was not entirely satisfactory and it may be necessary for him to be operated on again.

Bro. G. R. Carlow, of Lake Benton, is taking a vacation and visiting in North Dakota. Bro. W. L. Boughner is relieving him.

L. V. Smith is the new man at Tracy, nights. Can not say whether he is up-to-date or not. He is a W. U. man and has worked a trick on the C. P. Ry. at Winnipeg.

Bro. E. H. Zollar, of Balaton, is lucky enough to get a vacation, being relieved by Bro. Watschke. Watschke hit Balaton at just the right time to get a little overtime on account of the opening up of the sand pit at that place.

Bro. J. E. Noe went to Tyler, nights, to relieve Bro. Daugaard, who relieved Bro. Walters at Brookings, nights, Walters taking Brookings, days, and Kendall, of Brookings, days, taking a lay-off.

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, Death has removed from among us our Brother, Geo. H. Kendall, a faithful member of our Order; therefore, be it

Resolved, By Division No. 76, O. R. T., that in the death of Bro. Kendall we have lost one of our most worthy members, the railway company a faithful employe and his family an affectionate and devoted son and Brother, and be it further Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family our profound sympathy in this hour of sorrow, and that these resolutions be printed in the current issue of THE RAILROAD TELEGRAPHER, and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

W. A. MATLACK,

J. H. BRENNAN,

J. D. HENRY,

Committee.

Lake Shore Division—

The first meeting on the Lake Shore Division after segregation from Ashland Division, was held at Sheboygan, July 12, with a fair attendance.

Division officers were elected and general routine of business transacted.

Bro. I. W. Hackett, our Local Chairman, was elected First Chief Telegrapher; Bro. P. E. Johnson, Second Vice-Chief Telegrapher, and Bro. F. Fassbender, Third Vice-Chief Telegrapher. Bro. F. C. Schimeck was elected to the office of Secretary and Treasurer.

Topics of an interesting nature were brought up and discussed, and not a few of the members present found enlightenment in their arguments. We missed a few familiar faces at the meeting who have, heretofore, been in regular attendance. However it is to be realized that in some cases they were handicapped by trains, such as way freights not being in, etc. In future it is hoped a larger number of the boys will strain every effort to attend these meetings. Surely your presence will help a great deal, and am sure we all will be greatly benefited.

Please bear in mind the south end boys have a better chance to attend meetings, the facilities for getting to and from Sheboygan are better, while the district north of Green Bay at present affords no chance at all, therefore it is up to the south end men for attendance at these meetings.

We will have another in the course of two months and would like to see a good rousing crowd, the more the merrier. Each member figure on it right now, and if you have an idea, surely a good resolution has been made, and don't spoil it. Remember it is our co-operation that counts, and we get it at these meetings. A good-sized hall has been rented for the entire year, and a union labor one at that, which is always at our disposal. Come one, come all.

Bro. L. F. Bunge has taken the station at Dundas and has moved there with his family.

Bro. Kilsdoug has been transferred to the Ashland Division. Is working days at Kimberly, the position of day telegrapher having been opened there recently.

Night Telegrapher E. A. Sohre, working at South Yard, has filled out the application papers and we can now call him Brother, through the efforts of Bros. F. Fassbender and F. C. Shineck.

Bro. Sechrist, agent, was relieved last week on account of sickness. We are advised that he is going home to Pennsylvania and may not return. He has the sympathy of all the Brothers on this division, and we will surely miss him. We extend him our best wishes. A Mr. Sterling is relief.

A new man checked in at Belquin recently, Mr. Lewis. Understand now he has resigned to accept position on N. P.

Understand night man Brillior and helper quit last week on short notice. Took it into their heads to go West. Left Bro. Pronof alone, and understand he has not been given any help up to date.

No news up-to-date from the north end for this issue. Will have to dispense with it this time as our correspondent, perhaps, has not had ample time to collect same since last meeting at Sheboygan.

Don't forget your dues. Have you all received the new cards? Certainly we all want to be up-to-date. Hope by next issue all will be square with the board.

CERT. 602.

Ashland Division, North End—

Bro. J. L. Green received Monico Junction agency on bulletin, Bro. J. A. Ross leaving the service to work for the Western Express Co. Bro. Ross will be missed by all Brothers on the Ashland Division.

Bro. J. S. Phillips refused Gogebic agency and has Woodruff nights.

Mr. F. A. Emmett, off the G., B. & W., took Gogebic and has asked for application blanks, which have been sent, and hope he will be a Brother soon.

Mr. Rasmussen, at Woodruff days, temporarily. A young telegrapher.

J. R. Carmany received State Line station on bulletin, coming back from Marathon City.

Bro. C. F. Penney, at Rhinelander nights, is all to the good now. He has been relieved of the U. S. mail and baggage, rented a new home and settled down.

Bro. H. M. Prechal, who has held down Hurley days for several years, left the service to take up a homestead out West. Our best wishes go with him.

Bro. P. J. Meredith captured Hurley days by bulletin.

Bro. T. H. Schaefer is now holding down Saxon days, while J. R. Schilleman is doing the owl act.

J. B. Duval doing the clip work in dispatcher's office nights.

Miss Marie Stromberg got Wakefield, days, by bulletin.

Temporary telegraph office at Turtle closed, and new one opened at Dunham, with Telegrapher C. V. Fletcher on duty.

CERT. 409.

Northern Wisconsin Division—

Bro. W. H. Ward, formerly of Division No. 23, has been transferred to this division. He has been doing relief work at Kaukauna and Wrightstown.

Bro. Luther has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Bro. Wm. Jaehnke is taking a few weeks' vacation; relieved by Bro. Fisher, of Jefferson, who was relieved by Telegrapher McIntyre. The latter should get in line and help to support the Order. Telegrapher R. J. Sund should also show his appreciation for what benefits he has received from the Order, by filling out blanks.

We have nons at the following stations: Milton Junction, Johnsons Creek, Oakfield, Juneau, and Sheboygan Falls, and in addition to these the agents at all stations are eligible to membership in the Order, and all Brothers should try and induce them to join. The more solid our organization is the better results we can obtain. One of the officers of this line spoke as follows: "The first duty a telegrapher owes himself is that he be a member of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers."

Our next meeting will, no doubt, be held at Fon du Lac, but Appleton has proven to be the best place for meetings, as the north end men at the one-man stations can attend, and the south end men can reach Appleton and get home in better shape than from any other place. Would suggest the members write Local Chairman Hackbert as to what we can do toward having the picnic and outing we mentioned at our spring meeting. The ladies can there form their auxiliary to the O. R. T. Please give suggestions, so we can determine a place and appoint a committee on arrangements at our next meeting. Let every member interest himself in this, so it will prove a success.

Bro. Learned has taken the agency at Princeton and Mess Conner the same at Juneau.

We have but two delinquents on the division. One failed to pay back dues and special assessment, and the other the assessment alone. Let us hope these members will do the necessary this coming month. Let every member pay the semi-annual dues promptly. Our committee will, no doubt, be in session for a longer period than ever before, and we want our treasury in the best possible shape, to hold out if it comes to a long drawn out affair. We also want our Chairman to visit all places where men can not attend meetings. Let us have more interest than before, and have more business at our meetings, and do our business in a business-like manner. We have much to do within the next few months, as the eight-hour law takes effect in a few months and our schedule will have to be revised, and we should discuss these matters to the best advantage to all members. We were all disappointed at not having General Chairman Troy with us at the last meeting, but hope to have him at our next. The attendance at our last three meetings has been very encouraging to the Local Chairman, and he feels that he is receiving the right kind of support. Let us see more of the south end men at our next meeting. It will prove an entertaining one and every member should attend.

Bro. Noyes, of Appleton Junction, is going to take a vacation soon.

Telegrapher W. Abbs relieved Bro. J. O. Sund at Juneau nights, while Bro. Sund at Minnesota Junction a few days.

Local Chairman Bro. Bitz, of the Wisconsin Division, and Local Chairman Bro. Mooney, of the Pennsylvania Division, were at the Appleton meeting, and gave us a very interesting talk on conditions on their respective divisions.

Bro. Schimick, from the Lake Shore Division; Bro. Flansburg, of Ashland Division; Bro. Falleck, of C., M. & St. P. Ry., and a Brother from Sheboygan yard were the other visitors at the meeting.

I wish every member would try and send a few news items each month to Local Chairman Hackbert or direct to me at State Hospital. It takes but a few minutes and goes to show that we take an interest in the Order, especially the news from the Marshfield and Sheboygan lines. Want to thank the Brothers for the items sent me this month, and hope you will come again.

All were pleased to "shake" with Bro. Evenson, of Grand Rapids, at our meeting the other night.

Div. Com.

I. & M. Division—

There hasn't been a write-up from the Iowa & Minnesota division for a long time. Seems as if the boys are afraid they might say something out of the way.

A few changes are being made, on account of resignations.

Bro. Campbell, of Dumont, left the service, and was relieved by Bro. Perkins until regular man appointed.

Bro. Harding, of Guernsey, was the lucky bidder.

Guernsey now on the bulletin, but no appointment made as yet. Bro. Perkins now temporarily at that point.

Bro. M. R. Erwin got the agent's position at Lakonta; day telegrapher's position now on bulletin.

Bro. Johnson, of Wright, sent in his resignation. Bro. Sutton, night man at What Cheer, was sent down to do the work until the arrival of J. H. Burns.

Traer, nights, has been on bulletin for a long time, but was finally given to O. E. Perkins.

"OM" tower was closed for some time, on account of shortage of men. Regular man Thiel had to go to Butterfield to relieve Bro. Casey, who had to act as agent while Batchelder took a vacation.

Parkersburg, nights, on bulletin.

Holbrook was relieved by Bro. R. E. Holbrook, who afterwards quit the I. & M., and went to work on the Dak. division.

Well, boys, let us hear from some one else, and show the Brothers we are interested in the O. R. T. work.

CERT. 1891.

Eastern Division—Lines West of Missouri River—

Bro. H. W. Bingham, formerly nights at Bonesteel, got Wisner nights by bid.

Bro. Nelson, nights, got Davey station by bid.

Bro. Saur, from O'Neill, nights, at Hooper, nights, by bid.

Bro. R. E. Cheeney, an old-timer on this pike at east end by bid. At present Bro. Cheeney is working in "FY" office nights.

Bro. J. B. Bailey is relieving Mr. Rizer, at Nickerson. Mr. Rizer is taking in the sights in New York and other Eastern cities. "13" that we will be able to call Mr. Rizer Brother soon.

We had about 12 or 13 vacancies, on account of 21-year old law on this pike.

The following vacancies are bulletined: Agent, Anoka; agent, Inman; agent, Schickley; agent, Dwight; day telegrapher, Scribner; day telegrapher, Dodge Street. Night telegraphers as follows: Battle Creek, O'Neill, South Omaha Frt. Yard, Bonesteel, Norfolk Junction, Frt. Yard and Fremont dispatcher's office. By bulletin, No. A13, July 10th.

Bro. W. J. Thomas, from Atkinson, relieved agent at Stanton, from July 12th to August 1st.

Bro. Anderson, cashier and telegrapher at Hastings, has resigned to take effect July 15th. "13" that Bro. Anderson is going firing on the road.

Mr. Kempster, agent Harvard, who had the misfortune to have his foot mashed a couple of months ago by a piano falling on it, is getting along nicely.

Mr. Palmer, agent Henderson, expects to move back into the depot living rooms soon.

Bro. Edmiston, Morse Bluffs, expects to secure a vacation some time in August, and will take a trip back East.

F. J. Taylor is doing the owl act at Linwood. "13" that Mr. Taylor is going to get in line just as soon as he gets on his feet. Glad to hear it.

Bro. A. R. Hall is holding down David City, days. "13" that Mr. Zeack quit.

Brothers, don't forget to send in your dues, and those we can't call Brothers, please don't forget to fill out that application, and send it to Bro. C. M. Wurzbacher, Local Chairman, Tilden, Neb. We are going to give the nons a chance to get in line.

Bro. J. B. Bailey is relieving Bro. Bartlett while he is away on his wedding trip.

"13" that the Yard office at South Omaha was closed for some time on account telegraphers being scarce.

Mr. Beeson is doing the relief act at Anoka until the place is bulletined. Mr. Sherman, former agent of that place was successful in getting Gregory..

Mr. C. B. Vestil, of Dwight, was successful in getting Burke. Mr. Fowler, of Stuart, is working as telegrapher at that place now.

New depot at St. Charles just completed.

Mr. Glaser, day telegrapher at Herrick, has accepted a position in a bank at that place.

Mr. Spidler, of Ewing, is working nights at Bonesteel now.

Understand that Mr. C. A. Bartlett, of Verdel, has purchased an interest in a general store at that place, but will still remain in the service of the company.

Mr. Lewis, of Monowi, was seen in the Rosebud country on July 4th.

We are sorry to hear of Mr. Boiles, of Lynch, being confined to his bed for so long, but hope he will soon be able to be with us again. Unable to learn who is doing the relief stunt during Mr. Boiles' sickness.

Mr. Gooddel, of Spencer, was called to Beemer, account of some of his folks being sick. Unable to learn whether it is anything serious, but we hope not.

Bro. Huff, who worked at Washington for some time, nights, is doing the owl act at East End.

Chas. Willard is relieving Mr. De La Hunt at East End, days, Mr. De La Hunt going home on account of sickness of his mother.

Bro. Wintersteen has been laying off on account of sore eyes, and has been visiting with his cousins, and taking in the sights in Chicago.

We have been appointed correspondent, but that does not mean we are the whole cheese by a long shot, therefore I expect the Brothers to co-operate with me in getting up news for this division. Please be sure and send me the news every month to reach me not later than the 23d. Let us show the other divisions on this system that we are up and a-coming.

Foster D. Lamphere is the new night owl at Scribner.

Bro. Busch, who has been working nights at Scribner for some time, is holding down the day job there now.

Bro. Fletcher, who used to work nights at East End, is back at work again, holding down Arlington, nights.

Bro. Gregerson, who worked at Hooper, nights, for about two months, is working days at Atkinson, relieving Bro. Thomas for two weeks.

By the time this gets in print, the meetings in Fremont and Norfolk will have passed and gone, but we hope not forgotten. A full write-up of these meetings will appear in the September journal.

E. R. Polster is working nights Blair. "13" that he is going to quit soon.

We understand that Bro. Hans Jensen, of West End, Fremont, has been appointed correspondent. Brothers, if you can gather up any news, send it to him, Box 216, Fremont, Neb. It will be greatly appreciated.

Have you got your new card? We have ours, and it's a beaut.

Bro. Campion, day man Hooper, is working in Norfolk dispatcher's office as day telegrapher.

There is a day telegrapher on this pike who is drawing his little seventy plunks every pay day, and still he does not appreciate the fact that if it was not for the O. R. T. he would be working for about forty-five dollars. It seems queer that a man has got the gall to receive all the benefits from the Order, and still not help support it. You can easily figure out who he is.

Did you know Fremont had a ham factory? The name of it is Western Union Telegraph Co.

Bro. Wintersteen is back from his Windy City trip, and went to work in the dispatcher's office, Fremont, days.

Fred. Hall worked as first trick dispatcher, Fremont, on the South Platte district for a few days, Dispatcher Dussendorf being laid up for repairs.

Dispatchers Smitty and Gibbons, Fremont, exchanged tricks for two weeks.

Understand that Bro. Hoyt, Local Chairman of the Black Hills Division, has resigned his position as agent at Belle Fourche, S. D. We knew Bro. Hoyt when he worked on the Northern Iowa Division in 1894. We are unable to learn where he intends to locate, but here is success to him wherever he may go.

Night Chief Reynolds, Norfolk, has been on a two weeks' hunting trip.

Anton Larson, Norfolk, held down the Night Chief's chair for a couple of weeks, while Mr. Reynolds was away.

Bro. Saura is at present working days at Hooper.

Bro. Busch had the misfortune to have a trunk fall on his foot, and was laid up for a few days.

Bro. Lister is at present relieving Bro. Durham as agent at Elgin. Bro. Durham is off for a few days on account of his sister's illness. Don't know who fills Bro. Lister's place at Oakdale.

Only three nons on Albion line, but that is just three too many. Get busy, boys, and get them in line.

Bro. Nicholas, of Petersburg, off on account of his mother's sickness. Relieved by telegrapher Crocker, from O'Neill, nights.

Bro. Zacek, who has been doing relief work at David City, was up in this neck of the woods the 4th.

The ham factory business seems to be on the decline nowadays, as we never hear any of them on the wires any more. Guess they have all concluded to wait until they become of age before they finish learning.

O'Neill and Washington, night offices, have been closed for some time.

South Omaha stock exchange office has been closed nights for some time. Telegrapher from exchange office to South Omaha freight yard, nights.

Newport, nights, has been closed for some time.

It is with deep sorrow we announce the death of Mrs. De La Hunt, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, mother of Mr. De La Hunt, operator at East End. Mr. and Mrs. De La Hunt left for Cedar Rapids, Monday, July 22d, to attend the funeral. They have our sympathy in their great sorrow.

Bro. Willard has been on a vacation. Visiting with his father and mother at Platte River, also with friends at Plainview.

We noticed in last month's journal that Bro. Wornstaff is working for the Burlington, at Hinton. Bro. Wornstaff formerly worked at Hooper, nights.

Bro. W. Earp is now working from 10 p. m. until 10 a. m. at Fremont Yard, account Bro. Winterstein working days at East End during Mr. De La Hunt's absence.

Bro. Boyles, agent at Lynch, is just recovering from an attack of typhoid fever. Understand he is going to Hot Springs and Deadwood, S. D., when able to travel. J. Mahney is doing the "chores" around Lynch while Bro. Boyles is laid up.

"13" there are only two nons on the Superior line. Say, Brothers, get after those two and get them lined up.

Nels. Johnson has resigned his position as day telegrapher, Norfolk dispatcher's office, and goes to work for the Union Pacific at North Platte.

Last, but not least, Brothers, don't forget to send news for next month's journal, to reach me not later than the 23d.

CORRESPONDENT.

Atlantic Coast Line Railway.

Columbia District

Effective August 1st, several changes will be made in Florence offices. General Superintendent A. W. Anderson comes there from Wilmington, as superintendent first division. Other officials move to different places. We understand a dispatcher's office, embracing Darlington and Columbia districts will be inaugurated about same time. A new passenger depot is in course of construction at Florence, being equipped with offices on second floor for use of present and newly appointed officers. This will be quite an improvement over the old passenger station.

Mr. Mooneyhan has been appointed agent at Elliott, S. C., vice Mr. C. R. Craig, transferred to Tatum, S. C.

Mr. W. P. Woodard, agent at Hartsville, S. C., has filed his application for membership in the Order. We are glad to welcome him.

Messrs. Ballard, of Society Hill, and Toon, of Red Springs, appear to think they can get along without the Order, and have let their dues since January 1st lapse. We are sorry to lose them. We were unable to get replies from them regarding the matter.

Bro. Renfrow, at Hartsville, was married a few weeks since. Our best wishes are for them.

Bro. Brasswell, agent at McFarlan, N. C., continues unable for duty, having not yet recovered from attack of typhoid fever. Owing to business being unusually heavy, we have not been able to furnish much in way of a write-up this month. Will endeavor to atone for it later.

CENT. 248.

Montgomery District—

I have been on Montgomery district for five months, and the first thing I look for upon receiving my journal is news from this district, but up to the present time I have been disappointed. I am very sorry to see so little interest taken in matters that are of such vital importance to us.

How do you expect to prosper unless you get down to business. Presume one is waiting for the other to send in fraternal notes. So long as you wait for the other man, you will never prosper. Get out and hustle. Speak to nons near you. Tell them what the O. R. T. has done for you.

Have him put his thinking cap on, and if he is the right kind of stuff he will soon come across. If he isn't, we don't want him.

We still have a few nons over here. I think four will cover the Montgomery district. That shows well for Bro. Walker, our Local Chairman. Am sure he did it, for everybody else is sleeping. Wake up, get busy.

Several of the boys are getting vacations.

Bro. Y. A. Wilkerson, agent at Luverne, has just returned to work after a three weeks' wedding tour. Was relieved by E. L. Hardin. Hardin had been out of business for some time, and says will have a new card soon.

Bro. Doc. Pauncey, telegrapher Brundidge, has just returned from Richmond.

Bro. Thames, of Waterford, is off for a few days. Bro. Brantley working for him.

Bro. Mathis, of La Pin, has just returned from a visit to his home in Headland, Ala.

Bro. A. A. Mixon has just been transferred from Daleville to Ramer.

Hope to see something from some other Brother next issue.

CENT. 768.

Lakeland District—

Following changes noted on this district for June:

Bro. W. Brantley, Local Chairman, is off for a month's vacation. Will visit his old home at Grandin, Fla., and then go to Hot Springs, Ark., for some time. He is being relieved by Bro. T. C. Howell, the night man, who, in turn, is being relieved by Mr. Griffis. Mr. Griffis has been out of the service for some time, and just returned. We expect to have him with us by the time Bro. Brantley returns.

Bro. J. E. Beville, agent at Croom, is off for a vacation, and is being relieved by Mr. Clark.

Agencies at Homosassa, Crystal and Leroy, are open. Bids are not coming in very fast now. Guess Bro. Belcher's experience at Crystal has made every one afraid of that place.

As this is our dull season, and news light, I will cut out. CRACKER.

Savannah District—

Only one new member this month so far as I have been able to learn, Mr. J. W. Currie, of Race Pond, Ga., who is now entitled to wear the wreath and sander, and boast of an up-to-date. We extend the glad hand, and only wish others could have seen the light.

Bro. B. W. Harris, formerly of Screven, is off on a vacation, visiting his home.

Bro. English, of Nicholls, relieving him at Douglas.

In last month's notes we reported Mr. R. B. Cassels and Mr. Lew Manning as having joined the "elect," but, to our surprise, we learned that after filling out their papers, and making all arrangements for sending them to Bro. Highsmith, they failed to forward them. We have not been able to learn what caused the delay, but hope they will be able to get them in in the immediate future.

Bro. Ila Smith, who was off on a vacation, has resumed duty, and Mr. M. W. Morris, who was relieving him, at Offerman was transferred to Savannah.

Bro. J. L. Lewis, formerly agent for the A. B. & A., at Ambrose, has resigned his position with that company to accept his old position as billing clerk with Bro. E. F. Hull, at Offerman. Glad to see him back.

Bro. C. C. Easterlin, of Fleming, has resigned his position as night telegrapher at that point, and left for parts unknown.

Bro. Thomas Sasser was in Savannah recently, adjusting grievances for his district. Bro. Sasser is one of our hustlers, and has been reaching over on Savannah district to pull in a few of our nons. This won't do, boys; we should not let such openings lay around loose waiting for the Waycross pushers to pick up.

Several changes on the north and south ends, but as I was unable to get any replies to my call for notes, I will try and reach them next month.

CRACKER JOE.

Northern Pacific Railway.Yellowstone Division—

Last month we failed to make connections on account of no one sending in a single note, myself being too busy to write up anything. This month I have received help from Bro. Williamson for First and Second Districts. Will be glad when Bro. Smoot returns, then with a little help he should be able to have a write-up for the journal each month.

Your correspondent for the Second District sent out a note to each office for news and only about three paid any attention to it. Whether most of the offices are filled with nons or they are too busy I can not say, but Brothers you are not taking the interest in this matter that you should.

One Brother on the First District contributed some items, and as Bro. Smoot is not back yet, I will include them with this district's news.

My attention has been called to the fact that the W. U. Co. does not allow any commission on C. N. D. reports, which would amount to quite a sum to our First District Brothers. The writer can not see why there is no commission paid on these reports, the same as any other W. U. business. I think this should be looked into by our Local Chairman and try and have this corrected in our revised schedule.

A little line-up as follows may interest the boys:

Bro. Timby, Richardton, nights, was a pleasant caller at Gladstone recently.

Understand Bro. Hesser, Glen Ullen, nights, is slated for the agency at Almont when the new depot is built.

Ira Hatfield, days at Richardton, was among the merry-makers to Dickinson to see the great circus.

Bro. Griffin, Taylor, nights, and Mr. Larson, Gladstone, nights, also visited Dickinson.

Bro. Bixby, day telegrapher, relieved Mr. Cooper as agent at Beach for a few days. Bro. Schuett, night telegrapher, was East visiting relatives. Relieved by Bro. Hendricks.

We have some wide-awake Brothers on this district and I would suggest that they try and land all desirable nons on our district and get things up in good style. Bro. Riggins did good work while here, yet there is plenty for us members to do in this line, and we should not be content with just being the possessor of a card.

Bro. Williamson, our correspondent for the Fourth District, has left the division, and is now working at Pasco.

There have been a number of changes lately, but have been too busy to keep up with them.

Former Bro. Hartley was at Terry a short time and now transferred to Glen Ullen, nights.

Bro. John Reilly back on the night shift at Terry.

Bro. Youell transferred from Forsythe to Glendive.

Bro. Hendricks from Miles City to Glendive in place of Mr. Boswell, who has left the road.

Bro. Amey, days at Miles City, back in the harness after a month's vacation.

Bro. Hiers back on the night trick.

Bro. Crane, from Rosebud, held down the C. S. clerk's place in Glendive while Mr. Gallagher was absent. H.

Dakota Division—

Only one write-up from this division during the past year and that from a Brother who had been on the N. P. only a few weeks. Our Brothers on the Yellowstone have a good write-up each month, and we can do as well. If each one will send in items to Bro. A. F. Sundermeyer, our Local Chairman, Menoken, N. D., we can have something in THE TELEGRAPHER each month.

Changes have been of such frequent occurrence that it is almost impossible to keep track of them.

Bro. H. J. Ward, Bernier, nights, is relieving Bro. W. C. Rhodes while the latter is away on vacation.

The block system is now in operation between Jamestown and Dawson. This keeps the boys on the east end busy getting "block."

A day telegrapher has been put on at Cleveland, making it easier for Bro. W. G. Jones, agent, and more pleasant for Bro. T. F. Christenson, who gets the day job. Relieved nights by W. H. Heineck, a new man at the business.

Mr. La Tourelle, nights at Burleigh, was called East by the sudden death of his grandfather. He has resigned and gone into other business. He was relieved by F. A. Miller, a new man.

Bro. Sundermeyer, days at Burleigh, got relief for two days and made a flying trip to St. Paul.

We "13" Bro. I. B. Miles, agent at Medina, is going to Rankin block office when it opens.

Bro. F. F. Frost, of Windsor, drew Medina agency on bulletin.

Bro. L. E. Baker, of Driscoll, drew McCluskey agency.

Bro. C. H. Baker, Eldridge, days, went to Medina, nights. He was relieved by Bro. James McDowell.

Agencies at Eldridge, Burleigh and Windsor bulletined. Have not learned who was assigned to them.

Bro. H. Dyer, formerly days at Buchanan, to days at Oswego.

Bro. H. A. Norman, days at Barlow, relieved J. W. Holmes, a Katy scab.

Bro. L. A. Potter, nights at Don, was called to his home in Indiana by the serious illness of his mother. He was relieved by A. J. Conrey, a new man at the business.

Bro. M. K. Thayer, Steele, days, has gone South.

I think we should be a little more sociable and get together once in a while and have a meeting, so the boys can get acquainted and get each other's views and all pull together. We would then make more progress in the betterment of our conditions. Other roads do so, why can't we? Write your Local Chairman about it, also suggest the best time and place to hold them.

Some think when they have paid their dues they have done their full duty to the O. R. T. They have another "think" coming. If you are working with a non, get his application. If a change is made advise the local chairman, or assistant local chairman in your district, and if new man is a member of some other division get his name, initials, certificate number and what division, so he will be transferred to No. 54.

All applications should be sent to your Local Chairman or to Bro. J. A. Youngman, Assistant Chairman for the branches, at Dickey, N. D. I wish to thank Bro. Youngman for the items he contributed.

Houghton Division—

Bro. Britsman, Humboldt, was called to North Branch, Michigan, on June 25th, to attend the funeral of his mother, and he had barely time enough to make it, returning to work July 2. Mr. Saunders, from Winthrop Jct., relieved him.

Bro. Blair, who was at Ishpeming nights, has been sent to Wetmore nights.

I "13" our old friend, Bro. Holmes, Munsing Jct., has been tendered the position of agent Trout Lake.

We had a short call from Bro. Freid, who was telegrapher at Creighton a few years ago. Bro. Freid is now located on C., M. & St. P., somewhere in Minnesota.

No notes or items from Mackinaw Division. Now, boys, get busy; I am not a mind-reader. I used to know quite a number on that division personally, but so many changes have taken place it is hard to keep track of them.

CERT. 21.

Western Division—

Bro. E. G. Berseth, of Bergland, is taking a few days' vacation. Bro. W. E. Johnson, formerly of Lake Gogebic, relieving him.

Bro. H. A. Lawrence, agent Lake Gogebic, new man on the road.

Bros. W. J. Nichols, of Bibon, and M. J. Clossey, of Trout Creek, were the only two who could spare time to attend the meeting at Houghton Sunday, June 23. Some of the brothers went fishing instead.

Some have never attended a meeting since the road was organized. There is more for us to do than pay our dues. Keep after the nons, as we need them in our business. They need us just as bad as we need them.

There are about six on Western Division and one has promised to join soon, but remember the old saying, "Promises are like pie-crust, easily broken."

Bro. Ayers of Thomaston now in place of Mr. Russell, who left "MS" to go to work for the W. U. at Duluth.

Bro. Shafer, day telegrapher at Saxton, but can't say who has the owl job.

Mineral Range—

Bro. Gibson back at Calumet yard after being in the hospital nearly two months. "13" Bro. King, who was relieving Bro. G., has gone to Dollar Bay to relieve telegrapher Woodruff, who has been called to Detroit on business.

Don't believe there is a non on the line from Nestoria to Calumet, unless it be the man at Osceola. Wonder why he can't see the error of his ways.

Bro. Webb has resigned the agency at Dollar Bay account of serious illness of his father. Have not heard who gets the Bay position.

Bro. F. E. Egan, Kearsarge, also Bro. Reif, Lake Linden, took in the sights at Houghton Sunday, June 23d.

We "13" "UX" ticket office, Calumet, has been dropped from the schedule, as the last transfer was made without the office being bulletined. A Mr. Marlen, formerly at the freight office, now handles the pasteboards and coupons.

Div. Cor.

Boston & Maine Railway.

It seems to be the opinion of the General Committee that few men know everything, but that all men know something.

Men learn through practice and experience, and accomplish with energy and confidence.

Yet sometimes those too closely connected, or long associated with a movement are, simply by the law of habit, unable to see anything of value, however much virtue it may contain, outside of their fixed custom of handling affairs.

This, of course, does not by any means always follow. Yet it is a fact that one man will see things that another overlooks.

The teacher learns ideas from his pupils, the leader from his followers, or opponents, and with energy and confidence may accomplish something.

We are looking for ideas. New ideas for the membership. You—who are now reading this—can you tell us anything whereby this Order will yield you a greater net income—morally and financially?

Can you tell us how we can make members who simply join, pay dues, and either through modesty or indifference, take no further interest in the Order, wake up and do something? And get out and hustle for new members? How can we make you more wideawake and active? How can you wake up?

How can we do this? How can we make them realize that strengthening the Order but strengthens themselves? What would you substitute for a strong organization—a weak one?

And there is still another side. It has been said that it is as easy to earn money as to keep it. Now that's just our position on the railroads. Supposing some of the roads should decide to do some cutting in salary when the nine-hour law goes into effect. How could the members hope for protection if they were not strongly organized?

GRIEVANCES.

These are the things that show a chairman how slick some superintendents can be, and how little of a lawyer he is. Great mental practice, though. Sometimes you get out of bed to put down a scrap of argument before you forget it, to be used against the other fellow. Much as a poet jots down on his cuff "ere thr 'inspiration goeth."

Members don't know much about grievances, for usually only the parties interested hear of them. But we have had them, lots of them, and every one threshed out. Some go no further than the superintendent's office, some higher. Two went to the President. The decisions were favorable to us.

In the neighborhood of twenty-five during the past two years were taken up with the management. We were successful in eighteen or nineteen of these. Some were lost because it was a toss up which was right, we or the superintendents. Others were decided against us, which we thought unjustly so, but there was the ruling—may be technically right, but morally wrong.

The aggrieved person can help his case a lot by stating it clear, and by giving the facts only. For if one goes up with a flimsy grievance, they are going to punch holes through it, and if you hedge around from this to that, just for the sake of winning, some time when you have a real grievance no one will believe you.

On the other hand the road has adjusted many matters which they were not legally bound to do. But viewing it from a moral standpoint, they have heeded our petitions, and have reinstated men, granted favors, and overlooked errors; acted first-rate for a railroad. Throw them into the scales and they weigh out pretty fair.

If any one has a grievance, send it along. You know our address.

CONCESSIONS AND INCREASES.

I suppose the concessions and increases granted might be termed the net earnings of the Order, and, of course, unless organizations had net earnings they would be worthless, for unless they produce or protect results they are dead ones.

But don't conflict individual increases with results.

When free books were first agitated for the public schools, some of our venerable citizens opposed it upon the grounds that, as they were past the school age, and had no children within it, and had always bought their own books, the movement was good for nothing. That was selfishness. They thought maybe their taxes might be raised in consequence of a movement which placed knowledge free of charge before thousands of poor children.

Now don't you stand in the same relation to these "farmers" by saying a movement is no good because personally you may not happen to get an increase every year. If you do, you will be ashamed of yourselves, as those "farmers" now are.

But, on the other hand, don't be buncoed. For how foolish to join an Order just for the sake of joining. About two years ago a crowd of telegraphers and agents handed some of you men a lemon. They started a new organization, as they termed it, and deceived some of you into joining, got your money, and put out an assessment. Then they called upon the management, and were told that they could not represent you because you were already covered by the O. R. T. (Read Article I of Schedule.)

Now, these men knew this when they went for your money—at least common sense should have told them so. If you had thrown them a dollar or two just for charity, to help out those agents that didn't telegraph, that would have been O.K. But don't you see they tried to make you believe that an Order could represent you when it could not.

Wouldn't it make you mad if some slick men, who couldn't represent anyone who telegraphs, came around and told you they would get you $10 for every $1 you paid them, and you bit, paid up, and dreamed that you would buy a diamond ring, and then woke up and found out that they had called on the management, and the management had cried out, "Begone, false prophets, begone! The O. R. T. represents these men."

GENERAL COMMITTEE CORRESPONDENT.

D. & R. G. Railway.

First Division—First District—

Quite a few changes have taken place on the First Division in past month. Sedalia, Kelker and Eden, nights, have been closed for lack of men, and there are some who still wonder why the D. & R. G. can't get men. Perhaps there is something wrong at the head end, where they are hired; a little investigation might develop a few interesting figures as to the number of men that have been turned down, simply because they were not loaded down with service letters, and clothed in fine raiment. It's reported a tab is being kept, and interesting features will no doubt develop later in regard to this matter.

Bro. J. L. Stearns is doing the night stunt at "DN" Denver Union Depot now that Mr. Culp has partaken his fill of that job. "HJ" was certainly an "A1" man, but a good man don't have to be a slave in a position like this, and frequent changes are the result.

Bro. Hayton, at Littleton, has left the service, and Billy Cuthbert is holding down the agency at that point, pending the appointment of the oldest qualified applicant for the position. Sister Murphy is casting her eyes that way, and as she is well up on the seniority list, stands a good show to land the plum.

Bro. Bobbit called east by sudden illness of his little daughter, reports the baby improving, but not yet out of danger.

Bro. S. Dye is acting as agent at Sedalia during Bro. Bobbit's absence. A new face at Sedalia, nights; have not yet learned his name, but "13" he is up-to-date.

Sister Murphy, at Larkspur, still doing 16 and 18 hour stunts. It's cheaper to compel her to work such hours than to put on a night man. This is something for our General Committee to look after when they meet again, which we understand is at no distant date.

Bro. Stone still doing two men's work at Palmer Lake, after having asked for help. Isn't it wonderful at the chances that are taken by those in charge in order to save a few dollars, and "make a showing on reduced expenses as against previous years." Such cheapness will be paid for most dearly some day, and then who will be blamed.

Bro. Wilson, at Monument, off for sixty days, relieved by Bro. C. M. Bowen, who we are glad to see improved in health, and again able to be with us.

Bros. Hoffman and Kelly, at Husted, are holding out in a typical south end depot (box car), since the fire at that place, but will no doubt have a new depot some day soon.

Bro. Dobberteen, at Colo. Springs, nights, drew Florence, days, and was transferred to that position on July 15th.

Bro. Brennan, from Buttes, nights, at Colo. Springs, temporarily, seems to be giving good satisfaction, as no complaints are heard.

Bro. I. E. Clayton, at Kelker, nights, off at the present writing with bad case of rheumatism.

Bro. Duncan, at Eden, nights, off at present attending to some urgent business, relieved by Bro. Roy Grate.

Bros. Moore, Lutz and Ewing in "SB" office, are swapping hours on Sundays, in order to enjoy a full day off occasionally. It's a shame we can't all have a half day off on Sundays and holidays. Is our General Committee going to do anything with this matter soon? It's about time some kind of a forward movement was made in this direction.

So many changes on the south end a man can scarcely keep track of them. Takes Assistant Local Chairman Brown and the General Secretary and Treasurer to keep tab on them. These Brothers certainly have an eye out all the time.

Bro. F. M. Jones, at Verde, off for 90 days. Bro. Daugherty, from the Rock Island, relieving him. New man, nights, from the I. C. Don't know his name, but he wears the button, and is up-to-date.

Bro. A. S. Prettyman, at Salt Creek, off sick a few days, but O. K. now. He is figuring on a trip to Portland to recuperate as soon as he can get relief.

Bro. Shorty Edson, at Larimer, days, off on a vacation for 60 days, relieved by Bro. Park.

Bro. Helber, from Huerfano, nights, took in the circus at Pueblo, a few days ago, accompanied by Bro. Lutz, from "SB" office.

Bro. Melcher was also in town that date, transferring to Texas Creek, nights, but he lost Bros. Lutz and Helber early in the day. Says they were too swift for him.

Bro. Jenkins, from Apache, nights, was a visitor in Pueblo last week accompanied by his wife, and mother-in-law. Reports a very enjoyable evening in the Smoky City.

Bro. H. D. Marquis, promoted to agency at El Moro.

Bro. Geo. Fleishman, at Trinidad, days, off for a few days, relieved by Mr. Sweitzer.

In conclusion, like one of our Past Grand Officers, just one more word and I am done:

Some move must soon be made in the direction of an increased express commission. Think of handling almost a thousand pounds of express to earn a five cent piece in commissions, yet this is what the man at Sedalia is obliged to do, and there are numerous places of a similar nature. Also we want a commission on W. U. business, and we want our General Committee to get after it at once. The time is certainly ripe just at present for such a move.

The membership must keep forging ahead if we expect to accomplish anything in the near future that will in any manner be a benefit to our craft on this system.

We are very reliably informed that while your General Committee was in session securing the last schedule, that they were advised by the officials that in event a law was passed, reducing our hours of labor, a corresponding cut would be made in our salaries. How many of you are going to stand for a move of that kind on the fourth day of next March?

The writer has visions of men falling over each other in order to secure a forty dollar job on this pike, where at our present rate of pay we are barely able to make a decent living, and enjoy a few luxuries.

It's time the membership woke up and got together solid on this question, and advise our General Committee what action you would wish them to take if this proposition was submitted to them. Get busy, boys; take a few minutes, and drop your G. S. & T. a line. It's not too early to begin. Telegraphers are plentiful if the price is paid for their services. The cry of no men to fill the offices when shorter hours go into effect will fall flat, if you will but give our worthy President, Bro. Perham, the information he asks for in his circular letter of recent date. On the information we give him will largely rest the application of this law, without an extension of time to the railroads, in which to put it into effect.

Get busy and keep busy helping your G. S. & T. to keep tab on new arrivals, and advising your Local Chairmen of matters that may in any way have an effect on our interests. In conclusion, be advised that strenuous efforts are being made to cut down telegraphers' overtime to a minimum, and ask for your meal hours, whether you care to be gone a full hour or not. Recently office hours have been changed so that they conflict with the meal hours, namely at Toluca and Sedalia.

Brothers at these points and elsewhere should be alive to their interests, and demand what's coming to them under the schedule, regardless of what others may think in regard to this matter.

CERT. 70.

To Members of Division No. 49—

Please pay your dues for the current term; let's make a record.

Give me that member's name and Division number, so I can transfer him to No. 49. It is for your interest to do this. Please don't wait for me to ask.

You have a set of application blanks. Hang on to them till a non shows up, then commence to do business with him at once. Don't let the other fellow get the best of you on this score. Always keep just one ahead of the other fellow.

Don't overlook the fact that exclusive agents are eligible to membership. We have quite a number of them.

To make a long story short, get right down to business, and do business for yourself; when you do what I am asking you to do, you are not doing anything else.

This is a personal talk to you if you are a member of No. 49.

It will pay you to pay strict attention to our correspondents from now on. We are getting some good ones, and they are up-to-date. They are going to stay with us, too.

Yours fraternally,

F. W. AIKEN,

G. S. & T.

Rio Grande Western Lines—Second District—

Quite a number of changes have taken place since the last issue of THE TELEGRAPHER, and I will make an attempt to give you a few of them.

Bro. H. G. Henery, who has been doing the owl stunt at Green River, resigned, relieved by Bro. J. P. Dozier, who comes well prepared with an up-to-date card in I. C. Division, No. 93.

Bro. A. R. Burge, from Woodside, nights, to Helper, relieved by Bro. E. L. Turner, also from I. C. Division, No. 93.

Bro. J. A. Stookey, agent, Woodside, contemplates going on a vacation about the 15th, and I "13" himself and wife will enjoy a trip to Nevada.

Mr. Reynolds relieved Mr. Welsh as agent at Green River, on account of Mr. Welsh spraining his ankle by jumping from the burning depot on the morning of June 13th. Mr. Welsh comes back to work the 22d. I understand Mrs. Welsh was visiting in Salt Lake, and escaped the possibility of injury in escaping from the burning building.

Bro. H. T. Sullivan, days at Helper, and Bro. H. G. Henery, telegrapher at Green River, left for Denver on No. 2, the 13th, where I "13" Bro. Sullivan intends to spend a few days, while Bro. Henery is going to Topeka, Kan., to visit home folks.

Bro. Rounds, back to Westwater, nights, after a vacation of about a month.

Mr. Jones, to Fruita, nights, Bro. Miller to Thompsons, nights. Am sorry, but at the present time am unable to say whether the prefix should be Mr. or Bro. in the case of Jones. Will let you know next time.

Bro. McDonald, as agent at Mounds, after quite a stay with the Coal Co., at Sunnyside.

Bro. Bradley, at Grand Junction, nights, extra.

I would like very much to tell you about the fire that resulted in the total loss of the depot and considerable freight at Green River on the morning of June 13th, but am not familiar with all the facts myself.

CERT. 337.

R. G. W. Lines—

As several of the boys along the Rio Grande Western are reported to have injured their eyes looking for a write-up of this road, we volunteer to do our best in relieving the strain.

Bro. Van Noy, of Salt Lake "UN" office, is said to have once more severed his connection with this company. Unable to say where he has gone. Was relieved by Bro. Connelly, a new man on the road.

Bro. Mann, of the same office, has voluntarily taken the "Dead Man's Trick." He is fully entitled to his own opinion, but some of the boys think he is having a brain storm.

Mill Fork is growing to be quite an important point, on account of the number of General Manager's specials being run over the division.

It is with some regret that we announce that our "Katy scab," Mr. Cooke, has left Soldier Summit, as he afforded no small amount of amusement for the boys working nights. It is reported that he had some little trouble in getting his U. S. mail from Tucker. The boys did not seem to fully appreciate his "Tnx." "13" he is now working at Biwaubie, on the San Pedro, and the Brothers on the L. A. will do well to look out for him.

Bro. Owens, of Colton, has either layed off or resigned; no one seems to know which. He has departed for Denver, and by this time is probably having one continual round of pleasure. Bro. Fillmore, the former night man is now enjoying the delights of working twelve hours in daylight. He was recently seen speeding over the division on the roadmaster's gasoline car.

Bro. Mergens, from the O. R. & N. Co., is the latest arrival working, nights, but the high altitude does not seem to agree with him, and he has fallen into the habit of resigning two or three times a week.

Bro. Rasmusson, the worthy agent, is dividing his time between wrestling freight and teaching his new white bulldog to fight.

Bro. Swartzfager, of Kyunc, has fallen heir to the day job, and is now monarch of all he surveys. Bro. Lynas has left us for other fields to conquer. Bro. O'Brien is the new night man.

Bro. Burge, from we know not whither, is working at Helper, and living on fresh air and scenery.

Bro. Sutherland is leaving payday for Denver.

As space in THE TELEGRAPHER is getting to be at a premium, suppose we had better tie up for rest before it is too late. The nons are getting to be such scarce articles that we are falling into the habit of not asking a new telegrapher whether he is a man or whether he is a walking imitation. Things are surely coming our way now, and soon we will all be smoking the gold band perfectos—all except the lady members. This will positively have to be all.

With best wishes for all who carry the up-to-date card. VOLUNTEER.

S. P., L. A. & S. L. Railway.

First and San Pedro Districts —

Who said we were dead?

True it is we have been sleeping for some time, but, now that we are awake to our own interests, let us remain so, and let every one put his shoulder to the wheel and assist in thoroughly organizing this road.

The nons are getting very scarce, and if every member would do his part, the nons would soon be an unheard of proposition on this line.

We have one Katy scab in our midst, but understand he is leaving for other parts, which will be a relief to many of us, as his services are about as rank as his general make-up, and he has very few friends here.

A system division of the Order will have been formed on this road before this appears in print, and when the time comes for electing division officers, make it a point to see that you elect men of honesty, ability and nerve, and then look around you and see if you cannot discover some means of assisting them in securing better conditions for the telegraphers.

Give the company the best service you possibly can, which will be of great assistance to your committee when legislating for improved conditions in this department.

It is true that we have a just cause for a kick, as the minimum salaries for agents in this district is twenty dollars per month less than the minimum of the same class of employes on the Sou. Pac. Our allowance for overtime is also far below the standard of the Southern Pacific in the same districts.

We had quite a hot spell during the berry season, and a few of the members had more than their share of work looking after the crop. The same men will be severely worked during the tomato season.

Bro. H. M. Gill, of Ontario, is laying off on a ninety-day leave of absence at this writing.

Bro. Geo. W. Doty, of Division No. 49, filling in nights, account Bro. Gill being away.

Bro. W. H. Hiller holds down day trick at Ontario, but "13" he figures on leaving us soon.

IKK.

Southern Pacific Railway.

Salt Lake Division—

I have been looking for a write-up from the west end. Surely there has been plenty doing in the past few months that would interest every member. Do not wait for others to make the start. Every telegrapher's support is needed and asked for. Active individual effort toward a common point is going to bring results. Would you confess that it is necessary to connect you with the business end of a bumble bee to bring out some active principles. Our work is never done. Onward and upward is the cry.

Have you read the proceedings of the last regular session, held at Minneapolis, Minn.? Look it over. It accounts for every cent of money taken in and itemizes the expenditures. I have heard members ask: Where does all this money go? The explanation is full and do not forget to note the steady increase in the finances.

The Local Chairman asks for your support. Are you giving it? If there are any changes at your station find out if the recent arrival is a member and get him transferred to this division if not already in. It costs nothing to make the transfer. If a non, give his name to the Local Chairman, also to G. S. and T. Bro. L. W. Quick at St. Louis. This will start them coming at him from several different directions at once with no chance for escape.

We had two special assessments, amounting to $6, to defray the expenses of a committee to get a new schedule. If you think this too much just ask the next trainman who comes in the office what his special assessments were in meeting the expenses of their General Committee. Four times six and then some. The trainmen are reaping the results every month, while we write the same old figures on the time roll. What has become of that appeal to the four clauses? Is it pigeon-holed, quarantined or what? Bring it out and settle the question, it has been hanging fire long enough.

Do you exercise your rights under the old schedule? Your hours of work are eleven. If you do not get the meal hour make out an over time slip and send it in to the chief dispatcher of your district. The company will pay this over-time without any words if you are entitled to it.

Brakemen will average in the neighborhood of $125 per month. Are your services worth less? Thorough organization is the key note. Would there be a shortage of telegraphers if the minimum were $100 per month.

A seniority list would be welcomed by all of the telegraphers of this division.

Midlake, day and night, should be on the next bulletin. Those wanting salt water baths handy bid in.

The Montello force is now complete. H. E. Bell, chief; McBean, from the R. G. W., first trick; Leahy, second trick, and Peek, third trick. The latter two home made. We like to see dispatchers come up from the ranks at home.

A Miss Phillips at Fenelon.

C. L. Munger, at Moor, off on one of his annual trips. Do not know the relief man.

Bro. J. J. Cullen at Wells agency.

Will look for a write-up from the west end within the next few months. Mail it so that it will reach St. Louis not later than the 25th of the month, so it will appear in the next issue.

CERT. 410.

San Joaquin Division—

A few changes have taken place since the last write-up appeared, but am unable to give them all.

Bro. W. Mitchen, of Oxnard, has bid in Santa Barbara nights.

Bro. J. T. Oakley now working the night trick at Santa Barbara.

Bro. M. M. Cecil, Santa Barbara days, has returned from a vacation which he spent mostly on the mountain district.

There is a new man working nights at Oxnard. Don't know his name or whether he is a member, but if he is not he should arrange to come across.

Mr. J. D. Vardell, nights at Lancaster.

Bro. Ford, fifth trick Mojave, is in a Los Angeles hospital. Can not say what the trouble is.

Bro. G. W. Northainer, of Santa Barbara, now working a trick in Mojave, also Bro. Speer, late of Long Island Ry., N. Y., working a trick in Mojave.

As this is all that I have been able to learn I will depend upon some other Brother to help lengthen the list of doings. Cor.

Louisiana Western Division—

When we stop and think that only twice in the past two or three years have we given the journal a write-up, that only twice have we been represented out of a publication of possibly thirty-six issues, should we not hide behind our electric fans and blush for shame?

A division as well organized as ours should be represented with at least one full page in every issue of the journal. There are more happenings, changes and interesting events taking place every day on our division than takes place on most other divisions in a month of Sundays.

Mr. Meyers has just returned from Boston, Mass., where he has been attending the train dispatchers' convention, and the lay-off seems to have done him good.

A good many offices have been closed this spring on account of slack business, but at the present writing business is picking up, more trains running and the Jennings oil field is producing more oil than it has for the past six months, necessitating the running of many turn-arounds.

S. H. Simpson and H. A. White are doing the telegraph stunts at Jennings, with H. L. Davis, agent.

Our friend and Brother, J. E. Buerlot, Crowley nights, has resigned, but owing to scarcity of telegraphers in this section has, as yet, been unable to get away. It is rumored that he contemplates launching forth upon the sea of matrimony.

Bro. Tom Cochran, "CN," Crowley, days, is at Mineral Wells on a thirty days' leave of absence; relieved by a non, Mrs. O'Flynn.

Bro. Landry is still agent at Scott, and has built a little home there.

D. L. Caffery, a man who worked as a clerk at Lafayette during clerks' strike, is now doing agency work at Rayne, relieving the regular agent.

J. V. Leblanc, a non, is agent at Crowley.

L. E. Stafford, agent at Midland, is enjoying a thirty days' leave of absence; relieved by Bro. C. R. Roberts.

G. L. Walker is the assigned agent at Mermentau.

Bro. Hobbie, agent at Iowa Station, off on a thirty days' vacation; relieved by Bro. Tremaux.

Bros. Briggs and Chase are holding down "CK" office, Lake Charles.

Most of the old boys are inclined to think they need a change of climate now, since the eight-hour law went into effect in Texas and they can't be blamed, as the better conditions across the State line creates a temptation that is a hard one to resist.

CERT. 2817.

M., L. and T. and L. W. Divisions—

It is very seldom that we see anything from this division in THE TELEGRAPHER, and I think it is time we were waking up and giving an account of ourselves every month.

I have been on these divisions two years and have seen only one or two articles from them, and I do not believe they were from our regular correspondent. There has been very few changes made in bulletin positions on these divisions during the last six months, although about five of our best jobs are still hanging fire, one filled by a scab clerk, who is not even a telegrapher, and others by extra men whom the company picks up from time to time.

We have had quite a few changes in non-bulletin positions. Mr. Charles Fahey, formerly division freight and passenger agent for this company at San Antonio, Tex., has been appointed terminal agent at New Orleans, La., having jurisdiction over all offices in New Orleans, Algiers and Avondale, La., which reduces the former agents to assistant agents only. This, of course, does not hurt us, as these positions are filled by personal friends of the parties in power.

Brothers, what good excuse can any of you offer for quietly sitting down and letting things go as they have? You certainly ought to know that we are in a dangerous position just now, and if we don't wake up and that at once we will be ignored completely. I understand the company, under the plea of scarcity of men, has been holding us out of positions that we have been regularly assigned to. In the meanwhile they seem to have no trouble in picking up extra men to fill the positions that are justly ours by right of seniority, and hold us in the ones we have bulletined out of. Section 2 of our contract provides for such cases as these, and if you will be men and stand up for your rights, which are just, there can be nothing wrong, and I am sure the officials will think the more of you for being men. On the other hand, if you do not want the places after they have been assigned you turn them loose and give some other good Brother a show.

I think it would be well for our Local Chairman to make a trip over the lines and see just what is the trouble with us and instill a little more enthusiasm in the Brothers by his presence, and look out for the nons along the line.

I will cut out now, hoping our regular correspondent will be more regular in future, and give us a good write-up next month. CERT. 1469.

Western Division—

It has been so long since I have seen "Western Division" in print in our beloved journal that it ought to be photographed and hung in every office when it comes out, if it escapes the editor's blue pencil.

It seems like this division is sadly in need of a correspondent. Why can't the boys get busy and appoint a division correspondent, and keep him posted on all the news, and have a bright, newsy article every month? It is enough to make a man "say things" when he looks forward to the coming of our journal every month, hunt up "Southern Pacific," and don't find anything but a few scattering notes from so great a system, and month after month goes by and we never see the "Western." Come, wake up! We have been asleep long enough. Let our Eastern Brothers know there is a Western Division on the Southern Pacific. Let them know we are alive in this land of sunshine and flowers. Let us have something to look forward to each month. It helps to lighten our work. Life is only a short dream, so let us make it a pleasant dream for one and all. Let us all work together in unionism. Now someone else get busy. Don't let this be the last write-up in our journal. Let us all help bear the troubles of our Brothers, far or near. Wake up, boys, take an interest. Keep the ball rolling, now that I have started it.

Poor, dear old stricken San Francisco! Earthquakes, fires and strikes. To top it all off, our brothers-in-law, the C. T. U., have gone out there and in Oakland. We all join in wishing them success, and they should have our support, for if anybody deserves better wages and working conditions they surely do. The following is taken from a letter I received from our Secretary, Bro. D. W. Koppikus:

"The strike of the C. T. U. in Oakland and San Francisco is a just and legitimate one and it appeals to every member of the O. R. T. to assist them so far as they can do so legitimately, but they are to render the Southern Pacific Co. the same service as before the strike, and not do anything that would have a tendency to conflict with our agreement with the company. I am informed from a reliable source that at our headquarters they have received a large quantity of letters from our members from all over the system expressing their sympathy to the C. T. U., and not only sympathizing, but extending half their pocketbooks, if necessary.

"The C. T. U. are in this strike to win, and if loyalty, endurance and good judgment counts for anything they are bound to come out victors, notwithstanding the fact that the W. U. and Postal say there is a surplus of telegraphers, and they have their wants supplied. If anyone has been keeping tab on the commercial and railroad telegraphers they will see the absurdity of such a statement, and fully understand why they were made. It is true a great many telegraphers have left the service simply because they could command more money at something else, and when the telegraph and railroad companies realize this fact, and will pay a just and reasonable compensation for services rendered, the men will return to the profession they love so well, and it is very probable that the scarcity will not be so great.

"The grand ball in Oakland, June 28, given for the benefit of the C. T. U., was largely attended by the fraternity and others, and was one of the grandest affairs of the season, both socially and financially, net proceeds being over $1,000.

"We have a few delinquents on the Western Division who have not even paid the two assessments of $3 each, let alone the dues for the present term, and the only excuse they offer is that they are waiting to hear the decision of the judge on our arbitration board. In my opinion arbitration is a farce, and Division No. 53 is getting the full benefit of it. This is our first experience and we will know better next time. We are all waiting anxiously for this decision, but the judge is silent. However, whatever his decision may be, we will have the best schedule in the world, and the members should be content until they can better themselves.

"Now, boys, put your shoulder to the wheel and show by your conduct that you are loyal and true members, and above all pay up your dues, and pay them as far in advance as you can, and then you will not have to be dunned for something you should always cheerfully pay."

Boys, I am surprised. Why should we not pay our dues? We have learned a lesson, and I hope all Brothers will profit by it, but that is no reason why we should let our dues run behind. We have to learn some time. Take my advice, pay up at once. Don't let your names drop from the roll of honor.

In our next write-up we are going to publish the names of all nons, in order that our members may know who they are working with. It would be a good idea, too, to publish a list of delinquents, and, should we decide to do it, I hope there will be none to publish by the time we send our matter to the press, by August 15. As it is now there is a long list of names. That will never do. See what we would be working for now if it wasn't for our noble Order. Fifty dollars per month would be the best we could get. Come, pay your dues cheerfully and without having to be asked for them. Keep in mind, too, our motto: "No card, no favors," and when your last card is six months' old you will begin to think about something, so don't let your cards expire.

Bro. A. M. Schiveley, agent at Richmond, has been appointed Local Chairman. He will, also, look after the nons and delinquent Brothers from Richmond to Sacramento via the Cal. P. and the Cal. P. branches.

Bro. L. J. Chase, agent Farmington, has been appointed committeeman, and will send the "gentle reminders" to nons and delinquents in territory from Lathrop to Fresno, and Lathrop to Sacramento via Stockton, also the Stockton, Lodi and Ione branches.

Bro. "Kop" says he will look after the rest of the bunch on the division.

Any news notes, marriages, births, deaths, any and all matter good for the Order, social and otherwise, forwarded to any of the above named, will find its way into our "news notes." Wake up, boys, everything you see or hear write a note and mail it. By doing this we will have bright, newsy articles every month. Besides this, let's see something in THE TELEGRAPHER from someone else.

Don't put it off with the feeling that some one else will write. If you do it is liable to be two years again before we see the "Western" in print. If you are not disposed to write yourself, do as I suggested above, keep notes.

The steamer Solano, the largest ferryboat in the world, ferrying trains over the straits of Car-quinez, between Port Costa and Benicia, is out of commission and all trains are running via Stockton. This relieves the strain for the Cal. P. boys, but gives the boys on the "long stretch" a little overtime.

Mr. Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation of Harriman lines, paid us a visit (from the rotunda of his car). He was accompanied by other officials, from General Manager Calvin down. He traveled only in daylight, and as the notion took him. His tour of inspection covers the system. From this division he went south to Los Angeles and to the Colorado River.

It is rumored that Mr. Harriman intends to improve Point Pinole, near Rodeo, and ferry trains from Rodeo to South Vallejo, and run trains across the hills via American canyon to Suisun, thus avoiding the sinks between Suisun and Benicia.

New time card No. 112 adds a new train, Nos. 29 and 30, Santa Cruz passenger; runs from Sacramento to Santa Cruz, and return via Stockton. Tracy and Niles. This is a fast train and makes few stops. A local is put on from Vallejo, Suisun to Sacramento and return, thus taking the local work off Nos. 19 and 20.

Anybody who thinks we don't need increased wages are away off. How is this for prices: Flour, $1.50 sack; sugar, $5.75 per sack; ham, 25c a pound; bacon, 26c pound; lard, 5-pound tin, 75c canned vegetables and salmon, 15c per can straight; dry beans, 5c pound, and potatoes $3 per sack. Klondike ain't in it. Wonder how they expect a man with a family to keep out of debt on the wages they pay?

All the section foremen got a raise of $5 to $8 per month. Why can't we get something, too? But let's not get discouraged. Let's persevere. When the new law goes into effect, limiting the hours of labor in telegraph service, it will so greatly increase the demand for operators that the railroads will be willing to pay any price. Then there will be some pleasure in railroading.

Here is another thing, boys. I am a reader of The Railroad Man's Magazine, and every month they issue problems to be solved, both in train service and telegraph service. Why can't we have a technical page? How interesting it would be. We could have a page devoted to the giving and answering of questions, and articles on the technical knowledge in connection with telegraphy. I don't know anything technical myself, and I'll venture to say that 75 per cent of the average railroad telegraphers do not.

Bro. L. M. Delmas, agent at Peters, has been on the sick list, but is O. K. now.

Bro. E. C. Crawford still holds down the agency at Oakdale. He has been there since the year 1901.

Bro. P. E. Grady has been doing second trick stunts in Stockton. He is now holding first trick in Stockton in place of Bro. McNamara, resigned for new fields of business. "13" he goes to Martinez. Bro. Grady's regular job is night operator at Dixon.

"13" Bro. W. B. Johnson got "hooked up" while in Pleasanton. I notice on bulletin just out he secured second trick Stockton.

Bro. A. D. Cowden, agent at Waterford, is a proud papa. "13" it was a 10-pound boy.

Wonder how Bro. O. L. Gibbs likes his night job at Lathrop. All trains have to stop to register anyhow.

Bro. H. S. Pedrick, agent at Batavia, wants to bid out on a branch job. He won't get it on this bulletin.

Bro. "Fritz" Hanson is still agent at Alameda, Park St., with the girls.

Wonder what Mr. Siebe is going to do with that lounge he got last Christmas while at San Pablo? Don't think "JE" can use it much at Suisun now, too much work for him to check up the cars. It is a wonder, too, he wouldn't make out a new application to the O. R. T. He has no excuse, he has the "dough." Boys, get after him.

Mr. J. Robinson bid back to Ceres. This leaves Byron open; temporarily held by Bro. P. Holway.

Bro. Burris has given up the agency at New-man. Temporarily held by Mr. F. M. Bailey.

Agency at Bay Point open again. Temporarily held by Mr. C. W. Fuller.

The new agency at Elmhurst is bulletined. Temporarily held by Mr. S. Grady.

The following positions are open on last bulletin, besides agencies mentioned above, and temporarily held by:

Assistant agent, Modesto, Mr. P. R. Good.

Assistant agent, Pleasanton, Mr. C. E. Ray.

Assistant agent, Lodi, Mr. J. M. Marker.

Night operator, Modesto, Mr. B. V. Harmon.

Night operator, Lodi, Bro. L. W. McCarthy.

Night operator, Westley, Mr. H. P. Fish.

Night operator, San Pablo, Mr. J. H. Siebe.

Night operator, Elmhurst, Mr. Clarence Thome.

Night operator, Firebaugh, Mr. B. G. Coons.

Night operator, Los Banos, Bro. A. Z. Rose.

Night operator, Elmira, temporarily closed.

Night operator, Webster, closed temporarily.

Night operator, Brighton, Bro. R. Hebard.

Third trick, Niles, Mr. H. Stallmaker.

Third trick, Benicia, closed temporarily.

Third trick, Tracy, Bro. Lee Dyer.

Second trick, Niles, Mr. F. Montgomery.

First trick, Stockton, Bro. P. E. Grady.

Bro. R. Hebard secured the agency at Mt. Eden on last bulletin.

Mr. G. W. Harrison went back to Alvarado.

Pleasanton is one of the starred stations and will not likely be bulletined. Don't know who is there.

Bro. G. R. Patterson secured the agency at Dos Palos.

Bro. R. E. Denehy, second trick, Tracy.

Bro. A. Z. Rose goes to Davis as day operator.

Bro. A. MacIntosh, days, Webster.

Mr. Siebe, nights Suisun.

If anyone whose name is mentioned in above and is a member of some other, or Grand Division, and is not prefixed by "Bro.," will please communicate with Bro. D. W. Koppikus, East Oakland, his name will be enrolled as a Brother. I urge also that he transfer to Division 53. We have no means of knowing if a man is a member of an outside division or not.

"73" for all.

Pennsylvania Railway.

Allegheny Division—

Your correspondent has just returned from a three weeks' vacation to his old home in Wisconsin, and has not had time to get in touch with the situation, hence this article will not contain much news.

Bro. W. P. Burns, who has been laid up with typhoid fever for several weeks, is gaining strength rapidly and will soon be back at work.

Bro. J. J. Burns spent several weeks at Atlantic City lately. He reports having had a splendid time and feels like a new man.

The meeting held at Foxburg recently was a huge success, the attendance was not as large as anticipated, but what we lacked in numbers was more than made up in enthusiasm.

Bro. George, from Emlenton, was compelled to walk home, a distance of four miles, in order to report for duty on time. When a member will do that it shows beyond a doubt that he has the welfare of the organization at heart.

Bro. Arendt worked hard to make the meeting a pleasant one and to him is due much of the credit for its success. We hope to have many more such meetings in the near future, and the result can not help but be beneficial to all concerned.

Applications continue coming in at a satisfactory rate, and I want to repeat what I have said a great many times, such a result would be impossible were it not for the interest manifested by the "rank and file," and I want to again congratulate the membership on this division for the fine showing they have made. I predict that in the near future a non will be as scarce as an honest politician. Let us all unite in our efforts to make the "Valley" solid. We are leading the procession at the present time. Let every member feel that it is his or her duty to retain that position and the final result will never be in doubt. Remember we have a hard proposition before us which must be met and disposed of within the year, and our success or failure rests absolutely with us; therefore, it behooves us all to redouble our efforts and never let up a minute.

More anon.

BRIGHAM.

Conemaugh Division—

Since the last issue of THE TELEGRAPHER we learn that "J," Kiski Junction, on the south end, has been made an eight-hour office. This is another step in the right direction. There are several other offices on the Conemaugh Division that should be made eight-hour offices, but it is not probable that the railroad company will do anything before the nine-hour law goes into effect next March. This law should affect all block offices on this division.

Slow progress is being made on the new tower at Bennett. From the appearance of the work already done the boys at "BN" are going to have the finest tower on the Conemaugh Division, and an office that they will not only be proud of, but one that it will be a satisfaction to work in.

Bro. Castle, first trick at "AJ," was hit by No. 424 on the evening of July 13. After being hit by the engine, he was dragged some distance before regaining his feet. After an examination by the doctor it was found that he had escaped with a few bruises, and was able to resume duty on July 22.

Dispatcher Lee, of south end, off sick for a few days; relieved by Extra Dispatcher Walters.

Bro. Henderson, third trick at "AJ," back to work after being on the sick list for a couple of weeks. Relieved by Bro. Rockwell.

Sister Skelly, third trick at "DX," on sick list. Relieved by Telegrapher Hamilton.

We understand that Bro. Hoon, day man at "CQ," has left the service.

Bro. Courtney, of "AC" office, off a few days on a trip to Philadelphia, others working twelve hours to cover.

Sister Lucere, days at "QN," has secured a leave of absence for two months and left on July 21 for a trip to Europe. We understand her destination is France. There are but few of us who would not like to make such a trip.

The Conemaugh Division has had a number of applications during the past month, among them is that of Miss Dorchell from Forty-third street.

Since the new block system has gone into effect there is considerable more work and many of the boys find they have all they can do.

Bro. Samuel D. Karns and Sister Anna M. Fowler, both well known and popular members of Pittsburg Division, No. 52, recently surprised their many friends by the formal announcement of their marriage, which occurred a year ago in Cadiz, Ohio, and which was not even dreamed of by any of their most intimate acquaintances until the secret was given out by them early in July of this year. It has been noticed for some time past that there was some wonderful attraction for him in a quiet little home in Hoboken, also that the object of his attentions seemed perfectly happy, but even the wisest of those about them would not have ventured to suggest anything more than that they might soon become engaged. Bro. Karns is the second trick train dispatcher on the west end of the Conemaugh Division, P. R. R., and is located in the general office in Pittsburgh. His charming bride has had several years' experience as a telegrapher, and both of them take an active interest in the work and welfare of the O. R. T. After the announcement of their marriage was made public and congratulations showered upon the happy couple, they started on a honeymoon trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and other points of interest, and since their return have been "at home" in the beautiful city of Aspinwall, one of the most picturesque and delightful suburbs of Pittsburgh.

Bro. and Sister Karns are both so well known along the road, not only among the members of the fraternity, but in social and business circles as well, that the news of their marriage caused quite a flutter of excitement, and an innumerable host of admiring friends unite in the one earnest, sincere and confident wish that theirs may be a happy, peaceful and prosperous pilgrimage over the rugged pathway of life, that their union may be a perpetual romance, and that the choicest blessings of heaven may rest upon them.

Div. Cor.

P. and N. W. Division—

Having seen nothing in THE TELEGRAPHER for month of July from the P. and N. W., and being urged by several of the boys to contribute a line or two, I will tell you of the changes that have taken place since you last heard from this division.

Bro. H. S. Reed was message man in Bellwood, June 23 to July 5, inclusive. This was done as a result of first trick dispatcher taking his vacation.

Extra Agent and Telegrapher Hall was detailed to fill the place of Telegrapher Reed at Punxsutawney, days. Hall succeeded in trading with Night Telegrapher Peace, so that they could both board at home.

Bro. Bratton, telegrapher at Coalport, in company with a C. & C. Division train dispatcher, went to Punxsutawney on train No. 9, June 29, en route to Buffalo, N. Y. They spent some time in DuBois Saturday night, returning to Punxsutawney Sunday night, thence to Coalport Monday morning. They report a swell time while away and especially fine in DuBois.

Bro. Harvey, of "DR" tower, enjoyed a short vacation July 1 to 5, inclusive. He left for Germany Valley, Huntingdon County, Pa., to spend a few days with his parents and friends.

Bro. Ifert, relief telegrapher, did the stunt at "DR" while Harvey was away.

Bro. Harber, telegrapher at Irvona, spent a week in Pittsburg during the latter part of June. Bro. Ifert relieved him also.

Mr. A. J. List was regularly admitted a member of Harrisburg Division No. 3 during the month of June. We are glad that the new men are coming to the front and stepping out with us.

Bro. List, day man at "D," Lloyds, has asked for his vacation in September. He contemplates visiting friends in Washington, D. C.

Night Telegrapher McHugh, at "D," is thinking of going to LaJose, nights, providing his seniority will permit it.

Bros. Wertz and Bowman, day and night men respectively, at "VO" tower, are clamoring for vacations.

Boys, keep your eyes on Glasgow. I am told there are two students there and a third ready for admittance. Glasgow is making quite a show in the increase of the student ranks. About the same degree of showing as "MC" and "MG."

Bro. Uber, day man at "HY," Heverly, made a quick trip to Irvona recently.

Bro. Hunter, agent and telegrapher at "J," Berwindale, will get his vacation in a short time. He is seriously considering a trip through the South.

Bro. Williams, day man at "N," La Jose, called on his brother, D. E. at "GO," Mahaffey, a few days ago.

Bro. Walker, agent and telegrapher at "FM," Fordham, came up to Punxs's last month and did some shopping. He reports success in his lately assumed duties as station agent.

Bro. Frampton, agent and telegrapher at "Q," Winslow, took seven days off during June and assisted his wife in beautifying their home.

Extra Agent Hall, on duty at Winslow during that week.

Bro. Peace, night owl at Punxs's, accompanied by Bro. Hall, attended the local meeting at Tyrone some time ago. They report quite a nice time. None of the division officers were present, yet they report an interesting meeting. They had refreshments after the meeting. Bro. Peace is contemplating a Western trip this fall. He has friends in Nebraska and if the trip is taken will call on them before his return to Pennsylvania. He is very much interested in his prospective trip.

Con.

Telegraphers' Club of Baltimore, Md.

TELEGRAPHERS' MID-SUMMER DANCE.

The mid-summer dance of the Telegraphers' Club was held on Tuesday evening, July 16, at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, a suburban park about five miles from Baltimore, where there are plenty of refreshments and amusements for those who do not dance, also a very fine dance hall. We had a fine orchestra to furnish the music for dancing, and every one present enjoyed themselves immensely; the enjoyment lasted from 8 to 12 p. m. There were about 150 present.

The Committee on Arrangements consisted of Wm. H. Schott, of the W. U., chairman; J. M. Smith, of the Postal; Gus Klein, private firm; Eugene Sattler, of W. U., and J. L. Cutsail, of Postal, assistants.

The master of ceremonies was Prof. H. R. Watkins, of the B. & O. R. R., who is also President of the club.

The club was organized to bring the telegraphers of Baltimore and vicinity together in order that they could arrange for small parties of different character, to bring their families closer in friendship toward one another, but the telegraphers do not seem to appreciate the fact of the good that a club of this kind can do for them and their families, regarding pleasure, during the whole year for such a small sum of money.

Telegraphers should be glad to know of such a club and join at once. We asked several months ago through the journal for the commercial men, and through THE TELEGRAPHER for the railroad men to join us and make this club one of the best in the vicinity of Baltimore.

We could have a club house in Baltimore for the fraternity as good as the Elks, Eagles or any other social organization in Baltimore, where we could pass the idle moments when not at work, by having all kinds of games and also furnish rooms for telegraphers who arrive in the city from time to time and have no special place of abode. They could be made to feel at home immediately by our club, as we could rent them a room just as good and as reasonable as they could get anywhere. At the same time they could enjoy themselves with the members at pool, billiards, cards, or any other game they saw fit to play. On the other hand we will take up the family question. There are a great many men who are married and they give us that as an excuse for not joining, which is very poor, for the reason that 25 cents a week from their earnings would not cause them or their families to suffer at all, considering what good the 25 cents is doing for humanity's sake, in the way of cementing the bonds of friendship of their fellow-workers, and something still more important, of furnishing a way to give social functions that their families can become better acquainted, and the more their families become acquainted, naturally, the closer the men themselves will be brought together, hence the betterment of the telegraphers as the truest saying is, "United we stand, divided we fall."

It is hoped by the president and all of the officers of this club that telegraphers who read this will try and spare 25 cents a week or a dollar a month for such a purpose.

If any telegrapher would like to know how the club is run just drop a postal card asking for information, and it will be answered promptly by the president or secretary.

We thank the publishers for the space given us this month.

Address H. R. Watkins, president, care B. & O. Central Building, Telegraph Department, or J. M. Smith, secretary, care Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., 130 Light St., Baltimore, Md.

C. & O. Railway.

The Huntington, W. Va., meeting, held July 27, was the banner meeting of the season. Bro. Mathewson called the meeting to order and after the receipt of various petitions, he surrendered the gavel to General Chairman Bro. L. G. Bentley, who called on our good Bro. Tanquary to conduct affairs. I am sorry I can not tell the boys all that was said and done, but space is too limited.

I will just say that all we need now is "a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether," and we will reach the summit. Success is at last within the grasp of the downtrodden telegrapher, and we all seem to realize this fact and are pulling.

We had talks from Bros. Tanquary, Bentley, Mathewson, McNeel, Irwin, Glenn, Tobin, Wilson, and several others.

Our good Bros. Tyler, of Staunton, and Shuey, of Craigsville, gave us a most interesting and instructive talk for the good of the Order.

Bros. Hiser, Corbin, Raika and Nichols, who have been on the sick list, are back at the key.

Bro. G. B. Warren has moved his family to Greenup and taken the agency at Gray's Branch.

We have very few delinquent members, and they are going to do the right thing soon. "Hurry a little," boys.

Mr. Newton, of Covington, has left the service.

Bro. J. R. O'Daniels and wife, of "MS," Russell, Ky., are visiting home folks, down in North Carolina.

Dispatcher Greenert has been taking a rest. We suppose, from looking at this dispatcher, it was for his health.

Bro. J. C. McNeal has been promoted to the agency at Mt. Sterling, Mr. Paxton having resigned. Our good Bro. W. O. Pierce, of E. K. Junction, is acting cashier at this place.

CERT. 84.

Illinois Central Railway.

Omaha Division—

The first meeting for exactly one year was held at Ft. Dodge on the 23d, and was attended by about forty members. Our General Chairman, Bro. A. C. Mulhall, was to have been with us, but for some reason he failed to make connections, and so we missed the pleasure of meeting him, and also of hearing him speak.

Now, brothers, let's get together again and have more meetings. The one we had was all right, in the true sense of the word, but I'm like the little boy with the ice cream, I think it tasted like more. There is nothing like getting together as often as possible, and discussing the different questions continually arising to promote a feeling of fellowship and make us feel like brothers in reality. Of course, I presume there are a few on the pike who know every one, but there are a great many who do not. Let's arrange to have a meeting not over two months from now, and all of us who are working at places where a day and night man are employed, and who were present at the last meeting, work for the other fellow and let him go up and get acquainted with the rest of the bunch, and I'm sure he will come back to work feeling that there is something behind the grand old O. R. T. besides paying dues. I will guarantee that the oftener you attend meetings the better you will feel toward yourself, the O. R. T. and the world in general.

Our local chairman, Bro. Penney, and our Assistant local chairman, Bro. Empie, were present at the meeting, and advanced some good ideas, which met the approval of the members present. Our genial second trick dispatcher, Bro. E. C. Codner, was also present and had a good heart-to-heart talk with us. Am sure all the boys appreciated it, and the ones who had not met Bro. Codner were glad of the opportunity to meet him. In fact, Bro. Codner seemed to enjoy the meeting himself. Now, just a word while I'm on the subject of dispatchers. It seems the dispatchers are forced to do a great deal of unnecessary calling. I realize, of course, that every one can not be just where he can open his key and answer up the first time the dispatcher calls, but it seems as if some could answer sooner. Try it and I'm sure the dispatchers will appreciate it. All of our dispatchers are exceptionally nice fellows, and seem to believe in a square deal, and it is no more than right that you should help them out as much as possible. Don't think I'm knocking on the telegraphers, because I'm not. Simply trying to give you some good advice.

Bro. R. W. Quante was elected Division Correspondent, and will be very thankful if you will send him any items; address West Belt Jct., Waterloo, Ia. Be sure to send them through U. S. mail and have them in by the 23d at the latest. Anything in the way of news will be appreciated, such as changes, sickness of any brother, etc. Remember that the Division Correspondent can't get all the news unless it is sent in, and if you will send the items in will try to give the best write-up possible.

There are only two bulletins out at present. Both of these are new positions. One of them is the position as second day telegrapher in the dispatcher's office at Ft. Dodge, and the other is position as night telegrapher in same office. The yard office at Ft. Dodge has been abolished as a telegraph office, and Bro. Burt Lord, who has been holding the night job there will go to passenger depot as night ticket agent exclusively. Bro. Siep, who has been holding the day job at the yard office, is now working extra as second day telegrapher at "A," dispatcher's office, until some one secures position on bulletin.

Agent at Benson off on a vacation. Didn't hear where he is spending his surplus cash and time. A new man is relieving him. Hasn't been working long enough to get into the fold.

Telegrapher McClain is acting as relief agent at Austinville for a few days in Bro. Miller's place.

Bro. A. M. Garrick still hustling freight, U. S. mail, etc., until Bro. Wise returns.

Telegrapher Kitchen doing the owl stunt at Parkersburg. Unable to learn whether or not he is lined up. If not can trust Bro. Cooper to reason it out with him, and show him where he is in error.

Just a word about the student question. Now, you who have students (and I am glad to notice there are very few), if the aforesaid students make an error in selling tickets, or in any other thing, who is responsible, you or the student? Do you think you are treating yourself and every one else right? If you do, you have a queer way of reasoning things out.

Well, will cut out for this time. Don't forget to send the items in, please. "WQ."

IN MEMORIAM.

WHEREAS, The Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, has deemed it best to remove from the family of our Bro. J. S. Weis his dearly beloved wife, in manifestation of our respect and sympathy for our brother, be it

Resolved, By the members of the Illinois Central Railroad, Division No. 93, Order of Railroad Telegraphers, that we extend to the bereaved husband our heartfelt sympathy in this, his hour of affliction; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband, a copy spread upon the records of the division and a copy furnished to THE TELEGRAPHER for publication.

Freeport Division—

On the Freeport Division of 93
There have been changes too many for me.
So of any mistakes you happen to note,
Do not blame the scribe who wrote
These lines; get busy and let him know
That you can write a line or so;
This is all I wish to ask,
That you help me out in this toilsome task.

—R. E.

The month of July has been one of which we may well be proud, and I hope that every month will continue to be the same. Among the former nons that may now be called brothers we have L. I. McConnell, B. E. Watson, F. B. Schlaf, I. R. Crawford, J. E. Lynch.

All of these have come to the front since the close of the semi-annual period ending June 30th, 1907. On account of my being on the Freeport District I have had the opportunity of securing four of these five. I am sure all of the east end boys are aware of the fact that the percentage stands lower on this end of the line than on the other districts. If there is a non at your station and he is eligible, get after him. You know every little in this line helps towards thorough organization.

Among the recent bulletins we have Munger agency, Rockford nights, Parkway nights, day telegrapher and ticket clerk at Polo for thirty days, Wenona nights, day telegrapher "DR" office Freeport, East Jct., nights.

We are glad to take note that the branch is now solid, excepting one who was formerly a member and we sincerely hope he will line up in a few weeks.

At last we can call Mr. J. E. Lynch brother. I am sure Bro. Lynch will be proud of his card, and will make a faithful member, and we want to see his face at each and every meeting that is possible for him to attend.

Bro. M. P. Layton is laying off for thirty days, being relieved by Bro. Walter Kelly. Bro. Schultz is relieving Bro. Kelly nights at Minonk, while "KY" is doing the day stunt.

Bro. G. G. Geiger is enjoying a trip in the West, being relieved at Haldane by Bro. A. H. Burrigge, who was formerly with us at South Addison.

Bro. F. A. Henion relieved Bro. A. E. Norville at Buckbee days. Bro. Norville spent thirty days in the vicinity of Kansas City.

Mr. R. J. Starry relieved Bro. Brodeur at Bowes for a few days.

Bro. A. N. Shore received Polo ticket clerk and telegraph position for thirty days on bulletin.

Bro. B. T. Ireland, regular at Polo, is at present doing the agent's stunt at Polo.

Bro. Auld, of "X" office, notified Bro. Kelly of the death and point of burial of Bro. Stoneman. He was buried at Madison. Bro. Kelly was unable to attend the funeral.

Mr. Blackwell relieved Bro. S. W. Smith at Forreton days while Scotty was away getting tied up.

Sister Mead has returned to her duties after an extended vacation; can not say who relieved Sister Mead at Mendota while she was away.

Bro. Wm. Lane was successful applicant for position as day telegrapher handling the east end in "DR" office Freeport.

Bro. Stallion was sick for a few weeks this month.

Bro. L. C. S. Albright left the service and is working elsewhere.

Mr. Chas. Peterson is at present working at Munger nights.

Bro. Manning, formerly at Parkway nights, has been given the position as night telegrapher at Hawthorne.

Bro. A. H. Burrigge, who formerly worked for the I. C. at South Addison, has returned to the service. We are all glad to see him back.

Mr. R. J. Steele relieved Mr. J. Gartman at Corbin for a few days.

Again we will refer to Mr. W. Delano, non and the only one on the south end. Through the Order this man has received a raise of $10.00 per month, and granted overtime, which I "13" amounted to $19.50 last month, making a total of $29.50. They say it is a mean dog that bites the hand that feeds him.

Mr. McCann relieved Bro. Albright at Rockford nights.

Sister Walthon was away for about a week; Mr. McCarthy relieved Sister Walthon at Rockford days.

Bro. W. Powers worked two weeks at LaSalle nights account of sickness of Mr. S. H. Davis. Bro. Powers also worked several days at Rockford.

Mr. J. F. Eickman was called to Woosung to work as extra agent for about thirty days.

The experimental block between Bowes and Coleman did not prove a success, but understand they are going to make another trial at it in the near future.

A new water tank is to be built at Coleman. I "13" that it is to be much larger than the one in present use.

Bro. L. V. Hamm, Coleman days, is looking forward to a week's vacation, starting the first of next week.

Mr. J. H. Ransford relieved Bro. Manning at Parkway nights.

Bro. Henion relieved Bro. E. E. Harrington, third trick at C. Q. W. crossing.

Mr. Stocks, who has been working the second trick, was relieved by Bro. Henion upon Bro. Harrington's return.

Mr. Jennings, who formerly worked at Clinton "CO" office, is at present working the east end wire in "DR" office, Freeport, while Bro. Lane is breaking in for extra dispatcher.

Mr. L. S. Taylor, second trick dispatcher "DR" office, is going to take an extended vacation in California. Bro. Wm. Lane will fill the place during his absence.

Bro. Fred Patterson has left the service; he is at present working for some auto factory in Chicago. We all wish him success in his new undertaking.

There was a meeting at Freeport, July 26th, 1907. Our General Chairman, C. A. Mulhall, was present and gave us a few ideas of what an up-to-date card meant to the telegraphers. There were not as many present as should have been, and we hope that hereafter more faces will be seen at these meetings. There were several subjects of interest discussed, which I will not speak of, for I am sure the best way is to attend these meetings to find out what's doing.

Bro. Geiger, at Haldane, has a night man again; can not say who he is.

Bro. Geo. Cox was successful applicant for position of night telegrapher Freeport yard office.

Bro. Wm. Lane was successful applicant for position as day telegrapher working the east end wire "DR" office, Freeport. Bro. M. J. Madden received Bro. Lane's former position in "DR" office by bulletin.

Bro. Geo. Cox was successful applicant for position as night telegrapher at Parkway.

Bro. L. C. S. Albright is at present holding down a busy joint on the C., R. I. & P.

Sister Walthon, Rockford days, was called away from her duties on account of the death of her mother. Miss Walthon has our heartfelt sympathy in her bereavement.

It is now Bro. L. V. Hamm at Coleman.

"SHORTY."

New Orleans Terminal—

It has been some time since there has been anything in THE TELEGRAPHER from the Louisiana Division or New Orleans Terminal.

Everything going smoothly and the boys seem to be well pleased with the new schedule. The Terminal is well organized, only two non-members, and both of them are enjoying $5 raises and other benefits. Will come to them later. Comment unnecessary.

The only man that failed to get an increase in wages was Bro. Geo. Stewart, at "CO" office, New Orleans. No doubt he will be rewarded next time.

Bro. Quarrels is the new night man at Kenner Jct.

Bro. Chas. Thompson, of "BD" office, New Orleans, has just returned from his vacation, having spent several weeks in the hills of that dear old Alabama. He was relieved by Bro. Waddell, of the C. T. U. A.

Bro. T. G. Garth, days at "ND," Harahan yards, is off on his vacation touring the west and north, and is relieved by Bro. Holt, from Harahan Jct. Bro. Granberry is doing the night stunt at "ND."

Incline nights closed for the present and Bro. Jno. Youngblood coming over to Harahan Jct. relieving Bro. Holt.

Phil. Cameron, days at Incline, is now up-to-date and one of the boys.

Bro. Bill Rheames, agent at Kenner, has the honor of making the most overtime of anybody on the division; $25 per is the regular grind.

CERT. 1323.

Louisville Division—

As we have not had a write-up from this division for some time, will endeavor to let the boys know what is taking place.

Bro. R. L. Pulliam, agent at Big Clifty, has been laying off for several weeks. He is being relieved by Bro. E. A. McClure. Understand Bro. Pulliam gets Grayson Springs agency.

Bro. Ney Cox has returned to South Yards days; glad to see him back. Bro. Long has gone to his home in Illinois on a vacation. Understand there is to be a vacancy in dispatcher's office Louisville, account dispatcher Cecil resigning to go back on road as conductor.

Bro. McCall, from Leitchfield, has just returned from Jamestown, where he spent several days with the soldiers.

We have a new chief dispatcher on Paducah District, Mr. J. B. Thomas. He is a fine fellow and we wish him success.

Mr. A. F. Page, formerly C. D. on Paducah District, has been promoted to trainmaster.

Bro. Willingham, from Red Hill, is on a vacation, being relieved by Bro. T. J. Cecil.

Sister Lucy Hughes has just returned from a trip to Jamestown.

Bro. Griffin, formerly day telegrapher Paducah dispatcher's office, has been promoted to third trick dispatcher, he being relieved by Bro. J. B. Taylor. Do not know the night man at Paducah dispatcher's office, but think he has an up-to-date card.

Bro. C. H. Dewees, at Central City, has considerable trouble with his consists.

Bro. Beard, from McHenry, is now working nights at Kentucky Street, he being relieved by Bro. J. D. Procter.

Bro. Williams, agent at Beaver Dam, has been on a three weeks' vacation, being relieved by Bro. J. K. Adams.

Bro. Netherton has accepted the agency at Valley account Bro. Grinstead resigning to accept position with Uncle Sam. Sorry to lose Bro. Grinstead, but wish him much success.

Bro. J. O. Doyle is now acting as agent at Grayson Springs.

Bro. K. Jacobs has been reinstated and returned to his old job at Caneyville days. Glad to have him with us once more.

Bro. Richmond has been working nights at Tip Top, but had to skiddoo account Mrs. G. B. Tinsley being reinstated.

The soldiers returning from Jamestown almost drowned Bro. Davis at Tip Top by throwing a bucket of water on him as the train passed his station.

Understand Bro. Langley, from Hodgenville, goes to Big Clifty as agent. Do not know who gets Hodgenville.

Bro. W. W. Lee has accepted the agency at Kevil. Sorry to lose Bro. Lee from Princeton.

We have a new passenger depot at Princeton, with Bro. Delay working days. He has all the telegraphing to do, while Bro. Couch does the relay work for the Nashville Division at North Yards, this being a new position recently created.

We have no correspondent for this division, and as no one else will attempt to write anything I have done my best. W. C. S.

Chicago Division—

Was figuring on attending a meeting prior to this write-up, but failed, as the regular meeting night was changed by Bro. Morrison account of him not being able to attend on 20th, therefore news will be somewhat limited this time.

No changes south until we strike Kankakee, where we find Mr. T. H. Murphy acting as chief dispatcher while Mr. J. W. Hevron is taking his two weeks' vacation.

Bro. E. C. Slingman working first trick and Bro. Joe Adams night trick on Gilman Line. Bro. Porter days and Schniederjohn nights "HN," Kankakee.

At Ashkum Bro. D. J. O'Connell, agent, relieving Bro. Hupp, off on vacation.

Bro. Flora, from nights Paxton at Gilman nights; relieved by Bro. Hubbard.

Bro. H. J. Phelps relieving Bro. West at Buckley for awhile.

Bro. Hobbs, at Graymont, relieving Bro. Burcky who, we are sorry to say, is laid up with the rheumatism, but we hope he will soon be up and with us again.

Bro. Harris has returned to work at Colfax. Also Bro. Hatch at Kempton. Would like to see these two brothers attend the next meeting at Kankakee.

This is about all the changes that I know of this month.

Think we will have to appoint a committee to stir up the new assistant local chairmen who were elected last month, and see if they can't scare up a nice little bunch of news from their districts each month. There is generally some news from each district and it's up to the assistant local chairman to keep things alive on their district.

The first duty of an officer in the O. R. T. or any other organization is to attend every meeting, and if this is done it's certain to inspire him to come again and bring some one with him.

Hope to see the largest meeting at Gilman next Saturday night that we have ever had. Will tell you all about it next time. Div. Cor.

Gilman Line—

We are more than pleased to report a successful meeting at Kankakee. A goodly number were present, and all business brought before the Order was transacted in a satisfactory manner.

The only change in positions on this district of which we have any record is nights at Gibson. Bro. Munson relieving Bro. Toler. We don't know where Bro. Toler went, but think perhaps he returned to his old hunting grounds (St. Louis Division).

Bro. T. E. Barr is back to his old hang-out after a thirty days' leave of absence. Bro. H. J. Phelps relieved him.

Bro. Ralph Newman was instructed to report at Anchor to relieve Bro. E. C. Phelps, but understand he was afterwards instructed, when on the road, to return to Belleflower.

Bro. McKnight, of Melvin, visited relatives in Lane Sunday, July 21st.

We understand the American Express Company will establish an exclusive agency at this place, on account they take possession of the L. E. & W. Ry. This will cut the salary about $30.00 per month. We hope if this move is made the salary question will be settled satisfactorily.

Bro. Rich, at Farmer City, is having additional work this week on account of a carnival company visiting that city.

Bro. Sam Newton made a flying trip to St. Louis one day last week.

ASSISTANT LOCAL CHAIRMAN.

Springfield Division—

Bro. A. J. Berry, of Glen Carbon, was called to Edwardsville the 10th, being relieved by Bro. Holland for the day.

Bro. H. N. Spurgeon, of Vera, has been on leave of absence and has just returned to his work.

Bro. F. O. McCarty has resigned as agent at Ramsey and has accepted employment elsewhere, being relieved by Mr. Mitchell.

Mr. F. A. Allison, of Assumption, is taking a lay off and a trip through California, being relieved by Bro. Lankford, relief agent.

Bro. X. B. Holland has just been relieved at Macon and is going to Beason next. Bro. Holland has just lined up, and we are pleased to see him handling such stations as Macon in good shape.

"DZ," Decatur, has been experiencing some trouble in keeping a man there long enough at one time to get acquainted. "13" Bro. Donaldson, of Spaulding, has landed the night trick at "DZ," and we wish him success.

Bro. C. J. Filer got Hallville on bulletin.

Only four more nons left on the Havana line, and three of these may yet be convinced that they are standing in their own light and come into the fold. At least we would all be pleased to change our records and add these gentlemen to the "Brother" side of the page. CERT. 348.

ASSUMPTION, ILL., July 7, 1907.

Members of Springfield Division—

I am in receipt of your purse of $8.00 which was presented me for the purpose of purchasing a grip to carry O. R. T. papers in while on the line. I take this method of thanking you for the contribution and the many courtesies shown me, and I assure you that at any time you have anything you wish me to carry for you, it will always be open. Again thanking you for the kindness you have extended me, with best wishes, I am,

Yours fraternally,

A. LANKFORD, Local Chairman.

Vicksburg Division—

A meeting was held at Vicksburg Sunday evening, July 14th, and about twenty-five members were present. Those present represented the Memphis, Vicksburg and New Orleans Division.

After all officers had been appointed, Bro. W. P. Moore called the meeting to order. He mentioned that the General Chairman would go over the entire division semi-annually and get acquainted with all the boys, and especially those who were situated so that they could never absent themselves from their duties to attend the meetings. It is hoped that a great deal of good will result from this, and a. hands present heartily agreed to it.

There being no applications to pass on and no victims to ride the goat, it was suggested that the meeting proceed under the head "good of the Order."

Bro. Moore had with him a copy of the new schedule and went over it from cover to cover, and showed the boys all the changes, and called particular attention to the following:

Paragraph 10 of article VI reads, "After sixteen consecutive hours' service telegraphers will be allowed eight hours' rest."

Our former schedule had the following provision: "except in cases of emergency." And as a result, an emergency was usually created whenever the company saw that they were going to need a man, regardless of the inconvenience it might cause the telegrapher.

Article VIII reads: "Telegraphers attending court at the request of the company shall be allowed net compensation which would have been earned by them at their station, with necessary expenses while they are away from home, such expenses not to exceed $2.00 per day." This means that the agent will not only get the salary, but also the ticket and express commissions and over-time.

Last, but not least, is the fact that the new schedule was put up by union printers, and the fly-leaf bears the stamp of the International Typographical Union.

Bro. Montgomery, Local Chairman of the New Orleans Division, stated that the linemen on the Natchez District of that Division had received a raise of $7.50 per month.

This district has the service of the Western Union, and it is understood that the linemen on other divisions and districts, which are covered by the Postal, are preparing a request for a similar increase which will be presented to the management.

A letter was read from Bro. R. L. Shannon, General Secretary-Treasurer of the Division, in which he mentioned the flourishing condition, both numerically and financially of Division 93. His letter stated that on June 30th, Division 93 had 1,743 members in good standing, this being about two hundred and fifty more members in the division than there are scheduled positions on the Illinois Central system. All hands agreed that this was surely the proper stuff.

Bro. Shannon also wrote a letter to Bro. Moore, in which he complimented the appearance of the new schedule, and spoke of that being due to the fact that it bore the union label.

Owing to some delay in mailing out copies of the new schedule, the Memphis and New Orleans divisions have not been furnished with copies, but before this article is published all hands will have a copy, and it would be well to repeat here Bro. Moore's words at the meeting.

He said that when the new schedule was received, not to look only at the wage scale, but to read the articles, reread them, study them, and live up to them.

This is timely advice, and advice that it would be well for all of us to heed. There are a great many cases where telegraphers think they have a grievance, when it is all because they do not understand the schedule.

Such as this creates a great deal of extra work for the Local Chairman, and should be avoided.

Bro. Montgomery made a talk in which he said that it was not his wish to see the organization enter politics, but he thought it worth while for us, as individuals, while the country was full of candidates for all offices, to question such candidates and see how they stood on the labor question, and more especially the laws regulating the hours for railroad employees. Pledge yourself to support none of them, but vote for the best man.

Bro. J. W. Shields, Local Chairman of the Queen and Crescent (A. & V.) Division 69, was present, and made a short talk, in which he told of the prosperity of the Order on that line, and said they had a good schedule, considering that it was the first attempt. He said it was generally understood that the further you rolled a snow-ball, the larger it got, and that he wanted us all to watch the snow ball the A. & V. boys were rolling.

By this time the hour was growing late and a move was made to adjourn.

Bro. Walt stated that he understood there were charges to be preferred against Bro. C. L. Davis, our former General Chairman. Bro. Moore requested that Bro. Davis be brought forward. This was done, and then Bro. Moore asked what the charges were. Bro. Albert Gray then advanced, and after making a brief talk, presented Bro. Davis with a beautiful gold watch, in the name of the boys on the New Orleans & Vicksburg divisions, in part appreciation for his services in the past.

The watch has the monogram "O. R. T." in raised gold letters on the back, and is a twenty-one jewel Elgin movement.

Bro. Davis, who had expected some serious charge, was so taken by surprise that, he could hardly utter a sound. He, however, finally found his voice, and thanked the boys for their kind remembrance.

A recess was then taken in order that all hands present might congratulate Bro. Davis and have a look at the beautiful present.

There was no date set for the next meeting, but every one is of the opinion that Vicksburg is the place to hold them.

There are very few changes on the division since the last write-up. Telegraphers continue to be very scarce and nearly every one wants to take their vacation.

Bro. J. W. West resigned his position as day telegrapher at Leland to accept work with the N. O. & G. N.

Bro. L. A. Campbell, night man, succeeded to day position and Bro. Jones, from the Memphis division, accepted nights.

Bro. H. C. Hooker is back at Shaw, days, after an extended tour through the Western States and Mexico.

Bro. F. T. Green is off for a week or two on account of illness, and Bro. G. O. Hillard is holding down Anguilla agency.

Bro. O. T. Aycock, our popular lineman, has taken a sixty-day vacation in order to go West in search of better health.

Bro. Aycock has a host of friends here who trust that his trip will be of great benefit to him.

Bro. F. A. Lyon, new man at Cleveland nights.

During the past month the depot buildings at Lamont and Boyle were destroyed by fire, and as a result Bros. Jacobs and Staples are getting a taste of the life of the wild and woolly West. Both have box-car depots.

I hope at the next meeting we will have a larger crowd present and that some able writer can be selected to make a special write-up of the meeting.

Have you the new card? They are true blue.

CARD OF THANKS.

On July 8th the Grim Reaper visited our happy home and took from our midst my dear and loving wife, and I wish to express my sincere thanks to the brothers of the Omaha Division for their kind floral offering and contributions which they gave so liberally and their kind sympathy to us in these dark days.

Fraternally, J. S. WEISS.

W. & L. E. Railway.

Toledo Division—

I am pleased to say we are coming to our right minds at last. Why should we work twelve hours each and every day? The answer is plain. Did you ever stop to realize that we could for a few dollars organize and demand better working conditions? I am sorry to say we have several telegraphers who can see no good in organization. I refer to those who have no cards. I would suggest that they return the increase they receive this month or get an up-to-date card. Try and be a man among men.

The boys held a very interesting meeting at Norwalk, Ohio, July 24th. Members present, seventeen. I was sorry it was not convenient for the boys west of Oak Harbor and east of Wellington to be with us.

The following brothers are taking their vacations: Howe, Curtice; Niswanger, Oak Harbor; Kneffler, Columbia.

Bro. Stevens has been transferred from Clarks-ville to Hartland.

Sorry to say Bro. Miller, of Spencer, is off duty on account of the sickness of his wife.

Toledo Division—

While switching in the yards at Mt. Morris, Chas. Harbin accidentally fell under train, severing both limbs above the knees. He was still conscious when leaving here, but death came to his relief before he reached home.

He leaves to mourn his untimely death a wife, a baby boy, father and mother, four brothers, and two sisters. Funeral services were held at Mayville, July 9th, from the M. E. Church, Rev. G. C. Hopkins officiating. The choir rendered three of Charles' favorite hymns with which he used to sing his baby boy to sleep, "Nearer My God to Thee," "We'll Never Say Good-Bye in Heaven," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

The Brotherhood of Trainmen attended in a body. The company furnished special train. The train crew that was working with the deceased when killed acted as pallbearers. Interment was made in the Fremont cemetery.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and gratitude to the members and friends of the O. R. T. who so generously contributed for the floral tribute.

WHEREAS, Almighty God in His divine wisdom has removed from us trainman Chas. Harbin, and in manifestation of our respect and friendship for our Brother trainman; be it—

Resolved, That the members of System Division No. 39, Order of Railroad Telegraphers, extend to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in this dark hour of affliction; and be it further

Resolved, That this resolution be spread upon the records of this division, published in our official journal and a copy be sent to the beloved wife.

Chicago Division—

Seeing that nothing from the Chicago Division has appeared for some time, will try and give a few of the many changes. Business very heavy just now, and so many changes being made that it is almost impossible to keep track of them.

Agent E. M. O'Connor, and telegraphers Busch and Wagner, Waverly Yard, all resigned, and have gone to other fields, account salary not being satisfactory. Understand that present force there has been given a substantial raise, as the company found that it did not pay to reduce salaries. Unable to say if new men are Brothers or not at this writing.

Bro. Sherlock, Wyoming nights, and Bro. Henderson, White Cloud nights (Petoskey Division), resigned, and understand have gone West.

Bro. Link now working nights at Wyoming Yard. Mr. G. A. Oberly, day telegrapher Wyoming Yards, still a non.

Bro. M. L. Gillespie, relief agent, lost his wife a short time ago, and has been taking a short rest at his home near McDonald. He has returned to work again, as he is now at Elk Rapids. He has the sympathy of the entire division.

Mr. Spicer, who ran a ham factory at Hartford for several years, has finally left the service. "13" he is now chief dispatcher on K. L. S. & C., a combination steam and electric line. That will give Mr. Spicer a chance to put "hams" to work.

Telegrapher Gambel, formerly nights at Benton Harbor, now ticket agent and telegrapher at St. Joseph.

Mr. Henderson working at Benton Harbor nights at present.

Now that we have a new General Chairman, Bro. Heusted, we can expect to hear of something doing, as we all hope that new schedule is being figured on.

Very sorry to lose Bro. Spencer, as he was a good man in the place, and worked hard for the Order. Wish him luck in his new field.

News is very hard to get, so will have to close. If the members will forward notes to Local Chairmen, we will have a write-up every month, but one man cannot keep himself posted on the news from over 200 miles of track without any help, so send anything that is of interest to the Order.

G. E. D.

Chicago, Great Western Ry. South West Division—

As I have failed to see any write-up from the C. G. W., I concluded to make a trial, to show we are still alive and moving along fairly well. The Missouri eight-hour law is causing some uneasiness at a few places, account putting yard clerk's work on telegraphers, and doing away with yard clerk entirely.

One point we will have to look after next time schedule is revised is this equalizing the rate of pay of first and second trick men, for at many points second man's work is same as first, and should receive same pay.

Appointments made on bulletin 23:

H. A. Kelley, day telegrapher, Gladbrook.

S. J. Stein, tower office, Marshalltown.

L. A. Stone, agent, Ira.

A. J. Field, agent, Churchville.

Leroy Rice, night telegrapher, Talmage.

Eight-hour jobs in Missouri are being bulletined, Shop and Conception, but they fail to say what trick at C. P.

Boys, here is game of chance, which trick; you may step into third trick, unless you have the age.

New agent A. H. Rokey, at Luray, forwarded his application to Division Secretary and Treasurer, falling in line with us.

"13" we have a non at Woodruff who is starting a ham factory there. Boys, who are close, get after him, and bring him in circle, and kick that student in the Missouri River.

Bro. Rokey, at Arispe, has been having bad case of neuralgia last few days, but is always on hand when wanted.

Brothers, how do you all stand on the $75 minimum? We must soon have this, as cost of living is advancing so rapidly no less will not be able to buy us three meals daily, and believe we will have hard times before us to live through, and every penny we hoard now will count much. It is to be hoped such may not be the case.

CERT. 295.

W. M. & P. Division—

Rochester bulletined for day telegrapher. Mr. Brownlee finally succeeded in getting away. Relieved by Mr. J. S. Hall, who has since been appointed relief agent at that station. Mr. Hall has been in another line of business for some time.

Bro. G. W. Haling, a new arrival, fresh from Southern Railway, doing the day stunt at Rochester since Mr. Hall's appointment as agent.

Bro. H. B. Daskowski, of the night trick, dispatcher's office, taking his vacation, relieved by Relief Agent Conners.

Mr. Haville, former helper at Spring Valley, recently passed examination, and is now doing the owl act at Rochester, relieving telegrapher Reynolds, who takes Benning on bulletin.

Agent Tripp, of Pine Island, was off for short vacation, relieved by relief agent Conners. Here's a chance for some one to do some missionary work. We need both of these gentlemen.

Bro. Blethen, at Le Roy, Division Correspondent, is looking for the members to send in a few notes each month. Try and dig up a few little items of interest, and send in by 20th of month. We all need to be better acquainted, and the best way to accomplish this is through the fraternal columns of THE TELEGRAPHER.

Bro. Potter responded this month by sending in a very nice bunch of items, for which he has our thanks.

R. J. Neill filling vacancy at Predmore, made by promotion of Agent Johnson.

We are pleased to welcome agent F. C. Zierath, of St. Charles, into the fold. We were a long time landing him, but thanks to the efforts of Bro. Potter, he now has the credentials.

In conclusion, we want to impress upon your minds the absolute necessity of each and every one getting busy. The national nine-hour law goes into effect March 1st, 1908. Agents and telegraphers at stations operated during the day only will be allowed to remain on duty thirteen hours, in case of emergency, in which case four hours overtime is allowed. This means that we will be allowed to make practically no overtime, and there are several stations on this division where the overtime is what makes the job. Under these conditions we will want a new schedule, and our only hope of getting one is for each member to bestir himself, and go after the nons and land them.

We have been considering the advisability of publishing a "non" list, showing the present salary of each, the salary one year ago, and the net amount each one would have over and above all dues had they joined the Order on the date our last schedule went into effect. We will withhold this for a while, however, and see what can be done.

"Now get busy."

DIV. COR.

R., F. & P. Railway.

It was on the 12th of July, A. D. 1907, that yours truly, after receiving permission from the dispatcher to be out for a few moments, wended his way across the bridge that spans the Rappahannock, discovered his personality wandering promiscuously up the principal thoroughfare of the unique and historical town of Fredericksburg. There loomed up before him a commodious building, and as everything seemed so inviting, yours truly ascended the flight of steps and found himself ushered into one of the prodigious rooms, where, seated around in groups, were nineteen prepossessing individuals, whose physiognomies were quite familiar to him. After giving the salute due the monarch upon the throne, yours truly seated himself near the guard of the bivouac, as the smile of complacency played over his features and watched the procedure for the brief space of fifteen minutes, remaining mute until the time of his departure. Judging from the appearance of those in assembly, the shirt-waist and short sleeves seemed in vogue. I would not attempt, with pen, in my crude style, to limner, for only a camera could have portrayed to others as they really appeared upon this sulphurous eve. I must hasten, and, would say the meeting was called to order by Chief Pennypacker, presiding, with nineteen members present, and after disposing of the much accumulated business, same was placed behind us after the minutes of the Alexa meeting had been read and approved.

Applications of the following candidates were balloted upon: E. A. Kearney, F. H. Herndon, J. P. Dempsey, C. N. Walker and G. K. Massie, and A. R. Morton, and same were duly elected members of this division.

Bill for expenses of this division, amounting to $6.00 read and ordered paid.

Bro. Rock, of Division 40, and Bro. Foster, of Division 14, were transferred to this division.

The prizes offered by the division to the most punctilious members in attendance were won by the following brothers:

- D. Davis, 1st prize, O. R. T. gold ring.
- J. W. Smith, 2d prize, O. R. T. watch charm.
- E. G. Donahoe, 3d prize, O. R. T. lapel button.
- J. I. Harrison, 4th prize, O. R. T. lapel button.
- I. L. Eubank, 5th prize, O. R. T. lapel button.
- V. S. J. Vaughan, 6th prize, O. R. T. lapel button.

We feel no aversion in calling the newly elected brothers, and do hereby extend to one and all the glad hand, and most heartily welcome you into the fold, and trust that your sojourn with us may be of the most prosperous nature, and should you, perchance, cast your lot in other shades of our beautiful country, may success ever attend thee.

Now that you have been admitted into one of the grandest organizations that ever blossomed and had its fruition upon the green continent of North America, prove to your fellow brothers and the world at large that you are truly worthy of all the benefits to be attained through the efforts of your brothers.

Don't allow yourselves to drift into apathy, and to think because you are now a full fledged member that you have fulfilled your obligation. Far from it. And if you are truly a good member, having the interest of the Order at heart, you will ever be found at the helm.

Bro. Satterwhite, of Brooke, has been quite sick for the past two or three weeks, but we hope to have him with us again ere this goes to press.

Div. Cor.

Wisconsin Central Railway.

Another month has rolled by, and presume the Brothers have been looking through the journal to see what has been doing on the W. C., so will endeavor to furnish what few changes I know of.

There have been a large number of places bulletined, and changes made accordingly, but very few of these have been reported to me. Also understand there have been a number of changes made which were not bulletined, and which are causing more or less dissatisfaction among some of the Brothers. Whenever anything of this kind happens which is not according to our schedule, it should be reported to the Local Chairman, who in turn will look into the matter, and endeavor to adjust it. There is no question but what when our General Superintendent, Mr. Potter, signed the schedule, he intended that it should be lived up to by all concerned. At that time he promised our committee he would take the matter up with the W. U. Tel. Co., and use his best efforts towards securing a commission on their business, which has since been done, and we now receive a ten per cent commission on all this line cash handled. While this may not amount to very much for a good many of the boys, it is a step in the right direction, and helps a little. We don't need to feel as though we were doing the work free gratis, and should endeavor to increase the business, thus showing to the company that our good will is worth something.

Bro. Peterson, Minneapolis, has resigned, and gone to Seattle, Wash., where his folks live. Good wishes go with him. He was relieved by Bro. Morandt, from Gladstone, nights, who in turn was relieved by Bro. W. Johnson, new man from the C. & N. W., I understand.

Miss Anna Smith, Somerset, has left the service, and Mr. Finnegan has taken her place.

New Richmond, Mr. Mocrose does the owl stunt, Bro. Cowen having been transferred from New Richmond, nights, to Abbotsford, "AX," nights.

Mr. Eddie Smith, son of agent Smith, was working nights at Colfax for short time, while his brother, Bro. W. A. Smith, worked days at the Dateman gravel pit. Bro. W. A. Smith was relieved later by Bro. Andre, who has been doing the owl stunt at Mellen for some time.

Bro. Stolp, of Chippewa Falls, days, has been promoted to days at Eau Claire.

The former day telegrapher at Eau Claire went to Milwaukee City ticket office.

Bro. Stolp was relieved at Chippewa Falls by Bro. Shea, who in turn was relieved of the night trick at the same place by the baggage man of Chippewa Falls, a Mr. Wm. Roberge.

Bro. Culler, who has been agent at Thorpe for many years, has resigned, and gone west in search of greener pastures. Unable to say where located. He was relieved by Bro. J. A. Phillips, who, if I am not mistaken, is new man on the road, but the right kind of stuff.

Bro. Wesenburg, who resigned few months ago to enter the mercantile business at Theresa, Wis., has sold out, and returned to the life of grief and excitement at his old stand as agent Chelsea.

Bro. Soderstrom is back in the harness again at his old place, Medford, and Bro. Harsh returned to Dorchester.

Bro. Odean, formerly a W. C. telegrapher, now train dispatcher for the Soo Line at Minneapolis, visited with his parents at Ogema, second week in July.

Bro. Taylor, from Fifield, now working days at Hoyt in place of Bro. Blodgett. Have lost track of Bro. Blodgett.

Bro. Seeley, who has been doing considerable relief work of late, has now returned to Hurley in place of telegrapher Goodwin, who now occupies the position of helper at Ironwood.

Joe Rindt, at Bessemer, days, says it was fine to get a raise, but spends all his spare time hunting for some poor, old worn-out excuse for not coming in and helping to keep the good things going.

Bro. Oden now doing the owl act at Mellen, having been relieved at Ore Yard by Mr. Ellwell.

Mr. Carlson transferred from Phillips, nights, to Ashland, nights.

At a recent ball game played at Park Falls, the following Brothers were present as players and spectators: Bros. Leland, Smith, Soderstrom, Roen, and two former Medford agents, Pierce and Russell.

It's reported that Bro. Rave, of Stanley, nights, has accepted New Richmond, nights, and will go there shortly. Bro. Turner, of Owen, nights, to take his place, and the night man of New Richmond, Mr. Carl Mocrose is to go to Owens, nights.

Bro. Andre, of Gravel Pit, days, was at Glenwood last Sunday in July to visit your humble scribe, and other acquaintances whom he made while working here as nite owl some time ago.

A number of the members have been asking me when we are going to have a meeting, and that is just what I would like to know, so if any worthy Brother can tell, let him proceed. That is what we most need at present, for good meetings are the life-blood of any organization.

Another thing, don't forget to keep posted as to how your next door neighbor stands, and if he has not a card, see that he gets one. If you can't do it alone, ask some of the rest of us, and we will help you. Although applications have been coming in rather regularly for some time, there are still more to come. There are new men every few days, and great many of them not supplied with cards, so there is no time for sleeping, but each one be up and doing. Thus reads the sign on the guide board to success.

And last, but not least, let me say if any members there be who have not paid semi-annual dues as yet, do so at once. The new cards are beauties.

H. & T. C. Railway.

On July 12th, the State law providing for eight hours for a day's work at all stations where more than one railroad telegraph or telephone operator is needed went into effect. Contrary to general expectations, there was no difficulty experienced by any of the Texas roads in securing all the telegraphers needed to supply the demand, and there are to-day more men in Texas without work than there was thirty days go, although there must have been some 300 more put on as a result of the eight-hour law.

It is stated that a number of roads are evading the law by requiring telegraphers to perform four hours' clerical work, and telegraphing, other than train orders, either before or after having worked eight hours handling train orders. Prominent attorneys, after having carefully studied the law, assert that such action is in violation of the law, and it is quite likely that test will be made at no distant time.

A great many changes have already been made as a result of new conditions, and more will be made before all are settled to the positions desired, which will take place when the vacancies are bulletined and filled according to applications for them.

Bro. H. C. Van Wie, local chairman, formerly of Denison, has been transferred to Waco, days. We understand he is at present off account being sick. Trust he will be back on his eight-hour "split" soon.

Bro. Callhan, of the Grand, is holding third trick at Sherman tower.

Bro. Chas. Daffan, of Van Alstyne, has been laying off, and intimated that an eight-hour job looked good to him. Presume he will file for one under next bulletin. He has the seniority, and should be able to land one.

Bro. Green, of Melissa, is on vacation. Bro. Richardson is relieving him.

Bro. H. W. Kelly, of Jeffries, has returned to work after an extended vacation.

Bros. Nelms, late of a commercial company, and Bros. Chas. Kelly, for past two years in California, are holding the third and second tricks respectively at Dallas Yards.

We are glad to note that Bro. A. W. Smith, of Bremond, has been reinstated in his old position at that place.

Bro. L. P. Johnson, of Division No. 137, is filling the second trick at Navasota tower.

Bro. J. T. Williamson, Division No. 2, is on third trick at Bryan.

Notice Bro. McKey, McKinney and Bro. Hammons, Marlin, each have a non assisting them. Hope they will be able to turn in the proper papers soon.

Quite a number of members of other divisions have come to us recently, and should take necessary steps to have their membership transferred to Division No. 57 as early as possible. Brothers coming in contact with them should take up and assist them in doing so. We need them all in our little division, and they will be benefited by the transfer.

CERT. p.

Sea Board Air Line Railway.Orlando Branch, Sixth Division—

We note with pleasure the write-up by Cert. 275, in July number of THE TELEGRAPHER, and think it is a good idea to keep this good work up, and let our Brothers know that we are still in the land of the living, if we are way down here "wid de alligators and skeeters." I regret that I did not get mine in last number, but I miscued some way, and waited too long. Will promise to do better in future.

We have just received notice from our G. S. & T. that our General Committee goes before the management about the 20th of August. The time is almost here, and the boys should respond promptly to the small assessment, and give them all the encouragement possible. I don't think we have many grievances, but we want all that's coming to us, and know they will do all they can to get us a good schedule.

The branch, we are glad to say, is solid with the exception of "MO," who states that he would come over on our side of the fence if he did not anticipate leaving the service in the near future. Hope we will be able to land his successor.

Bro. Smith, who was with the A. C. L. here has accepted agency at Oxford on main line. Hope he will like it there.

I find that our express agent here is O. R. T. man in good standing. Will try to get him lined up in active service, and get him out to our next meeting.

CERT. 462.

First Division—

Your humble servant being unable to attend the meeting at Norlina, July 20th, on account of sickness, cannot write much of interest this time. Everything is quiet once more, now that the eight-hour question has been definitely settled by the corporation commission.

The following offices were placed in the eight-hour class on the First Division: Weldon, Norlina, Henderson, Frankeniton, and Wake Fores.

Have not learned what was done for the Second and Third Divisions, except that Johnson St. (Raleigh) was made eight-hours. This is a step in the right direction, but does it go far enough? There is not the slightest doubt but these places mentioned above should have three tricks, but how about the dozen other places on the line that have less telegraphing, and all the innumerable duties of one-man stations? These are the places where, through the omission of something by the freight agent, express agent, Western Union, block telegrapher, ticket agent, baggage rustler, U. S. mail carrier, station porter, bureau of general information, etc., etc., trouble more often occurs. Doesn't it seem that these places should all be made eight-hour tricks? However, now that the thing has been started, it's up to the individual and collective push and pull of every member to bring about these further changes.

I fear that we are not using the talents placed in our hands to the advantage that we might. Don't let's bury our talents in the earth, and when our master returns give him the old song and dance about "knowing he was an unjust man, etc." And that's exactly what your chronic nons on this division are doing. Ask you to join the Order, your reply probably is that "the Order never has done me any good," or something equally stale. If the Order does you no good, would you mind telling us, confidentially, what you are doing with the difference between your former and your present salary? There is a difference which you can charge directly to the O. R. T. Do you turn it over to the Order, or give it back to the paymaster, or what goes with it? There are men on the First Division, who, if given the earth would complain and say, "Why you ain't got no barbed wire fence around it." "Can't you fix it for me?" Gentlemen of the jury, I ask you this: Which is the worst? A scab, or a deliberate chronic non?

Given the proper opportunity, and you will see that they are one and the same, just like the caterpillar and the butterfly, when the right time comes your chronic non will evolve and become a scab. I pray that some time in the near future our contracts may contain something like this on the first page: "The rights and benefits contained herein shall pertain to members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, ONLY." Then keep the chronic nons out, if it has to be done with a shot gun. So much for these human parasites.

The following changes have been made on this division:

W. R. Pegram, agent, Oxford, vice K. G. Clifton.

Mr. G. Norman, Millbrook, days.

J. L. Smith, Millbrook to Neuse, days, vice D. M. McKenzie.

G. D. McKean, Newsoms, days, vice Bro. P. C. Gee, who has been holding the fort there for some time as acting agent, and who is now on the road again as relief agent and telegrapher. Cannot say as to whether the other gentlemen mentioned above are members or not, as they are new men, and haven't had a chance to talk with them. Our committee will meet the officers about the middle of August. Don't expect them paying their own board bills.

DIV. COM.

Twin City Telegraphers' Club.

At our last meeting we had the pleasure of hearing a good and instructive address by Bro. Newman, First Vice-President of the O. R. T. Bros. Johnson, Emrick and Holmes, of the General Committee of N. P. 54, were with us and reported everything well with 54, and expect to have schedule by time this is in the journal.

After disposing of other business, election of officers was taken up. President Beamer turned the chair over to First Vice-President Newman, of the O. R. T., who called for nominations for President of the club. President Beamer did not wish to serve another term as President of the club, but as it was the unanimous wish of the club members and Bro. Liddane made a very flattering speech nominating him, he found it useless to hold out longer and accepted another term under great applause.

Bro. Line was elected Secretary and Treasurer; Bro. Foulkes, First Vice-President; Bro. Galvin, Second Vice-President; Bro. Barrett, Sergeant-at-Arms; Bro. Lester, Door Keeper.

Bro. Newman at this point turned the chair over to President Beamer, and the Club proceeded with regular business under the head of "good of the Order." We were given some very good talks by Bros. Newman, Johnson, Emerick, Foulkes and Holmes. The President tried to get Bro. Liddane going, but was unable to do so. Guess he must have worked himself out on the nomination speech.

We had a pleasant time, but missed some of our regular members, Minneapolis not being very well represented.

The matter of the appointment of Club Correspondent was taken up. Bro. Liddane was named by President Beamer as Club Correspondent. Bro. Liddane was unable to serve in that capacity, and said the President was the proper person to do this work. After much argument over this the matter of Club Correspondent was left open until some future date. So you may expect a more able correspondent for the Twin City Telegraphers' Club in our next issue of the journal. As matters now stand, I was delegated by the President to send in this write-up.

The Club is to be congratulated on again securing Bro. Beamer as their president, and we feel sure he will make as good a showing in the future as he has in the past.

Everything looks bright for the Club at this writing, and am sure it will continue so.

CLUB COR. Pro Tem.

L. S. & M. S. Railway.

Bro. Chadwick, third trick W. Seneca tower, has returned from his vacation. Bro. Frawley, who relieved him on extra list.

New man working third trick Bay View. Unable to learn if Brother or not.

Telegrapher Kane, working at Angola, nights, at present. New tower there should be finished and in operation soon, making three good jobs for some of the lucky Brothers.

Telegrapher Wilder and Bro. Greisinger, of Silver Creek tower, have changed tricks, Bro. Greisinger being now on second trick. Jake says there's nothing like sleeping when Nature intended you should.

Bro. Fay, third trick Dunkirk tower, resigned last month. Bro. Kane of same place took third trick, while Bro. Waddell, who recently joined us, became the second trick man, and Bro. Cooch Garmow still on the first trick.

Canadaway office has been closed indefinitely, telegrapher Mack going to "JI" chutes nights, and Bro. Zeipe on extra list.

Bro. Baker, third trick, Westfield, laying off at present, relieved by telegrapher Johnson.

New man working nights at State Line at present.

Bro. Tim Harrington worked few days at North-east pit recently, also at "CN" for awhile, but "13" he is now learning to operate the tower at "N."

Harbor Creek office has been closed nights indefinitely.

"GC" office, Eric, has been closed day and night. Telegrapher Gruss, former day man there, has left the service, and "13" he has entered the grocery business. Bro. Weaver the night man has also left the service, and is at present traveling with the Parker Amusement Co. We all wish them success in their new ventures.

Telegrapher Wilhelm, who was recently removed from Erie depot, days, on account of reduction of force, has been replaced in his old position. Mgr. Murray says too much work for one man.

Bro. Throne still on owl trick at "MS."

Painesville depot, nights, has been closed, and an order office opened in B. & O. tower at same place, the towermen now doing all the work.

The tower at Wickliffe has been closed.

Are all of you Brothers up-to-date with a new card? If not you should be. Send in your dues and square yourselves.

SLIM.

To the Brothers of System Division No. 129 who so kindly expressed their sympathy in my behalf in the loss of my loving wife and companion, I desire to give my heartfelt thanks.

R. A. NIELKIND.

A., B. & A. Railway.

I have been over on this line for some time working quietly, and seeking only good men for members, consequently my progress has been slow, although I have the promise of several to come in next month. We want the men to come in now; next month never comes. It is still ahead, always an opening for an excuse. There is not a man in the United States following the telegraph profession who can give any reasonable excuse for not belonging to the Order that will give him better pay and shorten his hours of work.

Now is the time for every man to do all he can to keep down the flood of students that will be upon us in the next few months, and let me say that I mean the A. B. & A. Ry. more than any other system, for already they are coming, and not only coming from other lines, but from stations on our own line.

I want a copy of this number of THE TELEGRAPHER to reach every man on the A. B. & A. Ry., and I want him to realize that instead of his pictured vision of an eight-hour day, with all kinds of money next year, he will be working for about thirty dollars per month, and not less than twelve hours per day, if he does not run that student off and get an up-to-date card. For is it not reasonable enough for you to see that you are raising up a student that will take your job for one-half of what you are working for in order to get "started." Haven't you heard that word a thousand times? Don't you know that the man at the next station has a student who will do the same thing; then where is your increase in pay coming from?

I want to inform every member and every non on the A. B. & A. that there is a school cut right in our wire, and that at this very place there is cropping out a class of students that have partly filled up offices at not less than four important stations, and that they have each and every one shown beyond a doubt that they are incompetent.

I have been looking on at the developments for the last several months, and see that our only hope is in getting down to business, and work against the production of a wave of hams that is sure to become the destruction of all good things if they are not nipped in the bud.

I am very sorry to note the death of our Bro. Wadsworth, at Oglethorpe, the other day. Understand that he leaves wife and little baby. If there is any assistance needed in any way, just let the fact be known, and I will look about and get our Brothers to join me in any way that we could be of service. I knew deceased personally, and realize his loss to us.

I am glad to note that we have been getting a few members lately. Let's hope that they will stay with us, and deserve the name of Brother.

In conclusion, I will say that the longer we put off rigid action in regard to the student question, just that much longer will it be before we get even recognition, much less better pay.

POCKET TOOL KIT

This outfit is indispensable to the practical electrician. The case is made of the best quality of russet leather, hand-stitched. It is of convenient pocket-book style, with firm metallic clasp, and measures 8x6 inches. It contains the following tools, viz: 1 Electrician's Knife, 1 Oil Can, 1 Pair Nickel-plated 6-in. Pliers, 1 File, 1 Pair Tweezers, 1 Pair Electrician's Shears and 1 Screw Driver. Price, complete, $3.25.

SNAPPER SOUNDER

Makes a loud, sharp noise, the "click" being similar to telegraph sounders.

Morse alphabet characters can be transmitted a considerable distance in or out of doors by persons familiar with the art of telegraphy. Postpaid 10 cents.

IMPROVED MAIN LINE SOUNDER

Gives three times the volume of sound given by the very best box relays. Made with full size relay magnets, 150 ohms resistance.

Very sensitive to weak currents, giving a clear working sound on circuits where, without it, a relay with local sounder and battery would be absolutely necessary. With key, price, $4.50. Without key, price, $3.75.

UNION LIGHTNING ARRESTER

A combined Cut-out, Ground Switch and Lightning Arrester. Protects the instruments and house from damage by lightning and enables operator to terminate the line at his station by grounding the circuit. Instrument may also be disconnected from main line when desired. Complete, with cut-out pin, 40c.

ELECTRIC ALARM CLOCK

Set in usual manner to ring at a certain hour and clock movement throws into circuit a vibrating bell which will ring for hours unless switched off. Clock may be placed anywhere and the bell and switch arranged near the bed. Any of our vibrating bells may be used. High-grade clock movement. Price, clock, as shown, $1.25.

ANTI-DOC MEDICAL APPARATUS

Accomplishes results as quickly as any high-priced battery. No home should be without one. Unfailing relief for rheumatism, operators' paralysis, etc. Costs less than one application by your doctor. Price, complete with 96-page guide, only $3.00.

A RIBBON of three colors and a small lever that brings the color desired between the type and the paper—that's the three-color feature of which enables it to write

black record for documents, purple copying for letters and red for emphasis or display.

It is so simple that the wonder is it was never discovered before. The ribbon-changing lever is as accessible as the keys, making it possible to change from one kind of typewriting to another in an instant.

A stenographer equipped with a Tri-Chrome Smith Premier can produce in proper manner every kind of typewriting any business office demands.

The price is the same as that of all Smith Premier models.

BLOOD POISON

We have a Remedy unknown to the profession. We refund money if we do not cure. You can be treated at home for the same price as if you came to our office. We will give you a guaranty to cure or return money. For many years we have been curing patients in every country in the world. Our treatment is in every sense a home treatment. If you have exhausted the old methods of treatment and still have sores and pains, mucous patches in mouth, sore throat, pimples, copper-colored spots, ulcers on any parts of the body, hair or eyebrows falling out, it is this secondary blood poison we guarantee to cure. We solicit the most obstinate cases. This disease has always baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians. For many years we have made a specialty of treating this disease with our Magic Cure, and we have $800,000 capital behind our unconditional guaranty.

WE CURE QUICKLY AND PERMANENTLY

Our patients cured years ago by our great Discovery, unknown to the profession, are today sound and well, and have healthy children since we cured them.

PERMANENT VICTORY

FROM

TEMPORARY DEFEAT

No. 5.

IN the first round of litigation over patents on the mechanical transmitter, the lower court has held that the MECOGRAPH transmitters No. 3 are infringements of Martin's patent. We have appealed from that decision, and confidently expect to "land on top" when the appellate court renders its decision.

The Coffe Mecograph was the first mechanical transmitter placed on the market. (By mechanical transmitter, is meant one not requiring a battery.)

The Mecograph was received with such marked favor and worked such a revolution in telegraphy that, naturally, various other mechanical transmitters sprang into existence. Our temporary defeat brought on a violent brain storm, resulting in MECOGRAPH No. 5, one in no way affected by the litigations above referred to. It eclipses everything else in the line of transmitters, even MECOGRAPH No. 3.

It is the simplest, best made, most delightful transmitter an operator ever touched.

Railroad Telegraphers' Time-Saver

By using the speedy Oliver,
you gain 50 per cent in time.

And you do this without the expenditure of extra physical or mental effort.

The Oliver meets the exacting demands of the railroad oper-
ator's work.

Never gets "nervous prostration," no matter how swift the pace.

The Oliver "works in a whisper"—in taking messages you catch every click of the sounder.

It "writes in sight"—you SEE just what you are doing.

It is a wonderfully versatile machine—instantly available for Wire Work Train Orders. Manifolding Way-Bills, etc., etc.

The OLIVER Typewriter

has many less parts than the old-style "mill" and is more compact and durable.

It runs smoothly, prints legibly, aligns accurately.

MAKE PAY-DAY

"SAVE-DAY"

ALMOST every one finds it hard to save money, yet admits that it is one of the most important things in life.
Like many other things, saving is largely a matter of habit.

Get Into the Habit of Saving!

Make a resolution today to lay aside a portion of your pay each week or month on pay-day, before it gets away from you, before "it burns a hole in your pocket," and deposit it in some reliable bank. There will then be no immediate temptation to spend it and you will also be receiving interest on your money.

One of the most reliable banks in the country, one that has withstood fire, financial panic and the test of time is

The Hibernian Bank

THE OLDEST SAVINGS BANK IN CHICAGO

It has a capital of One Million and a Half Dollars and a surplus of over One Million Dollars. It is now completing its forty-first successful year, having been established in 1867.

No matter where you live, you can open an account with THE HIBERNIAN BANK through its perfected system of "Banking By Mail." Send for circular. One Dollar opens a savings account. Interest is paid on all savings accounts.

THE HIBERNIAN BANK also has a large Commercial Department and has the best of facilities for handling open check accounts.

Its age and reliability make this institution an ideal depository for trust or society funds. If you are the trustee of any such moneys or know of any one who is, it would be glad to have you investigate its fitness for handling such. Your recommendation of this Bank to any of your friends will be highly appreciated.

THE BEST MADE FOR RAILWAY SERVICE.

Bunn Special

SANGAMO

Bunn

You can get any kind of a movement you desire in the Illinois Watch Line but, no matter which one you purchase, it will be the best watch of its class to be had any place or at any price, for railway service. Any railroad man who owns one or any jeweler who sells them to railroad men will tell you so. What you want is a watch that will never go back on you rather than one on which you can recover in case there is anything wrong with it. You can absolutely depend on Illinois Watches and they are fully guaranteed, too.

One dealer writes: "I have sold hundreds of Illinois Watches and never had one returned."

Look for the names exactly as shown here, engraved on the movements themselves, if you would purchase the best watches made—Illinois Watches.

HISTORY AND FACTS AND FIGURES.

THE first schedule ever made by members of the Order was signed on December 16, 1891, and covered the lines of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway.

It will be remembered that the Order of Railroad Telegraphers was a non-striking organization up to the St. Louis Convention, held in 1891, at which convention the Constitution was amended so as to make it a protective organization.

No sooner was this change in policy made than various forms of discrimination began to be practiced by the different railroad companies in an effort to prevent the Order from becoming a power in the labor world. It is quite significant that while it remained a non-striking organization that there was little or no opposition to it, because it was incapable of doing anything "detrimental to their interests," but as soon as it ridded itself of its infant clothes and put on its "working" ones, there was a decided change in sentiment on the part of the employer.

What happened in the first schedule negotiations and the final outcome of those negotiations is best told in the report of the Grand Chief Telegrapher (now known as the President) to the Seventh Annual Session of the Grand Division, which convened in Chattanooga, Tenn., in May, 1892.

That part of his report reads as follows:

"December 5, 1891, the Superintendent of Transportation of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway requested several members of our Order who were employed as dispatchers on that line to withdraw from the Order or seek employment elsewhere. All refused to withdraw. The dispatchers and operators had been preparing a schedule of wages and it was thought this was an opportune time to present the same to the company for their adoption. This was accordingly done, and the company promptly refused to accept the schedule. A strike was decided upon and every man interested left his key and with the assistance of the other Orders the traffic of the A. & P. was at a standstill. The strike was of short duration, however. President Manvel, having been notified of the conditions, wired Mr. Gabel, the general manager, to sign the schedule. Five minutes after this was done trains began to move and the first schedule of the O. R. T. was secured under date of December 16, 1891."

Following the successful conclusion of the negotiations and strike on the Atlantic & Pacific Railway, negotiations were commenced on many other lines and schedule-making was the order of the day, and a goodly number were secured, but unfortunately, as has been related in these columns heretofore, the membership was not as well versed in unionism as they are today, and as a result they did not protect those schedules by remaining thoroughly organized.

Through selfishness and short-sightedness some members argued that there was no use in paying dues, "as they had secured all that they could secure through the Order," and imagined that the schedule was theirs forever without further effort on their part. Many railroad companies, ever-ready to take advantage of an unorganized body, systematically relegated the schedule to oblivion by first violating one of its provisions and then another, until it became a dead letter, and as the telegraphers had allowed themselves to become disorganized, they were not in a position to insist upon its observance, and all the labor and efforts that had been put forth in securing the schedule was nullified and eventually salaries were gradually forced down until conditions in the railroad telegraph service, both from a remunerative and working condition standpoint, became intolerable, and the railroad telegraphers of the country were forced to realize that thorough organization was their only hope of placing their profession on the plane that it should occupy, and the work of rebuilding the structure that had become so badly damaged for the want of attention was begun, which rebuilding can be said to date from January 1, 1902, although the preliminary work began about January 1, 1896, on which date the organization had a total membership of 4,796; on the same date it had $2,462.86 cash on hand and it owed $9,086.71. Its efforts during the next six years met with varied successes, as the following figures will show:

Total membership, December 31, 1896, 5,467; cash on hand, $3,002.94; indebtedness, $7,337.16.

Total membership December 31, 1897, 5,548; cash on hand, $1,841.82; indebtedness, $5,422.44.

Total membership December 31, 1898, 8,134; cash on hand, $4,482.24; indebtedness, $2,815.26.

Total membership December 31, 1899, 10,610; cash on hand, $6,103.13; indebtedness, $5,842.44.

Total membership December 31, 1900, 10,520; cash on hand, $1,911.85; indebtedness, $7,858.33.

Total membership December 31, 1901, 10,339; cash on hand, $144.56; indebtedness, $10,032.05.

On December 31, 1902, the organization had a membership of 19,065, and had $19,374.98 cash on hand, and was entirely free from debt.

From that time to the present the membership of the organization has increased at a rapid rate until at the present time the organization has a membership of approximately 40,000. During this period the financial condition of the Order has greatly improved, or, to use the sayings of a rural statesman, "has gone from good to better," and on August 31 the organization had a total of cash on hand of $235,098.13 in the two funds and was entirely free from debt, and the Mutual Benefit Department had a total cash on hand in the two funds on that date of $231,087.15, or a total cash on hand in the different funds of $466,185.28.

In 1902 the plan of "individual effort" was inaugurated, and the growth of the organization has been phenomenal since that time.

From the foregoing figures it will be seen that the net increase in membership for the year 1902 was 8,726. With this handsome increase in membership the organization was placed in a position to better carry out the purposes for which it was organized.

and much success was attained in schedule negotiations, and the report of the President to the 1903 Convention of the Grand Division shows that 19 new and 25 revised schedules were made between May, 1901, and May, 1903, a large majority of which were made during the year 1902 and the early part of 1903.

Between the 1903 and the 1905 Convention 31 new and 25 revised schedules were made.

Between the 1905 and the 1907 Convention 16 new and 78 revised schedules were made.

The first eight months of the present year has shown the greatest activity in schedule negotiation ever experienced in the history of the Order. During that period 47 new and revised schedules were made and several other General Committees are now in session.

It is an old saying that there is a reason for everything. There is a reason for the great advancement made by the Railroad Telegraphers in the betterment of their condition, and that reason is denoted by the one word, organization. As soon as a sufficient number of the railroad telegraphers were organized to make aggressive action possible, they began to better their condition through united action. As their numbers as an organized body increased their effectiveness as such increased, and the records of the Order show that as they grew in numerical strength, the number of schedules instituted correspondingly increased until the present year, with the membership at the highest point ever reached by the Order, the successful schedule negotiations have eclipsed anything ever before accomplished. Since January 1, 1907, new and revised schedules have been secured on the following lines of railways:

Oregon Short Line, Buffalo & Susquehanna, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Bangor & Aroostook, Queen & Crescent South, Denver & Rio Grande Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Erie, Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac, Norfolk & Western, Big Four, Southern, Central of Georgia, Mobile & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, Atlantic Coast Line, Wisconsin Central, Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, Georgia Southern & Florida, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, Illinois Central, Yazoo &

Mississippi Valley, New York, Chicago & St. Louis, New York, New Haven & Hartford, Ann Arbor, Frisco, Maine Central, Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City, Georgia Railroad, Bessemer & Lake Erie, Lake Erie & Western, New York, Susquehanna & Western, Hocking Valley, Toledo & Ohio Central, Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern, Queen & Crescent North, Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf, Kanawha & Michigan, Zanesville & Western, Soo Line, New York, Ontario & Western, Missouri Pacific, Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City, Delaware & Hudson, Long Island, Wheeling & Lake Erie.

During that period, a new agreement was also made with the Southern Express Company, on the Norfolk & Western Railway.

At the present time, practically every large line of railway in the country is scheduled, and what few remain on the outside will no doubt be brought into the fold in the near future.

The members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have every reason to feel proud of the progress they have made during the last five years, from an organization as well as a working condition standpoint. Individual effort has built the organization up to a membership of 40,000, which represents between 80 and 85 per cent of the total number of railroad telegraphers employed in the United States, Canada and Mexico, and the same efforts will complete thorough organization within one year, as the average increase has been more than 1,250 per month for the last several months, and with its present numerical and financial strength, the Order is in a position to more effectively advance the interests of its membership, and the much-talked of $75 minimum is near at hand. Less than five years ago some railroad telegraphers were receiving as low as $18 per month, and there were many only receiving $25 per month, and very few roads had a minimum of more than $40 per month. During that period, $18 and $25 positions have been raised to at least $50 per month, and there are very few roads in the country with a minimum of less than $55 per month, and thousands of positions have been placed on the eight-hour basis.

By way of diversion, it might be profitable to contemplate for a moment what the conditions in the railroad telegraph service would have been at the present time had the schedules that were secured in 1892 been properly supported. Experience has taught that the securing of a schedule is simply the laying of a foundation for better conditions, and those who are now enjoying the greatest benefits under a schedule are those who have given their committee the most active and loyal support. Schedules are, or should be, revised annually, and by this method additional benefits are secured each year, in the way of better pay and shorter hours. Had the schedules that were secured in 1892 been revised annually for the last fifteen years, the $75 minimum would not only be a reality at the present time, but it would have long since been superseded by a $100 minimum. The old saying "the steady drop wears the stone" is only too true. Thorough organization, annual revision of schedules, persistent and firm representation by committees, and active and loyal support of committees by the membership, will not only result in securing the $75 minimum in a short time, but will eventually result in placing the minimum at a much higher figure than that.

Not so many years ago the salaries of the locomotive engineers on such trunk lines as the New York Central, and others of equal size, was $60 per month, and the late P. M. Arthur, and his associate committeemen who comprised the first committee of the engineers on that road, were discharged for asking an increase in salary to $65 per month. The engineers continued to organize, regardless of this outburst of opposition, and later Arthur became Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which position he filled for many years, and through the efforts of that organization backed by a solid membership, the salaries of the engineers were gradually forced up until, at the present time, the positions referred to pay from $150 to $175 per month, instead of $60, the salaries that were paid at the time the movement was inaugurated to organize the engineers.

The members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have learned from bitter experience that thorough organization is necessary to secure concessions, and also to retain them after they have been secured; they also realize that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," and that it behooves them to ever be up and doing.

A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull altogether will make the occupation of telegrapher on railroads more in keeping with what it should be.

THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE.

THE strike of the Commercial Telegraphers is still on at the time of going to press, and the situation seems to have resolved itself into a question of endurance. The strikers claim, and information from throughout the country seems to corroborate their claim, that their ranks are unbroken, and that they will remain out until the battle is won.

The present has been a most notable struggle in many ways, and although it has been on for six weeks, fewer desertions have been reported than in any similar struggle that has probably ever occurred in the country.

When the short length of time the Commercial Telegraphers have been organized is taken into consideration, the record made by them in the present strike is little less than phenomenal.

No forms of disorders have occurred, and the present is one of the most orderly conducted strikes that has ever occurred in the history of the country.

The Commercial Telegraphers' Journal, the official organ of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, under the caption of "The Strike Is Still On," says in part, in the September number:

"Columns could be written in regard to the present condition of the telegraph service and then not do it justice.

"The fact is that the tie-up is complete and the public has just simply ignored the telegraph as a means of communication, especially between points that can be reached by special delivery mail in twenty-four or forty-eight hours.

"It is only because the press associations (with the exception of one, that has lost the right to such a name) have contracts with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, that we are able to get any news at all by telegraph.

"The telegraph companies are not handling five per cent of the business 'by wire' they did before the strike, and they will handle less the longer the strike continues, because the public is learning that it can save money and expedite business by sending its own telegrams by mail.

"As strikers, we have won the admiration of the business as well as the labor world, for the orderly manner we have conducted ourselves, and the determination shown in sticking and refusing to return to work until our demands have been granted.

"The telegraph officials have villified the officers of the union through the columns of the capitalistic press in garbled interviews, and by falsely reporting their speeches, and sought by every means in their power to create distrust in the minds of our members.

"But nothing can daunt the loyalty of the men and women who have been goaded into this strike by years of servitude and oppression. Every artifice tried by these soulless monopolies to cause defection in our ranks has failed, leaving the telegraphers of this country more determined than ever to stick together and continue to fight for their rights until victory crowns their efforts.

"Many of those who went out on strike will never return to the key again, having already secured as good, if not better, positions under more favorable conditions, than working for the telegraph companies, and those who are still out, are staying out more as a matter of principle, because there are plenty of good positions yet to be had on the railroads, by simply making application therefor. Nearly all of our locals have inaugurated an information bureau, where names and addresses of those who desire employment are filed, and a list is kept of positions open on railroads and in the broker and press service throughout the country."

Under the caption "The Situation Briefly Described," The Commercial Telegraphers'

Journal publishes the following items from the different cities:

Ash Fork, Ariz.—This important relay point has gone out both companies. Engineer left in W. U.

Albany, Ga.—All W. U., including manager, out. All at Postal, including manager. A. P. man out.

Anaconda, Mont.—This local sends greetings and desires to state that its members are out and expect to remain out until our national officers instruct them to return to work. We took out the W. U. chief operator and his wife. Postal chief went out also.

Albuquerque, N. M.—Only W. U. manager left in. Postal all out except manager and night chief. This is quite a relay point. A. P. man out here. Postal men west of Albuquerque all out. Las Cruces and San Marcial out. All points north we can hear from are out.

Boston.—Everything O. K. here. We have had no desertions and will have none. We have first-class, hustling committees on every important part of the strike work. Our Picketing Committee are boarding every train and getting a line on any strike-breakers reported to us as being headed for Boston. One strike-breaker more gone to penal institution at Deer Island. Both companies badly tied up. Everybody confident of success. The companies are calling in some of the managers of small offices out of town.

Birmingham, Ala.—Local situation unchanged. Not even a student has arrived at either office, and the few they got early in the game are fagged out. Both companies are still using the "indefinite delay" stamp, and in private the management admits the victory is with the telegrapher.

Baltimore, Md.—Pulled out a W. U. manager at Union Stock Yards branch. W. U. badly crippled here, and the Postal is down and out. We are sticking.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Buffalo Enquirer publishes a fac simile of an important telegram, together with the stamped envelope in which it was delivered by our Uncle Sam.

Bradford, Pa.—The A. P. circuit, Bradford, Erie, Titusville and Oil City, Pa., and Wheeling and Fairmount, W. Va., is tied up completely.

Chicago.—The Record-Herald said in its financial column Saturday:

"No improvement in the telegraph service Northwest was seen yesterday, and two of the private wire concerns, Slaughter and S. C. Love, signed the operators' scale rather than attempt to do business under the conditions prevailing. One house with Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth connections, received mail notices of money remittances from its banks at Duluth and Minneapolis from one to four hours ahead of the telegraphic notice, although the latter had been sent during business hours, while the bank notices were mailed in the late afternoon mail in the usual way. It was the claim here that the telegraph notices were mailed to the main office here, then transcribed to telegraph blanks and afterward delivered."

Cleveland, Ohio.—The Evening News says:

"The Western Union manager, Mr. Hartford, told a News reporter: 'We refuse no business that comes to us voluntarily, but we are not soliciting any,' said he. 'Employees are instructed to notify all patrons that all messages are accepted subject to delay at the risk of the sender.'"

Columbus, Ohio.—Have removed several tickers here. Postal fired R. H. Forgrave for incompetency. Their telephone girl has resigned. W. U. are up against it. Chicago, the heaviest wire from here, is worked by a female student.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—All out here.

Duluth, Minn.—Manager Crane of W. U. is compelling his wife to be a scab, although it is said the woman does not enjoy her unenviable position. One dead one at Board of Trade. The Postal has made no acquisitions since the strike began. At the last meeting of the Federated Trades' Assembly resolutions were passed endorsing our strike and pledging us their moral and financial support.

Detroit, Mich.—The situation continues to improve in Detroit. The W. U. had to fire six of their "expert operators" Saturday. They couldn't do enough to earn their meals.

Denison, Texas.—The Industrial Record says:

"The telegraphers' strike is complete. If they only stand firm they are bound to win."

Dallas, Texas.—Took out four W. U. operators yesterday. Took out two Postal men.

Dubuque, Iowa.—All out both W. U. and North American.

El Paso, Texas.—W. U. force all out except one drunk and a very poor lady operator. Unable to get any scabs in. All branches closed, including Juarez, Mexico, across the river. Normal force thirty. Postal men all went out except D. P. Beckham. Only A. P. man here left when Postal men went out.

Elmira, N. Y.—The manager and scab Moses are at W. U. The manager of the Postal is alone. Very little business being done.

Erie, Pa.—The Times says editorially:

"Telegraphers are holding their own. Their demands are far from being unreasonable."

Fargo, N. D.—Not a desertion in our ranks. Not a strike-breaker imported. Scabs are scarce. Manager, chief operator, a wire chief and traffic chief and two operators trying to do the work formerly done by same officials and twenty-four operators.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Supt. Capen, of Postal, looking for men here. Says any kind of talent will do. Postal hasn't had a wire to Chicago since strike started. W. U. has had a Chicago wire carrying 18 per day against 300 ordinarily.

Giddings, Texas.—Messages filed with the telegraph companies in Houston are coming into Giddings by mail, and are behind the regular United States mail. Companies are collecting full tolls on this business.

Galveston, Texas.—Another of the W. U. "loyals" has joined us, and we expect three more in a day or two. The Postal force consists of the manager. Labor organizations treating us handsomely. Everything is lovely, and we are getting on fine. The W. U. haven't added a scab yet at this point. The Postal is completely tied up.

Helena, Mont.—Northwest completely tied up; the only man working here is Bill Taylor, manager at W. U. Messages being mailed from here, and several have been received six days old. Most of our boys have caught on elsewhere, and there will be no weak-knees here.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Took a man from the Postal here, and paid his fare out of town. Everybody standing pat. Associated Press paper here offering $50 for an operator. None forthcoming.

Houston, Texas.—Beg to advise you that all are out in Houston. The strike includes chiefs and messengers. The operator at the Houston Post is also out. We will stick.

Indianapolis, Ind.—No break in the ranks.

Johnstown, Pa.—A. P. out. At W. U. manager out. At Postal manager and a lady operator of meager ability. We have them beaten. Stick.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Situation unchanged. No desertions from our ranks. But three scabs working at the W. U. and one at the Postal. They had a fairly good operator scabbing it, but owing to the influence of our boys he's headed for parts unknown. The Postal manager at Tampa refused to do business with cities on a strike and was relieved. Brokers' Association there resolved in his favor, and demand his reinstatement when strike is over.

Kansas City, Mo.—Seven desertions from the ranks of the Western Union. They have been shipped out of town, and promise not to go to work elsewhere.

Knoxville, Tenn.—No change in situation. A. P. paper had an operator sit in one night, but he joined us the next day. Journal and Tribune says: "None of the striking telegraphers have returned to work."

Little Rock, Ark.—Situation unchanged except for the arrival of two antiquarians from St. Louis. Business houses are directed to write "subject to delay" on the face of their messages by both telegraph companies. Messages being received here by mail from Memphis in a very mutilated condition, with wrong dates, checks, wrong words, etc. We met the arrival of the two scabs by pulling out the Western Union messengers who are striking for better wages. This will hold them for a while.

Nothing doing at the Postal here. The men are jubilant and will "stick." Fully half the strikers here have gone to the railroads, Pine Bluff, Arkadelphia Hot Springs, doing nothing. Hot Springs locked for eight days.

Los Angeles, Calif.—W. U. here have succeeded in getting a couple of dead ones to help them out. The Postal is entirely tied up. We have ninety-two men out. Of this number several have secured outside positions.

Laredo, Texas.—The commercial interests of Laredo are suffering from the complete tie-up of all messages through the Western Union office at this city.

Macon, Ga.—Our ranks are unbroken with the exception of some four or five members who have left these parts to take outside employment at better wages than they received elsewhere. Our boys are standing firm. At the Postal the manager is trying to do all the work. The W. U. had four very dead ones trying to keep things clear. The manager went to Albany, Ga., to try to open that office, and during his absence the dead ones jumped the company. We haven't let the W. U. retain a single strike-breaker.

Mobile, Ala.—Telegraph business paralyzed here. The Postal manager is alone. At the W. U. manager and day chief operator alone remain loyal to company. Messenger boys got up a collection to pay a scab's fare back to Mount Vernon, Ala., the scab's home. Press on our side. Register and Daily Item now subscribing to the Hearst News service.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Situation unchanged. No desertions and not the least danger of any. All branch offices in this city still closed. An old operator was yesterday offered $2 per hour to go to work for the W. U., but he refused.

Meridian, Miss.—The situation now better than ever. Manager Walter D. Stead, W. U., only man in town who has touched a key since the strike commenced. He is played out.

Memphis, Tenn.—Solid as the Rock of Gibraltar. We are working as one man. No desertions. Broker men doing all possible to help us. Both companies almost entirely tied up.

Miami, Fla.—Both men out as soon as received instructions.

New Orleans, La.—Stronger than ever. Business at a standstill in both offices. Postal chief advises public business for Marietta, Ga., and Cartersville, Ga., mailed from Atlanta. Jackson, Miss., mailed from Vicksburg. Selma, Ala., Newberne, Springvale, Uniontown, Tuscaloosa, Jasper, Aberdeen, Miss., Columbia, Meridian, Newton and Forest mailed from Birmingham. Clarks-ville, Tenn., and Hopkinsville and Princeton, Ky., temporarily closed. Louisville mailing for points on Illinois Central between Louisville and Paducah. New Iberia, Crowley, Opelousas, Baton Rouge closed in Louisiana. Brookhaven and Natchez closed in Mississippi. Railroad commission insists on telegraph companies doing their business by telegraph. In case of unusual delay the company is ordered to return the tolls promptly.

Nashville, Tenn.—Still doing business at the same old stand. Not a cold foot among us. We are in better shape financially and otherwise than on the first day of the strike. We see nothing in sight but victory. We are receiving financial aid from the several unions here and have been sent many personal checks. Men in good spirits.

Norfolk, Va.—We have had nothing which even resembles a desertion here. Two scabs at the W. U. collapsed Saturday. A glance at the room where the W. U. formerly did telegraphing reminds one of a ward in a small hospital. The few scabs are pale, haggard, worn-out, and as bad looking a bunch as one would care to look at.

New York.—Union gained seven more strike-breakers. No desertions. Conditions in both offices deplorable from a company standpoint. All of officials who can telegraph pressed into service. Petitions being sent to Roosevelt by the thousands asking him to interfere and bring this strike to an end. All serene here.

Omaha, Neb.—There is nothing new in the strike situation. Quite a few of our men have accepted positions with the railroads. Both companies as badly tied up now as on the first day of the strike. Advices from interior points in Iowa and Nebraska are to the effect that very little business is being done.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Twenty-five went out on strike here. That number is still out. Have signed scale with every brokerage concern in town.

Owosso, Mich.—Postal office closed. Manager and operator both out.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The outlook in Philadelphia is all-encouraging to our men, and all-discouraging to the company. The companies, notwithstanding their blatant assurances, are tied up to the point of desperation. The companies are now sending representatives to the homes of those on strike, urging our boys and girls to go back to work. So far no success. Our people are loyalty itself.

Peoria, Ill.—The Peoria Herald-Transcript says: "Peoria is practically isolated from the outside world on account of the strike of telegraphers."

Pekin, Ill.—A brother of Local No. 1 writes: "The W. U. telegrapher here is out on strike. He has been properly checked out from the superintendent's office, and this town has been disconnected from the rest of the world for fifteen days."

Portland, Oregon.—Portland firmer than ever and everything progressing beautifully. W. U. chief today admitted he is all in, and the W. U. is terribly tied up. A. P. had no report last night. Business passing over the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Co. four days old. Our representatives to the Federated Trades Council received fine treatment. We have been promised support until the strike is over. No new scabs.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Everything lovely here. The boys are standing up in fine shape and we have not had a quitter. The managers of both companies are after our men, but have made no headway. We are watching out for scabs, but the company has received no new ones. They are terribly crippled at the W. U., and the Postal is almost as bad. We will "stick" to the end.

Paris, Ky.—The Postal office at this point closed, the lady manager, who is a member of the O. R. T., having gone on strike.

Palestine, Texas.—Both companies tied up badly, and the messengers still on strike. Clerks also.

Richmond, Va.—Forty-three men responded to the strike order here. We have yet to record a desertion. Meetings are held daily at 3:15. The telegraph business here is absolutely dead. The press and public are with us. The few scabs at work here have taken the sines of honest, capable, manly men who are on strike. The reason is obvious. Richmond will never surrender.

Salem, Ore.—Governor Chamberlain today sent the following telegram to President Roosevelt:

"The President, Washington, D. C.—I respectfully suggest your intervention and the appointment by you of a board of arbitration in settlement of differences between the telegraphers and the companies throughout the country.

Signed. GOV. GEO. E. CHAMBERLAIN."

Selma, Ala.—Messages being received here by telephone and mail. Many so badly bulled as to be unintelligible. New Iberia, Crowley, Opelousas, and Baton Rouge, La., closed; also Brook Haven, Miss. At Natchez the Postal is closed. These offices are also closed: Anderson, Camden, Laurens, Aiken, Kershaw, Sumter, Bennettsville, Spartanburg and Greenville. Postal at Birmingham issued the following bulletin: "Business for Marietta and Cartersville, Ga., mailed from Atlanta; Jackson, Miss., mailed from Vicksburg; Selma, Newburn, Uniontown, Tuscaloosa, Springville, Jasper, Ala., and Aberdeen and Columbus, Miss., mailed from Birmingham." Nashville reports Clarksville, Hopkinsville, Tenn., and Princeton, Ky., closed. Louisville reported mailing business for all points between Louisville and Paducah.

Salt Lake, Utah.—The boys are working bonus in this good cause. W. U. have no new scabs. The Postal has yet to receive its first scab. Business at the W. U. averaging $15 per day. Normal business $12,000 per month. W. U. haven't a thing East. A. P. getting about 300 words over the W. U. but it doesn't help the papers any. "Stick."

San Francisco.—Though our boys and girls went through a four weeks' strike before this one was commenced we are all on the firing line. There have been no desertions. A strong appealing letter written to those scabbing brought out nine of them. The companies are more badly tied up now than they were in the first trouble. We will stick.

West Oakland, Calif.—Our men and women out even more numerous than a month ago. You may depend upon us to go the full limit. There will be no desertions here. We will "stick" till notified by the proper authority.

Spokane, Wash.—Our line-up as strong as ever. Not a man has fallen, and the determination is growing stronger instead of weaker. If we will stick we will surely win. The few incompetents can not handle the work. The notorious scab, J. C. Powellson, one of the W. U.'s earliest recruits, was located by shylocks and forced to get out. Everybody happy.

Seattle, Wash.—Walk-out was complete and strictly in accord with glorious demonstration in other points. We have telegraph companies licked. It's now up to us to stand pat, and we have them. A. P. tied up, and publishers complaining bitterly to Stone. No desertions. We are running a benefit game of base ball. "Stick" sounds good.

St. Paul, Minn.—Looks better every day. Supt. Swan, of the W. U., sent a service to his managers to discontinue mailing government messages, and giving instructions to return such messages when unable to transmit by wire. We got out two more on the W. U. The benefit concert was a decided success. The people here are with us. Two more scabs pulled out yesterday. Today there are 24 in St. Paul W. U., including officials, chiefs and students, mostly students. Business in St. Paul certainly is tied up.

Savannah, Ga.—The situation here is more favorable than at any time since the commencement of the struggle. We have got out the best man the W. U. had. He says he will stick. Both companies badly crippled, and with the cotton season at hand there will be something doing on the part of the cotton brokers. Neither company has had any success in the matter of getting scabs. We will stand pat.

St. Joseph, Mo.—All standing firm, with no signs of weakness anywhere. We have the W. U. and Postal in bad shape.

Saginaw, Mich.—Three W. U. and two Postal men out here. The manager of each working alone.

Toledo, Ohio.—Situation here much improved from our standpoint. Companies unable to get any scabs who can telegraph. They have a few students, but these are almost useless.

Topeka, Kan.—Every commercial man in W. U. and Postal went out here. We are solid.

Utica, N. Y.—W. U. clerk quit yesterday, quite an addition to the ranks. Takes manager to fill his place. W. U. got a scab in yesterday, but we had him out in two hours. Postal manager alone. Business fallen to almost nothing. We are steadfast, and will fight until we are told to stop by the proper union officials.

Worcester, Mass.—Our men in good condition and no desertions. Business badly tied up here, especially at the W. U. The W. U. force consists of former Manager Bradford, who has been a dead one telegraphically for more than a quarter of a century, another dead one named Daley and a student girl. We are paying out of our local funds a strike benefit to our boys who are out.

Walnut Springs, Texas.—W. U. tied up down this way. Have had a message on file for four days, but can not raise any office to get it off.

Waco, Texas.—No A. P. wire in this city now. Western Union all out. Postal manager merely protecting his bond.

Wichita, Kansas.—A. P. out as you directed. They are completely tied up.

THE BOND QUESTION.

THE bond question is one that has been prominently before the membership of the organization for a number of years, and the subject has received much attention on the part of writers in these columns; in fact, the subject was discussed as far back as 1890, but no satisfactory solution of the question has as yet been found. Many cases have been cited where bonds have been cancelled without reason, whereby great injustices have been done bonded employes, as the loss of their bond meant the loss of their position, and in many instances appeals have been made to the bond company for a reason for such action, but such requests have invariably been ignored, and as a consequence the one most interested was without information as to the nature of the charges against him and had no opportunity to defend himself. It has been developed in innumerable cases that complaints have been made against bonded employes merely to gratify a personal grudge under the guise of a "confidential" communication, and on the strength of that the bond was cancelled with no redress. Many a strictly first-class station agent, who could command a first-class salary as such, has been compelled to work for meager wages on account of having his bond cancelled for reasons unknown to him and without cause. Various plans to correct this evil have been suggested during the many years that the subject has been discussed, none of which have taken tangible form, and as some members have suggested in recent articles that it was "time to act," the subject seems to merit editorial attention.

The license question, another subject that has been thoroughly discussed in these columns for many years, was finally disposed of by the last session of the Grand Division.

The editor believes that the bond question should likewise be finally disposed of either one way or the other, and for that reason will now suggest the general outline of a plan that will permit of the solving of the question if the membership is disposed to do so, and if on the contrary the membership in general is not interested in the bond question, that fact can be developed and the subject dropped.

Those who have given the subject serious consideration must realize that the Order of Railroad Telegraphers can not go into the bond business as an organization, as its whole efforts as such must be directed to the work that is being carried on for the betterment of the working conditions of the railroad telegraphers of North America.

The members of the Order can very properly organize a bond company and conduct it not only as a matter of business, but also to remove the unsatisfactory conditions that prevail on account of inability to get fair hearings when questions arise in regard to the discontinuation of their bonds. If such a company was formed with only members of the Order as stockholders, it would give it such a close affiliation with the organization that the results would be the same as though it was formed by the organization itself.

The proposed plan is as follows:

Organize a bond company with a capital of $250,000, to be divided into 25,000 shares of stock at $10 each, subscriptions to be received only from members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

The first and foremost consideration in connection with the adoption of this proposed plan would be that of interesting a large majority of the membership of the Order in it, for if the plan is to be carried to a successful conclusion, it will be necessary that it shall receive the active support of a large majority of the members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, as it would be necessary, in order to make the plan effective, to revise existing schedules by the insertion of a clause providing that telegraphers and station agents represented shall be bonded in that company, or at least a provision providing that bonded employees shall be allowed to give bond in any reliable guaranty company of their own selection, which would be equivalent to the same thing.

The fact that there would be such a close relationship between the proposed company and the Order would make it possible to conduct its affairs at a very nominal figure.

It is estimated that one-half of the telegraphers are bonded and that the amount of their bonds will average $1,000 each. Taking this estimate as a basis, the number of members of the Order that give bond is approximately 20,000, and the amount of their bonds aggregates $20,000,000, which computed at the rate of $2.50 per $1,000, gives a total of $50,000 premiums per annum. The running expenses of the institution would be comparatively small, as would also the losses.

In addition to the revenue derived from premiums, something like $5,000 would be derived annually from interest on the money (not all of the money would draw interest, as most States require a cash deposit of a certain amount from bond companies as an evidence of good faith before they will grant them a charter).

Making due allowance for the regular operating expenses and losses and unforeseen contingencies, such a plan should yield at least eight per cent net to shareholders, in addition to furnishing the means of overcoming one of the greatest obstacles with which the railroad telegraphers and station agents have had to contend.

If such a plan is to be adopted there are many details to be worked out which it is unnecessary to attempt until it is ascertained whether or not this plan meets with the approval of those interested and whether or not there is a sufficient number of them to carry it through if it does meet with their approval.

The editor suggests that those who are interested in the subject discuss it in the columns of THE TELEGRAPHER for the next three issues, and then if the plan appears to meet with the approval of a sufficient number to warrant the action, a blank will be provided in the January issue so that some decisive action can be taken in the matter.

It would also be well for members to discuss it among themselves, so that the subject can finally be disposed of one way or the other.

One thing to be considered in connection with such a proposed plan is whether or not the proposed company, if organized, should bond all station employees regardless of whether or not they are members of the Order, or whether it should limit itself strictly to members of the Order.

In discussing this subject members are invited to offer any suggestions they may have that they believe will add to the efficiency of the plan, if adopted.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We don't patronize the Santa Fe nor the M. K. & T. Railways.

The strike of the commercial telegraphers continues, and the men are standing firm.

Twelve hundred and forty-seven new members were initiated into the Order during the month of August.

At the time of going to press, 33,168 members had already paid dues for the term ending December 31, 1907.

The Mortuary Fund of the Mutual Benefit Department continues to grow, the surplus having passed the $200,000 mark.

The M. K. & T. Railway is still on the unfair list of the railroad telegraphers, as well as the American Federation of Labor.

Since the last announcement revised schedules have been secured on the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City, Delaware and Hudson, and the Long Island and the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railways.

Have you remitted your contribution for the benefit of the commercial telegraphers? Every member of the Order should promptly and liberally respond to the appeal issued by the Grand Secretary and Treasurer in their behalf.

The attention of contributors of articles to THE TELEGRAPHER is again called to the fact that matter for the Fraternal Department must be in the hands of the editor not later than the 28th day of the month in order to assure its insertion in the following issue. Matter intended for use in the October TELEGRAPHER must be in the hands of the editor on or before September 28th. Their attention is also called to the numerous requests that have hitherto been published that the name of stations be given instead of office call, and that correspondents refrain from sending in line-ups, as the practice of publishing line-ups was discontinued several years ago.

Help to complete thorough organization throughout the country by furnishing the Grand Secretary and Treasurer with a correct list of all non-members in your territory, using care to give correct initials, the correct spelling of the name, and the correct address, and also to show the road on which they are employed.

The accompanying is an engraving of an official O. R. T. gold ring. These rings can be had from the Grand Secretary and Treasurer for $4.50. In ordering them it is only necessary to give the size desired, which information can be secured from any jeweler.

The editor's attention has been called to the practice of J. Ed. Houghton, chief operator in the Union Depot office, Toronto, Ontario, who, it is stated, has for some time past sent out effusive "notes" to the telegraphers and station agents along the line, addressing them in familiar terms, concluding his epistles with "Yours fraternally," evidently trying to give the impression that he was a member of the Order apparently for the purpose of furthering his efforts to sell them typewriters. It is stated that Houghton is an enemy of the Order, and that he does not let an opportunity pass to "knock" it, and that he delights in trying to prevent telegraphers from enjoying their rights under the schedule. A smart man once said: "Remember your friends and pursue your enemies."

The statement issued by the Bureau of Immigration for the month of July, 1907, shows that there were 97,132 aliens landed at the various ports of entry in the United States during that month; that there were 1,241 debarred from entrance classified as follows: Imbeciles, 4; feeble-minded, 14; epileptics, 3; insane, 20; loathsome or dangerous contagious diseases, 360; professional beggars, 1; paupers, 1; likely to become public charges, 420; mentally or physically incapacitated, 87; contract laborers, 187; accompanying aliens, 15; under sixteen years of age unaccompanied by parents, 13; criminals, 17; prostitutes and procurers, 13; without passports, 76; under provisions of Chinese exclusion act, 10.

The report also shows that there were 75 aliens returned by the immigration authorities after landing. The total number of aliens landed in the United States during the month of July, 1906, was 84,403.

The best expression of unionism that can be manifested is the willingness to abide by the will of the lawfully constituted majority; the practicing of what you preach; permitting union tailors to make your clothes,

A feature of the farmers' unions of the West is their political co-operation with organized wage earners. In Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma there are evidences of such co-operation, and the movement is spreading to other parts of the country where both farmers and wage earners are organized.

Bread is necessary to sustain life, but it takes money to buy bread and butter, and experience has taught us that organization is absolutely necessary in order to insure the mechanics and laborers living wages and reasonable working hours. The union is as indispensable in our age to the workers as is the home, food and clothing. It is the means whereby they can obtain the necessities and comforts of life.—Labor Leader.

Workers are told that the "law of supply and demand" determines prices. Now the press dispatches of August 10 tell us that because of the telegraphers' strike, the grain market is weak, with prices declining. Which statement is true? Has a strike of a few thousand men lessened the demand for wheat and breadstuffs? And has that resulted in a lower price? Or does this incident deny the oft-repeated claim about "supply and demand," and show clearly that prices are arranged by Produce Exchange gamblers?—Toledo Union Leader.

The wealthiest labor union in the world is the Amalgamated Engineers' Society of Great Britain. Statements just published show that this organization possesses funds amounting to over $3,500,000. Most of this is locked up in secure investments, which bring in steady returns. On January 1, 1907, the membership of the union was 105,188. The union pays sick, death and superannuation benefits. The organization has just presented a demand for an increase in wages of two shillings a week, and announces that it may ask for an additional increase at the end of another six months.

The eight-hour movement has received endorsement from an unexpected quarter. A physical instructor and physician of national fame says trades unions were overwhelmingly right when they demanded, as the prerequisite for the mental, moral and physical improvement of humanity in general, a shortening of the hours of toil. We all know, as the physician points out, that long hours of labor tend to early mental and muscular exhaustion; but he goes further, and says he has been surprised to find, in these days of intense strain and over-exertion, how rarely individuals of over forty years of age are still able to do a full day's work.

President Van Cleve, of the Manufacturers' Association, has the following to say in his annual report as to one way in which they can create such conditions as will assist them in getting cheaper labor. This patriotic president of a patriotic association, says: "In the shape which it bears to-day the labor issue confronts us with new problems. I have already spoken of the shortage in the supply of workers. In a small measure we can remedy this by using all the power to get laborers in Europe for our mills and factories that is allowed us under the law which goes into effect on July 1st." Now, Mr. Non-Union Man, don't you think it is high time for you to organize and get busy.

A pastors' union, composed of all the Protestant clergymen of La Crosse, Wis., and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, is something out of the ordinary, but La Crosse has one such. In that town the members of the other trades look upon the preachers as brother workers, admit their delegate to the meetings of the Trades and Labor Council and have a representative of that body at the meetings of the clergymen. On last Labor Day the preachers marched with the printers, the cigar-makers, the bricklayers and other unions in the Labor Day parade, while at the last meeting of the pastors they were addressed by a delegate from the Boot and Shoemakers' Union in advocacy of insisting on the union label when making purchases of shoes.—Clothing Trades Bulletin.

There is something the matter with the non-union man, and if you look him over closely you will find out what that something is. He is either an inferior mechanic that can not earn the union rate of wages, an expelled member of some labor organization, or a fugitive from justice who, through fear of apprehension, gives his chosen craft a wide berth, or some poor, deluded fool who has reasons for believing he can go it alone and whose intelligence is so far below the common sense standard that he can not see the benefits that accrue from collective bargaining. Now and then you find in him some well-known former member of some local whose "rule or ruin" methods cost him his rule and succeeded in ruining nothing but his own future.—Horseshoers' Magazine.

* * *

There is a hell-to-pay row in Kansas City, Mo., the State of grass-widow and hopper-grass fame, and talks of "knifing the ticket" when next it runs are more plentiful than populist plans for enriching the common people, the Mayor and City Council having received notice from the State Labor Commissioner that, failing to obtain an enforcement of the eight-hour law, he will jail the entire city government. The Labor Commissioner doesn't make any bones about the matter, but gets right down to hard-pan by saying "comply with the law or go to jail," and it is up to the Mayor and Council to give municipal employes the eight-hour day or put in time like any other bunch of law-breakers. Union men are jubilant at the stand taken by the Labor Commissioner, and if the municipal authorities wish to make it a State issue, to be fought out at the ballot box, organized labor will get into the political arena and fight for the Commission as against the Mayor and City Council.

MISCELLANY

LUCKY NINE.

“W^HO takes out ‘Number Nine’ to-night?”
“Ted.”

“Huh! Funny how th’ ole man’s hooked to thet lad. Took ‘im ofen ‘Number Sixteen’ freight in three months and keeps ‘im sort o’ on tap fer ther’ good runs. But Ted’s different, somehow.”

“Ted’s got brains, an’ knows how ter use ‘em. ‘Twarn’t no fool business o’ his’n, when he got thet hundred from the East, a buyin’ thet ole sidin’ up to Grimes. Grimes is a growin’, an’ they’ll have ter have coal some day; an’ thet’s th’ only spot fer a yard, what ain’t solid rock along ther whole cut through the town, ‘ceptin’ ther jump cross th’ river.”

“Goin’ t’ build a iron bridge in th’ fall, did yer hear?”

“Yep; ‘bout time, too. Thet ole wood tackle is a goin’ t’ drop some day. ‘Number Nine’s’ extre to-night—say, there’s a lot o’ miners an’ ther families from Carson goin’ up country. She’s got six day coaches and two mail an’ ‘spresses.”

“Ted’s got a gurl up to Grimes—say, she’s th’ purties’—sh-h-h. Here comes Ted, now; don’t like to hear folks talk about ‘is gal. Queer thet way.”

The old yard master nudged the station agent in the ribs, and, as though it were accidental, continued a similar motion, knocking out his pipe.

The speakers were seated in a shady corner of the little station at Mine Junction, enjoying a pipe after the noonday meal.

The town had sprung up about the time that the quest for gold had brought to the West numbers of fortune seekers composed of all sorts and classes of men. The town itself had not much to boast of at the time my narrative opens. The inevitable saloon, a first evidence of approaching civilization —regarded then as a sort of oasis—was the first institution that greeted the eye of the traveler upon alighting from the main line at the Junction. Schools and churches were, as yet, things of the remote future. The inhabitants knew, in a general way, that such things existed; but the advisability of instituting such reforms at the Junction had never occurred to its people. The “Branch,” consisting of a single track, ran south from Mine Junction some sixty miles, up into the gold country, terminating at Grimes, to which point was brought the specie for shipment over the Branch to the Main.

Grimes itself had been the seat of much successful operation; and many of the workings there had panned out so well that the town had, a few years previously, experienced a period of phenomenal prosperity; and, indeed, at the time when our story opens, it was a flourishing little place of about 3,500 inhabitants, though the belief that the immediate country had been worked out had sent farther south most of the prospectors, which was, perhaps, as well for the general moral welfare of the town. The residuum, who composed its present inhabitants, were, for the most part, those stayers who gradually sift themselves out from the horde that presses on nomadically, and who form the real foundation of a new country.

Through the center of Grimes ran Clear Creek, a stream about fifty feet in width, which a few years before, had yielded forth several placer deposits of value. Across Clear Creek stretched the wagon and foot bridge, which united the two parts of the town, and a few hundred feet up stream was that of the railroad, an old-fashioned wood trestle, upon which the elements had made war until the railroad was faced with the necessity of rebuilding it; and contracts had been let for a new steel structure.

On the north side of the creek where the railroad entered the town it had been necessary to cut to a depth of ten or twelve feet, through a slight elevation of ground. The cut extended south to the creek, where a somewhat precipitous bank terminated at the water's edge.

The train, approaching from Mine Junction, passed first through the cut and emerged immediately upon the trestle.

The original intention of the directors had been to maintain Grimes Station in this cut north of the creek, and a siding had been built there for that purpose, but the town, progressing so far south, had rendered this impossible, and it became necessary to carry the line across the creek to the south side; hence the siding had become unused.

Ted had come to Grimes almost as soon as the railroad had entered their employ, serving as fireman and engineer, until now he had been given charge of No. 9, the regular passenger and express train, leaving Mine Junction at 9:18 p. m. and due in Grimes an hour and a half later.

The station agent had said that "Ted was different somehow." If "different somehow" meant attention to business, Ted was different. He was about twenty-four or five years of age, of dark complexion; and possessed of a frame, though not above the middle height, well knit and evenly proportioned. He came from Massachusetts of parents in very moderate circumstances; and the death of his mother in his early childhood had removed those home ties which deter us from seeking other scenes. He had a public school education and was by nature a close observer. Hence he had, in many respects, the advantage of those with whom he was thrown into contact. The esteem in which he was held by his employers was evidenced by the fact that he had been promoted more rapidly than had any other employe. Though probably the youngest engineer in their employ, the company had come to look upon him as fitting about any situation with which they were confronted. His good fortune, if it may be so called, might have occasioned jealousy on the part of his associates, but they were for the most part fair-minded, honest men, who looked upon the situation in much the manner expressed by the words of the station agent.

A short time ago Ted had received as his portion of the small estate of a deceased maiden aunt, about $100 with which he had purchased the plot of ground up at Grimes adjoining the cut of the railroad north of the creek and taking in the old siding. There was room enough back from the railroad for a neat little house without interfering with such business operations as might be conducted on the edge of the cut, should he ever require a house of his own.

The day was hot and sultry. A blue haze pervaded the atmosphere and hung like a pall over the landscape waiting for the touch of nature to dispel it. A day when might have been expected to follow, one of those demonstrations of nature, when the very air seems transformed into wind, water and fire.

"Hello, Ted," said the yardmaster, as he approached.

"Howdy do, Tom?" Ted replied, "pretty warm, isn't it?"

"It's hot. Looks like somethin' was a goin' t' happen. Better take a umbrella along with you out' on No. 9 to-night. Lucky dog. Tell us you've got the run steady."

"Don't know how steady it is, Tom; Mr. Wilson just told me to take her out until further notice. To be candid, I am lucky if I hold it. I have always wanted that run and wished I would be lucky enough to get it. Came to call it 'Lucky Nine.'"

"Hard run, though, Ted; eyes peeled every inch of the way. Fifty miles an hour or better most all along the line, 'ceptin' the grades and yer beat that a goin' down Stump Mountain."

"I know it, Tom, but Nature gave me a pretty good pair of eyes and all I can do is to use them, and if I fail or something goes wrong, I probably won't be here to bear the blame. But I tell you, Tom, I intend to hold that run; it'll have to be a spread rail or an open switch to take me off."

"Good fer you, lad, you've got the sand and a cool nerve, if y' are most a kid; and I'd ruther trust my bones behind you than a lot o' others I know."

Nine o'clock found No. 9 made up at the little station with Ted taking a last look over old 47, the big engine used exclusively for this run. With wrench, oil can and torch he carefully examined each jam nut, holding the connecting rods, the eccentrics, rockers and reversing crane and having satisfied himself that all was secure, he stood with arms folded and back against the cylinder, talking to Tom. There was nothing now to wait for but the mails and transferred passengers from No. 78, on the Main.

The humidity had continued from the afternoon and not a breath of air stirred. The steam from the safety valve ascended in a vertical column until condensed in the air. The sky was fast covering with dense black clouds and already an occasional fitful flash foretold what was to come.

9:18, leaving time and No. 78, Ted anxiously consulted his watch. Despite his own confidence in his ability to bring the train into Grimes on time and even make up a few minutes if necessary, he was chagrined at being lated in leaving.

9:32, and with a hiss of escaping steam, the ponderous engine of No. 78 rolled to a stop at the crossing; and the passengers tumbled out, carrying sleepy children and tugging at bags and bundles of all sizes and shapes. Whole families with their entire belongings were here; unsuccessful in their battles of life in the cities, they were drawn toward the glitter of gold in the West. Six cars of them, men, women and children, of all walks of life, but all with hearts full of love for their own. Ted saw them and he realized his responsibility. A misconstruction of a signal, a moment of inadvertance, a second's relaxation from intense vigil and how many childish faces would look up at him and cry out for the lost love and tender care of a mother or the shielding arm of a father; and how many fond parents would grieve for the little curly-head that had welded the link which had made them man and wife?

Ted did what few men do. He realized the consequences; and if appreciation of responsibility made lives secure, the passengers of No. 9 should be safe that night.

Mr. Wilson, the vice-president, was aboard, bound for Grimes, likewise were three of the directors. But this did not concern Ted. While they were all estimable men, they were but four of the many whose lives were entrusted to his care that night.

"All aboard!" shouted the conductor. Ted jumped into the cab. Two gauges of water, lever dropped forward to the last notch for starting. Ted leaned out of the cab and looked back for the signal. The great machine was snorting spasmodically as a thing of life, impatient at the delay. The conductor with one foot on the steps and train orders in his hand, waved the signal and Ted's eyes turned from the rear for good. He tugged open the throttle and there was a grind and a rumble as the vapor flew into the cylinders and began its Herculean pressure again the cross heads of the pistons. "Chuh chuh," and then a series of rapid exhausts for the ponderous wheels had slipped and were racing, Ted closed the throttle to allow her to take a fresh hold and cautiously reopened it again. The train gathered momentum until Ted took up the lever a few notches to use his steam expansively. No. 9 was well under way with its living freight. Faster and faster until they had attained a speed, which if maintained and if nothing happened, would enable Ted to make up most of his lost time. The storm now opened in earnest; and the fireman, an honest Irish lad, was dividing the time between shoveling coal and looking anxiously at the sky.

9:42, and with a whirl of dust, the station of Copper Hill flashed by with its three lamps looking to Ted like the momentary flash of fire-flies; and old 47 plunged over the switches with a noise like the rattle of musketry. No. 9 had gained a minute and a half of her lost time. The lightning was now playing with incessant fury and the rain fell in blinding sheets. A flash illuminating the country like day, was accompanied by a crash of thunder so terrible that all other sounds seemed not only drowned, but hushed into stillness for some seconds after, until the mind recovered from the shock; and the darkness which followed seemed, if possible, intensified. Switchlamps appeared to spring up out of the darkness and rush toward the cab, but before reaching it, they would duck, and dart under the engine. Sheet after sheet of lightning enveloped the whole locomotive and as the thunder would die away, Ted's eye involuntarily scanned the fore-work, it seeming impossible that it had not been demolished.

The long curve at Great Fork was taken with undiminished speed and old 47 lay well over to the concave. Ted knew the road, inch by inch, and knew that this curve had been laid out for speed; and at just ten minutes past ten, the train flew through the little shed at Great Fork, only eight minutes late. The trestle across the ravine, just past the station, staggered under the onslaught, and as the train sprung off upon the south side, it seemed to recoil and tremble like a violin string when released from the bow.

Then commenced the climb of Stump Mountain and the engine took the grade at such momentum that No. 9 made nearly a half mile before coming down to the usual speed. Then Ted's muscles relaxed and he mopped the cold perspiration from his brow. Mechanically, he reached forward and dropped the lever a few notches, increasing the action of the eccentrics. The engine was now working hard, but, notwithstanding his chattering teeth and frequent appeals to his patron saint, the fireman's braver nature had so far prevailed that he had kept up steam. The storm was still raging with fury apparently unabated and Ted could see that the ditches were transformed into raging torrents. The rail was wet and old 47 constantly lost her grip and her ponderous drivers would race, hence, when the cut at the top of the mountain was reached, Ted had again lost a minute and a half. When the train ran out of the cut and approached the long descent to Beaver Run, Ted merely picked up the lever again, without closing off steam. This was too much for the fireman, who leaned across the cab and shouted: "Are yez goin' t' do it again?"

Ted compressed his lips, nodded and again riveted his gaze ahead. The Irishman regarded him silently for a few moments and then resigned himself to his fate with the logical remark that "It did not matter much. He'd as leave go to th' Devil wid Ted as wid any man he knew."

Ted closed the throttle and the fireman grabbed the brake-wheel. Ted knew that if he whistled "down brakes," the train hands would probably apply them to such effect as to exclude the possibility of his making the speed necessary; so he quickly decided to rely upon the brake of the locomotive. He motioned the fireman to apply it, and knowing that the train hands were at their posts ready to wind up the rear brakes upon hearing his signal, he caught the whistle cord in his hand, ready to pull should occasion require. Down the mountain plunged the train, with Ted's face again rigid. Mile after mile was reeled off with speed that had probably never before been attained on the road. Beaver Run was passed at just 10:38, only two minutes late. Grimes lay now but eight miles away, but this must be made in ten minutes. The storm was dying out. The rain had nearly ceased, but the darkness was still intense. Ted kept her to it, and at 10:45 he made out the little tool house at Gordons flash past, marking the approach to the cut entering Grimes. Ted gave one long whistle, and now old 47 bounded into the cut. He would reach Grimes on time. Was he thinking of the directors, of No. 9, of the run he had made? Perhaps, but that was not all. A girl's sweet face also came before his eyes, the counterpart of the little miniature he carried in his watch case. Why did he want to succeed? Why such pleasure at the successful performance of the duties assigned to him? Was it not because it placed him one step nearer making her happy?

In a little cottage up at Grimes sat a girl and a woman. The latter somewhat past forty, the former about nineteen or twenty. The woman was slender and care or trouble had made its impression upon a face which must have been beautiful. The girl was the picture of what the mother had been. A wealth of dark hair was coiled neatly about her head, and over some needle work, she was humming an air and replying cheerfully to occasional words of the mother. Out doors a storm had been raging and flashes of lightning and heavy peals of thunder were yet mingling with the rain and wind.

Suddenly her work dropped to her lap and her eyes sought the clock.

"Mother," said the girl, "it is a quarter after ten."

"Well, Anna," replied the woman, "why are you so nervous? We have had storms before, and the road is as safe, they say, as any road. Besides, Ted's train must be miles from here now and storms like this seldom cover a very wide area."

"I know, mother, perhaps I am foolish, but something depresses me; I wonder if anyone has been down to the bridge."

"Mr. Reilly lights the lights there every evening. If anything were out of the way, he would notify the railroad."

"Yes, mother, I know, but Mr. Reilly went to the bridge long before this storm commenced. And, besides, Mr. Reilly is quite aged and does not see very well."

The girl resumed her work, but in a few minutes sprung up, saying: "Mother, I can't stand it any longer. Something is wrong, I know it. The storm is almost over and I am going to Mr. Reilly's."

Despite the protests of the mother, she caught up a water-proof and slipping on overshoes went out into the night.

The cottage of Mr. Reilly, the old man who lighted the switch lamps, was but a few doors away, and to this Anna bent her steps. Mrs. Reilly opened the door to her summons with a "God bless us, Miss Cummings, an' pfwat are the loikes of yez doin' out i' th' night like this?"

"Is Mr. Reilly in?" asked Anna.

"That he is, Missie, but he's that put about wid his rheumatism that sorra a step can he take this night again' he come back from the cut beyant. Is aught amiss wid yer dear mither or yourself?"

"No, thank you, Mrs. Reilly," said Anna, "I only wanted Mr. Reilly to go with me to the bridge."

"Wirra! The bridge is it, Missie? Shure there's naught wrong wid the bridge. It's been there this four years now. But I never blame yer, child, fer it's the likliest lad that ever saw these parts as comes over that same bridge this night. But come in, child, agin the rain lets up."

"No, thank you, Mrs. Reilly," said Anna, coloring in spite of herself. "I think I'll go on; perhaps you're right. I hope Mr. Reilly recovers from his attack."

"God bless you then, child, run away home. It's no fit night fer the likes of yez to be out," said the good-hearted Irish woman as Anna turned away.

"What shall I do?" thought Anna; "Mrs. Reilly would have laughed at me if she were not too considerate. Others would be less thoughtful. I shall not speak to anyone else. I will go down to the bridge myself."

Wrapping her water-proof closer about her, she wended her way down to the wagon bridge. The roads were deserted. Everyone who could had sought shelter from the storm.

Anna stopped in the middle of the wagon bridge, spellbound by the scene presented. Clear Creek was a raging torrent and she could not at first account for the fact that great beams were jammed against the wagon bridge, having apparently come down stream from the direction of the railroad.

Suddenly a flash of lightning lit up the scene, as her gaze was directed toward the railroad bridge. Her blood chilled in her veins and a tingle like an electric shock shot through her. Then came a deathly faintness and she caught the rail for support. The railroad bridge was gone. Swept away by the flood. The broken approaches slanted down into the torrent pointing down stream.

Poor Anna's first impulse was to fly for help, and this she was on the point of doing, when terror was again struck to her heart by a sound which sounded to her like the death knell of the man she loved. It was the whistle of a locomotive. Far off, but oh! how much too near! She must act alone. She must stop that train. With speed she did not think herself capable of she ran along the north bank of the torrent. Twice she slipped and fell into the water which had overflowed the bank and her hands were torn and bleeding as she climbed the bank to the track, in the cut. Again came the whistle. Now entering the cut. My God! now she was here, how could she stop that train? She could scream. He would not hear her. She could stand on the track, he would not see her. If she had a lantern or light of any kind, but there was none. Her brain was on fire. A light, up the track. His head light. Oh, God! powerless! "The switch! The switch!" To think was to act. Better derail the train than for it to plunge with its human freight into the river. Her poor little hands grasped the lever. Her tiny feet pressed the dog, as she had seen the trainmen do. The great rails gave to a strength born of desperation, and as they swung over, a red in place of a white light shot up the track. Poor Anna staggered to the other side and sank down upon the bank. She heard the whistle "down brakes," heard a rumble and a grinding crash and the rest was a haze.

As No. 9 entered the cut, Ted saw the white light marking the switch at the siding. It also called up tender thoughts. He had bought the ground for a little home for them both. But what is this? The light had changed. It was red! He was running upon an open switch. The throttle was closed. The lever reversed, the steam again applied and "down brakes" whistled furiously. Old 47 struck the switch, but, though reduced, the speed was too great. Ted felt her leave the rails, felt the grinding of the ties and was conscious of the cab being crushed over his head. Then all was dark and next he felt water on his face, and as he looked up, by the light of a lantern, he saw the wild face of Anna looking down at him and murmuring "What have I done?"

"Anna," he murmured.

"Oh! thank God!" said the girl. The old conductor and the train hands turned away to look at the engine, while the Irish fireman was seen to run up the track and give vent to a wild Donnybrook yell of joy.

Ted and Anna were taken into one of the cars. He was not badly hurt, and the directors and the passengers pressed forward with many a moist eye as they sought to grasp the hands of the brave girl and the young engineer, while Anna modestly repeated what had transpired.

The next morning they dug old 47 out of the bank. She had ripped out about a hundred feet of earth and had finally brought up with her pilot half buried. She had done more than this, however; she had gone prospecting for Ted, for, as the dirt was cleared away, each shovel full showed to the bulging eyes of the workmen that she had found that which the builders of her path had so narrowly missed. If those who dug that cut had digressed a little to one side, they would never have ended their days removing earth for the sole purpose of getting it out of their way.

Up at Grimes there is a comfortable house, with pretty lawns and a stable. It is owned by Theodore Marsten, the president of "The Branch" and owner of paying mining interests in various parts of the West. The family is abroad now, but when at home, most every fair morning you may see a handsome team, drawing a pretty canopy-top, in which chatter several rosy-cheeked youngsters, accompanied by a matronly-looking young woman, whose smile and laughing eye tell only of happiness. They drive to the bank, of which he is a director, a man in the prime of life, in prosperous circumstances, who is an example of a good husband and father.—By HENRY M. LUMMIS, in Express Gazette.

WHEN THE PARSON TOOK A HAND.

"YESSER, the man what sizes up humanity by appearances, or the cloe's they wears—specially the cloe's—generally finds out to his sorrer thet he's buckin' the wrong layout."

As "Pumphandle Jake" made this announcement, the group huddled 'round the grocery store stove, shuffled into attitudes of expectancy.

"Pumphandle Jake," so called because his right hand was missing, was rather a mystery to the little community in which he lived. He had never done a day's work since he became a resident, but he always paid his bills and conducted himself as a law-abiding citizen should. It was a well-known fact that he received a letter from New York, regularly, the first of every month, and that he immediately had a check cashed at the local bank, payable to Joseph Smith. His fellow townsmen didn't take much stock in the "Smith," but if the name was satisfactory to the bank officials, it was good enough for them.

"Pumphandle Jake" wasn't much of a talker, but when he did let loose 'twas sure to be worth hearing.

Absolute silence followed his preliminary announcement, for the group around the stove understood that an undue display of interest would curtail further developments.

"'Twas back in the 70's," began Jake reminiscently, "an' 'twasn't in this State, either. If I told the name of the town you'd know well's I do, but bein' as thet's nothin' to do with this story an' it's none of your business anyhow, I'll omit the name.

"'Twasn't much of a town in them days—'bout 100 shacks an' as many tents—a hotel, an' saloons bristlin' on every corner. The population numbered 'bout 500, not countin' the wimmin' an' Chinamen.

"They wasn't a bad lot, as men go, but human nater's 'bout the same the world over; there's black sheep in every fold, an' the goats is allus buttin' in an' gittin' mixed up with the lambs."

Jake expectorated three times, deliberately, and with unerring accuracy into the open door of the stove, allowing his hearers time to digest this statement.

"There was the usual count of bad uns," he continued, "in this town I'm speakin' of, an' I reckon you couldn't find worse this side of the Rockies. P'raps the man who took the cake fer all 'round cussedness was one Ja— Joseph Redmond. They called him 'Big Red.'

"If he'd took a tumble ter the error of his ways in time, he might been a respected citizen of thet town ter day. Howsomever, the wicked flee when no man pursueth an' the slowest makin' tracks gits' his, with interest, as likewise did Big Red."

Here an interested listener interrupted to inquire if Jake ever knew Big Red? He was promptly relegated to a soap box in the background, and Jake continued.

"One blamy spring evenin', after the day's work was done, the boys what wasn't playin' poker or otherwise engaged, was gathered in front of the hotel, waitin' the arrival of the stage from—well, thet's none of your business, either. Bill, the stage driver, was most allus on time, an' as he represented Wells Fargo an' the U. S. mail, his weekly comin' was looked forward to. This evenin', 'stead of landin' his freight at the P. O. an' express office, he draws up in front of the hotel, an' swings open the stage door kind o' solemn like, an' out comes the leanest, lankiest bone o' contention I ever see. He wore black store clo'es, a black dicer, an' a collar what buttoned behind. Swingin' careless like in one hand was a pair of black kid gloves—gloves, mind ye!

"Well, when thet apperition landed in our midst ther was a silence could be heard fer miles—we was undecided what course ter pursue, but jist then Big Red speaks up an' says: 'Howdy, stranger! We're tickled ter death to see yer, ain't we boys?' an' he winks his off eye at the crowd. 'But, stranger, we're kind o' wild an' wooly in these parts an' there's some things we don't stand for, so you'll 'scuse me if I remove what's sure to be an eyesore ter the community.' With thet, he draws his gun an' peppers the dicer an' the gloves 'till there wasn't nothin' left of 'em.

"Then fer the first time the stranger spoke.

"'Gentlemen, I am a minister of the Gospel, an' I trust you will respect my calling, even if I ain't no great shakes of a representative. I came here for my health, as I've understood the high altitude was beneficial fer lung trouble, with which same I am afflicted.'

"Big Red shoved his gun back into place. 'Well, Parson, there's no objections to yer sojournin' here fer your health, s'long's yer don't open no Sunday schools an' mind yer own business—what d'ye say, boys? Come in an' have a drink on the Parson.'

"We all lined up, an' while the Parson was payin' the bill, I sized him up. Not more'n 30, face smooth scraped; mouth like a woman's, eyes what looked level, an' a jaw like a steel trap.

"Well, the Parson sure fell into camp ways with amazin' briefness.

"He bought a soft hat an' some flannel shirts. He spent most of his time takin' long walks an' inhalin' chunks of high altitude. We got kinda used ter seein' him pokin' round, mindin' his own business, an'

we liked his unassumin' ways. He'd arrived in town 'bout the first of April, an' I never see a man take on upholstery like he did. By the first of July he was a husky lookin' specimen, an' 'twas understood that he was goin' back East ter open up his Gospel shop again, right after the 4th.

"Now, Big Red hed planned a great celebration fer the 4th. They was ter be a dog fight, fireworks, an' a parrychute decension. Through all the approachin' excitement Big Red acted like a man who's carryin' somethin' up his sleeve as wasn't announced on the program.

"Nobody asked any questions—fer they knew better.

"Fourth of July dawned bright an' early —'twas sure early, fer none of us had been ter bed the night before.

"'Long towards noon there was a lull in the proceedin's, an' Big Red called the chosen few inter the hotel.

"'Feller citizens,' he says, 'I've got a surprise fer ye. I was goin' ter wait 'till ter-night ter spring it, but by thet time most of ye will be too far gone to appreciate what's happenin'. Me an' the Parson is goin' ter have a hand at poker! Stan' back, gents, an' don't crowd. Here you!' an' he called to the bartender 'present my compliments ter the Parson an' tell him his presence is desired immediate.'

"The Parson comes downstairs presently an' says quiet like, 'You wished to see me, Mister Redmond?'

"'I sure did—sit down.' Big Red shoved a stool up ter the table an' pulled out a pack of cards. 'You claim to be a citizen of ther U. S., but you ain't shown no interest in ther national hollerday, an' I propose you'll manerfest yer enthusiasm by takin' a hand at poker with me—understand?'

"Big Red fingered his gun while he spoke. The steel trap the Parson wore fer a jaw set with a snap. He looked at Big Red an' then he looked at the crowd.

"'My calling does not sanction card playing for money,' he says easy like, 'however, if you insist—' an' he peels off his coat an' sits down.

"One of the boys dealt, an' the game began; dollar a chip an' no limit. Inside half an hour the Parson was way ter the good, an' Big Red was gittin' mad—his surprise wasn't turnin' out the way he expected. The boys was hangin' 'round the table breathin' hard, an' watchin' the outcome of a big pot—$300, chips an' cash. The Parson opened, an' drew one card. They kept raisin' back an' forth, 'till finally Big Red laughs insultin' like an' says: 'I got four aces, ken yer beat 'em?'

"Quicker'n a flash the Parson draws his gun (we never knew he carried one before) an' pumps the contentents inter Big Red's right hand. The hand, likewise some extra aces what didn't belong ter the pack, dropped onter the table. The Parson throws down his cards, showin' four kings an' a deuce.

"'Them's my cards, gentlemen, an' I'll let you decide who rakes in this pot. When I fust come here, Mister Redmond told me there was some things this town wouldn't stand fer, an' I hope cheatin' at cards is one of 'em!'

"With thet the crowd lets loose a cheer what shakes the rafters.

"In ther pandemonium which followed, Big Red takes a sneak out there back door."

"Pumphandle Jake" paused and knocked the ashes from his pipe.

The soap box occupant squirmed uneasily. "'Twould served Big Red right if the Parson had aimed a little higher."

Disregarding the soap box comment, Jake continued: "The Parson he went back East, an' ter day he's boss of one of ther swellest Gospel shops in Noo York. Howsomever, he's looked out fer the man he crippled, an' he's never fergot ther time he took a hand at poker."

The soap box creaked violently.

"Wasn't it your hand he 'took,' an' wasn't you Big Red?"

"Pumphandle Jake" regarded the stump of his right hand thoughtfully.

"Thet's got nothin' ter do with this story, an' it's none o' yer business, anyhow."—

The Painter and Decorator.

BILL'S LAPSE.

STRENGTH and good nature—said the night watchman, musingly, as he felt his biceps—strength and good nature always go together. Sometimes you find a strong man who is not good-natured, but then, as everybody he comes in contact with is, it comes to the same thing.

The strongest and kindest 'earted man I ever came across was a man o' the name of Bill Burton, a shipmate of Ginger Dick's. For that matter 'e was a shipmate o' Peter Russet's and old Sam Small's, too. Not over and above tall; just about my height, his arms was like another man's legs for size, and 'is chest and his back and shoulders might ha' been made for a giant. And with all that he'd got a soft blue eye like a gal's (blue's my favorite color for a gal's eye), and a nice, soft, curly brown beard. He was an A. B., too, and that showed 'ow good natured he was, to pick up with firemen.

He got so fond of 'em that when they was all paid off from the Ocean King he asked to be allowed to join them in taking a room ashore. It pleased everybody, four coming cheaper than three, and Bill being that good tempered that 'e'd put up with anything, and when any of the three quarreled he used to act the part of peacemaker.

The only thing about 'im that they didn't like was that 'e was a teetotaler. He'd go into public 'ouses with 'em, but he wouldn't drink; leastways, that is to say, he wouldn't drink beer, and Ginger used to say that it made 'im feel uncomfortable to see Bill put away a bottle of lemonade every time they 'ad a drink. One night arter 'e had 'ad seventeen bottles he could 'ardly get home, and Peter Russet, who knew a lot about pills and such like, pointed out to 'im 'ow bad it was for his constitushon. He proved that the lemonade would eat away the coats o' Bill's stomach, and if 'e kept on 'e might drop dead at any moment.

That frightened Bill a bit, and the next night, instead of 'aving lemonade, 'e had five bottle o' stone ginger beer, six of different kinds of teetotal beer, three of soda water, and two cups of coffee. I'm not counting the drink he 'ad at the chemist's shop arterwards, because he took that as medicine, but he was so queer in 'is inside next morning that 'e began to be afraid he'd 'ave to give up drink altogether.

He went without the next night, but 'e was such a generous man that 'e would pay every fourth time, and there was no neasure to the other chaps to see 'im pay and 'ave nothing out of it. It spoilt their evening, and owing to 'aving only about 'arf wot they was accustomed to they all got up very disagreeable next morning.

"Why not take just a little beer, Bill?" asks Ginger.

Bill 'ung his 'ead and look a bit 'silly. "I'd rather not, mate," he ses, at last. "I've been teetotal for eleven months now."

"Think of your 'ealth, Bill," ses Peter Russet; "your 'ealth is more important than the pledge. Wot made you take it?"

Bill coughed. "I 'ad reasons," he ses, slowly. "A mate o' mine wished me to."

"He ought to ha' known better," ses Sam.

"He 'ad 'is reasons," ses Bill.

"Well, all I can say is, Bill," ses Ginger. "all I can is, it's very disoblign' of you."

"Disoblign'?" ses Bill, with a start; "don't say that, mate."

"I must say it," ses Ginger, speaking very firm.

"You needn't take a lot, Bill," ses Sam; "nobody wants you to do that. Just drink in moderation, same as wot we do."

"It gets into my 'ead," ses Bill, at last.

"Well, and wot of it?" ses Ginger; "it gets into everybody's 'ead occasionally. Why, one night old Sam 'ere went up behind a policeman and tickled 'im under the arms; didn't you, Sam?"

"I did nothing o' the kind," ses Sam, firing up.

"Well, you was fined ten bob for it next morning, that's all I know," ses Ginger.

"I was fined ten bob for punching 'im," ses old Sam, very mild. "I never tickled a policeman in my life. I never thought o' such a thing. I'd no more tickle a policeman than I'd fly. Anybody that ses I did is a liar. Why should I? Where does the sense come in? Wot should I want to do it for?"

"All right, Sam," ses Ginger, sticking 'is fingers in 'is ears, "you didn't then."

"No, I didn't," ses Sam, "and don't you forget it. This ain't the fus' time you've told that lie about me. I can take a joke with any man; but anybody that goes and ses I tickled—"

"All right," ses Ginger and Peter Russet together. "You'll 'ave tickled policeman on the brain if you ain't careful, Sam," ses Peter.

Old Sam sat down growling, and Ginger Dick turned to Bill again. "It gets into everybody's 'ead at times," he ses, "and where's the 'arm? It's wot it was meant for."

Bill shook his 'ead, but when Ginger called 'im disoblign' agin he gave way and he broke the pledge that very evening and a pint o' six 'arf.

Ginger was surprised to see the way 'e took his liquor. Arter three or four pints he'd expected to see 'im turn a bit silly, or sing, or do something o' the kind, but Bill kept on as if 'e was drinking water.

"Tink of the 'armless pleasure you've been losing all these months, Bill," ses Ginger, smiling at him.

Bill said it wouldn't bear thinking of, and, the next place they came to he said some rather 'ard things of the man who'd persuaded 'im to take the pledge. He 'ad two or three more there, and then they began to see that it was beginning to have effect on 'im. The first one that noticed it was Ginger Dick. Bill 'ad just lit 'is pipe, and as he threw the match down he ses: "I don't like these 'ere safety matches," he ses.

"Don't you, Bill?" ses Ginger. "I do, rather."

"Oh, you do, do you?" ses Bill, turning on 'im like lightning; "well, take that for contradiction," he ses, an' he gave Ginger a smack that nearly knocked his 'ead off.

It was so sudden that old Sam and Peter put their beer down and stared at each other as if they couldn't believe their eyes. Then they stooped down and helped poor Ginger on to 'is legs again and began to brush 'im down.

"Never mind about 'im, mates," ses Bill, looking at Ginger very wicked. "P'r'haps he won't be so ready to give me 'is lip next time. Let's come to another bub and enjoy ourselves."

Sam and Peter followed 'im out like lambs, 'ardly daring to look over their shoulder at Ginger, who was staggering arter them some distance behind a 'olding a handkerchief to 'is face.

"It's your turn to pay, Sam," ses Bill, when they'd got inside the next place. "Wot's it to be? Give it a name."

"Three 'arf pints o' four ale, miss," ses Sam, not because 'e was mean, but because it wasn't 'is turn.

"Three wot?" ses Bill, turning on 'im.

"Three pots o' six ale, miss," ses Sam, in a hurry.

"That wasn't wot you said afore," ses Bill. "Take that," he ses, giving poor old Sam a wipe in the mouth and knocking 'im over a stool; "take that for your sauce."

Peter Russet stood staring at Sam and wondering wot Bill ud be like when he'd 'ad a little more. Sam picked hisself up arter a time and went outside to talk to Ginger about it, and then Bill put 'is arm round Peter's neck and began to cry a bit and say 'e was the only pal he'd got left in the world. It was very awkward for Peter, and more awkward still when the barman came up and told 'im to take Bill outside.

"Go on," he ses, "out with 'im."

"He's all right," ses Peter, trembling: "'e's the truest 'arted gentleman in London. Ain't you, Bill?"

Bill said he was, and 'e asked the barman to go and hide 'is face, because it reminded 'im of a little dog 'e had 'ad once wot 'ad died.

"You get outside afore you're hurt," ses the barman.

Bill punched at him over the bar, and not being able to reach 'im threw Peter's pot o' beer at 'im. There was a fearful to-do then, and the landlord jumped over the bar and stood in the doorway, whistling for the police. Bill struck out right and left, and the men in the bar went down like skittles, Peter among them. Then they got outside, and Bill, arter giving the landlord a thump in the back wot nearly made him swallow the whistle, jumped into a cab and pulled Peter Russet in arter 'im.

"I'll to you by-and-by," he ses, as the cab drove off at a gallop; "there ain't room in this cab. You wait, my lad, that's all. You just wait till we get out, and I'll knock you silly."

"Wot for, Bill?" ses Peter, staring.

"Don't you talk to me," roars Bill. "If I choose to knock you about that's my business, ain't it? Besides, you know very well."

He wouldn't let Peter say another word, but coming to a quiet place near the docks he stopped the cab and pulling 'im out gave 'im such a dressing down that Peter thought 'is last hour 'ad arrived. He let 'im go at last, and after making him pay the cabman took 'im along till they came to a public 'ouse and made 'im pay for drinks.

They stayed ther till nearly eleven o'clock, and then Bill set off home 'olding the unfortunit Peter by the scruff o' the neck, and wondering out loud whether 'e ought to pay 'im a bit more or not. Afore 'e could make up 'is mind, however, he turned sleepy, and, throwing 'imself down on the bed which was meant for the two of 'em, fell into a peaceful sleep.

Sam and Ginger Dick came in a little while arterwards, both badly marked where Bill 'ad hit them, and sat talking to Peter in whispers as to wot was to be done. Ginger, who 'ad plenty of pluck, was for them all to set on to 'im, but Sam wouldn't 'ear of it, and as for Peter he was so sore he could 'ardly move.

They all turned into the other bed at last, 'arf afraid to move for fear of disturbing Bill, and when they woke up in the morning and see 'im sitting up in 'is bed they lay as still as mice.

"Why, Ginger, old chap," ses Bill, with a 'earty smile, "wot are you all three in one bed for?"

"We was a bit cold," ses Ginger.

"Cold?" ses Bill. "Wot, this weather? We 'ad a bit of a spree last night, old man, didn't we? My throat's as dry as a cinder."

"It ain't my idea of a spree," ses Ginger, sitting up and looking at 'im.

"Good 'eavens, Ginger!" ses Bill, starting back, "wotever 'ave you been a doing to your face? Have you been tumbling off of a 'bus?"

Ginger couldn't answer; and Sam Small and Peter sat up in bed alongside of 'im, and Bill, getting as far back on 'is bed as he could, sat staring at their poor faces as if 'e was having a 'orrible dream.

"And ther's Sam," he ses. "Where ever did you get that mouth, Sam?"

"Same place as Ginger got 'is eye and poor Peter got 'is face," ses Sam, grinding his teeth.

"You don't mean to tell me," ses Bill, in a sad voice—"you don't mean to tell me that I did it?"

"You know well enough," ses Ginger.

Bill looked at 'em, and 'is face got as long as a yard measure.

"I'd 'oped I'd growed out it, mates," he ses, at last, "but drink always takes me like that. I can't keep a pal."

"You surprise me," ses Ginger, sarcastic like.

"Don't talk like that, Ginger," ses Bill, 'arf crying. "It ain't my fault; it's my weakness. Wot did I do it for?"

"I don't know," ses Ginger, "but you won't get the chance of doing it agin, I'll tell you that much."

"I daresay I shall be better to-night, Ginger," ses Bill, very humble; "it don't always take me that way."

"Well, we don't want you with us any more," ses old Sam, 'olding his 'ead very high.

"You'll 'ave to go and get your beer by yourself, Bill," ses Peter Russet, feeling 'is bruises with the tips of 'is fingers.

"But then I should be worse," ses Bill. "I want cheerful company when I'm like that. I should very likely come 'ome and 'arf know wot I'm like. Last night was nothing, else I should 'ave remembered it."

"Cheerful company?" ses old Sam. "'Ow do you think company's going to be cheerful when you're carrying on like that, Bill? Why don't you go away and leave us alone?"

"Because I've got a 'art," ses Bill. "I can't chuck up pals in that free and easy way. Once I take a liking to anybody I'd do anything for 'em, and I've never met three chaps I like better than wot I do you. Three nicer, straightforward, free 'anded mates I've never met afore."

"Why not take the pledge agin, Bill?" ses Peter Russet.

"No mate," ses Bill, with a kind smile; "it's just a weakness, and I must try and grow out of it. I'll tie a bit o' string round my little finger to-night as a reminder."

He got out of bed and began to wash 'is face, and Ginger Dick, who was doing a bit o' thinking, gave a whisper to Sam and Peter Russet.

"All right, Bill, old man," he ses, getting out of bed and beginning to put his clothes on; "but first of all we'll try and find out 'ow the landlord is."

"Landlord?" ses Bill, puffing and blowing in the basin. "Wot landlord?"

"Why, the one you bashed," ses Ginger, with a wink at the other two. "He 'adn't got 'is senses back when me and Sam came away."

Bill gave a groan and sat on the bed while 'e dried himself, and Ginger told 'im 'ow he 'ad bent a quart pot on the landlord's 'ead, and 'ow the landlord had been carried up stairs and the doctor sent for. He began to tremble all over, and when Ginger said he'd go out and see 'ow the land lay 'e could 'ardly thank 'im enough.

Ginger was gone about two hours, and when 'e came back he looked so solemn that old Sam asked 'im whether he 'ad seen a ghost. Ginger didn't answer 'im; he set down on the side o' the bed and sat thinking.

"I s'pose—I s'pose it's nice and fresh in the streets this morning?" ses Bill at last, in a trembling voice.

Ginger started and looked at 'im. "I didn't notice, mate," he ses. Then 'e got up and patted Bill on the back, very gentle, and sat down again.

"Anything wrong, Ginger?" asks Peter Russet, staring at 'im.

"It's that landlord," ses Ginger; "there's straw down in the road outside, and they say that he's dying. Poor old Bill don't know 'is own strength. The best thing you can do, old pal, is to go as far away as you can, at once."

"I shouldn't wait a minnit if it was me," ses old Sam.

Bill groaned and hid 'is face in his 'ands, and then Peter Russet went and spoilt things by saying that the safest place for a murderer to 'ide in was London. Bill gave a dreadful groan when 'e said murderer, but 'e up and agreed with Peter, and all Sam and Ginger Dick could do wouldn't make 'im alter his mind. He said that he would shave off 'is beard and moustache, and when night came 'e would creep out take a lodging somewhere right the other end of London.

He stayed in the bedroom all day, with the blinds down, and wouldn't eat anything, and when Ginger looked in about eight o'clock to find out whether he 'ad gone, he found 'im sitting on the bed clean shaved, and his face cut about all over where the razor 'ad slipped.

Bill shook his 'ead. "Nobody must know that, mate," he ses. "I must go into hiding for as long as I can—as long as my money lasts; I've only got six pounds left."

"That'll last a long time if you're careful," ses Ginger.

"I want a lot more," ses Bill. "I want you to take this silver ring as a keepsake, Ginger. If I 'ad another six pounds or so I should feel much safer. 'Ow much 'ave you got, Ginger?"

"Not much," ses Ginger, shaking his 'ead.

"Lend it to me, mate," ses Bill, stretching out his 'and. "You can easy get another ship. Ah, I wish I was you; I'd be as 'appy, as 'appy if I hadn't a penny."

"I'm very sorry, Bill," ses Ginger, trying to smile, "but I've already promised to lend it to a man wot we met this evening. A promise is a promise, else I'd lend it to you with pleasure."

"Would you let me be 'ung for the sake of a few pounds, Ginger?" ses Bill, looking at 'im reproachfully. "I'm a desprit man, Ginger, and I must 'ave that money."

Afore pore Ginger could move he suddenly clapped 'is hand over 'is mouth and flung 'im on the bed. Ginger was like a child in 'is hands, although he struggled like a madman, and in five minutes 'e was laying there with a towel tied around his mouth and 'is arms and legs tied up with the cord off of Sam's chest.

"I'm very sorry, Ginger," ses Bill, as 'e took a little over eight pounds out of Ginger's pocket. "I'll pay you back one o' these days, if I can. If you'd got a rope round your neck same as I 'ave you'd do the same as I've done."

He lifted up the bed clothes and put Ginger inside and tucked 'im up. Ginger's face was red with passion and 'is eyes starting out of his 'ead.

"Eight and six is fifteen," ses Bill, and just then he 'eard somebody coming up the stairs. Ginger 'eard it, too, and as Peter Russet came into the room 'e tried all 'e could to attract 'is attention by rolling 'is 'ead from side to side.

"Why, 'as Ginger gone to bed," ses Peter.

"Wot's up, Ginger?"

"He's all right," ses Bill; "just a bit of a 'eadache."

Peter stood staring at the bed, and then 'e pulled the clothes off and saw pore Ginger all tied up, and making awful eyes at 'im to undo him.

"I 'ad to do it, Peter," ses Bill. "I wanted some more money to escape with, and 'e wouldn't lend it to me. I 'aven't got as much as I want now. You came in in the nick of time. Another minute and you'd ha' misser me. 'Ow much 'ave you got?"

"Ah, I wish I could lend you some, Bill," ses Peter Russet, turning pale, "but I've 'ad my pocket picked; that's wot I come back for, to get some from Ginger."

Bill didn't say a word.

"You see 'ow it is, Bill," ses Peter, edging back towards the door; "three men laid 'old of me and took every farthing I'd got."

"Well, I can't rob you, then," ses Bill, catching 'old of 'im. "Whoever's money this is," he ses, pulling a handful out o' Peter's pocket, "it can't be yours. Now, it you make another sound I'll knock your 'ead off afore I tie you up."

"Don't tie me up, Bill," ses Peter, struggling.

"I can't trust you," ses Bill, dragging 'im over to the washstand and taking up the other towel; "turn round."

Peter was a much easier job than Ginger Dick, and arter Bill 'ad done 'im 'e put 'im in alongside o' Ginger and covered 'em up, arter first tying both the gags round with some string to prevent 'em slipping.

"Mind, I've only borrowed it," he ses, standing by the side o' the bed; "but I must say, mates, I'm disappointed in both of you. If either of you 'ad 'ad the misfortune wot I've 'ad, I'd have sold the clothes off my back to 'elp you. And I wouldn't 'ave waited to be asked, neither."

He stood there for a minute very sorrowful, and then 'e patted both their 'eads and went downstairs. Ginger and Peter lay listening for a bit, and then they turned their pore bound-up faces to each other and tried to talk with their eyes.

Then Ginger began to wriggle and try and twist the cords off, but 'e might as well 'ave tried to wriggle out of 'is skin. The worst of it was they couldn't make known their intentions to each other, and when Peter Russet leaned over 'im and tried to work 'is gag off by rubbing it up again 'is nose, Ginger pretty near went crazy with temper. He banged Peter with his 'ead, and Peter banged back, and they kept it up till they'd both got splitting 'eadaches, and at last they gave up in despair and lay in darkness waiting for Sam.

And all this time Sam was sitting in the Red Lion, waiting for them. He sat there quite patient till twelve o'clock and then walked slowly 'ome, wondering wot 'ad happened and whether Bill 'ad gone.

Ginger was the fust to 'ear 'is foot on the stairs, and as he came into the room, in the darkness, him an' Peter Russet started shaking their bed in a way that scared old Sam nearly to death. He thought it was Bill carrying on gin, and 'e was out o' that door and 'arf-way down stairs afore he stopped to take breath. He stood there trembling for about ten minutes, and then as nothing 'appened, he walked slowly up stairs agin on tiptoe, and as soon as they heard the door creak Peter and Ginger made that bed do everything but speak.

"Is that you, Bill?" ses old Sam, in a shaky voice, and standing ready to dash down stairs agin.

There was no answer except for the bed, and Sam didn't know whether Bill was dying or whether 'e 'ad got delirium trimmings. All 'e did know was that 'e wasn't going to sleep in that room. He shut the door gently and went down stairs agin, feeling in 'is pocket for a match, and, not finding one, 'e picked out the softest stair he could find and, leaning his 'ead agin the banisters, went to sleep.

It was about six o'clock when 'e woke up, and broad daylight. He was stiff and sore all over, and feeling braver in the light 'e stepped softly up stairs and opened the door. Peter and Ginger was waiting for 'im and as he peeped in 'e saw two things sitting up in bed with their 'air standing up all over like mops and their faces tied up with bandages. He was that startled 'e nearly screamed, and then 'e stepped into the room and stared at 'em as if he couldn't believe 'is eyes.

"Is that you, Ginger?" he ses. "Wot d'ye mean by making sights of yourselves like that? 'Ave you took leave of your senses?"

Ginger and Peter shook their 'eads and rolled their eyes, and then Sam see wot was the matter with 'em. Fust thing 'e did was to pull out 'is knife and cut Ginger's gag off, and the fust thing Ginger did was to call 'im every name 'e could lay his tongue to.

"You wait a moment," he screams, 'arf crying with rage. "You wait till I get my 'ands loose and I'll pull you to pieces. The idea o' leaving us like this all night, you old crocodile. I 'eard you come in. I'll pay you."

Sam didn't answer 'im. He cut off Peter Russet's gag, and Peter Russet called 'im 'arf a score o' names without taking breath.

"And when Ginger's finished I'll 'ave a go at you," he ses. "Cut off these lines."

"At once, dye 'ear?" ses Ginger. "Oh, you wait till I get my 'ands on you."

Sam didn't answer 'em; he shut up 'is knife with a click and then 'e sat at the foot o' the bed on Ginger's feet and looked at 'em. It wasn't the fust time they'd been rude to 'im, but as a rule he'd 'ad to put up with it. He sat and listened while Ginger swore 'isself faint.

"That'll do," he ses, at last; "another word and I shall put the bedclothes over your 'ead. Afore I do anything more I want to know wot it's all about."

Peter told 'em, arter fust calling 'im some more names, because Ginger was past it, and when 'e'd finished old Sam said 'ow surprised he was at them for letting Bill do it, and told 'em how they ought to 'ave prevented it. He sat there talking as though 'e enjoyed the sound of 'is own voice, and he told Peter and Ginger all their faults and said wot sorrow it caused their friends. Twice he 'ad to throw the bedclothes over their 'eads because o' the noise they was making.

"Are—you—going—to—undo—us?" ses Ginger, at last.

"No, Ginger," ses old Sam; "in justice to myself I couldn't do it. Arter wot you've said—and arter wot I've said—my life would not be safe. Besides which, you'd want to go shares in my money."

He took up 'is chest and marched down stairs with it, and about 'arf an hour arterwards the landlady's 'usband came up and set 'em free. As soon as they'd got the use of their legs back they started out to look for Sam, but they didn't find 'im for nearly a year, and as for Bill, they never set eyes on 'im again.—The Brotherhood Journal.

A PERIOD OF DROUGHT.

EVERY winter when Mrs. Bronson, whose throat was delicate, was banished West or South, her cousin, Harriet Kingsly, was engaged to mother the family.

Miss Kingsly made an entirely trustworthy guardian, yet she possessed one striking peculiarity that not only amused, but exasperated the left-at-home Bronsons. Before her mother's death, Cousin Harriet had spent twenty years trying to live within an income that was a good deal too small. Afterward the income expanded to twice its former size, but Harriet did not. She had been cramped too long. Her sober, saving mind refused to see her former dollars doubled; and she continued to "scrimp" long after the necessity for scrimping had ceased to exist.

During the luxurious months that she kept house for her well-to-do, open-handed cousin, an employment that she thoroughly enjoyed, she kept it after her own parsimonious fashion. She saved scraps, turned down all the gas jets, ordered one pie when circumstances really demanded two, used all her matches twice, and by cutting it in two beforehand, compelled a single beef-steak to serve for two somewhat restricted meals.

In households where it was needed, Harriet's economy would have proved a blessing; but under the Bronsons' well-shingled roof frugality seemed an exaggerated virtue. As practiced by Cousin Harriet, it certainly added nothing whatever to the Bronsons' comfort, whatever it may have done toward increasing their already ample bank account.

"Now, Harriet," Mr. Bronson would say, when the cream ran short, "there isn't any earthly reason why we shouldn't take a gallon of milk a day if we need it. What are we getting? You've cut it down to a quart! Dear, dear! And here we are getting enough cream off one quart for two able-bodied meals! Harriet, you'll really be the death of me! My system won't stand cream in such quantities."

"But," said Harriet, triumphantly, "I've saved over half the household allowance this month."

"That," returned Mr. Bronson, "would be entirely commendable if there were any need of saving it; but there isn't. I'm making it to spend. I'd rather spend it. You see, the milkman has to live, so does the grocer, so does the butcher. By the way, tell the cook to broil the rest of this beefsteak. I'd like to live myself; I'm sure I shan't if I have to go without cream in my coffee. Why, Harriet, every time I part with another acre of that mineral land near Gogibic I'm afraid I'll discover that I'm a millionaire! Half of one, anyway. We can't spend our money but once. Let's have our cream while it agrees with us."

Gradually good-natured Gershom Bronson overruled his cousin's too parsimonious habits; not, however, with entire success, because as fast as he disposed of one, another broke out where it was least expected. For instance, by the time she was convinced that he really could not see to read with the gas turned down, Harriet had rescued seven uncanceled stamps from the wastebasket, soaked them off and laid them, guiltless of gum, on her busy cousin's desk.

Having a saving sense of humor—his only saving quality, Harriet said—Mr. Bronson found his economical relative amusing. And Cousin Harriet realized that so much genuine kindness lurked beneath Gershom Bronson's bantering that her feelings were never hurt. But she still persisted in going to bed by candle light to save gas.

"If we had forty millions," muttered seventeen-year-old Elyda, tying a parcel with cord from an astonishingly knotted ball, "Cousin Harriet would still hoard string. She's saved enough to last forever. I wonder how it would feel to use brand-new twine."

"You'd miss the knots," giggled Frances.

"I see," said Mr. Bronson, looking up from his paper, "that the water board has decided to put in meters. That will afford a new field for economy."

Cousin's Harriet's brow puckered anxiously. She was darning an odd sock that she had found in the rag bag.

"Meters! Dear me! Water is the one thing that this town has always been able to have enough of. I must tell Mary—"

"Don't worry," soothed Mr. Bronson. "I guess we'll still be able to drink it."

The meter, an inoffensive affair that looked like a brass teapot, was duly installed. The plumber, lifting the circular metal lid, showed Miss Kingsly six little groups of figures on the four-inch disk. One could use, it appeared, anywhere from no water at all to an ocean at so much per thousand cubic feet. Compared with the rate for the same amount of ice, the price seemed moderate.

"How much," asked Miss Kingsly, cautiously, "is it likely to cost a month?"

"Well," confided the plumber, collecting his tools, "I really don't know much about them—this is only the fourth I've put in, and I haven't seen one busy—but I should say that it would all depend on how much a body used."

The meter weighed heavily on Cousin Harriet's mind. She could picture it in the Bronson cellar, greedily counting every drop that trickled through the pipes. Of course, from the very moment that the system went into force, the good lady began to have water.

"Mary," said she to the cook, "you mustn't waste a drop. When you've rinsed the dishes, pour the water into this pail, so I can use it to water the plants. And, Mary, save part of your wash water on Monday to scrub the laundry floor. It seems a pity to waste all that nice bluing water. Isn't there something we could do with it?"

"We might," suggested Mary, doubtfully, "heat it to wash windows with."

"We'll try it," returned Miss Kingsly, screwing the faucets tighter.

Mary, now restricted at every turn—every turn of the faucet, Mr. Bronson said—was fast losing the amiability for which she had been famed. The hitherto fastidious girls wore their white shirtwaists a day longer than usual to save washing. Indeed, the entire family was gradually becoming niggardly with the water supply. Even Elyda was observed saving half the contents of her glass for the benefit of the parched fern dish.

"Really," expostulated Mr. Bronson, when this discovery was made, "if this nonsense doesn't stop we'll all have water on the brain. I'm affected myself. It's all I can do this minute to keep from turning on every faucet in the house just to see how it seems actually to possess enough water to wash both hands in at once."

"You can't," said Cousin Harriet, with dignity. "I've had all the faucets fixed—"

"That's why they merely drizzle!" exclaimed Frances. "I supposed they'd just grown economical of their own accord."

"I've tried for half an hour to read that meter," confessed Cousin Harriet, emerging dustily from the cellar the morning of the thirty-first, "but I can't understand the figures. This is the day they inspect it. I wanted to be prepared."

Three hours later Miss Kingsly followed the meter man to the cellar. He lifted the metal lid, held his lantern close, and read the figures to which the indicator pointed. Suddenly he uttered an ejaculation and stooped lower. Then he shook his head. His manner expressed disapproval.

"Have we used very much?" demanded Cousin Harriet, anxiously.

"Just about all Lake Superior!" retorted the man.

"What!" gasped the guardian of faucets, in horror.

"The meter's put on wrong," explained the man. "That plumber's got it hind end to. This makes nine that'll have to come out so far. This way it registers all the water that you don't use, I guess. Of course, we can't go by it this month. We'll have it reversed."

The Bronsons became hilarious when the matter was explained. Miss Kingsly, however, seemed depressed.

"To think," she lamented, "that I wasted all that time saving water when there wasn't any need of it."

"There wasn't any need of it, any way," said Mr. Bronson. "After this, I'm going to run the water wagon. Mary, I don't care how many plants you water with your cold tea, but we won't have any more bluing on the windows—it gives the whole world an indigo aspect. From this hour forth, we'll just forget that there's a meter in our cellar."

Nevertheless, the meter refused to be dismissed thus lightly from the Bronson minds. When the end of the month arrived, the family was still sufficiently interested to flock cellarward at the inspector's heels.

"Used all you needed?" asked the man, looking up from the meter.

"All we needed and more," replied Cousin Harriet, nerving herself for a shock. "We haven't—we weren't allowed to be careful."

"Well," returned the man, "this meter's saving you money. Your bill's about a dollar less than it was by the old way of reckoning."—By CARROLL WATSON RANKIN in Union Advocate.

TOO MUCH FOR HIM.

THE man's wife had asked him to go upstairs and look in the pocket of her dress for a key she thought was there, and being a man willing to accommodate he had done so. It was a long time before he returned, and when he did there was a peculiar look in his eyes.

"I can't find any key in the dress of your pocket," he said, with a painful effort.

"Why," she retorted sharply, "I left it there."

"I say I can't find any dress in the pocket of your key," he said, doggedly.

His tone seemed to disturb her.

"You didn't half look for it," she insisted.

"I tell you I can't find any pocket in the key of your dress," he replied, in a dazed kind of way.

This time she looked at him.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked, nervously.

"I say," he said, speaking with much effort, "that I can't find any dress in the key of your pocket."

She got up and went over to him.

"Oh, William," she groaned, "have you been drinking?"

He looked at her fixedly.

"I tell you I can't find any pocket in the dress of your key," he whispered.

She began to shake him.

"What's the matter? What's the matter?" she asked in alarm.

The shaking seemed to do him good, and he rubbed his eyes as if he were regaining consciousness.

"Wait a minute," he said, very slowly indeed. "Wait a minute. I can't find any dress in—no, I can't find any key in the dress of—no, that's not it—any—any—any pocket. There, that's it." And a flood of light came into his face. "Confound it, I couldn't find any pocket."

Then he sat down and laughed hysterically, and his wife, wondering why in the name of goodness men raise such a row over finding the pocket in a woman's dress, went upstairs and came back with the key in two minutes.

NEMESIS PURSUED.

HOW Fate, in a moment of mental aberration, happened to pitchfork Tom Hayes into prominence as a constable, is beyond comprehension.

Such, however, is just what that strange female did, and as a consequence, the majesty of the law was upheld, in his immediate bailiwick with stern rigidity.

If a clothesline robbery agitated the female portion of the population, Tom was sent for. If any one drew a net in defiance of the State Game and Fish Warden's edicts, Tom appeared on the scene and the unlucky perpetrators of these outrages were hauled before the justice and given their choice between fines and exercise on the county rock pile.

Tom, in his capacity as a limb of the law, imagined himself surrounded by a halo of glory. Besides glory, the office carried divers emoluments. Of course, there is credit to be gained from apprehending even a clothesline robber, but Tom's ideals were more lofty.

He almost wished someone would commit a murder, so he might display his Sherlock Holmes qualities to better advantage. However, having never made his desires public, no one accommodated him with a case of this kind.

Having "pulled" a bunch of fellows for drawing a net, and standing by while they were mulcted of a fine, Tom made trouble for himself.

It worked out in this way.

Occupying his usual coign of vantage behind the stove in the store, Tom was holding forth in a loud voice, accompanied with much pounding on the counter, concerning the coming elections. He declared his intention of running for re-election. Just as he reached the most convincing point in his argument, showing his undivided attention to the duties of his office, a small boy galloped up in front of the store, tumbled off his foaming steed, and without stopping to hitch him, burst into the store, gasping out a tale of the escape of an inmate of the State Hospital for the Insane, across the lake. He also advised them of a reward of $50 for his apprehension, and further stated that the man had been seen near the Keshowing Gully. He no sooner finished his story when two men came in, corroborating it fully.

Tom rose from the cracker barrel, which was his recognized seat, threw out his chest, and gazed solemnly around the store. His sense of duty was high. Here was a chance for him to distinguish himself. Duty called him to go forth and arrest this dangerous disturber of the peace. Self-interest also demanded that he make a showing, in order to connect with his job for another term. The majesty of the law must be upheld, and he was the man to do the job. His glance wandered critically over the assembled burghers, and he named fifteen men as deputies to accompany him on his dangerous mission. This ceremony finished, he outlined his plan of campaign. Admiring adherents gathered close about him, in order that they might not lose the words of wisdom which he expounded. Napoleon, in his palmiest day, never gave such weight to details in his battle arrangements as did Tom Hayes in this, his greatest case.

The posse, he ordered, would assemble at the store at noon, on the following day, when the man-hunt would begin. No one was to carry arms, as the captive must be taken uninjured.

A living drag-net would be extended from the brink of the gully as far inland as could be managed. A thorough search was ordered.

When this plan had been beaten into shape, it seemed as though no avenue of escape had been left unguarded.

In the meantime, a small and select party had foregathered in a barn not far away. It was composed of those malcontents who had contributed, unwillingly, perhaps, to the county's funds. Jim Wallace, as leader of this coterie, let loose the good thing he had all cooked up for Tom.

Having started the "wild man" rumor, he proceeded with his exquisite plan of revenge. Amid smothered laughter, he outlined his plans for the morrow.

Bill Wagner, being the happy possessor of a masquerade costume, was to occupy the post of honor; in other words, be the "wild man." The rest of the bunch would join the pursuit, and so avert suspicion.

After having settled as to the place where Bill would be "discovered," they separated, each entering the store, and each being told of the plan of campaign. Of course, they all volunteered to assist in the round-up.

Tom took his way home, treading on air. Was he not the leader of this band of valiants? Did not the law repose in him almost unlimited powers for the upholding of the law? Never before had he been placed so prominently before the public, and he felt his position keenly.

Arriving at home, he reconnoitered the woodpile carefully, selecting a club of formidable proportions. This would be his means of intimidation, when he should encounter the fugitive.

His dreams that night were rosy with promises for the future. Perhaps he might be nominated for sheriff next term. Anyway, he would make a bid for fame.

The next morning dawned clear and warm, an ideal fall day, and Tom spent the morning in arranging his line of skirmishers. Every man had his orders, and was at his post, ready for the drive, at 12 sharp.

Tom, with his chest thrown out like a soldier on parade, and with his club as a baton of command, gave the order to "March."

Over fallen logs, and through tangled brush and briars, the doughty constable led his men. The search of the woods was most complete.

Had Tom only known it, Bill Wagner was waiting for him in the midst of a hemlock thicket, a mile and a half up the gully. Bill's friends kept the line moving in that direction. Bill was equipped with two old revolvers and a pocket full of blank cartridges, also a desire for revenge. Bill was vindictive, also a good runner.

The shouts of men, and the crash of breaking brush, came to Bill faintly as he crouched in his shelter. The racket drew nearer and nearer and finally Bill caught sight of the posse searching the woods.

He got his eye on Tom, and laughed softly to see the constable drop on his hands and knees and peer into a hollow log that wouldn't have hidden a chipmunk. Tom was doing a complete job.

Suddenly Bill leaped from his shelter, and amid shouts of "There he goes," ran quickly up the gully. The constable, being nearest to him, gave chase with all the speed of which he was capable, and Tom was no slouch on a run, either. The pair soon became separated from the rest of the bunch, and Bill, rounding a big thicket, stopped. A moment later, Tom tore around the end of the brush, waving his club, and yelling like an Apache.

His last yell, however, ended in a gurgle of surprise, as he saw the "wild man" facing him, with a big revolver aimed deliberately at his head.

He almost did a back handspring, so strong was his effort to stop. Tom grabbed the fugitive and they clinched, pummeling each other unmercifully. After a minute's rough and tumble, Tom broke away, and right then was when Bill got in his fine work. With a howl of rage, he raised his gun, and began to shoot. At the first shot, Tom made a back jump of twenty feet with the agility of a deer. Then the circus began.

Taking a straight line up the gully, Tom fled, with Bill, as the "wild man," pursuing him. Tom's yells for help were punctuated by shots from Bill's gun. In this way, they ran for two hundred yards, neither gaining an inch, when Tom found himself confronted by a bank with a sheer drop of thirty feet, and ending in a deep pool of water. He never even hesitated. With one last despairing bellow, he took the leap. Bill swerved, taking a path that ran along the top of the bank, and disappeared in the woods. Tom's howls soon brought up the rest of his posse, and helping hands were extended to pull him from the pond.

In a kind of shivery voice he asked, "Didn't you git him?" The glum looks on the faces of his followers were enough to satisfy him on that point, and it was only adding insult to injury when Jim Wallace said: "Why, Tom, we thought you had him yourself."

The look Tom bestowed on Jim was not friendly, far from it, and that did not help any toward keeping Jim's laughter down. He almost strangled trying to keep his mirth within reasonable bounds. After straightening himself out, Jim remarked that "so long as the feller got away, he was goin' home and milk." As the shades of night were about to descend, several others, timidly inclined, remarked that they, also, had little jobs to do before it got dark. Tom, with a few trusties, again took up the trail, the water dripping from his mud-stained raiment, and his shoes going "sluck," "sluck" at every step. Bill, in the meantime, had divested himself of his masquerade costume, and had hidden it in a hollow stump. He, too, joined the "pursuit." When it became too dark to distinguish friend from foe, Tom led the way back to town, where the posse hastened to partake of its several belated suppers. When the nightly gathering at the store had been called to order, Tom proceeded to fight his battle over again.

In the course of his discourse, he waxed warm over the very apparent luke-warmness of a few of his followers. A battle of words was in progress when Jim appeared, beckoning Tom to a secluded corner. In a low, mysterious voice, he told of having seen a fire along the gully, with a man bending over it. Nothing more was needed. Tom immediately impressed his deputies into service, and again led them to battle.

Meanwhile, Bill had stuffed his suit with straw, and attached a string to it. Concealed behind a tree, he watched the man hunters approach. Tom was armed with a double-barrelled shot gun, and when he caught sight of the figure sitting by the fire, he wasted no more time on preliminaries. Raising the gun to his shoulder, he loosed off both barrels in that direction. Bill pulled the string, and the figure toppled over, its arms and legs moving spasmodically. Noting the effect of his bombardment Tom wended his way, slowly and with the dignity befitting the occasion, around by the bridge, and so up the opposite bank of the gully. When half way up the path, he met four men coming down, carrying the "corpse" between them. Someone suggested sending for the doctor, but Jim Wallace remarked that he thought it was a case for the coroner. A man with two loads of shot in his frame generally required the services of the undertaker, rather than those of a doctor.

These remarks began to worry Tom. Supposing he had killed this poor unfortunate. His authority hardly covered such drastic action. If the man was really dead, they might arrest him for murder. His thoughts slowly worked through the maze of questions which he found himself trying to answer, and centered around his family. What would become of his wife and little ones in case he was convicted? Who would watch over them, and provide for them, when he was no longer here?

Would his children grow up, knowing their father to be a murderer? Ruminating on these questions, Tom started for the doctor's house. No sooner, however, had he turned the corner when Bill came sneaking down through the woods, and again donned the costume. When Tom returned, without the doctor, who had referred him to the coroner, Bill was lying on the store stoop, groaning most realistically.

Seeing the victim had regained "consciousness," Tom bent over him to ascertain, if possible, the extent of damage inflicted.

While engaged in feeling for wounds, Tom got down on his knees and Bill rolled toward him. Throwing his arms around the constable, Bill began to whoop and pummel him. One moment of surprise, and the upholder of the law broke away, running like a deer. Bill took after him. The sound of running feet in the dust floated back to those left standing on the steps, and a cloud of dust enveloped both runners.

The road led straight to Tom's house, and Tom, with his coat tails standing out stiff as a board, lit out for home. Reaching his own house he threw himself through the door, slammed it shut, and bolted it, top and bottom. Pale and trembling from his unwonted exertions of the day, he stood listening for his pursuer. Not a sound except his own labored breathing reached him. With trembling fingers he hurried out of his clothes and crawled to bed. His dreams were broken that night by recollections of wild yells, and the patter of swiftly running feet.

His face was missed for many days from the "clubroom," otherwise, the store. His nerve was shattered. Never again would he attempt to capture a maniac. The State had professionals for that kind of business.

After running a few rods, Bill left the road, and worked his way stealthily around to Jim's barn. There the two indulged in much laughter. Their scheme had worked. Tom's political aspirations were blighted forever. Perhaps the next incumbent would look with a winking eye on any little irregularities in their fishing.

Certainly they had had their money's worth, and for months after, the quickest way to start a fight, was to mention "wild man" in Tom's presence.

Tom was not re-elected. He refused to run.

Jim says "one run was enough for him."

THE MOST NORTHERLY RAILROAD.

THE Nome-Arctic Railroad, since rechristened as the Seward Peninsula, is the most northerly railroad on this continent. From the shore of Bering Sea at Nome it crosses the flowering tundra and creeps and bumps its way into the heart of the eternally snow-crowned Sawtooth Mountain range.

In the building of rail or wooden roads Alaska's unsolved problem is the tundra. Composed of decayed vegetation and peat and reindeer moss, it covers, like an alluring, deceptive carpet, ground frozen nobody knows how deep. Parallel with the sea for leagues, it reaches back from Nome beach four or five miles into the foothills of the Sawtooth Mountains. Wet or dry, the tundra is spongy. When dry it yields to the tread with a crisp crackle, not unlike burnt paper or straw. Saturated with rain, a characteristic of Northwestern Alaska summers, it is as dangerous to man or beast as a fog or a quicksand.

It was built for the transportation of supplies to mining camps scattered along the creeks and Snake and Nome Rivers and in the mining district of the Kougurok. Passengers are as yet unconsidered trifles, who, at the rate of ten cents a mile, are permitted to hang on if they can. Naturally it runs only in summer.

The roofless Pullman car is flanked with kitchen benches. When the writer started to get on, says the story in the Washington Post, it was solidly packed with miners and track laborers, with pick and shovel and pan, brown canvas bags of oilcloth packs. There were also some women and children going out to gather wild flowers. A roofless freight car was piled with merchandise. The one available seat was a loftily perched keg of nails.

Freight abroad, the square, flat-topped little logging engine began to sing-like a Dutch kettle, then slowly, cautiously we teetered northward, skirting Queen Anne Cottages and canvas, tin and tar-papered shacks. Once across Dry Creek bridge, the towns began to drop out of sight until the almost imperceptible rising tundra was on a level with the sea.

Scarcely had the town vanished than foothills hung in impenetrable purple shadows began to appear. The tundra, everywhere broken with natural lagoons and man-made ditches, was riotous with flowers and waving fields of cotton. Where cotton grows look out for fields of ice not far below, veteran Alaskan miners say.

Man-of-all-work is the Nome-Arctic's conductor. In leather overalls and puffing a huge cigar he stumbled over freight and passengers in an effort to gather fares, while everything animate and inanimate scrambled to keep from rolling off into the tundra or creeks.—New York Commercial.

A SPY IN THE CHIMNEY.

"THE most noted and daring of the military telegraph operators with whom I was acquainted during the civil war was George E. Ellsworth," said W. F. Bassett last week. "He was staff operator and scout for Gen. John Morgan. Ellsworth was a dare-devil, and although he was reckless to a fault, he engaged in many perilous adventures and emerged therefrom without any serious disaster to himself.

"When Gen. Buckner was once encamped some fifty miles from Chattanooga, Tenn., he was very anxious to obtain some information about the immediate future intentions of the Federals who were assembled in force at that place. Gen. Morgan sent Ellsworth to Gen. Buckner as a man who could secure the desired information if anybody was capable of doing so. That night Ellsworth departed upon his mission, and about daylight next morning drew rein at the house of a man one mile from Chattanooga, who was known to be a true and discreet friend of the Confederate cause. The town was swarming with Federal soldiers, and it was no trouble for Ellsworth, dressed in an ordinary Federal uniform, to reach there and mingle among them. He was fortunate in some way discovering that there was to be a conference among the leading officers that very evening in an old residence that was used for such purposes, and he resolved to be close on hand and hear all that passed, if it was possible for him to do so. In the afternoon he leisurely walked out to inspect the place. He soon saw that it was going to be difficult for him to secure a place near the room in which the conference was to take place, but after inspecting the rear of the premises he formed a plan and went away. It was in the summer time, and the officers were to assemble at 9 o'clock.

"As soon as darkness set in Ellsworth approached the house from the rear with an ordinary haversack swung over his shoulder, in which were concealed a rope swing, a hatchet, and a long linen ulster. He cut off of a stout limb a piece about three feet long, and had but little trouble in reaching the low slanting roof, and climbed cautiously to the chimney of the conference room. Then he tied each end of his rope swing to the stick he had secured for the purpose, and laid it across the top of the chimney and let the swing fall inside so it would reach a few feet above the large, old-fashioned fireplace. Letting himself down in the swing he patiently awaited the coming of the officers. He had not been seated long before a negro orderly entered the room to light the lamps and make all preparations that were necessary for the meeting. A short time before 9 o'clock they began to drop in one or two at a time, and the business of the conference was begun at the appointed hour.

"It had not proceeded far before Ellsworth discovered to his delight that he was listening to most important secrets. It, in fact, proved to be a conference to determine upon the future movements of the army, and Ellsworth was enabled to secure all of the information that Gen. Buckner was so anxious to obtain. All of their future plans were discussed and laid bare to the man in the chimney.

"After 12 o'clock, when the conference broke up, the officers had gone and the negro orderly was preparing to extinguish the lights and close the house, an incident occurred that was wholly unlooked for by Ellsworth, and which frightened the negro orderly almost into convulsions. Ellsworth made a slight movement in his swing, when the stick above slipped and he fell into the big fireplace, completely covered with soot. With his face much blacker than that of the orderly and shrouded in the long linen duster he emerged from the fireplace and gave a big warwhoop. The negro orderly veritably believed that the devil was after him, and giving a fearful shriek went head first through the open window and fled terror-stricken from the place. Ellsworth helped himself to a full bottle of whisky and some cigars that had been left behind, and taking the swing from the fireplace, so as to leave no evidence of his visit behind him, he replaced the screen and stole away in the darkness with a full plan of the coming Federal campaign in his possession. Ellsworth never learned what took place after his departure, but as he left no evidence of his visit behind him, no doubt the officers passed the matter over with the belief that the negro orderly had imbibed too much of the whisky they left behind them."

A CASE OF IDENTITY.

THE postoffice at Wheeler was quite crowded, as it was the hour on Sunday when most of the business men of that place sauntered out to get their mail, and Dan Martin brushed against his brother without seeing him, but turned at Max's touch on his arm and gave an exclamation of surprise at the expression of his face.

"I say, old man," he said with quick sympathy, "what has struck you this time? You look rather knocked out!"

"Come with me somewhere, so we can talk," Max answered hurriedly. "I've got into an awful scrape, and can't see any way out of it." He held up a crumpled letter in his hand, which shook perceptibly as he raised it for his brothers inspection.

Dan took the letter, but did not attempt to read it till they got clear of the crowd.

"Never mind, old chap," he murmured, sympathetically under his breath. "Maybe

I can help you out some way. It has been done before, you know, at times."

"I guess I do know!" Max was not devoid of gratitude for past assistance. "But really, this is the worst ever!"

They passed rapidly through the throng of church-goers and hurried to a sheltered corner of the park, where Max sank on a seat and glared desperately at a cheerful and industrious little bird which was gathering material for the construction of its summer cottage, while Dan smoothed out the crumpled letter which his brother had handed him, and then glanced inquiringly at Max's averted face. Then he read the letter and the note which accompanied it. Still he said nothing, but waited for Max to speak.

"That's the whole blamed business!" Max said slowly, without looking up. "There's no way to fix it up that I can see. I made an ass of myself, as usual. Mailed Daisy's letter to Helen and Helen's to Daisy. I wrote and asked Helen to marry me, but I don't think I mentioned her name through it all, all the way through. That's the letter that's gone to Daisy. The fool letter I wrote to Daisy, with her name on every other line, went to Helen." Max buried his face in his hands and groaned aloud.

Dan read both letters through carefully once more, Max's silly, flirty letter to Daisy and Helen's reply, to which was brief and to the point:

"This letter was evidently mailed to me by mistake. Perhaps it is just as well, for it shows me that I have made a mistake. Good-by."

"HELEN."

Dan sat for a moment lost in thought. There was a certain keenness and fineness about his face that was lacking in his brother's, though they were both considered fine-appearing men. Still one would instinctively turn to the younger of the brothers for help in an emergency. Now he folded both letters thoughtfully, and handed them back to Max, who glanced up at him with a sudden gleam of hope in his face.

"I'm awfully sorry," Dan said, gravely and softly, "but I can't see a thing to do but tell her the truth and—take the consequences."

Max turned on him savagely.

"Tell the truth? Tell Helen I have been flirting with Daisy while I was making love to her? I may be an idiot, but I'm not quite as far gone as that! Why, Dan, you don't know what sort of a girl she is! She's—oh, Dan! I love her! You don't know how I love her!"

"No, I confess I don't," Dan answered shortly, with a significant shrug of his broad shoulders. For the first time in his life he felt an unconquerable contempt for his older brother. He rose as though to shake off this feeling.

"Don't leave me, for heaven's sake, Dan!" Max begged. "I'll do something desperate if you do that. Say anything you like to me, but don't go away!"

Dan came back and sat down.

"I don't see that there is any use saying anything. If it were I, you know very well what I would do. You don't do things my way. What's the use talking about it!"

"Look here, Dan!" Max laid his hand pleadingly on his younger brother's knee. "Help me out of this scrape somehow, and I swear I'll do things right on the square, after this. I don't mean to do anything crooked, any way, but it's so much easier for me to drift along without any fuss. I hate a fuss! But I've learned my lesson, this time, and I'm not likely to forget it soon."

Dan put his hand kindly on Max's shoulder.

"I didn't mean to be hard on you, Max!" he said. "You sometimes do things that I couldn't do to save my life. They don't seem just fair and square, but then, as you say, it does make things easier for you and bring you lots of friends. You have two friends to my one every time."

Max laughed contemptuously at this statement.

"That might possibly be true if you count by quantity, but if you get into a scrape, your friends would go through fire and water to help you. Under the same circumstances mine would, doubtless, dodge around the corner when they saw me coming."

"Oh, no, they wouldn't!" Dan protested, smiling at his brother's earnestness on the subject. "If you want a friend, here I am! What can I do for you?"

Blank despair again settled down over Max.

"Blamed if I know!" he answered, hopelessly, "unless you should say you wrote that letter to Daisy, just for a joke on me. Say, by George! Do that, and you will save my life! Our writing is precisely alike. It wouldn't hurt you any. They'd just think it was a boy's prank, and think what it means to me! Say you'll do it, Danny!"

The old boyhood name; the unwonted tears in his brother's eyes; the lifelong loyalty which had almost faltered a few moments since, all fought against the inherent hatred of a falsehood. The fight was sharp but short. Love and loyalty triumphed in the end. Although in his carefully-worded explanation he did not actually acknowledge having written the ill-fated letter, it served the purpose, as he intended it should, to divert the blame from his brother to himself. Perhaps he felt rewarded later, at the happy termination of his brother's love affair, at any rate he was best man at a dazzling December wedding where, in place of the conventional flower girls, there were tiny frost sprites who scattered snowdrops, and the whole church was a-glitter and a-glisten with fairylike frost effects, relieved by the dark green of holly leaves and brightened with the crimson berries. Her soft, shimmering gown gave to the bride an ethereal beauty of form which matched the tender look of love and confidence which seemed to have descended upon her from Paradise itself and lighted her lovely face.

Not one whit less lovely than the bride was the winsome maid of honor, Helen's dearest friend, Dorris Rhodene, and there were a number of their friends who predicted that these dear friends would some day become sisters, for Dan's devotion was no secret.

After the wedding, Dorris was a frequent visitor in Helen's cosy home, which gave Dan an opportunity that he was not slow to improve. Their friendship grew apace. Dorris grew absent-minded, and Helen noticed that she often blushed quite unnecessarily. At times she was gay, witty, and altogether bewitching, and again it was evidently with an effort that she took part in the conversation at all, much preferring to steal out into the moonlight and swing gently to and fro in the hammock, dreaming—who shall say what dreams?

All this was very unlike Dorris' usual calm self-possession, and Helen was wondering just what it might mean as she knocked softly at Dorris' door one morning during one of her frequent visits. Receiving no reply, she pushed open the door and started to cross the room, when she spied Dorris seated before the low, white—curtained window, too absorbed in her own thoughts to notice the interruption. She was never more charming than in the privacy of her own boudoir, dressed in the coolest conceivable pale-blue negligee, with her softly-rounded bare arms and throat showing the faintest tinge of pink in the firm, white flesh, her hands clasped behind her loosely-coiled hair, and her dainty-slippered feet stretched at a comfortable and graceful elevation. Helen simply adored Dorris. She revelled in her warm, clear beauty, which needed not one single careful touch of art to make it more perfect, and she thought, with a jealous twinge, of the time when a mere man would have the right to feast his eyes on Dorris' perfect grace in such a moment of careless abandon.

It showed the closeness of the friendship, that Dorris did not move as she became aware of Helen's presence, except to slip her hand confidently into the hand of her friend as Helen drew up a low rocker and seated herself, while she held a letter aloft just out of reach of Dorris' hand.

"It's for you, Dearie, but you must promise you'll read it to me before you can have it." Helen seldom had a chance to tease Dorris, and wished to make the most of the present opportunity.

Instead of laughing, however, as her friend expected, Dorris whitened a little, and her dark eyes grew darker still in contrast with her pale face, as she reached for the letter.

"He should not have written!" Dorris tried to speak coldly, but instead of anger and scorn in her eyes, there was a wistful look.

Helen rose hastily, and handed her the letter.

"I hope you didn't think I really cared, dear!" she said, with a blush and a little haughty air which she had never used with Dorris before in all their acquaintance.

Dorris rose also, and faced her in amazement.

"What do you mean, and who do you imagine wrote the letter?" she asked, in a puzzled way.

"Why, don't you suppose I know Max's writing by this time?" she answered, trying to speak lightly and telling herself that she did not care the least bit in the world.

"Max!" Dorris echoed in surprise. "I only wish it was from Max! Or rather, I wish Dan was as much like Max in other things as he is in his writing. I wish I could trust him!"

"Dorris, dear, tell me what in the world you mean!" It was Helen's turn to be surprised now.

Dorris had seated herself again listlessly, and now spoke in a hopeless sort of a tone.

"Well, you know, yourself, that if a man would do one mean thing and call it a joke, he would do another if he happened to feel like it." Suddenly she sprang up and commenced pacing the room restlessly, as she went on. "Why did you tell me about that letter he wrote another girl and signed Max's name and sent to you? I can't help what any of you say, it wasn't right to treat his brother's love for you so lightly! I can't see anything funny about it. If it had been any one else but his brother, it would not have been quite so bad, but he always seems so fond of Max, and he says he is true to those he loves. He told me that only last night! And oh, I believed him just for a minute! I was so very, very happy, and then, all at once I remembered about that letter, and I turned numb all over. I said I wished I could believe that. It hurt me to say it to him, but I had to tell him. 'Tell me what you mean, please,' he said, and his voice sounded hurt, as though I had stabbed him with a dagger, but the tenderness of it broke my heart. 'I mean the letter you wrote and sent to Helen,' I said, 'Why did you do it? You knew Max loved her, and you pretend to care for your brother so much. They laugh and say it was a boy's prank, but it nearly spoiled their lives! It wasn't a joke, it was almost a tragedy. And then you say you are true to those you love! Why don't you answer me?" I said. I felt as though it was all a desperate mistake. It was so hard not to trust him. But he only said: "I have nothing to say, Dorris;" and he went away.

As Dorris ceased speaking, she sank besides Helen, who was sobbing as though her heart would break, and took her in her arms.

"Oh, Dorris," Helen sobbed, "why did I tell you?"

"Never mind, dear! I'd really rather know! I didn't mean quite what I said!" Dorris patted her lovingly. "Don't cry so!"

Graually the sobbing grew more subdued. Dorris smiled to herself, a sudden, half-bitter smile that it should be she who was comforting Helen, instead of being comforted.

"Hold me tight in your arms just a minute longer," Helen begged. "I want to tell you something I never meant to tell any one, but I don't want you to suffer as I have suffered. Max sometimes tells what is not true. It doesn't make any difference in my love for him—I mean I love him in spite of it; yet it hurts every time he does it, and, while I have never known Dan to do anything of the kind, I wouldn't want the girl I love better than my life to marry a man she couldn't trust with all her soul!"

"Thank you, dear," Dorris said, brokenly.

Helen kissed her, and left the room, and Dorris rose slowly. All her fierce passion had died out, but she opened the note with trembling fingers, and with blurred eyes she read the message:

"Dear Little Girl: What I said last night was true, but until you can believe in me in spite of what any one says, I will not ask for your love, or even for your friendship. Can't you guess what I must never tell even you?"

"God bless you always! Good-by!"

"DAN."

"P. S.—You need not be afraid of meeting me. I leave the city at 10:30."

All at once she knew what he had done. He had not written that letter. He had let Helen think so to shield his brother. "True to those he loved?" Ah yes, she knew, now, that he was true to the very verge of falsehood! Why had she ever doubted? It had been a battle between reason and intuition, between her brain and her heart. Why had she not trusted her own intuition, instead of listening to the cold reasoning of her brain?

She seized the letter and kissed it, and as she did so, her eyes caught the words: "I leave at 10:30." In an instant she had snatched her watch from the dresser. It was twenty-five minutes to 11! Oh, she couldn't let him go like that, thinking that she didn't trust him! Then she remembered that her watch was fast. She slipped down the broad stairway and glanced at the big clock in the hall. It was 10:27. Three minutes! What could she do in three minutes? Oh, yes! the telephone!

"Hello!"

"Hello! Give me the Union depot, please!"

"Hello! Is this the Union depot?"

"No, this is Blair's drug store."

"Central, hurry and give me the Union depot. Please be quick!"

"Union depot!"

"Please have some one find Dan Martin. It's very important!"

"Yes'm. What train was he going on?"

"Oh, I don't know! Yes, it's the one leaving at 10:30."

"But there are two trains that leave at 10:30, and it's 10:28 now."

"Try them both, can't you?"

"All right! I'll send a boy through both. Tell him it's important!"

"Oh yes, and please hurry!"

Oh, the triple torture of waiting and hoping and fearing! At first the clock raced through the seconds too fast, and she wished it would stop and give them time to find him. Then it seemed to drag interminably, as she watched and listened. She imagined she could hear the train pulling out. The last moment was gone! They had failed to find him! She would wait one more minute. But she had to catch at a chair to steady herself. It was no use! Reluctantly she started to hang the receiver up.

"Hello!" Dan's voice came steady and clear over the wire.

Dorris trembled so she could scarcely speak.

"Oh, Dan! It's Dorris! I want you!" she managed to say.

The receiver at the other end of the line was slammed into place, and she could just imagine him striding through the depot. She sank on the lower step of the broad stairway, and waited. She laughed, and then she cried and laughed again. She would not even go up to her room to change her dress, but waited breathless, with her great dark eyes fixed on the open door, and the color coming and going in her cheeks.

When she saw him coming up the walk with great, swinging strides, every nerve in her body tingled with a new rapturous life, which seemed to bear her to him in spirit, while she still sat motionless on the stair. There was no one about, and she called his name softly through the open door.

"Dan!"

The look in his eyes, as he caught sight of her, lit his face with a holy flame of love, and Dorris, adorable, irresistible, glided into his arms without another word.

But Helen never guessed who wrote the letter.— By BOB WHITE, in Los Angeles Times.

THE BETTING SCOTCHMAN.

THE colonel of the Red Hussars was an Irishman, who was as proud of his nationality as it is possible for an Irishman to be, and that is not saying a little by any means. He carried his patriotism so far as to aver that not only were the Irish the finest, the most courageous, the most gifted, of the four nationalities, but that nearly all the great Englishmen were really Irishmen. He justified this Hibernianism by a mode of reasoning that was highly original, but not wholly convincing. It would have provoked shouts of laughter in the mess if it had proceeded from the lips of a subaltern, but the colonel was an altogether different person to deal with. It would be dangerous to quarrel with him, and he was as peppery as a London fog, or an old maid who has been jilted by the curate. It was considered far more advisable "to give him his head," and let him exhaust himself by the violence of his own efforts.

When he launched out on his favorite topic, therefore, he was listened to in disrespectful silence by his subordinates; but in revenge it was the greatest delight of the wags of the regiment to mimic his voice and manner, and to represent him as uttering the most astounding Hibernian falsehoods, garnished with numerous expressions of a wholly unprintable character. This was called "doing Old Pat," and was a very popular amusement in every mess-room where the Colonel's personality was known. His real name, of course, as the army list will tell you, was Colonel Dominick Sydney Power, but this is a trifling detail. He had been nicknamed Old Pat at a very early stage of his military career, and Old Pat of the Red Hussars was almost as well known throughout the service as Cox's Bank or the cold-meat train to Woking.*

Therefore, when the Red Hussars heard that Sir James Macleod had been gazetted from the Blues to their own regiment, conjecture ran very rife among the officers whether Sir John would contrive to hit it off amicably with Old Pat. It was generally felt that the stranger would probably prove a Scotchman of the deepest dye, with a very large allotment of Scotch pride and patriotism, while, no doubt, after his experiences in the Blues, he would be inclined to regard a mere colonel in the Hussar regiment with more compassion than reverence. Under these circumstances, there seemed to be every prospect of some lively scenes when the Colonel should deem it fitting to take the Scotch baronet into his confidence on the important subject of national distinctions.

"It will be great fun if he goes for Old Pat, and gives it to him hot when he begins the usual rot," said young Fanshawe, with a broad grin, and it was generally agreed among the junior officers of the regiment that it would be great fun indeed.

While his subordinates were coming to this insubordinate decision, Colonel Dominick Power was engaged in reading a long letter from an old schoolfellow of his, and a former brother-officer of Sir James Macleod's, to whom he had written in order to make some inquiries with regard to the new importation into the mess-room of the Red Hussars, and the baronet's motives for effecting the exchange.

"A woman is at the bottom of it, as usual," wrote Captain Fletcher, of the Blues. "Macleod was very hard hit, and she threw him over for no reason that any one can divine. Pure deviltry, that is all. He knew that you were ordered abroad, and he wants to get out of the country without appearing to run away. That's the bait. He is a capital fellow; no nonsense about him in any way; is a good sportsman; A-one shot; and very popular in the regiment. There is only one point on which I had better caution you. Don't bet with him. He is a very devil at bets, and always wins."

"Is he, indeed?" mused Colonel Power; "and he may be the very devil himself for all he'll get out of me. It's meself that would like to see the Colonel of the regiment betting with a mere whipper-snapper of a subaltern!"

II.

Sir James Macleod proved to be a tall, fair young man, whose long features and high cheek-bones testified very clearly that the place of his birth lay beyond the Tweed. He was not remarkably good-looking, but he carried himself with such an air of distinction that it seemed wonderful, as young Fanshawe said, that any woman could throw over "such a dasher, and a real, live baronet to boot." His manner, however, was that of a man of the world; and it is not remarkable, under the circumstances, that he got on at once with the young men who were to be his companions for the future.

"We thought you would be no end of a heavy swell," said young Fanshawe, in a day or two, during which friendship had ripened into familiarity; "but you ain't a bit."

Whereat Sir James Macleod laughed good-humoredly.

"What shall you do when Old Pat begins his usual rot," continued Fanshawe, in a confidential tone, "about Ireland being the finest country in the universe, and everybody else being miserable scarecrows and outsiders? Shall you stick up for Auld Reekie?*" I wish you would. It would make Pat so sick!"

Young Fanshawe explained his meaning at some length.

"And you think that he would be furious if any one contradicted him?" inquired Macleod, fixing a very wary gray eye on the other.

"Furious! He would have a fit."

Macleod deliberated for a moment with the same wary expression of eye, and then he said quietly:

"I should like to make a bet with you. I will lay you two ponies to a five-pound note that, if you will draw the Colonel out on his favorite topic, I will contradict him on every point. we will have a most angry discussion, and at the end the Colonel will be as good-humored and pleased as if—well, as if I had put a hundred pounds in his pocket."

"You don't know Old Pat," replied Fanshawe, shaking his head. "He'll make the regiment too hot to hold you in less than no time."

"Well, shall I book the bet?" suggested Macleod blandly.

"No; I won't bet on a certainty."

"Are you sure," inquired Macleod, with an air of doubt, "that it isn't that you don't feel—quite—up—to drawing Old Pat—"

"You may book the bet," cried Fanshawe, haughtily, and his cheek flushed with anger. "And if you lose, you will have no one to thank but yourself."

"Quite so," said Macleod calmly, and he made the entry in his pocketbook in the most businesslike way. "And if I lose—well, at any rate I shall afford you some amusement."

And so it came about that that same evening, after dinner, when the wine was circulating pretty freely, and a mellow glow was beginning to make its appearance on the Colonel's ripe visage, young Fanshawe, to the consternation of the mess, introduced the subject of a deceased Irish politician.

"What a scoundrel that fellow was!" said young Fanshawe, apropos of nothing, and dragging the dead leader into the conversation precisely as Mr. Dick used to hoist King Charles' head into the "memorial."

*Edinburgh.

The other subs looked at young Fanshawe with an expression of amazement. Had he gone out of his senses, or had the wine got into his head? Closer inspection, however, showed that he looked unnaturally sober and unusually intelligent. Then there must be some game on—some game to the Colonel's expense. This would probably be good sport, and it would be well to be in at the death. Every eye was fixed on the Colonel. Old Pat was not to be drawn by young Fanshawe. He snorted indignantly, but reserved his steel for worthier foes.

The circle of watchful eyes now turned to Fanshawe. What would be his next move?

"My pater has just bought a hogshead of the finest Scotch whisky," said the youth, coming up to time with commendable alacrity and a cheerful smile. He launched out into some details on the subject, concluding with the following significant remark:

"I hate Irish whisky. It is such sickening, soapy stuff. I think Scotch is much the best."

A joyful gleam shone in the attentive optics. This was getting interesting. Young Fanshawe was actually, of malice prepense, "going for" Old Pat. "Hooray! Yoicks! Tallyho! Go it, young Fanshawe!" were the sentiments reflected in the breasts of that hopeful youth's brother-subalterns; while even the major, who certainly ought to have known better, grinned with intense enjoyment.

"Don't you think so, Macleod?" said young Fanshawe to the Scotchman, who was cracking walnuts with the utmost insouciance.

"Don't I think what?" he replied.

"That Scotch whisky is better than Irish."

"Why, of course. Can there be any doubt? Does any one dispute it?"

This sally was too much for Old Pat. He plunged at once into the fray, and a heated discussion ensued. At least, it was heated on his side, for Macleod retained an appearance of judicial calm that would have put Job himself in a bad temper. Young Fanshawe, it may be added, at once seized the opportunity to retire from the forefront of the battle, and took up the safe position of an interested spectator.

In a comparatively short time a great deal of unpalatable information was shot upon the Colonel. He was told that not only was Scotch whisky far more pleasing to the taste than Irish, but it was less injurious to the health, and there was less of illicit distillation in Scotland than in Ireland. Warming apparently to his subject, and totally regardless of Old Pat's passionate and profane defense, Macleod went on to enunciate the view that all that was really good and great in the Irish nation was English or Scotch in origin, that the Irish colonies in English towns formed the most criminal and degraded portion of the population, and that there was actually something in the climate or the soil of Ireland which deteriorated the physical and moral nature of the inhabitants. He said this with the calm utterance of a lecturer who demonstrates facts. There was even a softer undertone perceptible now and then, as if he pitied the advocate of so miserable a cause.

The Colonel became almost incoherent with rage. His face assumed a deep purple hue. He manifested an inclination to foam at the mouth.

"For proof of this," continued Macleod, "it is quite enough to refer to a well-known and incontrovertible fact. Whether it is due to the potatoes that they eat or the bog-water that they drink, I don't know; but it is quite enough for my purpose that every Irishman of anything like ancient descent has a black roof to his mouth. You will bear me out in that, Colonel, I am sure."

The mess in vain endeavored to preserve a dignified demeanor. They were nearly choking with suppressed laughter. Young Fanshawe contrived to upset a decanter in order to hide his emotion. Another young scapegrace was obliged to go to the sideboard, where he gurgled subterraneously for several minutes with his back to the company.

"It's a lie!" roared the Colonel, whose eyes were nearly starting out of his head. "An infernal lie!"

"How? A lie, Colonel? Do you mean to deny what I have stated?"

"I mean," shrieked Old Pat, "that the Powers of Ballycoran are one of the oldest families in Ireland; that they were on intimate terms with Brian Boru; and that when the blissid St. Patrick came that way, 'twas me own ancestor that gave him the cead mille failthe to Ballycoran; and if ye can find a single black roof in the mouths of the intirre family, may the devil fly off with the soul of the dirty varmin!"

And with these words the Colonel struck the table a blow that made the glasses ring.

"This is very interesting, indeed," replied Macleod, gazing at the Colonel as if that dignitary were the missing link, or a new form of butterfly. "I had no idea that any one—even an Irishman—would dispute it. Now, I dare say that you have never thought of examining your own mouth?"

The Colonel's reply was of a nature that would have been an expensive one had he made it in the presence of a magistrate who enforced the penalties against swearing.

"Strange, very strange," said Macleod, who was still quite calm. "Now, I think I will lay you two to one in ten-pound notes that I am right."

A wolfish light shone in the Colonel's eyes, but he held back with the most praiseworthy self-control. It would be undignified to bet with a mere sub—and on such a subject.

"I will make it five to one in twenty-pound notes," continued Macleod, with an air of great confidence, "that you have a black roof to your mouth."

"I will take that bet," spluttered the Colonel, who was now in a white heat of rage. "By me soul, I will take that same, just to teach you not to bet on subjects of which you know nothing. It will be a useful lesson. And now, how do you propose to decide the bet?"

Sir James Macleod suggested that ocular inspection would be the quickest and most satisfactory method—ocular inspection by the senior officers of the mess. Their words would probably be sufficient for both parties.

The Colonel demurred a little to this proposition. It seemed to him totally subversive of discipline. He was quite sure that the commander-in-chief would not approve of it. No other possibly way of settling the question occurred to him, however, and, now that he had got so far, he was determined to win that hundred pounds at all hazards, and give the young Scotch jack-anapes his much-needed lesson.

Candles were accordingly sent for at once, and a dead silence ensued. Every man looked at the other as if inquiring what would be the next act in this singular drama. Even young Fanshawe forgot to laugh. The Colonel breathed heavily, and his eyes glared at his adversary, who still retained his unmoved demeanor.

At last the lights came. Armed each with a candlestick, the major, the captains, and the senior subaltern in turn examined the gaping orifice which the Colonel revealed to their gaze, during which inspection young Fanshawe threw himself headlong on to a sofa and kicked like a person in mortal agony; while two subalterns expressed their feelings in a bear-fight behind the Colonel's unconscious head.

The verdict of the judges was unanimous. They declared that the roof of the Colonel's mouth was red, not black.

"Decidedly red," said the senior captain, with a curious chuckle that seemed fraught with a world of meaning. "Not a trace of black."

"Not black?" cried Sir James Macleod in tones of amazement. "Are you sure?"

"Quite sure," replied the major judicially.

"'Pon honor!" remarked the others in chorus.

"Well, gentlemen, you have surprised me," said Macleod, glancing from one to the other, as if he could scarcely believe his ears. "Of course I believe you, but—if the Colonel will permit—I should like to look just to convince my own eyes."

"Look away, me boy," chuckled the Colonel hoarsely. He was convulsed with delight at his complete triumph. "Ye'll have to pay for your peep!"

"Well, then, please open your mouth a little wider, Colonel; and will one of you hold the light? Really, Colonel, you must excuse me, but I can't see. You must really let me open your mouth a little wider."

With these words he actually laid one sacrilegious hand on the Colonel's nose and the other on the Colonel's chin, and pressed them gently in opposite directions. There was not a man among all the reckless crew that stood around but held his breath in anticipation of a terrible explosion.

The Colonel did not rise and annihilate the audacious Scotchman. He bore this insult like a lamb. The indignity was, however, of the very shortest duration, for Macleod was satisfied with the briefest glance.

"I have lost," he said quite cheerfully. "And I owe you an apology, Colonel. Luckily, I have the notes about me."

He produced his pocketbook, extracted two fifty-pound notes from it, and handed them to the Colonel. The latter took them with the most portentous gravity. He was clearly puzzled and uncertain as to the right course of action. He puckered up his face in the most curious wrinkles. Then he rubbed his nose reflectively. The humorous side of the question, however, presented itself very forcibly to him, and he broke into a broad grin.

"Well," he said, with a loud roar of laughter, "you are an impudent rascal! But I didn't think that a Scotchman and his money were so easily parted."

And amid sympathetic roars from the entire mess, who thought the whole thing a capital joke all round, the Colonel's indignation melted into intense enjoyment of his own success. The only person who was unsettled in his mind was young Fanshawe, who could not understand why Macleod should have risked a hundred pounds in so foolish a way.

"I don't think much of that Scotch chap you sent us," wrote the Colonel, a few days later, to his old schoolfellow, Captain Fletcher, of the Blues. "Too much brag; too little bottom. He'll never set the Thames on fire. Only a few nights ago he bet me a hundred pounds to twenty that I had a black roof to my mouth—cheeky young devil! Well, I took the bet, just to give him a lesson. You ought to have seen his face when he lost. Really, I couldn't help roaring with laughter to see how confident he had been and how sold he was. You must be a dull lot in the Blues if he always wins from you. Anyway, I have broken his record."

Captain Fletcher wrote by return of post to his old schoolfellow, Colonel Dominick Power:

"Confound you! Didn't I caution you most pointedly not to bet with him? Couldn't you have known that there must be some devilry on, or a man would not throw away his money in such preposterous fashion? Before he left us, Macleod laid me one hundred pounds to a thousand that he would pull your nose in the presence of the mess before he had been a week in the regiment, and without being courtmartialed or even placed under arrest for it, and I have just received a round-robin, signed by your mess, declaring that he has won the bet."

POETICAL

Woman.

No one shall shame her, none shall defame her,
No one shall name her, except to praise!
The roses of honor, ah, wreath them upon her,
For such have they won her—her deeds through the days!

No tongue shall abuse her, no lip shall traduce her,
No scorn illy use her, no scandal decry;
All homage accord her, all honor afford her;
If one hath abhorred her, then let him die!

Treasure and treat her as something far sweeter
Than earth ever bore in its gardens of pride;
Home, where her place is, bloomed bright where her face is
The day that she walked through its portal a bride.

Speak for her, seek for her, fight for her, die for her,
Live for her, give for her, make her your care;
Strive for her, hive for her, dream of her, rise for her,
Trust her and love her and make her your prayer.

Keep Out of the Past.

Keep out of the Past, for its highways
Are damp with malarial gloom;
Its gardens are sere and its forest are dear,
And everywhere moulders a tomb.
Who seeks to regain its lost pleasures
Finds only a rose turned to dust;
And its storehouse of wonderful treasures
Is covered and coated with rust.

Keep out of the Past. It is haunted;
He who in its avenues gropes
Shall find there the ghost of a joy prized the most,
And a skeleton throng of dead hopes.
In place of its beautiful rivers
Are pools that are stagnant with slime;
And these graves gleaming in a phosphoric light
Hide dreams that were slain in their prime.

Keep out of the Past. It is lonely,
And barren and bleak to the view;
Its fires have grown cold, and its stories are old—
Turn, turn to the Present—the New.
Today leads you up to the hilltops
That are kissed by the radiant sun.
Today shows no tomb, life's hopes are in bloom,
And today holds a prize to be won.

Faith.

Better trust all and be deceived,
And weep that trust and that deceiving,
Than doubt one heart that if believed
Had blessed one's life with true believing.

Oh, in this mocking world too fast
The doubting fiend o'ertakes our youth;
Better be cheated to the last
Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

Billy, He's in Trouble.

I've got a letter, parson, from my son away out
West,
An' my ol' heart's as heavy as an anvil in my breast,
To think the boy who's futur' I had once so proudly planned
Should wander from the path o' right an' come to such an end!
I told him when he left us, only three short years ago,
He'd find himself a plowin' in a mighty crooked row—
He'd miss his father's counsels, and his mother's prayers, too;
But he said the farm was hateful, an' he guessed he'd have to go.

I know thar's big temptation for a youngster in the West,
But I believed our Billy had the courage to resist;
An' when he left I warned him o' the ever-waitin' snares
That lie like hidden serpents in life's pathway everywhere.
Our Bill, he promised faithful to be keerful, an' allowed
He'd build a reputation that'd make us mighty proud;
But it seems as how my counsel sort o' faded
from his mind,
An' now the boy's in trouble of the very wustest kind!

His letters come so seldom that I somehow sort o' knowned
That Billy was a trampin' on a mighty rocky road;
But I never once imagined he would bow my head in shame,
An' in the dust would waller his ol' daddy's honored name.

He writes that from out in Denver, an' the story's mighty short;
I just can't tell his mother; it'd crush her poor ol' heart!
An' so I reckoned, parson, you might break the news to her—
Bill's in the Legislatur', but he doesn't say what fur.

The Sweetest Picture.

Baby in the cradle rocking,
Pulling off its little stocking,
With its little chubby fingers,
While its mother o'er it lingers,
Caressing fondly, all the while,
Just to see the baby smile.

What to her on earth is dearer?
As her head she still bows nearer,
To her infant lying there,
Just to let it pull her hair.
A sweeter picture is hard to find,
With love, and purity, combined.

See the mischief in its eyes,
As its mother's hair it spys,
And its stockings are set free,
While it laughs and crows with glee,
At the fun it's having there,
With its hands in mamma's hair.

The Mother's Letter.

Dear Boy: Last year, Thanksgiving time, also the year before,
You wrote you were too busy to come homeward,
as of yore.
You said your "work demanded that" you "stay in town that day," But "hoped that maybe later on" you'd "get to slip away."
I bore it patiently enough—you didn't know I cried
Each time almost as hard as when your father died.
But this year, as the day draws near, it seems I can't forego
The joy of having you at home—you mustn't tell me "No."
I'm not so strong someway, my boy; I'm haunted with a dream
Of days when he was with me—I can see the firelight gleam
Upon his rugged, tired out form when he came home at night
And warmed himself and rested by the fireplace brave and bright;
I see our kitchen table as we ate our evening meal—
No single towhead missing; then the homely feelings steal
Right back into my heart—they'll all be here but you, and so
That's why I write to tell you that you mustn't tell me "No."

Your mother's not a weaking or a baby, but, my boy,
I thought you'd like to have me tell how you could bring me joy;
You used to—in the golden days when you were at my knee—
Lisp, "Muvver, sister's helpin'—ain't you dot a job for me?"
So, here's your job, my grown up child—it seems a little task,
But oh, if you could know how dear to me is this
I ask,
The man that's still "my babe" to me would let his business go
And eat Thanksgiving dinner with his mother—is it "No?"

Remorse.

Sad is the thought of sunniest days
Of love and rapture perished,
And shine through memory's tearful haze
The eyes once fondest cherished.
Reproachful in the ghost of toys
That charmed while life was wasted,
But saddest is the thought of joys
That never yet were tasted.

Sad is the vague and tender dream
Of dead love's lingering kisses
To crush'd hearts, hallowed by the gleam
Of unreturning blisses;
Deep mourns the soul, in anguished pride,
For the pitiless death that won them;
But the saddest wail is for lips that died
With the virgin dew upon them.

Boy Has an Answer.

"Now," said the teacher, who had been giving an elementary talk upon architecture, "can any little boy tell me what a 'buttress' is?"

"I know," shouted Tommy Smart. "A nanny goat."

Couldn't Stand It.

By the side of a certain portion of a suburban railway stands a glue factory which sometimes gives out a particularly offensive smell. A lady who was obliged to travel on this line quite often always carried with her a bottle of lavender salts. One morning an old farmer took the seat beside her. As the train neared the factory the lady opened her bottle of salts, soon the whole car was filled with the horrible odor of the glue. The farmer put up with it as long as he could, then shouted: "Madam, would you mind puttin' the cork in that 'ere bottle?"—San Francisco News-Letter.

Fee and Foe.

In a suit recently tried in a Virginia town a young lawyer of limited experience was addressing the jury on a point of law, when, good-naturedly, he turned to opposing counsel, a man of much more experience than himself, and asked:

"That's right, I believe, Colonel Hopkins?"

Whereupon Hopkins, with a smile of conscious superiority, replied:

"Sir, I have an office in Richmond wherein I shall be delighted to enlighten you on any point of law for a consideration."

The youthful attorney, not in the least abashed, took from his pocket a half-dollar piece, which he offered Colonel Hopkins with this remark:

"No time like the present. Take this, sir, tell us what you know, and give me the change."—Harper's Weekly.

Prodged His Memory.

Mr. Urban was always late to dinner. He arrived home on a certain evening, as usual, twenty minutes behind hand. His wife was entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Fortune. Greeting the guests with effusive cordiality, he said:

"If I had known this pleasure was in store for me, I should certainly have arranged my business so as to be at home earlier."

"Why, Harry," sighed his wife; "I told you."

"I beg your pardon, love; but you are certainly mistaken this time. You probably forgot to mention it. On the whole, I'm glad you did. It is a delightful surprise."

Mrs. Urban was a spirited woman. This unjust accusation came near over-throwing her courtesy. Her lips parted, then shut decisively; but a slight frown lingered on her forehead.

Little Tommy read her face. He knew all about his father's poor memory, and he felt it his duty to refresh it and defend his mother.

"Why, pap," he piped up, "don't you recollect mamma told you to be sure to come home early tonight because the Fortunes were going to be here, and you said: 'Oh, the devil!'"—Record.

Two Dreams.

Jacob's second-hand clothing store and Patrick's junk shop are in adjoining buildings, and when there is a lull in business the proprietors step out on the sidewalk and have a friendly chat. It was at one of these meetings that Pat said:

"Jackey, it was a funny drame I had last night."

"Tell me about it," said Jackey.

"I dramed I went to hiven, and while I was waulking around with St. Peter I heard a big noise at one place. 'What's that?' I asked St. Peter. 'It's the Jew heaven,' said he. 'Can I look in?' says I. 'Sure,' says he. So I goes over and looks in, and saw a big crowd of Jews, all talking business at once. One was bidding two dollars for something. another was yelling about damaged goods, and all the rest fussing about one thing or another until they woke me up."

"That was a funny dream," said Jacob.

The next day, when they met again, it was Jackey's turn. He said:

"I had a funny dream last night, Mr. Pat."

"Tell me about it," said Pat.

"I dreamed I went to heaven, and while I was walking around with St. Peter we came to a place that was very quiet. 'What place is that?' I asked St. Peter. 'It's the Irish heaven,' he said. 'Can I look in?' I asked him. 'Certainly,' said St. Peter. So I went over, looked on, and found out why it was so quiet—the Irish heaven was empty. There wasn't none got there yet."

"That was a funny drame, sure," said Pat, before he retired into his junk shop. "If I have another drame maybe I won't tell you mine first."

He Remembered It.

A mother could not attend church one Sunday, so she sent her boy instead, and urgently admonished him to remember as much as possible and report. He heard the preacher read: "Why stand ye here idle? Go labor in my vineyard and it will be well with you." And the text was: "An angel came down from heaven and took a live coal from the altar;" while the hymn was about "The Cross I Bear."

He returned home much elated because he could remember so much. He said the preacher read about the boss who came along and said: "What are you standin' 'round here for, doin' nothin'? Go into my barnyard and go to work, and I will make it all right with you." The text was: "An Indian came down from New Haven, took a live colt by the tail and jerked it out of the halter," and they sang something about a cross-eyed bear.—Review.

Our Correspondents

WHAT CIVILIZATION SHOULD DO.

"AS civilization increases, the transformation of the worker into the employer, or of the poor man into a rich man becomes more and more infrequent."—Herbert Spencer.

Those few words convey one of the most incontestible historical facts in the evolution of every nation. Is that something inevitable and satisfactory? Has civilization the right to produce any such double calamity? And can we conceive anything more fatal to the healthy development of humanity than the two results in question? The social philosopher that boldly asserted that historical conclusion, did not seem to have any special objection to the perpetual continuation of such two results. He gave them as something that had to be accepted as we do accept the multiplication table. To be sure, has philosophy done much of anything for the human family, outside of teaching resignation and contentment in the midst of all the calamities we may see fit to evolve? It has never occurred to philosophy, or to most philosophers, that even the word civilization may be subject to a classification of good and bad, sensible or senseless, God-like or godless, natural or artificial.

"Our education does not yet teach men how to discriminate between the Godlike and the devilish."—Huxley.

This English scientist had the merit of being in hearty sympathy with the working multitudes as long as he lived, in the latter part of the nineteenth century. And his above dictum has never been disputed. The whole distorted march of human history proves the truth of that dictum. Civilization remains then—a perpetual chaos, that is, a dreadful mixture of considerable good and considerable evil. And yet we are told, by a high authority, "Woe to them who decree unrighteous decrees." Civilization has never yet taken the least cognizance of that important divine utterance.

If from the divine we descend to the natural, can we prove the sensibleness of any group of men condemning most of the workers to be relatively poor and employees, seldom employers? And yet we go on, placidly accepting that double absurdity as an indispensable industrial condition, through centuries long and many. We even try to justify that absurdity on the plea that it has become indispensable to the high production of wealth we need under our modern modes of life. If more wealth is needed, that simply implies that we have to work harder than ever, or with better tools, or through a higher skill and intelligence than ever. Higher production can never be the result of greater injustice in the industrial fabric, or of lesser freedom and opportunities for men to be free from the despotism of bosses or corporations.

The boss, the corporation! Natural and divine laws don't know anything about either of them. The two institutions are the product of monopoly laws. Monopoly laws mean restrictions in production. They never mean expansion in production. The worker, as such, can only increase production in relation to his freedom, and hence in proportion to the comfort and ease through which he may be able to live, himself and family group. A full, sanitary breakfast, dinner and supper, a comfortable home, a restful mind, no anxieties about any tomorrow, no need of submission to any arbitrary rules—all that is what can alone bring a high degree of wealth production.

Our supposed great wealth of today means simply—accumulations with the few who never produced that wealth, and scanty resources everywhere else in relation to the needs and hardships of today. Then, we measure wealth by many values, by inflated values. That is a cheating process in the measuring of wealth. Wealth is a question of quantities and qualities produced and distributed under principles of equal justice to all, carrying comfort to all wealth-producers, and thus making the combination of gambling concerns useless, because unproductive, on account of laws of equal rights.

But there you have it, we don't want a civilization of equal rights and equal justice. We want a civilization of legalized robberies and humbugs, a perpetual reproduction of the old rotten asiatic civilization of 4000 years ago, only painted with the fancy colors of artificial human rights, disguising the total absence of cardinal, natural rights, the only kind humanity needs.

We still give to government the power and right to legislate all possible forms of wrong. We should only give to government the right and power to legislate the right to all in all directions, and nothing else but that. It is through such a simple change that we would rapidly transform civilization from godless to God-like, but, of course, most of our good people don't wish to see that, and so we all remain sunk in a civilization and philosophy of darkness.

If the word philosophy, applied to human development, is to have any sensible meaning, then philosophy should be: "The knowledge by which man can easily grasp and actualize a sensible, sane, honest human life, in the councils of nations and churches, giving to all men a complete opportunity for healthy physical, mental and spiritual growth or existence, without which we are bound to have the senseless social and religious insanity by which we prolong our many fatal deformities and wrongs."

If the word civilization is not to be a mask for all legalized absurdities, as it has been thus far, then it should mean: "A scientific march towards righteousness, and therefore the existence of nations and churches in peace with God, through the simple instrumentality of a few plain, equal rights, honest laws in each social compact, suppressing the one hundred thousand or more laws of favoritism through which each nation is sunk into conflicts and discords, into poverty or fears of poverty."
